
LIGHTING THE WAY TO OUR RACE'S ECONOMIC INDEPENDENCE

MANHATTAN CASINO -:- DECEMBER 3, 1926

BROWN BUNNY'S GIFTS NORMA'S LINGERIES

Ethel's Beauty Salon

2354 Seventh Avenue

Audubon 4694

Engagements by Appointment

DR. HORACE D. WORRELL
Chiropodist

With "ETHEL"

THE BROTHERHOOD

ON the 25th of August, 1925, in the City of New York, THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS was born. In the home of W. H. DesVerney, Roy Lancaster, A. L. Totten and the writer foregathered to plan the movement to organize the Pullman porters and maids. Joined by Brothers Frank R. Crosswaith and S. E. Grain the battle began.

It sprang out of a burning desire of the porters for the right and power to redress and correct long-existing wrongs that were naturally practiced upon them in the absence of their own organization. It was a resolute revolt against the Employee Representation Plan, an organization of, by and for the Pullman Company, which had utterly failed satisfactorily to settle their grievances. It had failed because the porter officials of the Plan were not free to speak up in the interest of their fellow-aggrieved porters because of the fear that they too, the porter officials, would be asked to turn in their keys.

It is significant that in less than a year The Brotherhood won an eight (8) percent wage increase, change in the Time Sheet and better treatment generally for the porters and maids, results that have taken many unions ten and fifteen years to achieve. And this was done in the face of the bitterest and most determined opposition, backed by hundreds of millions of dollars of the Company, which bought up spineless Negro leaders and corrupt editors. And despite the importation of a few Filipinos to serve on Club Cars as a scare to the men, to break the morale of the organization, The Brotherhood men, with their heads erect, souls undaunted and heart throbs attuned to the hymn of solidarity, are moving steadily and victoriously forward. Out of every encounter The Brotherhood has emerged holding aloft the banner of victory.

But the struggle of the Brotherhood is far more significant than the benefits it has won and will win for porters and maids. Its influence and power have wide and deep ramifications in every phase of Negro life, developing and crystallizing a new hope, a new promise, a new courage and a new spirit of self-reliance, of independence and the will to win justice, economic, political and social, regardless of cost.

Brotherhood men are one hundred per cent union men. Their aim is to give one hundred per cent service as well as to demand one hundred per cent justice. Realizing that a Winner never quits and a Quitter never wins, The Brotherhood bows to the public with the slogan: Service not Servitude as the chart and compass of its struggle for simple economic justice, a struggle which will be long and determined since a practical consideration of the question leads to the conviction that the Company will fight for its Plan to the last ditch. But if we will work and not grow weary, fight and not lose the faith, we cannot fail. Long Live the Brotherhood! Long Live the New Negro! Long Live the Spirit for Economic Freedom!

Faithfully yours,

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH.

GREETINGS

To the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

from their

Comrades and Fellow Workers

JOINT BOARD FURRIERS UNION of Greater New York

22 EAST 22nd STREET

ONWARD TO THE SOLIDARITY OF ALL WORKERS

BEN GOLD, Business Agent

MORRIS COHEN, Secretary-Treasurer

The Hesperus Club—The Brotherhood's Auxiliary, is the first Negro woman's organization of its kind in the U. S.

Wainwright & Daniels

E. W. WAINWRIGHT

Funeral Directors

Notary Public

MARION A. DANIELS

162-164 WEST 136th STREET

NEW YORK CITY

Phone, BRAdhurst 0512

Funeral Parlor Free to all Patrons

The Funeral Home owned by Wainwright & Daniels is one of the Oldest and Largest Homes in New York City

Our Motto is Satisfaction and Economy to Every Customer

The Mme. C. J. Walker Beauty Shoppe

All lines of Beauty Culture given and taught

110 WEST 136th STREET

Hours: 9 to 6 and By Appointment Telephone, Bradhurst 0678

Telephone, Audubon 8562

SILVER FURNITURE CO.

FURNITURE — BEDDING — RUGS — ETC.

525 LENOX AVENUE

Bet. 136th and 137th Streets

Wishing You All a Pleasant Evening

Hordes of Men Wear Hordes Clothes

ALL OF OUR GARMENTS ARE DESIGNED AND TAILORED IN OUR OWN WORKROOM. MADE OF A LARGE SELECTION OF FIRST GRADE MATERIALS.

JOSEPH HORDES, Inc.

125th STREET
Cor. St. Nicholas Ave.

110th STREET
Cor. Third Ave.

30 YEARS IN HARLEM

After 250 years of bondage the Negro is now on the road to self-help, independence, and dignified service

Phones: Harlem 0002-0003

W. F. CUNNINGHAM

Successor to
JOHN F. CRONIN, Inc.

LUMBER and MOULDINGS

1776 PARK AVE. at 123rd Street

THE RIVOLI EXCLUSIVE

Something Harlem has long needed, a Barber Shop where you feel at home; for Ladies and Gentlemen. Quiet, clean, modern and respectable. The best service that money can buy. Make THE RIVOLI EXCLUSIVE your headquarters for business and social appointments.

The Man Who Knows

T. D. HUDDLESTON

New York City 2350 Seventh Avenue Near 138th Street.

White workers enjoy high wages, and better working conditions, only because they have union protection

Greeting to the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

From

United Cloth Hat and Cap Makers Union of North America

MR. ZARITSKY, General President
MAX ZUCKERMAN, Gen. Sec.-Treas.

621 Broadway, New York City

THE NEW YORK

Amsterdam News

37,500

people are buying the AMSTERDAM NEWS every Wednesday—and these people are of HARLEM'S better element, whose preferences are not founded on the habits of "old timers," but upon the new ideas of the present.

If you would tell your story to these home-happy, active people, use the columns of

The Amsterdam News

2293 Seventh Ave., New York
Tel. Morningside 3701-2

868 Fulton St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Tel. Prospect 6375

Greetings to

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

From New York Clothing Cutters Union "Big 4"

Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America

M. SIGEL, Secretary

BUSINESS AGENTS:

Joseph E. Shea — George Stone — Hyman Memser

COLORED WOMEN'S ECONOMIC COUNCIL
(The Hesperus Club)

NEGRO men are not alone seeking freedom. Negro women are too seeking freedom. Men are not alone the victims of economic exploitation and oppression, women are too exploited and oppressed. Organization is not alone necessary for the economic emancipation of men, but it is also necessary for the economic emancipation of women. Recognizing this fact, the wives, relatives and friends of the porters came together and formed a ladies' auxiliary of the Brotherhood to be known as the Colored Women's Economic Council.

Its program and mission are primarily and fundamentally economic. It is the first of its kind among Negroes in the world. Its plan is to contribute the knowledge of, and develop the interests in, the labor and competitive movements of America in particular and the world in general, to the Negro women of the country.

Much of the success of the Brotherhood is due to the devoted, loyal, and unselfish spirit and flaming zeal of the Hesperus Club that is composed of some of the race's finest and noblest women.

The Auxiliary has at all times willingly come forward, at every request, and given unsparingly of its time, energy and means, to back the fight of the Brotherhood for fair play. Its work has been exemplary, praiseworthy and constructive.

Long live the Hesperus Club! Long live the Brotherhood! Long live the resolve to sacrifice for a great human principle. Forward to victory!

Faithfully

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH,
General Organizer

A CARD OF THANKS AND APPRECIATION

THE BROTHERHOOD and its auxiliary herewith express esteemed appreciation to those who have taken space in this Souvenir Program, as an evidence of their interest in the cause of Pullman Porters and Maids in particular and labor in general. We hope that the readers of this Journal will make every effort to show their appreciation to these friends of our cause.

To all those who co-operated with us in making this, our first large social affair, a success, we stand deeply indebted and hope for their continued co-operation in the struggle for a better day for all who do the world's work.

Yours for the next emancipation,

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS.

Since Emancipation about 5000 Negroes have been lynched. More than 5000 Negro babies die each year because the wages of their parents are too low

"MOST POPULAR BECAUSE MOST PROGRESSIVE"!

The Pittsburgh Courier has devoted more space to BOOSTING the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters than all the other colored newspapers combined.

And The Courier is, in turn, proud to say it is more widely read and more heartily supported by the Porters than any other colored newspaper.

We fight for TOMORROW as well as for today. We invite all thinking, ambitious, forward-looking men and women to join our ever-increasing army of readers.

THE Pittsburgh Courier

AMERICA'S GREATEST WEEKLY

For Sale Everywhere

International Union Bank

Fifth Avenue at 21st Street, New York City

Established by organized labor to serve the interests of organized labor.

4%

INTEREST ON SPECIAL THRIFT ACCOUNTS

RESOURCES OVER $4,000,000.00

Member Federal Reserve System

Greetings to the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

From the

International Ladies Garment Workers Union

MORRIS SIGMAN, President
ABRAHAM BAROFF, Sec.-Treas.

3 West 16th Street, New York City

The struggle of labor represents humanity's battle-front. The Negro worker, through the Brotherhood and the Ladies' Auxiliary takes his place in humanity's battleline.

The Metropolitan Clothes Shop

New York's Classiest Clothes Shop

The Home of Smart Clothes and Reasonable Prices

2 EAST 23rd STREET
Fifth Avenue and Broadway

Telephone, Edgecombe 0171

Andrew M. Robinson Co.

Real Estate and Mortgage Loans

ANDREW M. ROBINSON
W. WOODRUFF CHISUM
HERBERT E. GEE

2212 Seventh Avenue

New York City

Telephone, Audubon 3277

Joe Frohlich

"Popular Price Butcher"

Meats, Poultry and Provisions

2667 Eighth Avenue
Cor. 142d St.

New York City

The New Negro is one who hates hypocrisy, lynching, segregation, jim crowism, disfranchisement, and loves liberty, justice and democracy

Your CREDIT is Good

Clothes for the Holidays and for Every Day

HyGrade's assortment of clothes for all the family includes everything you will need for play-days and work-days this fall.

All of the season's latest styles, fabrics and colors, are ready and inviting your choice. No need to wait till you have ready cash. At HyGrade you may choose your apparel as you need it and pay for it as your income allows. Convenient terms arranged weekly or monthly as you please.

WOMEN'S COATS, SUITS DRESSES, FUR COATS

MEN'S & BOYS' SUITS & OVERCOATS

HY GRADE

SALES CO. INC.

131 WEST 125th STREET

Between Lenox & 7th Aves. OPEN EVENINGS

The New Negro knows that his social wrongs are rooted in the problems of labor, and is resolved to fight with labor to free himself and the workers of every other race

MRS. E. BYRD NIXON
Vice-Pres. of Lady Clubmen Co-Leader Golden Dem. Club

Buckley-Newhall Co.

BLUE RIBBON FURNITURE

145-147 West 125th St.
Near Seventh Ave. NEW YORK

Near Times Square
Sixth Avenue at 41st Street
New York

Brooklyn Store
1333-39 Broadway
Near Gates Avenue

Open Monday and Saturday Evenings
Until 10 P. M.

Presents
Incomparable Furniture Values

Tel., Morningside 0950

"House of Integrity"

CLINTON BROOKS
Undertaker

MEMBER OF
Monarch Lodge, No. 45, I. B. P. O. E. W.
Cedar of Lebanon, 1864, G. U. O. O. F.
Prince Hall Lodge, No. 38, F. & A. M.

149 West 128th Street
New York

FRANCES R. BUTLER
President, Women's Auxiliary to the Clubmen

M. H. MILLER, President A. G. COHEN, Secretary and Treasurer

Telephone, Cleveland 3842 - 2220

Millacohn Building Corporation

10419 - 118th STREET

RICHMOND HILL, N. Y.

Telephone, Bradhurst 0166

DUNCAN BROS.

FUNERAL HOME

2303 Seventh Avenue

New York City

Tel., Harlem 0607 Established 1904

Frank & Meyers

(Incorporated)

HARDWARE

House Furnishings Electric, Painters and Janitors Supplies

472 LENOX AVENUE

Bet. 133rd and 134th Streets

New York City

Telephone, Monument 6342

Dave's

CLOTHES SHOP

DAVE MOSCOWITZ

Smart Clothes for Men and Young Men

261 West 125th Street

New York City

Telephone, Bradhurst 1735

Fitzherbert Howell

EXPERT ADVISOR ON

HARLEM PROPERTIES

Mortgages — Loans — Insurance

Real Estate Bought, Sold, Exchanged

215 West 135th Street

New York City

Greetings to

The Pullman Porters

From

AMALGAMATED BANK
OF NEW YORK

in a New Home

11-15 UNION SQUARE—BROADWAY
(Corner 15th Street)

NEW YORK'S FIRST LABOR BANK

Assets close to Nine Million Dollars

Telephone, Wisconsin 5162

Reduce Your Household Labor

Use Modern Electrical Appliances

NEW YORK EDISON COMPANY

L. J. FOWLKES
Only Negro on Sales Force

Room 215
112-114 WEST 42nd STREET

THE LOYAL FURNITURE HOUSE

Main Store
2375 Eighth Avenue
Near 128th St.
Morningside 2224

TWO STORES

Branch Store
220 West 145th Street
Bet. 7th & 8th Aves.
Edgecombe 7319

Quality Furniture at Lowest Prices---
The Reason

Low Handling Cost and
Out of the High Rent District Means a Great
Yearly Saving; Therefore You Can Always Depend on a Bargain at the LOYAL FURNITURE HOUSE

BUY BREAD WITH THE BAKERS UNION LABEL

It stands for decent living conditions

BAKERS UNION LOCAL No. 87

Compliments of

Norman Toggery Shop

Harlem's Leading Hatters and Haberdashers

437 Lenox Avenue
at 132nd Street

Chas Moss

JEWELER

40 West 125th Street

BEST FOR SERVICE

Compliments of

Harlem Mortgage Corporation

1472 BROADWAY
New York City

CLEM GONZALES

112 WEST 135th STREET

Compliments to

THE BROTHERHOOD

Keep up the good work

Telephone, Edgecombe 0150

Estates Managed, Rents Collected
Mortgage Loans

John H. Pierce

Real Estate, Insurance and Mortgage Loans

2228 Seventh Avenue
Near 131st Street
New York

Telephone, Bradhurst 7810

Frank De Rose

Traveling Men's Cafe

2398 Seventh Avenue

New York City

DEW DROP IN

To

"DUCK INN"

AT

2348 Seventh Avenue

New York

Oblige
DeROSE and WALKER

Dr. H. Binga Dismond

announces the removal of his clinical offices to directly across the street from his former location.

252 WEST 135th STREET

Telephone remains Bradhurst 3203

Telephone, Audubon 1955

M. LEVY

Tailor and Furrier

Repairing, Reasonable Prices
Cold Storage Free

2376 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Audubon 7889

LAFAYETTE

Sanitary Hand Laundry

615 Lenox Avenue

Compliments of

BEN'S

DANBURY HATS

Hat-Quarters for Styles

521 Lenox Avenue

Cor. 136th Street NEW YORK CITY

Telephone, Audubon 9462

ELK'S CAFE

GOOD SERVICE

Special Room for Ladies

ANTHONY PERRI, Manager

2418 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Edgecombe 9479

"The Travelers Inn"

ALPHONSO
Proprietor

Seventh Avenue

Bet. 141st and 142nd Sts.

New York City

Quick Service Never Closed

Brownie's Lunch

2434 Seventh Avenue

New York

Wholesome Food Home Cooking

Phone, Audubon 5357

Hirsch

CONFECTIONER

Full Line of Home Made Candies and Apollo Chocolates

2425 SEVENTH AVENUE

Phone, Morningside 0987

Montague E. Marks

Pianos — Players — Phonographs — Musical Merchandise

129 WEST 125th STREET

Telephone, Harlem 9457 EXCLUSIVELY 2 PANTS SUITS

Harvey Clothes

77 WEST 125th STREET, near Lenox Avenue

JOHN J. O'CONNOR

$23.50 (none lower) $29.50 (none higher)

FRANK PRINCIPE Phone, Wisconsin 4630 JOSEPH WOLFSON

Principe & Wolfson

REAL ESTATE

SUITE 714 — 152 WEST 42nd STREET

NEW YORK

Every now and then they postpone war a few days by holding a peace conference

You are naturally interested in dancing otherwise you wouldn't be here.

BUT DO YOU KNOW

That the World's most beautiful Ballroom with the leading dance orchestras in town offers you

ENTERTAINMENT — FUN — REFINEMENT

Every night in the week and Sunday afternoons for extremely moderate prices

TRY IT ONCE — YOU'LL COME BACK

THEY ALL DO

Savoy

WORLD'S FINEST BALLROOM

Lenox Ave., 140th-141st Streets New York City

Dance Order

DECEMBER 3, 1926

PART I

1. MEADOW LARK ..... Fox Trot
   (To our Assistant General Organizer, Mr. W. H. Des Verney)
2. TONIGHT YOU BELONG TO ME ..... Waltz
   (To our Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Roy Lancaster)
3. ROSE COLORED GLASSES ..... Fox Trot
   (To our Special Organizer, Mr. Frank R. Crosswaith)
4. HARD TO GET GERTIE ..... Fox Trot
5. CRAZY QUILT ..... Fox Trot
6. ALWAYS ..... Waltz
   (To our General Organizer, Mr. A. Philip Randolph)
7. ALABAMA STOMP ..... Fox Trot

AWARDING OF PRIZES TO CONTESTANTS BY THE JUDGES

Mr. Bennie Butler, Theatrical and Society Editor of the Tatler.
Mr. Lester Walton of the New York World.
Mr. Romeo Dougherty, Theatrical and Society Editor of the Amsterdam News.
Miss Elise McDougald, Assistant Principal, Public School 89.

PART II

1. WHO WOULDN'T ..... Fox Trot
   (To our Assistant General Organizer, Mr. A. L. Totten)
2. BLACK BOTTOM ..... Fox Trot
3. EV'RYBODY MESS AROUND ..... Fox Trot
4. WONDER WHAT'S BECOME OF JOE ..... Fox Trot
   (To our Field Representative, Mr. S. E. Grain)
5. HOW MANY TIMES ..... Fox Trot
6. AT PEACE WITH THE WORLD ..... Waltz
   (To our Ladies' Auxiliary—Hesperus Club)
7. LONELY ACRES ..... Fox Trot
   (To our Friends)
8. BYE-BYE BLACK BIRD ..... Fox Trot

HOME SWEET HOME

GOOD NIGHT

Programme arranged and featured by JOHN C. SMITH

Compliments to the Brotherhood
JULIUS M. GREEN, Real Estate Broker
168 West 136th Street, New York City

Real Estate and Mortgages

J. E. MOORLAND

Associated with Pierrepont Davenport,
52 Willoughby Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Why not buy a bargain home in Brooklyn the "City of Homes," or invest in good property and safe mortgages—Courteous treatment, expert advice on all property matters cheerfully given. Every inquiry receives prompt attention. Office near Borough Hall.

Telephone, Triangle 2404 for Appointments

Telephone, Morningside 8748

M. GREENWALD

Maker of

High Grade Men's Clothing

2111 Seventh Avenue
Bet. 125th and 126th Streets
Opp. Alhambra Theatre
New York

Triumph
Silk Hosiery
For Genuine Goodness

M. WEINSTEIN'S

Ladies' Hosiery
Gents Furnishing Shop

2451 Seventh Avenue
Bet. 142nd and 143rd Sts.
New York City

Compliments of

I. B. P. O. E. W.

160 WEST 129th STREET

COME IN AND SEE US BEFORE YOU MAKE YOUR PURCHASE FOR HOLIDAY

Bell & Delany, Inc.

202 WEST 135th STREET Near Seventh Avenue

A Shop where men of taste and refinement make their daily purchases.
We have pleased men of Harlem for over a year.
Holiday Gifts are now on Display

QUALITY : : SERVICE : : FAIR PRICES

Telephone, Morningside 5643

M. Roth

CARPETS, RUGS AND LINOLEUM

Everything for the Floor

143 West 125th Street New York City

DANIEL GREEN COMFY SLIPPERS

For over forty years, Daniel Green Comfy Slippers have set a standard of quality and workmanship that becomes increasingly apparent the longer the slippers are worn.

Not only does the product of the DANIEL GREEN factory represent a higher standard in appearance and fit, and the little niceties of finish that mark work well done, but in actual wear, they far outlast slippers whose only appeal is a slightly lower price.

We hesitate to say how much longer DANIEL GREEN COMFY SLIPPERS wear than ordinary, cheap slippers, but we are constantly receiving letters that tell of almost unbelievable service.

You can't be disappointed with a pair of DANIEL GREEN COMFYS.

J. J. MARGOLIN

83 West 125th Street 117 West 125th Street

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.

We hope the fuel men never get control of the sunshine

Cuffs Reversed on Shirts Free

LIBERTY HAND LAUNDRY

2421 Seventh Avenue
Bet. 141st and 142nd Sts.

MELODY MUSIC SHOP

Sheet Music

Sacred, Secular, Spiritual, Jazz
Records, Music Rolls and Books

131 West 135th Street
New York City

SAVOY

Hats and Shoes Cleaned
Shoe Repairing

2420 Seventh Avenue
West 141st Street

Telephone, Bradhurst 1131

HOTEL DUMAS

American and European Plan

F. C. FANE, Prop.

205 West 135th Street
New York City

Telephone, Bradhurst 3929

DEMERTGIS BROS.

Fine Delicatessen, Fancy Groceries

Best Teas, Coffees, Creamery Butter
Strictly Fresh Eggs

201 West 141st Street

Telephone, Edgecombe 9196

PARISIAN HAND LAUNDRY

Sanitary Hand Laundry

2411 Seventh Avenue
Cor. 141st Street

Tel., Bradhurst 9340 GEO. EISENBERG

"THE NEW"
Silk and Dress Goods Store

Wholesale and Retail

2635 Eighth Avenue
(Near 140th Street)
New York

Tel., Audubon 9046 "Home Cooking"

THE RENDEZ VOUS CAFE and Tea Room

BANKS and LAWS, Proprietors
Right in Quality, Service and Price

2384 Seventh Avenue
New York City

Telephone, Bowling Green 8199

Manhattan Emblem Co.

11 Broadway

SPECIALIZING IN

BADGES, PINS AND BUTTONS

for all

Organizations and Fraternities

Manufacturers and Designers

Telephone, Bradhurst 1440

WEST SIDE TAILORING

E. M. AMOS, Prop.

CLEANERS and DYERS

All Kinds of Alterations

2360 Seventh Avenue

N. W. Cor. 138th Street NEW YORK CITY

Telephone, Bradhurst 3568

R. G. Heron

Inc.

TAILORS and CLOTHIERS

2380 Seventh Avenue

Cor. 139th Street NEW YORK CITY

Compliments of

Socialist Party Local

New York City

August Claessens

Secretary

OFFICE:

Room 505 Peoples House

7 East 15th Street

They are never alone that are accompanied with noble thoughts

Tel., Monument 5133 Established 1907

S. M. FELNER

Custom Tailor

2102 Seventh Avenue
Near 125th Street

New York

Funeral Director

Licensed Embalmer

Collins Funeral House

Funerals Conducted Inexpensively

OFFICE:
106 West 129th Street
Tel., Morningside 0697

RESIDENCE:
24 West 136th Street
Tel., Harlem 1644

JAMES P. COLLINS

Prin. ANNA W. MYERS
Most Noble Queen
2290 Dean Street, Brooklyn

Greetings and Best Wishes for Success

REBECCA CHAPTER No. 16
I. B. P. O. of Moose, Inc.
Prin. ALICE CAMPBELL, Treasurer
Prin. EVA A. GREEN, Financial Secretary

Clothiers to the Family

Pay as Convenient

WEST END CLOTHING CO.

208 West 125th Street
Near Seventh Avenue—One Flight Up

JOHN E. NAIL HENRY C. PARKER

NAIL & PARKER

Real Estate

145 WEST 135th STREET

NEW YORK CITY

Telephones, Bradhurst 0670 - 0671

Negro workers are fighting for economic power to re-enforce and strengthen their political and civil rights

Greetings to

THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

From the Shirt Makers Union

621 Broadway New York City

Greetings to The Brotherhood

RENAISSANCE PHARMACY

S. H. TOMPKINS, Proprietor

PURE DRUGS and TOILET ARTICLES

Service and Quality

2359 Seventh Avenue New York City

Telephone, Bradhurst 9239

MARVELLO BEAUTY SHOPPE

LAURA S. GIBBS, Proprietor

SCIENTIFIC BEAUTY CULTURE

Marcelling — Manicuring — Facial Massage

Apex System

201 West 139th Street New York City

Telephone, Audubon 9239 Motto "Efficiency

(THE FUNERAL CHURCH)

H. ADOLPH HOWELL

FUNERAL DIRECTOR

Automobiles for Hire for all Occasions

2332 Seventh Avenue New York City

HAIR CULTURISTS AND CONTESTANTS

MADAME ANNA L. ANDERSON, Hair Culturist, 39 West 128th Street.
Entry: Mrs. Estelle Anderson.

NU-LIFE BEAUTY COLLEGE, 2305 Seventh Avenue, Madame Estelle, Prop.
Entry: Miss Maude Coleman, 2307 Seventh Avenue.

MADAME M. L. JACKSON, 200 West 136th Street.
Entry: Miss Naomi Davis, 200 West 135th Street.

ELITE BARBER SHOP, 2311 Seventh Avenue, Mr. Garrett, Prop.
Entries: Miss Perdetha M. Rogers, 260 West 136th Street.
Mrs. Ruth Norwood, 100 West 137th Street.
Miss Mary Deas, 105 West 137th Street.
Miss Adams, 233 West 135th Street.
Miss A'Lelia Edmonds, 2311 Seventh Avenue.
Miss Gomez, 2311 Seventh Avenue.
Miss Gertrude Williams, 226 West 138th Street.
Miss Ruth Pinn, 192 Bradhurst Avenue.
Mrs. Addia Taitt, 676 St. Nicholas Avenue.

ETHEL'S BEAUTY SALON, 202 West 138th Street.
Entry: Miss Mae Wood.

MADAME C. BRYANT JACKSON BEAUTY PARLOR, 2306 Seventh Avenue.
Entries: Miss Fannie Clark, Miss Sadie Crawford, and Miss Geneva Blaunt.

LAFAYETTE BARBER SHOP, 131st Street and Seventh Avenue.
Mr. John Lewis and Charles Osborne, Barbers.
Two Entries to be announced.

IMPERIAL BARBER SHOP (Rose's) Lenox Avenue and 132d Street.
Mr. George McClain, Barber.
One Entry to be announced.

MISS MAUDE SAMPSON, Hair Culturist, 298 West 138th Street.

MISS BERTHA HARTGROVE, Hair Culturist, Y. W. C. A.

"BOBBIE" Hair Culturist, 201 West 138th Street.

MRS. ANNIE VENICE, Hair Culturist, 152 West 131st Street.

MADAME A'LELIA WALKER, 108 West 136th Street.

MARCIA LANSING, Seventh Avenue and 135th Street.

THE "INS"—IRIS HALL, Seventh Avenue and 135th Street.

MR. ALLEN, 206 West 135th Street.
Entries: Miss Virginia Battles, Bradhurst Avenue.
Miss Myrtle Dunnemann, 103 West 137th Street.
Miss Mae Doar, Miss Una Whitley, and Miss Dorothy Jackson.

EVANS & DUNN, 236 West 135th Street, Madame Evans, Prop.
Entry: Matilda Evans.

Herald—Miss Catherine Dummitt
TWENTY DOLLARS IN GOLD WILL BE AWARDED

Telephone, Edgecombe 8989

Seventh Avenue Flower Shop

2315 Seventh Avenue
New York City

Telephone, Audubon 7900
12 M. to 10 P. M. Daily

Compliments of

Beauty Parlor and School

Young Women's Christian Association

179 West 137th Street

Telephone, Bradhurst 0446

Dr. Maurice Hoenig

Optometrist and Optician

Eyes Examined—Glasses Fitted

2313 Seventh Avenue

John S. Rodriquez

Watchmaker, Jeweler and Engraver

Specialty French Clocks and Swiss Watches

2389 Seventh Avenue

QUICK SERVICE NEVER CLOSED

Johnny Jackson's Lunch

DELICATESSEN

Wholesome Food—Home Cooking

2265 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Morningside 4210

G. Fraser Clothing Co.
(Incorporated)

2263 Seventh Avenue

CLOTHING BOUGHT AND SOLD

SUITS . . . . . $8.00 up
Odd Coats, Pants and Vest . . $1.00 up

FULL DRESS SUITS TO HIRE

Down with Company Unions of the bosses and up with the Union of the Workers

Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America

sends fraternal greeting to the

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

Telephone, Edgecombe 9771

Work Called for and Delivered

R and E

CLEANERS and DYERS

Alterations — Tailoring — Pressing

201 West 138th Street

Telephone, Edgecombe 7006

"MILADY'S" VANITY SHOPPE

Latimer's Antiseptic Method

BEAUTY CULTURE

200 West 140th Street

Telephone, Audubon 0159

666

ONLY ONE WAY
WE PLAY SQUARE
EVERY DAY

Stationery, Cigars and Candy

BROWNIE

2394 Seventh Avenue
(Near 140th St.)

Compliments of

M. LOEWENSTEIN

Drug Store

Seventh Avenue and 135th Street

When travelling in the East don't fail to stop over for the week-end at the

McNEAL'S HOUSE

in the heart of the city. Neatly furnished rooms with or without bath; hot and cold water; Southern home cooking. Rates reasonable.

American and European Plan

JOHNNIE JONES, Manager

62-64 Bishop St. Waterbury, Conn.

Greetings from

SILVER LEAF COURT, No. 11

Grand United Order of St. Johns

DON'T FORGET OUR ANNUAL DANCE

on

January 28th, 1927

100 West 128th Street

at the Beautiful

"ALMA"

SEIFRET TYRRILL, W. C.
ELLA LEINA, Fin. Sec'y

The evil that men do lives after them, the good is oft interred with their bones

Telephone, Bradhurst 8464

Try Us Prior to Purchasing
Your Wearing Apparel

PALACE HABERDASHERY, Inc.

Dress Well and Succeed

2397 SEVENTH AVENUE

All Porters are welcome to cash their checks at

RUDY GORDON'S

Men's Shop

619 LENOX AVENUE

Ask Smiley, he will tell you all about it

JOKERS BARBER SHOP

Seven First Class Barbers

First Class Hair Bobbing

611 LENOX AVENUE, Opposite Savoy

JAMES N. LYNCH

WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER

2351 SEVENTH AVENUE

PARAMOUNT STORES, Inc.

Silks, Woolens, Dress Goods, Cotton Goods, and Draperies

2385 SEVENTH AVENUE
Bet. 139th and 140th Sts.

Phone Bradhurst 6370

Branch: 216 Smith St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

While out, don't forget to visit the

NEW DOUGLAS SOUTHERN LUNCH

630 LENOX AVENUE
Corner 142nd Street

All Home Cooking
Never Closed Tables for Ladies

R. LESTER, Prop.

J. FLICKER

LADIES' and GENTS' TAILOR

101 WEST 136th STREET

Telephone, Bradhurst 8954

CAPITAL CIGAR STORE

102 WEST 140th STREET

Perhaps also it would be desirable to see others as we see ourselves

Telephone, Bradhurst 1440

WEST SIDE TAILORING

Cleaners and Dyers

E. M. AMOS, Prop.

200 West 138th Street

Greetings to The Brotherhood

BERGEN'S DRUG STORE

463 Lenox Avenue

Pure Drugs and Toilet Articles at Cut Prices

Service and Quality Our Motto

PRESCRIPTION SPECIALISTS

Tel. Edgecombe 9632

Orders Promptly Delivered

ABE MOSKOWITZ

High Grade Groceries

Butter—Cheese—Eggs

2429 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Edgecombe 7307

STEINER BROS.

Meat, Poultry and Provisions

2429 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Audubon 9363

E. TUFO & CO.

Delicatessen, Groceries, Fruits and Vegetables

2427 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Mott Haven 0508

DIAMOND BROS.

GROCERS

2703 Third Avenue

Telephone, Bradhurst 3568

R. G. HERON, Inc.

Tailors and Clothiers

2380 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Pennsylvania 0244

PETER MENCHER

Insurance Broker

1440 Broadway

PRAUSE & SPREEN

MANUFACTURER OF

FINE HOME MADE CANDIES

505 Lenox Avenue Bet. 135th and 136th Sts.

Negro workers want more than higher wages and better working conditions. They want freedom, more manhood and independence

Compliments of

C. H. JACKSON

J. W. HOOD

984 Morris Avenue

PORTERS' HEADQUARTERS
OF BRONX

Compliments of

Dr. NATHAN FOX

2143 Seventh Avenue

Compliments of the

VITHANA PHOTO STUDIO

Photography in all its Branches

2389 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Audubon 6261

D. ENGELSON

Hardware and Housefurnishings

Locksmithing in all its Branches

2662 Eighth Avenue

Telephone, Bradhurst 2873

MACK TWITTY REALTY CO.

2372 Seventh Avenue

Represented by:
Mack Twitty F. A. Brown W. A. Harris

Telephone, Regent 4688

$23.50 None Lower

$29.50 None Higher

100% ALL WOOL

ROXY CLOTHES SHOPS

981 Third Avenue

World over $35.00. Course for $15.00. Bob Gloss 50 cents; Men's Straightner and Gloss Oil, $1.75; Dye Salve, $1.50.

"MME. RHODA"

130 West 139th Street

New York City

Pub of Newsie Little Eye, 10 cents

Agent for Holy Incense, brings good luck. 25 cents to $2.00

FREE!

LUCKY DOG African Fixed Lead Stone Charm; Lovers Lane Oil Perfume; given with our White Gold Ring (latest style) and Handsome Stick Pin, all for $4.90; rush while they last.

CALIF. JEWELRY

2708 Olive Ave., N. W.

Washington, D. C.

25 Holy prayer Incense for disturbed homes. Forecast Reading, send date of birth and 25c.

Telephone, Harlem 0821

A. DELIS

SIGNS

Signs from A to Z

426 Lenox Avenue

Good Will

LOUIS

Cigars and Stationery

426 Lenox Avenue

Notary Public Lady Attendant

Telephone, 8782 Morningside

GRANVILLE O. PARIS

Undertaker and Embalmer

151 West 131st Street

Morningside 6417 Notary Public

C. FRANKLIN CARR

Funeral Director

110 West 131st Street

J. H. GORDON

Groceries

206 West 146th Street

SMALL'S BAKERY and LIGHT LUNCH

Milk and all Kinds of Drinks

246 West 146th Street

Attention Attention

SAVOY

Cleaners and Dyers

Also Pressing and Tailoring

2340 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Audubon 4790

Compliments of

BEN'S

Danbury Hats

521 Lenox Avenue

Hat-Quarters for Styles

Telephone, Harlem 2333

DR. HECTOR POLK

SURGEON DENTIST

488 Lenox Avenue

Compliments of your

DRUGGIST

R. B. ROBBINS

539 Lenox Avenue
(Near 137th St.)

First Class Delicatessen
at Right Prices

HERMAN FELDMAN

2363 Seventh Avenue

KEESER BROS.

BAKERY

2381 Seventh Avenue

MAX THE TAILOR

Ladies and Gents Tailoring

CLEANING, PRESSING, DYEING

OLD FURS MADE NEW

173 West 141st Street

Compliments of

LAFAYETTE

BILLIARD EMPORIUM

ENTRANCES:
2237 Seventh Avenue
—and—
168 West 132nd Street

UP-TO-DATE HAIR BOBBING—Latest Styles
Ladies and Gents Electric Massaging

SHOP NO. 1
The Antiseptic Tonsorial Parlor
101 West 135th Street

SHOP NO. 2
The Tonsorial Emporium
2502 Seventh Ave., cor. 145th St.

WM. L. PEACE, Prop.

Telephone, Bradhurst 3725

CAESAR W. WAY

REAL ESTATE and INSURANCE

Houses Bought, Sold, Leased, and Rents Collected

MONEY TO LOAN

on First, Second, and Third Mortgages

301 WEST 140th STREET

Compliments from

A FRIEND

Telephone, Bradhurst 3103

Open a Charge Account at Once
at the
IMPERIAL APPAREL SHOP, Inc.
2523 Eighth Avenue

LIBERAL TERMS — BEST PRICES
We Solicit Your Trade

Telephone, Bradhurst 5351

Dr. RENOLD B. LIGHSTON
Physiological Therapeutist

2194 Seventh Avenue

THE HARLEM BAKERY

Strictly Home-Made
Pies, Cakes, Rolls and Fancy Pastries

2210 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Audubon 7281

THE CLUB DINING ROOM

2370 Seventh Avenue

ARTHUR H. TAYLOR
Counselor at Law

322 Lenox Ave.

Telephone, Harlem 4627

A. T. ANDERSON & CO.
REAL ESTATE

322 Lenox Avenue

BROWNIE'S LUNCH

Wholesome Food

2434 Seventh Avenue New York City

Telephone, Bradhurst 0730

JOHN C. SMITH

Modern Dance Orchestra

135-137 West 135th Street

Telephone, Morningside 5895
Night Phone, Harlem 4190

W. C. WALL'S

Local and Long Distance Moving

101 West 128th Street

Compliments of

R. J. BRANDON

77 West 135th Street

Telephone, Morningside 8150

The Bachelor's Best Friend

EQUITABLE HAND LAUNDRY

475 Lenox Avenue

Compliments of

A FRIEND

Telephone, Bradhurst 0679

Yuletide Greetings from the

GRAY BEAUTY PARLOR

222 West 135th Street

Telephone, Edgecombe 5194

P. B. JOHNSON

2381 Seventh Avenue Market

Fresh Fish of all Kinds

Telephone, Morningside 2533

L. S. GONZALEZ CO.

Mfg. Jewelers and Watchmakers

429 Lenox Avenue

COSTEN PHARMACY

Dr. W. Luzerne Costen

99 Bishop Street

Waterbury, Conn.

Telephone, Edgecombe 8519

138th STREET FLORAL SHOP

Funeral Designs a Specialty

Fresh Flowers Daily

560 Lenox Avenue Cor. 138th Street

Compliments of

WILLIAM MITCHELL

P. E. R. Monarch Lodge No. 45

Telephone, Audubon 8430

RICHMOND MARKET

Meats and Poultry

2326 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Morningside 7942

CHRIS CATACOSINOS

Fancy Fruits and Groceries

2197 Seventh Avenue

PRAUSE & SPREEN

Fine Home-Made Candies

505 Lenox Avenue

Telephone, Morningside 1450

DR. A. L. CAMPBELL
Surgeon Dentist
2138 Seventh Avenue

J. FLICKER
Ladies' and Gents Tailor
101 West 136th Street

GLORIA NEW YORK BEAUTY SHOP
Poro System
42 Winyah Avenue
New Rochelle, N. Y.

Telephone, Bradhurst 0347

TURNER UNDERTAKING CO., Inc.
Funeral Directors
128 West 136th Street

Telephone, Bradhurst 8621

MME. RICHMOND
Scientific Scalp and Hair Culturist
201 West 141st Street

Telephone, Audubon 8477

MME. OBRYANT JACKSON
Poro System
2306 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Audubon 9046

THE RENDEZ VOUS CAFE and Tea Room
2384 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Bradhurst 1234

EL MODELLO
Cigar Manufacturers
2330 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Audubon 2913 Est. 1908

A. HOROWITZ
Tailoring
2322 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Audubon 1847

SAMUEL I. AGREE
Cigars and Stationery
2320 Seventh Avenue

Compliments of
K. B. MIMMS
51 West 137th Street
Mrs. Williams.

Telephone, Bradhurst 8221

ST. GEO. V. CORINALDI
Diamonds and Jewelry
2394 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Bradhurst 6544

J. E. CYRUS
Studio of Fine Art and Training School of Photography
2376 Seventh Avenue

Telephone, Edgecombe 7796

PROF. STEWART CUMBERBATCH
Stage and Ballroom Dancing
226 West 137th Street

Telephone, Audubon 7693

I. SPERLING
Meat and Poultry Market
2488 Seventh Avenue

Success and Prosperity
to the
PULLMAN PORTERS
Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Perkins
157 West 123rd Street

Do You Know

that the Commercial Printing Department of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle is one of the biggest and best equipped printing plants in this country?

You will quickly find out why this is so when you entrust your next printing order to us. . . .

Commercial Printing Department

BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE

305 Washington St. Brooklyn, N. Y.

FREE SCHOLARSHIPS

to

All members of the

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

Apply

RAND SCHOOL OF SOCIAL SCIENCE

7 East 15th Street. Tel. Stuyv. 3094

Morningside 9087 Hours: 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. Sundays by Appointment

Dr. J. P. BAILEY

Registered Podiatrist Chiropodist

Office: 148 West 131st Street

BEN WALKER

CUSTOM TAILOR

Cleaning and Dyeing

2294 Seventh Avenue

Chiropractic for the prolonging of health as well as getting sick people well. Investigate this science.

W. H. KLASS

Chiropractor

180 Edgecombe Avenue

HOOK'S

Lunch and Billiard Parlor

34 West 135th Street

Out of the night that covers me,
Black as the pit, from pole to pole,
I thank whatever God's may be
For my unconquerable soul.

McAuliffe & Booth

Incorporated

PRINTING

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

265 West 126th Street, East of Eighth Ave.

Telephone, Morningside 0494

In the world's broad field of battle,
In the bivouac of Life,
Be not like dumb, driven cattle!
Be a hero in the strife!—LONGFELLOW.

WITH BEST WISHES

to the

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

from

VEST MAKERS UNION

PETER MONHE, Manager
Mr. GREENBERG, Secretary

Compliments of

The Office Staff of The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

With renewed interest, we are united to work whole-heartedly with the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. Like the Brotherhood we stand for Service, Fidelity and Co-operation.

HELEN V. DAVIS
Bookkeeper

WILHELMINA S. WHITE
Secretary to Publicity Manager

ARABELLA S. DENNISTON
Business Secretary "The Messenger"

FREDRANA DAVIS WARING
File Clerk

ANNA B. WALES
Secretary to Mr. Lancaster

LILIAN MARTIN
Secretary to Mr. Randolph

Bobbed Hair and Bobbed Brains

Bobbed Hair is very often attractive and becoming.
Bobbed Brains, however, are a serions handicap to anyone.

Bobbed Hair has enabled many a girl to gain a hubby, but Bobbed Brains have often caused a girl to lose one.

The Remedy for Bobbed Hair is to let it grow.
The Remedy for Bobbed Brains is the same,
But it is so much easier to grow hair than brains.

To Grow Brains one must have a select diet of Mental Nourishment and Stimulant carefully prepared
By keen intellects conversant with life in all of
Its many phases and culture in all of its ramifications.

As History, current, modern, medieval and ancient Clearly shows, nine out of ten people (physically Adults) have Bobbed Brains—Brains cut short in infancy;
Brains that are stunted and stagnant.

If you want to grow hair, you should patronize a Hairdresser.
If you want to grow brains, read The Messenger.

THE MESSENGER

World's Greatest Negro Monthly

Editors
A. PHILIP RANDOLPH and CHANDLER OWEN

Assistant Editor
GEORGE S. SCHUYLER

Business Manager
ROY LANCASTER

Official Organ of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

On sale in all parts of the United States, $1.75 a y
15 cents a copy

"Dedicated to the nourishment and stimulation of brains since 19

A Plantation Family

PART FOUR
The Literary World
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1927
Books of the Day—Art

BOOK SECTION
Boston Evening Transcript

JULIA PETERKIN—IMPRESSIONS AND A CONVERSATION

Zeda at Work

A Novelist Who Is Also the Mistress of a South Carolina Plantation, and Who Lived Before She Began to Write

By Dale Warren

[illegible] emergence of a new author, [illegible] publisher has an op- [illegible] produce a first novelist [illegible] initial gesture to youth. [illegible] precious expatriates write [illegible] of America, and Village poets [illegible] twenty blow off steam [illegible] easily as [illegible] exhale smoke from their ciga-[illegible]

[illegible] Peterkin's son was twenty-three [illegible] old when her first novel, "Black April," was published. She had been "married," as they still say in the South, [illegible] through school, and given in marriage. Although her looks and youthful humor belie it, she had been mistress of a plantation in South Carolina for nearly a quarter of a century. She had known happiness and recognized grief and assimilated experience. She had lived before she began to write. Then, without [illegible] blare of trumpets, she produced a piece of work considered by many to be the calmest piece of tragedy since "Ethan Frome."

"But I am really not a writer," Mrs. Peterkin told me with emphasis. "I am a housekeeper, a mother. I like to work with my hands, in the kitchen, in my garden. I like to ride and hunt, I like to play poker, I like to talk. Writing is an art to some people, I suppose, but I have never had time to acquire it or to [illegible] things objectively. Life is so much more interesting, and it is only during the last few years that I have done any writing at all."

Mrs. Peterkin had intimated that her work was not something creative, and I knew that she did not write merely for amusement or a pastime. "Why, then, do you write?" I impertinently asked this woman whose life seemed to stand complete as it was.

"I don't know whether I'll tell you or not," she said in that slow, Southern [illegible] of hers. "You might not believe me, you might laugh at me. I write" [illegible] hesitated, "to get rid of the things that disturb me. I know it sounds [illegible] to you, but that is the reason. On the plantation I am very close to life. It is all about me—several hundred negroes, in fact. It's their lives that I've known. I have seen sickness and death and superstition and frenzy and desire. My eyes have looked on horror and misery. And these things have stayed with me and upset me. I have had to get rid of them, so I have written them out. It It is all really quite simple."

If Freud himself made this state[illegible] it could not have carried more [illegible] conviction. I had marvelled at the a[illegible]tic detachment of ther writing, yet this was to me only satisfying explanation of "Black April" that I could have heard. Realism, indeed, had a new champion. Small wonder that Carl Sandburg was quick to recognize her touch.

When Mrs. Peterkin came north this summer, she stayed for a week in a New York hotel, paid a visit to Boston (where the law says that "Black April" may not be read), went to the MacDowell Colony in Peterborough, and motored in the New Hampshire hills. "I don't want the plantation to get me," she explained, "so my husband and I both try to have a change each year."

She had already said in the course of an earlier interview: "I don't see why so many writers live in New York, away from their sources, nor why there is not more love of the soil among them. Our people live in the houses in which they were born. That is what I miss in New York. Everyone is so far away from the soil. In the South we live on a piece of land which feeds us and to which, when we die, our bodies return."

This quality of continuous life in the lowlands of South Carolina finds full expression in "Black April." Reviewers glibly call it a 'saga' or an 'epic,' not fully understanding the significance of either term. Yet both are justifiable. The earth speaks, and so do the children of the earth. Black children, because Mrs. Peterkin says that although much had been written about the negro, nothing had been written that described or applied to the negroes on her plantation. There is not a white character in the book. "I shall never write of white people. Their lives are not so colorful."

No, I thought, not so colorful. Pictures rose up of hog-killing and duck-hunting; of 'possums and wild turkeys; of birth-night suppers and "quiltings"; of barnyards and moonlight and cotton-fields; of song and prayer and the endless boll-weevil; of love-making and fights to the death; of the life inside those little log cabins "that nestled under great moss-hung oaks close to the river's edge."

Mrs. Peterkin handles a rich, mellow dialect with notable ease and in her writings brings out that admixture of humor and pathos so characteristic of the speech of the negro:

"'It's the other side o' Jordan we got to fix for. Dem sweet fields in Eden, yonder in Canaan's land. Dat's de country I'm aimin' to reach. You boys must try to reach 'em too.'

"'Uncle, you believe any white folks is in Heaben?'

"'Gawd knows, son. White folks is mighty smart people. Dey knows a lot o' tricks we don' know.'"

I asked how much of the book were fact and how much fiction.

"That is difficult to say," she answered. "It goes by the name of a novel, but a large part of it is fact. I got the habit of utilizing incident when I wrote the sketches that Mr. Knopf, on Mencken's recommendation, published in my other book, "Green Thursday." I had written these sketches as the facts on which they are based had crystallized in my consciousness and had to be given form. In "Black April," incidents, of course, are blended together in the hope of achieving continuity. You see when you are writing out of your experience you don't have to rely to any great extent upon your imagination. I have lived among negroes. I like them. They are my friends, and I have learned so much from them. The years on the plantation have given me plenty of material, my life has been rich, so why try to improve on the truth?

"Blue Brook Plantation, in the book, is just another name for my own home, Lang Syne Plantation, at Fort Motte. April, Zeda, Cousin Big Sue, Breeze, Maum Hannah, Sherry, Joy, Uncle Isaac, even Julia the mule—they are all a part of my life. The plantation is a world of its own. I was with April when his toes came off and floated around in the tub, and it was my father—to whom the book is dedicated—who amputated his legs. I was with April often when he came back from the hospital and lost his spirit and died. What he said at the end was true, every word of it. He said it to me:

"'Bury me in a man-size box—You un'erstan'?—A man—size—box—I been—six feet—fo'—Uncle—Six feet-fo'!'"

"Maybe you see now why I had to write."

"Yes," I said.

"It isn't easy work for me, but it is the release that my spirit demands. What I need to learn chiefly is how to weed the unessential from the essential. I hope that my next book will be better."

"Your next book?"

"Oh, yes, I'm working on it now. That is why I went to Peterborough. When I wrote 'Black April,' I thought it would be the only novel I should ever write. So I tried to put everything into it, and that is what makes it incoherent. But I had to leave out a lot. There wasn't room for it. That is why I am writing another book."

"I suppose you will call it 'Mule Monday.'"

"No," she laughed [illegible] recollection of the Southern [illegible], "but I will tell you [illegible]. It is to be about my Zeda in 'Black April.' Do you remember her?"

I remembered Zeda. No one could forget her. Just one of her remarks, if no other, would give her a claim to fame in any gathering. I quoted it for Mrs. Peterkin's benefit: "No man livin' is worth one drop o' water dat dreans out a 'oman's eye.'"

"Oh, I see you do remember Zeda," she said. "When you come to visit me you can meet her. You'll like her. She's magnificent—a real Diane de Poiters."

During the course of a recent trip to New York, I lunched with Herschel Brickell, the Mississippi literary critic whose work I so much admire. He was the first Southerner to whom I had talked since reading "Black April." I wanted to know how the book impressed someone who was more familiar than I with the country below the Mason and Dixon line, and at an opportune moment mentioned the name of Julia Peterkin.

"Are you in love with her like all the rest of us?" was the first thing he asked.

My reply can easily be imagined.

I do not remember how long we sat talking about "Black April" and its author, but I do remember a number of the points that Brickell made to bear out his enthusiasm:

"Of all the Southerners who have written of the negro, particularly in recent years, this South Carolina woman has achieved the cleanest break with any suspicion of the old attitude toward black folk as conventional comic characters. First of all, she writes of negro life as a thing apart. She does not rely for her tragedy or her comedy—this latter element she has neither neglected nor overemphasized—upon the relations of white and black.

"Mrs. Peterkin has woven a background rich in the colorful pattern of folkways which survive among the Gullah negroes of the Carolina islands in unmodified African form. A. E. Gonzales, another South Carolinian, who knew Gullah talk and Gullah ways, saw the blacks as vastly amusing children; Mrs. Peterkin strikes much deeper into human values. The strangeness of the interplay between superstititon—black magic—and the Christian religion in the life of plantation negroes has never within my knowledge been so well and so thoroughly brought out as here, where it is skillfuly made a part of the tale. As a picture of the routine of life in a remote Southern plantation, 'Black April' is flawless; I could shut my eyes and think myself back on Bee Lake which I knew so well in childhood. . . .

"Mrs. Peterkin has penetrated the lives of her black folk with a sharpness and a depth that will be properly appreciated only by those who, knowing the negro well, realize how shrewdly he keeps his private affairs from the whites. She has created character with a sure touch: Cun Big Sue, April, Little Breeze, Zeda, Uncle Bill, Uncle Isaac, Maum Hannah, the pathetic Joy, are as far removed from the conventionalities of colored fiction as their quaint Gullah talk is from the educated English of Harlem highbrows. The elemental passions are here; drama is made of birth and death and jealousy, all stripped of the trappings of civilization; at least of white civilization.

"Mrs. Peterkin might be a Scandinavian author writing about the natives of the heart of Africa for any concern she displays with anything except the telling of a tremendously interesting and moving story. Her detachment is in itself no small achievement. It is no exaggeration to say that the publication of 'Black

Julia Peterkin

Mighty Lak a Rose

A Plantation Cabin

April' is one of the outstanding events of the South's present literary Renaissance."

I have speculated at some length on Mrs. Peterkin's wisdom in writing only of the blacks. Aside from the sheriff who figures in the story "Ashes," the first of the "Green Thursday" sketches, no other white character enters her pages. "Ashes" [illegible] was not so successful as the [illegible] which followed it, and it [illegible] One [illegible] materia[illegible] her the [illegible] nomaly that has no place in the literature she is creating.

Many times have I asked people if they have read "[illegible]," explaining that it was [illegible] about the negro, to hear the reply, "No, but I've read "Nigger Heaven." One might as well begin talking of Mrs. Wharton and "The Age of Innocence" as to parry with a reference to the Harlem nights of Mr. Van Vechten, for April bears about as much resemblance to Florence Mills as the latter to Lindbergh. But for a real hot time I will back a birth-night supper at Blue Brook against any cabaret north of 125th street.

By the same token, no comparison can be made between Mrs. Peterkin's work and that of Paul Green, the Pulitzer Prize winner, whose play, "In Abraham's Bosom," was recently acted in Boston. Abraham's tragedy is as great as it [illegible] greater than April's, but it is a tragedy diabolically invented by "civilization." One leaves the theater in a state of spent emotion, but it is the quality of emotion felt when a [illegible] enters a hen-yard. Mrs. Peterkin leaves the whites to themselves and the half-whites to the mercy of Providence. She works rather in the common clay which, through an ironic gesture of fate, has been flung from darkest Africa to the lowlands of South Carolina. The passions with which she deals are elemental. Du Bose Heyward's "Porgy," if a comparison must be made, is probably closer to "Black April" than anything yet written.

If one wishes to trace Julia Peterkin's history it is necessary to go back to 1880, the year in which Dr. and Mrs. Julius Mood were presented with a daughter, Julia, who chose Hallowe'en as the auspicious night on which to arrive. Her mother died young, and the care of her bringing up was divided by her father, her grandmother, and an old negro of whom she speaks with a reverence that is really more than reverence. I have a suspicion that it was this ebony saint to whom Mrs. Peterkin dedicated "Green Thursday"—"To the memory of Maum Lavinia Berry"—but this is merely conjecture. She graduated from Converse College at sixteen and received her Master's degree from the same institution a year later. Then followed a short career of teaching, and her marriage to William George Peterkin, a widely known and successful planter. Lang Syne Plantation has claimed her practically all the time ever since.

How fortunate that she was not carried north by some commercial cavalier to make a pretense at home-making in a New York apartment! There is only one place for Mrs. Peterkin and that is the South. "Honey, you' skin may be white, but you' heart sho is black." That is one of the memories of her childhood, although it remained for me to hear it from other lips.

I wonder what Mrs. Peterkin would think if I said she looked like a Greek Goddess. Southern women respond to flattery and Mrs. Peterkin is true to type. Yet she might not take it as a compliment. I mean it that way, however, and will stick to my point. Majestic, statuesque, she enters a room like some high-born Juno. Her features are strong and her profile distinguished. Her abundant golden hair—red or Titian, if you prefer—is coiled in a knot. You look for a fillet and half expect a very up-to-date costume to change to the whirling robes of the Grecian frescoes. Minerva, balancing the scales of justice, Ceres, bountiful and compassionate, Diana, fleet of foot—you somehow think of these when you are face to face with Julia Peterkin.

[illegible] life, she says. Let [illegible] courage and grace. [illegible] to do the things I [illegible] to do," she said to me once. "I have no idea how well it works." Here is bravery and the will to conquer, but there is no blindness in her make-up and no vestige of sentimentality. One of her Southern friends told me not long ago: "Mrs. Peterkin has more common sense than anyone I know." Life is not all pleasant. I remember her saying with a quiet conviction: "It seems to me that we were never made for happiness, else there would be more of it."

Just after she got home this fall, she wrote me: "The plantation always frightens me when I come back to it. Here, life is so untamed. In September, the fields are too lush, too green for comfort. This is the time when snakes go blind and walk boldly in the open. We have to watch where we step. And the red old earth has a canny look as it lies so still, so mute, waitng for us all. Oh, I hope I shall die while the sun shines and not in one of these dead black nights when the tide of the year is full, and so strong."

Mincing words is not Mrs. Peterkin's long suit. She says what she thinks. Why not? She generally says it in short, epigrammatic sentences, turned with no conscious effort to be clever. In popular parlance, she gets away with her remarks; said by another, one might take exception to them. If they do not bring ready acquiescence from the listener, they are certain to arouse comment or argument. Never rebuttal. She regards her success as a novelist with the modesty that sometimes comes with achievement: "The world has forgiven me for 'Black April,'" is all she says. Throughout her writing she does not hesitate to call a spade a spade, and several of them are as black as the faces of her own Uncle Isaac and April Breeze. Yet she is withholding many things to be told some time in the future "when the truth shall cease to offend."

Leda and Her Family

UNITED WE STAND — DIVIDED WE FALL!

Pullman Porters and Maids!

The Brotherhood is your only Salvation

ONWARD—FORWARD—UPWARD
ONE YEAR'S ACHIEVEMENT
THE GLORY OF A STRUGGLING RACE

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
Headquarters: 2311 Seventh Avenue
New York City, N. Y.

Food for Thought

1. Because in the Brotherhood you are organized of, for, and by yourselves. In the Employee Representation Plan, you are divided into seven or more zones that are separate and independent in order to keep you from getting together to organize.

2. Because the leaders of the Brotherhood are honest, intelligent and independent. They can speak out for you because they are responsible to you and not to the Pullman Company.
   In the Plan, the officials are employees of the Company and hence responsible to the Company. They dare not frankly speak up for their fellow-porters, if their superiors are opposed, for their jobs are at stake. REMEMBER, "HE WHO PAYS THE FIDDLER CALLS THE TUNE."

3. Because the Brotherhood got you a wage increase of 8 per cent or $64.80 more a year. You pay in at $10.00, a recent rate, to join and $12.00 dues—$22.00 the first year. You make on your investment $42.80, the difference between $64.80 and $22.00, or very nearly 200 per cent. Next year you pay $12.00 more in dues or you put in $34.00 in all. However, the next year you get another $64.80, of course, you will get another wage increase, but assuming that you did not, The Brotherhood has gotten for you $129.60 in two years, and you have put into the Brotherhood only $34.00. You have made on your investment in the Brotherhood over 300 per cent in two years. If you had put your $34.00 in the bank at the current rate of interest of 6 per cent, you would have received only $4.08 in two years. Now, be a man, be honest and sincere. Has the Brotherhood been a benefit to you or not? Of course, it has.

4. But suppose it had not gotten you this increase. Would it still deserve your support? Of course, it would. It is only one year old. One year is too short a time to test the value of any organization. Be honorable and admit it. The American colonies were seven years forming a union. No church, or school or political party or business corporation can be justly judged as to its value in one year's work. Isn't that true?

5. Of course, stool-pigeons will tell you that the Brotherhood has not done anything; that porters a[illegible] r money away when they put it into [illegible] ow much progress the Pullman Company had made one y[illegible] ter it was organized? It is organized, too, you know. Ask them also who is paying them to spread such propaganda? Of course, you know, don't you? Who would benefit from such propaganda? Think! Don't be like dumb, driven cattle. Be like the Pullman conductors, the engineers, switchmen, etc. Stand up like men, and the public, the Pullman Company, and the white organized workers will respect you.

6. Now, you must beware of rumors about your leaders running away with your money or running through it or of your leaders fighting among themselves. This is all bunk. One who spreads such rumors may be well-meaning but misguided, speaking from rumors or hearsay. You have lived long enough to know that your leaders are above the appeal of money or else they could have gotten plenty of it, much more than they could get from porters, isn't that so? Of course, it is. But they are not purchasable at any price. Ask the Company propagandist what proof has he that what he says is true? This will silence him. Again, one who spreads such rumors may be a malicious Pullman Company agent who is paid to create and spread dissension and unrest in the ranks in order to break up your organization. Some of them will pose as friends of the Brotherhood in order that you may be deceived into believing that the rumors are true. Remember that the truth about your organization can only be secured from its officials. Remember that every effort of the enemies to break up the Brotherhood has failed and failed miserably. Now the last weapon which is being used against it is the the creating of dissension through rumors and by spreading propaganda that you can't win. No movement which remains united and whose cause is just can fail.

Every porter who is not a member should join now and the members should pay their dues. Every member and non-member should sign the Questionnaires for the Referendum. The more we get, the stronger we are. As soon as they are signed and returned, we will call for a conference with the Company. If we are refused, we will take up your case with the Mediation Board. And it will be properly handled. Walsh and Richberg are your legal representatives.

The Pullman Company's reports, according to the Wall Street Journal show that in 11 months ending June, it has a revenue of [illegible] wage out of these big profits [illegible] order that your family shall not depend upon charity for a living. The Brotherhood will not injure the Company, it will help it, it does not counsel insubordination but discipline, efficiency, industry, courtesy and honesty. If white workers are organized, why shouldn't black workers organize?

Don't wait to see what the other fellow is going to do or what the Brotherhood is going to accomplish—Do your part by joining now and paying your dues regularly. Don't be content to live in a house somebody else builds. Be men! and put your shoulders to the wheels and help build it yourself. The world is run by those men who say ("I can")—not by those who say ("I can't"). What others have done, you can do. Remember, Brethren, you deserve no more than what you are willing to demand and fight for. The world will take you at your own measure, so will the Pullman Company.

Let us not think of failure, brethren. The will to win will win.

Let us work and not grow weary, fight and not lose the faith.

The eyes of the world are upon us. We must make good for the cause of race progress. May we ever remember that a QUITTER NEVER WINS AND A WINNER NEVER QUITS!

FORWARD TO VICTORY.

Your faithful servant,

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH,
General Organizer

SUBSCRIBE FOR "THE MESSENGER"

so that you may get it direct through the mails and read about the fight it is making for YOU. Get copies and send to porters you know. Knowledge is power! The truth will set you free!

BULLETIN

SHINING SHOES AND THE BROTHERHOOD

Vol. I "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free" No. 9A

It has come to my attention that the Pullman Company is asking porters this question: Are you in favor of continuing to shine shoes as you are now doing? Your answer should be, Yes, I am in favor of continuing to shine shoes as now. Should you say No, the Company may spread the propaganda that the Brotherhood is trying to lower the standard of service by advising porters not to shine the passengers' shoes. You should leave the matter of changing working conditions to the Brotherhood to handle through the U. S. Mediation Board with the Pullman Company.

Besides, shining shoes is a part of the service on the cars. The Company inaugurated it and you should let the Company abolish it on its own accord if it so desires.

Remember, you work for the Pullman Company and you serve the public. It is the Brotherhood's policy and demand that all Brotherhood men do efficient work and give high grade service. Brotherhood men must and should take pride in the work and service they render. Remember, Brethren, that the Brotherhood is a service organization as well as a fighting organization for more wages and better working conditions. If you never lose sight of this fact, pay your dues, round up the slackers, spread the gospel of the Brotherhood, fight and faint not, the Company cannot defeat you.

Your object is not to do less work but to get more pay for the work you do as well as to get better working conditions.

Don't be disturbed about the little wait on the next step of the United States Mediation Board. Your case is not the only one before the Board. You must wait your turn. It is sure to come. Your case is listed C-107, according to a resolution adopted by the Board. The main cause of the delay with the Brotherhood's case is the fact that only three (3) of the mediators appointed are now active; one died, and one resigned on account of illness.

Don't permit false Pullman Heebies Jeebies propaganda about the Brotherhood's calling a strike to disturb you. Rely only upon information about the Brotherhood you get from Brotherhood officials.

Don't be disturbed about propaganda that the Pullman Company will not recognize the Brotherhood. All railroad companies have said this same thing about all railroad unions at the beginning, but the railroad companies changed their minds. Organization did the trick. So will the Pullman Company change its mind. The Pullman officials know this. The Pullman officials are certainly not going to tell you to organize although they know they can't prevent you from organizing if you wish to organize.

Brethren, the success of the Brotherhood is entirely up to you. Nobody can defeat you but yourself. Nobody can win for you but yourself. In your own hands lies your salvation. Your officials can and do guarantee you honesty and efficiency in the handling of your money and organization. That is all any organization can be assured by any group of officials. This has shocked the Company. The Company at first thought they could buy your officials. But now they know the Brotherhood and your officials are not for sale. This is a lesson the Company will never forget. The Company now knows that all black men are not purchasable.

Also remember, Brethren, that no contract which the Company may seek to get you to sign as individuals for an increase in pay if you don't join the union, is valid in a court of law, nor is it enforceable either by the Pullman Company or the porters. The Brotherhood is more valuable to you than a $1000.00 increase in pay would be. Why? Because if the Company should raise your pay it may and could reduce it, unless you were organized. A union is for the purpose of preventing reductions as well as to get increases, in wages. Agreements must not only be secured, they must be enforced. Only an organization can enforce an agreement with the Pullman Company.

Again, remember, Brethren, that a winner never quits and a quitter never wins; that he who would be free must himself first strike the blow.

Since December 30th, the Brotherhood has enrolled over 900 new members, and they still flow in. We must and will get 98 percent of the porters. The public and organized labor are with you.

Thus, let us rejoice and be thankful for victory is as sure to come as it is that the night will follow the day. Forward to victory!

Your faithful servant,

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH,

General Organizer.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

2311 Seventh Avenue New York City

HIGH POINTS OF DEEP INTEREST IN

"The Pullman Porters' Struggle"

(The story of a race's exploitation)

THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS IS THE FIRST AND ONLY NATIONAL NEGRO LABOR UNION IN THE UNITED STATES. ITS SUCCESS WILL INFLUENCE GREATLY THE FUTURE OF NEGRO WORKERS IN AMERICAN INDUSTRY AND MAKE FOR BETTER RACE RELATIONS.

Issued By

THE BOSTON CITIZENS' COMMITTEE

6 MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE, BOSTON, MASS.

REV. SIDNEY LOVETT, Chairman

EDGAR P. BENJAMIN, Vice-Chairman

ROLFE COBLEIGH, Secretary

ALBERT SPRAGUE COOLIDGE, Treas.

A STATEMENT BY THE COMMITTEE

Several generations ago the people of New England, especially of the State of Massachusetts, played a prominent role in the struggle to achieve the emancipation of the Negro from chattel slavery. No citizen of Massachusetts can recall the names of such illustrious sons as Thaddeus Stephens, Charles Sumner, Wendell Phillips, Whittier, Lowell, Garrison and others without feeling a sense of deep pride in the part these men played to rid the Republic of that blot upon its banner.

With the freedom of the Negro many problems arose to haunt his life such as segregation, lynching, jim crowism, disfranchisement and civil injustice. Happily these evils are being gradually attacked and bid fair to finally being solved. However, the economic life of the Negro is still utterly insecure. In many instances he is systematically kept from earning a livelihood; whenever permitted to work, it is usually at a wage below that paid a white worker doing the same kind of work, his working conditions are generally less humane than those afforded the workers of other races. As a result the Negro race has remained the one very noticeable group of American citizens always in need of the charity of friends. This condition is also happily changing. The Negro is himself beginning to stir, to practice self-help. One of the most brilliant examples of this fact is the organization of the Pullman porters and maids into a union of, for and by themselves, known as the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

Realizing the deep import and significance of this Movement to the future of the Negro in the United States and to white Americans generally, we, a Committee of Citizens of both races, herewith proclaim our faith in the justice of the cause of the Pullman porters and maids, and we call upon all the citizens of New England, without regard to race, creed or color, to lend their moral and financial support to the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, which, according to the provisions of the new Railway Labor Act is lawfully proceeding along orderly lines of collective bargaining, to raise the status of Negro families morally, intellectually and socially through increasing the income of 12,000 Pullman porters and maids, from $72.50 per month to a living wage, thereby ridding them of the necessity of degrading their spirits and destroying their manhood through the practice of begging the public for tips for a living.

In lending our aid to this group of faithful public servants who safeguard the honor of American womanhood on Pullman cars with such unerring faithfulness and dependability so that their own homes are no more secure, we are but continuing the glorious and illustrious tradition begun by self-sacrificing school-marms, the flower of New England life, who left their comfortable home surroundings and went to the aid of the freedmen after the Civil War, carrying the torch of education and religious training, as well as the matchless heroism and noble devotion to principles of her sons.

FACTS ABOUT THE BROTHERHOOD

There are approximately 12,000 porters and maids in the Pullman service.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters was organized in New York City, August 25, 1925. The present membership (June, 1928) is about 7,500.

The Brotherhood maintains National Headquarters at 2311 Seventh Avenue, New York City, also local offices in Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Washington, Portland, Oakland, Los Angeles, Seattle, Boston, Jacksonville, Salt Lake City, St. Paul, Denver and Omaha.

Citizens Committees are organized to aid the porters in the following cities: New York, Washington, St. Louis, Chicago, Kansas City and Boston.

Mr. Stuart Chase, certified public accountant, is the official auditor for the Brotherhood.

WAGES AND EMPLOYMENT CONDITIONS OF THE PORTERS AND MAIDS

Minimum wage, $72.50.

Average monthly tips, $58.00.

Average occupational expense, $33.00 per month.

The porter purchases his uniform, shoe blacking and food in transit and at termini.

Porters and maids are paid upon a mileage basis (11,000 miles being the base). Because of this mileage arrangement, porters contribute several hours of work each trip without pay. This is known as Preparatory Time.

Porters running "in charge" (doing conductors' work) receive only $10.00 per month additional pay. A conductor's pay is from $160.00 to $198.00 per month.

DEMANDS OF THE BROTHERHOOD

Recognition of the Brotherhood.
A living wage instead of tips.
Abolition of Preparatory Time.
Pay for overtime.
240 hour work-month.

OUTSTANDING EVENTS

With a majority enrolled, the Brotherhood qualified to present its case before the United States Mediation Board July 10, 1927.

The United States Mediation Board recognizes the Brotherhood and recommends arbitration of the dispute by a board jointly created by the Pullman Company, the Brotherhood and the public as provided by law.

The Company flatly refused to arbitrate, while the Brotherhood gladly accepted.

Unable to adjust the dispute between the Brotherhood and the Company, the Mediation Board ceased its efforts and notified the Company and the Brotherhood of the fact.

Under the law the next step was to threaten a substantial interruption of interstate commerce, thereby necessitating the establishment of an Emergency Board by the President of the United States acting upon the recommendation of the U. S. Mediation Board.

Accordingly the Brotherhood proceeded to ballot its membership on the question of a strike resulting in the unprecedented vote of over 6000 for, and less than 50 against.

With this definite mandate from its membership, the Brotherhood then set June 8 as the date when the strike would go into effect and called upon the Mediation Board to examine the strike ballots and make its recommendation to President Coolidge. The Board however, apparently permitted the opinion, expressed by the Pullman management that "There is no emergency" to influence it against making its recommendation for an Emergency Board. The Board had previously recommended the establishment of an Emergency Board in the case of only 600 white employees of the Kansas, Mexico and Orient Railroads.

With the Mediation Board's regrettable failure to function with equal dispatch in the interest of Negro Pullman Porters and Maids, the Brotherhood was prepared definitely to interrupt transportation by calling upon all porters and maids to strike Friday, June 8th, at noon. At this point, Wm. Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, telegraphed the officers of the Brotherhood "to postpone the strike until a campaign of education and public enlightenment regarding the justice of their case and the seriousness of their grievances could be organized which would win for them public support and the backing of organized labor." THE PORTERS ARE AT THIS STAGE IN THEIR STRUGGLE.

Having exhausted every reasonable, legal and honorable means peacefully and amicably to settle their grievances with the Pullman Company, and being reluctant to resort to a strike which would work immeasurable hardship and inconvenience upon their best friends, the travelling public, whose generosity alone has enabled the porters and maids to exist for well-nigh sixty years, they now rest their case before the bar of public opinion with the utmost faith in the justice of their case and the friendship and interest of their fellow citizens of all races, creeds and colors.

THE BOSTON CITIZENS' COMMITTEE

Chairman.....SIDNEY LOVETT
Vice-Chairman.....EDGAR P. BENJAMIN
Secretary.....ROLFE COBLEIGH
Treasurer.....ALBERT SPRAGUE COOLIDGE

Publicity Committee

Mrs. Hannah Hume Lee, Chairman
Alfred Baker Lewis
Ben. Gerig
Mrs. Alice D. Crawford
Rev. Herbert D. Greene

Finance Committee

Rev. C. A. Ward, Chairman
George E. Roewer
Mrs. Lois B. Rantoul
Mrs. George W. Coleman

Meetings

Rev. George L. Paine, Chairman
Pres. Mary E. Woolley
David K. Niles
Charles F. Weller
Clarence R. Skinner
Rev. W. L. Clayton

Rabbi Samuel J. Abrams
Mr. S. A. Allen
Miss Carolyn E. Alling
Mrs. Gertrude Anthony
Mr. Joseph Bearak
Mr. Edgar Benjamin
Miss Alice Stone Blackwell
Miss Louise Brooks
Mr. E. B. Barco
Mr. W. W. Bryant
Mrs. Walter Barrell
Mr. Rolfe Cobleigh
Mrs. E. A. Codman
Mr. Albert S. Coolidge
Mrs. Alice D. Crawford
Mr. David Crawford
Rev. Wolcott Cutler
Mrs. George W. Coleman
Rev. W. L. Clayton
Dr. O. J. Derritt
Mrs. Elizabeth G. Evans
Mr. John H. Fahey
Mr. Robert Fechner
Prof. Felix Frankfurter
Mrs. A. H. Fitz-Allen
Mr. G. H. P. Ganaway
Mr. Ben. Gerig
Mr. Eugene Gordon

BULLETIN

"Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free"

STOOL PIGEONS

Stool pigeons are variously known as spies, company men, confidence, under-cover and shake-down, men.

Their nefarious trade consists in snooping around Pullman porters and maids velvet-footedly, gathering private, personal material given confidentially and innocently, with a view to placing such information into the hands of the Pullman Company.

Sometimes, the company agent, with a suave, oily and hypocritical tongue, pretends not to be opposed to the Brotherhood in order to worm himself into the confidence of the strong Brotherhood men.

There are black and white stool pigeons whose notorious and vile business is to frame-up black and white employees suspected of union leanings in order to break their morale.

Thousands of dollars are wastefully expended for stool-pigeons service which well might be used to help increase the low wages of employees which is the reason for the unrest, stool-pigeons are hired to spy on and remove.

A few men whose jobs require them to do the dirty work of stool-pigeons, mean well. They don't like to injure the Brotherhood, but they are, by the very nature of their work, compelled to live the life of a lie. It is possible for a strong man, however, even employed as a company-agent, not to permit his manhood to be shamelessly compromised as is the case with most Negro Pullman officials, who play the role of Judases to their own race and Annaniases to the Pullman Company, all for $150 or more a month.

Perhaps the lowest, meanest, foulest, the most reprehensible trick which one man can practice upon another is to permit himself to be used to lie on that man and cause him to lose his job which enables him to buy food, clothing and shelter for his wife and children. And Negroes oppressed as they are by every other race, who will commit this unpardonable sin against other Negroes for white men cannot be painted in vile enough terms. History will set them down as the sinister pirates of the race who sought, with vicious underhand methods, to stab the greatest manhood movement of their race to death, as parasites who feed upon the filthy lucre and the ill-gotten gain of those who would arrest the Negroes' progress.

A stool-pigeon is so detestable that no living man will admit that he is one, realizing that his own children would learn and grow to hate and despise him, that his neighbors would shun him. He is ashamed of himself and distrusted by the Company. It stands to reason that the Pullman Company will not trust a Negro official whom it can hire to lie or oppose a movement for the betterment of his own race. Nor do the Negro stool pigeons trust the Company, for they realize that the Company cannot in reason, honestly trust them, that they will eventually be discarded and pitched upon the scrap-heap of useless Pullman derelicts. When two parties are engaged in the conducting of affairs that will not bear public inspection neither cannot and will not trust each other, it is because each realizes that he is not doing unto his fellowman as he wishes his fellowman to do unto him.

The only reason that the Pullman Company hires Negro stool-pigeons is that they have successfully fooled the Company into believing that they can break up the Brotherhood. They boastfully tell the Company that the men won't stick, that Negroes haven't the back-bone to go through with such a big undertaking, that they won't pay their dues as white union railroad workers do. Of course, this is just what the Company wants to hear. The Company has not yet realized the necessity and value of knowing the TRUTH and the stool-pigeons are afraid to tell it the truth, fearing less they be fired. The Brotherhood, not the selfish, cowardly, ignorant stool-pigeons, will be found by the Pullman Company to be the very best asset it can have in maintaining the highest standard of service.

Next meeting Tuesday, January 11th at St. Luke's Hall, 125 West 130th Street.

Faithfully yours,

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, Special Organizer.

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS, 2311 Seventh Avenue, New York City

Extra!! BULLETIN Extra!!

MEDIATOR MORROW BEGINS INVESTIGATION OF BROTHERHOOD'S CASE

Vol. I "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free" No. 12

Dear Brethren:

Let us rejoice and be exceedingly glad. We have reached another mile-post. We have won another victory. Doubting Thomases have been routed again. Sceptics have been beaten. Judases have been put to flight, and our harvest of triumph has just begun.

On the 3rd of May, Hon. Edwin P. Morrow, member U. S. Board of Mediation, assigned to handle the Brotherhood case, telephoned the Brotherhood's office from the Waldorf Astoria Hotel that he had arrived to institute the hearing on our case. On Thursday, May 4th at 2:55 p. m. he stepped into 2311 Seventh Avenue, the National headquarters of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and began the investigation. Stick a pin here. This is not a dream or a wish, it's a fact.

Now our negotiations will take time and they must be backed with your money and moral might. It is not enough to say that I am with the boys. The question now is: what are you going to do to help the boys fight? What are you doing to help the boys pay for their fight? Let us be men, red-blooded, he-men, who are not content to shelter ourselves from a storm in a building we were too cowardly to help build.

But how can you help to build the Brotherhood which will protect you from the storms of adversity? You can help by paying up your dues in full or as much as you can today without delay. You can help by paying your assessment or a part of it today without delay.

The Pullman Company has millions to carry on its fight and you must sacrifice, if necessary, to pay for your fight which means your salvation.

Your organization is costing you less to put it over than any other railroad union in the history of organized labor. The fight of other unions cost them hundreds of thousands of dollars, yes, millions. But justice and freedom are sweet at any price. But it is never given to anyone. It must be paid for.

Thus, you must realize that your fight will cost you money, plenty money, which you alone must supply since you alone will enjoy the fruits of your fight together with your family and your race.

Remember, brethren, that the eyes of the race are watching you. The eyes of the white world are watching you. The eyes of the organized labor are watching you. The eyes of the Pullman Company are on you. The public believes in your cause. Do you believe in it? The Pullman Company realizes that you can win if you fight on and faint not. Do you realize it? The Company knows you have got them licked. They are watching now to see whether you are worthy of the victory you are winning, the power you are building, the respect you are receiving.

Let us show by precept and example that we don't only want to win more wages and better working conditions, but that we are just as much interested in maintaining a high standard of service as the Pullman Company is.

Let us prove that we too are interested in economies for the benefit of the Company. Let us prove that we are ready and able to serve and protect the Company's property. Let us prove that Brotherhood men are upstanding, honest, honorable, industrious, manly, courteous and efficient, that a union porter is worth much more to the Company than an irresponsible scab porter, who desires the same things Brotherhood men desire, but who hasn't the heart, the guts, the manhood to stand up and fight for their rights like men.

Again brethren, remember that a quitter never wins and a winner never quits, and that he who would be free must himself first strike the blow. Your fight proves these statements to be true.

Think, brethren, what it means to have built an organization which cannot be bought by all the millions in America! It means everything! Away with the Shannon Bunk—It is bought and paid for by Pullman gold.

Yes, stony the road we trod, bitter the chastening rod, but by the help of God and solidarity we shall march on till victory is won.

Your faithful servant,

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH,
General Organizer.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

2311 Seventh Avenue New York City

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

4231 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

QUESTIONNAIRE ON HOURS

Line No. _____

Between _____ and _____ Report for duty _____ M. Leave _____

Arrive _____ M. _____ Day

Relieved from duty _____ M.

Number of hours on duty before train leaves _____

Returning:

Report for duty _____ M. Leave _____ M.

Arrive _____ M. _____ Day

Relived from duty _____ M.

Number of hours on duty before train leaves _____

Total number of hours on duty during trip _____

Total number of trips per month _____

Total number of hours per month _____

Name _____

Address _____ District 7M

BULLETIN

PULLMAN REPRISALS FAIL TO HALT BROTHERHOOD

"Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall set you free"

The Brotherhood grows STRONGER daily. The Pullman Company realizes that it is a real factor now. It has long since CEASED PRETENDING TO IGNORE IT.

When it was called upon by Hon. Edwin P. Morrow and T. E. Bickers, mediators of the U. S. Mediation Board to show why the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters should not represent the porters and maids in the negotiation of an agreement on wages and rules governing working conditions, it vividly and forcibly dawned upon the Company that the Brotherhood is no DREAM but a reality. It realizes that the Brotherhood means serious business, that it is no fly-by-night affair, but that it is here to stay and the Pullman Company must deal with it. There is no other way out. Why? Because the Brotherhood represents POWER and no corporation can ignore the power of organized workers, be they white or black, grizzly or gray.

But, of course, the Pullman Company just as any other company will hold out against recognizing the union as long as it possibly can. The railroad companies tried to hold out against the standard railroad unions as long as they could, but failed and had to KICK IN. The Pullman Company will be compelled to kick in, too. It is completely and beautifully LICKED, and it knows it too well. Unfortunately some of the weak, timid porters don't realize it. But they will too. Every porter now cut out of the Brotherhood will be compelled to kick in and like it too.

Since our preliminary hearing with the U. S. Mediation Board, the HARD TO BE CONVINCED, HARD-BOILED porters whose minds have been poisoned by Pullman propaganda that the Pullman Company is the porter's best friend, are falling in rapidly. They are at last awakening to the fact that the porters, WHEN ORGANIZED, ARE THEIR OWN BEST FRIEND.

In desperation the Company is trying to stave off the inevitable, namely recognition of the Brotherhood by imposing drastic penalties upon some porters who are suspected of being Brotherhood men, and especially if they did not vote for the "Company Union." This will be duly and carefully handled with the Mediation Board.

Upon flimsy and unreasonable grounds, a porter is vicitimized, in order to break the spirit of the men and frighten them away from the Brotherhood. That this policy of reprisals is unfair and un-American, is shown by the fact that the Company will not admit that it has fired a porter because of his union affiliations. It knows that the public would not stand for it. It gives a blanket reason of unsatisfactory service, which may mean anything.

But be it said to the eternal credit of the NEW NEGRO SPIRIT, reprisals or no reprisals, penalties or no penalties, the Brotherhood WILL WIN. IT CANNOT LOSE. TRUTH AND JUSTICE ARE ON ITS SIDE, AND IT HAS POWER, AND IS REPRESENTED BY SOME OF THE BEST LEGAL BRAINS IN AMERICA. Citizens Committees of One Hundred prominent white and colored public spirited persons are being formed all over the country to back our fight. The company cannot long continue to resist this mighty force. It will realize it is not good business.

Every Brotherhood man must pay his dues and assessments and get the slackers to join our ranks. They must and will join.

Beware, however, of ONE Freeman who has been running extra on the Century. He is one of the "Big House" Negroes. He can't be trusted. Beware too of one W. P. Smith, porter instructor of St. Louis. He is also a "Big House" Negro. He is the slave of Burr and Kouples. You can't trust him. Think of a negro, carrying news to white men in order to cause a member of his own race to lose his job!

There are a number of stool-pigeons masquerading as porters whom you cannot trust, too. Our agency is getting the LOW-DOWN on them and I will call them by name so you may avoid them just so soon as we hear of one trying to frame a Brotherhood man.

We propose to turn the search light of publicity upon every crooked Negro in the country who tries to hamstring the Brotherhood. Remember that Brotherhood men are bound by a sacred oath to be honest, honorable, efficient and industrious. We must give 100 per cent service. We must not refuse to DOUBLE when required so as to avoid complaints.

And remember that a QUITTER NEVER WINS AND A WINNER NEVER QUITS. Stand on this principle and you will teach the Pullman Company a lesson it will never forget and compel it to respect you and your race as it has never done before. Long Live the Brotherhood.

Your faithful servant,

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH,
General Organizer

THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

2311 Seventh Avenue New York City

1927

Pullman Porters' Fight for Freedom

THE CASE OF THE PULLMAN PORTERS' UNION against
THE PULLMAN COMPANY

To the Public, Porters and Maids and the Pullman Company:

On July 11, representatives of the Brotherhood were advised by Edwin P. Morrow, member of the United States Mediation Board, to come to Chicago to proceed with mediation of the dispute between the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman Company.

Mediation has gone on from that time until August 9, whereupon Mr. Morrow advised the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman Company that his efforts at mediation were unsuccessful and then attempted to induce the parties to the dispute to submit said dispute to arbitration. The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters agreed to submit dispute to arbitration, but the Pullman Company refused to submit dispute to arbitration.

During mediation

The Brotherhood contended:

That it represented the Pullman porters and maids because it had a majority of the Pullman porters as members.

The Company contended:

That the Employee Representation Plan represented the Pullman porters and maids, because 85 per cent of them had voted for the Plan in the last election, November, 1926.

The Brotherhood replied:

That the porters and maids voted for the Plan under intimidation, interference and coercion, it offered in evidence 1,000 affidavits, proving its contention.

The Company contended:

That it had a contract with its employees through the Employee Representation Plan or Company Union.

The Brotherhood contended:

That said contract was null and void because it was signed under intimidation and coercion by alleged representatives of porters who were selected under intimidation and coercion by the Pullman Company.

The Brotherhood characterized the contract with a contract which is signed by a man at the point of a revolver, in which event, there is no meeting of minds to the contract nor are the parties free agents to express their desires relative to the nature, form and content of contract.

The Brotherhood further contended:

That the Employee Representation Plan has no lawful standing under the new Railway Labor Act, since it is Company organized and Company controlled, whereas the Railway Labor Act provides for the self-organization of employees and the selection and designation of representatives without coercion, influence and interference.

The Company's refusal to arbitrate is based upon their claim that:

There is no dispute, although the United States Mediation Board says there is.

The Brotherhood also contended:

That granting that there was a contract between the Company and the employees through the Plan, the employees have a right to change that contract when they so desire by giving due notice to the Company. Even the plan provides for a change in the contract, after giving 30 days notice.

If there is no dispute the Board of Arbitration would so declare it, if there is a dispute it would declare that a dispute existed and arbitrate same, in either event, the Company is bound by the spirit and intent of the law to submit the question to arbitration and abide by the decision.

Alfred P. Thom and Donald R. Richberg, counsels for the Association of Railway executives and the Standard Railway Unions, respectively, who agreed upon this legislation, maintain that when mediation fails the parties to the dispute are bound to submit same to arbitration. The Western Railway Managers, in the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen's case, took the position that arbitration should follow mediation.

All other railroad companies have submitted to the law and gone to arbitration when mediation failed, except the Pullman Company.

Is the Pullman Company Above the Law?

This question naturally arises, in view of the Company's amazing defiance of the U. S. Mediation Board's recommendation that it arbitrate the dispute with the Porter's Union. In order that all of the facts relative to this matter may be clearly set forth to the Pullman porters, the public and the Pullman Company, I am, herewith, presenting the letters which were exchanged between the Mediation Board, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman Company on the question of arbitration, to-wit:

UNITED STATES BOARD OF MEDIATION
Washington

August 9, 1927.

Mr. A. Philip Randolph, General Organizer,
Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters,
Chicago, Illinois.
Dear Sir:

You are advised that my efforts to bring about an amicable adjustment through mediation of the dispute between the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman Company have been unsuccessful.

It being my duty under the Railway Labor Act to endeavor to induce the parties to this controversy to submit the same to arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the law, you are therefore requested to promptly advise your wishes concerning arbitration.

Yours very truly,
EDWIN P, MORROW,
Member, Board of Mediation.

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
Chicago Division—224 E. Pershing Road

August 10, 1927.

Honorable Edwin P. Morrow,
U. S. Mediation Board,
Congress Hotel,
Chicago, Illinois.
Dear Sir:

In response to your letter of the 9th inst., in which you advise me that your efforts to bring about an amicable adjustment through mediation of the dispute between the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman Company have been unsuccessful, and in answer to your question as to our wishes concerning arbitration, you are herewith advised that it is the desire of this Organization to submit our dispute with the Pullman Company to the determination of a board of arbitration who can and will hear the entire matter and settle the same under the terms and provisions of the Railway Labor Act.

We, therefore, respectfully request that you urge the Pullman Company to join with us in submitting the dispute to arbitration.

Sincerely yours,
A. PHILIP RANDOLPH,
General Organizer,
Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

UNITED STATES BOARD OF MEDIATION
Washington

Chicago, Illinois,
August 10, 1927.

The Pullman Company,
Chicago, Illinois.
Gentlemen:

In connection with the dispute between the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman Company as to the right of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters to represent porters and maids in the employ of the Pullman Company, you are advised that my efforts to bring about an amicable adjustment of this dispute through mediation have been unsuccessful.

It being my duty, under the Railway Labor Act, to endeavor to induce both parties to this controversy to submit the same to arbitration, in accordance with the provision of said law, you are requested to advise me of your wishes concerning arbitration.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in a letter of August 9, addressed to me (copy of which is hereto attached), expressed their willingness and desire to submit this controversy to arbitration, and have requested me to urge you to join in such a submission, I therefore respectfully request that you join in such a submission to the end that this controversy may be settled by arbitration, under the provisions of the Railway Labor Act.

Most sincerely,
EDWIN P, MORROW,
Member U. S. Board of Mediation.

THE PULLMAN COMPANY
Office of Vice-President and General Manager

Chicago, August 12, 1927.

Hon. Edwin P. Morrow,
Member U. S. Board of Mediation,
Chicago, Illinois.
My dear sir:

In reply to your letter of the 10th instant, advising me that your efforts to bring about an adjustment, through mediation, of an alleged dispute between the Pullman Company and the persons designated in your letter as the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters as to the right of such persons to represent porters and maids in the employ of the Pullman Company, have been unsuccessful, and in which letter you state:

> "It being my duty, under the Railway Labor Act, to endeavor to induce both parties to this controversy to submit the same to arbitration, in accordance with the provisions of said law, you are requested to advise me of your wishes concerning arbitration."

Permit me to quote my letter of June 21, 1927, to the United States Board of Mediation, as follows:

"June 21, 1927.

"To the Honorable
United States Board of Mediation,
Washington, D. C.
"Gentlemen:

"In further reply to your letter of October 20, stating that the Board of Mediation has received a communication from certain persons designated as a Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, alleging

> 'that a dispute existed with your company regarding their failure to obtain conference with the representatives of the Pullman Company for the purpose of effecting an agreement concerning rates of pay, rules and working conditions, in behalf of the employees they represent,'

"and in which letter you say:

'The board will be glad to receive any comment you care to make regarding this assertion and any other helpful information you may wish to provide.'

"I desire to advise you that when the Railway Labor Act was passed, under the provisions of which your honorable board came into existence, there was in effect; and now is in operation, an agreement between the Pullman Company and its porters and maids. This agreement fully meets all the requirements of the law and both parties are maintaining and complying with its provisions. It was negotiated on behalf of the employees by their elected representatives in conference with representatives of the Company, and both the Company and its employes have done and are now doing everything which the Railway Labor Act contemplates and requires. A board of adjustment composed of an equal number of representatives of employees and the management has also been established, and all questions arising are being adjusted harmoniously and effectively.

"No dispute, and therefore no situation requiring mediation, exists between the Pullman Company and its employees of the classes mentioned. Should any dispute arise, the agreement referred to provides ample machinery for conference and settlement. Under this agreement the rights of the employees are safeguarded, and the high standard of service which the Company is obligated to furnish to its patrons, the traveling public, is being promoted and protected.

"In these circumstances, and because of the existence of the agreement above referred to, the Company cannot properly confer with the persons mentioned in your letter.

"(Signed) L. S. HUNGERFORD."

The agreement referred to is in effect, is binding upon both parties, and it is being adhered to and maintained by both parties. It seems clear, therefore, that the Company cannot properly depart from its provisions or adopt other methods of dealing with its employees of the classes named which are not in consonance with its terms.

There has been no change in the situation since my letter of June 21st. As no dispute existed at that time which required mediation and the status not having changed, it follows that there is now no dispute and therefore no cause for arbitration.

Yours very truly,

L. S. HUNGERFORD.

UNITED STATES BOARD OF MEDIATION
Washington

Chicago, Illinois,
August 12, 1927.

The Pullman Company,
Chicago, Illinois.
The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters,
New York City.
Gentlemen:

On August 9th and 10th I advised you that my efforts to bring about an amicable adjustment through mediation of the controversy existing between you had been unsuccessful.

In compliance with the law, I endeavored, through letters of said dates, to induce both of you to submit your controversy to arbitration.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, on August 10th, signified in a letter to me its willingness and desire to submit the controversy to arbitration.

The Pullman Company, in response to my letter of August 10th, requesting that it join the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in arbitration of the said controversy, advised me on August 12th, that its position in the matter was that no dispute existed and, therefore, there was no cause for arbitration.

You are, therefore, advised that my final required action, to-wit: to induce the parties hereto to submit their controversy to arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the Railway Labor Act have been unsuccessful.

Copies of the official correspondence, i.e., my letters to the parties requesting arbitration and the response of both parties thereto, are made a part hereof.

Yours,

EDWIN P. MORROW,
Member U. S. Mediation Board.

DONALD R. RICHBERG
Lawyer

August 15, 1927.

Mr. A. Philip Randolph,
General Organizer,
Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters,
New York City.

Dear Mr. Randolph:

The letter of August 12th from Mr. L. S. Hungerford, General Manager of the Pullman Company, to Mr. Edwin P. Morrow, member of the United States Board of Mediation, invites a few comments:

1. Mr. Hungerford asserts that the Pullman Company has an agreement at present with some of its porters and maids and therefore he asserts that the Company has no dispute with any of its porters and maids which is subject to mediation or arbitration.

As I explained in my letter of January 20th, the Pullman Company has no agreement with any of its porters and maids complying with the law. Employees of the Pullman Company are not bound by any agreement except one made by representatives designated and authorized to act for them without interference, influence or coercion exercised by the Company.

2. Mr. Hungerford asserts that no dispute exists between the Pullman Company and its employees.

The United States Board of Mediation, after extended investigation, determined that a dispute did exist. Mr. Morrow's letter of August 12th, addressed jointly to the Pullman Company and the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters refers frequently to the controversy existing between the Company and the Brotherhood, reports that the Brotherhood has agreed "to submit the controversy to arbitration" and states that his effort to induce the Company likewise to submit the controversy to arbitration has been unsuccessful. The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, representing a majority of the porters employed by the Pullman Company, has asked the Company for a conference to which the representatives of the employees are entitled under the law. The Company refuses to confer. The employees ask for the services of the United States Board of Mediation. The Board of Mediation investigates and ascertains that the Brotherhood represents a majority of the employees and is entitled to a conference and that a conference having been refused, a dispute exists, which the Mediator being unable to settle, requests the parties to arbitrate.

In the face of all these facts the General Manager of the Pullman Company blandly asserts that there is no dispute and no cause for arbitration. The position of the Pullman Company is simply that it will not comply with the law and will not confer with the duly designated and authorized representatives of the employees.

3. Mr. Hungerford asserts that there is an agreement in effect which is binding upon the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, although no such agreement exists.

4. Mr. Hungerford asserts that the Company has no dispute with the Brotherhood although the United States Board of Mediation has found there is an existing dispute which should be settled either through mediation or arbitration.

a fair trial of strength, has confessed its weakness and retired from the field of arbitration provided by the Railway Labor Act. As soon as you have developed the program now in preparation I think the Company will find itself compelled to meet the Brotherhood in another field of controversy far more unfavorable to the Company than the field of arbitration from which it has run away.

Very truly yours,

DONALD R. RICHBERG.

DRR:LH

The foregoing letters clearly show that the position of the Pullman Company is indefensible, untenable, definitely un-American and un-democratic. The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters desires a settlement of this dispute through peaceful arbitration. The Pullman Company has ignored the law enacted by Congress and signed by President Coolidge and committed itself to the principle of brute force. The Brotherhood shall now envoke the last remedy of the New Railway Labor Act, namely, the Emergency Board.

Instead of weakening the Brotherhood, the Pullman Company's intolerant and unreasonable attitude has strengthened its position before the bar of public opinion.

It is a notorious fact that the Company is now arbitrating the case of the Pullman conductors—why does it refuse to arbitrate the case with its Pullman porters? Is there any reasonable grounds for this flagrant discrimination? Can the Pullman Company, a public utility, flout the law of the land with impunity? Is the will of the Pullman Company above the will of the people as expressed in Federal legislation. The ing all principles of sanity and reason to prom[illegible] industrial peace and equity. Its attitude is an open admission of the utter weakness of its case, for all of its contentions, if true, would be upheld by a board of arbitration; if not true, they would be set aside, in which event, the Company should not feel aggrieved.

The demands of the Brotherhood are for a minimum wage of $150.00, as against the present wage of $72.00 a month and the degrading tipping system; 240 hour work-month instead of nearly 400 hours of work monthly on the 11,000 mileage basis, and recognition as a bona fide union to negotiate agreements on wages and working conditions.

Pullman porters all over the country have shown hot resentment to this master and slave relationship which the Pullman Company wants to maintain. They want to be self-respecting citizens, industrious, respectable, courteous, honest and efficient employees, but the Pullman Company wants them to remain beggars and serfs. The Pullman porters are determined that this shall not be and they feel that the American people are with them in their fight.

Respectfully,

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH,

General Organizer.

Issued by the

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

2311 7th Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Issued at

CHICAGO DIVISION

224 E. Pershing Road, Chicago, Ill.

M. P. Webster, Chicago Division Organizer

Reprinted from The Light and Heebie Jeebies, March 26, 1927

A Message from a

PORTER to PORTERS

By GEORGE C. SHANNON
Member Bureau of Industrial Relations

It has always been my purpose to state and deal with facts and not fiction; therefore, I propose to set forth in this article the actual conditions of the Pullman porter in his relationship both to the Pullman Company and the public. Some porters think that I am inclined to accept the conditions under which we work without trying to improve them, simply because they were put into effect by the management of the Pullman Company—this is entirely erroneous.

The records of the U. S. Board of Railroad Wages and Working Conditions and of the Great Northern Railroad and the Pullman Company, will show that I was one of the very first of our group to take an interest and an active part in the effort made during the period of Federal control to increase the wages and improve the working conditions of the sleeping car porters, and that I appeared before the U. S. Board of Railroad Wages and Working Conditions in Washington for that purpose.

The records of the U. S. R. R. Labor Board will show that I presented before that board the last case that was appealed to them in behalf of the sleeping car porters.

I am just as conscientiously concerned now as I was then about the affairs of this group and just as keenly alert to promote the cause of my fellow porters and the welfare of our race, but I want to go about it in the practical way, which history and experience have shown to be the most productive of results.

Those of us who were working in behalf of the sleeping car porters during the period when our matters came under the jurisdiction of the U. S. Board of Railroad Wages and Working Conditions, and later under the jurisdiction of the U. S. R. R. Labor Board, were anxious to obtain some form of recognition of the principle of collective bargaining for our group by the Pullman Company. This recognition was granted two years after the war closed, under the Plan of Employe Representation, which gives us the right to elect by secret ballot from among ourselves representatives of our choice who will represent us on the local and gener[illegible]mittees, and also on the Bureau of Indust[illegible]tions, the court of last resort in the ad[illegible] and settlement of grievances or disputes.

Under this plan we have also exercised [illegible] of selecting from among our own number[illegible] special secret ballot, delegates to represe[illegible] negotiating to improve wages and working co[illegible]tions by collective bargaining through conferences with representatives of the management.

So we have achieved our purpose of obtaining recognition of our group and of establishing our right to collective bargaining, and we have accomplished this through the Plan of Employe Representation without disrupting friendly and co-operative relations between the company and its employes; thus solving the greatest problem with which the Negroes employed by the Pullman Company were confronted.

Our first applications for a general conference to negotiate revisions of wage rates and working conditions were made in December, 1923. As a result of these petitions, the management increased our

(Over)

The Truth About

THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

When Organized

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters was organized August 25th, 1925, New York City, N. Y.

Who Organized It

As a result of a speech by the writer at the Pullman Porters' Athletic Association, the porters of New York were aroused. Immediately thereafter, Mr. W. H. DesVerney interviewed the writer on the matter of organizing the porters. He called a meeting at his home at which Messrs. Roy Lancaster (at the time, recently discharged), A. L. Totten and the writer, were present. The question of organization was discussed and the grievances of the porters told the writer. Upon the facts received in that conference, an article was written in the Messenger Magazine on the case of the Pullman porter. It stirred the porters throughout the country. It was followed up with another article, more comprehensive.

Why the General Organizer Was Elected

First, because he was generally known as a consistent advocate of the cause of labor; second, because he was not a Pullman porter and consequently had nothing to fear from the Pullman Company. It is a matter of common knowledge that porters have been fired who were merely suspected of being active in organization work. Third, because he was the editor of a publication which could be used to spread the propaganda in the interest of organization; fourth, because he was known as being fearless and independent.

The right of employees to select any one they desire to represent them whether working for their employer or not, is recognized by the United States Railroad Labor Board in decision No. 218, Docket 404. It reads: "The Labor Board also holds that the employees may vote for representatives who are not employees of the carrier, if they so desire, just as the carrier may select a representative who is neither a director or a stockholder."

Why Organized — Wages

1. To get a living wage.
   (a) The present wage is $67.50 a month. It is graduated upward over a period of 20 to 30 years to $90.00.

Preparatory Time

2. Pay for preparatory time.
   (a) By preparatory time is meant time spent in making ready the car and receiving passengers before the departure of the train.
   (b) Example: A porter leaving New York at 12:30 midnight for Washington, D. C., reports for duty at 7:30 P. M. Although he works five (5) hours for the Company preparing the car to depart, his time does not begin until the train leaves the terminal station. Upon a basis of his monthly wage of $67.50 he receives 25 cents an hour. Thus five hours spent in preparatory time represent $1.25, which the Company deprives the porter of every time he makes this trip. A porter on this run makes the trip twelve times a month, which means that he enriches the Company at his expense to the extent of $15.00. Over a period of a year, this represents a loss of $180. This is quite an item to a worker whose yearly wage is only $810, or, according to the United States Department of Labor, $1,278 below the income which is required of the average family in order to live according to a decent American standard. A porter running out of Omaha, reported for duty at 3 P. M. and worked until 2:30 A. M. the next morning before his train departed or his time or wages began. When it is considered that this is being done by thousands of porters throughout the country, it is easy to estimate what a great profit the company derives out of this practice.
3. Conductor's pay for conductor's work.
   (a) There are what is known as "in charge" porters or porters who do conductor's work and porter's too. "In charge" porters are in complete charge of the car. They do the same clerical work of a regular conductor. But they only receive $10.00 additional pay for said work. Therefore, on each "in charge" porter, the Company saves $145 a month, since the minimum conductor's pay is $155 a month. The rule is that when a porter has two cars, he should get the minimum conductor's' pay, but the custom is that when there are two cars to be handled, a conductor is there to take charge. The conductor's union protects them to this extent. There are several thousand "in charge" porters in the service. But estimating on only one thousand, it is clear what a great advantage the Company reaps by paying them only $10.00 additional instead of the minimum conductor's pay of $155. On one thousand such porters, the Company saves $145,000 every month or $1,740,000 every year.

Hours — Delayed Arrivals

4. Pay for delayed arrivals.
   (a) At present the average porter's train may be late several hours every trip during the month, but he receives no pay for hours spent on duty beyond his regular scheduled hour's run because the hours he is late are required to be put in his accumulated mileage column and since he must make 11,000 miles or nearly 400 hours each month, he makes no overtime by being late.
   (b) Example: A porter is running on parlor car from New York to Washington, D. C. The porter makes 13 round trips or 26 trips per month. The mileage from New York to Washington is 227 miles or 454 miles for a round trip. Now 13 round trip times the round trip mileage of 454 equals 5,902 miles.

   The minimum mileage required for a porter to make a month for $67.50 before over-time is paid is 11,000 miles.

The specified lay-over is from the time the train is due to arrive to the time the train is due out.

The rule reads: Road service performed on specified lay-over to be paid as doubles at 60 cents per 100 miles.

The porter running to Washington is due to arrive at 6 P. M. who arrives at 9 P. M. must put late arrival of three hours in accumulated mileage column. If he is three hours late at New York and Washington each trip during the month, he will be late 78 hours. Now 78 hours times 30 miles, the mileage hour rate of the train will equal 2,340 miles. Add 2,340 to 5,902, the mileage between New York and Washington, a porter makes during a month, and it totals 8,242 miles. Subtract 8,242 from 11,000, the minimum mileage a porter is required to make and the remainder is 2,758 miles, the porter is yet required to make before he is paid overtime.

(c) The Brotherhood demands 240 hours or less in regular assignment as the basis of the porter's monthly wage. This provision will regulate preparatory time, station duty and delayed arrivals.

The Pullman conductors have the 240 hour month.

Doubling

5. Doubling is injurious to the health of the porter. Doubling means leaving for another point immediately after the porter's arrival off a run, however long. It is injurious to his health. It throws a regular porter out of line and he earns less.

(a) Example: A porter operating a line car between New York and Chicago. From the 1st of October to the 25th, he makes five trips with lay-over period which expires on the 25th day. At the rate of $67.50 per month, he earns $56.25. It happens, however, that on his arrival at New York, on the night of the 23rd, he is required to double out to Boston on the night of the 24th, and consequently is not able to cover his run on the 25th day.

By doubling to Boston, he is placed on the mileage basis and only earns $1.44, which is less than his day's pay or 60 cents times 240. He returns from Boston in service on the night of the 25th, and arrives in New York on the morning of the 26th, and earns another day's pay of $2.25 which expires on the night of the 27th.

He is now out of line, and has to lay around until the 30th, when his line is due out without pay. He then leaves New York on the 30th and arrives in Chicago on the 31st and earns $2.25, another day's pay. His total month's wages by doubling equals $64.44. $56.25 is the pay received for time put in from October 1st to 25th, $1.44 is amount received for doubling to Boston, and $6.75 for three days put in thereafter at $2.25.

Now if he did a full month's work in regular line, he would earn $67.50. But by doubling he only gets $64.44 or $3.04 less than his monthly wages. By one month's work in regular assignment, he, on a 31 day's month, covers 11,532 miles, an excess of 532 miles over the monthly mileage, a porter is required to make before he is paid for over-time. When 532 miles are multiplied by 60 cents, the rate allowed for excess mileage, one gets $3.18. Thus if the porter had stayed on his regular run, he would have earned $67.50, his monthly wage plus $3.18 pay for excess mileage, or $70.68. By doubling he loses the difference between what he makes, $64.44 and what he would have made if he had not doubled, $70.68 or $6.24.

Porters should receive adequate rest before they are to double out. They should not be required to double out during their lay-overs, except where necessity is very pressing. At present, a porter running from St. Louis or Chicago to New York, is often required to double right out to Boston or to some other point, before he sees his family, gets anything to eat, freshens himself up or changes his clothes. During rush periods such as holidays, he is given bad hot coffee and buns. This is palpably against the health of the porter.

Conditions

6. Sleep.

(a) Example: A porter leaving Boston at 6:10 P. M., en route to Chicago, a run of 23 hours, gets three hours sleep on the run; whereas a Pullman conductor on the same train, gets off at Buffalo, a run of 11 hours, and gets four hours sleep during that run.

(b) Porters are never assured of sleep since they are always subject to a call by the passengers.

(c) No provision is made for the porters sleeping unless supper No. 1 is not taken. If it is taken he must steal naps in the smoking room in the glare of the lights. Nor can he take those naps until every passenger has retired.

(d) Special provision should be made for the sleep of the porters. This could be arranged through a system of relief porters.

Extra Porters

7. Extra porters are not paid if they report for duty and there is no line for them to be sent out on. This is obviously unfair. Extra porters who are required to report at the yard for duty should be paid whether they are sent out or not. They are required to report regularly or be put off the list. An extra porter is one without a regular line.

Regular Porters

8. Regular porters who miss their line as a result of having doubled out, are not paid during the time they are lying around waiting to catch their line. This is unjust. They should be paid for this time spent waiting for their line since they were thrown out of line accommodating the Company.

Example: If a regular porter running from New York to Chicago is doubled out from New York to Atlantic City upon his return from Chicago to New York, his home district, he will miss his line when he returns from Atlantic City to New York. Hence he must lie around for one or two days until his regular line returns. He is not paid during that time. A regular porter is only paid when he reports for duty and is not sent out if he is in a foreign district, that is, not in his home district.

Shoe Polish

9. Porters are required to buy the polish and equipment for shining the passengers' shoes. If he does not shine their shoes, he is given 15 or 30 days on the street, and if he shines them and requests pay for same, he is penalized. Polish and equipment should be supplied by the Company.

Maids

10. Maids don't receive the same lay-overs as porters. Having the same run they are entitled to the same lay-overs.

Lay-Overs

11. Whenever a porter is compelled to report for investigation, he does so on his own time. Facilities should be so provided that a minimum of time is lost, since the lay-overs of the porters are their rest periods, and the time for attending to their personal business.

Deadheading

12. Example: A porter was assigned to a dead-head car, that is to say, a car not in line service. He carried no passengers and had no opportunity to receive tips while en route. When assigned to the car, however, he was told by the clerk that said car was going to some other destination, to return in service. His car was cut off at some station near Rhode Island where there is no Pullman district or agency. He could not plead shortage of funds or refuse the car, because in doing so, he would violate the instructions contained in his rule book and would be subject to immediate dismissal for insubordination of duty.

He was held at this place three days and had no way with which to obtain food or to wire his superintendent. He was hungry, his car was cold, and he felt miserable. The rule says he must remain with his car, but starvation forced him to desert it, hence, he took the first dead-head train back to his district, and reported the condition under which he was made to suffer. The assistant superintendent was indifferent. He took undue advantage of his official capacity to assail him unnecessarily in very harsh terms. The porter was not able to defend himself in a diplomatic way. The effort is to make the porter bow his head, and usually he does.

Finally the porter was required to accept a penalty which must be acknowledged by his own signature. Thirty days suspension was the verdict and this penalty appears against his record, for the rest of his term of service. He refused, and asked permission to see the superintendent or local supervisory officer. The assistant superintendent hastened to the office of the superintendent and presented his side of the dispute. The porter was then called in only to find the superintendent was inclined to uphold the action of his assistant. He explained his case to no avail.

The superintendent recommended his dismissal or suggested that he resign from the service. In the latter case, he refused and was told that he could not go out on the road. Under the Plan of Employee Representation, he has the right to take his case before the Committee on Grievances. But the local officials felt that he had no grievance. They blocked his efforts to adjust his case by means of delay. He went repeatedly to the office only to find it hard to interview them. Weeks passed and he was out of work.

Finally he got a hearing and was permitted to take his case to the Committee on Grievances. He discovered that the same official who was in the first part of the dispute was also a member of the Committee. With him were four others, as against an equal number of porter representatives. The result was dismissal from the service.

Note another concrete instance of how the Employee Representation Plan works against the interests of the porters receiving justice.

The Case of A. L. Totten

The dismissal of Mr. A. L. Totten from the Pullman Service as a porter is one of the latest evidences on the part of the Pullman Company to deal unfair with its employees.

Mr. Totten was an active and able worker on the Employee Representative Plan, and a national character among Pullman porters. He was the only member of the committee in the New York District who sought to make the plan function. His sole ambition was to win at least one case for the porters which would give them faith in the plan.

Wholly because of his determination to seek justice for the men, who always voted for him to represent them on the committee, he was despised by the management and singled out as a dangerous character. The true story which comes from Mr. Totten himself is as follows:

"On the morning of October 1st, a porter was dismissed from the service, and feeling that he was unjustly treated placed his case in my hands, asking that he be given a hearing before the committee on grievances, which is under the plan of employee representation. I asked him to explain his side of the case, and felt that if all he said was true, he should be given the privilege of a fair opportunity to defend himself.

I discovered from the outset an inclination on the part of the chairman of the committee to accuse the porter of being under the influence of whiskey when he applied for his grievance blank, a condition that did not exist at the time. This action on his part stimulated me with great interest to seek justice for the porter who had just been married and was the father of a baby a few weeks old.

I have never felt satisfied with the mode of procedure in these committee meetings, because whenever a case is brought before that body there is always an attempt on the part of the management to withhold the facts, and deny the representatives of the defendant a fair chance to make a thorough investigation of the charges preferred.

When on the morning of Oct. 15th, the committee met I was astonished to learn that the porter was dismissed on the charge of being boisterous at the Pullman porters' House in Chicago and for annoying the older men with his solicitations.

By reason of the fact that the charge as presented was rather weak and without any explanation as to what was meant by the term "solicitations," I took the attitude that the committee could not vote intelligently on it until we had investigated the custodian of the Porter's Home who should have some knowledge of the matter. According to the custom the management moved for the executive session and requested that the porter should leave the room and attempted to discredit him in his absence.

They showed his record card with four minor derelictions and based their contentions on the ground that his services were unsatisfactory. I found that some passenger whose name and address is unknown to the committee had written him up for unsatisfactory service.

The management insists that complaints from passengers be charged up as bad record against porters in absence of solid concrete facts. Another passenger wrote him up for being asleep for half an hour in the afternoon between 4 P. M. and 5 P. M., at a time when there were no beds available for passengers or anyone else for that matter.

He was also charged for smoking on duty, despite the fact that Pullman conductors and service inspectors steal their smoke when on duty. An inspector riding on his car reported that he had seen him wipe the hand rails with a pillow slip.

Home.

Incidentally there were some other matters in connection with the rules governing this plan which I desired to take up with the supervisor and be benefited by his opinion. I desired to carry out this mission without the knowledge of the local officials whom I knew had good reasons to hinder me.

So on Monday, Oct. 19th, I wrote a letter of request to work a car to Chicago, leaving New York on Friday the 23rd, and it was granted me by their assistant superintendent at the yards. Immediately on arrival at Chicago, on the afternoon of the following day, two men grabbed me at the station and demanded that I take a train leaving immediately for New York.

I had worked twenty-three hours on the road and was without proper rest. To return immediately meant further loss of sleep and no opportunity to get a good meal. Besides I had come on a mission which was a matter of concern to the management if there is any honesty of purpose in their Employee Representation Plan. I argued that I was a representative of the plan, and I had the legal right under its ruling to stay and carry out my mission, and therefore questioned the authority of anyone who would thus try to bully me.

After the train had backed up to the yards, they attempted to use force to make me return to New York, denying me even a chance to get a cup of coffee. It was then that I decided to remain on solid ground in the capacity of a representative of the plan of employee representation and not as a porter.

After I had interviewed the persons whom I came to see and obtained the necessary information, I reported for duty and was handed discharge papers for unsatisfactory service."

The Brotherhood Not Backed By Moscow

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is not backed by Moscow, nor has it any communistic connections, sympathies or interests; it is purely a Pullman porters' union, organized, controlled and financed by Pullman porters. The Pullman Company, through its hired agents, has attempted to create public sentiment against the union by falsely saying that it was a Communist proposition. But nobody believes this who either knows the General Organizer or the rank and file.

Negro Government Official Hired By Pullman Company to Oppose the Movement

Mr. Perry W. Howard, Negro Special Assistant to the United States Attorney-General, has been employed by the Pullman Company and is on its payroll for the purpose of preventing the Pullman porters from organizing lawfully to get a living wage. This is obviously a com-

The Brotherhood is receiving the moral support of the American Federation of Labor and the Big Four Brotherhoods. These groups have faithfully sent speakers to the porters' union whenever requested. Such speakers as Mr. Hugh Frayne, representative of the A. F. of L. of New York; John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor; H. E. Wills, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, etc., have rendered great service to the movement.

Other Aims

The Brotherhood aims to develop a higher type of porter and to render cooperation with the management effective in creating more efficient service for the traveling public. It does not counsel insubordination but efficient discipline. It makes mandatory on the part of the members, sobriety, honesty, reliability and industry. It seeks to relieve the porters of the stigma of relying upon the charity of the public, in the form of tips for a living for his wife and children.

The Public

Believing that the principles of the right to organize and the right to a living wage will meet and merit the approval of the American public, and realizing that these principles are sanctioned in both Federal and state statutes, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters have embarked upon the mission of lawfully achieving these ends for the benefit of the porters in particular and the Negro race in general, trusting that the public will stand by them.

Join today; don't delay. You have nothing to fear, nothing to lose, but everything to gain. Be men, stand firm, let us not lose strength or faith or courage or zeal or action. Truth and justice which are mightier than the legions of men are our Captains and we shall not fail.

Faithfully and steadfastly yours,

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH,
General Organizer.

Subscribe for the Messenger

so that you may get it direct through the mails and read about the fight it is making for YOU. Get copies and send to porters you know. Knowledge is power! The truth will set you free!

HEADQUARTERS:
BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
2311 SEVENTH AVENUE
NEW YORK CITY
PHONE: BRADHURST 0454

McAULIFFE & BOOTH, INC. NEW YORK

THE PULLMAN COMPANY

"A leading common stock investment"

BASIC ELEMENTS OF OUR NATIONAL PROSPERITY

It can be safely said of the United States that there has not been in the world's history a nation whose people have been more uniformly happy and more uniformly prosperous nor who enjoyed greater contentment.

It has been said that we are the world's great "materialistic" nation. It has been said that we worship the "almighty dollar" to the extent that we have no time for the finer instincts and the finer arts in our pursuit for material gain.

Yet, anyone who has taken the time to analyze the thoughts, the ambitions and the spirit of the American people will find that our highly developed industrial efficiency is not an end in itself but a means of rendering the greatest possible service, and a means to the end of the widest distribution of those things which add to our comfort and convenience and produce in us all a greater measure of happiness and contentment.

It is not so much our vast and intricate industrial machine as it is this dominating spirit of service which drives the machine which has made us the most prosperous nation in the world's history. If it were necessary, anyone could cite illustration upon illustration in proof of this. Just take a look, for instance, at the General Motors "family."

We are a nation organized and coordinated for service. And, a review of our leading enterprises will show that their leadership is based upon the ability of its management to find new avenues in which to render worth while service, and as a people, we recognize this service and we are glad to pay for it, and we are glad to see prosperous the organization or the individual which renders it.

Our great industrial machine can be resolved for practical purposes into three parts:

(a) the direct service division.
(b) the manufacturing division.
(c) the production division.

PULLMAN

How High Should Pullman Sell?

Pullman primarily falls into the direct service division. Its manufacturing activities are based chiefly upon the requirements associated with the service which the "parlor and sleeping car service" Company renders, contributing what may now be termed an indispensable service in the present state of our economic development.

The Pullman Company has some twenty thousand odd shareholders which represent a little army engaged in rendering a service, striving constantly to improve that service through a management approved by the majority if not by all, and seeking a fair return for the capital employed in rendering this service.

With the constant increase in our population, with the momentum of our prosperity, with the greater facility of travel as well as the growing desire for more comfort in travel, Pullman shareholders are justified in looking forward to a steady increase in the value of their equities.

Why should it be necessary to wade through this background in order to arrive at the question, "How high should Pullman sell?"

It is necessary for the reason that if all the Pullman shareholders were of a speculative bent of mind, just looking for the most logical jumping off point, or anxious to ~~see~~ sell their holdings at the highest price possible, instead of appreciating in value, the weight of liquidation of a supposedly undesirable investment would carry the price of the stock to lower levels instead of giving it an opportunity to establish the market values which basic and other subsidiary conditions might warrant for it.

For it must be remembered that while basic factors are of prime importance, this importance must be reflected through the law of supply and demand which is the principal factor in establishing market values for a security or in determining the public valuation placed upon it.

On the basis of the company factors indicated, it seems most reasonable to form the conclusion that Pullman is entitled and may be expected, other things being equal, to attain a market value of from $40 to $50 per share above the present price for the stock.

Latest Earnings

Pullman reported to the Interstate Commerce Commission a gross revenue for April, 1927, of $6,328,601 against $6,325,735 for April, 1926. Net income after taxes for April (1927) was reported as $690,665 against $169,364 for April, 1926.

For the four months ended April 30, 1927, gross revenues were reported as $26,052,366 against $25,851,614 in the first four months of 1926. Net income after taxes for the four months ended April 30, 1927, were reported as $2,532,286 against $2,253,729 for the same period in 1926.

The company, for the three months ended April 30, 1927, reported net income of $2,591,700, or $1.92 a share on the capital stock. Against this, dividends totaling $2,699,792 were paid. However, these earnings included the earnings of the Pullman Car & Manufacturing Corporation only to the extent of dividends actually received by the Pullman Company.

For the year ended December 1, 1926, Pullman reported net earnings per share of $10.46 against $13.94 per share reported earned in 1925. These earnings also did not include the total earnings of the manufacturing division, the excess of which over dividends paid to the parent company, were equal to $2.83 a share in 1926 and $2.64 a share in 1925, if applied to the stock of the parent company.

Depreciation and Assets

Through the Pullman policy of charging against earnings large amounts for depreciation, the book value of the Pullman assets is far below the actual present day value or the replacement value. The company claims that a fair revaluation of its equipment would add about $55,000,000 to assets and surplus, and with the additional $20,026,600 hidden away in the car manufacturing subsidiary, the Pullman balance sheet surplus would be increased by about $75,000,000. The balance sheet surplus of the Pullman Company as of July 31, 1926, stood at $33,267,296. Thus the intrinsic value of Pullman can be placed very conservatively at around $180 a share.

Pullman long has followed an exceedingly liberal depreciation policy. According to the balance sheet, $86,432,333 of earnings have been charged into the company's equipment depreciation account.

Its cars and equipment valued at $196,841,691 thus have been written down to $110,409,358.

Equipment Valuation

Some idea of how the company consistently has diverted earning power into hidden assets may be gained by comparing cost of new equipment with the book valuation placed upon the old.

The cost per car of 546 new cars added during the fiscal year ended July 31, 1926 was $31,638.

The cost value of the 8,739 cars and equipment as of July 31, 1926 including the above additions made during the fiscal year just closed figures at $22,522 per car.

But, the net value at which these cars and equipment are carried on the balance sheet after deducting depreciation, is placed at the low figure of $12,634 per car.

It is estimated that a fair average value per car would be about $18,916.

Reorganization Plan

Under the reorganization plan, the new company would have not less than 3,375,000 shares of capital stock, two and a half shares of the new being exchangeable for one share of the old.

This plan, in effect, is a segregation of the manufacturing division and other activities not directly connected with the business of operating sleeping and other cars on railroads. This manufacturing company, in turn, is to be the holding company.

The result of this plan simply is to exchange the relationship between the subsidiary and the parent companies. Formerly, Pullman Company, the sleeping car "service" company, was the parent company, and the manufacturing division the subsidiary.

In consequence, the earnings of the manufacturing division had a direct bearing upon the status of the Pullman Company in the questions arising out of rate regulation.

Under the new plan, the parent company as a manufacturing company will not be subject to rate regulation by the Interstate Commerce Commission, but only the subsidiary which will be the sleeping and parlor car operating division will be subject to Interstate Commerce Commission rulings and in the consideration of the earnings of this subsidiary, the manufacturing company's earnings and earnings from other sources cannot militate against the Pullman Company's just endeavor to obtain fair rates for the profitable conduct of its sleeping and parlor car service business.

Probable Results of Reorganization Plan

Pullman stockholders will be, thereafter, stockholders primarily in a manufacturing business. The service division will be a subsidiary to this manufacturing division. On this basis, it would seem that there should be a greater disposition on the part of the management to show the real earning power of the company, especially as it will no doubt be found that the real earning power of the sleeping car business itself, if based upon a fair revaluation of the equipment used in this business and so upon the capital invested is not higher than what is considered a fair rate of earnings on the value of the assets employed in rendering the service which produces these earnings.

Another result will be that the manufacturing division will be able to move around more freely, expand its operations and develop its earning power in as many fields as may be deemed desirable without fear of the possibility that these increased earnings would be used as a pretext to force lower rates for the sleeping car service which the company renders.

In other words, it will be possible for the Pullman shareholder to feel that whatever increased earning power the company management may develop, actually will accrue to the Pullman shareholder and not to the public, who thus would derive a benefit to which it is not entitled, because there is no direct relationship between the earnings of the manufacturing company and a fair return for operating the sleeping and parlor car service.

Future Dividends

Various conjectures have been made as to the probable future dividend policy of the new company. Some reports claim that the new stock will be placed on a $4 dividend basis, the equivalent of $10 a share on the old stock. It would be foolish to hazard a guess as to what the immediate future dividend policy will be.

It does seem reasonable to expect an increase in the present rate, and on the basis of the facts developed above, it will be seen that the foundation now is being laid whereby it will be possible to reflect more adequately the latent earning power of the corporation so that there may well develop a greater earning power and a more liberal dividend policy than heretofore.

To the investor in this enterprise as such, in the true sense of the word, there is indicated a most favorable outlook for his holdings.

To the speculator who is interested in the stock in order to catch a ten or twenty or thirty point move, the only thing that can be said is that his guess is probably as good as anyone else's as to when these moves will develop and to what extent they will carry.

There is always a limit to every move and Pullman, as every other common stock, is subject to certain fluctuations in market value. The investor in a company of this type, with high grade management such as directs Pullman, can well afford to disregard the intermediary price fluctuation in anticipation of the greater returns which may be expected from stock ownership in the enterprise over a period of years.

CAMERON, MICHEL & CO.
Incorporated
8 West 40th Street New York

BULLETIN

Richberg Writes Randolph on Employee Representation Plan

"Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free"

DONALD R. RICHBERG
LAWYER

Associates
LEO J. HASSENAUER
DAVID E. LILIENTHAL

LONDON GUARANTEE BUILDING
360 North Michigan Avenue
CHICAGO
Telephone Central 1311

Mr. A. Philip Randolph,
General Organizer,
Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters,
2311 Seventh Avenue,
New York City.

January 20, 1927.

Dear Mr. Randolph:

You have asked me for an opinion as to whether the porters employed by the Pullman Company can be legally represented, in accordance, with the company's so-called Employee Representative Plan. I will answer briefly that representation through the company's plan does not comply with the law, but is in violation of the law for the following reasons:

The Railway Labor Act makes it the duty of the Pullman Company and its employes to exert every reasonable effort to make and maintain agreements and to settle all disputes through conferences "between representatives designated and authorized so to confer," and then sets forth the only lawful manner in which such representatives can be chosen in this language:

> "Representatives, for the purpose of this Act, shall be designated by the respective parties in such manner as may be provided in their corporate organization or unincorporated association, or by other means of collective action, WITHOUT INTERFERENCE, INFLUENCE, or COERCION exercised by either party over the self-organization or designation of representatives by the other."

It cannot be denied that if the Pullman Company through "interference, influence or coercion" brings about the organization of the employes and the designation of their representatives, the resulting organization and its officers cannot represent the employes under the terms of the law. I understand that it is admitted that the form of organization called the Employee Representation Plan was devised by the Pullman Company. Ample evidence has been presented to me to show that so-called representatives of the porters have been selected at an election brought about by the company, in which employes were influenced and coerced into voting by representatives of the management. Representatives so chosen have no authority whatsoever under the law. They cannot make agreements. They cannot negotiate settlements of disputes that will have any moral or legal force, or be binding upon the employes. Such representatives are not entitled to establish an adjustment board, or to invoke mediation, or to submit a controversy to arbitration.

Let it be understood that if an individual employe, or a group of employes, voluntarily desire to make a contract with their employer, they are at liberty to do so and they can bind THEMSELVES. But representatives who can bind other employes than themselves must be chosen in accordance with the requirements of the law, that is, they must be chosen as the result of the collective action of the employes themselves and not through an organization prepared for the employes by the Pullman Company, in which the porters are induced to participate through the interference, influence or coercion of the management.

It is quite evident from the records which you have shown me that a majority of the employes have voluntarily become members of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and that they are seeking through this organization to designate representatives authorized to act for them, in accordance with the Railway Labor Act. Through this organization these employes of the Pullman Company are seeking to exercise rights secured to them under a federal law—the Railway Labor Act. The Pullman Company is represented in the Association of Railway Executives which joined with the railway labor organizations in drafting this Act and in asking Congress to enact it into law. Therefore, in my opinion, the Pullman Company is morally bound to comply with the law in good faith, to recognize the self-chosen representatives of the employes, and morally bound to cease the effort to compel the porters to accept a company devised plan of representation.

It should also be pointed out that it is a violation of the laws of the United States for persons "to conspire to injure, oppress, threaten or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States, or because of his having so exercised the same." Any mis-guided porters who may be attempting to join with representatives of management in a conspiracy to deprive their fellow-workers of the free and uncontrolled representation to which they are entitled under the law should be informed that they are engaged in not merely a wrongful, but in an illegal procedure.

In conclusion, let me state that according to the information and evidence which has been presented to me, it appears that the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is the only organization legally entitled to represent the porters in making agreements or in negotiating the settlement of disputes with the Pullman Company in behalf of the porters employed by that company.

Very truly yours,

DRR:LH

[Signed] DONALD R. RICHBERG.

NOTE: Mr. Donald R. Richberg is the co-author of the new Railway Labor Act which set up the Mediation Board. He represented the 18 standard railroad unions before Congress. He is the greatest living authority on railroad labor law.—Ed.

Pay your dues and assessments, organize the slackers—and if you realize that a QUITTER never WINS and a WINNER never QUITS, and that he who would be FREE must HIMSELF FIRST STRIKE the BLOW, you CANNOT fail. Forward to Victory!

Your faithful servant,,
A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, Gen. Organizer.

Our Slogan -- "Service, not Servitude"

READ! READ! READ!

Pullman PORTERS and MAIDS

Governors, U. S. Senators, Judges, Congressmen, Ministers, Educators—men and women in every walk of life have endorsed our fight for elementary American rights: The right to organize and deal collectively with our employer, the right to a living wage, the right to be treated like free men, and not like the slaves of yesteryear. WE CAN BE FREE! WE WILL BE FREE!

CAN THE PULLMAN COMPANY SUCCESSFULLY BUCK PUBLIC OPINION BY DENYING TO 12,000 NEGROES THE RIGHTS ENJOYED BY ALL OTHER WORKERS ON THE RAILROADS?

Hear the answer at a

MONSTER DEMONSTRATION

ST. LUKE'S HALL

125 WEST 130th STREET

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14th

At 8:30 P. M. SHARP

SPEAKERS:

HON. HENRY T. HUNT, Ex-Mayor of Cincinnati and member of the old Railroad Labor Board.
FRANK R. CROSSWAITH, Special Organizer, B. S. C. P.
MacALISTER COLEMAN, Labor Journalist
ROY LANCASTER, Secretary-Treasurer B. S. C. P.
"CY" TAYLOR, Veteran Porter of the Penn. District

COME EARLY TO GET SEATS

LADIES INVITED ADMISSION FREE

Reserve Friday, December 3rd for the gayest and most popular social event in Harlem's history.

Information at National Headquarters

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

2311 Seventh Avenue New York City

PHOTO BY R. D. JONES

PULLMAN PORTERS MEET IN CHICAGO—First annual convention of Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, organized by A. Philip Randolph (second from left, seated), opened Saturday, Sept. 14. Sessions were held at 4231 Michigan Blvd., Chicago, headquarters of the association.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT
TO
PULLMAN PORTERS AND MAIDS

The FIRST ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS WILL BE HELD IN CHICAGO THE WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 15th to 21st.

All PULLMAN PORTERS AND MAIDS ARE INVITED TO ATTEND THE MEETINGS HELD AT BROTHERHOOD HEADQUARTERS, 4231 MICHIGAN AVENUE, DURING THAT WEEK.

Sunday Afternoon, September 15th, 3:00 P. M. Public Meeting. Speaking and Musical Program.

Monday Evening, September 16th, 8:30 P. M. Open meeting for all Pullman Porters and Maids. Ladies especially invited.

Tuesday Evening, September 17th, 8:30 P. M. Talks by Representatives of Trainmen and A. F. of L. Unions. All Porters and Maids invited.

Wednesday Evening, September 18th, 8:30 P. M. Regular Monthly Meeting for members. A. Philip Randolph, President and General Organizer, will obligate and initiate all new members.

Thursday Evening, September 19th, FIRST ANNUAL CONVENTION BALL AT WARWICK HALL. DANCING UNTIL 2:00 A. M. MUSIC BY HERB BYRON'S ORCHESTRA. Get tickets from Secretary Clark. Admission Fifty Cents.

Friday Evening, September 20th, 8:30 P. M. Final Meeting. Open to all Pullman porters and maids.

Matters of the most vital importance will be discussed at these meetings by representative organization men. You are urged to be present.

Delegates from all Brotherhood locals will be present at this convention.

The business sessions of the Convention will be held daily during the week at Brotherhood Headquarters at 10:00 A. M. and 2:00 P. M.

CHICAGO DIVISION HEADQUARTERS, 4231 South Michigan Ave.
M. P. WEBSTER, President GEORGE W. CLARK, Secretary

SPECIAL NOTICE: A new insurance proposition is being offered to you. Come to headquarters and talk it over before you sign on the dotted line.

Now, finding all of its previous efforts of no avail, it has hired a notorious labor spy and a venal Negro editor to launch a double attack on the Brotherhood.

This labor spy and "union buster" is to receive a large sum to get "Yellow Dog" contracts signed and probably to "frame" the leaders of the Brotherhood.

It is rumored that a venal Negro editor has been given $10,000 to handle lying publicity against the Brotherhood.

We must combat this latest and greatest menace. We need funds to do it, much more than we have ever required before. We must not fail for want of the pecuniary sinews of war.

Will you help us? In order to meet this latest and greatest menace, we must spend thousands and thousands of dollars in an effort to inform the public and our men of what is transpiring. In order to keep the morale of our members high, we must reach them more regularly than ever before.

This Brotherhood is the greatest labor organization American Negroes have ever built up and stands as a monument attesting to the determination of 8,000 Negroes to get a living wage and attain industrial democracy.

Will you help?

Give as liberally as you can afford.

Give without delay; your financial help is needed right now. As liberal a contribution as you can make will help us to combat this latest attack of the Pullman Company which is seeking to keep the public paying ITS employees.

Send all contributions immediately or when you are able to do so, to:

THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
DEFENSE FUND

Roy Lancaster, General Secretary-Treasurer

2311 SEVENTH AVENUE
New York, N. Y.

EXTRA! Monster Mass Meeting EXTRA!

PULLMAN PORTERS AND MAIDS

Down with Mitchell Tyranny

Do Not Vote Under the Employee Representation Plan

You are legally and morally justified in refusing to vote.

Report to our Headquarters immediately any effort to force you to vote.

Your Brothers in every district are refusing to vote. In Los Angeles alone 208 out of 288 refused to vote for their and your own enslavement.

HEAR

A. Philip Randolph

just returned from the West with Flaming Message

At ST. LUKE'S HALL

125 West 130th Street

Wednesday Even'g, November 3rd

Eight-thirty o'clock

December 3rd, Manhattan Casino, the night we won't forget to remember.

HEADQUARTERS:

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

2311 Seventh Avenue — New York City

Extra! Stepping on the Gas! Extra!

Pullman Porters and Maids

Another Monster Rally

AT

ST. LUKE'S HALL

125 WEST 130th STREET

Thursday, September 23rd

At 8:30 P. M. SHARP

SPEAKERS:

? ? ? (Another Surprise) ? ? ?

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, General Organizer B. S. C. P.

ELIZABETH G. FLYNN, America's Foremost Woman Trade Unionist

FRANK R. CROSSWAITH, Special Organizer B. S. C. P.

? ? (More than a Surprise) ? ? Don't miss it.

Bring your family and friends. Come early to get seats. Bring a new member to the Brotherhood and get a referendum ballot signed. WATCH YOUR DUES.

At the last meeting of the Brotherhood, St. Luke's Hall was packed. We must overflow the Hall on this occasion. The Brotherhood is now the beacon light on the industrial horizon—leading the way to Negro economic freedom. It represents the most militant and constructive expression of a struggling race.

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH.

Headquarters:

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

2311 Seventh Avenue New York City

CONSTITUTION OF THE PULLMAN PORTERS BENEFIT ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA.

ARTICLE 1.—NAME.

The name of this Association shall be PULLMAN PORTERS BENEFIT ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA.

ARTICLE 2.—OBJECT.

The object of this Association is to mutually improve and uplift the moral and financial condition of its members, thereby elevating the service and employment in which they are engaged and rendering the same attractive to the best elements of the negro race; to cultivate fraternal and brotherly regard among the members and their families; to form local associations or lodges with ritualistic form of work; to provide comfort and aid to members and their families in time of illness or distress; to provide by means of assessments or dues from its members funds, not for profit, from which benefits shall be paid to members in the event of disablement through illness or bodily injury, or to designated beneficiaries in case of death, to defray funeral expenses when not otherwise provided for, and expenses incident to the conduct and operation of the Association; and generally to transact the business and exercise the powers and privileges necessary and proper to advance and carry out these objects.

ARTICLE 3.—MEMBERSHIP.

Any negro male person of good character and in good general health, between the ages of twenty-one and forty-four years, inclusive, who has been for not less than three (3) months, and at the time of admission to membership is in the active service of The Pullman Company, in good standing, shall be eligible for membership in this Association.

Persons forty-five years of age or over in active service and who entered the service of the company before having reached the age of forty-five years shall be eligible for membership provided they make application within ninety (90) days from February 1, 1921.

ARTICLE 4.—GOVERNMENT.

Section 1: The government of this Association shall be vested in a representative body to be known as the Grand Association, composed of duly elected and qualified delegates from all local lodges. The Grand Association shall meet annually at Chicago, Illinois, on the third Tuesday in November. It shall, through the Board of Directors, have supreme supervision and control of the Pullman Porters Benefit Association of America, and shall have supreme jurisdiction over all local lodges. It shall have the power to make the Constitution, By-Laws, rules and regulations of this Association and to prescribe the Constitution, By-Laws, rules and regulations which govern the local lodges. Its decision on all matters pertaining to the Association shall be final.

Section 2: The Board of Directors shall consist of seven (7) members, one of whom shall be Grand Chairman of the Association, and the remaining six (6) shall be elected by the Grand Association. Three of the directors at the time of organization shall be elected for a term of two (2) years, and three for a term of one (1) year, and thereafter all directors elected by the Association shall be elected for a term of two years or until their successors are provided for.

Section 3: The officers of this Association shall be a Grand Chairman, a Grand Vice Chairman and a Grand Secretary elected by the Grand Association, and a Treasurer and a Comptroller elected by the Board of Directors. All officers shall be elected for a term of two years or until their successors are provided for.

ARTICLE 5.—ORGANIZATION.

The first meeting of the Grand Association shall be composed of delegates in annual meeting assembled from existing organizations of Pullman Porters' Benefit Association of the following zones: Chicago Eastern, Chicago Western, Eastern, Northeastern, Pacific Coast, Southeastern, Southwestern.

Upon the adoption of the Constitution and By-Laws and organization of Pullman Porters Benefit Association of America it is the declared intention of said delegates to report that fact to the several zone associations hereinbefore named, and to recommend the dissolution and the discontinuance of the benefit provisions of said associations at 12 o'clock Midnight, January 31, 1921, and the winding up of the affairs and discharge of all obligations as soon thereafter as possible, in order that the members of said associations in good standing may become members of Pullman Porters Benefit Association of America. No obligations or liabilities of said zone associations shall be assumed by Pullman Porters Benefit Association of America, except as provided in the By-Laws. For the purposes of organization of the work of the Association this Constitution and By-Laws shall take effect upon the date of adoption thereof; the provisions relating to assessments and to sick, accident and death benefits shall take effect at 12:01 o'clock A. M., February 1, 1921.

ARTICLE 6.—CO-OPERATION WITH COMPANY.

This Association is organized for the benefit of its members, who are employes of The Pullman Company, and for the elevation and improvement of the service and employment in which they are engaged. The company is therefore requested to make it possible for the attendance of delegates to the Grand Association and of directors and officers at general or special meetings, to assist so far as possible the officers in the discharge of their duties, to contribute a fair proportion of the amount necessary to pay the expense of conducting the business operations of the Association in order that assessments and dues of members may so far as possible be used for the payment of the benefits provided, and generally to co-operate in the furtherance of the objects of the Association.

ARTICLE 7.—AMENDMENTS.

This constitution may be amended by two-thirds vote of all members of the Grand Association at any regular session, notice of the proposed amendments having been sent by the Grand Secretary to all local lodges at least sixty (60) days before the meeting at which the proposed amendments are to be acted upon.

BY-LAWS OF THE PULLMAN PORTERS BENEFIT ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA.

Section 1: There shall be an Executive Committee, a Benefit Committee, and such other committees as the Grand Association or the Board of Directors shall provide.

The Executive Committee shall be composed of three directors, one of whom shall be the Grand Chairman of the Association, and the remaining two shall be elected by the Board of Directors. The Executive Committee shall ascertain if all of the objects of the Association are being carried out, shall keep itself informed as to the financial condition, examine the books and records, fix the amount of and approve the bonds of officers required to be bonded, and shall make recommendations to the Board of Directors for the general welfare of the Association.

The Benefit Committee shall be composed of the Grand Chairman, Grand Secretary, Treasurer and Comptroller. It shall supervise the handling of all benefit funds, and shall hear and consider all grievances of members with respect to payment of benefits.

Section 2: The Board of Directors shall meet immediately after election and shall elect its own chairman and all officers and committees provided by the By-Laws. The Board shall have supervision and control of the work of the Association; shall have power to suspend or expel members, fill vacancies in any office or committee, remove officers, fix the compensation of officers who are allowed compensation; determine by vote of all Directors the amount of assessments when changes in the rates are found necessary; and shall transact any other business which may come before it. The Board shall hold not less than two regular meetings each year and such special meetings as the interests of the Association may require. Special meetings may be called by the Chairman or any three members of the Board. A majority of the Board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. The Grand Secretary shall act as Secretary for the Board.

Section 3: The Grand Chairman shall preside at all meetings of the Grand Association and shall be Chairman of the Benefit Committee, issue charters to the local lodges attested by the Grand Secretary, and shall perform such other duties as the interest and welfare of the Association may require.

Section 4: The Grand Vice Chairman shall keep in close touch with all the affairs of the Association and shall be ready at all times to perform the duties of Chairman when required. In the absence of the Grand Chairman he shall preside at meetings of the Grand Association and act as Chairman of the Benefit Committee, and perform such other duties as may be imposed upon him by the Grand Association.

Section 5: The Grand Secretary shall keep a record of the proceedings of meetings of the Grand Association and of the Board of Directors; he shall issue and keep an accurate record of all certificates of membership; shall turn over all moneys received by him to the Treasurer; attest and keep a record of charters issued to the local lodges; keep in safe custody all papers and records; perform such other duties as may be imposed upon him by the Grand Association or Board of Directors, and shall devote his entire time to the work of the Association. He shall give a good and sufficient bond for the faithful performance of his duties in the amount required by the Executive Committee.

Section 6: The Treasurer shall be the custodian of all funds of the Association. He shall deposit daily all money received by him in a bank designated by the Executive Committee in the name of Pullman Porters Benefit Association of America. All payments of money for benefits shall be by checks signed by the Treasurer and countersigned by the Comptroller on vouchers of the Benefit Committee, approved by the Grand Secretary, and other payments required in the conduct of the business of the Association shall be by similar checks or vouchers also approved by the Grand Secretary. The Treasurer shall keep accurate records of all transactions and shall give a good and sufficient bond for the faithful performance of his duties in amount required by the Executive Committee. In the absence of the Treasurer or Comptroller, checks may be either signed or countersigned by the Grand Secretary, in which event, or in the absence of the Grand Secretary, all vouchers shall be approved by the Grand Chairman. All payments of money must be authorized by at least three separate officers.

Section 7: The Comptroller shall have active charge of all matters relating to benefits, subject to the Benefit Committee and the Board of Directors, and shall devote his entire time to the work of the Association. He shall countersign all checks for the payment of money, subject to the provisions of Section 6, and shall keep accurate books and accounts of all business of the Association. He shall furnish a good and sufficient bond for the faithful performance of his duties in the amount required by the Executive Committee.

Section 8: All officers shall make full and complete reports of the work of their offices to the Grand Association. The Grand Secretary, the Treasurer and the Comptroller shall be allowed compensation for their services, to be fixed by the Board of Directors, and may employ such assistants and clerical help as may be found necessary, subject to the approval of the Board. No other officers or members of the Association shall receive any money for profit or otherwise except such as may be awarded to them under the benefit provisions.

Section 9: Local lodges may be formed in any Pullman district or agency where there are twenty-five or more members. Not more than one lodge shall be formed in a single district or agency. All lodges shall be under the control and jurisdiction of the Grand Association and shall operate under charter granted by the Grand Association. When any chartered lodge shall be reduced in membership to less than twenty, the Grand Association may cause the membership to be increased or may withdraw the charter and declare the remaining members to be members at large of the Association, or may affiliate the remaining members with any other adjacent lodge. The lodges shall have ritualistic form of work, provide for the social, fraternal and benevolent welfare of members and their families, and aid the Benefit Committee with respect to the proper disposition of benefit funds. One delegate to the Grand Association shall be elected from each lodge of fifty or more members, who shall make full reports of the work of his lodge to the Grand Association and shall report to his lodge the proceedings of the Grand Association in order that there may be full co-operation between all branches of the government of the Association. Lodges with membership of less than fifty may be represented at meetings of the Grand Association by the delegate elected from a lodge in the nearest district, or two or more lodges of less than fifty members each in adjoining districts may jointly elect one delegate. Such joint representation shall be carried out only by order of the Grand Association. It is the intention that each lodge may either separately or jointly with another lodge have a voice in the government of the Association.

Section 10: There shall be elected annually by each local lodge a Chairman, Vice Chairman, Secretary and Treasurer. Primary elections shall be held in each lodge, at which all members in the active service of The Pullman Company shall be privileged to be candidates for office, and the three candidates for each office receiving the largest number of votes shall be placed on the final ballot for election, and the candidate receiving the highest number of votes for each office shall be declared elected. Lodges entitled to delegates in the Grand Association shall also elect in the same manner a delegate, and an alternate delegate whose duty it shall be to represent the lodge in the event of absence or disability of the regular delegate. Lodges subject to joint representation shall have a voice in the election of delegates in such manner as may be prescribed by the Grand Association. The Chairman shall appoint such committees as may be prescribed by the rules and regulations of the lodge.

Section 11: Applications for membership, signed by the applicant in his own handwriting and witnessed by two members of the Association, shall be filed with the local lodge in the district in which the applicant resides. If approved by the lodge the application shall be certified to by the District Superintendent or Agent of The Pullman Company as evidencing employment in good standing in the service of the company. It shall then be forwarded by the lodge to the Grand Secretary and when received by him shall be subject to such approval as the Board of Directors shall prescribe. When approved the Grand Secretary shall issue a certificate of membership which shall, from and after twelve o'clock Noon, Standard Time at Chicago, of the date of issuance, entitle the person designated to the full privileges of membership in the Association and to all benefits provided. All certificates of membership issued prior to February 1, 1921, shall take effect as of that date at 12:01 A. M., Standard Time.

Forms of application and of certificates of membership shall be prescribed by the Board of Directors. The form of application shall require full information with respect to the applicant, his length of service with the company, occupation, address, age, condition of general health, whether married or single, name of beneficiary and alternative beneficiary, and such other facts as may be prescribed. Any misrepresentation or concealment of facts made or done by or on behalf of the applicant in order to obtain any benefits of the Association, or his failure to comply with any of the requirements of the Constitution and By-Laws of the Association, shall render void any certificate of membership and defeat any claim for benefits thereunder. It shall be the duty of the Board of Directors to cancel the certificate of membership of any member whenever he becomes undesirable for membership on account of conduct which would tend to injure the Association or bring it into disrepute, or whenever the best interests of the Association would in its judgment suffer by his continued membership. Discharge from the service of the company for criminal or dishonorable conduct shall be sufficient cause to render continuance of membership undesirable. A hearing shall be granted in such manner as the Board may provide before cancellation of any certificate of membership. Any member whose certificate of membership has been canceled shall be entitled to refund of the unexpired portion of his assessments or dues under regulations prescribed by the Board.

Members who leave the service of the company in good standing may retain their privileges of membership and rights to benefits provided by prompt payment of their assessments, but they shall have no vote in the affairs of the Association and may not hold any office.

Any member desiring to transfer his membership to another local lodge on account of transfer of employment may do so at any time upon written application to the Grand Secretary, approved by the local lodge from which he desires to be transferred, and subject to the approval of the local lodge with which he desires to affiliate.

Persons entitled to membership situated at points where there is no lodge may join a lodge conveniently situated or may present their application for membership to the District Superintendent or Agent of the company, who, after certifying, shall forward it to the Grand Secretary, and upon approval such applicant shall become a member at large and entitled to all benefits of the Association.

Persons who are on the retired list or pension roll of The Pullman Company on February 1, 1921, are not eligible for membership except as provided in Section 14. But this shall not be construed as affecting the continued right to membership of members who shall subsequently be placed on the retired list or pension roll.

Section 12: To provide for the payment of benefits to members and for the expenses of the Association all members of the Association who are in the active service of The Pullman Company under the age of forty-five (45) years shall pay each year four (4) equal assessments of Seven Dollars ($7.00) each. Such members, after reaching the age of forty-five (45) years shall pay each year four (4) equal assessments of Eight Dollars ($8.00) each.

Assessments of members who have left the service of the company (except those placed on the retired list or pension roll), commencing with the first quarterly assessment after leaving the service, shall be increased fifty per cent over the amounts provided for members in active service, but the assessment of such members, after reaching the age of sixty (60) years, shall be reduced twenty-five per cent under such increased amount, and such members thereafter shall not be entitled to sick or accident benefits.

The assessments of members in the service or on the pension roll of The Pullman Company, shall be deducted by the company from wages or pension allowance upon a written order signed by the member authorizing such deduction, and the amount of assessments so deducted shall be paid by the company to the Treasurer of the Association. When no amount or an insufficient amount is due the member from the company for the payment of the assessment when due, payment shall be made direct to the Treasurer of the Association, notice to be given by the Grand Secretary, but failure to receive notice shall not excuse payment.

The assessments of members who have left the service of the company and of any who do not have amounts due to provide for deduction of payments by the company shall be paid direct to the Treasurer of the Association.

The Grand Secretary shall notify members who have left the service of the company by mailing a notice to the last address given by the member thirty (30) days in advance of the date on which the assessment is due, but failure to receive such notice shall not excuse payment.

Any member failing to pay the amount of his assessment when due shall, after sixty (60) days' notice, forfeit his membership in the Association, unless there are good and sufficient reasons, approved by the Benefit Committee, for failure to make payment when due. Any notices required by the provisions of this section may be mailed or given to the local lodges for delivery to members.

Any unpaid quarterly assessments due shall be deducted from sick or accident benefits before payment to members, and any unpaid assessments for the year shall be deducted from death benefits before payment to beneficiaries.

The Board of Directors may, in case of emergency, in order to meet the payment of benefits due or to become due, increase the rate of the assessments herein named, but no such increase shall continue beyond the date of the next annual meeting of the Grand Association without the approval of the Grand Association. The amount of the assessments may be increased or diminished by the Grand Association according to the requirements necessary to provide for payment of benefits to members and for expenses, it being the intention to prescribe only such assessments as appear necessary for the purposes named and not to create a fund beyond the apparent existing requirements for proper discharge of the obligations of the Association.

Section 13: Whenever a member of this Association in good standing shall become disabled by reason of illness or injury due to accident causing incapacity for work, a weekly sick or accident benefit of $10.00 per week shall be paid such member for the period of such incapacity as hereinafter provided. Each local lodge (or where there is no local lodge, the District Superintendent or Agent of The Pullman Company where the member is employed) shall appoint a committee of three (3) members whose duty it shall be to investigate all cases of illness or injury, and if found worthy the committee shall obtain a doctor's certificate certifying the nature of the illness or injury and the duration of disablement. This certificate and the report of the committee, both certified by the District Superintendent or Agent of The Pullman Company where the member is employed, shall be forwarded to the Grand Secretary. Upon approval by the Benefit Committee a voucher approved in accordance with the provisions of Section 6 shall be made and passed to the Treasurer, who shall issue check in favor of the member for the amount of the benefit due. No benefit shall be allowed for the first five (5) days of disablement, nor for disablement of more than twelve (12) weeks duration after the first five (5) days, nor for more than twelve (12) weeks in one calendar year. Worthy cases of longer duration may be specially considered by the Benefit Committee, and if they shall find the need of assistance imperative and worthy they may extend the benefits for such longer period as in their judgment they deem proper.

Reports of all benefits paid shall be made quarterly to the Board of Directors, who shall have authority to order the discontinuance of any benefits which are being paid after the expiration of the period of the twelve (12) weeks herein provided.

Injuries due to accident which cause permanent physical disability and impairment of earning power may be specially considered upon reports by the local lodge committee, certified by the District Superintendent or Agent of The Pullman Company where the member is employed, and the Benefit Committee may authorize payment, subject to the approval of the Executive Committee, of such additional benefit not to exceed Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($250.00) as may in their judgment seem proper. Reports of all such additional benefits paid shall be made quarterly to the Board of Directors.

Any misrepresentation, fraud or concealment made or done by or on behalf of a member in making claim for any benefit shall render such claim void, and no payment of benefits under such claim shall be made. No payment of accident benefits shall be made if the injury under which claim is made was self-inflicted or was due to criminal act of the member in violation of law.

Section 14: Upon the death of a member of this Association in good standing a death benefit of an amount not to exceed One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00), or such other amount as is hereinafter provided, will be paid from the funds of the Association to the designated beneficiary or beneficiaries appearing in the records of the Association at the time of death. In case of death of a member the local lodge (or where there is no local lodge, the District Superintendent or Agent of The Pullman Company where the member was employed) shall forward to the Grand Secretary a death certificate and proof of death certified by the District Superintendent or Agent, together with receipts from the undertaker for all funeral expenses, or the bill therefor if such expenses remain unpaid and no provision is made for their payment. Upon approval by the Benefit Committee a voucher approved in accordance with the provisions of Section 6 shall be passed to the Treasurer who shall issue a check, first in payment of the unpaid funeral expenses for which no provision is made, and second in favor of the designated beneficiary or beneficiaries for the remainder or all of the death benefit as the case may be.

Any member in good standing of any of the zone associations named in Article 5 of the Constitution who at the time of dissolution of such association may be in such condition of general health that his application for membership in Pullman Porters Benefit Association of America cannot be approved, or who on February 1, 1921, is on the retired list or pension roll of The Pullman Company so that he is not eligible for membership in this Association, shall automatically become a limited member of this Association, entitled to a death benefit only, of such amount as his beneficiary would have received from the zone association of which he was a member at the time of dissolution of such association, and the amount of his assessments shall be such proportion of the assessments herein prescribed as the amount of such death benefit bears to the death benefit of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00).

The death benefit of any member other than limited members of this Association who at the time of admission to membership is forty-five (45) years of age or over, as provided in Article 3 of the Constitution, shall be reduced below One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00) two per cent for each year of his age over forty-four (44).

(Thus, the death benefit of a member 45 years of age at the time of admission to membership would be reduced 2 per cent, making the death benefit $980.00; if 46 years of age, 4 per cent, making the death benefit $960.00; if 59 years of age, 30 per cent, making the death benefit $700.00; if 69 years of age, 50 per cent, making the death benefit $500.00.)

Such members forty-five (45) years of age or over at time of admission to membership shall pay the regular assessments prescribed for members after reaching forty-five (45) years of age and shall be entitled to all sick and accident benefits.

Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions with respect to the reduction of death benefits of members forty-five (45) years of age or over, no member in good standing of any of the zone associations hereinbefore named at the time of dissolution of such association shall have his death benefit reduced to an amount less than his beneficiary would have received from the zone association of which he was a member at the time of dissolution of such association.

Any female member in good standing of any of the zone associations at the time of dissolution of such association shall, upon proper application, be entitled to a death benefit only of such amount as her beneficiary would have received from the zone association of which she was a member at the time of dissolution of such zone association, and the amount of her assessments shall be such proportion of the assessments herein prescribed as the amount of such death benefit bears to the death benefit of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00).

Section 15: Every member of the Association in filing application for membership shall designate a person or persons who shall be the beneficiary or beneficiaries to whom payment of any death benefit is to be made in case of death of the member, and an alternative beneficiary or beneficiaries to whom payment of the death benefit is to be made in case the first named beneficiary or beneficiaries do not survive the member.

Such beneficiary or alternative beneficiary shall be confined to: The wife of the member, his children, his parents, his brothers or sisters, other blood relatives, or persons dependent upon him for support. In the event that none of the designated beneficiaries survives the member, payment shall be made as follows:

First: To the widow.

Second: If there be no widow, then to the children, in equal shares, grandchildren taking equally the shares of their deceased parents.

Third: If there are no children, then to the surviving parent or parents.

Fourth: If there is no surviving parent or parents, then to the brothers and sisters, in equal shares.

Fifth: If there be no widow, children, parent, brothers or sisters, then the amount of the benefit shall remain in the Association and no payment shall be made.

Members who so desire may change their designated beneficiaries by notice to the Grand Secretary, in such form as the Board of Directors may prescribe, made in writing, signed by the member and witnessed by two members of the Association in good standing, approved by the local lodge, or where there is no local lodge, approved by the District Superintendent or Agent of The Pullman Company where the member is employed. No change of beneficiary shall take effect until received by the Grand Secretary and, subject to such approval as the Board of Directors shall prescribe, entered on the records of the Association.

Properly designated beneficiaries shall have a right to death benefits only after death of the member, and shall have no vested right in such benefit prior to death of the member. An estate may not be a beneficiary, and no claim for any debt of a member, except debts incurred during the last illness of the member, may be allowed against any death benefit. No beneficiary or other person shall receive any benefit if the death of the member was caused or contributed to by any criminal act of such beneficiary or person.

No assignment of any sick, accident or death benefits shall be valid, and no payments shall be made thereunder, without the approval of the Benefit Committee.

Section 16: All moneys received from members through assessments are the property of the Association, and all payments of benefits to members or their beneficiaries shall be made from such funds as directed by the Association.

Section 17: The certificate of membership issued to a member, the application for membership signed by the applicant, and the Constitution and By-Laws of the Association, with all amendments to each thereof, shall constitute an agreement between the Association and the member, and any changes, additions or amendments to the Constitution or By-Laws made subsequent to the issuance of the certificate of membership shall be binding upon the member, his beneficiary or beneficiaries, and shall govern and control the agreement in all respects in the same manner as if such changes, additions or amendments had been in force at the time of the application for membership.

Say, Hello! Wake up There Fellow you're sleepin' over your rights. "Organize-stick and pay your Union dues like his guys and stop whining and you'll get your rights.

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
2311 - 7th Avenue
N.Y.

Dear Brother:

Let no one accuse you of sleeping over your rights. Let no one accuse you of seeking a shelter from storms you didn't have the manhood to help build.

Officials of the United States Mediation Board have visited the offices of the Brotherhood and begun the hearing on our case. We will be called to Chicago around the first of June to continue the hearing. This is a mile-post. Organization won it, and organization will win our demands, if you stick and back the Brotherhood by paying your dues and assessment. We have convinced the Pullman Company that the Brotherhood is not for sale, and we must now convince the Company and the entire world that black men have guts to fight and pay for their fight as white men do.

Remember the meeting, Wednesday May 18th, 8:30 P.M. at the St. Luke's Hall, 125 West 130th Street. Every Brotherhood man should come and bring his family to hear the facts about the Mediators visit to the Brotherhood's offices.

Your faithful servant,

A. Philip Randolph

A. Philip Randolph,
General Organizer.

APR:AW

A Discussion of the Negro's Future in America—Page 11

The Messenger

15 cents
a copy

The New NEGRO

January, 1927

READ "BLACK FINGERS" IN THIS ISSUE

THE DECEMBER PRIZE ESSAY, IT WON TEN DOLLARS

WE ASKED NEW YORK NEGROES WHY THEY LIKED HARLEM. THE WINNING ANSWER APPEARS BELOW.

NEXT MONTH ! ! !

"Is Marriage A Failure?"

$10.00
FOR BEST ANSWER

Thousands and thousands of people are asking this question every day.

It is discussed from a thousand platforms and in a thousand books.

Modern industrialism has changed people's viewpoint profoundly on the subject of matrimony.

You must have an opinion one way or the other.

Why not defend your point of view?

RULES:

(a) Answers must not exceed 500 words. (b) Only one side of sheets must contain writing. (c) Name and address must be written plainly in upper left hand corner of each sheet. (d) Typewriting is preferred but ink may be used. (e) Answers must be in the office of THE MESSENGER before midnight, January 12th, 1927. Address all answers to George S. Schuyler, The Messenger Publishing Company, 2311 Seventh Avenue, New York City.

Why I Like Harlem

By IRA DE A. REID,
204 W. 136th St., New York, N. Y.

Harlem—one has to like it. And not because it is the "Mecca of the New Negro," rather because it is the "Maker of a New Negro." It is a part of all it has met—Grand Boulevard, Beale Street, St. Antoine Street, Birmingham, Atlanta, Little Rock, London, Paris, and The Islands; social leaders, bums, erudite students, fanatics, rich-man, poor-man, beggar-man, thief. An immense picture in all colors.

Harlem—its strained family relations, its seeming lack of social direction, the hierarchy of its churches, the pathos of its economic plight, its "protected" government, its cultural groups, its masses, its attempts at reform—is Life. It is Black Life perfected. In its few blocks lie all the varieties and realities of one's existence—growth, action, beauty. To its constituency yesterday is already a dream—not of happiness, but of what might have been—tomorrow is only a vision—not of hope, but of what ought to be. But today, TODAY is the day—and it is well-lived.

One never knows what to expect in Harlem. This throbbing, pulsating, vibrating community often suffers from palpitation. Epileptic, I would say. The parades, funerals, cabarets, policy games, bootleggers, blind tigers, "literati," "millionaires," all show evidences of straining at the traces.

Crowds of faces—black, brown, yellow, white, parading Seventh Avenue, Harlem's "Boule Mich"; women clad in elegant finery followed by their less pretentious sisters in gaudy imitations; workers who "pass" returning to Harlem for association with kindred spirits; writers who enjoy us and write uncensored recollections; rent parties that laugh at the H.C.L.; street-speakers who enjoy their exhorting; protest and mass meetings that die aborning. Harlem! It is life, Life, LIFE. We suck its breast and enjoy it.

Do You Know Anyone in the South Who Might Like The Messenger? If so Send in the Name and Address

SOME OFFER! AND WE DO MEAN MA

The Messen

for twelve long m and a copy of

THE S

B

Franz Oppenh mer

the two fo

$1.75

If you haven't hea rd about "The State," read the review of it on page 26 in this number. Then fill out and mail this blank.

The Messenger Publish ing Co.
2311 Seventh Avenue
New York City

Gentlemen:
Enclosed find $1.75 for which please send me THE MESSENGER for one year and a copy of "THE STATE," by Franz Oppenheimer.

Name .....

Street .....

City .....

State .....

[illegible] Tactics—

(Continued from page 29)

[illegible] degeneracy into which [illegible] through the diseased activity [illegible] white population and the [illegible] other. Negro group [illegible] seem to be a strange path [illegible] perhaps the most in- [illegible] hesitate to point it out [illegible] to Nationalism untainted [illegible] Americanism, "un- [illegible] hypocritical hands and under [illegible] smoke screens—with [illegible] reverence for the Thir- [illegible] gratitude for the Fourteenth and [illegible] satisfaction with the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

2. Yes, possibly within the next twenty- [illegible] years, probably within the next fifty [illegible] Transitions of the present are rapid [illegible] at all—everybody and everything [illegible] "wait a minute" is a barbarous and [illegible] phrase.

3. It will not; "some few things" are yet beyond the control of man's laws, whether they be written or unwritten laws, or merely "gentlemen's agreements." There will be no general amalgamation, because such would be against the natural law of physical and mental affinity, of individual selection, of personal taste, of voluntary choice. Some individuals of all races will mix with some individuals of all other races, because they personally want to mix, having found persons with whom they had rather be mixed than to remain unmixed. Yea, verily, they'll mix—legally and socially, if they can, illegally and unsociably, if they must—BUT THEY'LL MIX. However, the majority of each race will prefer "mating" with their own race. Every race and every nationality prefers its own race and its own nationality. The proof? Experience and observation. Look about, and YOU SHALL SEE.

[illegible] all, as doth appear from the [illegible] Races and nations do [illegible] have never amalgamated [illegible] amalgamate as a whole—they [illegible] amalgamate as a whole—a [illegible] few individuals do want to [illegible] they do amalgamate and will [illegible] amalgamate in accordance with the [illegible] and unrepealable Law of Nature [illegible] of God—AFFINITY. [illegible] present efforts to inculcate [illegible] race consciousness are [illegible] whither? To futility and confusion? Nay, rather to that "stinkless" [illegible] all-embracing Nationalism to which we adverted in answer number [illegible]

4. [illegible] more than do I hold that a man must be "without sin" in order to be [illegible] a desirable neighbor.

[illegible] either the one way or [illegible] the reason that I see no [illegible] in the matter, no [illegible] inducement. Desire [illegible] phoenix like, but must [illegible] another—a cause. I [illegible] there is any trend to- [illegible] I aver that the ten- [illegible] direction. It would [illegible] to desire to combat the [illegible] Decree of Nature, if there can be no general amalgamation, as I have hereinbefore urged), while it would be super-foolish for me to desire the cessation of something that has not started.

7. It can; education and wealth are the determining factors to a greater extent than race or color. If we had as many educated Negroes and as many Negroes of wealth—equally educated and equally wealthy—as there are educated and wealthy whites, it would take a powerful microscope to discover any line of either social or industrial inequality. Such a situation existing, the much exploited "working man" could look to prospective employers equally "fat," irrespective of race, whereas, at present, not unnaturally, the white working man thinks that he should be "preferred stock" to a white employer, just as a Negro working man would concdude that he should rule as favorite with a Negro employer, while SAD BUT TRUE, THERE ARE (in a large sense) NO NEGRO EMPLOYERS. Likewise the social line, as far as being dictated by race, would, I think, vanish. However, I cannot forbear to digress a moment to asserverate that social inequality, without regard to race, will probably always exist. It will exist where all are whites and where all are Negroes. Why? The words of the French writer, Bossuet, I think, answer the question: "Quoique Dieu et la nature aient fait tous les hommes egaux, en les formant d'une meme bout, la vanite humaine ne peut souffrir cette egalite."—"Although God and Nature have made all men equal, by forming them from [illegible] earth, human vanity cannot [illegible] equality."

8. We do not believe in compul[illegible] gation—it is against nature. [illegible] in voluntary segregation—the "own free will and accord" kind—THAT'S FREEDOM.

S. B. Moon,
Attorney-at-law and Supervising Principal Gary (Negro) High School, Gary, W. Va.

* * *

1. Yes, because by it, you show interest in your race, the same as any race will do.

2. No. It will be more than a century before this ideal is obtained.

3. It will not result in the amalgamation of the Negro, or disappearance.

4. Perserverance behind any effort will not allow the effort to be futile or confusing.

5. No, positively. Complete amalgamation would cause more confusion.

6. Yes, it should cease before it causes trouble.

7. It can be done but it seems impossible just now. Why? I can't say.

8. I do not believe in segregation, mainly because of the harm that I have observed from its practice in the United States. Segregation has kept more Negroes ignorant than any other method in practice.

F. J. King,
Postal Clerk, Brooklyn, N. Y.

* * *

1. The development of racial consciousness among Negroes may help the Negro to place a true valuation upon his personality; but it does not appear [illegible] with the ideal of the modern com[illegible] Much of the fanfare about [illegible] consciousness has been forced upon [illegible] by white people who are only in[illegible] making the Negro a lower [illegible] modern [illegible] may lose its present [illegible] social [illegible] but [illegible] will [illegible] be formed st[illegible] racial li[illegible] except in the cente[illegible] groups. The present pr[illegible] is to make white Amer[illegible] as a citizen. Civis A[illegible] more than shoulder[illegible] and dying.

2. I always hesitate to [illegible] prophecy concerni[illegible] course [illegible] evolution and ev[illegible] over [illegible] reputed freedom [illegible] American [illegible] mitted themselves to [illegible] across [illegible] ocean to insure the [illegible] allie[illegible] to American capital[illegible] however, that before th[illegible] man will voluntarily give [illegible] privileges to the Negro, the darker world, including China, India and Africa, will be militarized and industralized enough to force the white world to throw off its mask of Christian missionary effort and the "white man's burden" ideal, with which it attempts to conceal its arrogant economic exploitation, and treat the darker races as equals. This will be bound to improve the black man's status in America, although I would not be surprised to find black fools fighting for their own enslavement.

3. I believe that absolute equality will [illegible] lead (in how many centuries I [illegible] say) to amalgamation. I do not think it would proceed as fast as it has always done when the two populations are closer in physical appearance.

4. As I said in answer to Question 1, the inculcation of racial consciousness can not be wholly futile, no matter what the outcome in America, if it makes the Negro place a true value upon his personality.

5. I do not consider complete amalgamation of the whites and blacks necessary to the solution of our problems. I often find white and black prostitutes, thieves and bootleggers living in harmony, without issue, while the smug inhabitants of Main Street, with yellow bastards hidden in the alleys, have stoned the homes of respectable Negroes.

6. I am not interested in the color of the future Americans; although I have some sentiment in regard to the continuance of civilization to which men of any color can be heirs.

7. Social equality in its broadest interpretation will, I believe, gradually dest[illegible] by both racial identity and group consciousness.

8. I do not believe in any form of enforced segregation, except that of the insane and feeble-minded. The natural tendency for people of the same culture and interests to segregate themselves is not involved in the question of segregation as it affects Negroes.

E. Franklin Frazier,
Director of The Atlanta School of Social Work, Atlanta, Ga.

"Read Everywhere by Everybody Who's Anybody"

The Messenger

World's Greatest Negro Monthly

VOLUME IX NUMBER 1

Editors.....A PHILIP RANDOLPH AND CHANDLER OWEN
Assistant Editor.....GEORGE S. SCHUYLER
Contributing Editors.....THEOPHILUS LEWIS, J. A. ROGERS, E. B. HENDERSON
Business Manager.....ROY LANCASTER

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
Why I Like Harlem. By I. D. Reid	2
Negro Labor and Public Utilities. By George S. Schuyler	4
Black Fingers. A Story. By James Mickles	5
Gods. By G. F. Proctor	7
Bewildered. By G. F. Proctor	7
Samuel Coleridge Taylor. By Henry F. Downing	8
Theater. By Theophilus Lewis	10
Group Tactics and Ideals	11
Harmon Awards	14
Editorials	15
The Critic. By J. A. Rogers	16
The Brotherhood and the Mediation Board. By A. Philip Randolph	17
Shafts and Darts. By George S. Schuyler	18
A Friend Indeed	19
Sports. By Dr. E. B. Henderson	20
The Employee Representation Plan. By A Philip Randolph	21
E. J. Bradley	24
The Struggle to Organize St. Paul. By Paul L. Caldwell	25
Books: Reviews by G. S. Schuyler, Clarence Cameron White, William Lloyd Imes, Theophilus Lewis and Frank Crosswaith	26
Where the Real Power Lies. By A. Saggitarius	29
Open Forum	30
Edgar Allan Poe By W. A. Moore	30

Published monthly at 15 cents a copy. Annual subscription $1.75; foreign subscriptions $2.00. Back numbers 25 cents each. Instructions for renewal, discontinuance or change of address should be sent two weeks before the date they go into effect. Both old and new addresses must be given.

Unsolicited manuscripts not accompanied by stamped and addressed envelopes will not be returned and the editors will not enter into correspondence about them. Manuscripts must be typewritten on one side of the sheet and addressed to The Editors and not to individuals.

THE MESSENGER PUBLISHING COMPANY, INC., Publishers. Office 2311 Seventh Avenue, New York, N. Y. Telephones: Bradhurst 0454 and Edgecombe 3244. Entered as second-class mail, July 27th, 1919, at New York, N. Y., under Act of March 3, 1879.

THE BROTHERHOOD AND THE MEDIATION BOARD

By A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

On the 8th of December, The Brotherhood had its first preliminary hearing with the Mediation Board. Mr. Edwin P. Morrow, one of its members, had been ordered to conduct the hearing. It has not ended. It goes on. The law reads: "In meditation proceedings one or more of its members may be designated by the Board of Mediation to represent it. Each member of the Board of Mediation shall have the power to administer oaths and affirmations."

This marks another mile-post in the development and march of the Brotherhood. It will be remembered that many "doubting Thomases" shook their heads and lamented that we would never get this far. Hard-boiled cynics growled: "You were foolish to begin a losing fight." Our enemies longed for the day when they could point an accusing finger at us and chuckle, "We told you so." The mighty Pullman Company smiled when the Brotherhood began and stamped the whole undertaking as a huge joke. No doubt, Pullman officials observed that Negroes haven't the guts to carry through a movement so big and momentous as this, anyway. Of course, the public wondered just what would come of it all. Would the men stick, pay dues and fight it through? Would they stand up under fire, sacrifice and suffer as Jews, Italians, Irish and Anglo-Saxons have done? Can they be depended upon in a crisis? These questions have naturally been upon the lips of friend and foe.

To the eternal credit of the Brotherhood men, these questions are being affirmatively answered. For over fourteen months the "marching men" of the Brotherhood have steadily headed toward victory. They have not faltered, they have not equivocated, they have not compromised, or retreated a single step, and their thrilling and determined tread has been heard. Far and near comes the insistent query as to the meaning of these marching black men. Whither are they trending? What are their mission and cause? Are they a menace or a promise? How long will they march? are questions that simply indicate how deeply Brotherhood men have stirred the nation.

Undaunted by the notorious Filipino scare, unruffled by unjust Pullman reprisals, unterrified by the sycophant yelping of treacherous race leaders, undismayed by a corrupt and apostate section of the Negro press or of boot-licking porter-instructors or welfare workers, these black Brotherhood marching men, with grim set faces and clinched fists, have ceaselessly cried, "Forward! March On!" And strangely, despite the victimization of some of the strong Brotherhood men by some petty black and white Pullman officials, new recruits steadily join the ranks, bravely singing the songs of freedom. Nothing like unto it has ever been seen before, especially among people of African descent. Negroes, least of all people, are not expected to revolt against opposition. However bitter their lot, according to tradition and custom running back through history over a thousand years, Negroes, meekly and patiently, are supposed to bite their tongue and swallow it. Protest? aye, no! The lot of slaves, serfs and servants is not to ask the reason why, theirs is but to do and die! Have not black men been auctioned for profit over some ten hundred years? Why then should they violate every vital version of reason on race and defy the canons of economic tyranny by organizing for self-protection?

Thus by all the gods of sanity and sense Brotherhood men are a crucial challenge to the Nordic creed of the white race's superiority. For only white men are supposed to organize for power, for justice and freedom. Only white men are supposed to face a long, hard struggle, to invite an exacting test, to encounter bitter opposition with unflinching courage, with a dogged stamina to work on and not grow weary, to fight on and not lose the faith. The curse of Canaan proved fiction here. Brotherhood men are giving the lie to the poisonous prophecy of Negrophobists. With a marvelous moral mettle they are standing as firm as the rock of Gibraltar, unafraid, firm in the conviction and belief of the righteousness of their cause.

Everywhere their leadership, local and national, is meeting with unsurpassed and whole-hearted cooperation from the citizenry and porters alike. Only rarely does a Judas inflated with a false conceit and overweening ambition, raise his head above the waters only to be cut down by the Brotherhood's sabres of truth and reason. No opposition, however formidable, has stood or will stand the piercing shafts of the Brotherhood's message. Resistlessly onward the Brotherhood marches. The Mediation Board is not its end. It is merely a means to an end. The end is economic and social justice.

The Brotherhood realizes too well that the Mediation Board nor any other government agency can win its fight for it. That, it alone can do. Laws can only set up a condition of fairness under which a fight may be waged but they don't wage the fight themselves. Nothing will nor ought to take the places of self-struggle, self-effort, self-discipline, self-control, self-organization. The Mediation Board is a government instrument which may be utilized only by self-organized employees in order to get fair wages and working conditions from the carriers. It is useless to unorganized workers or to those that are disorganized under the employee representation plans, the company unions. And the success with which the Mediation Board may be employed by the employees depends directly upon the power of their organization and the power of their organization rests upon the per cent of the employees of the industries that are organized. Fifty per cent are stronger than twenty-five per cent and ninety or a hundred per cent are stronger than seventy-five per cent.

Be it known to every porter and maid that the Pullman Company respects nothing but power, and power can only come through organization. Even the great power of public opinion can only be aroused and mobilized through organization. The railroad companies and the Pullman Company have been able to achieve their power only through organization, which they have been building for the last half century.

Thus, real, red-blooded Brotherhood men must gird their loins for a hard, long struggle. The Pullman Company will not readily and cheerfully give up its Employee Representation Plan, though dying, if, indeed, it is not already dead.

The last desperate stand of the Company now is to whitewash its company union for the benefit of the Mediation Board and the public. It will tell the Board and the public that eighty-five per cent of the men voted for the Plan. It could just as easily and truthfully put the per cent at 101 or more. It was the Pullman Company's election. It ran the whole show, marked and counted the ballots through its agents. In fact, it is definite violation of a federal law for which it, though shrewd and powerful, will be held strictly accountable. The Brotherhood is not asleep at the switch. Nor is it afraid to join issue even with the Pullman Company with its hundreds of millions.

Hence the Brotherhood calls upon every man to do his duty. We cannot stand still and we will not retreat. Our watchword is Forward! Service, not Servitude! We have set our hands to the wheel of struggle and action and we must not wince or cry aloud. Though we fall into the fell clutch of adverse circumstance and our heads become bloody, may they forever remain unbowed!

The Brotherhood will prove to the Pullman Company that though but a year or more old, it is worthy of its steel. It will not permit itself to be swept off its feet or stampeded by Pullman propoganda that the Company will never recognize the union. That has been the hymn of the employers since the first union was born. Every railroad company said that of all of the standard railroad unions, but they recognized the unions just the same. Why? Because power compels recognition. The Pullman Company has no choice when it faces power but to recognize it. Of course, it will seek to fool the porters and maids as long as it can by arrogantly telling them what it will or will not do, until they are organized, and then the Pullman Company, just as all of the railroad companies, will sing an entirely different song and like it, too.

It is now up to the porters and maids to do what every other group of railroad

(Turn to page 19)

By GEORGE S. SCHUYLER

This month the beautiful cutglass thunder-mug is presented to the editor of that estimable journal "The Negro World." Glancing through the editorial section we saw the following notice:

G. S. SCHUYLER

The Negro World does not knowingly accept questionable or fraudulent advertising. Readers of The Negro World are earnestly requested to invite our attention to any failure on the part of an advertiser to adhere to any representation contained in a Negro World advertisement.

And then, with a loud whoop of joy, we ran across the following advertisement on another page:

LIVE LODESTONES

from the Rising Sun; Lucky Rings, Wishing Rings, Mysterious Perfumes; Chinese Rings and wonders, sure luck in love and money. You'll be dumb with surprise.

Information free.

Is there any question as to the justice of the award?

Freedom of the Press

I always indulge in a smile when some one spouts off about the freedom of the press, for like most of the things people believe—it is non-existent. Anybody laboring under the impression that one can print all one really thinks about, is deserving of sympathy. Only one person in a thousand welcomes candid assertion, either about themselves or those with whom they are associated, particularly if the assertion is an obvious fact. The journalist must avoid saying certain things, no matter how true or how necessary to be said, in order to retain friendships and maintain his living standard. They make up for it by exposing or attacking those things that are safe to assail. Often they merely flatter the people by telling them what they know the people want to hear.

Thus I am convulsed when I read where some one has said that "the freedom of the press must not be abridged."

Back to Illiteracy

In the midst of all the clamor for more schools and more education, it is time to sound a note of dissent. This is an age of scientific method and thought, and public education, like everything else, must be judged by its results and not by its claims.

The system has been in operation nearly a hundred years in this country, and yet what are the results? Frist, the politicians are able to get more votes with cheaper slogans than ever before. Secondly, morals are certainly no better than they were a century ago. Thirdly, there is no better quality of thinking than in days of yore. Converse with the average college graduate and what you get is a job lot of illy-digested book-learning most of which is exploded error.

Talk to the average "educated" man or woman and you will find that he (or she) believes that the person with a prominent chin is more courageous than a person with a receding one; that there is a personal God; that there is such a thing as social progress; that the fellow with a bulging brow is more intelligent than the bird with a head resembling a dill pickle; that slavery has been abolished; that the Constitution is sacred—but why go on? You know what the average person who has been exposed to ten or fifteen years schooling believes. You are aware also that the Klan flourishes in such highly "educated" sections as New York, New England, Indiana, Illinois, and New Jersey, while Methodists, Catholics, Baptists, Knights of Pythians and Christian Scientists flourish everywhere.

This being the result of a century of popular education, of what value has it been? Why spend billions every year just to help out contractors, book publishers and school teachers?

Better to go back to illiteracy, in which sad state one's opinions are at least one's own rather than those of libidinous clergymen, neurotic philosophers and reptile editors. In short, it is insisted that popular education is a waste of time and money and helps no one but the yokel fleecers. Your illiterate is unable to read or write consequently he is immune to the bilge of all yokel yankers except those with whom he comes into immediate contact. Hence, a large army of moron hypnotizers who now loll around in ease would have to grab a pick and shovel in order to fight off the wolf. As before the days of popular education, reading and writing would again be the concern of the infinitesimal minority of intelligent people.

The Klan Versus the Negro

One of the amusing spectacles in this country is the opposition of the so-called Negroes to the Ku Klux Klan, for the philosophies of both are identical and their opinions are the same. The K.K.K. philosophy is that this is a white man's country; that there must be no Catholic dominance; that the Nordic is superior to all others in the human family; and that the native is superior to the alien. Does the majority of Aframericans think differently? Not at all. With the exception of a handful of militants, the Negroes accept segregation and even defend it on the ground that it builds up race consciousness, gives teachers jobs and holds the group together in ghettoes where—by virtue of congestion and high death rate—the Negro bourgeoisie of real estate sharks, abortionist physicians, undertakers, "rooming house" proprietors, bootleggers, and gamblers can wax sleek and fat. The acceptance of segregation without audible protest is the acceptance of the idea that this is a white man's country.

On Catholicism, the average Negro being a raging Protestant, is in agreement with the Klansman. Few are in the Catholic church and most of them interviewed express fear of Papal domination. They insist on being booted by their own native Protestant white folks. There is so much evidence that the Negro believes the Nordic type superior to all others that it seems absurd to mention it. Yet, it may be valuable to review the facts. The Negroes almost unanimously call Nordic hair, color and features "good." If, however, the hair, color and features be Negroid, then they are "bad." A Negro bastard of prominent white man will boast of his father but not of his mother, and a Negro who is illegal descendant of an old Southern aristocrat will gloat over the possession of such an ancestor but has no good word to say for the black ancestors who supported the aristocrat. Let a Negro become famous, financially successful, and he will marry a woman as near the Nordic ideal as he can obtain. Listen to the average Aframerican's conversation and you will find him speaking of "dark" records, "black" despair, so and so being "white" in soul, etc., ad nauseum. In short, listen to the average Negro with your eyes closed and you'll imagine you are talking to a Klansman.

Nor is there any exception in respect to the hatred of aliens. When immigration restriction was announced, the Negroes whooped louder than the whites and fell on their knees in prayers of thanks. If given the opportunity, nine-tenths of the Negroes would vote against this country lifting the ban on aliens.

On only one point do we find the Klan and the Negro differing: On the Jew. The Klan objects to the Jew because of the latter's economic opposition, but the Aframerican accepts the Hebrew because of his economic exploitation—and the Aframerican so dearly loves those who exploit and degrade him.

(Continued on next page)

Nursery Rhymes: 1927 Edition

Sing a song of Volstead,
A closet full of rye;
Four and twenty cases
On which to feast the eye.
When a case is opened,
Up goes a wail forlorn;
For then you learn the bitter truth:
'Tis most atrocious "corn."

Now old Jack Spratt was never fat;
His wife was always lean.
They bought four quarts of gin a day,
Which kept their pantry clean.

Jack and Jill went on the hill
To get some bootleg wine.
They drank a gallon of the stuff,
And now they both are blind.

Mother, may I have a shot of gin?
Why yes, my darling daughter.
Just drink it down without a frown
But don't dare ask for water.

Little Jack Horner sat in the corner—
His eyes were all a-blear;
Beside him lay an empty jug
Once filled with needled beer.

Little Miss Muffet was given a buffet
One night in a cabaret;
She was switching a drink
On an upstate gink,
When he saw her and hauled away.

Humpty Dumpty inside the wall,
Was woefully pondering over his fall;
Though formerly king of the bootlegging men,
He is now doing time in the Federal Pen.

Up the airy mountain; down the rushing glen,
We go a-hunting liquor; our weekly pay to spend.
Gay lads, brave lads, we gulp it down together.
You ask us how we swallow it?
Our throats are made of leather.

Mediation Board

(Continued from page 17)

workers has done, namely, to stick, fight and to give their dollars for the fight until they win, which is inevitable.

The Mediation Board is not the end of our fight, it is just the beginning. We will not only have to fight hard and long and doggedly for liberty and justice, we will have to pay for it. Under the New Railroad Labor Act, the Brotherhood, like the other railroad unions, will be required to contribute one-half the expense for the maintenance of the Adjustment Board. Should its case go to arbitration, we must pay the salaries of the arbitrators we select. The Brotherhood must also pay for all subpoenas sent out for witnesses in its behalf. This will constitute a heavy expense. In addition to that we will have a big counsel fee. But, this is as it should be. No people are entitled to freedom who are not willing to pay for it. White workers pay for theirs. Why shouldn't we pay for ours? We should, must and will, since we realize that a winner never quits and a quitter never wins.

Harmon Awards

(Continued from page 14)

went to South Africa as a Y.M.C.A. Secretary and engaged there in religious and social work among the native students and teachers. Mr. Yergan is thirty-four years of age. The second award went to John Hurst of Baltimore, Md., a bishop of the African, M. E. Church, for his promotion of educational and religious organization work among the Negroes in Florida.

Judges: Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, Canon, National Cathedral, Washington, D. C.; Professor Luther A. Weigle, Yale School of Religion; The Rev. Peter Ainslie, Baltimore, Md.; Miss Edith M. Burdick, Harmon Foundation; Rev. William Lloyd Imes, Pastor, St. James' Presbyterian Church, New York.

While twenty-eight entries were presented to the judges in music, it was their opinion that in view of the progress already made in this field "no original creative work was submitted of such outstanding importance as to merit the William E. Harmon Award." There was presented instrumental, vocal and orchestral score as well as evidence of vocal and instrumental performance. The fund in this field will be held in trust to be distributed in the future when productions worthy of the awards are submitted.

Judges: Clarence Dickinson, Professor, Union Theological Seminary, Organist, Brick Presbyterian Church, New York; Harry T. Burleigh, Soloist, St. George's Episcopal Church and musical composer; Dr. Preston Ware Orem, composer and musical editor, Philadelphia, Pa.; R. Augustus Lawson, pianist, Hartford, Conn., and Miss Edith Fremdling, Harmon Foundation.

A formal presentation of the awards will take place in the home cities of the successful candidates on January 1, when appropriate ceremonies will be arranged.

A Friend Indeed

In the crucial days when the Brotherhood was in its infancy and its life was hanging in the balance; in the days before we had silenced our enemies in and out of the race, there were many friends, not Pullman porters, who valiantly, persistently and continually fought on our side.

One of the most steadfast of our many friends in Chicago is G. W. Price, an associate member of our Brotherhood, who conducts, with his wife, an up-to-date rooming house at 3336 S. Wabash Avenue. Brother Price accommodates a large number of Pullman porters and has lost no opportunity to carry our message to them. So insistent has he been that porters join the movement to emancipate themselves from the chains of the Pullman Company, that many of the old Uncle Tom porters who stayed at his house have moved away.

Mr. Price has keenly felt this opposition in a financial way but he has in no way been deterred by it. He continues to carry our message of unionism to the porters at his house with all his old-time enthusiasm and vigor. Mr. Price has supported us, now we should support him.

When you are in Chicago, stop at his place, 3336 S. Wabash Avenue. Brother Price is entitled to your patronage and support.

Home Office Group
525-7-9 North 2nd Street
Richmond, Va.

SOUTHERN AID SOCIETY of VIRGINIA
INCORPORATED

Issues a Superior Three-in-One Insurance Contract, providing for One Small Premium, Protection against Sickness, Accident and Death.

$100,000.00 Capital
$500,000.00 Surplus
$275,000.00 Policy Reserve
Over $4,000,000.00 Paid in Claims to Policyholders

Southern Aid Society of Virginia
Incorporated
Home Office:
525-7-9 North 2nd St.
Richmond, Va.

DR. HENDERSON

Another football year has rolled away. The game was bigger and better. Instead of one big game Thanksgiving Day there were big games all round the "segregation" area of the United States. Howard University and Lincoln University battled at Washington before people estimated as 20,000. Wilberforce and Institute in Columbus, Ohio, are reporting spectators to the number of 15,000. Atlanta and Morris Brown in Atlanta, Wiley winning from Bishop College in Marshall, Texas; Union losing to Hampton at Hampton; Virginia Normal winning from St. Paul; Smith scoring over Livingstone in Salisbury; Arkansas Baptist winning from Philander Smith College in Little Rock; Tuskegee ahead of Southern University at Tuskegee; A. and T. of Greensboro in a winning duel from Shaw, and Fisk bowing to Morehouse played before huge crowds. Figures indicate that 100,000 witnessed the play Thanksgiving Day.

* * *

The much heralded Howard and Lincoln game was easily the prize event of the season. Howard won 32 to 0. Howard's team was one of the best teams of colored players that has been seen for a long time. It is seldom a team has so good a line and four backfield men the equal of "Tick" Smith, Coles, Dan Brown and Ross. All could carry the ball and were hard to tackle. All were good defensive players. The writer has seen many stellar teams play with one or two backs starring, but seldom does a team have four men all good and hard to pick between. Hibbler and Martin of Lincoln were unable to get away from the slashing charge of Howard's forwards.

* * *

The Chicago Defender seeks hard to make the Wilberforce vs. Institute game rival the Eastern classic. A few years more will find the Western conference games a close second to the game of the East. Both teams were beaten by Howard's eleven but the West Virginia game was the hardest one played on Howard's campus this year.

* * *

The usual C.I.A.A. feature event, the game between Hampton and Union of Richmond, was one of the hardest fought and cleanest games played this season. Coach Hucles, back on his old camping grounds, sought to stem Hampton's victorious sweep but found his charges short of ability to do so.

* * *

At Howard University the most complete stadium yet constructed in race schools was dedicated prior to the big game. Representative Martin Madden, who controls the purse strings in Congress, fittingly spoke before a battery of amplifiers from the center of the field to the huge crowd. There is yet some work to be done to make the field what it should be before football problems are completely solved. The bowl at Tuskegee, Armstrong field at Hampton, and now the completed field at Howard, mark much progress since the war.

The Span of Life

In the morning of life
We till our soil.
We plough and harrow too;
There is precious little
Time to waste,
For at noon-time we are through.

In the afternoon
We plant our seed
For the crop we hope to grow.
And the product of
The after-years,
Is the crop that now we sow.

At even-tide
We gather in
The crop that we have grown.
Be it good or evil;
Wheat or tare,
We reap what we have sown.

Then—till and harrow
Well your soil.
And plant your seed with care;
For you reap what you sow
In a span of life
Sometime, somehow, somewhere.

ANN LAWRENCE.

The C.I.A.A. conference games and management is to be commended and copied by groups of sectional teams desiring to develop football to a level beneficial as a sport and not detrimental to other serious purposes of educational plants. Schedule making, methods of handling the business of the conference and other problems that arise should commend the conference manner of controlling and developing football. President Puryear and Secretary Charles Williams deserve praise for their work.

* * *

The season has been replete with incidents that have marred the game of football. In white United States officials have been panned severely. Several of the most important games of the year have gone over directly as a result of the "bones" pulled by the officials. Officials of the highest repute in the Navy-Army game at Chicago, and in the Harvard-Yale games made decisions that virtually gave Yale the game and prevented the Navy from victory over the Army. The writer saw in the Marine vs. 3rd Army Corps game some of the crudest work ever seen by white officials in a big game. How it happens that our pigmy-minded victory-at-any-cost-blinded race people imagine the work of white officials superior to that done by Savoy, Gibson, Westmoreland, Washington, Abbott, Robinson, Pinderhughes, Wright, Morrison, Trigg, Coppage and Douglass and many others is a puzzle to me. The only advantage arriving from the use of white officials is from the fact of the peculiar psychology that presents itself when white officials work which causes the poor driven cattle to become blinded to the same errors of commission and omission that would not have escaped had the officials been of the colored race.

Victory and "corn" frenzied mobs tore up the concrete set goal posts after several victories this year. Most of the scenes were staged in the cooling atmosphere of staid New England fields. Several football referees connected up with fists of penalized players. Our own Gibson was found under a mobbing football crowd and injured in North Carolina. It is commendable to note, however, that the games in the South with but few exceptions are easy to handle. One noted football critic who has surveyed the field in the South commented thus: "All you have to do down here is to give these fellows a ball, call the downs, and go home." This was in white America. Our boys around Georgia, Texas, Alabama, and other states thereabouts are seemingly over with the undue razzing of officials caused often by the desire of coaches to cover up their own bad judgment or players to alibi for failures on their part.

See Page 2, and then get busy with pen and paper. You may win $10.

EMPLOYEE REPRESENTATION PLAN MINUTES OF LAST CONFERENCE

By A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

THE CONFERENCE was called to negotiate a revision of the existing agreement on rules governing working condition, so states the minutes. It was also called to head off the rising tide of organization among the porters and maids.

On January 27th, eighteen porter-delegates assembled in Chicago, presumably elected by the porters throughout the country, to secure higher wages, although the minutes expressly say that the Conference was to revise rules of governing working conditions. Thus the porters were deceived in the calling of the Conference.

It is interesting to note in this connection that 10,000 or more porters and maids were expected to vote for each one of the 18 delegates to represent them although all of the porters did not know either one of them. The men had no idea of what these delegates would demand. Obviously, they did not vote because they wanted to vote but because they felt they had to vote, fearing victimization by the Company.

In justice to the delegates, it must be said that they probably did the best they could under the circumstances, which was, of course, not anything. It must be remembered, however, that it is doubtful if any other group of men, under similar conditions, could have done any more. Just as you cannot make a sewing machine grind corn, so you cannot expect or make the Employee Representation Plan, a Company proposition, get results that benefit the porters and maids.

On the management's side were Messrs. O. P. Powell, assistant general manager; F. L. Simmons, Supervisor of Industrial Relations, and P. T. Ryan. Against them you have eighteen porters, untrained in the negotiation of trade agreements and who are also conscious of the fact that their keys may be demanded if they offend the members of the management. On the management's side, you have three trained men in the negotiating of trade agreements. It is clear that the porters are at a serious disadvantage. Moreover, the three representatives of the management can more easily maintain a united front than can 18 porters, most of whom never saw or heard of each other. How could they function efficiently against the artful strategy of the management? Even if a miracle should happen by all of the porter-delegates but one standing against the management for the 240-hour-month, the porters would lose. In order for the porters to have even the appearance of victory, all of the 18 must vote as a unit for a given measure, and, of course, even then they wouldn't get it if the management opposed because the management could claim that in the nature of things and the Plan, The Management can't vote against itself. Since the conference was called by the Company as a part of its Plan, its acts may be accepted or rejected by the management on the grounds that they were ill-advised and should be reconsidered. Thus the porters, under the Plan, lose if they win.

While the Management can always scare practically all of the weak-kneed porter-delegates into deserting a reasonable program, the porters can never get one member of the Management to break ranks. In fact, under the Employee Representation Plan, the porter-delegates at the farcical wage conferences are like the lion and the lamb, they never lie down in harmony and peace unless the lamb is in the lion's belly.

Ode to the Brotherhood

We stand for truth and right
We're in to win the fight;
God is our King.
He loves humanity
And wills us liberty.
He guides us on our way
Both night and day.

We are an army strong;
We fight for right, not wrong.
God lead us on.
We'll march to victory;
Truth is our sword and shield.
Let come what will or may,
We're not dismayed.

Truth, right and love will stand
The test in any land;
God rules on high.
So valiant soldiers brave,
Triumphant, pave the way.
To arms, the sword unsheathe
For liberty.

MATTIE MAE STAFFORD.

According to the minutes, immediately after the roll call, a motion was made as follows: "To prevent the possibility of erroneous misleading or incomplete reports going out from this conference, I move that all persons be excluded from this conference except the duly elected representatives of the porters and maids, the representatives of the Management and the members of Mr. Simmons' office staff, who are assisting us." This motion was made by porter E. Anderson and seconded by W. A. Allen. This is just what the Management wanted in order to keep out the influence of public opinion. It is quite probable that this motion was framed by the Management. Note that it was set aside in the interest of Mr. Perry Parker who addressed the Conference.

The reference, in the motion to Mr. Simmons' office staff assisting us would be amusing were it not so tragical. Think of 18 porter-delegates relying upon the office staff of the Management from whom they are expecting to win demands, for technical assistance. If the porters' case was to be properly handled, organized and presented, they should have had their own clerical and statistical staff. Common sense ought to tell even a porter-instructor that the office staff of the Company is going to take orders from the Company if only because they are paid by the Company. But, of course, the porter-delegates didn't need any statistical staff because they had no program and they didn't know what it was all about.

At the beginning of the first session, Delegate Cal M. Murdock, of Los Angeles, requested that each representative be furnished a full copy of the minutes of each meeting. This was a good request but it was not carried. It was agreed that only three full copies would be made, one for the secretary and chairman, respectively, and one for the Management, which means that the rank and file of porters will never get the full proceedings of the conference. It is clear that the condensed report of the minutes were only given the delegates because of the criticism by the Brotherhood that the porter-delegates were denied copies of the minutes in previous conferences.

Considerable time was spent on changing the Time Sheet. This is a direct result of the Brotherhood's criticism of the complicated character of the Time Sheet. Suggestions of changes were made by J. D. Bannister, W. H. Boggs, J. W. Underwood and Cal W. Murdock. While a change in the Time Sheet has been made, it still is not sufficiently simplified. Porters are losing thousands of dollars because of their inability to make out their time properly.

In the second meeting of the Conference, Mr. Anderson, floor leader, made a speech. Some years hence, it may be referred to as a curio. Says he, "We hope to place before the Management in an intelligent and convincing way in the association of ideas as well as the association of facts the needs of 12,000 men and women who constitute the car service employees of the Pullman Company." Whatever that means. He continues, "We are not here to demand . . . ." Of course not. It's no use. A Company Union has nothing to demand with. "We are cognizant," says he, "of the fact that The Pullman Company has done and is doing more for the Negro race than any corporation in the world." And that isn't saying anything. He adds, doubtless ashamed of such childish nonsense, "But without the porters, all Pullman cars may well be dismantled." Quite true. But saying that is not enough.

'SILENCED'
'LOOK OUT — FOR GOD'S SAKE DON'T SCARE US — OR THEM BROTHERHOOD HOUNDS WILL GET ON OUR TRAIL AGAIN.'
UNCLE TOM NEGRO EDITORS AND LEADERS
'A NEW DAY FOR THE NEGRO RACE — WRITING THEIR OWN ECONOMIC CONTRACT.'
RICHBERG
RANDOLPH
PULLMAN'S OFFICIALS
'THE EMPLOYEE REPRESENTATION PLAN IS DEAD — NEVER TO RISE AGAIN'
'WELL — THERE'S NO MORE EMPLOYEE REPRESENTATION PLAN SO WE'D BETTER JOIN THIS UNION TOO IT'S NEVER TOO LATE TO LEARN'
HEADQUARTERS BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS.
EX-UNCLE TOM PORTERS
'AT LAST THEY HAVE SEEN THE LIGHT'

Words without deeds are as sounding brass and tinkling cymbals. Porters may be ever so useful to the Company but unless they have organization, they will only be useful to the Company but useless to themselves.

"We appreciate the courtesy extended to porters and maids by the Company in giving to their beneficiaries one year's salary," observes Mr. Anderson. Is it possible that in 1926, there is one grown-up human being who thinks that the Pullman Company would give the wife of a dead porter the equivalent of a year's salary of her husband for nothing? It is, indeed, pathetic that such men are imposed on the rank and file by the Company. But, of course, it would not select any other type. The Company only gives the beneficiary of a deceased porter a year's salary of the porter because it did not pay the porter a living wage while he was living and working for it.

Mr. Anderson goes on. "We wish to state again that we are not ungrateful . . . ." Well, if porters were ungrateful nobody could blame them, for they of all railroad workers, have been handed a shamelessly rotten deal in wages and working conditions. And in trying desperately to take the curse off his Uncle Tom tactics, he adds, "But you realize that the high cost of living throughout the entire country has placed a burden upon the porter that is oppression." Undoubtedly he was shivering in his boots when this last sop to the boys back home escaped him. Evidently, he has one eye on the porters and one eye on the Management. If he kowtows too much to the Management, the porters will condemn and hate him, and if he winks at the porters too often, the Management will give him the air, so the poor devil is between the devil and the deep, blue sea. Let us be charitable. Perhaps, his heart is right but his head is wrong.

But even Delegate Anderson realizes that the Management needs to be given some straight talk, and he proceeds to playing see-saw with a wishbone and a backbone attitude. He remarks: "More wages and better working conditions will bring the Company better results . . . . The laborer is worthy of his hire . . . . There is nothing better than a satisfied employee. What would we term a living wage? A wage whereby he will be able to take care of himself and family comfortably, educate his children and place something aside for a rainy day. We wish to refute the statement that is currently reported, that if a porter is paid a larger salary he would not give the proper attention and courtesy to the traveling public." All of this is pretty good for Delegate Anderson. But it amounts to nothing since he doesn't adopt the proper method to secure a living wage.

Delegate Anderson is like the slave who called his master a liar when his back was turned, and when his master caught the sound of the slave's remarks and violently turned on him in indignation and shouted: "What d'you say?" Whereupon the slave quietly replied: "You I am a liar." Thus in order to condemn his master he condemns himself. The low wage of the porter even forces a company union man to say: "The late war created a lot of new passengers for the Pullman Company who are not fully acquainted with the tip. The surcharge in a number of states has also decreased the revenue of the porter." However, Delegate Anderson accepted the pitiful increase of 8 per cent and glorified the Company for it. He makes his supreme bid for the favor of the Company when he exclaimed: "We care nothing for outside interference for we have men and women in our ranks who are capable of managing their own affairs." Evidently the Management smiled benignantly upon the delegation, noting the palaver of so safe a servant.

Following his address the Management representatives complimented him and his fellow representatives on the loyalty, friendly attitude, and cooperative spirit evidenced by the address, according to the minutes. Why not? He said what the Company wanted him to say, throwing just enough sop to the porters to make them think that he is a regular honest-to-goodness delegate. That's a familiar brand of company tactics. As the Floor Leader, Delegate Anderson's business is that of a goat who continues to lead the sheep around in a circle where there is nothing to feed on in order to keep them from leaping the fence and getting into the pasture where there is good grazing.

After his address he presented the following contentions:

1. That the rate of wage for porters and maids be as follows:

Porters	Minimum	2 to 5 yrs.	5 to 15 yrs.	Over 15 yrs.
Standard Car . .	$100.00	$105.00	$110.00	$115.00
Tourist Car . .	105.00	110.00	115.00	120.00

In charge rate $25 additional per month to above named rates.

Composite Car in Charge:	$111.50	$117.50	$121.50	$125.50
Private Car:	$117.00	$121.00	$125.50	$129.50
Maids: .	98.00	101.00	104.00	107.50

This contention, though far too low to be presented, was rejected by the Management.

Contention No. 2. Nine thousand miles per month shall constitute a basic month's service; where a regular assignment is less than nine thousand miles per month, deduction will not be made from the respective monthly wage in consequence thereof.

While this offer was about two thousand miles too many, it was rejected by the Management. Conductors only make 7,200 miles as a service month for a minimum wage of $150.00.

Contention No. 3. Where porters are required to operate on two cars in line service, they shall be paid the minimum rate of a conductor. Of course, where there are two cars there is always a conductor. No doubt the conductor's union requires it, which is as it should be.

Although these delegates didn't ask for anything of consequence, they didn't get what they asked for. Still all but two of these delegates bowed and scraped before the management for being thrown the crumbs of the loaf of bread they made with their own labor. They remind me of the old hat-in-hand Negro politician who was boasting about a great victory he won for the race at a National Republican Convention, who, when asked what was the victory, said, "Through awfully hard work he was finally successful in getting the convention to adopt a resolution saying: 'A man's a man!'" whatever that is. It simply shows that even when the old Uncle Tom Negro gets what he asks for, he hasn't got anything, because he hasn't asked for anything.

In the third meeting, according to the minutes, it was stated in regard to Rule 2, paragraph (a) that the porters' and maids' representatives felt that the mileage limit after which overtime would be paid should be reduced from eleven to nine thousand miles.

In reply to this, Mr. Simmons stated that he thought they were asking for too drastic a cut in the mileage item and requested that they reconsider their petition on this point, and that after reconsideration the matter would be again taken up for discussion . . . .

Why should a reduction of the mileage from 11,000 to 9,000 be too drastic a cut for the porters when the conductors and all other railroad employees only make 7,200 miles a month? And, of course, the Management rejected the request. How on earth a porter can be made to believe that it is more to his interest to make 11,000 miles than 9,000 or 7,200, I can't see. But the adroit Mr. Simmons did the deed. Obviously the delegates wanted a shorter mileage but they were afraid to fight for it. It was a case of the delegates, under the Plan, having their hands in the lion's jaw.

Mr. Hill, of Cincinnati, raised the question as to whether there had not been a violation of seniority rights in placing Filipinos on Club cars. Mr. Powell replied that "There had been much difficulty in getting porters to operate on Club car runs, and when Club car runs were bulletined for bids most of the porters declined to bid on same and especially that class of porters who would have been the most active and efficient Club car porters. They did not want the Club car runs and claimed they could not make satisfactory earnings on such runs."

I am sure Mr. Powell must realize that if the Company paid the men a living wage, they would not decline Club car runs because of inability to make sufficient earnings on same. Continues Mr. Powell, "Porters assigned to Club car runs always expressed a preference for sleeping or parlor car runs and consequently showed a decided apparent lack of interest in Club car service on their part, resulting in a deterioration in Club car service."

Mr. Powell is condemning the low wage scale of Pullman porters by admitting that men refuse Club car runs because of the low earnings on them. Were they receiving a living wage they would not and could not refuse a Club car run. Mr. Powell admits too that their refusal to accept the Club car runs impairs the service which is another way of saying that the low wages paid the porters impairs the service. The conclusion is then according to Mr. Powell's own statement, that it is possible to raise the service by raising the porters' and maids' wages. The income from no run should be so low as not to afford a living wage. According to information received from reliable sources, the Company is paying Filipinos a higher wage for Club car work than it paid the porters; and the Filipinos' working conditions are decidedly better.

Mr. Powell goes on, "In order to overcome this unsatisfactory condition and raise the Club car service to the high standard maintained in other Pullman service, it was decided to try the experiment of placing Filipino boys on some of these cars as Club car attendants, and operating this more like a club feature, the same as the Filipinos are now used in many men's clubs, including athletic clubs, golf clubs, etc."

I think it is pertinent to ask Mr. Powell here, why did the Pullman Company only reach this conclusion about trying Filipinos on the Club cars after the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters was formed? I also understand that several superintendents have admitted that the service of the Filipinos is not more efficient or satisfactory than the Negroes. Nor do I say this in condemnation of the Filipinos. They have a right to work anywhere they can get a job. It is simply a question of fact that the Pullman Company will use Filipinos to discourage Pullman porters from organizing just as it will use Negroes to keep white employees from organizing. It is not that the Company loves the Filipinos more, but that it loves a real union less.

"The result obtained so far has been pleasantly surprising, as not only has the use of these Filipino boys as Club car attendants brought numerous letters complimenting the service, but also our buffet sales on these cars have increased by a large percentage, which automatically results in increasing the compensation of the employees. These Filipinos are giving excellent service and are satisfied with their work, which the porters did not want," observes Mr. Powell.

It is also true that Club cars were given Filipinos over the bidding of old porters which is certainly a violation of seniority rights if seniority rights in the Pullman service mean the same as they do in other railroad work. But the whole key to the Filipino situation is contained in the last sentence of Mr. Powell's statement, namely, "The Company always reserves the right to use any class or nationality of employees that may be necessary to bring our service up to a high standard of excellence and to prevent its deterioration into unsatisfactory conditions."

It will be remembered that at the beginning of the movement to organize the porters, Mr. Perry W. Howard, Special Assistant to the U. S. Attorney General and self-admitted agent of the Pullman Company, in a debate with the writer, as well as in newspaper dispatches, told the porters that if they organized the Company would put Filipinos on the cars. Shortly thereafter a few Filipinos were placed on the Club cars of the Pennsylvania. It is reasonable to assume that the Filipinos were employed with a view to throwing fear into the hearts of the porters and thereby break up the union. It might have been done to give some color of truth to Mr. Howard's prediction that the porters, frightened and alarmed, would say, "Perry Howard was right, we had better leave that union alone." Naturally some other reason would have to be formed for the Company's suddenly finding that the porters on some Club car runs were not giving as satisfactory service as the Filipinos might give. It is significant to note in this connection also that the Company never thought of employing any other nationality on the cars until porters began organizing a union of, by and for the porters.

(To be continued in next issue.)

E. J. Bradley

E. J. BRADLEY

E. J. Bradley, after twenty years of service with the Pullman Company, resigns to take charge of the affairs of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in the St. Louis territory. E. J. Bradley, when leaving the Pullman Co., left a record as follows: He never had a loss occur on his car while in service. Had never been written up by a passenger, a railway official, a railway employee, a Pullman official or a Pullman employee. He had never carried a passenger beyond, nor put them off short of their destination. A record worthy of the admiration of anyone. E. J. Bradley has always had his co-workers' interest at heart and has tried various methods secretly, to bring about better conditions among Pullman Porters.

When the present time book, now in use, was introduced by the company, he was given the position of instructor of it, and there had his first opportunity of proving his worth as an intelligent man.

The management called him in and advised, due to his ability, to take extra pains in instructing the lesser educated porters. This he had voluntarily done prior to the advice of the management. While in this work as time book instructor, he built up a gigantic, everlasting friendship among his co-workers, and when the plan of employees' representation was handed to the Porters by the management, after a conference of some of the oldest and best porters in the service, they decided that he would prove the best man in the St. Louis district to act as chairman of their grievance committee, in said plan.

When the delegation from the aforesaid conference met him, and broached the question to him, serving on local committee "C." He informed the delegation that the plan was not worth the paper it was written on, and after having built up a confidence in the majority of Porters of St. Louis, while instructor on the time book, he did not care to shatter that confidence by serving on a committee as chairman, on a plan that was a company's plan, that the delegation, he, nor the porters at large knew anything about.

However, after much persuasion on the part of friends who had seen twenty and thirty years (20 and 30) of service, he agreed to run on the ballot in the ensuing election for chairman of grievance committee "C." As committee "C" was to be represented by three (3) porters, E. J. Bradley recommended to the delegation what men he would prefer serving with on that committee. Men whom he knew to be staunch supporters for Pullman Porters' Justice, and the rights of men. He and the two (2) men that he selected were placed on the ballot in the primary election. All three (3) were elected with Bradley as Chairman by an overwhelming vote.

In the final election the three were elected by an overwhelming vote and immediately started on their duties of taking up grievances for porters. He can truthfully say that after serving for two (2) years as Chairman for local committee "C," he was never able to have a man restored to work that had been discharged or had been pulled off by the management, or accomplished anything that could be termed a victory for the committee, during its (2) two years in office.

The chairman was told on two (2) occasions by the management that this committee was not supposed to take up such grievances as he presented, and that if he did not "lay off" of such grievances as hereinafter mentioned he would be in bad himself as a result of his strenuous efforts to do something for men they had discharged or pulled off.

This is what they told him in plain English: "We will give you to understand that when we decide we do not want porters to work for us, your committee, or no one else, can do them any good." All of which bore out Bradley's statement to the delegation two years previously when they begged him to run for chairman of the committee. He has made several attempts at organization work among Pullman Porters, and has met with little or no success. But had never given up hope for justice, through organization, by Pullman Porters for their cause. Hence, when he read an article in THE MESSENGER Magazine in June, 1925, by A. Philip Randolph, on the importance of an organization of Pullman Porters, he began corresponding with Mr. Randolph concerning organization work, and has been very active in the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters from that time on, having become a member of that organization, November 4, 1925.

He began immediately organizing men in St. Louis and outlying districts, and knows the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is here to stay, as it is what he has advocated since 1916.

Mr. Bradley was fortunate in proving his ability as an organizer to the extent that Mr. Randolph has placed him as Organizer and Secretary-Treasurer for the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in the St. Louis territory. This trust placed in him by Mr. Randolph and his co-workers, he vows he will carry to his grave untainted and unmarred, in spite of all opposition. Mr. Bradley is located in a hard field and realizes that fact, but rather appreciates it due to the fact as he sees it, the harder the fight the sweeter the victory, and pledges his sincere word of honor to live for and die with the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

Advertise in THE MESSENGER

OUR LOCAL STRUGGLE TO ORGANIZE ST. PAUL, MINNESOTA

By PAUL L. CALDWELL

(Local Secretary-Treasurer, B. S. C. P.)

ALTHOUGH there had been spasmodic attempts to organize the Pullman porters as well as other railroad employees as far back as 1909, and at one time around 1919, there seemed chances of success, it was not until about October, 1925, that there seemed a possibility of getting the men in a common frame of mind to act with sufficient enthusiasm and a singleness of purpose to make one feel that the time was ripe to act. This was in part due to the treatment of the men by the local officials, the utter collapse of hope of the "Representative Plan" to function in favor of the employees, and to the agitation of the Brotherhood leaders in the East. When rumors began to come in, through porters from eastern districts and our boys running to Chicago that the chances of success under the leadership of Mr. A. Philip Randolph were better than ever before, the porters in these two districts again lighted the fires of hope, and began to bestir themselves to get more information and to take stock on the previous causes of failure. Once this was done, it was only a matter of waiting for the message to be brought to them to give assurances that the men would "rally to the flag" in sufficient numbers to spread the propaganda of agitation and education into the ranks of the more timid and less informed men as to their condition of servitude.

P. L. CALDWELL

In the latter part of December, 1925, we were supplied with application blanks, receipt books and other paraphernalia, and at a meeting in the home of one of the porters, a local representative was elected and his name forwarded to headquarters by telegraph. As soon as bonds were arranged, this representative was designated local secretary-treasurer and opened his home as local headquarters, and began a rather spectacular fight for the completion of a local organization.

Before we began taking membership a large number of men from both St. Paul and Minneapolis on runs to Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha and other cities, which had been visited by the General Organizing staff, had taken membership in those districts and we were surprised at the first meeting we held in St. Paul to find such a large number who not only held cards, but expressed their willingness to carry the banner of light to those in darkness.

The first meeting was attended by a large number of men from both cities and among them some representatives of the Pullman Company in the persons of what we term "stool pigeons." At that time, we had not become familiar with the tactics of the Company, and therefore did not feel the need of separating the sheep from the goats. However, we learned quickly, for we soon found the heavy hand of Pullman penalization by finding the most active men at the meetings removed from their regular runs. Some were relieved completely and others put on the extra list. This opened our eyes to what we had believed to be impossible; the fact that one Negro, no matter how low, would stoop to inform upon another, to prevent him from lawfully combining to better his economical condition. That seemed impossible. While this gave us food for thought, and made us more cautious in our later meetings, it did not dampen our ardor, but made us more determined to succeed. It also made us suspicious of certain men whom we later found out were seeking special personal favors from the Company.

Having heard by this time that certain weeklies were sold to the Company to carry the propaganda against the Brotherhood, we decided to visit our local paper offices to find out what was its attitude toward us. On the day of our visit, we were informed that one of the proprietors was at the time in conference with the local superintendent. We made another call and were informed that the policy of the paper was to give a fair and impartial hearing to each side of any controversy, and has since done so. While the Company was distributing several hundred copies free to the men through the office, every copy carried our advertisement, and whatever articles we wished printed. I am sure that we got news into the hands of the porters in this way, which could not have reached them had they been buying the paper.

I must also here commend the young editor for his fair and impartial stand toward space in his columns, and at one time he printed an editorial in our favor.

On February 7, 1926, at nine-thirty, Sunday morning, we received a message that the General Organizer and Field Organizer would arrive on the morning of February 11th, for a stay of five days. Although we knew they were coming soon, we had no idea of the date. However, by our close contact with the ministry of the two cities and their willingness to cooperate with us, by eleven-thirty of the same morning, the message was received, arrangements had been made for four meetings for the afternoon, two mass meetings for Sunday, February 14th, and a night meeting for each night of their stay with us, and a notice had been read from every pulpit in the twin cities. The attendance at these meetings proved far above expectations due to the magnetic appeal made by Mr. Randolph at the first meeting.

As soon as the local officials learned that the men were in earnest, they began the usual forms of intimidation. Through their petty Negro officials, they put out reports of every kind, such as that the Company knew every man who was a member, and intended firing them as soon as they could hire new ones; that this was only a scheme to rob them of their money; and that the Company was planning to give the boys a large increase in salary, but was only waiting for them to kill the Brotherhood; and numerous other sweet myths of Pullman generosity and love for the men.

Then again, every time we called a public meeting, they called as many men to the yards as would come presumably for special instructions or any other hoax to keep them from attending with us. While all these things had results with the more timid men, it was not difficult to see that they were only trying to prevent the men from joining and thanks to the intelligence of the majority of the men and the fear of ridicule by some of the less enthusiastic of them, we can feel assured that in a matter of very short while now we will be a hundred per cent. organized.

Now as to outside influences. We have a story to tell. The local press, white, was approached and one of them gave us quite a bit of space, including a feature article about the increase of pay granted by the Company because of Brotherhood agitation. The other gave promises, but to date has never given us a single line. According to the white labor leaders in the Twin Cities, we are no worse off in that respect than other labor organizations.

The ministry, although they have allowed our notices to be read and sold or gave us the use of the churches (mostly sold), has been nearer neutral than active in our activities. The local secretaries of the Urban League, the chairman of the local branch of the N. A. A. C. P., and the head of the Phyllis Wheatley Community Center, were more than cordial to our cause, and put themselves to much pains to assist us in the movement. Miss Brown, of the Phyllis Wheatley, found it necessary to take a firm stand against Pullman influence to give us free use of a meeting place in Minneapolis.

The secretaries of the local Trades Assemblies were very helpful both in giving advice and furnishing speakers for our meetings. They gave us the free use of the columns of the labor papers, and the secretary of the state labor council, who is president of the St. Paul local assembly, arranged a speaking date for Mr. Randolph while on his second tour. A local of the A. F. of L., a member of the local assembly in Minneapolis, composed of our own people, made the only opposition to Mr. Randolph's speaking to that body, but when he had completed expressing his contempt for any labor organization who opposed ours, I am sure few had the nerve or inclination to show their faces in public for some time.

After Mr. Randolph's second visit in July, 1926, our opposition has been wholehearted and carried on most vigorously by the black faced Pullman officials, which showed the most childish weakness when it met our ranks in contest; such as voting in the representative plan.

The organization of the women's auxiliary in the separate cities has met with marked success, especially in St. Paul, and women with determination and ability have been chosen to lead in both cities. St. Paul women, like the men, have shown the more united spirit, but that only gives to the leaders the incentive to greater energy. When the call comes for the National Convention our women will not be among the least to answer the roll. If every district has the support of as loyal a group as has the Twin Cities, we need have no fear that the hands of our indomitable leader will be held high on the day of the final battle.

Editorials

(Continued from page 15)

the life, habits and aims of peoples of color, and especially the Negro, by the poisonous propaganda of the Nordic saviors of The Great White Race. As the European intelligentsia come to tell us about Europe, let us go and tell them the truth about the Negro.

By focussing world opinion upon our problem we more successfully challenge our bigoted detractors. Moreover, if the misrepresentations of a people have become international, the refutation of those misrepresentations must also be made international. The cry of American lynchers against outside interference is a defense mechanism against outside moral condemnation. Just as the Irish carried their problem outside of Ireland so must the Negro carry his problem outside of America.

But such a delegation will not only seek to break down the false views of the Negro but to bring back for the Negro's enlightenment a body of information as will serve them advantageously in the formulation of economic, social and political policies.

BOOKS

Wholesale Robbery

THE STATE, by Franz Oppenheimer. Published by The Vanguard Press, Inc., 80 Fifth Avenue, New York City. 290 pages. Price, 50 cents.

REVIEWED BY GEORGE S. SCHUYLER

Here is a neat cloth-bound volume by a noted German economist and sociologist that contains within its grey covers a wealth of material highly provocative of deep thought. The development of the State, which the author defines as "an organization of one class dominating over the other classes," is well described in all times and climes, ancient and modern, European, African, Asiatic, Australian and American. The facts are admirably marshalled with incontrovertible logic to prove the author's point: that the State is now and always has been, no matter where and of what race, based on robbery and exploitation of the lower classes by the upper class, whether in slave states, feudal states or modern capitalist states. He tears aside the veil of buncombe and reveals the inner workings of this organism.

The book is written in simple language and provides a valuable text for those interested in "knowing what it is all about." The reader obtains a clearer understanding of the social and economic life past and present.

It is especially commended to Negroes because it clears up questions that must puzzle many in our group, as well as showing that the same economic and social forces have always been operative alike among whites, blacks, browns and yellows. Indeed, there is much information presented relative to the formation and development of Negro states in Africa that should prove stimulating and instructive.

Sobbing Saxophones

So THIS IS JAZZ, by Henry O. Osgood. Little, Brown & Co., Boston Mass.

REVIEWED BY CLARENCE CAMERON WHITE

As the author states in his foreword—"Here is a story for the reader who would like to know a little something more about what he has been enjoying—or detesting—for the last decade."

To prove that this very attractive volume is something more than "a little more" one has only to know that its author is both a writer of distinction (at present one of the Editors of Musical Courier) and at the same time a musician and composer of serious accomplishments. Mr. Osgood was at one time a conductor of the Munich Royal Opera and has to his credit as a composer many worthwhile songs and piano pieces. At the outset let it be understood that this new book is a well written and accurate history of the subject. The material treated in its two hundred and fifty pages comes from an open minded musical authority and personally we cannot imagine a better job. It is at once a most faithful chronology of each successive step in the History of Jazz Music.

Here is a book which is apt to be approached with prejudice by one who is convinced before hand "that all arts ended with the Old Masters," but the Reviewer feels that the American's love for general information will carry him through to the point of enthusiasm before he reaches page 250.

I venture to say that one who detests Jazz knows it only in the original or "Ted Lewis' period" as described by the author—who quite truthfully says that Jazz has gone from one extreme to another—at first it was all noise, but now, thanks to the "mute," jazz is a whisper. The book is well illustrated with thematic material, biographic sketches and excellent photos of Paul Whiteman, our own W. C. Handy, and the well known "Kings of Jazz" Vincent Lopez, George Gershwin, Irving Berlin, Ben Bernie, Zez Confrey, et al.

There are illuminating chapters on Spirituals, Blues and every conceivable component part of Jazz, as well as a unique insight into the financial gains of Jazz Composers, Publishers, and performers.

Quite the best argument for a sane view of Jazz as applied to the dance is the quotation on page 247 from a sermon by the Rev. Charles Stelzle of New York. An interesting truth is the quotation from Olin Downes, musical critic of the New York Times, who says: "The American Negro has contributed fundamentally to this art."

We are not clear on just what Mr. Osgood calls a 'Jazz Concert" when he says that Whiteman's concert in February, 1924, was the first "Jazz Concert." From his description of the instrumentation used and selections played, we fear he has erred. The concerts given several years prior to this date by James Reese Europe with the "Clef Club" and those by Will Marion Cook with the "Memphis Students" struck us as Jazz concerts par excellence. No less an authority than Percy Grainger has written of this "Clef Club" concert as an experience in his life. Of course it may be argued that Europe's "Clef Club" concert was not "Jazz" as was Ted Lewis', but to my mind this proves that the Negro Orchestra was years ahead in what we call today the "development of Modern Jazz." That is to say that white orchestras are just emerging from the chaos of Jazz to the rhythmic precision plus the melody line as employed by Europe's Clef Club Orchestra. Nevertheless, one who reads this book, if open minded, is bound to be grateful that such a well written treatise on the subject came his way. It wipes out many prejudices without giving the impression that you have succumbed to a very subtle bit of propaganda. One finds a rich humor under the surface of many lines, and we have a sneaking feeling that Mr. Osgood has already or may at some future time try his musician's hand in the field of Jazz composition, following of course, the lines of George Gershwin, whose works are so thoroughly and enthusiastically written about.

We close the book with a strong conviction that it will find a place in the library of the musician who wishes to be well informed in musical history as well as upon one of America's chief industries.

A Homelitic Anthology

BEST SERMONS, 1926. Edited by Jos. Fort Newton. Harcourt Brace & Company. $2.50 net.

REVIEWED BY WILLIAM LLOYD IMES

Here is a book of sermonic literature long to be remembered by its sheer goodness of content and particularly by the breadth and vision of its social judgment. It is a democratic book in the best sense of that much-abused term. Every distinguished type of minister, regardless of race, has contributed to its make-up. Our own Negro ministry has been ably represented by the Rev. Vernon Johns, a young clergyman of Lynchburg, Va., who was born in that state, educated in Union University and Oberlin, and whose style of preaching, if the matter presented in his sermon in this collection is typical, is refreshing and prophetic. The Jewish ministry is represented on its orthodox side by Rabbi Leon Harrison, of St. Louis, while in another phase it is a mark of distinguished taste to place the learned Felix Adler, with his wealth of ethical idealism. Every conceivable type of preacher who has a message worth saying, from the arch-fundamentalist, Professor Machen, of Princeton, to the doughty protagonist of liberal Christian thought, Harry Emerson Fosdick, is welcomed to these pages, and the result is a wonderful and fascinating study of the myriad interests which are touched by the preacher. Not that preachers always say or promote the most enlightened things, but even the very lack of social and moral vision is in large measure compensated for by the almost bewildering array of human aspirations voiced in such a volume as this.

This book of sermons is the result, in its editorial side, of the genius of that really great preacher himself, Joseph Fort Newton, whose modesty forbids his placing in the volume any of his own very well-wrought sermons, and he has exhibited a rare tact and amazing skill of seeking out the best samples of American preaching of the present. The reviewer has already emphasized the inclusiveness of the authors represented in this homiletic anthology; let him now dare to say that even with that inclusiveness there is somewhat of a lower standard set by the average content of these sermons, measured in terms of the adventurous thinking that we might expect of prophetic voices. In spite of the first sentence of this review, in which praise for "goodness of content" and "social judgment" is ungrudgingly given, we must admit that the general level of the book is hardly quite up to such a standard, and that a few outstanding figures like Fosdick, Coffin and Patton, with some others, must lift the level in regard to the greater social ideals of religion, and the application of those ideals to daily life, industry, business, education and all the rest of human experience.

And this is not a criticism of the book as being Best Sermons, 1926, any more than I could rightly criticize a photographer for taking a picture of my house and lot in an untidy condition. Our social order is fearfully untidy, and if any set of people on the earth know the ruin of social disorder, it is the Christian ministry and their allies of other religious faiths. It is therefore expected that the note of genuine concern for a righteous world-order will ever be the haunting note in any sermon of the present day. And the tragedy of our American ministry is right there; we do not, on the average, discern clearly the spiritual message for the great world social struggle, and fearlessly and faithfully give that message.

Joseph Fort Newton, then, deserves our thanks for showing us America's preaching of the present, without race or creed being excluded from the total picture. He even does what few Catholics would on their side dare to do, regarding Protestants, he presents one of their own eloquent voices, one of the Paulist Fathers, Bertrand L. Conway, whose message is certainly vigorous and worth reading, and full of discerning thought which Protestant folk might well ponder.

Dr. Newton is the first American white preacher, so far as I am aware, to break the barrier of the color-line in religious anthologies. I was profoundly impressed by the genuine spirit of brotherly esteem and good will which prompted him to feel that no American output, whether from pulpit, factory or farm, is really representative of America, until black and white, Jew and Gentile, orthodox and heretical, all sides and conditions, are presented as a composite picture of our American life.

New Year's Message to Big Shroud-and-Coffin Men

TROPIC DEATH, by Eric Walrond. Boni & Liverwright, New York. 283 pages. Price, $2.00.

Reviewed by THEOPHILUS LEWIS

Next to a good fifteen-cent drink of liquor what this country needs most is a Negro publishing house which will devote its whole energy to selling literature written by Negro writers for Negro readers. Before the rich undertakers leave the audience under the impression that I am about to suggest investing their surplus capital in some philanthropic scheme to promote Aframerican art let me say right now I have no such notion in my head. So far as I can see there is very little or no Aframerican art for anybody to promote, except poetry, and the man who finances it is pretty likely to lose his jack. On the other hand, I believe there is a barrel of money waiting for the well-heeled citizen who will underwrite a project for providing literature for the plain people of African persuasion. Perhaps "literature" isn't just the right word. Probably "reading matter" is a better term, for what I have in mind is quantity production of adventure stories, uplift stories, love stories, sex stories, sport stories, idiotic stories of all kinds for the moron progeny of Uncle Remus and Aunt Chloe.

As I hinted above, the undertakers who put their cash in the project should shun the appearance of "art" as they would shun the corpse of a pauper with no insurance policy, and devote their ability solely to the low, vulgar and sordid business of making money. Let them knock together a pamphlet of two short stories to sell for a dime, a novelette and some smutty epigrams for a quarter, and a de luxe paperback novel to retail for fifty cents; and let them embellish some of their covers with pictures of sweet young browns exposing their legs and mammae while other covers suggest the hot stuff inside by showing a half naked yellow girl struggling in the embrace of a lecherous klansman while a charcoal policeman, with his gun in one hand and his nightstick in the other, batters down the door with his forehead. No more than one-fourth of the firm's annual budget should be invested in their product; the rest should be spent in high pressure advertising in the colored press. I prophesy that the first year's operation would put a big dent in Mr. Macfadden's circulation while the expansion of the second year would decrease the dividends of Street & Smith.

The success of the venture would turn the eyes of Negro writers inward toward the things and people they are familiar with. While at first there would be a great flood of cheap and salacious stuff, pretty soon the market for trash would become saturated and the publishers would be forced to consider the smaller but by no means negligible profits putting out literature, for the intelligent minority of the race would produce. As a result there would come into being an idiomatic literature of Aframerican thought and feeling all compact, which, since the Caucasian literature of the country is now coming into the full power of maturity, is the one thing needed to make the spiritual expression of America full and complete. Do I contradict facts when I say that the way for the Negro to make his contribution to world culture is to narrow his art down to the tastes of his own little group? Go to hell, man, and ask the ghost of Shakespeare if he didn't write his masterpieces for the strictly English audience of the Globe Theater!

The soul of art is not repression but sincerity. And excepting Walter White and Aubrey Bowser, and Jean Toomer in his first book, no contemporary Negro writer of fiction is sincere in his attitude toward his art or the world. Instead we have men who couldn't tell when they should be served a finger bowl if it would save them from being lynched trying to affect the ultra-sophistication of Oscar Wilde or James Branch Cabell. This is not because colored artists as a class are insincere and prompted by a vain desire to affect a more advanced culture than they possess. It is simply because, like all artists, they want to see their work put before the public, and to accomplish that they must please a publisher whose final judgment is decided by what he thinks white people will pay for reading. I can see no way out for the Negro artist until some colored capitalist or some adventurous white publisher stakes his money on what he thinks black people will pay for reading.

This idea, which will probably be worth a million dollars to somebody, came in my head while conning Eric Walrond's Tropic Death, a group of short stories published by Boni & Liveright. There is power in Walrond's good right arm and his stories are full of a bizarre and satanic beauty, but every one of them is marred by his attempt to make them conform to the current American idea that the Negro the world over is inevitably an exotic and pagan character. This idea, of course, is bunk. Take, for instance, Barbados, the scene of the Black Pin. If I remember right, the islands, not over-rich in natural resources, support 200 people to the square mile. As a consequence the standard of living is so low that every nigger with brains enough to amass the shillings embarks for Panama at the earliest opportunity, with hopes of ultimately getting himself smuggled into New York. You simply don't find any spontaneous, Dionysian attitude toward life among people of a country like that any more than you find it among the inhabitants of the backwoods of Alabama. The people of those regions may be wild, but never pagan.

Another thing that bedevils the stories is the author's attempt to reproduce the various dialects of his characters phonetically. This, at times, results in an unintelligible jargon which I don't believe Walrond himself understands any more. This employment of dialect does not assist in the revelation of character, of course, but it does go a great way toward making his people strange and incomprehensible; i. e. "exotic."

Then there is his leaning toward expressionism. Expressionistic writing is not at all as easy as it seems. It is not just writing diconnected sentences. Unless there is an underlying unity of thought made vivid by the explosive, pizzicato phrases, expressionism disintegrates in mere incoherence. But this too envelopes a character in an "exotic" aura.

Nevertheless I like these stories in spite of their obvious flaws. You can compare The Palm Porch with The Heart of Darkness without being guilty of sacrilege It falls miles below Conrad's story in style and finish, of course, but comes right up to the mark in its vivid portrayal of character. My heart bled for Ballet, the martyr in Subjection, and if Ella, the heroine of Panama Gold, ever migrates to America I'd like to meet her.

Nearing Is Annoyed

THE BRITISH GENERAL STRIKE, by Scott Nearing. Published by The Vanguard Press, New York. Price, 50 cents.

Reviewed by FRANK R. CROSSWAITH

In this book of 186 pages, Professor Nearing undertakes to give "an economic interpretation of the background and significance" of the British General Strike. In thus making this the purpose of his book, no criticisms can be leveled at our good and restless Comrade Nearing. However, it is only in the first and second chapters that the author adheres to his avowed promise. And it may be said in passing that the first twenty-two pages are, on the whole, well done and worth while reading; not that in them the author advances anything new in Socialist thought or trade union technique, but in the concise chronicling of certain historical facts as these relate to the labor movement in the British Empire and in Europe.

Having passed page 22, the reader will find that not unlike most sociologists and economists who look upon every stir and rustle of the labor movement as the finale to the class-struggle, the author sings the blues, laments over the postponement of the revolution, and explains its abbreviation on the grounds of poor leadership, cowardice, treachery, and the usual array of invectives known to all Simon-pure revolutionists. These friends of labor, knowing the labor movement only from a theoretical approach, and not entrusted with leadership and responsibility, are unable to advance any other explanation for the failure of labor to go the full hog than to level their guns at those at the head of the movement.

According to Professor Nearing, when the British workers called a general strike on May 3, 1926, they did so with the knowledge that the strike would evolute into a revolution. If the author wants to believe that (and I wonder if he really does?), he is entitled to whatever exciting pleasure goes to one naive enough to believe it. The author implies that the red hot revolutionary British workers would have realized their aims and hopes, if they had Zinovieff, Trotsky, and Cook instead of McDonald, Henderson, and Thomas. It is a significant fact that in an effort to misinterpret the general strike and criticize some of its leaders, Nearing finds himself locked arm in arm with Premier Baldwin and Winston Churchill in ascribing to the strike aims and ends it had not. "On one thing I can give the Nation confident assurance, the general strike in support of the miners was never meant as, and even now is not, a strike against Parliament, the Government, or the Constitution," says McDonald, to which we rise to second the motion, Comrade Nearing's objection notwithstanding. The only justification for the great educational work carried on by labor and those with a social vision is to make the adjustment from a decaying capitalist system to a sane social order accompanied with as little chaos as possible, and avoid, if possible, a reversion to barbarism as means to effect social change.

New Contributors

William Lloyd Imes is Pastor of St. James Presbyterian Church, New York City.

James Mickles is a Negro Worker, 24 years old, living in Richmond, Va.

Clarence Cameron White is the well known violinist, composer and music critic at present Director of the Music Department of the West Virginia Collegiate Institute.

IS MARRIAGE A FAILURE?

See Page 2

Are You Unknown?

YOU

May have accomplished much

May own beautiful property

May fill a position of responsibility

May own a flourishing business

May be honored and respected in your community

BUT—

The outer world knows nothing of you

Nothing about your refinement

Nothing about your culture

Nothing about your achievements

Nothing about your influence

Nothing about your family

WHY?

Because information about you has not been properly disseminated, if at all—Because you have not been ADVERTISED.

LISTEN!

Why do you suppose that of two men, equally rich, equally educated, equally cultured and refined, equally responsible and substantial, one is known all over the country while the other is known only in his neighborhood?

The answer is: The nationally known man has been advertised nationally; the other one has not.

Demand Increases Value

This is true of commodities and individuals. One must be recognized in order to have value. And one's value and importance increases as one is more widely recognized and one's attainments are broadcast to the world.

LET US

Put you before the world in a dignified and artistic manner, with an excellent, human interest biography, beautiful portraits of the members of your family and photographs of your property.

We have the best literary, typographical and photographic artists obtainable in our employ. Our entire service is at your command.

Write for particulars to

THE AMERICAN BIOGRAPHIC BUREAU

2311 Seventh Avenue, New York, N. Y.

WHERE THE REAL POWER LIES

By A. SAGGITARIUS

PLEASING surprises may have mirrored itself on the features of the super-human hierachies when the Divine Intelligence effected the division of the human race into sexes. Who can picture the feelings of the lonely guardian of Eden as he woke from the assimilative period of a cosmic night to view the companion who would hereafter share his delights and dangers on his upward march to perfection? That mate for which his happy Eden was later lost for a world where knowledge was thenceforth gained by the thorny path of experience. It was a radical change when compared with the past free gift of Divinity. This separation of forces made him master of will while bequeathing to the gentler sex, imagination.

These were the sub-strata on which our civilization and all others have been built. The maintenance of a fine balance between the divided forces became a question of moment. The will to dominate on the one hand was opposed by the desire to possess on the other.

In this early stage of human development, the law of force was the most generally recognized one. Unleavened by higher reasoning, man compensated himself for the loss of his carefree existence, by the forceful domination of what he considered the cause of that loss. He was lord by right of conquest and his bovine nature was soothed by the conceit. To the gentler sex, possessing attributes more closely Divine, there was no conquest. The apparent yielding was merely a recognition of the peculiarity of the materials to be worked on and overcome. Thus the imaginative faculties, with its wide range to choose from, was ever actively engaged in devising plans to hold the martial forces in check; while affording its possessor occasional glimpses of the vision of her dreamworld. Here one notes the wonderful brilliance of Divine Intelligence shining forth in the results.

Man boastful of his will and constituting himself protector of the gentler sex, was developing that finer side of his nature that made living with him possible, as he strove to be ruler of the forces which encompassed him. Whilst woman, quiet, patient, tactful and subtle, was through adversity producing the will necessary in rounding out his nature. She possessed the real power behind the line of fire. That sustaining power which maintained the morale of her aggressive comrade in the face of impending danger or temporary defeat, giving him just sufficient stimulus to attempt the task that alone would seem insurmountable.

Thus equipped she was allotted the greater part in reproducing and building up the races, through the medium of motherhood. The progress of development on both sides was slow and tedious. To trace it, step by step, would be a task beyond the scope of my ability. It is sufficient to point out the fruition in our present day civilization; with emphasis on the fact that true comradeship is more in evidence now than in the past. The dominant traits of the one has so permeated the other as to make the state a possibility.

From the various dramas now being produced, the end of an era seems drawing to a close. It marks a critical period. With the greater equalization of the powers of the sexes, and the entrance of women in the arenas of activity, once solely controlled by men, only the spirit of true brotherhood can maintain a relation of harmony. The question of domination must be entirely abolished and the powers thus conserved be directed towards the building of a higher state of civilization than has ever existed on this planet.

It was in accordance with the above ideas that the executives of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters organized a Ladies' Auxiliary wherever a local was set up. Too much cannot be said for the wisdom of this decision or for the splendid cooperation and help that the movement has received from this source. Although like the men of their race, their contribution to economics has been mostly in the field of unorganized labor, they were quick to grasp the significance and great value of organization when presented by the organizers and became great votaries of the cause.

Their alert minds and willing hands are ever active carrying forward to a successful issue this hope of a group and a race.

Whenever harsh measures by the opposing side threaten to break the morale of the men, their steadying influence is felt—the power behind the line of fire. The reaction of women, favorable or otherwise, to all important questions, has produced a like result even though history—man-made—does not record it. While true that their names may not be recorded among the "Heroines of History" every mother, wife, sister or sweetheart who is helping a brother to win his fight for economic freedom is one of nature's heroines and will be justly rewarded from that never failing source. All honor to the brave women and girls who are equal to all emergencies. With God and them on our side, we certainly are in the majority. Now, I ask you, how can we lose?

Winners in Bobbed Hair Contest Held At Manhattan Casino, By B. S. C. P., December 3rd

1st Prize

Miss Gertrude E. Williams, New York City

2nd Prize, Miss Naomi Davis, New York City

3rd Prize

Mrs. Mae Woods, New York City

Group Tactics

(Continued from page 14)

freely developed among the two different groups is the best solution that can be administered to this problem.

6. I desire always to see the Negro race maintain its identity. Because the moment the group loses its identity it fails to exist under true representation.

7. I believe any group or race regardless of whether it is minority or majority, can obtain and maintain industrial and social equality and freely mingle with any other race.

8. I do and I do not believe in segregation. I do not believe in segregation from a social equal-right-privilege, economic, and industrial standpoint, but on the other hand, I believe in segregation when it has for its purpose: To bridge the path of amalgamation.

Samuel Franklin Mitchell,
1425 T Street, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

* * *

1. Yes; nations rise and then fall, instead of continuing to rise, unless—what? Negro fairness even unto foolishness craves the regeneration of the United States from

(Continued on page 31)

NEGRO CHIEFS TELL OF HOOVER FUNDS

Georgian and Mississippian Leave Doubt on How Delegates Will Vote.

EDITOR'S MEMORY HAZY

Atlanta Man Kept No Records of Donations — Mississippi Outlay $11,800.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—It costs money to run the negro Republican machines south of the Potomac, and after the money is spent it is not always safe to count on the delegates, even in States where there is no opposition to a candidate and in which friends of that candidate supplied most of the cash, according to testimony today before the Senate campaign fund investigating committee. Ben Davis, negro Republican National Committeeman from Georgia, and Perry W. Howard, negro Committeeman from Mississippi, told of their activities during the pre-convention campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination at Kansas City.

Davis, who still looks and talks like an old-time Southern "darky," was a puzzle to the committee. He was not able to say just how he had expended the money turned over to him by Rush Holland, who had charge of Georgia for the Hoover organization. He keeps no books, has no records and was able to produce just one receipt that had nothing to do with the candidacy of Mr. Hoover. He is now for the renomination of Mr. Coolidge, although he said Mr. Hoover was his second choice.

On the other hand, Howard, highly intelligent, polite and frank, made a favorable impression. He said that obligations incurred by his organization, mainly in the furtherance of the Hoover campaign, amounted to about $11,800. Of this amount, $4,000 was supplied by Holland and another $1,000 is still to be paid, he said. As for this final $1,000, he was, he added, feeling "a little threadbare" as to his chances of getting it.

Both Uncertain About Hoover.

Howard, like Davis, did not impress the committee as being unduly enthusiastic for the nomination of Mr. Hoover. Howard explained that a brand new Republican Party has come into existence in Mississippi since the great flood of 1927 and that the directing head of the new organization, which is white, is L. O. Crosby, one of the leading lumbermen of the South, who was Mr. Hoover's chief of operations in Mississippi at the time of the flood.

Howard declared that he was waiting to see if he is "being played with" or has been "double-crossed" before he takes a definite stand on the Republican nomination. The delegation he is heading, which was largely financed by Holland, he intimated, is not instructed for Mr. Hoover but uninstructed.

Davis's manner of answering questions was in striking contrast to that of Howard. The Georgia committeeman, who described himself as an editor, had a way of answering "Yes" and "No" without adding words and at times seemed a bit surly.

On the other hand, Howard, who referred to Senator Harrison as his good friend and to Senator Stephens, the other Mississippi Senator, as a [illegible] and came to Washington where he conferred with leaders here. In the end he won and went back to Georgia with his title to command unchallenged.

On one occasion a man named Arns showed up, he testified, who had a letter from Mr. Hoover in which Mr. Hoover gave orders that there was to be no buying or corrupting of delegates. Only the Hoover organization had sought delegates in Georgia, declared Davis.

Davis, continuing, said that the money turned over to him by Holland has been expended. Asked for the written record of how it was expended, Davis answered that he did not keep any books.

Senator Bratton asked Davis why it was necessary for him to make so many trips to Washington, and he replied it was, among other things, to attend to business in the departments involving appointments. When an appointment was recommended, it had to be followed up, he explained.

In the State convention no names but those of Coolidge and Hoover were mentioned, said Davis. Personally, he said, he was for Coolidge first and Hoover second.

Asked if there was any chance of Georgia going Republican, Davis made the audience laugh when he answered that though he live twenty-five or even forty years longer he never expected to see a district in Georgia go Republican.

Davis was asked if the money given him by Holland had not been mainly used to pay the expenses of the delegates to the State convention. He replied that that was probably how it was used.

Tells of Crosby's Activities.

Howard, an Assistant Attorney General, followed Davis. He said that he had been connected with the Department of Justice since May, 1921.

At the start he told the committee of activities of Mr. Crosby, the Picayune (Miss.) lumberman, to organize a white Republican Party in the State. He referred to Mr. Crosby as Hoover's closest friend in the State. He was worried to such an extent by the entrance of Mr. Crosby into the political arena that he sought a conference with Walter F. Brown, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, who told him, he said, Holland was in charge of Mississippi and, at Brown's suggestion, Howard and Crosby were brought together.

"Mr. Brown said to me," continued Howard, "that he had turned Mississippi and other Southern States over to Mr. Holland and that Mr. Holland and myself were to talk over the situation. He said he guessed Mr. Holland and I could get along together.

Mr. Brown told him, he added, that his faction was in for "quite a fight with these Crosby people." He admitted that was so subsequently, he testified, Holland turned over to him $2,000 and thereafter in Washington for expenses, $200 weekly. Of the latter, $2,000 is paid and $1,000 is still due, he said.

Gave Note for Bank Loan.

The expenses in Mississippi had been quite heavy, said Howard, and at one time he and a man named McLennan had borrowed $2,500 and given the bank a joint note.

There were other bank loans amounting to about $800. The present deficit of the committee, he estimated, at about $5,300, which with the money expended brings the total cost of the campaign to about $11,800.

"Are you still collecting $200 a week from Holland?" asked Senator Steiwer.

"No sir, we closed up last week. They told me the Hoover headquarters were closing and that my support ended with that. I will close so far as the Hoover office is concerned, but, so far as Kansas City is concerned, I am going to make a fight against the Crosby delegation."

"Are your delegates instructed?" Senator Bratton asked.

"No, sir, they are uninstructed."

"Are they free to vote according to their consciences?"

"Yes, sir."

[illegible]

NEW YORK WORLD
April 1, 1928

Labor's Plans and Problems

First Reports Show Pullman Porters Are Voting in Favor of a Strike

By John J. Leary jr.

THE first reports to reach the headquarters of the Brotherhood of Pullman Porters in this city indicate that in the strike vote now being taken a preponderating majority of the Pullman Company's service employees will authorize the heads of the organization to call a strike.

This, however, does not mean that the traveling public is in any immediate danger of having to make up its berths or black its own boots.

The first move will be to refer the matter to the United States Mediation Board, which under the law is required in any emergency threatening any interruption of railroad service to intervene and seek to bring the parties to the dispute together. Like most Government bodies, the board moves slowly. So at the worst it will be months before any strike order can issue.

"The men will go the full distance," A. Phillip Randolph, head of the organization, tells me. "But neither they nor their officers wish any strike if it can possibly be avoided. There is no desire to inconvenience our friends, the traveling public.

"We know, and the company's officials know, that porters cannot be made overnight. And in the event of a strike we know that no self-respecting Negro will serve as a strikebreaker. Of course, the company is threatening to replace our people with Filipinos. That is what a poker player would call a bluff. It knows and we know that the Filipino will not do."

In this latter statement I agree fully with Mr. Randolph. In my travels I have run across the little brown man in club cars. He means well and he deserves well. But when it comes to service, and that is what the Pullman Company sells, he is many many years behind the American Negro.

Open Letter to Pullman Porters And Maids

EDITOR'S NOTE:
Because of communications coming to THE COURIER since last week from porters and their sympathizers, some representing the Brotherhood and some representing the Anti-Brotherhood faction, the following open letter is addressed to all Pullman Porters and Maids. It is interesting, however, to note that many of the letters are not signed by the writers.

THE EDITOR.

THIS open letter is addressed to all the Pullman porters and maids because THE PITTSBURGH COURIER feels that the time has come when plain talk is needed. THE COURIER does not want any thanks or special credit from anybody for the stand it has taken in behalf of the porters and maids. But it should be remembered that when THE COURIER took up the fight for the porters and maids it was the only newspaper of the race that had the courage to take up the fight. We are still for the porters and maids and we want them to know it. When other papers were silent THE COURIER took up the fight because it wanted to see something done. THE COURIER still wants to see something done and for this reason this open letter is addressed to the porters and maids in order that they may know some of the inside reasons for the delay of their cause.

It is a known fact that there must be some peculiar reason why the Pullman Company will not negotiate with the porters led by Mr. Randolph. For almost two years the company has refused to have anything to do with the porters. Letters have been written by the heads of such organizations as the Urban League and the N. A. A. C. P., two of our most outstanding organizations, but the Pullman Company has paid no attention to any letters from anybody. There must be a reason for this attitude. It is simply useless for any person to think that for two years any organization should seek to negotiate with any company and not receive during all that two years even so much as a letter. The porters and maids have friends who have tried to find out what is wrong; and these same friends have talked with Mr. Randolph, the editor of THE COURIER included among them, and Mr. Randolph has been told that the company objects to dealing with him and their reason for the objection is based on the history of Mr. Randolph in this country as a socialist and a radical. Perhaps some of the porters don't know what this means. It must be remembered that Mr. Randolph and Mr. Owen are the men who several years ago started the most radical and socialistic magazine ever issued by Negroes in this country. That magazine was "The Messenger." These men declared themselves socialists and radicals and bragged about it. We did not make the history of Mr. Randolph. He has made that himself. It is known that American capital will not negotiate with socialists. It has never done so even when white people were concerned. It has never done so where colored people were concerned. Mr. Randolph has been informed that the company will not deal with him because of his history as a socialist and his identification with the socialistic school. The Pullman Company is determined not to deal with socialists and since Mr. Randolph is a socialist the Pullman Company refuses to deal with him. Mr. Randolph knows this but perhaps thousands of the porters and maids do not know it and they ought to know it. And because the porters and maids ought to know it and because of the attitude taken by Mr. Randolph that he will "die in his tracks" this open letter is addressed to the people for whom THE COURIER has fought and is still fighting.

The Pullman Porters ought not to suffer because Mr. Randolph years ago decided to be a socialist and the friends of Mr. Randolph have put the question squarely up to him, as unpleasant as it is to do so, and they have told him that the company will not deal with him. Mr. Randolph has known this now several weeks and it is high time that the porters and maids and the public too be told why the Pullman Porters have not been able to do one single thing after two years of struggle. There are thousands of friends of the porters and maids. THE COURIER is not the only friend of the porters and maids and all their friends are entitled to know why it is that the porters and maids cannot make any progress. The Pullman Company on good authority is known to be opposed to Mr. Randolph; and it is known to have refused flatly to deal with him.

When Mr. Randolph was told what the whole trouble is and was approached on the question of resigning or stepping aside in order that the porters might open negotiations with the company and place their demands squarely before the company, his answer was that he would resign and step aside but, in the next breath he said he will not do so until the company gives him what he wants. The company, on the other hand, says that it will not deal with Mr. Randolph and then Mr. Randolph comes back and says the company will have to deal with him and there the matter stands and the porters and maids are getting nowhere; and Mr. Randolph knows

(Continued on Page 4)

Randolph Answers Vann

Editor of THE NEW YORK AGE:

In an open letter to the Pullman porters and maids by Robert L. Vann, carried in the Pittsburgh Courier of April 14, he says that there must be some eason why the Pullman Company, for almost two years, has refused to negotiate with the porters led by Mr. Randolph. Of course there is a reason. It's plain and simple. The reason is that the Pullman Company is not going to deal with the porters and maids, lead by Randolph or anybody else, until it is compelled to deal with them. Anyone with the slightest knowedge of American labor history knows this. This is nothing strange and it requires no seer to see it. This procedure is adopted by all employers with their employees when their employees seek to organize, and this procedure is adopted without regard to race or color, religion or politics.

O. H. Wanton, president of the International Machinist Union, just a week ago worte me that the Shop Crafts Workers are having the same trouble with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks are having the same trouble with the Texas and Southern Pacific Railroad Company So there is good reason why anyone should get excited over the fact that this fight has taken over two years. The Pullman conductors, who are already organized, have been fighting over two years for a wage increase and just got it. There are railroad unions that have fought over ten years before they were able to meet a single representative of their company.

Mr. Vann states further that friends have talked with me, including himself, telling me that the company objects to dealing with me becaus of my history in

The Pullman Company is not dumb enough to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars over two or more years trying to best the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and then turn around and recognize and sign an agreement with it if it has succeeded in beating the Brotherhood, which it started out to do. The company wants the Employees Representation Plan, not the Brotherhood. Therefore, if it can lick the Brotherhood it will be able to force the plan upon the porters and maids.

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH.

1928

N O W

[illegible]

[illegible] Tuesday is the DAY, [illegible] DO their talking, [illegible] (Nomination of candidates) Day.

* * *

[illegible] says men build ships that water can't sink. Maybe so: the gods accepted the "Titanic's" challenge and found a way to send her to the bottom of the sea, nevertheless.

* * *

"STEP ASIDE", A Philip Randolph, General Organizer of the Pullman porters' union, is advised by his "friends". As—

The Pullman Company will probably recognize another leader of the movement, but will have none of Randolph." But—

Organizations, not leaders, are accorded recognition. Election, selection, removal, supercession, assignment of organization officials, are sole prerogatives and duties of organizations, which never delegate their prerogatives to management or "outsiders." And—

Management may reasonably object to a union representative but has no more to do about disposing of him than the union has to do with dictating the selection of management's representatives. So if—

General Organizer Randolph is reasonably persona non grata to the Pullman management, which is ready to do business with the porters' union, this information should be formally and directly communicated to the Executive Committee of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, which has jurisdiction. It is neither for Mr. Randolph to refuse to "step aside" nor for outsiders to suggest it. Rail labor unions do not either force reasonably objectionable representatives upon rail management or get rid of such an official, simply because management doesn't want to meet him. Mr. Randolph, however—

[illegible] OF PULLMAN CO.," SAYS RANDOLPH IN CHICAGO

(Special to The Pittsburgh Guard)

Chicago, Ill., April 26.—Denouncing Attorney Robert L. Vann as the "ignorant tool of the Pullman Company" and adding a scathing denunciation of his violation of a confidence, which he termed was against the ethics of all gentlemen, A. Philip Randolph threw a mammoth mass meeting of Pullman Porters here into an uproar Sunday.

The meeting, attended by 2,000 people, aroused city-wide interest because of the controversy which has been raging for several weeks between the organizer of the Pullman porters and the editor, who switched his allegiance so suddenly after more than two years of support to the brotherhood and its brilliant leader.

Randolph, answering an "open letter," which Vann had formerly published, gave a newspaper statement last week that there was a "dark person in the woodpile" and his open denunciation of Vann as being in league with the company savored of a direct charge.

The history of the porters' fight for a living wage was outlined in detail by M. W. Webster, another speaker on the program, but it was for Randolph that the porters waited and the vociferous applause following his denunciation left no doubt as to the attitude of the porters themselves.

Endorsed By Chicago.

The strike vote was explained in detail by both speakers. The statement that the brotherhood would call out 7,000 porters if the company did not meet with their demand met with public endorsement.

Dr. Burton of the Citizens' Committee of Chicago, pledged the support of that committee in behalf of Chicago citizens.

Is General Organizer, not sole representative, of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. And, folks, "organizer" and "representative" are not synonymous in labor union parlance. Essentials of the two are not found in one and the same person, and the requirements of each are basically different. The—

Organizers stay in the field to get new members and, most important of ALL, to keep members. The General Organizer directs the organizers, going himself to key points to accelerate the organization.

A representative's whole time is required at representation OR IN PREPARATION FOR IT. (A representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen knows the latest cost of hauling freight for one mile over every mile of railroad in his territory). An unprepared representative would be "swamped" in 10 minutes by the crafty representatives of management. For instance—

When the porters' union case was argued before the Interstate Commerce Commission, Mr. Randolph was not the representative. His attorney was—though Randolph is leader of the union. The case required legal representation, just as negotiations for wages and rules agreement with the Pullman Company requires expert representation. And forasmuch as—

Neither Mr. Randolph, nor any attorney—save Henry T. Hunt, is qualified to negotiate a wage and rules agreement predicated on the basic "240-hour-month" for Pullman porters with the Pullman Company, and because, fortunately, Mr. Hunt is the union's attorney, recognition of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in the matter of negotiating a contract to govern wages and rules of porters and maids, by the Pullman Co., can in no way involve the categorical status of General Organizer A. Philip Randolph.

"Sniping" At Porters

The long fight of the Pullman Porters to effect a strong union, to secure an increase of wages and the abolishment of tips is the kind of a fight any unorganized group must wage when the employer is a million dollar corporation backed by big business.

No one, even among those who support the Pullman Company will say that the porters should not receive adequate pay, and that they should not do away with the humiliating tip system.

Nevertheless, the rich Pullman Company has succeeded in throwing many obstacles in the way, in some instances employing prominent colored persons for this work.

Mr. Perry W. Howard, special assistant U. S. Attorney General, was retained as special counsel by the Pullman Company at a salary of $5,000 to defeat the porters' efforts to secure better wages and improved working conditions thru the union.

"Snipers" harried the union when it was organized two years ago, effecting dismissal of all union men as soon as discovered, and flooding selected newspapers with anti-union propaganda.

The latest bit of "sniping" takes the form of a proposal by a Pittsburgh paper that Mr. A. Philip Randolph, organizer of the Porters Union, should resign because he is a socialist and a radical, and "American capital will not negotiate with socialists."

This of course is argumentum ad hominem instead of argumentum ad rem, but it goes over big with those who do not think clearly, and therefore serves to distract attention temporarily from the main matter at issue.

With Mr. Randolph out, it is reasonable to suppose that the union movement will disappear. He is an able leader. In two years he has focussed the attention of the entire country upon the porters' case, promoting his organization with rare intelligence, determination and without bitterness.

One way to kill a movement is to kill the leader. It is an ancient method, but the Pullman Company seems not adverse to giving it a trial.

The "snipers" are after Mr. Randolph.

PULLMAN PORTERS AUTHORIZE STRIKE VOTE

Sleeping car porters in the employ of the Pullman Company have a strike in contemplation. Members of the Boston Division of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters met at the Melbourne Hotel yesterday and after reviewing their unsuccessful attempts to obtain an increase in wages, voted to authorize officers to proceed immediately with plans for balloting on the question of suspension of work.

It is pointed out in the resolutions adopted by the porters that they have been trying to get a living wage instead of depending upon tips, and that while the Pullman conductors were granted a minimum of $160 and a maximum of $193 per month, the porter's pay remains at $72.50 a month.

Things Seen, Heard And Done—

Among Pullman Employees

AUTOCRACY vs. DEMOCRACY

By J. T. REID

Autocracy vs Democracy .. ....

Everywhere you look these days you will find a group of porters discussing the new agreement, signed, August 25th, between the Brotherhood Of Sleeping Car Porters and The Pullman Company, by A. Philip Randolph, international president of the Brotherhood Of Sleeping Car Porters.

Many of the porters and maids, who are members of the Brotherhood who have been seemingly divided in their opinions of their individual, and social duties, are beginning to develop an understanding, of what they can look forward to under this new agreement. I see and feel the immensity of the dangers ahead. In all countries and in all ages the first move of a would-be autocrat in public office, has been the attempted abrogation of those who would curb his power. The first flagrant of Charles I, in his ambition to obtain absolutism was his attempt to seize with an arm force Pym, Hampden and three other members of parliament who had denounced his claim to divine right. Charles lost his head. He was the first and last British king who attempted to enter into the British House of Commons or to encroach upon the Commons power.

I was asked the other day by some porters would I be brave enough to state in my column, in The New York Age, the difference between the Pullman Porters And Maids Protective Association, and the Brotherhood Of Sleeping Car Porters? The Brotherhood to me represents autocracy; the Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association, to me represents democracy. Autocracy is always armeans the shackling of those against [illegible] against democracy. Autocracy [illegible] Democracy means personal freedom and economic liberalism. And wherever autocracy has prevailed [illegible]

The era of autocracy ascendent was the Dark Ages of the World. Progress came only when thought was free and men unchained. Autocracies are barren of achievement. Every great invention has been a child of liberty; autocracies are like deserts, which by day absorb the energies of the sun and by night are bathed in the moonlight; witchery, but in turn, yield neither fruit nor flower.

It is assumed by many that officialism will work as it is intended to work, but it never does. The machinery of Socialism has to be framed out of existing human nature, and the defects of existing human nature will generate in the one the same evil as in the other. The final result will be a revival of despotism.

Democracy descends to a dictatorship with ease. "Easy is the descent into hell," wrote the foremost poet of the ancient Roman World. When Jefferson declared "Eternal Vigilance" to be "the price of liberty" he was not indulging in mere rhetoric. Those who attempt to convert democracy into autocracy always proclaim a benevolent intent. They carry the colors of high moral purpose and proclaim their love for their fellowmen. The slide to a dictatorship is always well "greased."

The Encyclopedia Britanica, 14th edition, tells how us how Napoleon III transformed himself from president to dictator. It says of him: "By various measures such as subsidies, charitable gifts and foundations he endeavored to show that the idea of improving the lot of those who suffer and struggle against the difficulties of life was constantly present in his mind. His was the government of cheap bread, great public works and holidays." His grandoise schemes brought ruin to his country.

Read The New York Age For True Facts Concerning Your New Administration And KEEP YOUR SUN IN THE WINDOW.

NEGRO
INSURANCE
TODAY
BY C.M. HAYES CENTS

James

James Randolph, brother of A. Philip Randolph, died January 23, 1928. These lines are by one his many friends.—Editor.

By Heba Jannath

He walked delicately
Yet with straight shoulders and unbent knees
Over the spiked inhibitions
Of life: he rounded
The brutal corners of race-hatred softly
Not from fear
But because he understood too well
The mechanics of oppression;
Noiselessly he trod the forests
Of human bigotry and neither lost himself
In their rank shadows nor sought to rout
The hungry beasts in hiding there;
Lithely and with exquisite lightness
He eased himself through the windows of superstition
Black and white.
He asked nothing of the world
But to be let alone
To be allowed to gaze
Uncensored at the stars
To measure the universe without bias
To brouse in pastures of wisdom
Undisturbed
And to dream; if you wished to believe
Red was green
That was your business
He was a gentleman
Not a reformer;
A spectator
An epicure
A scholar....
All day
He could lie in the sun
Motionless and content
Listening to the talk of his thots
To the rhythym of the woods
To the clamour of distant traffic
To sudden nearby voices
To the multitudious weaving in and out
Of life; but when he came to your house
He entered with furtive foot
And a look of suspicion
As if into a trap
For well he knew the tyranny and speciousness
Of social exchange—and hastily yet politely
He would extricate himself
And flee.
Black roustabout
And white rotarian
Thot him strange
And made it as difficult as possible
For him to remain
A gentleman
An epicure
A scholar;
But it was in vain
That they yelled at him
To leave his sunlit bleachers
And come into the dirt
And play their game.
Once,
Lying on his back in St. Nicholas Park
With his eyes in the sky
He quoted to me some lines from a poem
Which he called
"The Singing Nigger"
And when I exclaimed at their beauty
And asked who wrote them
He turned away his head and was silent—
And when I insisted
He said with a sudden expression of pain
"I did."
And when I wanted to hear more
He looked frightened
Like a deer, which following the scent of sweet herbs,
Has unwarily set its feet into marshland—
"Some other time," said he quickly
But the time never came.
Now snow has fallen
Over the park
And softly, O, so softly,
Over this muted carpet of frozen cloud
Glides the Spirit of James Crooning softly
O, so softly—
Too softly for us to hear.

[illegible]ded in 1917

[illegible] Messenger

[illegible]on of the New Negro

[illegible] Editors:
[illegible] Philip Randolph
[illegible]dler Owen

[illegible]ging Editor:
[illegible] S. Schuyler

[illegible]ess Manager:
[illegible]y Lancaster

[illegible] MARCH, 1928

[illegible]AGE

Cover: The [illegible] Smith, Boston, [illegible]
James. By Heba Ja[illegible]
Gypsy Winds. By [illegible] Proctor .....
Oratory. By Wendell P. Da[illegible]
To a Dark Poem. By Laura Tanne 50
Sister Louise-Marie. By J. A. Rogers 51
Our Insurance Companies. By C. M. Hayes..... 53
Not Many of Your People Come Here. By R. Edmonds..... 57
Harlem, Mid-Afternoon. By Heba Jannath 57
The Aframerican Academy..... 58
Shafts and Darts. By George S Schuyler 59
Editorials 60
Business and Industry. By George S. Schuyler 62
Best Editorial for January. By Eugene Gordon 63
Brotherhood Activities 64
New Jersey Masons..... 65
Barriers. By Laura Tanne..... 66
Book Bits. By James W. Ivy.... 67
Countee Cullen. By J. E. McCall 68
Aviator's Hymn. By H. B. Wilkinson 68
Mr. Weller and the League of Neighbors. By A. Philip Randolph 70

The Messenger is the recognized mouthpiece of the more advanced section of the Negro group in the United States. For ten years it has spoken intelligently and eloquently in behalf of organization of labor, white as well as black, believing, as it does, that the questions of wages, hours of work, safeguards on the job and proper representation of the worker, are the most important items confronting the majority of the men and women, white as well as black, in the United States. For two years it has been the official organ of The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters whose organization it espoused and whose battles it has consistently fought.

Gypsy Winds

By Eulalia Osby Proctor

Gypsy winds lured me into the fields
Whispr'ng, "We wandered over the hill.
There has one dreamed of you—
Hungered for gleam of you—
Bade us to breath to you—
He loves you still."

"Brown glints the skin of him—bared to the sun;
Joyous the heart of him—when day is done,
And fragrant thoughts of you
Come with the dusk and dew;
Sings he, 'Be true, be true, daughter of love!'"

Gypsy winds, guide me to scene of his dreaming!
What tho' it lies beyond sunset's red gleaming?
Soft hands will bathe tired feet—
His arms will make rest sweet—
While lips like pirate bees go—seeking, seeking!

Oratory

By W. P. Dabney

Amidst the maze of many words,
Our souls' emotions swell,
In ecstacy we fly to Heaven,
Or sadly sink to Hell.
But when we've drifted back to Earth,
And reason resumes her sway,
We wonder just what 'twas he said,
That took our souls away.

To a Dark Poem

Laura Tanne

I will bind you in my white fortress
With the sun and moon and stars
Of my love your only illumination.
I will give you drink only from the vessel
Of my soul's martyrdom.
I will feed you only with the cradled gifts
Of my vari-colored passion.
Your raiment, warmer than silk or wool
Will rest upon the pallid loom of my breasts.
And when you cry for freedom
I will open the windows of my hunger
And let terrible and anguished winds blow
In bleeding prayers for your love and mercy.

The Messenger

New Opinion of the New Negro

Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at New York, N. Y., July 27th, 1919, under act of March 3, 1879. Published monthly by The Messenger Publishing Company, Inc., 2311 Seventh Avenue, New York, N. Y. Telephones: Edgecombe 2323-2324.

VOLUME TEN
NUMBER THREE

MARCH, 1928

Price: 15 Cents a Copy; $1.50 a year in United States; $1.75 in Canada; $2.00 in foreign countries.

SISTER LOUISE-MARIE PRINCESS OF THE BLOOD ROYAL

By J. A. ROGERS

Noted Negro Author and Journalist

On the walls of the art gallery of the Library of Sainte Genevieve, in the Latin Quarter of Paris there is a picture around which hangs a famous mystery—a mystery quite as baffling as any in the pages of history. This little old picture belonged to the old nuns of St. Genevieve, and represents the head of a Negro woman with bright eyes; a straight, fleshy nose; wearing a nun's veil and around her neck a scapulary of the cloistered order of the 17th Century.

Some of the most famous writers of that time and later have tried their wits on this mystery only to acknowledge themselves beaten. Among them are Voltaire, the Duke de Saint Simon, Mlle. de Montpensier, Lady Morgan, Anquetil, Berthet, and a host of others. This woman was evidently a member of the French royal family and the question was:

"Was she the daughter of Louis XIV by a Negro woman; or was she the daughter of his wife, the Queen Marie Theresa?"

The following is a presentation of both sides, and we begin with a digest of the story as told by LeNotre, who speaks of her as, "One of the most mysterious personages in our annals," one, whose history "resembles the scenario of a romance."

Several years after the death of the queen, Marie Theresa, wife of Louis XIV, and about the time the king had secretly married his favorite, Mme. de Maintenon, an unknown man who said that he was a shoeing smith from an adjoining province of the empire, presented himself at the gates of Versailles and demanded to see the king. The guards took him for a crank, but as he insisted that he had a secret of great importance for the ears of the King alone, the gentlemen of the household finally decided to report the matter to their chief, the Marshal Duras. The latter, when he saw this peasant with his shifty eyes and his clumsy speech and manners also decided that he was a fool, and bade him give his message and be gone. The man said that a few nights before he was returning home

SISTER LOUISE-MARIE
from an old painting

when he saw in the corner of a wood "a dazzling white light which turned out to be a woman in very bright garments with a face that shone like the sun, and who said to him that she was the soul of the dead queen. She then spoke to him and told him a secret that was to be whispered only in the king's ear." Although Marshal Duras questioned him in many different ways the sly old fellow was obdurate. Finally the nobleman losing all patience drove him away, and told him if he did not keep still he'd be clapped in prison.

Duras did not think it worth while to tell the king of the incident and was very much astonished when a few days later the king brought up the matter himself, saying he had heard about it in a letter. Louis XIV, who was "very superstitious" had the peasant brought before him, and was very much struck by his story, since he, himself, had had an identical dream about the same time.

"Sire," continued the peasant, "the phantom has appeared to me twice, and bade me find you and tell you to publish the fact of your recent marriage."

This sounded much like the intrigue of the court. It seemed to the king that some member of his household learning of his own dream had sent the peasant to him with this story. He raised his cane to strike the peasant when the latter throwing himself on his knees said in supplication:

"Sire, if you doubt me I can give infallible proof. The spectre that I saw told me to speak to you in the name of the Negro woman of Moret."

The king turned as pale as death, and seizing the hand of the peasant, imposed silence on him. That same evening the man was conducted to the Bastille, where luxuries were heaped on him, but where nevertheless he was held a prisoner in great secret.

Twenty years before, says LeNotre, an African prince had sent the Queen, by M. de Beaufort, Grand Admiral of France, the present of a little Negro dwarf. "The queen was very much attached to the little Negro. He could now be seen on the carpet playing like a little cat, making somersaults, or mounting on tables and bureau drawers; sometimes on the sofa and even on the knees of the queen. . . .

"He was dressed after the manner of his native Africa, and wore rich bracelets, armlets, a string of precious stones, his turban was magnificent, and Mme. de Maintenon gave him a superb aigrette of rubies and diamonds.

"All the other ladies following the example of the queen wished to have little Negroes to accompany them in order better to show off the whiteness of their complexions, and to carry their trains.

"This is how it happens that Mignard and the other painters of the time placed little Negroes in all their great portraits; it was a mode, a frenzy which did not last after the accident of which the misadventure of the queen was the innocent cause.

"It happened that the queen was about to become a mother . . . when she became inquiet and said all the time: 'I no longer recognize myself. I experience strange disgusts and caprices such as never happened before. If I were to do as I wanted to I would be cutting somersaults on the carpet like my little Negro, and eating green fruits, and living birds like him.'

"Ah, madame," replied the king, "you make me shiver. Forget your foolish fancies or you will have a child, bizarre, ridiculous and against nature."

"The king's predictions were fulfilled. There was born to her some time later a pretty little girl 'black as ink from head to foot.' The doctors were assembled in one room; the bishops and the chaplains in another. One of the prelates was opposed to baptizing her, and another would consent only under condition. The majority decided that the little Negro girl would be baptized without the name of father or mother, and that she should be sent away at once, which they did to the coast of Gisors to be reared by a nurse. A notice was placed in the Gazette of France that the royal infant had died. . . . Later the queen in explanation declared that the Negro dwarf had hidden himself behind a chair and frightened her.

"The mysterious child lived. As soon as she could reason she was placed in the convent of Moret, where the king, himself went once to make sure that she was alive. She lived and died there under the name of the Black Nun. It is not known whether the secret of her birth was ever revealed."

It seems so, however, for one day when the Dauphin (heir to the throne), was hunting in a wood nearby and she heard who it was, she was heard to sob behind the bars of her cell and murmur as she wiped her eyes:

"It is my brother who is hunting."

"What, in any case, cannot be doubted," continues LeNotre "is the existence and the perfect authority of the picture that the library of Siant Genevieve possesses. It was already celebrated in the last century and the Ste. Genevievians showed it—with discretion, it is true—as one of the most precious pieces of their treasure."

* * *

The Duke de St. Simon in his "Memoirs" Vol. II, says:

"Speaking of the secrets of the king and his intimate servants it is necessary to make amends for something else I had forgotten. Everyone was astonished at Fontainebleau this year to see that hardly had the princess arrived than Mme. de Maintenon took her to the little convent of Moret where there was likely to be no amusements or persons of her acquaintance. She returned there several times, which awoke curiosity and rumours. Mme. de Maintenon went often to Fontainebleau and finally one got accustomed to seeing her go there.

"In this convent was a professed nun, a Negro woman, unknown to everyone and who never showed herself to anyone. Bontemps, first valet to the king and governor of Versailles to whom I have spoken and to whom the domestic secrets of the king are known, had placed her there quite young after paying a large sum, and a regular pension. He took great care that everything that could add to her comfort was provided. The late queen went often to Fontainebleau to see her and after her Mme. de Maintenon. . . .

"The Dauphin went there several times, and the princess and the children several times, and all asked for this Negro woman and treated her with kindness. She was receiving more marks of distinction than the best known or the most distinguished person there. . .

"It is said that she was the daughter of the king and the queen, that her color had caused her to be hidden there, and after her disappearance, to be published that the queen had had a miscarriage. Many of the people of the Court believe this. But whatever it be it remains a mystery."

* * *

Voltaire was of the opinion that the Black Nun was the daughter of the king by a Negro woman. Speaking of the king's children he said: (Vol. XIV of his works: The Century of Louis XIV.)

"It is believed and with good reason that the nun in the convent of Moret is his daughter. She was very dark, almost black and resembled the king. The king gave her a dot of 20,000 crowns and placed her in the convent. The belief that she was of royal birth gave her a pride of which the Mother Superior complained."

In a footnote Voltaire adds that he visited the convent himself and saw her. He was accompanied by M. de Caumartin, Treasurer of France, who, he says, "had a right to visit the convent."

But were the Black Nun the illegitimate daughter of the king by a black woman would the queen and her children have shown so much interest in, and affection towards her? As one writer, (G. L.), in "His Note on the Negress of Moret," asks: "Would the queen, Marie-Theresa, the Dauphin, the duke and the duchess of Bourgogne, have shown the same attachment to her?" Besides the king had other adulterine children.

Further, she bore the names of both the king and the queen: Louise-Marie. Again Mlle. de Montpensier, duchess of Orleans and cousin of the king in her "Memoirs" also mentions that the queen had given birth to an eight months' old girl that resembled a Negro, due to the fact that the queen had had the Negro dwarf under her eyes, and that the dwarf had been taken away "but it was too late."

* * *

So far as the matter of color is concerned The Black Nun might have been a mystery in these days but in this hard-boiled age we are inclined to be a bit more sceptical. There is little doubt that the woman, if she was of royal descent, was the daughter of the queen.

The king is dead, royalty no more rules in France, and we may express without fear of lese majeste the thought that must have bubbled in the brains of the more knowing members of the Court. Here, they must have thought, is a black dwarf and here is the queen with a black child. Other ladies have, too, their little blackamoors, why, do they not have dark brown children? It is true that the age of the dwarf was given as "ten or twelve" but the age of juveniles is usually judged by their size. Dwarfs usually look younger than they are. This one was only two feet tall.

Sir John Alexander tells an instance in South Africa where the white wife of a white farmer gave birth to a black child. In explaining the matter she said that she had been frightened by a black man. But some time later her unmarried sister also presented the family with a black child. Now it is as difficult for an unmarried white woman to get away with that sort of story, as it would be for any woman to get away with the story of a virgin birth these days. So inquiry was at once started. Result: the same black man was discovered to be the father of both children.

There is also the question of atavism, that is, that if either of the parents has "a drop of black blood," the same is likely to come out in their children. This is very much like going to the clouds for a reason when one lies right before our noses. In the expose of race-mixing in Virginia which I published in the Negro press two years ago, many instances were given of white women presenting their husbands with mulatto babies,—instances in which the black father was known.

Again, would an unmarried white woman be able to get away with this matter of "atavism?"

This reminds one of the story of the greenhorn whose wife presented him with an hair after five months of marriage. Puzzled, he consulted a specialist, who assured him that such rapid processes occur only the first year of marriage. After that, he said, all would be quite regular.

As to the matter of pre-natal influence, every psychologist worthy of his name today views it with scepticism. The lower animals and even the plants, produce deformed or abnormal offspring, and must we also say that even these inanimate things were influenced by their "minds,"—that "something" frightens them, too.

This theory is on a par with what the Christian Scientists who insist that disease is a state of mind, when the germ that causes the disease is plainly distinguishable under the microscope, and the lower animals, the plants, and even buildings and objects of furniture have their own particular germs that gnaw them, causing what may be called disease.

(Continued on page 70)

For White Only

"For White Only." The letters shine;
They anger me and chill my spine.
Through trees and clouds I see that sign:
"For White Only."

Three hundred years of toil and tears,
Of pigmy hopes and giant fears
Three hundred years of sneers and leers:
"For White Only."

Land of the Free, Home of the Brave
Who cleft our chains and freedom gave
Why wound the grandson of your slave
By "White Only."

OUR INSURANCE COMPANIES

By C. M. HAYES

A Statistical Report Prepared for
THE NATIONAL NEGRO INSURANCE ASSOCIATION
By C. W. HAYES
President, Gibraltar Health and Accident Insurance Company, Indianapolis, Ind.

PART I.

The business of Life Insurance is the largest business that is owned, operated and controlled by Negroes. It is not only the largest, but is the most scientific and complicated and requires the greatest skill in management. It gives protection, service and employment in a larger degree and truer sense to mankind than any other kind or class of business.

In order to value the business of Life Insurance conducted among our people by our own companies at its true worth; to appreciate the many and varied services rendered; to understand it in its composite form; and that the magnitude of the opportunity it offers to Negro youths may be realized more fully, the National Negro Insurance Association with its official family becomes the National Negro Insurance Company with each of the member companies as a branch.

In order to secure the aggregate of Life Insurance business transacted in the United States by the National Negro Insurance Association, or "The National Negro Insurance Company" and its financial statement as of December 31st, 1926, copies of annual statements made to the Insurance Departments of the various states in which they operate were submitted by twenty-five (25) companies, members of this Association. Statistical data for three other Negro companies was secured from other sources.

The companies whose records go to make up this report are as follows:

Afro-American Life Insurance Company, Jacksonville, Fla.
Atlanta Life Insurance Company, Atlanta, Georgia.
Citizen Industrial Life Insurance Company, Jacksonville, Fla.
Domestic Life and Accident Insurance Company, Louisville, Ky.
Douglas Life Insurance Company, New Orleans, La.
Golden State Guaranty Fund Insurance Company, Los Angeles, Cal.
Guaranty Life Insurance Company, Savannah, Ga.
Gibraltar Health and Accident Insurance Co., Indianapolis, Ind.
King Mutual Life Insurance Company, Edenton, North Carolina.
Liberty Life Insurance Company, Chicago, Ill.
Liberty Industrial Life Insurance Company, New Orleans, La.
Louisiana Industrial Life Insurance Company, New Orleans, La.
Mammoth Life and Accident Insurance Company, Louisville, Ky.
National Benefit Life Insurance Company, Washington, D. C.
North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, Durham, N. C.
North Eastern Life Insurance Company, Newark, N. J.
Pelican Industrial Life Insurance Company, Shreveport, La.
Peoples Industrial Life Insurance Company, Jacksonville, Fla.
Pyramid Mutual Insurance Company, Chicago, Ill.
Richmond Beneficial Insurance Company, Richmond, Va.
Security Life Insurance Company, Tulsa, Okla.
Southern Aid Society of Virginia, Richmond, Va.
Supreme Life and Casualty Company, Columbus, Ohio.
Underwriters Mutual Life Insurance Company, Chicago, Ill.
Union Central Relief Association, Birmingham, Ala.
Unity Industrial Life Insurance Company, New Orleans, La.
Universal Life Insurance Company, Memphis, Tenn.
Victory Life Insurance Company, Chicago, Ill.

Estrangement

By GRACE RICHARDSON

I lost a precious thing today:
A rose curled black with frost,
A field of waving wheat now stubble tossed,
And you without a word to say
Of these bare branches laced upon a cold blue sky.
Oh why, and why, and why
This intimacy chilled and flung
Into a desert where no song is sung?
Having knowledge of life's bitter way
But leaves me as an animal at bay.
Unrelentless truth to bear
A love that you no longer share.

Meanwhile we shall be
The continent apart
Time and space whereof
To look into the heart
And learn its true desires:
Chilled passion or re-kindled fires.
That I did find the strength
To tear myself away
From you whose love for me
Was fast approaching a decay
Was but a puny effort
To evade love's mock retort
And in my inner self I pray
If only, only I don't stay.

From the data contained in our statistical report of last year and the compilations of this year's statistics we have the pleasure of submitting to you a comparative statement for the years of 1925 and 1926, which shows the progress, or the lack of progress, made in each department during 1926.

From the comparative statement, Part II of this report, 1926 showed a general and substantial increase being made in all departments, together with a proportionate amount of reduction in the number and amount of claims paid.

Statistics of the twenty-eight companies listed showed an increase during the year of 1926 of one million, six hundred and twenty thousand, one hundred and twenty-four dollars ($1,620,124) in gross income, and an increase of two hundred and eighty-one thousand, four hundred and fifty-two dollars ($281,452) in the net income over 1925. The statistics also show an increase of two million, three hundred and fifty-nine thousand, seven hundred and twenty-four dollars ($2,359,724) in gross assets; one million, five hundred and ninety-two thousand, seven hundred and three dollars ($1,592,703) increase in admitted assets; two hundred and fifty-eight thousand dollars ($258,000) increase in the combined Capital Stock; three million, five hundred and thirty-seven thousand, eight hundred and seventy-seven dollars ($3,537,877) increase in surplus-reserve to policyholders, and an increase of nine hundred and seventy-eight thousand and sixty-eight dollars ($978,068) in the amount of real estate owned for 1926 over 1925.

CLAIMS PAID: It is also shown from the comparative statement, Part 11, that there was an increase of only seventy-one thousand, two hundred and fifty dollars ($71,250) in the amount of sick and accident claims paid in 1926 over 1925; even though the same statistics show an increase of seventeen million, six hundred and two thousand, two hundred and thirty-seven dollars ($17,602,237) in the amount of sick and accident business in force as of December 31, 1926, over 1925. An evidence of a closer inspection and rejection of unjust claims, the elimination of undesirables, and a higher degree of efficiency, co-operation and loyalty in all departments of the companies as a whole.

It is also shown that there was an increase of three hundred and twenty-five thousand, two hundred and forty-eight dollars ($325,248) in the amount of Industrial Life claims paid during 1926 over 1925, which was normal; and an increase in the Industrial Life business in force as of December 31, 1926, over 1925 of twenty-three million, one hundred and seven thousand, three hundred and thirty-eight dollars ($23,107,338).

The comparative statement shows an increase of two hundred and thirty-six thousand, nine hundred and ten dollars ($236,910) in the amount of claims paid on Ordinary business in 1926 over 1925, which is almost double the amount paid in 1925. The largest percent increase made in any class of insurance for claim paid. The statistics show that there was an increase of thirty-eight million, five hundred and seventy-eight thousand, four hundred and twenty-five dollars ($38,578,425) in the amount of Ordinary business in force December 31, 1926, over 1925, which was also the largest amount of increase made in any class of business written. The amount of increase in business in force for all classes over 1925 was seventy-nine million, two hundred and eighty-eight thousand dollars ($79,288,000).

It is also shown from the comparative statement that there was nine million, four hundred and eighty-three thousand, seven hundred and forty-nine dollars ($9,483,749) more sick and accident business written during the year 1926 than during the year 1925; fifteen million, four hundred and eighty-seven thousand, six hundred and twenty-six dollars ($15,487,626) more Industrial Life business for 1926 than 1925, and twenty-four million, two hundred and seventy-nine thousand, seven hundred and twenty-two dollars ($24,279,722) more ordinary business for 1926 than 1925. The amount of increase in business written in 1926 over 1925 for all classes was forty-nine million, two hundred and fifty-one thousand and ninety-seven dollars ($49,251,097.) Also that there was an increase in the number of employed of three thousand, seven hundred and seventy (3,770); and an estimated increase in the amount of business in force in the United States on Colored lives of five hundred and twenty-six million dollars ($526,000,000).

It is also shown from the reports submitted that the per cent or net income for 1926 for twelve per cent (12%) as over against ten per cent (10%) in 1925; and

PART II
COMPARATIVE STATEMENT FOR THE YEARS OF 1925 AND 1926

ITEMS	Dec. 31, 1925	Dec. 31, 1926	Increase 1926 over 1925
Income (gross)	$12,236,618	$13,856,742	$1,620,124
Disbursements	11,008,603	12,347,275	1,338,672
Totals (Net Income	$1,228,$15	$1,509,462	$281,452
Gross Assets	$8,811,067	$11,170,791	$2,359,724
Admitted Assets	8,562,516	10,155,219	1,592,703
Capital Stock	1,573,090	1,831,090	258,000
Surplus-Reserve	5,287,099	8,824,976	3,537,877
Real Estate Owned	1,922,205	2,900,273	978,068
CLAIMS PAID
Sick and Accident	$3,021,806	$3,093,056	$71,250
Industrial Life	816,980	1,142,228	325,248
Ordinary	291,487	528,397	236,910
Totals	$4,130,273	$4,763,681	$633,408
CLAIMS PAID SINCE ORGANIZATION estimated)	$40,000,000	$44,763,681	$4,763,681
BUSINESS IN FORCE
Sick and Accident	$32,849,300	$50,451,537	$17,602,237
Industrial Life	73,910,925	97,018,263	23,107,338
Ordinary	57,486,275	96,064,700	38,578,425
Totals	$164,246,500	$243,534,500	$79,288,000
BUSINESS WRITTEN
Sick and Accident	$16,096,199	$25,579,948	$9,483,749
Industrial Life	33,777,189	49,264,815	15,487,626
Ordinary	21,052,706	45,332,428	24,279,722
Totals	$70,926,094	$120,177,191	$49,251,097
NUMBER EMPLOYED	5,330	9,100	3,770
BUSINESS IN FORCE ON COLORED LIVES (estimated)	$1,399,000,000	$1,925,000,000	$526,000,000

PART III
COST OF INSURANCE

Under the caption, Cost of Insurance, not only the cost of writing insurance or the cost of securing new business, but the cost of taking care of the business after it has once been secured as well as all items of cost incidental to the management is considered. Under this head is also considered the basis of Agency Contracts for each class and kind of business.

The reports submitted by the various companies show that the basis of the average agency contract in force for the various kinds and classes of business to be as follows:

ORDINARY:

(a) Whole Life—50% of first year premiums and 5% renewals for three years.

(b) N. Pay Life—45% first year premiums and 5% renewals for three years.

(c) Endowments—35% first year premiums and 5% renewals for three years.

INDUSTRIAL LIFE:

Twenty per cent (20%) commission on collections and fifteen (15) times net increase.

SICK AND ACCIDENT:

Twenty per cent (20%) commission on collections and ten per cent (10%) on net increase.

that the per cent of claims to the Gross Income for both years—1925 and 1926—was thirty-four per cent (34%); and that the cost of insurance for 1925 was fifty-six per cent (56%), and the cost of 1926 was fifty-four per cent (54%), which was two per cent (2%) less than the cost for 1925.

It was shown in our 1925 report from statistics published in the April 29, 1926, issue of the Spectator, in which exhibit two hundred and eighty-one companies were included, that thirty per cent (30%) of the gross income was net in contrast to ten per cent (10%) net income for twenty-three (23) Colored companies, which was twenty per cent (20%) less than the per cent of net income made by the two hundred and eighty-one (281) companies. This difference in the per cent of net income may be accounted for in part, to the programs of expansions of the young Negro companies, where, in many instances, the cost was as high as one hundred and forty per cent (140%) of the premium income; and to a greater per cent of waste due, in a large measure, to inadequate supervision and a greater duplication of effort on the part of the Negro companies.

Of the fifty-four per cent (54%) of the gross income, which represents the cost of insurance, approximately forty-three per cent (43%) was paid in salaries and commissions to agents and employees, and the remaining eleven per cent (11%) was distributed over the other items of cost of management.

It was also shown from the reports submitted that approximately one hundred and forty-one thousand, five hundred and forty-nine dollars and fifty-five cents ($141,549.55) of the cost of management was paid for printing and advertisement; of which amount about one hundred and fifteen thousand, two hundred and seventy-nine dollars and thirty-four cents ($115,279.34) or eighty-two per cent (82%) was paid to Negro printers.

The average per cent of actual to the expected mortality, as reported by nineteen (19) of the twenty-seven (27) companies included in this report, was eighty-four and three-tenths per cent (84.3%), an apparent gain from the mortality experience of fifteen and seven-tenths per cent (15.7%) for these companies. This apparent favorable mortality experience, however, should not be a cause for exuberance or over joy, as reports from some of the older companies showed their actual mortality to be as high as one hundred and thirty-eight per cent (138%) of the expected. The small average mortality for companies reported was due to the small per cent reported by the younger companies; the average for some was as low as thirty-three per cent (33%).

PART IV
INVESTMENTS

Reports from twenty-two (22) companies out of twenty-eight (28) included in this report showed that the average net rate of interest earned on all investments for 1926 was five and four-tenths per cent (5.4%). Several of the companies reported a net rate of interest earned as high as seven and eight per cent; some failed to earn the required three and one-half and four per cent, while still others failed to earn anything, but showed a net loss on investments.

The class of securities in which investments were made which brought the largest net earnings was "Real Estate Mortgages," averaging six and one-half and seven per cent. The class which brought the smallest net earnings was "Collateral Loans."

Of the eleven millions, one hundred and seventy thousand, seven hundred and ninety-one dollars ($11,170,791) GROSS ASSETS, twenty-six per cent (26% or two million, nine hundred thousand, two hundred and seventy-three dollars ($2,900,273) was invested in Real Estate; or three per cent more invested in Real Estate in 1926 than in 1925. A notable decrease was observed in the amounts invested in Government Securities, and a marked increase in the amounts invested in Tax Exempt Municipal Bonds at a larger rate of interest. Investment in Government, State and Municipal Bonds amounted to approximately sixty-five per cent.

PART V
MORTALITY EXPERIENCE ON COLORED LIVES

ORDINARY: A report made to the Actuarial Society of America published recently by Mr. J. D. Craig, Actuary for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, showed that the Medico-Actuarial investigation covered Colored Lives, subdividing them into Colored ministers, teachers and other professional men in one class, and other Colored men (non-professional) in another class. There were ninety-three thousand, two hundred and sixty-two (93,262) exposures with nine hundred and ninety-four (994) deaths in both classes combined, enough to give a very definite idea of the mortality on risks issued under ordinary policies. The ratio of actual to expected deaths upon the M. A. Table was one hundred and thirty seven per cent (137%) for professional men, and one hundred and forty-seven per cent (147%) for other men. The experience of the Prudential on its Industrial policies as published on page one hundred and thirty-six (136) of the "Proceedings of the Fourth International Congress of Actuaries" shows the Colored mortality ranging from two hundred and fifty-five per cent (255%) of the White mortality at the ages fifteen to nineteen (15-19) down to ninety-six per cent (96%) at the ages of seventy-five to seventy-nine (75-79), so that the high mortality on Colored lives is manifest in both Ordinary and Industrial business.

The experience of many of the larger companies with their Ordinary business shows that the effect of selection wears off rapidly and that ultimate mortality is practically reached in the second year; and that the mortality on females is higher than that on males.

The Medico-Actuarial investigation showed that the mortality in certain of the Southern States was materially high. The ratio as shown on page eighteen (18) of volume V ranged from one hundred and twelve per cent (112%) in Texas, other than Gulf countries, to one hundred and seventy-eight (178) in Mississippi, Gulf and delta countries. Naturally more care is exercised in acceptance of Ordinary risks than in acceptance of Intermediate and Industrial risks and the results would be expected to me more in harmony with those shown by the Medico-Actuarial investigation.

ORDINARY: EXPERIENCE ON WHITE AND COLORED LIVES IN CERTAIN SOUTHERN STATES. PROBABLE CLAIMS BASED ON THE M. A. TABLE.

The ratio of actual to expected mortality based on number for Southern States is given below as follows:

State (Lower Tier)	Ratio of Actual to Expected Mortality
Alabama	126%
Arkansas	143%
Florida	125%
Georgia	131%
Louisiana	135%
Mississippi	116%
South Carolina	126%
Texas	113%—an average of 128%
Upper Tier
Kentucky	119%
Maryland	96%
Missouri	104%
North Carolina	111%
Tennessee	114%
Virginia	107%—an average of 108%

or an average for the upper and lower tier combined of 116%.

The lower tier of states shows higher mortality than the other states, but it is also equally clear that the mortality on Colored lives is heavy, no matter where the insured resides. The mortality in the other states is only ten per cent (10%) less than the total according to the standard adopted, and shows an excess mortality on Colored lives of fifty-six per cent (56%) according to the American men's select table and twenty-six per cent (26%) according to the Metropolitan ordinary table, or a mean of forty-one per cent.

INDUSTRIAL CLASS: The standard industrial mortality table is used for the purpose of computing the probable claims. Exposures on Industrial policies from 1911 to 1919 shows the percentage of Actual to the probable of of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's Industrial policy to be one hundred and nineteen per cent (119%) for its Colored business and eighty-one per cent (81%) for its White business, an excess mortality of thirty-eight per cent (38%) of the Colored over the White.

Another interesting development is shown from statistics compiled by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company that when compared with tables prepared from experience during the calendar year 1896-1905, that while the White mortality seems to have improved at practically every age, the Colored mortality has shown an increase for all ages from about thirty (30) years up, and a decrease for the younger ages.

In the "Mortality Statistics of Insured Wage-Earners and Their Families," as published by Mr. Dublin in 1919 from the experience of the Industrial class of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company during 1911 to 1916 shows that for ages one to four (1-4) the deaths from all forms of tuberculosis were seventy-eight and four-tenths (78.4) for White males and two hundred and sixty-nine and two-tenths (269.2) for Colored males per one hundred thousand (100,000) persons exposed, or an excess on Colored males of one hundred and ninety and eight tenths (190.8).

JOHN BARRYMORE AS "HAMLET"
From a portrait by O. Richard Reid, noted Negro painter.

In the Intermediate and Industrial classes the total female Colored mortality seems to be somewhat better than the males, although in the Ordinary the reverse is true. It is emphasized, however, that female mortality is relatively higher where the opportunity for selection against the company is present, and this may account for the higher percentage for females in the Ordinary as compared with the lower percentage in the Intermediate and Industrial where female lives are insured with greater freedom.

From tables compiled in recent years from the mortality experience of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, it is shown that the extra mortality on Colored lives is not attributable to any particular cause of death, although Tuberculosis is responsible for more of the extra deaths than any other one cause. The Industrial table shows that over one-half of the extra mortality at the younger ages is attributable to this one disease, and also that the females suffer more than the males. The effect of the age is shown also in the Industrial table. At the ages ten to fourteen (10-14) fifty-five per cent (55%) of the extra Colored mortality on males is due to Tuberculosis, while on female sixty-seven pes cent (67%) of the extra mortality is accounted for. At ages fifty-five to sixty-four (55-64), eleven per cent (11%) of the excess is due to Tuberculosis for males, while only five per cent (5%) for females. On Industrial policies the death rate from Pneumonia is high, especially at younger ages, but the proportion of deaths from this cause does not appear to be particularly high in the Ordinary. The higher proportion in the Ordinary next to Tuberculosis is Acute Nephritis and Bright's Disease, the excess rate for which in the Industrial is also high at the older ages.

The deaths from organic diseases of the heart do not show a large percentage in the Ordinary, but such deaths are numerous at older ages in the Industrial.

A comparison of the mortality of Negro males and White males in the Original Registration States based upon the 1910 censors as shown by the United States Life tables published by the Bureau of Census, shows that the Infantile mortality rate among Negro males in the original Registration States (Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Indiana and Michigan and the District of Columbia) to be nearly twice that of the White males. In other states, Southern especially, and in certain cities the ratio of Negro infantile mortality runs as high as seven to one (7-1) to the White infantile mortality. The United States Life tables show that out of each one hundred thousand (100,000) Negro males born, excluding still births, in the original registration states, that seven thousand three hundred and seventy (7,370) will die before the end of the first month over against four thousand eight hundred and forty-four (4,844) White males out of one hundred thousand (100,000) born alive; and that twenty-one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five (21,935) Negro males will die before the end of the first year over against twelve thousand three hundred and twenty-six (12,326) White males out of one hundred thousand (100,000) born alive. The United States Life Tables also show that out of each one hundred thousand (100,000) Negro females born alive six thousand three hundred and eighty (6,380) will die before the end of the first month over against three thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven (3,787) White females; that out of one hundred thousand (100,000) born alive that eighteen thousand five hundred and seven (18,507) Negro females will die before they reach the end of the first year over against ten thousand two hundred and sixty-six (10,266) White females.

It is interesting to note that the mortality rate for infant males during the first year for both White and Colored is greater than the females for both White and Colored races.

The United States life tables also show that out of each one hundred thousand (100,000) Negro males born alive sixty-six thousand and three hundred and seventy-seven (66,377) will live to reach the age of ten (10) years over against eighty-one thousand five hundred and nineteen (81,519) White males; sixty-one thousand four hundred and twenty-six (61,426) Negro males will reach the age of twenty (20) years over against seventy-nine thousand one hundred and sixteen (79,116) White males; forty-five thousand four hundred and fourteen (45,414) Negro males will reach the age of forty (40) years over against sixty-eight thousand eight hundred and forty-eight (68,848) White males; thirty-five thousand four hundred and twenty-seven (35,427) Negro males will reach the age of fifty (50) years over against sixty thousand seven hundred and forty-one (60,741) White males; twenty-three thousand seven hundred and fifty Negro males will reach the age of sixty (60) years over against forty-eight thousand nine hundred and eighty-seven (48,987) White males; and at the age of eighty (80) years three thousand eight hundred and ninety-four (3,894) Negro males over against twelve thousand one hundred and sixty (12,160) Whites. At the age of eighty (80) the number dying per each thousand alive was greater for the Whites than for the Negro, being one hundred and thirty-five seventy-five hundredths (135.75) for the Whites and one hundred and thirty-one twenty-seven hundredths (131.27) for the Negro. From this point on the death rate per each thousand alive is greater for the Whites than the Colored, and the expectancy is greater for the Colored than for the Whites—being five and fifty-three hundredths (5.53) years for the Colored over against five and nine hundredths (5.09) for the Whites.

Owing to the excess mortality on Colored lives and the difference in the expectation of life it is evident and imperative, all things being equal, that either an additional premium charge should be made, and rates based upon tables that more nearly reflect the actual present day mortality of the Negro lives should be computed, as the present average premium charge is inadequate to take care of the excess mortality on Colored lives: or, in order to meet the competition of other companies insuring Negro risks at the regular premium charge based upon the standard rates computed from the present day and accepted mortality tables—American Experience Actuaries or combined, Standard Industrial and others, the Negro companies must institute and maintain systems of strict economy in management, lower salaries and wages; larger earnings on investments; by united effort and co-operation through the National Negro Insurance Association, or groups of companies operating in the same states and territories reduce duplication of efforts to the minimum consistant with good business principles.

Young companies having highly favorable mortality experience should not become over confident or jubilant, because the effect of selection wears off rapidly. Strict economy should be maintained at all times from the very beginning, extra reserves in addition to the regular reserves required by law should be maintained to take care of the excess mortality on Colored lives.

A study of the latest statistics available reveals that the ratio of the actual to the expected mortality on Colored lives is in excess of thirty per cent (30%). To properly take care of this excess mortality rate an emergency reserve of at least thirty-three per cent (33%) of the legal valuation should be maintained in addition to regular reserve required by law, created by systems of strict economy, smaller dividends and greater earnings on investments, same emergency reserve decreasing as the mortality on Negro lives improves.

The foregoing statistics have been compiled from the experience of several of the large White companies. The Medico-Actuarial investigation and United States Life Tables, published by the Bureau of Census, under the supervision of Prof. James W. Glover, of the University of Michigan.

The requested data pertaining to mortality experience of the Colored companies, members of this organization, has been submitted by only seven companies. The number of exposures and deaths were not large enough to furnish any definite idea of the mortality on risks under either the Ordinary or Industrial class. It is to be desired, that Negro companies will organize and maintain statistical departments for the specific purpose of furnishing reliable data for Actuarial and Medical research work, whereby the experience of Negro risks may be made available for scientific study.

PART VI

LIFE EXTENSION WORK

Health Program

In view of the high rate of mortality among Colored people as set forth in the preceding chapter the questions that naturally present themselves are: Is death preventable? Can life be conserved? The experience of every insurance man who has gone into the homes of policyholders has taught him that there was much preventable sickness and death. It is said that as many as one-half the deaths occurring could be postponed for many years through life extension work and with an intelligent and active Health Program.

The high mortality among our people and policyholders makes a program for the conservation of life imperative. Programs of life conservation that contain important factors in death prevention have been placed in operation by many of the leading insurance companies of the country. It has been found that many policyholders die because of the lack of adequate care in sickness. To overcome this condition many companies established free nursing service for their sick members, and they report their experience as being very favorable. The Metropolitan reports that the free nursing service of that Company, made one and one-half million visits to three hundred thousand (300,000) sick policyholders; and that thirteen per cent (13%) of the nursing service is extended to Colored people, which is a little higher than the proportion of Colored persons insured in the Industrial Department of the company. They also report that the Colored policyholders are especially appreciative of this phase of their health work.

Other factors that go to make up the program for life conservation, are free medical examinations at stated periods; free diseases, their course and prevention; free clinics and the distribution of leaflets describing the various diseases, their cause and prevention, especially whenever there is an epidemic of disease prevalent in a community, or when and where an epidemic is anticipated or threatened. Also leaflets pertaining to the care of children, in families where there are young children, have cut down materially the high infantile mortality.

In recent years there has been a great improvement in Colored mortality, although it is still far in excess of White mortality. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company reports that their colored policyholders have availed themselves of every advantage which has been offered to them. That in periods of illness, they have received nursing care and have in fact taken advantage of public health nursing even to a greater degree than White policyholders. Public health nursing obtains its largest results primarily through health teaching. Metropolitan reports that it has distributed millions of copies of authoritative leaflets on personal hygiene among its Colored policyholders.

In order to ascertain the amount of Life conservation work being done by the members of the National Negro Insurance Association a questionnaire was mailed to each Negro company in the country; and out of twenty-eight replies the reports of only two companies showed any real conservation work being done or money expended in that direction. These two companies, namely, the Afro-American Life Insurance Company of Jacksonville, Florida, and the Unity Industrial Life Insurance Company of New Orleans, Louisiana, reported that their experience in conservation work had been very favorable and highly profitable. Each of these companies maintained (a) free clinics, (b) provided free medical examination to their policyholders, (c) maintained staff of visiting nurses, and (d) distributed large quantities of health literature. Five other companies reported as having distributed several thousand leaflets on personal hygiene. One Company reported the Life Extension Institute Service of New York to its policyholders. The reports from the twenty-seven companies, members of this organization, showed that less than ten thousand dollars ($10,000) was spent on Life Extension and Conservation work out of an income of thirteen million eight hundred and fifty-six thousand seven hundred and forty-two dollars ($13,856,742). In short, the Life Conservation work being done by the National Negro Insurance Association or its member companies as reported, with the exception of the Companies mentioned above, is yet to be done.

Here lies a great field and opportunity for service. Our people must learn to think more and more in terms of life conservation. As our earning capacity increases, and as we become more and more prosperous we must learn to contribute more money on faculties which tend to improve the health and living conditions of our race. There is a great need for a wider extension of the work described herein among our people. Our people can profit more from conservation work than any other race. If intelligently worked, the savings on sick and death claims will soon be larger than the amount expended for life conservation.

Editor's Note: James A. Jackson, the recenty appointed Special Agent, Assistant Business Specialist in charge of section of Domestic Commerce Division, U. S. Dept. of Commerce says of the above:

"That report is now in the files of the U. S. Division of Domestic Commerce, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce where it is being utilized as the accepted authority for answering inquiries relative to colored Insurance companies until such a time as a survey of the whole field will have been completed by the Bureau."

"It is the first document of the sort issued by a colored Trade organization that has been so handled, entirely for the reason that it is the only such body as has ever made a reasonably successful effort to assemble the facts about the field of operations in which they are engaged."

The Avenue

By Laura Tanne

Through the white snow we walked
Where no ghost of prejudice had ever stalked
Soul in soul and arm in arm entwined
He, brown, and I, pink-white—
Strange flowers of a common vine.

White folks gazed in wild concern
Their stupid egos could not discern
Our love walked in the pure white snow
Where their mud-cased souls could never go.

NOT MANY OF YOUR PEOPLE COME HERE

A DISCUSSION OF SEGREGATION IN THE THEATRE

By RANDOLPH EDMONDS

The article entitled "Your Best People Come Here" in the December issue of THE MESSENGER, brings up a difficult but timely question; viz, the segregation of Negroes in American theatres. Especially those of us who have lived in the south have felt this keenly. We know the gallery, commonly called the "peanut gallery." We know the colored section marked off by imaginary, yet real, lines. And finally we are familiar with the expanding gallery to take care of the influx of colored patrons when the house brings a Negro show. These, of course, are accompanied by impolite ushers, and the sarcastic and insulting remarks by ribald whites.

In the main the author's analysis of the question was sound. It is undeniable that this nefarious custom is spreading into areas that have before been free. It is even invading the western section of the country; and if the present rate of increase keeps up the north will soon be south so far as "jim crowism" in the theatre is concerned. So a public discussion of the question is very important at this time if we wish to cut off the growing head of this segregation hydra in this country.

In discussing this problem, however, it seems to me that the author made some gross errors in his fundamental premise. The first was the total disregard of the other race in his discussion. He says. "It will be the purpose of this brief study to disregard completely those which may be said to base themselves in the racial prejudice of white people, or can be referred to its implications." And when he discusses the remedy for the evil he further makes the statement, "Here again there will be no mention of what white people may or should do to remove the difficulty." Now since segregation in theatres, as well as all other forms, of discrimination, is grounded in the white man's prejudice against the Negro, and not in the Negroes' prejudice against the white man, no adequate solution will be reached unless one takes in consideration what the Caucasian will, should, or must do. Any study of the question without regard to that is done in a perfunctory, or at best unscientific manner.

The second error of judgment is in his own words: "Colored people themselves accept the entire debasing practice with its plain inference of their inferiority, accept it uncomplainingly, even willingly, gladly paying for the dubious privilege in both hard earned coin and self respect." This, it seems to me, is a little too strong, a misstatement of fact. It is true that colored people—some of the "better class" if there are any—go to the jim crow theatre; but they do not go gladly, and willingly paying for this debasing practice. I have been myself many times with people, but I have yet to know of one who gladly and willingly went to a jim crow gallery. That was always the one fly in the ointment which kept the occasion far from ideal.

The truth of the matter is: the average colored person who goes to the best type of show is in a dilemma. He knows very well that it is useless to boycott them as the author recognized. It is purely up to him to go to the theatre under the galling practices and get some good, if there is any in the show, or stay away and most assuredly do the other fellow no harm; for it is plainly evident that the theatres are not run on the economic support of the colored people. The person who does go, goes because he realizes that "the play is the thing." It is done not gladly nor willingly, however.

Harlem, Mid-Afternoon
Any Week Day

By HEBA JANNATH

Children
With faces like black orchids
Soft, sultry, sullen
Their smiles
Moonlit paths in a forest.

Children
Smooth brown
Little heads carved in oak
With polished ridges
Or modeled in caromel
With fluted flower lips.

Children
Honey-colored
With big lustrous eyes
And crisp little noses
And bright jet curls—
Little amber odalesques
Little gods and goddesses
In gold.

Children of smoked pearl
With slate-grey eyes
And straight brown hair
And thin-etched lips
Parted in wonder.

Children
Of a dozen blends
Moonstone tints
With twisted charcoal hair
And slim Greek heads in bronze.
Little Delilahs and Madonnas
Little Vishnus and Venuses
Little Pans and Apollos.
Children
Who will beard Broadway
Who will hearten, harrie and harangue Harlem
Some who will swing picks
Some who will wash dishes
And some who will wear sable
And others
Who still could walk naked
Beringed and proud
With spears in their hands
Over African meadows.

The whole question is deeper than just a superficial decision of to go, or not to go. It brings in the whole problem of segregation. Should a Negro walk to work or ride in a jim crow car? He usually rides. Should a Negro remain in ignorance or go to a jim crow school? He usually goes. Our country is dotted with Negro schools and universities. They realize that an education under adverse circumstances is better than no education at all. This shouldn't be taken as a meek surrender of principles, however. We have organizations fighting all the time for our economic and civic rights. In the meantime we are forced to take what we can get.

The question of prejudice, especially in business, is more one of dollars than color. Any business will, and must of necessity, cater to the people who pay for it. If there are several kinds of people represented, they will receive attention according to their influence and buying ability. I remember the time, not many years ago, either, when white people didn't come to Harlem in such large numbers. There was a public dance in the old Palace Casino one night. Two white fellows walked in the place and commenced dancing with some of the ladies of color. Immediately there was a young riot. The ladies and gentlemen stormed the manager's office, and threatened all kinds of wild happenings if the white intruders were not ejected. The manager ordered the music stopped, and with a great show of race patriotism, ordered the two men to go down town and dance with their white women and stop breaking up his business. I have seen this duplicated at the Renaissance and other places in a lesser degree.

But who would think of ordering white people out to a colored dance in Harlem today, unless it was a private or a club function? The white people come in larger numbers today and have acquired a financial interest in Harlem's social life, especially the night life. The same manager would perhaps throw a Negro out today if he protested, on the ground of breaking up his business. The same ladies who squawked so loudly that night about the presence of white men would be boasting today that New York is so cosmopolitan, or, perhaps, Bohemian.

These, of course, are colored examples. Well, the white people act, and would act the same way. So the debasing situation today is due not so much to the fact that "your best people come here" as stated by the author of the article, but rather "not many of your people come here." The fact that just a few people bring on the situation is because large numbers bring many dollars, and dollars to a large extent decide the degree of prejudice in a man's mind whether he be white or colored.

This brings us to a discussion of the remedy for such a situation, and I find myself again at variance with the author of the article. My first suggestion would be,

(Continued on page 69)

THE AFRAMERICAN ACADEMY

WALTER P. EVANS

The owner of Evans' White Front Department Store, Laurinburg, N. C., his business is known as the most outstanding one of its kind owned by a Negro in the United States. The combined salary paid his clerks amounts to more annually than the sum expended by the town to school nearly 600 Negro children. His business is largely patronized by the white people of Laurinburg. In 1926 and 1927 he supplied over 130 white and black farmers with food and materials on crop lien and chattel mortgage securities. The store was started in 1885. Mr. Evans was born in Wilmington, N. C., in 1863. He was clerk in the office of the County Register of Deeds and clerk in the Post Office in Wilmington in the days when the Negro was a factor in politics. In 1896 he was appointed Justice of Peace in Laurinburg, and in 1898 was appointed Postmaster, but was prevented from taking office by the activities of the Red Shirts.

FLOYD J. CALVIN

Washington, Ark., celebrated the birth of this young man 25 years ago; Hope, Ark., mourned his departure in 1920, when he left the Solid South for the marts of Gotham. Arriving in the City of High Rent, he attended school a year, working betimes for The New York Age and THE MESSENGER. In 1923 he went to the Home Office of The Pittsburgh Courier, remaining there for six months, when he returned to Harlem as Eastern District Manager. Since June, 1926, he has been Special Feature Editor of The Pittsburgh Courier, and has contributed much to the development of that outstanding weekly newspaper. In 1927 he had the distinction of securing the first radio hour with a leading station (WGBS), New York, known as "The Pittsburgh Courier Hour." He has delivered over the air many educational talks on Negro achievements, including "The Negro Press" and the "Durham Conference."

JAMES A. JACKSON

When J. A. (Billboard) Jackson recently passed with a mark of 82.10, the civil service examination for Special Agent-Assistant Business Specialist in charge of section of Domestic Commerce Division, U. S. Department of Commerce, he was merely living up to past performances and keeping abreast of the expectations of his host of friends. Born in Bellefonte, Pa., from a family that has been free since 1793, he has been waiter, newspaper reporter, policeman, minstrel man, bank clerk, railway policeman, press agent, director of bureaus for an insurance company, editor and theatrical writer. He has worked as feature writer and reporter on the Detroit Today (now the Times), the N. Y. Globe, and the Chicago Daily Bulletin, the N. Y. Herald, and The Billboard. He has been in sixteen foreign countries—excluding Mississippi, is Grand Lodge Elk, Imperial Officer in the Shriners, 33rd Degree Mason, Founder of The Deacons, and member of clubs and associations too numerous to mention. He isn't 50 yet—but it won't be long now!

BYRON S. HOLDER

Born in Shelbyville, Tenn., in 1883, but raised in Watertown, South Dakota, and Minneapolis, Minn., Mr. Holder, with the assistance of his wife, has succeeded in building up a flourishing business from the preparation solely of chicken in all its forms. In his P. & S. Chicken Shack in Minneapolis, Minn., ten colored girls are employed eight hours a day, six days a week. The place seats 125 persons and 100 orders can be served in 30 minutes. The chickens used are milk fed from six to eight days and are purchased from three of the largest feeding stations in the Northwest. Only one kind of potato, the Idaho Gem, is used. Mr. Holder has a large patronge from the most prominent citizens in the community and the excellence of his service is widely known. During the year 1927 he did a business in excess of $50,000.

WILLIAM N. JONES

A South Carolinian, a graduate of Benedict College, a former student at Tuskegee Institute and the University of Chicago, a one-time teacher at Haines Institute and Bishop College, Mr. Jones developed the first municipal playground when he became Director of Social Colored Survey in Memphis, Tenn. He guided the recreation department to the purchase of the $85,000 central auditorium and recreation park. Six years ago he left this field to take up journalism, becoming a member of the staff of the Afro-American. He has risen from court reporter to managing editor. His column of comment is one of the best in the country, and certainly there is none that better reflects the attitude of the New Negro. He is also a lecturer on journalism at Howard University.

By GEORGE S. SCHUYLER

Negro Musical Education: Now that the Okeh Phonograph Company has issued Record No. 8531, containing "Blood-Thirsty Blues" and "Dope Head Blues," it may be assumed by some Aframericans that the bottom has been touched. Not at all. Even more "educational" records by "race" artists can be expected. Since these phonograph companies know their Negro public so well, we suppose that it will not be long before we shall be favored with "Raping Blues," "Grave-Robber Blues," "Abortion Blues," "Burglary Blues," "Highway Robbery Blues," "Chicken-Stealing Blues," "Porch-Climbing Blues," "Peeping Tom Blues," "Incest Blues," and similar gems of social uplift. Come on you phonograph company boys! Do your stuff! Remember, there is no limit when you are getting out phonograph records for Negro consumption.

Bigger and Better Dances: What this great Negro race needs is more dances. We don't dance nearly enough. It is true that we hold a dance every night in the big cities and at least twice a week in the smaller ones, but why not hold them in the morning before going to work and also at noon time? Just think of how much more money we could spend on dances if we just attended them twice as often? Why if we applied our minds to the problem, we could soon bankrupt all of our financial institutions and insurance companies by spending all of our money on dancing. The year is young yet, why not make a start? Nothing ventured, nothing won. Let's get busy right away and dance ourselves into the poor houses.

The Holebean Awards: It gives us great pleasure to announce to the breathless world the Holebean Awards for the year 1928. These awards are made possible annually by that eminent high priest of the Games of Chance, Mr. Jasper Holebean, a noted figure in Africana. The prizes are given each year to Negroes who have made outstanding contributions to the coarser arts and have thereby become distinguished. The Holebean Awards Foundation is under the direction of Prof. Dr. Gregory I. Gaines, SAP., Yale, 1898; BOOB., Harvard, 1902, Eminent Guzzler of the Tappa Kegga Bevo fraternity.

HAIR FRYING: 1st Prize, $400, to Lucinda Koal, of Hog Maw, Miss., for her work in "doing" nine "heads" in less than two hours, without burning a scalp.

2nd Prize, $200, to Ashie Epps, of Pianobox, Ala., who achieved wide attention because of her ability to conquer the most "stubborn" hair in a miraculously short time without breaking a single neck.

SUDS BUSTING: 1st Prize, $400, to Jemima Jumpsteady, of Coolbreeze, Ky., who astounded the natives of her locality by finishing a family washing in less than two hours.

2nd Prize, $200 to Sissereta Leanshanks, of Chitterling Switch, Ga., who holds the record of her state for washing bedclothes without getting a weak back.

HOT STUFF VENDING: 1st Prize, $400, to William Wallclimber, of New York City, for the remarkable achievement of scaling a 14-story loft building, filching a bale of dresses, and selling them to the elite of Harlem, all within 24 hours.

2nd Prize: $200, to Clifford Ratty, of New York City, for cleaning up a fortune by selling cheap fur to the wise Negroes of Harlem by palming it off as expensive "Hot" stuff.

NUMBER-RUNNING: 1st Prize, $400, to Napoleon Sluefoot of Brooklyn, N. Y., who performed the remarkable feat of collecting $1,000 worth of numbers in less than an hour's time.

2nd Prize, $200, to Abraham Hogear of Philadelphia, Pa., who, when arrested with a bale of number slips on his person, was clever enough to make the police believe that he was trying to disprove the Einstein Theory and that the slips contained his calculations.

GIN GUZZLING: Because of the close competition and the millions of entrants in contests all over the country, it was impossible to make any award in this field. Many Aframericans dropped dead in an effort to win the prize.

Crime and Punishment in America: Crime in these colorful United States, is, as you all know judged and punished according to the ancestry of the criminal, regardless of the ferocity of the crime. For instance:

SIX YEAR OLD GIRL MURDERED

Assaulted and Dismembered

Wealthy Young Man Confesses

(Special to the Evening Gloat)

Boozeburg, Pa., February 31, 1928:—Missing for several days, the dismembered body of little Lucinda Moron, the daughter of Ima and Yura Moron, prominent and respected citizens of Boozeburg, Pa., was found hidden in a swamp near the outskirts of this town. The countryside had been scoured for several days in search of the six-year-old little girl who was last seen alive Tuesday night when citizens of the town saw her walking down the street with Abe Normal, the young scion of a wealthy local family.

After prolonged consultation the Coroner's jury concluded that she had been assaulted criminally and the body dismembered and hidden in order to hide the crime. Immediately a warrant was sworn out for Abe Normal, and he was arrested in Coal Scuttle, N. J., last night, from whence he was hurried to the county jail in Boozeburg. Feeling is running high and all precautions are being taken by the sheriff to protect his prisoner. (And so on for six columns).

CHILD SLAYER CONFESSES CRIME

Family Rushes to His Aid

Prominent Alienist Claims Insanity

(Special to the Morning Garbage)

Boozeburg, Pa., February 32, 1928—Looking haggard and worn, Abe Normal, the confessed slayer of little Lucinda Moron, was brought before County Judge Bugger this morning where he pleaded not guilty to the crime, despite his confession of last night. His attorney, O. Fall Lyre, claims that the confession was extracted by brutal and illegal methods. This was denied by Watt A. Thugg, the prison warden, whose statement was substantiated by Klubb M. Hard and Thur D. Gree, the two other officers in whose presence the confession was made.

The family of the confessed slayer has engaged Dr. Whoffle Dust, the eminent alienist from the staff of the Sappy Hospital for the Insane. After examining the youthful murderer, Dr. Dust gave a statement to the press in which he stated that it was his unbiased opinion that Abe Normal is a raving maniac. The state has employed Dr. M. T. Brane, to prove that the criminal is sane.

Letters have been received from people in places as remote as Hullobaloo, Calif., claiming to have committed the crime. (A page of pictures on Page 10).

ABE NORMAL DECLARED INSANE

Committed to State Asylum for Life

Leaves Amid Cheering Crowds

Boozeburg, Pa., April 42, 1930:—The sun rose bright and clear today over the Booze County courthouse and disclosed a large assemblage of curious citizens waiting for a fleeting glimpse of Abe Normal, the young child murderer, who was yesterday committed for life to the State Insane Asylum after a sensational trial. Many had waited in the chilly spring air since midnight. Vendors of hot dogs, coffee, soda water and toy balloons reaped a harvest from the crowd. Newspaper reporters and photographers were on the job from four o'clock interviewing deputy sheriffs, scrubwomen, policemen, janitors, and others around the

(Continued on page 69)

EDITORIALS

The Presidential Race

THE race for President is on in good fashion. At this writing, ambitious candidates are gunning for the nomination of their respective parties. This will probably be the hardest and the bitterest campaign for president waged in America since the civil war, if Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, becomes the standard bearer of the Democratic party.

Religious bigotry will be played up with unspeakable fierceness. Catholics will bait Protestants and Protestants will bait Catholics, for it is generally assumed that this is a Protestant country. Men and women, currently labelled intelligent, with the utmost seriousness and sincerity, speak blandly and innocently of the Pope running the United States in the event of the election of Al Smith as President. This is, perhaps the strongest card in the hands of the Republican politicians to play against the New York governor.

Among Republican aspirants, Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, is doubtless the most formidable. The count against him is, that he is Constitutionally ineligible because of two long residents in foreign countries. Those advocates of a strictly literal interpretation of the Constitution maintain that one must have lived fourteen years in the United States prior to his election for president. While this is presumably inconsequential from the point of view of intellectual, experiential and moral availability, it means a whole lot when politicians are maneuvering for place and power. They can adroitly magnify a mole hill into a mountain. Empty-headed wind jammers will rant and rave furiously about the country's going to the bow-wows if an American citizen is chosen for president who has spent a considerable part of his life under the influence of Perfidious Albion.

As between Smith and Hoover there is little to choose from the point of view of ability, executive and administrative experience in the handling of large government problems and in general public integrity. Both have a measure of liberalism. Both have their share of reactionism. Both will make good presidents so far as presidents go. Both have some independence. Either one is easily the superior in presidential availability, not of course from the politician's point of view, or any of the other contestants in the field. The educated classes of America seem to choose Hoover first, and Smith second.

Of the two, doubtless, Al Smith would create the greatest sensation. His life has a dramatic setting, coming, as it were, from the lower depths of the New York sidewalk life. Despite the historical political reputation of Tammany, he has not only maintained a pronounced political respectability, but won the enviable distinction of being one of the greatest authorities in state government and an advocate of progressive social legislation. Though not a schoolman, he has successfully grappled with many intricate problems of state finance and reorganization. As a controversialist he has met and bested the keenest minds in the Republican camp of New York State.

As for his capacity for National statesmanship, no serious student of modern politics can find anyone who could bring a finer fund of common sense to the handling of these larger problems than the idol of the plain folks of New York.

Herbert Hoover is a man of high formal educational attainments. His handling of the big food problems during the war and the flood situation in Mississippi, stamp him as one of the ablest administrators in public affairs in America or Europe. While not the fighter and controversialist that Al Smith is, his fine grasp of public questions carry with it an authority which challenges the admiration of both Republicans and Democrats.

On the question of the Negro, neither has done anything which is sufficiently outstanding to cause him to be labelled as any special friend of the race. Nor has either done anything which would merit the name of an enemy. Negroes may expect no striking variation in presidential policies toward them under Al Smith or Hoover from that which has obtained with presidents generally. The Negro can only expect a larger measure of consideration from the hands of the president, whoever he may incidentally be, only when they possess organized political power, directed by honest and intelligent men. From the point of view of the Negro, it doesn't make very much difference whether the next president is a Republican or a Democrat, a Catholic or a Protestant, a Jew or a Gentile. All are his friends before elected, and all are indifferent to his interests after their election. This is not so because of race, or color, but because of the political ignorance and weakness, stupidity and corruption of Negro political leadership.

The only political security the Negroes can look to is their own power which will arise from definite hard-boiled organization. Their friends may help them but they cannot save them.

Negro Congressmen

THE time has come for Negroes to secure representation in Congress. It is obviously a disgrace that one-tenth of the population of the great American Republic has not a single representative in either house of Congress. The Jews, Irish, Italians, Catholics, Klu Kluxers, Prohibitionists, Wets, Women and practically every other group in America which has a corporal's guard, can point to somebody in Congress which definitely and directly represents them. They can do that only because the representative is one of them.

Nothing can be raised in Congress against the Jews or Catholics, or Wets or Drys, or Women, which will not be challenged by a representative of that group. It is unreasonable to expect that a Jew will look out for the interest of Catholics, or a Catholic for Negroes. While Jews may not oppose Catholics in Congress, still they have so many problems of their own that they cannot devote the proper time to study the problems of the Catholics in order to champion their cause successfully.

Every group in America which has special problems has shown the good sense to elect one of their group to work for the solution of their problems in Congress. No, it is not correct to say every group has done this, because the Negro has not. He alone stands out, as perhaps the largest, single racial or nationality group in the country which can point to no representative in the nation's greatest legislative body. It is true that there are white representatives from Negro districts, in New York, St. Louis and Chicago. But those white congressmen think of the Negro only to the extent that it is found to be good politics.

In all three of these centers, Negroes should select and elect their own representatives. Of course they will eventually. But that is not enough for intelligent people to set forth as a reason for their political recreancy now. Perhaps the most outstanding contestant for Congress among colored people is Chandler Owen of Chicago. He can and will win, if Negroes will vote for him and see to it that his votes are counted.

Not until Negroes can point to a Negro in Congress will the race get any considerable political dignity or win any definite measure of political respect. The assumption by the white and black public is that since there are no Negroes in Congress, they have no right to be there. But we want more than a Negro in congress. We want a fearless, brilliant and honorable representative Negro sent there. A man who does not think white; but one who thinks right; one who is without the taint of a slave psychology, but who knows the mechanics and technique of modern social psychology; one who is not the typical politician, but who has a broad, sound fundamental understanding of national political problems in particular, and world problems in general; one who is not a wild erratic gesture-maker and kaleidoscopic sensation-monger, but a serious, dignified student and fighter. Owen fits this bill for Chicago, and the task is for Negroes to find someone who will measure up to the fight in New York and St. Louis. We hope this can be done. We want a Negro congressman who will not alone be interested in the Negro problem but in all the problems of America.

Negro Labor Conferences

ONE of the most significant movements initiated in America in the last decade, is the Negro Labor Conference. It was conceived and projected by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. Its object is to awaken an interest among the Negro and white public in the problems of the Negro worker and American industry and in relation to organized labor; and also to mobilize sentiment behind the movement to organize the Pullman porter.

It is the first conference movement in America which has as its primary aim the study of industrial problems with a view to stimulating and developing interest in the organization of the Negro worker. The agenda was sufficiently comprehensive to embrace every phase of life of the Negro worker. The Negro worker and Organized labor came in for considerable discussion since it is one of the most controversial questions. In every conference a specialist on labor problems and the representative from the American Federation of Labor treated this subject. Many of the discussions surrounding this theme were heated but cordial, the one object being to probe as deeply into the matter as possible so as to reach some sound workable basis for the meeting of Negro and white workers together in a common labor movement for a common goal. The white speakers on this subject showed that they possessed a broad and liberal view point and that they recognized the obvious injustice which white labor had formerly practiced upon the Negro worker. They were not hesitant, however, in pointing out that the Negro worker's obligation was to come into the organized labor movement wherever accepted. They also indicated that the tendency among the international unions who had discriminated against Negro workers joining them, was to alter their policy in favor of the admission of their black brothers. All of them commended the Pullman porters for their brilliant pioneer work in the field of organized labor.

Despite the fact that the Conference was built around the idea of organized labor of the Negro worker, it also placed on its agenda the subject of the Negro worker and the employer. In most of the conferences, the Industrial secretary of the Urban League, because of his special knowledge, treated this subject. On account of the fact that the Industrial opportunities of Negroes are sharply limited, this subject evoked interesting questions and discussion. Many speakers offered the belief that some Negro workers were discriminated against in certain industries because of inefficiency. But this view point was pretty generally overcome by a formidable array of facts which tended to show that the Negro worker is not any more inefficient than the white worker is, and that the instances in which the Negro worker was inefficient, it was more due to the low wages paid than to any question of race or color.

An examination of the problems of Industrial workers today will show that health is basic and fundamental. In the large International Unions the question of health has been found so paramount that worker's health bureaus are established to make health surveys for the formulation of Industrial health policies. With a view to bringing modern enlightened opinion on worker's health to the Negro, the Conference secured eminent white and colored doctors to deal with this subject. Not until sound preventive medical information is placed at the disposal of the average worker, white and black, will he be able to avoid the ravages of the destructive occupational diseases, as well as the blood infections.

Civil Liberty and the Negro worker was included for discussion, because of the operation of the injunction against the workers, the "Yellow Dog Contract" and the denial of the Negro the right to vote in the south. The Negro worker holds a unique position in the American Industrial world, in that he is the only wage earner who is denied the power of political action on account of race or color. Of course, in every state of the south, white workers are denied the right of suffrage also. But not on account of race or color. The fear of the spread of progressive and economic views among the white proletariate, is responsible for the industrial-political Bourbons manipulating the political machinery so adroitly as to exclude the broad masses of white workers. The south is still practically unaware of the existence of workmen's compensation laws, employers' liability acts, maternity legislation, child labor measures, factory laws for the protection of the workers, minimum wage laws, laws against usury practiced by loan sharks upon defenseless workers, laws for the protection of women workers, and general social legislation which amelioriates the working and social conditions of the industrial population.

Industrial democracy of the Negro worker was presented in order that the trends toward the establishment of a larger degree of workers' control in industry might be analyzed and appraised. Every effort made by the workers to secure the right to greater and geater expression of opinion on rules and working conditions and wages that affect the lives of workers, is a step in the direction of industrial democracy. The Company Union movement is a direct challenge to this principle. Its purpose is more thoroughly to enslave the worker in industry.

Realizing that the agencies of education and propaganda would naturally influence every effort of the Negro worker to achieve greater economic security and justice, the Conference brought to it a professional journalist to talk on the Negro worker and the press. Some of the most stubbornly fought battles on the industrial field have been materially influenced for good or ill by the attitude of the press. Very often the press practiced deliberate misrepresentation of the cause of organized labor. It was this attitude of the Metropolitan press which gave rise to the labor press, and labor press agencies, such as the Federated Press. On the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters it was interesting to note that the press has shown, especially during the last year, a disposition to give news about the movement to organize the porters a fair "break." In practically every paper in the country, something has been written about the porter's fight for a living wage and the abolition of tips. The press has been a salient factor in getting the porters' cause a hearing. The Negro press too, has shown a most remarkable tendency, during the last year, to concern itself with the porters' movement in particular, and the Negro worker in general, if not in its editorial columns, certainly in its news columns.

Nor can the church be ignored when confronted with the problems of mobilizing public opinion in favor of the solution of the great social question. Therefore, the Conference sought to have the church represented in giving its view point on the relation of the church to the worker. When it is remembered that the National Catholic Welfare Council, the Central American Association of Rabbis, and the Federal Councils of Churches of Christ, have conjointly

(Continued on page 71)

Compiled by GEORGE S. SCHUYLER

In Louisville, Ky., a group of Negroes have opened an ice factory in the West End, to supply the more than thirty Negro retail dealer. Yes, ice made by Negroes is just as cold as the other kind.

Now that the Delta Penny Savings Bank of Indianola, Miss., has failed prominent Negro business men of the community are planning to organize another bank. These people are gluttons for punishment.

In Baltimore, Md., the Afro-American reports that employment bureaus are packed with applicants crying for employment. The panic is on, it seems.

The Standard News and The Royal Messenger, official organ of the Royal Circle of Friends of the World, both of St. Louis, Mo., have effected a merger. Edgar Brown, owner of the former, doubtless heaved a sigh of relief.

In Picayune, Miss., Negroes recently purchased $22,000 worth of real estate from a local corporation. That was more than a mere picayune.

Those who suffer from "bad" hair and color will doubtless hail with delight the news that a new cosmetic company has arrived on the scene, appropriately enough in Pittsburgh, the Smoky City. It is known as the Pyramid Products Company. Mr. William P. Bayles, formerly head of the Strait-Tex Chemical Company, also of Pittsburgh, is President and Manager of the new concern. If this keeps up the Negro will soon have no kinks in his program.

Headed by F. A. Dilworth, the Savannah Business League has again started functioning after some years of slumber. It should be more than a social success.

The Colored Tailors and Cleaners Association has been organized in Nashville, Tenn. The purpose of the organization is to promote closer cooperation between individuals in the business. Evidently they stand for cleaner business.

At the Bronx (N. Y. City) Bakery of the General Baking Company, makers of Bond Bread, James Winn, a Harlem Negro, has charge of all flour and other supplies used in making the bread. Mr. Winn receives the raw material for the bread, keeps the record and issues the materials to the bakers. This company employs many Negroes in their 43 factories. This disproves the statement that a man cannot live by bread alone.

In Louisville, Ky., the Commercial Broom Works is continuing to do a successful business. It is furnishing brooms for the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Stores and for many of the largest hotels. This company also operates a Gents' and Ladies' Furnishing Store near the center of the city. As much as Negroes use brooms, such a business ought to be successful in almost any community.

When Caucasians and Japanese failed to deliver the goods as chauffeurs, The North Coast Bus and Transportation Company of Seattle, Wash., decided to give Negro chauffeurs a chance to make good. They did. So for eighteen months this company has employed ten Negro chauffeurs to drive their limited buses between Seattle and San Francisco. Recently the company sent their ten Negro drivers to Chicago to get ten new buses and pilot them back to Seattle. The new buses will also be driven by Negro chauffeurs in the limited service. The run between the two cities is 940 miles.

The Southern Aid Society of Virginia reports a cash balance of $424,083 for the year ending 1927, and a capital and surplus of $589,557.23.

The Lexington Colored Fair Association recently held its annual meeting, reported all bills paid and elected new officers. The association has big plans for 1928.

Another branch of the Negro Business League has been organized, this time at Edmondson, Ark. A special effort will be made to aid farmers in planning and marketing crops. The town has a Negro mayor and council, and is a thriving community.

The Prudential Bank of Washington, D. C., reports for 1927 a gain in deposits amounting to $65,428.64. Evidently we can bank on this institution.

According to one of our esteemed contemporaries, the real estate brokers and salesmen of Harlem have organized The Harlem Real Estate Brokers' Association. Look out, tenants!

A new method of raising sunken submarines has been invented by Solomon Harper and George W. Lyttle, two Negro residents of Harlem. Hereafter, doubtless, to paraphrase the Salvation Army slogan: "A submarine may be down but it's never out."

Mr. James Harrison Webb of 211 N. 59th Street, Philadelphia, Pa., has received a "Certificate of Proficiency" in candy making. He studied under a specialist for seven years.

The Mammoth Building and Loan Association of Louisville, Ky., recently declared a 7 per cent dividend. This association has paid dividends regularly twice a year since its organization.

A "Negro in Industry" Week was recently held in St. Louis, Mo., under the direction of T. Arnold Hill, of the Urban League. The purpose was to create greater interest in the opening up of new industrial opportunities for Negroes. Well, they certainly need them.

Mr. Ira DeA. Reid, Industrial Secretary of the N. Y. Urban League recently spoke over Station WEVD, New York City, on "The Decline of the Negro Strike-breaker."

Mr. William H. Smith, Jr., 492 Jackson Avenue, Newark, N. J., claims to operate the only insurance specialist office owned by Negroes in the East.

Miss Leola Barton of Columbia, Tenn., has been engaged by the Soft Wheat Millers' Association as home economics field representative. In this capacity she will carry out an education program of the highest order in Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Louisiana. She is a graduate of Tennessee State College.

Miss Cleota Saunders has been appointed saleslady in the Julius Orkin Ladies' Ready-to-Wear Store, 1512 Douglas Street, Omaha, Neb.

Miss Genevieve H. McKinney, who recently passed a civil service examination for supervising nurse in the New York City Health Department at the top of a field of 267 competitors was recently appointed to the position. It is the first time a Negro woman has held such a position in New York City.

The Norfolk Journal and Guide, up-and-coming Virginia newspaper, recently installed a new Model 26, Mergenthaler Linotype, which is positively the last word in typesetting machines.

Roy Lancaster,
2311 Seventh Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Friend:

You will notice by the heading of this letter that my address has been changed from 423 Y. M. C. A., Detroit, to Tech College, Lubbock, Texas.

Although I am not on the road as much as I formerly was, I have had several opportunities lately for talking through things with a number of porters. Recently I boarded a train at Amarillo, Texas, for Chicago over the Santa Fe: The porter of our car was the first one whom I have met not afraid to show his card. He not only showed his 1928 card but 27, 26, and others as well. I found out as we neared Chicago that his trip had not been very profitable; so I informed the people in the car that he needed substantial tips. Although most of the travelers were students going to a student convention, they dug down and joyfully gave what they could. If I had never had the opportunity to use the card before, that was sufficient justification for my carrying one. I think that you should know further that when I board one of these trains, I always go through an interview of the porters with reference to the Brotherhood. Not all of my experiences are of the happiest nature, but most of them soon gain confidence in me and tell me their story with reference to the Pullman Company. This you know better than I do. I think that the boys in this section of the country are having a very difficult time, but now and then I run into one who has seen the thing and is quietly spreading the message.

I feel highly honored to carry the card which you have sent. Your accompanying letter is inspiring and encouraging to me. I want to assure you that the receipt of your letter and the card was one of the happy experiences of the holiday season to me. I hope and pray that the Brotherhood wins the victory at a price not too high for you to pay. I wish that I could be of more service to you.

I remain,

Your sincere friend,
(Signed) ROY MCCULLOUGH.

Lubbock, Texas, January 26, 1928.

"BEST" EDITORIAL FOR JANUARY

Selected from the American Negro Press

By EUGENE GORDON

Noted Journalist on Staff of Boston Post

Some months ago the Baltimore Afro-American carried an excellent editorial entitled "Senator Bingham Writes." I do not, at the moment, recall the month; but, however, I remember that that editorial was selected as the best of that month. In the Afro-American of January 28th there is an editorial entitled "Congressional Bookkeeping," which is just as unique as the one above referred to, and which goes much further, all things considered, toward becoming a complete editorial. In my opinion, "Congressional Bookkeeping" is the best editorial printed in the Negro press during the month of January. It follows:

Congressional Bookkeeping

DEBIT:

Senator Thomas Heflin's (Democrat Ala.) Attack Upon the Catholic Church

The man from whom Hearst got the forged papers is a Roman Catholic. He testified that he obtained them from Roman Catholic clerks in the Mexican Government and that he told them he wanted the papers for Bishop Diaz, a Roman Catholic bishop of Mexico. Hearst's wife is a Roman Catholic.

Senator Cole Blease (Democrat, S. C.) Offers to Fight.

Two remarks have been made upon this floor which I can not let go without having something to say about them. One was by the Senator from Montana (Mr. Walsh), that Senators who came here from the South after the Civil War were guilty of treason. The other was by the Senator from Pennsylvania (Mr. Reed) in reference to the Negro vote of the South.

I shall at another time answer my friend from Pennsylvania in reference to the Negro question in South Carolina, and the Senator from Montana, who has been so kind as to say that my father r his three brothers, and that my mother's four brothers, who fought in the Confederate Army, were guilty of treason. I shall answer that in a way that will be thoroughly and distinctly understood, and what I say I will be responsible for in the Senate, to the Senate, outside of the Senate, at any time, in any way, and at any place that it suits any man who does not like it.

Senator Walter F. George (Dem. Ga.) "Thinks" Colored Folk in Dixie May Vote.

In my State and in every Southern State so far as I know the members of the Negro race may qualify and may vote. Approximately 3,000 of them in the last election for President in one city in my State did qualify and voted for the present Chief Executive of the United States.

CREDIT:

Senator Josephus Robinson (Dem. Ark.) Says Senator Heflin Is a Fool.

"Senator Heflin says that if I say here or in Arkansas or in Alabama that I am tired of hearing him abuse and denounce the Catholic Church, and the agencies of the Catholic Church, they will tar and feather me. That is illustrative, my friends, of how a good man can go wrong, and how far wrong he can go, and what a fool he can make of himself after he has gone wrong."

Senator David A. Reed (Rep. Penn.) Asks About Excluding Dixie Senators Fraudulently Elected.

"Does the Senator (Reed, Dem. Mo.) consider it to be corrupt and improper to suppress the vote of the entire Negro population in each of the Southern States?

"I want to know whether, in the next Congress, the Senator, if he is here—and I hope he will be—will join with us in applying this principle to men nominated in primaries from which all colored voters are excluded?".

Senator C. C. Dill (Rep., Wash.) Calls Intervention in Nicaragua Foul Crime.

"When the Government of Nicaragua or any other country is in such a condition that the lives of our nationals are not safe it is the duty of this Government to use whatever force is necessary to get those people out of that country; and to that extent I have no criticism of what has been done in Nicaragua. What I am criticising here is not the use of our forces to get Americans out, but it is the keeping of these armed forces there and sending more of them there, not merely to protect the lives of people who cannot get out, but to put more lives there to be destroyed if necessary, merely for the purpose of protecting the investments of Americans there.

"We will not do it to a big country because it would mean war.

"In my judgment this is one of the blackest, foulest crimes that has ever been committed. . ."

In the order named, the following editorials are selected as next best: (1) "Take Stock Everywhere," Chicago Whip, January 14th; (2) "Prohibition and Lynching," Kentucky Reporter, January 28th; (3) "The Supreme Court Flaunted," Pittsburgh Courier, January 4th; (4) "A Civilized Trial," Louisville Leader, January 14th; (5) "Penalty By Commissions Instead of Juries," Norfolk Journal and Guide, January 14th; (6) "The South Rules," Washington Eagles, January 27th; (7) "Propaganda," Afro-American, January 21st; (8) "White Crime," Chicago Defender, January 21st; (9) "Heads Up!" Pittsburgh Courier, January 21st; (10) "Teaching and Testing," Washington Tribune, January 27th; (11) "No Need to Worry," New York Amsterdam News, January 18th; (12) "If You Are Not White," New York News, January 28th.

NEGRO EDITORIALS RATED

WE ANNOUNCE STANDING OF NEGRO PRESS IN 1927

After twelve months of appraising the weekly editorials appearing in the American Negro Press. THE MESSENGER announces the standing of the various newspapers. The standard adopted for testing the editorials was briefly as follows:

1. Is the source of the editorial clearly indicated?
2. Is the subject so presented that the editorial will appeal to those for whom written?
3. What does the editorial set out to do: (1) Explain? (2) Convince? (3) Entertain? Does it succeed?
4. Is the editorial structurally correct?
   a. Does it grip attention with the first sentence?
   b. Does it bear evidence of a definitely ordered plan?
   c. Is the length of the editorial proportionate to its importance?
5. Has the editorial writer a style suited to this particular editorial and to his readers?
6. Is the writer's style suited to editorial writing?

(Continued on page 70)

THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

ACTIVITIES OF THE MONTH

CHICAGO DISTRICT

224 E. Pershing Road

M. P. Webster, Organizer

George W. Clark, Secretary-Treasurer

A renewed spirit seems to have taken hold of the Chicago Division after the first of the year. The dues income is far above normal and the meetings are unusually well attended.

Another "Yellow Dog" petition was started in circulation by "Letter Writin' Tom" of the Chicago Western District. It "resolved" to be "loyal" and the rest of the pigeon bunk and contained a subtle threat, "If you did not sign, you would lose your 'monopoly.'" "Letter Writin' Tom" is one of the brilliant pigeons who is desperately opposed to the Brotherhood. However, the price of pigeons in Chicago is extremely low.

A number of Union men have been discharged here on the following charges: "You know." "Why don't you wake up?" and "disloyalty."

On January 11th, the members of the Citizen's Committee that sent out the call for the Chicago Negro Labor Conference were entertained by the Division Organizer at the Vincennes Hotel at an informal dinner. Arrangements were completed for the Conference and the persons selected to make up the permanent committee. The following guests attended: Dr. Charles Wesley Burton, Mrs. Irene McCoy Gaines, Mrs. Alice Martin, Mr. David W. Johnson, Mr. Chandler Owen and Atty. C. Francis Stradford.

On January 12th, all of the Brotherhood Organizers met in Conference at the Vincennes Hotel and went over the affairs of the Brotherhood for the past two years and surveyed, both the past and future, program of the organization. A Committee on policy was appointed by the General Organizer.

Among those with us at this time, besides the General Organizer were: Bennie Smith, Omaha, Nebraska; E. J. Bradley, of St. Louis, Missouri, and Roy Lancaster, the General Secretary-Treasurer. All of the organizers left with a new spirit and more determined to put the Brotherhood over big.

The Ladies Auxiliary under the leadership of its new and energetic president, is making some rapid strides. The membership is increasing and the general interest is being stimulated. Meetings are held the second and fourth Thursday in each month.

The membership in the Chicago Division continues to increase although three-fourths of the Pullman porters operating out of this territory are already members of the organization we are still able to keep up the regular rate of increase to one member per day.

In one of the later editions of the Pullman News, for the first time we note an under cover reference to the efforts of the Brotherhood. Of course, it is referred to as an "outside organization" and comments on the fact that the Employees Plan of Representation, in competition with this so-called "outside agitation," prevailed to such an extent in their last election that over 90 per cent of the men voted. The News, however, failed to note the "methods" used. They should have had a 101 per cent vote according to the "methods."

On Sunday afternoon, January 8th, through the influence of Mr. David W. Johnson, the local organizer, M. P. Webster was invited to address the local Post Office Clerks' Union. There were about 250 men present at the meeting, with about seven or eight Negroes.

The Brotherhood's program and fight for a living wage and improved working conditions was very well received by the members of this organization. A large number of them were unusually well informed on the Brotherhood's program.

Brotherhood Week in Chicago

Brotherhood Week in Chicago has aroused the highest enthusiasm among Pullman porters. It started off January 23, with a labor conference which was an unusual success and manifested a wide interest in the work of this organization by the people in Chicago. A more detailed statement will be found in another column of this issue.

Tuesday night, January 24th, a mass meeting was held at St. Mark's Church. The Chicago membership deeply regretted the inability of the General Organizer to get here due to the sudden death of his brother. However, the energetic young president of the Ladies' Auxiliary carried on the meeting with a very limited program until relieved by the Division Organizer. She has at every instance shown a willing spirit. The meeting, however, was well attended by members and friends. Dr. Redmond, pastor of St. Mark's Church, donated the use of the church to the Brotherhood.

The Membership Meeting, Wednesday night, January 25th, filled every nook and corner of the headquarters.

On Thursday evening, January 26th, at 6:45 P. M., A. Philip Randolph, General Organizer, B. S. C. P., broadcasted a talk on the Brotherhood. over WCFL, The Voice of Labor, owned and operated by the Chicago Federation of Labor. Before Randolph could get out of the studio a large number of telephone calls were received by him from people who had heard his address all over Chicago, indicating a strong favorable sentiment toward the Brotherhood's fight.

The Chicago Division's Big Dance

The Brotherhood's dance given at the Alvin Dansant on Thursday night the 26th, was by far the best ever given in this division. The hall was packed to capacity. People still continued to come in droves until a late hour. It was a well dressed and well behaved crowd. The music by Madame Hightower's Union orchestra was the best. Everybody had a good time. The remarks of Brother Randolph and the Local Organizer were unusually enthusiastically well received. Everybody left the dance in the wee small hours of the morning with a renewed Brotherhood spirit. Even the few stool pigeons that slipped in were pleased over the Brotherhood's first attempt.

Friday night, the 27th, Brother Randolph, the General Organizer, Secretary-Treasurer, and Mrs. George W. Clark, Division Organizer, and Mrs. M. P. Webster, were loyally entertained at a very sumptuous dinner given in honor of the General Organizer and the Local office force by several of Chicago's staunch members. Needless to say, everybody enjoyed themselves to the utmost. Chicago is becoming famous for its delicious hot rolls.

Saturday night, the 28th, was witnessed another big membership demonstration at headquarters.

On Sunday, January 29th, the Brotherhood was the guest of the Lincoln Community Men's Club at the Lincoln Memorial Congregational Church, 65th Street at Champlain Avenue. The Local Organizer, Webster, was the speaker of the evening and General Organizer A. Philip Randolph was present and made a few remarks. The President of the Ladies' Auxiliary and Mrs. Maude Adams participated in the program for the Colored Women's Economic Council.

The program was arranged through the courtesy of Mr. David W. Johnson, who is President of the Lincoln Community Men's Club and a staunch friend and supporter of the Brotherhood. The church was packed beyond capacity. A number of the people had to stand up.

At the end of Brotherhood Week in Chicago a membership drive to get in the delinquents will be started.

Chicago men are determined. They are paying dues and attending meetings and co-operating in every way with the Brotherhood.

The Chicago membership urges all Pullman porters who are interested in the welfare of themselves, and their families and their posterity to pay dues, attend meetings and give the Brotherhood all of your support.

SALT LAKE CITY DISTRICT

W. F. Burgess, Organizer

The Salt Lake City District is doing nicely this winter. The men are kept busy with extra work and everything is fine. Everyone is looking forward to a bright future. The men are still joining the union and are keeping the faith. They feel like the time will not be long now before victory is certain.

WASHINGTON DISTRICT

Peter A. Anthony, Organizer

652 "L" Street, Northeast

We had a wonderful mass meeting on January 8th at the John Westley Church which has aroused all of Washington. A wonderful address was given by A. Philip Randolph, the chief speaker, followed by Hon. Royal S. Copeland, United States Senator, who agreed with Mr. Randolph's statement concerning the "New Negro and the New White Man." He stated that black men are superior to black men; white men superior to white men; black men superior to black men and black men superior to white men, which puts both races on equal scales. If one feels that he is inferior to a white man, it is natural you will be inferior; if you feel superior to a white man, you will be superior to white men. Henceforth, you are no more than you think or feel.

We had a great labor conference at the Y. M. C. A., 12th Street Branch, sponsored by A. Philip Randolph on January 9th. Mrs. Mary Church Terrell gave a wonderful speech. Mr. Whitfield McKinley, a prominent man of this city, has joined in with the fight for the good of the Brotherhood, so by this you can see the effect of the Brotherhood.

On January 10th at 12:20 P. M., Mr. Whitfield McKinley, A. Philip Randolph, General Organizer, Mrs. Mary Church Terrell, W. H. DesVerney, Assistant General Organizer, Roy Lancaster, Secretary-Treasurer, and Peter A. Anthony, Washington Local Organizer, called on President Coolidge at which time Mr. Randolph was the spokesman. He put the Brotherhood cast from its birth to the present date before the President, and he is in favor of porters getting a living wage and better working conditions. So if the President of the United States is in favor, why doesn't every colored man and woman join in for the betterment of their welfare as a race in general.

You will never get anywhere by being divided, as the saying "united we stand, divided we fall." My advice to all is to fall in line and fight for economic freedom which is due you and your race as well as the white one.

Advice to stool pigeons. You had better get on the band wagon and let us all take a ride, if you don't you will be left alone. If we cut loose from you, I am sure the company doesn't want you afterwards and we are going on with our band as did Moses when he left his enemies.

BOSTON DISTRICT

S. M. Taylor, Organizer

922 Tremont Street

Boston was visited by Mr. A. Philip Randolph and his associate on January 3rd, 1928. He spoke to a vast audience at the Ebenezer Church and received wonderful applause.

On Wednesday afternoon, January 4th, he spoke to a large audience at the Boston Public Library. His speech was very interesting and loudly applauded. The audience was interested enough to pass a resolution favoring the porters' struggle.

On Thursday afternoon, January 5th, he spoke at the Citizen's Club of the League of Neighbors. His subject was "New Year Needs of our Afro-American Neighbors" and he also spoke of the Brotherhood. There was a very interesting gathering. His address was well taken. He then left for New York on the midnight train. His many friends desire him to come again. The Boston men were very much enthused over his coming to Boston which gave them more spirit and fortitude.

JACKSONVILLE DISTRICT

J. W. Darby, Organizer

2029 Davis Street

This Division, after a great mixup among the men, is gradually growing normal again. The men are making some wonderful promises about their future intentions. Some of my men have already paid all of their dues for 1928. Many others plan to follow. It is true that conditions are very bad here. The boys are having it very tough. No trains on this season as in all the past seasons. Near one hundred men are on the extra list, just as they were in the summer. A large number of old men were pulled off the good runs and younger men substituted. The older men were given the poorest lines out of this district. All of this was probably done to frighten the men; to stop them from paying their dues. But the real men are steadfast and unmoved. The weak men are falling in line. I hope to have the district back to the old standing and past all records in the near future if the men mean what they tell me. If I only had another pair of legs and feet, I could cover more ground, for these old boys I have here now are all gone; are worn out to nubs, trying to catch the men to tell them to be men.

T. A. Jones will not be successful in accomplishing his aims as he tells Mr. Cooper he would do if he got his job back. He has as much chance to break up the union here as to drink St. John's River dry.

SAINT PAUL DISTRICT

Paul Caldwell, Organizer

362 N. Dale Street

Nothing shows more the significance of the desire of the Negro to better his economic condition than the stir among them in this locality toward learning methods to put into practice the plan of co-operative effort outlined to three large and representative audiences addressed by Mr. George S. Schuyler in the Twin Cities on January 15th and 16th. Several letters requesting literature giving definite information on functional procedure and two or three groups have organized to study conditions locally and plan for the beginning of activities which are expected to develop into action.

The members of the Brotherhood who heard him are making plans already to start a credit union as soon as sufficient technical knowledge of the plan has been obtained.

Our series of Saturday night parties are developing into real affairs and it is a disappointment to a man to discover he is to be out on a Saturday. The public, too, are taking advantage of the opporunity to attend these parties at local headquarters, and participate in the fun.

Much interest is exhibited in the hearing before the I. C. C. at this writing, and the headquarters is buzzing with hushed discussion of probable results.

We are constantly being called to appear before white audiences to explain our position and aspirations. We find many opportunities to make publicity for the purpose of enlisting public opinion in our favor. We find it is but to know our condition to gain favor in opinion,

We are ashamed to admit our failure to get a steady patronage in our colored publication, but we find a large demand one month and a small one the next. Thus making it unprofitable for a dealer to handle them. Even THE MESSENGER, which every porter should buy, is in this class.

There is not a porter in this district who is not expected to contribute to the quota, and if you have not done so, or heard about it, please consult either the captain of your district of the local secretary.

COLORED WOMEN'S ECONOMIC COUNCIL OF LOS ANGELES

By Mattie Mae Stafford

Bravely, we bade farewell to the old
And entered the trend of the new;
Never to falter, faint or fail,
Upward and onward, steady and true.
Though at times the path be dim,
Hatred and malice pierce the soul,
We stand with not a shred of fear,
Facing the new, "warriors bold."

Peace on earth, good will toward men,
Should be a beacon light,
A welcome warmth in every heart,
Piercing the gloom like a ray in the night.
Shall we revive the "Golden Rule"
That long since has grown cold,
And let the cup of bitterness
Be relics of the old?

Mr. George S. Grant, Secretary-Treasurer, and Mrs. Lula Slaughter, President of the Council, are working very hard to help bring success to this noble cause. Mr. Grant has a splendid system to advertise the mid-winter dance given by the Brotherhood and Council. He has divided the city into sections and two women are assigned to each section to distribute placards and bills. Our President was successful in bringing Dr. M. J. Marmillion, a prominent race physician, to us to lecture on "Negro and Health." We were grateful for this timely lecture.

OMAHA DISTRICT

Bennie Smith, Organizer
2522 Patrick Avenue
Omaha, Nebraska

All moves forward in the Omaha District. H. J. Pinkett, veteran attorney, will serve as legal adviser for the Omaha local. A group of business and professional men of Omaha are lining up to back the Brotherhood morally and financially.

About 70 per cent of the men have their 1928 cards, by February 15th all will be in possession of their 1928 cards with the possible exception of those who are trying to carry a bucket on each shoulder. Their many excuses they have been offering lately will no longer be accepted and their names will be furnished to the entire membership after February 15th. It is that class that is seeking all the information and hollering the loudest for a change in conditions; hoping and praying for results and doing the least for the causes that bring it about

Read THE MESSENGER.

SAN FRANCISCO DISTRICT

Office, 519 Wood St., Oakland, Calif.
Dad Moore, Organizer
C. L. Dellums, Local Field Agent

The week beginning January 23rd was known as Brotherhood Week. Meetings were held daily. The attendance was unusually large. Matters of general importance and special interest were discussed. Many of the speakers were vociferously applauded. Enthusiasm ran high. Many of the members who have been somewhat dilatory in the payment of dues and assessments during the past year are now not only paying promptly, but also paying their dues several months in advance. The district has seemingly taken on new life; and the men are determinedly bent on putting the Brotherhood's program over.

Notwithstanding the scarcity of work, many of the Brotherhood men who have been unjustly discharged from the Pullman service, are finding other employment.

The men are anxiously awaiting the "returns" from the Interstate Commerce Commission. They are glad to note, however, that so far everything looks favorable.

Mr. Morris Moore, better known as "Dad" Moore, has recovered from his recent illness and is back on the firing line. "Dad" wants the "boys" to know that he never intends to hoist the white flag of truce.

Although the days of the stool pigeons are just about over, one or two may still be seen flying around.

The porters of the district were deeply grieved to hear of the death of Mr. Randolph's brother. Messages of condolence were sent to the bereaved.

During the absence of Mr. D. J. Jones, Secretary-Treasurer, who is somewhat indisposed, Mr. C. L. Dellum is carrying on the work in a creditable manner.

On January 1st, many "slackers" resolved to be "lifters" instead of "leaners." Don't forget your resolutions; and don't fail to "carry them out."

Buy your MESSENGER at the home district office.

One of the young stool pigeons has been fired. Seems like he was getting too close to Snoddy and the other pigeons got jealous and stooled on him. War seems to be on between the pigeons. We knew it would end like that. Such is the way of rats.

In Memoriam

In fond memory of my husband
Vance K. Josey
who died one year ago,
February 8, 1927
The trail we took together, beloved is dear to me.
Though now I tread the trail alone, you'll always be with me.

ROBERTA B. JOSEY.

LOS ANGELES DISTRICT

George S. Grant, Organizer
1315 E. 12th Street

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 28.—The Mid-Winter Ball, given at 15th and Main streets, last Thursday evening by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Women's Economic Council, was one of the most successful events of this season. The entire program was carried out according to schedule, without a single hitch. The big punch of the whole affair was the music. This was supplied by the "Pullman Porters' Band," and was exceptionally good. This being the first public appearance of this organization of eight, sizzling-hot harmony-kings; it took most of their friends by surprise. The "Pullman Porters' Band" is indeed a creditable organization, and will prove a "big drawing card" in the future.

The crowd gathered early, and was efficiently handled by well drilled committees. Every member and friend of the "Brotherhood" and the "Women's Economic Council" who could arrange to attend were present; and all who attended are anxiously looking forward to an announcement of the "Brotherhood's" next frolic.

NEW ORLEANS DISTRICT

Mrs. Oneida Brown, Organizer
303 Pythian Temple

We are patiently looking forward to the first report concerning the argument between the Pullman Company and the Brotherhood which took place in Washingtonn, D. C., on the 21st. We are glad to say that we are writing up new members every day and that our reports to Headquarters are gradually showing a financial increase. The men are loyal and bring such inspiring reports to the office, very often instead of my having to encourage them they encourage me by their implicit faith in Mr. Randolph, their confidence in the success of the movement, their firm determination to support the cause, and their utter disrespect and contempt for those who are waiting until the wagon is safely over the hill rather than helping to push it uphill.

THE MESSENGER is becoming a very popular magazine in New Orleans and is very much in demand. We handle THE MESSENGER.

ST. LOUIS DIVISION

E. J. Bradley, Organizer
Room 208, Peoples Bldg.

The members of this district join Mr. Randolph in mourning for his deceased brother. The Organizer and members extend our heartfelt sympathy in brother Randolph's bereavement.

A few new members are being taken in every week, which should indicate that the Brotherhood is gaining rapidly on the heels of the management for the entire force of Pullman porters and maids employed by them.

The Company is weakening. Dictator Burr has for some unknown reason seen cause to desist from his former unmanly, undemocratic, Simon Legree policies and practices. His men are aware that he is a deceiver, and if he told the men that the Pullman Company had lost the fight, many of them would not believe him, because they would think that he was still trying to deceive them.

The Brotherhood representatives will convey that fact to the men themselves, men whom the porters and maids have learned to place confidence in, leadership that has never deceived, or misled them. The mere fact that the jurisdictional right case was held January 21st is proof that the Pullman Company cannot defeat everything nor everybody all the time.

A decision is expected from the Commission in a very few days, a favorable decision which seems inevitable, will mean bitter defeat throughout the remainder of the battle for the Pullman Company. In the advent the Pullman Company is not aware of the fact, I wish to announce that the Brotherhood not only intends, but is preparing to wage a warfare against the Pullman Company for a decent living wage, the working conditions as given to all railroad employees, under the Adamson Law, manhood rights, and grievance committees of our own choosing, to a decisive end.

The Pullman Company will gladly, open hearted, appreciate this hypodermic injection of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters into their mushroom cells, called brains, by Dr. A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, after they realize that we are cooperative and instructive, instead of destructive.

The Citizens Aid Committee, Prof. Ulysses S. Donaldson, Chairman; Miss Althea Merchant, Secretary; Miss Ruth Harris, Chairman of Arrangement Committee, are sponsoring a huge Negro Labor Conference, February 5th, 6th, and 7th, with a dance on the 8th, to aid the Brotherhood. The St. Louis Division of the Brotherhood is doing everything in their power to make this affair all that the Citizens Committee have hoped it to be.

The Organizer's attention was called to a case a few days ago where a P. P. B. A. of A. member had been off from duty sick nearly three weeks, or about eighteen days. He had some difficulty in having his sick claim allowed through this St. Louis office. "Boss" Burr seemed to think this brother was paying from $26 to $30 a year in the P. P. B. A. of A. to help pay the Grand Chairman, or some other "Grand Dragon's" salary, and not for such purposes as stated in By-laws and Constitution of said Organization, P. P. B. A. of A. This is good news to other members of the P. P. B. A. of A. This member was finally granted a huge sum of four dolars and twenty-six cents ($4.26) for eighteen days sick benefits. "WONDERFUL PROTECTION FOR THE AMOUNT YOU PAY IN THE P. P. B. A. of A.

Brother I. C. Gilmore, whose home was destroyed in the tornado, has had it rebuilt into a four family efficiency apartment, very modern in every respect. All members who were pulled off by Burr, Kouple, Smith & Co., have nice positions and are paying their dues up to date.

The Organizer was in conference with Mr. Kruse, Chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of the Southwest Division, a few days ago and some very good information was given me by him relative to the attitute of his group toward the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

It is expected that a Ladies' Economic Council will be organized in a very few days. As I find, through conversations with a number of the porter's wives, they no longer fear the inhumane treatment that has been formerly practiced upon their husbands by A. V. Burr. They are determined to stand by their husbands in this fight

The Pastor and entire official staff of the Central Baptist Church are so interested in the porters' welfare and success, that they have willingly donated their palatial edifice FREE to our Labor Conference, covering a period of three days, beginning Sunday, February 5th. This is very encouraging, as it proves conclusively that we are amassing public sentiment and moral support, and can get financial support at the call.

I appreciate all visiting porters calling by the office when in St. Louis and getting the "low-down" on the situation from the Local Organizer, E. J. Bradley, St. Louis Division.

NEW YORK DISTRICT

2311 Seventh Avenue

On January 10th, Mr. A. Philip Randolph, General Organizer, accompanied by Mr. Roy Lancaster, General Secretary-Treasurer; W. H. Des Verney, Assistant General Organizer, and Peter A. Anthony, Organizer in Washington, D. C., visited President Calvin Coolidge at the White House.

Mr. Randolph and Mr. Lancaster then proceeded to Chicago, Ill., where they attended the conference of the western organizers of the Brotherhood.

Mr. Frank R. Crosswaith, Special Organizer, is still working in Boston, Mass.

Mr. W. H. Des Verney, the Assistant General Organizer, is at work in Washington, D. C.

Messrs. Randolph, Lancaster, Des Verney and Anthony attended the hearings before the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

Mr. Randolph returned hurriedly from the Labor Conference in Kansas City to the death bed of his brother James, who was for many years a Pullman porter.

Mr. Des Verney was also called back to New York to attend the funeral of his brother.

Mr. Randolph attended labor conferences, organized by the Brotherhood, in Chicago, Ill., on January 26th and in St. Louis on February 5th and 6th.

Messrs. Abbott and Magill of The Chicago Defender recently visited the offices of the Brotherhood.

The receipts of the Brotherhood indicate that the bulk of the men are steadfastly supporting their officers in an effort to acquire the manhood rights for which the men of the Brotherhood are striving so valiantly.

Porters are rapidly subscribing for THE MESSENGER, their only official mouthpiece. It only costs $1.50 a year.

SPEECH DELIVERED OVER RADIO STATION WCFL

Pullman Porters and Tips

By A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

General Organizer, B. S. C. P.

It is a pleasure, kind friends, to have this privilege to tell you about the movement to organize Pullman porters for a living wage and the abolition of the tipping evil. Pullman porters have long since realized that tips are uncertain, and consequently could not be recognized as a sure basis upon which they could budget their family, consequently, they organized two and a half years ago for the purpose of securing a definitely fixed living wage.

To this end, January 21st, counsel and representatives of the Pullman porters' union appeared before the Interstate Commerce Commission to support the petition filed with the Commission, asking for a ban on tipping, and an investigation of the tipping system in relation to wages, rates, hours of work and working conditions.

The questions asked by the Commissioners of Counsel for the Pullman Company, indicated that the petition rested on sound grounds. The attorneys for the Pullman Company argued that the Commission had no jurisdiction because the Union desired to raise wages, But Mr. Henry T. Hunt, Counsellor for the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, pointed out that the desire of the porters to raise wages did not alter the fact of jurisdiction of the Commission over the petition for an investigation of the Pullman Company.

In the next two weeks or thirty days, the Commission will hand down its decision on the question. If it is favorable to the case of the porters, an investigation of the Company will be instituted, if it is not favorable, the porters' Union has a program to create an emergency so that the United States Mediation Board may recommend that the President appoint an Emergency Board to inquire into the whole dispute, according to the provision of the Railway Labor Act, and hand down a decision, with a view to settling the dispute constructively and permanently.

Anticipating the probability of calling upon the President to act in the dispute, a delegation of representatives of the Union and prominent citizens of Washington waited on President Coolidge and informed him about the facts of the case and told him that he may be called upon to appoint an Emergency Board to deal with an emergency, which would threaten the interruption of Interstate Commerce, if the porters did not get the desired relief from the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Our petition to the Commission followed the refusal of the Pullman Company to obey the recommendation of the U. S. Mediation Board to arbitrate the dispute with the Union. The Union presented its case to the Board, as provided by the Railway Labor Act, enacted by Congress, and signed by the President. The Company denied the Brotherhood's right to represent the porters, contending that the Company Union, known as the Employee Representation Plan had received 85 per cent of the votes of the porters. The Brotherhood replied by presenting one thousand affidavits, showing that the men had voted under intimidation and coercion which was a violation of the Railway Labor Act.

We are fighting for a living wage and the abolition of tips. Our present wage is $72.50 a month. Tips, at the time we made our survey, in 1925, averaged $58 a month. But they have fallen materially, partly on account of the fact that the Pullman Company broadcasted, a year or more ago, that the wages of the porters had been raised by a million dollar increase, and the public naturally feels that the Pullman Company ought to be required to pay the wages of its employees.

Our occupational expense is $33 a month. It includes the buying of shoe polish which the porter uses to shine the passenger's shoes, for which he is penalized should he request pay, and penalized if he doesn't shine them, food in transit, and food and lodging at the termini, for not all of the porters will live in the quarters provided by the Company because they are generally undesirable, and uniforms which every porter must purchase twice a year. The Brotherhood realizes that tips enable the Company to fix wages at a low point. But tips are not only uncertain and inadequate, but they compromise the self-respect of a worker. That the Company expects the public to pay a part of the porters' wages is shown by the fact that on Tourist cars where tips are low because of the type of passengers, the porters receive a little more in wages than the porters receive on the Standard sleeping cars.

Our survey made by the Labor Bureau of New York shows that the public pays seven million dollars a year in tips or wages to the porters. The question may be raised as to whether the Pullman Company can pay a living wage to the porters. The few facts on this point will settle this matter. It may be interesting for the public to know that the original cash investment of the Pullman Company was $36,000,000. Its capitalization today is $136,000,000, which is the result of turning back into the Company the earnings accruing. In 1926, according to the Company's fiscal report, it earned a net profit of $20,000,000. Since 1897, over $245,000,000 have been distributed in cash dividends and $64,000,000 in stock dividends.

An examination of the Pullman industry will show that the Pullman porter renders the chief service, aside from the cars supplied by the Company, which the Pullman Company sells to the public. Yet, the porter is required to give preparatory time, which consists in making ready the cars, without pay. For example, the porter leaving New York for Washington at 12:35, reports for duty at 7:30 and work five hours without pay. The public may be also amazed to know that Pullman porters sometimes do conductors' work and porters' work together but only receive $10 additional pay. This is obviously unfair.

Besides intimidating Pullman porters into voting for Company Union and signing the "Yellow Dog Contracts," the Company has placed a few Filipinos and Chinese on the cars as an effort also to frighten the men away from the movement. It is interesting, however, to know that none of these methods of coercion and intimidation have been effective in stemming the tide of the porters' organization.

Contrary to the propaganda of the Pullman Company, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters will make for higher service efficiency of the Company, less turnover, a higher sense of responsibility, more constructive initiative on the part of the porters than ever before. In other words, the organization will be a definite asset to the Pullman management.

The movement to organize the porters has not only met with a marvelously enthusiastic response among the porters themselves, but the Negro public has rallied to the organization with amazing solidarity. Such outstanding National Organizations as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the Leaders of the National Urban League, the National Federation of Colored Women's Club, Elks, Knights Templars, Shriners, Knights of Pythians of New York and several religious and civic organizations.

The Labor Conferences which have been staged in New York, Washington, Boston, Kansas City, Chicago, and St. Louis, under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, have also served to awaken a deep public interest in the cause of the Pullman porter and his fight for a living wage.

CROSSWAITH IN BOSTON

Frank Crosswaith, Special Organizer of the Brotherhood, has been stepping on the gas in the city of Boston. Says Frank: "I have held four meetings among the membership and one with the Auxiliary. They were all well attended, the dues paid were encouraging and so was the collection at all of them. In another month Boston will reach the stage occupied by New York. I have more speaking engagements than I can physically do justice to." Mr. Crosswaith has addressed twenty or more meetings in Boston in the interests of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

In Memoriam

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters pauses in its struggle for right and justice to mourn the passing of three of its staunchest members:

C. LITTLEJOHN
1609 S. Edith Street
Albuquerque, N. M.
Who Died
January 3, 1928
and
JAMES KELLY
168 East 140th Street
New York City
Who Died
February 3, 1928
JOHN BATES
Jersey City, N. J.
9 Prescott Street
Who Died
February 6, 1928

Loyal Brothers!
May they rest in peace.

Open Forum

Dear Mr. Lancaster:

Your kind favor of the 28th ult, enclosing me a renewal card as an Honorary member of your organization, for the year 1928, was duly received.

The splendid work which you are doing for your association, I consider one of the most significant and splendid now going on in the United States.

Industrially and racially, the spirit which you have already inculcated, is priceless. Nor do I believe that there is any manner of doubt but what you will finally attain complete accomplishment in the struggle.

The little that I have been able to do, to aid you, has given me the greatest possible satisfaction, and I will hold your membership card as a mark of honorable distinction, even though I do not feel entirely worthy of it.

With every good wish for the triumph of your cause, and with my kind personal regards, I am,

Sincerely,
FRANK P. WALSH.

January 16, 1928.

NEW JERSEY MASONS

The Eightieth Annual Session of the Most Worshipful United Grand Lodge F. and A. M., Prince Hall Affiliation of New Jersey, was held in Trenton, December 27th and 28th with Powell K. Martin, Grand Master, presiding.

The Administration of Grand Master Martin has been filled with marked evidences of growth and progress. Assisted by a capable staff Mr. Martin has been able to place the New Jersey Masons upon a sound financial basis and to initiate a program of constructive racial uplift.

These efforts have reached a climax in the erection of a temple at Trenton, which shall stand a fitting and perpetual monument to the efforts of these men. This temple estimated to cost more than One Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars, is already under construction and will probably be dedicated during the Spring. More than four thousand Masons from all parts of the State will attend these services.

The Craft of New Jersey number among its members the most outstanding men of the State; men whose efforts are directed toward whatever is worth while and wholesome; men who are tireless; men whose slogan is: "To succeed means to sacrifice."

The roster of officers is:

Grand Master .....P. K. Martin
Deputy Gr. Master...Edw. Hilton
Gr. Sen. Warden....E. S. Ballou
Gr. Jr. Warden...Hiram C. Smith
Gr. Secretary.....Chas. A. Pope
Gr. Treasurer...Roscoe L. Moore

When in Washington, D. C., Visit the Night Club Bohemian, 2001 Eleventh Street, N. W.

By JAMES W. IVY

"Camels" (G. P. Putnam's Sons; $2.50), by Daniel W. Streeter. This winter the black, fuzzy haired, daughter of Ethiopia makes her debut in the publishing world. There seems to be no end to the books on Africa. Almost every week there rolls from some printing press some sort of a tome on the Dark Continent. Mr. Streeter's book, unlike many others, is frankly a humourous one. We guffaw and hold our sides as we follow him from Paris to Cairo, thence up the Nile to Khartoum, and on to Singa—Town and Abyssinia. This book has a good bit of fun in it, enough to make it worth purchasing.

"Southern Exposure" (Chapel Hill; The University of North Carolina Press; $2.00), by Peter Mitchell Wilson. The urbane opinions, and civilized experiences, of an old Southern gentleman.

I was amused at the shock that this very sensible gentleman experienced while on vacation in Paris. "Madame had us invited to the home of an artist of distinction where we saw some pretty pictures, heard some wonderful music, and were presented to some colored people. This was quite out of our habit, but the habit of hospitality was strong enough to make us mind our manners, though we learned "How to don't in future invitations."

"Money Writes" (Published by the Au, thor, Long Beach, California; $2.50), by Upton Sinclair. "This book is a study of American literature from the economic point of view. It takes our living writers and turns their pockets inside out, asking; Where did you get it? and What did you do for it? It is not a polite book, but it is an honest book and is needed.

"It concludes a series, begun ten years ago, including "The Profits of Religion," "The Brass Check," "The Goose Step," "The Goslings," and "Mammonart." I read Mr. Sinclair's "Mammonart" last summer; a few weeks ago I finished "Money Writes"; I have been wondering since, "What is literature in Mr. Sinclair's eyesight 'Money Writes' simply makes the matter more puzzling, for Mr. Sinclair takes the good, the bad, and the indifferent; the first rate, the second rate, and the third rate, and he looks at them all 'from the economic view.'" This may be good sociology; possibly it is good socialism too, but it is certainly not literary criticism. What excites Mr. Sinclair is the fact that so many of our popular and leading novelists are openly for the plutocrats; that so few of them are imbued with the "ideals of revolutionary labor." If Mr. Carl Van Vechten chooses to write novels "pour les raffines" that is Mr. Vechten's business; if Mr. Hergesheimer wants to live in an "Ivory Tower," that too is all right; and if Mr. Edwin Markham must write of the "Man with the Hoe," who can object? Mr. Sinclair is too naive and sensitive; his ideal for the abolition of suffering is noble, of the highest order, but it is by suffering that the world goes on; some must suffer that others may not. The abolition of capitalism will, no doubt, rectify certain present evils; but it will certainly not usher in Utopia, as Mr. Sinclair imagines.

In his chapter on "The Art of Brotherhood" Mr. Sinclair writes, "So in the course of their struggle for power they [the proletariat] are envolving a new and higher ideal, and constitute the germ of the new society, based upon brotherhood and cooperation."

"The advancing workers welcome all men and women to the ranks of workers whereas the exploiters do everything to keep their power in their own hands, and to keep others beneath their feet."

I wonder if Mr. Sinclair honestly believes that the workers are such angels? If he does, I, for one, will tell him that they are no whit better than their capitalist overlords who take so much delight in booting them in their rears. Why, of course "the advancing workers welcome all men and women"—except black men and women: possibly black men and black women are not men and women at all, but merely males and females of some sort of tertium quid. No. These "advancing workers" do not try to "keep others beneath their feet"—that is, unless they happen to be Negroes. The white worker possesses no peculiar virtues not possessed by his capitalist overlord; every darky knows this if Mr. Sinclair doesn't. And why Mr. Sinclair should shed tears over the mass of white boobs is beyond me. What he says about their exploitation is true, and has been true throughout recorded history. A horse may throw its rider, but there is always another to vault into the saddle.

"Negro Drawings" (Alfred A. Knopf; $7.50), by Miguel Covarrubias. With a preface by Ralph Barton and an Introduction by Frank Crowinshield. A year and more ago I began to notice in the pages of Vanity Fair, the journal of the sophisticates, Negro drawings by one Covarrubias. Even the most careless of them seemed to have a dash of genius. They revealed an insatiable curiosity about life; that their author had brains. So since that day I have always kept up with the drawings of Señor Covarrubias, and am by way of being an enthusiastic admirer of this great artist.

Mr. Knopf has now collected fifty-six of them and published them. They contain some of the best things that Covarrubias has done. Possessing a careful technique and a vivid sense of the realities of life these drawings, of Covarrubias, of random types, of Harlem Negroes depict with the most apparent ease the essential characteristics of the particular type drawn.

Take the "Man With Cap"—one glance and we are impressed with this loafer type of Negro, the "sweet-back." Notice how the exaggerated hands and feet of the "Charleston" suggest the rhythm of this dance. "Come to Jesus"— another vivid potrayal of reality. Then there are many others that are worthy of attention: "Cake Walk," "Strut"; "Double Charleston"; "At Leroy's"; "The Bolito King"; and "La Negrita."

Because el Mexicano, Señor Covarrubias, chooses to exaggerate a lip, to make balls of darky kinks, or pancakes of black noses, do not be offended, he is not poking fun, but merely using the technique of the seeing, thinking artist; a genius and one who depicts us with sympathy and truthfulness. By all means add this collection of drawings to your library.

"For Freedom: A Biographical Story of the American Negro" (Philadelphia; Franklin Pub. & Supply Co.) by Arthur Huff Fauset. With drawings by Mabel Betsy Hill. Here we have the prize winner in a new role—a writer of inspirational biography for wide awake, race-conscious Negro children. Mr. Fauset is the young man who carried off one of the "Opportunity Contest" literary prizes and was also a gatherer of Negro folk lore in the South. In his new role of biographer and historian he is just as interesting. For the young Negro child he has written lovingly and sympathetically of our most significant Negroes; Benjamin Banneker, Sojourner Truth, Frederick Douglas, Blancke K. Bruce, Booker T. Washington, George Washington Carver, Roland Hayes, Matt Henson, Dr. Dubois, Paul Lawrence Dunbar, Alain L. Locke, and the indicating figures among the new Negroes. The book is written in simple language, is well gotten up, has many drawings and photographs too. I am sure that every Negro child will be heartily interested in it.

"Why Men Hate Women" (Payson & Clarke, Ltd.; $1.50), by Gelett Burgess. Illustrated by Herb Roth. Do the men hate the women? Mr. Gelett Burgess seems to think they do, and ascribes it to "Varm, that subtle, and (to men) repellent atmosphere of femininity which surrounds like an aura."

"But don't think it's 'sexy' sex I mean, though; Varm is the very antithesis of charm. Varm is the specialized feminine form of intellect and behaviour. And Varm is what makes men hate women."

Mr. Burgess to prove his thesis, gives many of the stock feminine foibles, already known to every cynical male, and adds nothing new but his humor.

"Recreation And Amusement Among Negroes in Washington, D. C." (Howard University Press), by William H. Jones. The subtitle of this book is "A Sociological Analysis of the Negro in an Urban Environment," and it forms the first title in a "sociological series" to "be confined to carefully conducted surveys of various aspects of the social life of Negroes in large urban centers." Mr. Jones has done a competent piece of work in his volume. For the first time we have a detailed and scientific study of recreation and amusement among a more or less representative group of urban Negroes. Residential segregation, with its attendant evils, is responsible for the accentuation of many evils in Negro urban amusements, and, too, gives rise to many problems which are peculiar to us alone. Mr. Jones' book handles them all with the same scientific impartiality: games, sports, the church, the cabaret, the barber shop, the playground, etc. At the end of his book he offers us twelve "Recommendations" for "the improvement of the leisure time phases of Negro social life in Washington." The book has a good index and bibliography.

"The Changing South" (Boni and Liveright; $3.00) by William J. Robertson. This book itself is proof enough that the South is changing: any time a Southerner can write of that section with the frankness and candor used by Mr. Robertson, things must be changing. There is a resolute minority in the South that is intelligent and, above all, realistic; they are certainly not afraid of facing the facts, which the old type Southerner would never do. I by no means agree with all that Mr. Robertson has to say, but I admire the courage of the southern white who dares to think for himself. His chapter on the Negro is new only in its frankness and lack of rancor; but the best of them are the ones on "Education," "Social Conditions," and "The One Law," a study of the workings of prohibition in the South. Our leading Negroes must needs read Mr. Robertson for he is the type of Southerner who is gradually emerging, solidifying his power, and in more than one place is being respectfully listened to.

"The Roll of Honor" (Enterprise Book Distributors, 357 Edgecombe Ave.; $1.00), by Willis Scott. This book is the story of the exploits of Charles Williams a great Negro business man. As Mr. Willis Scott, the author, says in a note. It "is a vindication in story form of the Negro as a successful business man. It was designed expressly to create confidence in the executive ability of the Negro."

"Soviet Russia and Her Neighbors" (Vanguard Press; $0.50), by R. Page Arnot. This is one of the books in the "Vanguard Studies of Soviet Russia," edited by Jerome Davis. One of the most despicable chapters in the history of 1917-27 is the attitude of the capitalist nations of the world toward Soviet Russia. It has ranged from open hostility to veiled threats and the financial support of the whites, and their various generals, in their efforts to overthrow the Soviets. It may seem paradoxical that the one nation which has tried to make a practical application of the Allied "democratic principles," in her international relations, should be ostracised from the family of nations; yet, upon reflection there is nothing at all strange about it. For the Allied Powers never meant what they said about "secret treaties," "freedom of the seas" the "right of self determination, etc." Much of the hatred of the Soviets comes from the wilful ignorance of the Western Powers in confusing the Komintern, with its program of a world wide revolution, with the Soviet Government. The reasons for hatred are not exactly the same for any two powers; although all of them have good reasons for hating a government that is frankly socialistic and the sworn enemy of capitalism. This is the basic reason for the existence of this new "Holy Alliance" of the "Haves," and their opposition to a government of the "Have-nots." Mr. Arnot gives us a broad analysis of the relations of the Soviet Union with all the major powers of the world. Russia's attitude as well as that of the other powers toward Russia, France, Great Britain, the United States, Italy, China, Japan, Turkey, Germany, etc., are all shown in their relation to the Soviet Union.

"Religion Under the Soviets" (Vanguard Press; $0.50), by Julius F. Hecker. Mr. Hecker shows that despite the atheistic beliefs of the members of the government, Russia is, for the first time, enjoying genuine religious freedom. There are even Baptists among the Bolsheviks; if they are tolerated by the commissars surely there is religious freedom.

The other books in this series which I have read are:—"The Economic Organization of the Soviet Union," by Scott Nearing and Jack Hardy. This book answers the question "How do the Russians earn their living under the Soviet System? How is the Soviet economic machinery owned? Is there private capital in the Soviet Union, and if so, how much? Is the Soviet economic system speeding up or slowing down? Is the Soviet Union moving toward socialism or capitalism?" Next is "How the Soviets Work," by H. N. Brailsford. "An attempt to give an account of the working of the Soviets as a political system." The last one is "Village Life Under the Soviets," by Karl Borders. A study of the daily life of the people in Soviet Russia.

These books are written by authorities in their respective fields; are sane, and are minus propaganda, either for or against the Soviets; the facts are presented to speak for themselves.

"Economic History of The United States" (G. P. Putnam's Sons; $1.75), by Robert M. McElroy. Dr. McElroy is the Harold Vyvyan Harmsworth Professor of American History in Oxford University and an authority in his field. His little book of 86 pages gives the essential facts of our economic history in outline. Its one fault is the lack of an index and a table of contents.

"Kilima—njaro: An Eastern African Vicariate" (Society for the Propagation of the Faith), by The Right Rev. H. A. Gogarty, E. S. SP. The average Catholic priest is a much more civilized man than his Protestant brother, and this book certainly proves it. Father Gogarty opens his book with a short historical sketch of the vicariate of Kilima—njaro, named after Africa's highest mountain, tells us of the coming of Islam, about the Portuguese Conquest, the return of the Catholic Church to Africa, the mission station of Kilima-njaro, the customs of the Wachaga, the beliefs and superstitions of the natives, about Tanga, and the reopening of the Ufiomi Mission. This is one book on missions that I have enjoyed hugely and I hope my readers will like it as well as I did.

Countee Cullen

JAMES EDWARD MCCALL

Out in the night, I hear a liquid note,
  I pause and listen, as it sweeter grows;
It is a singer with a golden throat,
  And heart in which the fire of genius glows.
I hear him singing in the twilight hush—
  Caroling songs that warm the heart like wine:
No sweet-voiced nightingale or hermit-thrush
  Could thrill the world with music more divine.
Though young in years, he sings as one whose heart
  Has sung for ages. Yet, he wears his crown
So modestly that men, thrilled by his art,
  Pay tribute and forget his face is brown.
Unselfishly, his soul seeks to inspire
  In other souls, divine poetic fire.

Aviator's Hymn

Great God of earth and sky
Behold us as we pray;
Grant us Thy mercy as we fly
And with us ever stay:

Withhold the wrath of fire
Thy Arm can never fail;
A path of safety we desire
O'er every ill prevail.

The blinding storm and snow,
With driving rain and hail;
Against these are we forced to go
Oh help us to prevail!

From depths of oceans deep,
And mountains lurid height;
Guard us lest we might fall asleep
Upon our perilous flight.

We cleave the daily way
Through endless clouds on high;
But Thou alone remains our stay
Oh hear us and draw nigh:

The tidings do we bear
Over the land and sea;
So others will our blessings share
And give thanks Lord to Thee!

Great God of earth and sky
Be with us when we pray;
Aloft we raise our wings on high
Lord grant us Grace to stay!

HENRY B. WILKINSON.

Shafts and Darts

(Continued from page 59)

barred building. Promptly at seven o'clock, Abe Normal, nattily dressed in a blue suit of latest design, with shirt, socks and tie to match, came jauntily down the steps of the courthouse surrounded by grim-looking deputies. All posed for photographs and the prisoner promised the City Editor of the Daily Offal the sole rights to his autobiography. He was then hustled into a big limousine which immediately drove off. A parting pun from the lips of Abe Normal set the crowd to laughing good naturedly.

According to O. Fall Lyre, the attorney for Abe Normal, a writ of habeas corpus will be filed immediately. (Pictures on Page 5).

NEGRO LYNCHED FOR ASSAULT

White Woman Identifies Assailant

Mob Overpowers Sheriff and Deputies

Ginboro, Miss., February 31, 1928:—After several hours of pursuit through the swamps of lower Mississippi, Joe Boob, Negro, was captured by a posse of infuriated citizens near here yesterday. He was immediately flung into the sheriff's automobile and hurried to the White Mule County Jail where he was placed under heavy guard to avoid lynching. These precautions, however, were fruitless, as a huge crowd soon assembled and clamored for the prisoner. After the Negro had been identified by Marjorie Cretin of Claptrap, Miss., as her assailant, and, until yesterday, one of her father's hands, the demands of the crowd grew louder. Soon they stormed the jail, overpowered the sheriff and his deputies and removed the prisoner, who was later burned on a pile of rubbish in the town square. The body was then dragged through the Negro section behind an automobile, followed by a yelling cavalcade of white men, women and children. The charred body was then deposited at a Negro undertaking parlor. A death certificate was later filed stating that Joe Boob had died of extreme exhaustion and high temperature. Today (Sunday) Ginboro was back to normal and the houses of worship were crowded as usual.

Resources Over $5,000,000,00

Insurance in Force $75,000,000,00

First—In Size, In Service and In Strength

Guarding the Citadel

Every Negro in America has a tremendous stake in the guarding of this citadel over which the National Benefit stands sentinel. The lives of our children and our children's children—for generations yet unborn—these too are vitally concerned in the manner of its guardianship.

For the citadel is the Citadel of Negro Commercial Progress and in its protection and strengthening lies our hope as a Race to obtain for ourselves—and those to follow us—the splendor of Equal Opportunity and Higher Standards of Living and Attainment.

Against all invaders, over nearly three decades of years, the National Benefit has held every breach, repelled every attack, kept intact this stronghold of the Race.

As the largest and strongest Negro enterprise—as the greatest Negro financial institution on earth—the post is its by right as well as by choice.

Stand with it—do business with Negro enterprises—insure in Negro companies—their future is the future of the Race.

The National Benefit Life Insurance Company

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Stenographers Efficiently Trained

We teach shorthand that one can read and transcribe; students are taught to manipulate typewriting machines by "touch" rapidly and accurately; business law is fascinating; and our bookkeeping and filing system is unique. Spring term begins April 2, 1928. Write EDWARD T. DUNCAN Principal, The Stenographers' Institute, popularly known as Duncan's Business School, 1227 S. 17th Street, Philadelphia, Pa. A large building has been purchased for 1928.

Not Many of Your People

(Continued from page 57)

that instead, of trying to "cease sacrificing their self respect by attending theatres which stigmatize them," as he puts it—overrun the jim crow section. We can easily get this idea from the fact that when these houses bring colored shows they expand the jim crow section. Just why? The answer is that the management knows that a large number of colored people are coming to witness the show, and makes room for the extra influx of dollars.

I don't advocate the overflowing of the segregated section in order to flaunt to the world that you are more willing than now to debase yourself, and that you are exceedingly happy in this inferior lot. The reason for doing this is when you protest to the management about your poor accommodations, you will have the weight of dollars and numbers behind you, and those in charge will consider your grievances very carefully before they turn away the good shekels from their door.

The second reason for doing this is to get white people in the habit of seeing you in the theatre. The most prejudice is found where the two races are wildly separated, and very seldom come in any contact with each other. It may be all right to stay away and fight, but the fighting will be much more effective if you are on the battle line. The way for colored people to get elected to political office is not to stay away and talk glibly about the rights of man, but to get in and run for office. Sometimes after the white people get used to seeing you run, they will split among themselves and elect you. In the same way they will get used to seeing you at the theatre, and won't object to your presence.

So I would say that the first effective way of remedying the situation is to overrun the jim crow sections, the whole theatre if need be, for the manager will somehow find room for your dollars. These will contribute to the upkeep of the place and will get them used to seeing, as well as being with you which is a great step towards true understanding.

My second point may at first glance appear to have no connection at all with the issue. It is to support the little theatre movement now spreading through this country.

With all our boasted progress, it is an undeniable fact that we have progressed very little in our appreciation of what is best in the drama and musical shows. This is evidenced by the very low grade of entertainment in the colored houses. I have many times gone down on Broadway to revivals of Shakespeare, Ibsen, and some of the other old masters, and have seen very few colored people. This also holds true for O'Neill, Shaw, Galsworthy, and the other worth while moderns. In fact I have seen very few at the big feature pictures. There is very little, if any prejudice on Broadway now. But if the managers suddenly decide to put us in the gallery, there will be too few of us to make any difference, for we pay very little of the thousands of dollars necessary to run them for a year.

Our lack of appreciation is further proven by the fact that our own artists in our own houses have failed to make us patronize the better class of entertainment. The failure of the Lafayette Players, The Ethiopian Art Theatre, and other worth while colored organizations are examples. I was in the audience in the Lincoln Theatre last summer when Jules Bledsoe came there in Emperor Jones. This play had toured the country, and had even been produced in foreign countries. It is hailed as one of the best of the modern one act plays, and was for the first time playing in colored houses. Yet, this audience howled, whistled, and hissed the actors until the acting of the play was impossible. The whole scene was disgusting as well as pitiable.

Now since the appreciation of the best in the theatre is acquired rather than instinctive, we've got to get our preliminary study somewhere. I would suggest the little theatre because they do not depend upon large numbers, nor large capital. The small number at first would gradually spread to larger numbers, and soon we would have a multitude of people flocking to the professional theatres with the results advocated above.

Two of the other things advocated by the author of the article were especially good. One was the securing of financial interest in the various theatres. This would bring pressure on the situation from another angle. If people have money to invest, they usually can do it in theatre stock if they want to. I have seen advertisements of stock in the Roxy enterprises, as well as many others.

The other point brought out was to keep a number of test cases in court. This is an excellent idea, but if it is carried out in the future like it has been in the past I would condemn it. In the past it has been one lone Negro going down in a multitude of white people demanding some privilege which did not particularly concern the other people in the town or city. It has usually been some doctor who has made his pile off of colored people, and is now ready to move out and live in a rich white neighborhood apart from his people. Of course he has the legal right to live where he pleases but what's the use of fanning a lot of prejudice into fire when there is no real demand for that particular thing on the part of the race. We should reserve our fights for the things we actually need. So if we are going to have test cases let's go down in a gang of fifty or a hundred, thus assuring the management that we are going to be there more or less whenever he has a good show. This may sound like a foolish argument, but no person can be expected to do things for the accommodation of a few when it will result in a loss. Things shouldn't be that way, but the truth of the matter is that they are, and the old adage is still true: "He who pays the fiddler will call the tune."

I went to see the "Circus Princess" today. It is one of the costliest of the Shuberts' operettas. My desire to see it was kindled when I read where a special performance was given for Lindbergh when he returned from France. Well, my seat was off in a corner of the third balcony. I was the only Negro there, for if others had been there, I would have seen them. If I had gone down and protested, the manager would undoubtedly have told me that if I went anywhere else, twenty people would have walked out, and would have ended by saying, "It is better to do without your seventy-five cents than to do without seventy-five times twenty." Any fool can see that. Now if I could have assured him that if these twenty walked out, I know five times that many who will come, I believe he would have let me go where I please. I couldn't assure him that, because I know that in places where they don't have this nefarious practice, that number of my people does not go.

In conclusion then, we can say that the Negro has never calmly, nor gladly, nor willingly accepted the debasing practice of segregation as it is practiced in American theatres. It is true that they have gone under such conditions; but the whole problem is just an aspect of the vaster problem of discrimination everywhere. It cannot be met here, no more than in other places, by staying away and squawking. The best solution is to overcrowd the jim crow sections. This will prove hard and humiliating at first, but it will be productive of lasting results, because the theatre owners will adjust matters quicker when he has a large attendance, for it will increase the income of the place, besides having the might of numbers. This is to be done in connection with other financial interest that they can secure in the place. Test cases should be constantly tried, but they should more and more be cases with dollars and numbers behind them instead of just one lone Negro in a multitude of whites. The support of the little theatres is advocated in order to give the masses training in the appreciation of the better and finer things in the theatre. This will stimulate them to go out and support the best in all the fields of public entertainment.

Mr. Weller and the League of Neighbors

By A. P. Randolph

The League of Neighbors is not just another organization. Nor is Mr. Weller, its leader, just another president.

The League lives up to the name in comprising a variety of races, nationalities and creeds. Its controlling motif is the philosophy of brotherhood which makes of all peoples neighbors.

I received my first close-up of this Boston organization, January 5th, at one of their luncheons where I spoke. I then for the first time, felt the force of the spirit and personality of Mr. Weller. Besides being big of body, he is big of mind and spiritual vision. When he stood up physically to speak on a question, you, somehow, felt that he was also standing up spiritually for a great cause. He seems to express in his being, his speech, manner and attitude, the great creative principle of mutual helpfulness. Verily, Mr. Weller is a fine soul which challenges the admiration of the most grudgingly critical. To know him is to love him. He is one nature's noblemen, working for the achievement of the good and beautiful life that mankind may not be distressingly unwitting of its way.

Sister Louise-Marie

(Continued from page 52)

No, had Queen Marie-Theresa lived in our day she would have had to be more careful, that's all. Even her apparently clever manner in paving the way before by expressing the fear that she might have a child resembling her little Negro might not have helped her.

As to the Black Nun, little of her real life seems to be known. In the library of Ste. Genevieve there is a speciman of her handwriting. But as LeNotre says: "We may be certain that it was a long and unhappy martyrdom for this innocent woman thus to see herself separated from the world against her will and condemned from her infancy to perpetual confinement."

Editorials Rated

(Continued from page 63)

a. Is the language in keeping with the subject?

b. Is the writer's use of English fairly correct?

c. Is there evidence of prejudice for or against?

d. Is there evidence of exaggeration?

e. Is the composition rhetorically correct?

7. Is the title in every way adequate?

8. Does the editorial accomplish the purpose it set out to accomplish? (This summing up is not to be confused with No. 3).

The editorial pages of fifty principal

Negro newspapers in the United States were carefully perused each month, one "best" editorial was selected and reprinted in THE MESSENGER, while twelve other editorials were given honorable mention in the order of their excellence from 1 to 12. In all, 156 editorials were selected. This work was done by Mr. Eugene Gordon, a very capable Negro journalist employed as Feature Editor of The Boston Post, oldest and largest daily newspaper in New England.

The rating of the Negro newspapers according to the excellence of their editorials for the year 1927 is as follows:

Name of Newspaper	Rating
1. The Pittsburgh Courier	160
2. The Journal and Guide	130
3. The N. Y. Amsterdam News	119
4. The Chicago Defender	116
5. The Kansas City Call	74
6. The Philadelphia Tribune	68
7. The New York Age	51
8. The Afro-American	47
9. The Chicago Bee	44
The Chicago Whip	44
10. The Inter-State Tattler	43
11. The Boston Chronicle	30
12. Negro World	21
Dallas Express	21
13. The Black Dispatch	17
14. The Washington Tribune	16
15. Atlanta Independent	16
The Houston Informer	12
17. Birmingham Reporter	11
New York News	11
18. The Public Journal (Phil.)	7
19. The Detroit Independent	6
20. The Elorida Sentinel	5
21. The St. Luke Herald	4
The East Tennessee News	4
22. The Union (Cincinnati, O.)	3
23. California Eagle	2
Washington Eagle	2
24. The Louisiana Weekly	1

Beg[illegible]e April Number:

DI[illegible] and DIET

By HEBA JANNATH

Facts About the Over-Eating, Under-Nourished Negro.

Average Menus from Houston to Harlem.

Decaying Day by Day

Physicians: The Modern Witch Doctors.

Drugs, Dope and Disease.

Exclusively in

THE MESSENGER

EDITORIALS

(Continued from page 61)

given expression to their view points from the angle of religion on actual industrial struggles, such as the Western Maryland Railroad strike, the Conference considered it timely and wise to have both the Negro and white clergymen represented in handling this important theme.

But whatever may be the attitude of various social religious political and civic agencies toward the Negro worker or white worker, unless the workers themselves will deliberately and systematically secure education about the economic, social and political institutions and forces of modern society so that they may be guided intelligently in the formulation of programs of actions, there is no hope for them. Worker's educational institutions have been established in Europe and America in order to meet the need of the workers to understand the industrial machinery of which they are a part, and successfully cope with the industrial masters that seek to exploit them. In order that the Negro workers might be aware of the movement for workers' education and its importance, the Conference included in its agenda the Negro worker and education.

Other subjects that engaged the attention of the Conference were the Negro worker and social service movements, the Negro worker and the cultural arts, the Negro worker and Negro business, and the Negro worker and the Negro woman.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Founded by GENERAL O. O. HOWARD

MORDECAI W. JOHNSON
President

EMMETT J. SCOTT
Secretary-Treasurer

PURPOSE

To provide the Twelve Million Colored people of the United States with College-trained and Professional leaders through its courses in the Arts, the Sciences, in Education, Commerce and Finance, Public Health and Hygiene, Music, Engineering, Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, Religion and Law

Students may enter for Collegiate Work at the beginning of any quarter

REGISTRATION

Spring Quarter ..... March 21, 1928
Summer School ..... June 21, 1928
Autumn Quarter ..... Sept. 24, 25, 26, 1928

For Catalogue and Information Write

F. D. WI[illegible]SON, Registrar

Howard University, Washington, D. C.

1928

THE PITTSBURGH CHARGER

Pullman Company Seeks An "Uncle Tom" Conference And a Yellow Dog Contract

Relative to Randolph resigning in order that the porters get a settlement with the Pullman Company, as was stated by Editor Vann, in the Pittsburgh Courier, we have this to say: Mr. Randolph will immediately resign as leader of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in the event the Pullman Company will agree to settle the dispute with the brotherhood officers, Messrs. DesVerney, Totten, Webster, Bradley, Smith and Lancaster, as the representatives of the organization. But they will not agree to this because they are not sincere. Neither is Mr. Vann conveying he truth to the public when he tells them Mr. Randolph is standing in the way of a settlement.

The Pullman company will object to dealing with any of the members of the official staff of the brotherhood, whom Mr. Randoph may appoint as his success. The object of the Pullman Company, is to first get rid of Mr. Randolph, and the next appointee in turn would be termed as a radical by the Pullman and a Socialist of the Randolph faction, and they would in that manner, seek to illiminate the entire staff of the Brotherhood, as representatives for the porters in settling the dispute, which would enable them to recommend to the porters, just who they think would be a very brilliant man, or group of men, who are now in active service at the present time, to represent the porters and maids, in settling the dispute, and the Pullman Company appointees would be representatives of the company union, known as the Employees Representation Plan. That would not be settling a dispute between the brotherhood and the Pullman Company, but instead, would be just what the Pullman Company has fought for over two years, to establish a settlement between the Pullman Company and employees, through the Employee Representation Plan.

The porters have had two of those settlements, where they dare not dictate across the table with their employers, for fear of their positions, since their expenses, and transportation to such a conference were furnished by the Pullman Company. It would only be another "Uncle Tom" conference, and a "Yellow-dog" contract. This, the brotherhood is fighting to prevent, since the brotherhood representatives are qualified to discuss any subject across the table with Pullman representatives, without fear of losing their positions. We have nothing to fear, and are in no way obligated to the Pullman Company.

E. J. BRADLEY,
St. Louis Division Organizer B. of S. C. P.

The Interstate Commerce Commission's Decision

The decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission regarding the petition of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters for the abolishing of tipping on Pullman cars, was no surprise to those persons who know the functions and power of this body. The commission may only function in cases of violation of the Interstate Commerce Act, and the petitioner failed t oshow wherein tipping on Pullman cars was a violation of this law. In so far as the porters are concerned, the appeal was a sheer waste of time and money. There is one thing, however, that the decision did settle. It settled the Pullman tipping question, if not for once and all, for a decade or more at least.

Of course no sensible porter was naive enough to believe, nor is it conceivable that the sponsors of the petition really thought that the abolishing of tipping on Pullman cars would be to the porter's advantage . In fact, abolishing of tips was not the real object for which the petition was made, and everyone knew it, even the Commission. The decision that it lacks jurisdiction to do what the petitioner sought surprised no one, not even those who were responsible for the appeal. The petition was simply a labor gamble for more wages. No matter in what way one may view it, the thought is prominent that carrying the matter to the Interstate Commerce Commission was a mistake. It has not done the porters any good, but is likely to do them harm. It certainly won't help them to get an increase in pay, unless their employer is disposed to give it of its own volition. The decision has made the position of the Pullman Co. all the stronger regarding tips as a wage perquisite. For here is what the Interstate Commerce Commission said on the subject:

> "Tipping in the Pullman service was practiced long before Congress began to regulate interstate carriers and it is reasonable to assume that had Congress intended the practice of either giving or receiving tips to be unlawful it would have so declared in express terms."

By that opinion, the Pullman Company will feel more justified than ever in letting tips be a part of the porters' pay. On the other hand, now that it has come out victor in the case, it may appreciate the fact that contented porters are better workers than discontented ones and may raise their pay. This is not an improbable eventuality, so it is rumored. But, said the person expressing this opinion, the company will not be forced into raising its porter's wages.

At any rate, it seems that the only thing left for the porters to do is to take their case directly to their employer and let commissions and other regulatory bodies alone; that is, if more pay is what they really want.

Randolph Loses Brother

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—James Randolph, 38, brother of A. Philip Randolph, died Sunday at the Randolph apartments, 314 W. 133d street, following a few days' illness with diphtheria and heart trouble. Mr. Philip Randolph, who is organizer of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, cancelled a trip to Chicago Sunday on account of his brother's death. James, who had a reputation of being one of the best read men in New York, was a scientific student at the College of the City of New York, preparing to be a chemist. He was first lieutenant in the Student Corps at the College, and was well liked by all who knew him. The funeral was held Wednesday at the Duncan Bros. parlors, 2303 Seventh avenue.

Pullman Earnings

THE PULLMAN COMPANY, now that its full earnings are known, will receive less sympathy than ever from the public in its fight against its porters. According to an Associated Press dispatch the company has reported that its net earnings for the last eight months of 1927 were $12,292,246. After dividends were deeclared and all appropriations made there was a surplus of $5,432,301. The current assets were $87,440,479, and the current liabilities were less than one-fourth of that amount, $20,965,047.

SOME CORPORATIONS contend that they would be ruined if they granted the increase of wages that their employees asked for. This cannot be said of the Pullman Company, with its surplus of $5,432,301. This corporation is the only large business in America that enjoys a subsidy; it is subsidized by the traveling public in the form of tips to the porters. No other corporation would dare to have such a low scale of wages coupled with such long working hours. For years, immune and unchallenged, the Pullman Company has exploited its Negro labor. Like other corporations, it must learn that this cannot last forever; that its

JACKSONVILLE MAYOR BARS RANDOLPH

New York, N. Y.—When several citizens called on the mayor of Jacksonville to inform him of the visit of A. Philip Randolph, General Organizer of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and Editor of The Messenger Magazine, he answered them sharply saying, "I know all about it, but he isn't coming here to Jacksonville. I'll put him in jail and anybody else who has anything to do with his meeting." With this prejudicial attitude on the part of the mayor of Jacksonville, the citizens informed Mr. Randolph of the attitude of the city administration toward him and advised that he should not visit Jacksonville at this time.

Tidewater Virginia Pullman Porters Loyal To Randolph

STAND BY THE BROTHERHOOD AND LEADER

Curious To Know Why Editor Of Pittsburgh Courier Has Deserted Them

The Pullman porters of the Tidewater section of Virginia re-pledged their loyalty to the Brotherhood and their faith in A. Philip Randolph, the general organizer, in spite of insistence from certain quarters outside of the organization that he turn its leadership over to other hands, according to statements given this newspaper by some local veterans in the Pullman service.

In a prepared statement a group of Tidewater porters who assert that they speak for the porters and maids of this zone, scored the suggestion of Editor Robert L. Vann, of the Pittsburgh Courier that Randolph resign the leadership of the porters' organization, and asserted, "We are not going to let anyone call tune for us."

The prepared statement as given the press follows:

"We the pullman porters of the Tidewater zone through our representative, Mr. S. E. Grain, wish to express our faith and confidence in the brotherhood of sleeping car porters and its leaders. We quite understand that no such fight as ours can be won over-night. It is curious to us how Mr. Vann for three years supported the Brotherhood then all of a sudden found that he was wrong in doing so. Mr. Vann says that he will let Pullman porters and maids all over the country know what they are up against. We thank Mr. Vann but he need not bother himself, so far as we the porters and maids of the Tidewater zone are concerned. We may not know as much about the Brotherhood as Mr. Vann, but we believe in it, we are not looking for any job.

For three hundred years the white people have been able to pick Negro leaders for Negroes. We wonder if Mr. Vann knows that if one pays the fiddler one can call the tune. So we, the Pullman porters, at this stage are paying the fiddler and we expect to call the tune. We are not going to let anyone call the tune for us. It is the concensus of opinion of Pullman porters and maids all over the Country as a group and the Negroes in general. The masses now understand that the Pullman porters' fight is their fight, the Brotherhood is the only Negro Economic organization in the country, and we must not allow this organization to fail. For if we fail it will plainly show the yellow streak and that inferiority complex not only with Pullman porters and maids but with the entire race.

It is common knowledge with us that no group can rise without an economic back ground. Then, too, we want to know what is all this ballyhoo about the Brotherhood? We are not bothering anybody, we are simply trying to organize as other groups of people have done. If Editor Vann would use the space in his paper opposing the K. K. K. or some other organization that is really against the interest of Negroes it would be of some value to the race. Not only that if we are satisfied with our leaders, truly we think Mr. Vann and other people should be tickled to death. We want to thank the Ministers of Norfolk for the kind and splendid reception they tendered our representative, Mr. Grain, on his visit here. We understand that they are going to preach a sermon for the Brotherhood, if that be true, we grant them God's speed for every Negro professional man should line up with this deserving organization. It is their only chance for economic emancipation. Last but not least, we want to thank the Norfolk Journal and Guide, and its Editor, Mr. P. B. Young. They fought for the Brotherhood since its beginning. Mr. Young recognizes our cause is right and just. That is why."

Attorneys' Arguments Impressive

By Louis R. Lautier

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 26.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has under consideration the question of whether it has jurisdiction over the practice of passengers' tipping Pullman Porters.

This question was argued before seven members of the commission last Saturday on a motion filed by the Pullman Company asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to dismiss for want of jurisdiction a complaint filed with it by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

In the complaint the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters asks the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate the effect on the public service of the Pullman Company's policy regarding tipping. The commission is also asked to order the Pullman Company to cease and desist from permitting its employees to accept tips from passengers.

The tipping practice is unlawful, injurious to the service of the public, and against public policy, Henry T. Hunt, a former member of the Railway Labor Board, argued in behalf of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

Mr. Hunt contended that the powers of the commission are ample to cover investigations of the kind sought and to grant the relief prayed for by the brotherhood. Under the Interstate Commerce Act, he said, the powers of investigation of the commission are broad and extend to all activities of carriers.

Condemnation of the tipping practice on social grounds was also urged by Mr. Hunt. He declared that it has a bad effect on both the colored and white races and should

Sleeping Car Porters Seek Wage Increase

Following a meeting at the Hotel Melbourne yesterday, members of the Boston division of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters adopted a resolution calling upon their officers to institute action, in accordance with the provisions of the new Railway Labor Law, and proceed immediately with balloting on the question of suspension of work."

The resolve was made, the remainder of the document states, because they have been unable to secure any increase in wages, after many attempts. The porters now receive $72.50 a month, the resolve states, and they are forced to work 400 hours during the 30-day period.

THE WORLD: THURSDAY. MAY 10, 1928.

GARMENT TRADES PONDERING STRIKE

Resolution Calls for Cloak and Dress Walk-Out

SLEDDING FOR REDS ROUGH

Peace Sally Expected to Be Lost on Delegates

Special to The World

BOSTON, May 9.—Resolutions calling for general strikes in the cloak and dress trades of New York and Toronto at the expiration of current agreements were submitted to-day to the nineteenth biennial convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union in session here at Convention Hall. The Resolutions Committee will report them out to-morrow and Friday.

Agreements do not expire in the New York market, which employs the vast majority of cloak and dress makers in the country, until Dec. 31, 1928, but general stoppages, in the event agreements are not renewed, must have the consent of a national convention. The next convention will not be held until 1930.

Other resolutions submited to-day call for recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States, the release of political prisoners in Russia and Italy, reiteration of the union's opposition to Fascism, aid to the Brotherhood of Pulman Car Porters in their fight against the company union, the establishment of a labor party, and a tariff against imported handkerchiefs whose dumping into the American market to the extent of $10,000,000 worth a year threatens to extinguish Hand Machine Embroidery Workers' Local No. 72 of Passaic, N. J.

A resolution which is expected to meet with defeat requests the convention to hear a delegation of the "tolerance group" within the union seeking peace with the Communists and "left wingers" outlawed by the union. A delegation from the so-called Committee of Fifty fostered by the left elements and seeking the same object, was barred at the convention doors to-day.

A. J. Muste, President of the Brookwood Labor College at Katonah, N. Y., lauded the pioneer efforts of the International in workers' education. He warned that the work must go on unabated, holding it as essential as organizing activities in combatting employers' propaganda and welfare activities among the unorganized.

Israel Meraminski, representing the Jewish workers of Palestine, said that because of labor unions, Arabs for the first time in the history of the Holy Land, are fraternizing with Jews.

The convention settles down to its hard work to-morrow.

Saturday, March 31, 1928 Age - Reg N.Y. AGE

THINGS SEEN, HEARD AND DONE AMONG PULLMAN EMPLOYES

By JAMES H. HOGANS

Mr. Alonzo Hilliard, Pullman Porter and Restaurateur

To those of you who do not know him, allow us to introduce Mr. Alonzo Hilliard, Pullman porter and restauranteur. In presenting the gentleman, we shall try to introduce him in the same way in which we came to know of him. To do this, we will have to go back to an earlier date.

On the evening of February 4, at No. 1613 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, Mass., a banquet was tendered to Perry Parker, general chairman of the Pullman Porters Benefit Association of America, and invited guests. The guests numbered more than fifty persons, and besides Mr. Parker, included official Ngro represenetatives of the Pullman service in the Boston, Penn, Terminal and New York districts. The banquet was given by Mr. Alonzo Hilliard, a veteran porter in the Pullman service, and a successful restaurant owner of Cambridge. The affair was held at his place.

Several weeks after the event, this writer ran acrcoss one of the guests who had been present, and he said, "Say, I was at that recent banquet which was given for Perry Parker in Boston and it was as nice an affair as I have ever attended. That man Hilliard is a great fellow," he added.

"Who is Hilliard?" he was asked.

"Why, he is a Pullman porter, who, in addition to running on the road, runs a restaurant in Cambridge, which compares favorably with some of the wellknown restaurants in New York. You should get a story of him and his place for your column," suggested my informer.

Following the suggestion, the column communicated with its Cambridge correspondent regarding the subject, with the result that we are able to give a brief account of the man and his business. The following is what our correspondent writes:

"Mr. Alonzo Hilliard is a man whom I would judge to be in his fifties, well preserved for one of that age, and is what you would call handsome. His face denotes strength. His complexion is a rich brown and he has sharp penetrating eyes, which seem to bore through you when they are turned directly on you. But they are not repellent eyes by any means. They are simply eyes that denote a firm but pleasing personality.

"Mr. Hilliard's family consists of himself, wife and two sons, aged 18 and 20, respectively. Both boys are students at Harvard College. The family lives in an imposing brown stone house in this city, which is family owned. Mrs. Hilliard who has contributed in no little way to the success of her husband, has been compelled by recent illness to slacken her activites in her husband's restaurant business. This business, which was started not more than eight year ago, is a concrete example of what a man may do, if he has the nerve and intelligence to try.

"Eight years ago, while casting about for prospective possibilities for an eating place site, Mr. Hilliard settled upo the spot where he is now located, which is No. 1613 Massachusetts avenue. Choosing this site proved to be fortunate venture. The restaurant has grown steadily in patronage, until it is serving daily from eight to nine hundred persons. Most of this patronage comes from the student body and the faculty of Harvard College, which institution is not very far away.

Why Not a Tip Strike?

A. P. Condy, veteran porter and vice chairman of Local No. 5 of the P. P. B. A. in the New York district, writes to this column a letter which contains a novel suggestion regarding the tipping question. It is to the effect that those porters who are opposed to tipping should refrain from accepting tips when proffered by passengers. While this suggestion is not likely to be taken seriously by any porter, yet such a course of conduct on the part of the porters would prove to the public that they are at least sincere in their contentions regarding tips in lieu of wages. On this subject, Mr. Condy, writes:

"The porters had just as well begin now as later to disabuse themselves of the idea of that $150 per month wages. If and when the job of Pullman porter becomes so good as to pay that sort of money, Negroes will not be filling it. Of course, all of us porters would appreciate a raise in pay, and, I think, we would get it were it not for the fact that capital was made of the last raise we received.

"In the matter of tips, I would suggest to those porters who are averse to taking tips (speaking for myself I haven's run across any as yet) to return them to their passengers when offered. In the matter of wages, we are never going to get an increase as long as this agitation by outsiders is kept up. This opinion, of course, is only personal. But, as you know, I am acquainted with the attitude of the Pullman management towards its porters much better than those who are fighting it."

The Other 3,000

From all reports, and it is conceded by those who have official standing in the Pullman service that this is about right, out of the 10,000 regular porters in the Pullman service, 7,000 of them are complaining about their industrial condition. It might occur to the disinterested to ask this question: What about the other 3,000? What do they say? and how do they feel about these conditions? Perhaps we can supply the answer by quoting the opinion of one of the 3,000. The following dialogue gives his idea of the matter:

"Hello, John ,how are things going with you?

It was on Lenox Avenue, one day last wek, that the question was asked.

"Fine", returned the addressed.

"Well", said the first speaker, "how is the agitation among the porters effecting you?"

"Not one bit", came the reply.

"How is that?" continued the questioner.

"Well", said John, "I'll answer your question the same as I did that of the passenger who asked me recently. 'What was the trouble among the porters?' I told this passenger that from my observation there were two groups of porters in the Pullman service today. One was that group that had just entered the srvice and wanted something for nothing. The other was a group who had been in the service all their working lives, and now that their time as porters was nearly up, have awakened to the fact that they, too, want something. It took the latter group, some of them as many as thirty years, to find this out, I belong to neither group, for I am making preparations for myself."

The answerer of the foregoing questions is not a young man in the service, neither is he what might be termed a veteran. He is simply one of those porters who have taken advantage of conditions as he found them. And say what you will, his philosophy of life, whether in the Pullman service or some other service, is found. John Morris is the porter's name.

Rienzi Declares That Travelling Public, Not Pullman Co., Will Bear Brunt Of Pullman Porter Wage Raise

Says Socalled Tip Is As Much Part Of Porters Wage As Rates Paid For Pullman Accommodations Are Part of Officials Salaries

By RIENZI B. LEMUS

The situation that has developed from the activities of the Pullman porters union on behalf of the porters is the paradox of a generation.

Public opinion, fed on misinformation mostly by the daily press, is gradually being focused on the question of the porters' wages and work; and if public opinion should constrain Pullman to act in the near future, the victims will be none other than Pullman patron and Pullman porter. It won't be Pullman Company.

The union's purported intent to move for more pay and better rules for porters went off on a bad tangent the moment the question of "tip abolishment" was sprung. And it has been getting worse ever since—for public and porter; with worst in the immediatae offing.

Germs of Propaganda.

No microscopes required to discover the germs of the propaganda to put over the porter's union movement, now on the increase in the daily press. And no amount of embellishment, with well-written protests against the peonage imposed on porters by Pullman, conceals the aim; the postulates of this propaganda are—abolishing of tips, as the motive with relieving the public of paying them as the objective. The porter simply and solely serves as the FOIL.

Grant the benefits and dividends that have accrued to Pullman owners with and by virtue of the tip. Concede as a fact, not for sake of argument, the acute need of adjustments in the porters' wage structure; and undisturbed remains the TRUTH, namely, that the travelling public, not Pullman, is chief beneficiary of the socalled tipping custom! And this is not "labor economics," of which I know nothing, thank God, and about which I care less. It is just economics—elementary economics! As it is true as truth itself that no empolyer pays his employees. The customers pay; employer is simply paymaster! His patrons furnish the money to pay off with.

No Allowance For Wages.

A very good friend of mine, a law student, recently said that he then was "on public utilities" at law school, and he had not noted in the late U. S. Supreme Court Justice Harlan's epochal decision, any allowance for wages in determining a fair return to investors in public utilities, which is true.

The 66th Congress, however, in enacting the Transportation Act, 1920, made provision to authorize the Interstate Commerce Commission to increase rail rates for the purpose of enabling the railroads to raise money with which to pay wage increases of rail employees, and so soon as the late labor Board increased wages of practically all rail employees, effective as of July 1, 1920, the Commerce Commission substantially increased rail rates for the railroads to finance the wage increases. The travelling public is still paying these increases, and everybody directly or indirectly pays the increased freight rates, in consequence.

The Pullman Surcharge.

It was then that the Commission invoked the burdensome "Pullman surcharge" as a source of rail revenue. This "sur-charge" is one-half the price of the Pullman ticket, added to it; actually, the "surcharge" is a rail tax on Pullman passengers; it goes to the railroad. The Commerce Commission has refused t oabolish it, and a movement led by the travelling salesmen's organization was unsuccessful at getting Congress to wipe it out

So if Pullman is as avaricious as Ben Stollberg and Heywood Broun say it is, the public then can easily approximate what it is in for if and when the direct methods of part payment of porters' wages with tips shall be superceded with indirect payment through the Pullman Company!

The propaganda for porters' tips abolishment is deluding the pay-off public with the far-fetched assumption that abolishing of tips means no further obligation on its part for the porters' wages. That the present rates with a $72.50-per month porter, couldn't remain so with a $150 month porter on a 240-hour month basis, whihc means pay for overtime in addition, is more than superficially evident to a ten-year old child. Another delusion victimizing the travelling public is the assumption that a tip is a gratuity. The only thing gratuitious about it is the assumption.

Tip Is Part Of Wage.

The socalled tip is as much a part payment of the porters' wages for services rendered as the rates paid for Pullman accommodations at a ticket window are part payments of Pullman offcals' salares and Pullman conductors' standard wages. The requirements of a porter are those of a full-grown and strong man; certainly the nominal wage of $72.50 per month, to quote the union's misleading, propagandic figures of the porters' monthly wage, are not a man's wages. Therefore, every tip paid by the public is for serviec rendered by a man. Wherefore, it's not a gift; and if the porters ever get a wage of $150 on an 8-hour day basis, the average Pullman passenger will pay more on this account when he buys a ticket than the average ever paid or pays in the form of tips.

This commission is neither an argument for the tipping custom's continuance nor a defense of Pullman. It is a statement of facts,—namely, that the public now pays and the that the public now pays and the porters and would pay if the tipping custom were abolished, that tipping is not an act of giving—and a brief for the Pullman porters, who constitute the most manly, most cultured body of working men on earth, and make up the economically and sociologically best-off group of unskilled laborers in the world!

The Porter's Condition.

Among them I am, indeed fortunate to number hundreds of my friends. I stood for Ben Stollberg having the Pullman Company make peons of them, because the onus was placed on Pullman. But Heywood Broun's recent "seeming to me-ing" of the Pullman porters' homes into approximate "Claude McKay hovels" was, in the words of Lafeadio Hearn, "2 mutch!" The home of an average Pullman porter surpasses in comfort and culture the home of the average man; while to compare it with the "home" of the average "professional Negro race leader would be sacrilege. The porter's need for wages and rules adjustment is pressing. But his most acute need now is to be saved from his "friends."

Pullman's failure to deal with the union when the useless Board of Mediation advised it is regrettable from every point of view—particularly from the porter's. For as between the obstinacy of his employer and the destructive propaganda of the press he is caught by the upper and nether millstones of an evil season, which portends to end disastrously. The millstone appears to be cast around his neck, with the depths of the sea in close proximity, and the travelling public is his prospective twin brother in mysery.

Answer, Mr. Negro Pullman Official!

1. Do you not know that porters, maids and the public are beginning to ask: What good are Pullman porter-instructors and welfare workers, anyway?

2. Do you not know that this question is the direct result of your unmanly attitude toward the porters and maids?

3. Do you not know that your conduct in trying to compel porters and maids to vote in the Pullman Porters Benefit Association of America and the Employee Representation Plan elections was cowardly, indefensible and unfair?

4. Do you not know that your action toward the porters has made you the most hated, despised and distrusted individuals in the Pullman Company?

5. Do you not know that the local superintendents despise you more than they do the porter or maid whom you frame-up?

6. Do you not know that you are playing the same notorious and disgraceful role of the old slave who was dressed up and allowed to remain idle by the slave masters so that he may "tell tales" on the field-hands and that the "Big House" slave who spied on the working slaves became known as "white folk's nigger"?

7. Do you not think that you would be far more respected by the porters, the Company and the public were you to refuse to cause a fellow worker and member of your own race to lose his job, thereby injuring his family, by misrepresenting him to the local superintendents in order to make yourself strong with the management?

8. Do you not know that you will get more willing co-operation from the porters and maids if you were intelligently tolerant, respectful, and honorable in your dealings with them?

9. Do you not know that the Brotherhood counsels that the porters and maids respect their officials, black and white, and to abide by discipline and always give courteous, efficient and responsible service?

10. Do you not know that the Employee Representation Plan is dead because it failed to serve the porters and maids and that the Brotherhood is here to stay because it is the only hope of the porters?

11. Do you not know that truth and justice are on the side of the Brotherhood, and that it will triumph even though hypocrisy, treachery and ignorance of some Negro Pullman officials attempt to overthrow it?

12. Do you not know that the Brotherhood is the greatest promise and hope of the Negro race today, since it is stressing the economic method as the fundamental solution of our problem?

13. Do you not know that the largest and leading Negro organizations, leaders and papers of the race have endorsed and backed the Brotherhood?

14. Do you not know that the attitude of the Brotherhood men and the non-Brotherhood men is: If Freeman, Taylor, Sample, Kirk, Bannister, W. P. Smith of St. Louis, Botts, V. D. Harris, Clint Thomas, Boggs, Estelle Shannon, Perry Parker and the rest of the Company agents, can't do them, the porters, any good, not to do them any harm, if they can't push them up, don't pull them down?

15. Have you not sufficient race pride to appreciate the value of a movement which the white and black public recognize as the only remedy for the grievances of the Pullman porters in particular and the race in general?

16. Do you not know that the Pullman Company knows that the Pullman conductors and other railroad workers are organizzed? Why then, should you try to hinder your own race from organizing?

17. The Brotherhood herewith serves notice on all Negro Pullman officials who are sneaking around trying to frame up innocent porters that it will expose you in the pitiless light of publicity until you become useless and a liability to the Pullman Company. The Company will then kick you out, your wife and children will despise you and your race will spit upon you because you have a wish-bone where a back-bone ought to be.

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, General Organizer,
Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters,
2311 Seventh Avenue, New York City.

Boston Porters "Stand Pat"

BOSTON, Mass., Mar. 22.—The following resolutions were adopted by the Boston Division of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, meeting in the Melbourne Hotel, 805 Tremont street, Boston, March 16. Frank R. Crosswaith of New York City and special organizer of the Brotherhood spoke. Silas M. Taylor, veteran porter and division organizer presided.

We, members of the Boston Division of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, in meeting assembled, March 16, hereby adopt the following resolution:

BE IT RESOLVED: That we herewith empower the responsible officers of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, to institute action in accordance with the provision of the new Railway Labor Law and proceed immediately with balloting on the question of suspension of work, until such time as the Emergency Arbitration Board, as provided under the law, shall be appointed by the President of the United States and our [illegible] with the Pullman Com[illegible]

[illegible] Brothers and Sisters in other [illegible] we pledge steadfast and un[illegible] loyalty to the aims and [illegible] To the [illegible] especially on [illegible] we plead for sympathy [illegible]

[illegible] Organizer A. Phi[illegible]

N.Y. Times Wed. March 28, 1928

SLEEPING CAR PORTERS CAST STRIKE BALLOTS

Organizer Here Says Hundreds Are Voting to Prove Union Desires Recognition.

Less than twenty-four hours after 10,00 strike ballots had been issued throughout the country by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters hundreds of local members were appearing at their headquarters, 2,311 Seventh Avenue, yesterday to vote, according to A. Philip Randolph, General Organizer for the union. The immediate purpose of the vote is to meet the contention of the Pullman Company that the brotherhood does not represent the majority of the porters, and therefore does not deserve recognition.

At present Pullman porters receive $72.50 a month, on a mileage basis and are expected to add substantially to their wages through tips. The brotherhood wants a wage of $[illegible] month on a time basis without tips and recognition of the union. According to Mr. Randolph, the employe representation plan [illegible] effect by the Pullman Company has resulted in a "company union" which is not effective in giving the porters redress for their grievances.

The vote is intended to create a "state of emergency" which is to be

Loser of Course

THE [illegible] of the Pullman Porters and Maids grows worse every day under the misguided leadership paid out of the meager earnings of the men and women who are doing the work and doing the suffering.

We say this because the actions of some of the leaders proves positively that the real interest of the Porters and Maids is not to be served by the present methods. The Courier issued its open letter to the Porters and Maids two weeks ago and intended to say nothing more about the mess, one way or the other. The Courier would not now say a word, were it not for the fact that some of the leaders have tried to accuse the Courier of being against the Porters and Maids. The Courier is ready and willing to do anything any reasonable set of men may suggest to help the Porters and Maids. But the leaders of the Brotherhood refuse flatly to allow any one to help them. If anybody suggests anything to help the Porters, Mr. Randolph immediately refers to them as "cheaters," "crooks," "niggers-in-the-wood-pile," etc., and as a last spasm, he says they have been bought by the Pullman Company. According to Randolph's own statement issued out of his own headquarters, the Pullman Company has bought up the preachers of the country to such an extent they will not let him appear in their churches. (See release pertaining to Boston.) Can sensible people imagine such rot? Can anybody believe such leadership capable of making friends for the Porters by using such slanderous remarks. No matter who the man, or the woman, or the organization, if anyone even suggests a change in Randolph's methods or program, such persons are accused in the vilest language of being in the pay of the company. The whole world is in the pay of the Pullman Company—except one man, and that man is Randolph. He is the ONLY SIMON PURE man in all the world. All others are "crooks," "bribe takers," "niggers-in-the-wood-pile" and enemies of the Porters.

His little "payroll buddy" out in Kansas City tried to draw a crowd by telling the people that Vann of the Courier wanted to lead the Porters. That Vann wanted the Porters to vote for Lowden for president, and a lot of other lies of the whole cloth just to draw a crowd to hear Randolph cuss the world because he can not get the Pullman Company to recognize him.

The Courier made a statement. It still stands by that statement made in its open letter to the Porters and Maids. Randolph has cussed everybody, even the Courier, but he has never denied the following facts: He has been cussing for two years and has got no where. He has made it harder for all the Porters and Maids. He has driven friends away from the Porters and Maids by abusing every editor who has any opinion different from Randolph. He cussed the Defender and threatened it with annihilation, until the manager changed the attitude of the Defender. As soon as the Defender began to speak for the Porters, Randolph yelled out to the country that the Defender was licked, and advised his men that the Defender should have no credit for changing its attitude because he had licked the Defender. Well, the Defender is still coming out and going big. Randolph is still cussing the world and getting nothing for the Porters. He can not and he does not deny this statement and this is all we said. We told him where we differed from him, and told him like a man and a gentleman. We had the courage to differ from his views and told him so. For this, we are a "nigger-in-the-wood-pile." We are "on the payroll of the Pullman Company," and the Courier editor is a scoundrel. This is just the kind of treatment he gives everybody who differs from his views.

Now, let us say once more, we do not care what happens to Randolph. We do care what happens to the Porters and Maids. They deserve something. They are getting nothing. There is not a man of any respectability in the country who will endorse Randolph's stubborn, selfish, foolish and futile position. A SMART MAN IS THE MAN WHO GETS SOMETHING DONE. Randolph is getting nothing done, and when the editor of the Courier was man enough to tell him, he froths at the mouth and damns everything and everybody.

He knows the Porters and Maids are not crazy. He knows they are turning away from his abusive program. He knows they are getting ready to deputize one or two of their own to walk into the Pullman Company offices and ask for a conference. He knows one or two of his own men could quit him tomorrow and get a hearing. But this would mean his sacrifice. Randolph urges the Porters and Maids to make a last sacrifice for him, but he never will make one sacrifice for them. This is his stand. He wants to die in his tracks. We say to him and to the Porters it would be a blessing for the Porters and Maids if all who want to walk out with him do so next Monday morning. He has about sixty men who would walk out. Let them walk out. Then the company will be in position to help all the rest. The sooner the better. We challenge him now to walk out next Monday morning. If he is so good, if he has so many porters with him, let him walk out next Monday morning.

He will never do it. He has pledged himself to stand in the way of the Porters and Maids as along as his white bosses on 42d street tell him to do so. We know this is his attitude, and we are going to inform the Porters and Maids as long we have the spuce left to do it. He says we are wrong in our open letter. Read the letter of Dean William Pickens of the N. A. A. C. P., read the letter of Dr. Jernagin. Randolph will start cussing them next week:

Washington, D. C., April 12, 1928

Mr. R. L. Vann,
308 Fourth Avenue,
Pittsburgh, Pa.
My dear Mr. Vann:

I have just read your open letter to the Pullman Porters. You gave me some information on this matter, because I am interested in the Porters' Convention, and allowed my name to serve on the Pullman Porters' Committee in this city.

I think their cause is a righteous one. After reading your letter I decided you were right in your contention about Mr. Randolph. And if he is in earnest about helping the Porters, he will step aside and give them a chance to get results, or at least try.

I simply wanted you to know I endorsed your position.

Yours for the Race,
(Signed) W. H. Jernagin.

Dear Robert L. Vann: Chicago, Ill., April 17, 1928.

I was never such a moral coward as not to be able to give credit to whom credit is due, and I want to say that your "open letter" to Pullman Porters and Maids, in April 14th COURIER, is the best and rarest statement that has so far been made on the subject.

By accident I ran across it in COURIER today, as I stopped over in Chicago, en route from St. Paul to New York City.

Truly yours, Wm. Pickens.

Organizers in Determined Fight to Secure Recognition of B. S. C. P.

New York, March, 1928.—According to A. Philip Randolph, General Organizer of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, a nation-wide strike vote begins today. Strike ballots will be issued to over 7,000 porters who are members of the Union and also to porters who are non-members, said Randolph. Efforts will be made to complete the taking of the strike vote in the shortest time, observed the General Organizer.

The purpose of the strike vote is to create an emergency in accordance with the provisions of the Railway Labor Act. It is a natural and logical reult of the refusal of the Pullman Company to meet the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and arbitrate the dispute when it was urged to do so by Hon. Edwin P. Morrow, one of the mediators of the United States Mediation Board. Instead of complying with the recomendation of the Mediation Board, the Company replied that there was nothing to arbitrate, that it had a contract with its Company Union. Whereupon the Brotherhood presented its case to the Interstate Commerce Commission, seeking to secure a ban on tips as a reward for labor, thereby depriving the Company of the ability to hide behind and get the benefit of the $7,000,000 contributed by the public in tips to the porters yearly. The strike vote maneuver will extend from Florida to the Coast, says Randolph, including such big centers as Jacksonville, Atlanta, Savannah, Birmingham, New Orleans, Ft. Worth, Dallas, and San Antonio, Texas, Washington, Richmond, Philadelphia, Boston, New York, Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Denver, Omaha, Los Angeles, Oakland, Portland, etc.

Dispatches from the division headquarters of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters throughout the country are coming in daily which show that the membership are determined to go all the way, if necessary, with the finished fight to secure the recognition of the Organization, higher wages, and better working conditions, said Randolph.

The Brotherhood has been in existence two and a half years, having been organized in New York in August, 1925. Its case was first presened to the United States Mediation Board in May, 1926 and again in July 1927, in Chicago. The demands were for $150.00 minimum wage. The present wage is $72.50 a month. The Union demanded the 340-hour work-month. At present porters operate on a mileage basis of 11,000 which amounts to nearly 400 hours of work a month.

BOSTON TRAVELER, FRIDAY, M

PULLMAN TIPS REMAIN LEGAL

WASHINGTON, March 9 (UP)—Efforts of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters to outlaw tipping failed today when the interstate commerce commission dismissed a complaint against the Pullman company.

The brotherhood had filed the complaint in an effort to substitute increased wages for tips. The complaint charged tipping violated the interstate commerce act, but it was dismissed on the grounds of lack of jurisdiction.

PORTERS LOSE IN I. C. C. HEARING

Commission dismissed complaint of Brotherhood filed against Pullman Co.

Washington, D. C., Mar. 16,-(PNS)—Tips to Sleeping Car Porters are still legal according to the effect of the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Commission on Friday dismissed a complaint of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters against the Pullman Company, which sought to end the practice of having sleeping car attendant take a portion of their wages in the gratuities of the traveling public.

The petition which the commission turned down sought an order against the Pullman company which would have at least hampered the continuance of the tipping custom.

No Law Against Tipping

"Pullman passengers are under no legal obligation to pay more than the scheduled charges," the decision said. "We are referred to no law which prohibits tipping of Pullman Porters."

"Tipping in the Pullman service was practiced long before the Congress began to regulate interstate carriers and it is reasonable to assume that if Congress intended the practice of either giving or receiving tips to be unlawful it would have so declared in express terms.

Three Members Dissent

"Moreover, a consideration of the complaint in all its aspect leads only to the conclusion that the real objectives sought are increased wages for the porters and maids in the Pullman employ. We have no power to regulate wages, and consequently no authority to inquire into the justness of the complainants' demands however meritorious they might prove to be."

Commissioners Aitchison, Eastman and Lewis dissented, arguing that the commission should at least have investigated the tipping custom further than it did in this case.

NEW YORK AMSTERDAM NEWS, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 14, 1928

I. C. C. RULES AGAINST BROTHERHOOD

Formally Dismisses Complaint of Worker for Lack of Jurisdiction

According to Organizer Strike Vote Is Next Move to Abolish Tipping and Give Porters Living Wage

WASHINGTON, March 12. — The Interstate Commerce Commission Friday formally dismissed, for lack of jurisdiction, the complaint of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters against the Pullman Company.

In their complaint the porters protested that they were from long practice compelled to depend on gratuities for a considerable portion of their wages, that this fact was known to the Pullman Company, which was a party to the practice and promised this compensation. It was claimed that this was a violation of the two sections of the Interstate Commerce act, in that passengers felt compelled to pay more for service than the lawfully published rate and that there was undue prejudice and discrimination between passengers who paid unequal amounts and received unequal service.

Commissioners Aitchison, Eastman and Lewis joined in a dissenting opinion. They held that the complaint seemed to state facts which, if established, may constitute violations of the Interstate Commerce Act and possibly the Elkins Act.

The company, it was averred, started its business just after the emancipation, when it was customary for Negroes to volunteer personal service to whites for a small gratuity or tip, and that the company had built up and fostered the practice.

According to A. Philip Randolph, general organizer of the porters, the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission has only stirred and aroused a flaming determination on the part of the porters to fight to the finish.

Randolph points out that the dissenting opinion of three Commissioners shows that there is grave doubt as to the tenability, soundness and legality of the decision.

tion of an emergency as provided by the Railway Labor Act. This will require the appointment of an emergency board by the President of the United States, whose duty it shall be to investigate the entire dispute between the Pullman Company and the brotherhood over a period of thirty days and hand down his findings, which shall be calculated through the force of public opinion to effect an amicable, fair and permanent adjustment of the dispute, with a view to avoiding an interruption of interstate commerce.

BOSTON TRAVELER, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 14, 1928

PORTERS WANT MORE SALARY, LESS WORK

NEW YORK, March 14 (AP)—A. Phillip Randolph, general organizer of the National Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, today announced the organization had begun to vote on a strike to gain among other concessions more wages and the abolition of tips.

The organization, which Randolph said numbers 7300 of the 10,000 porters in the country, demands a wage increase from $72.50 to $150 a month, a 240-hour month instead of the present 320 to 400 hour month, and the recognition of their union.

SENATORS ADVOCATE BETTER PAID PORTERS

Pullman Brotherhood Assured of Support in Demand for Improved Conditions

From The World's Bureau

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—United States Senators have joined the Pullman car porters in their fight before the Interstate Commerce Commission for recognition of their brotherhood and better pay.

Senator W. H. McMaster of South Dakota has written to A. Philip Randolph, who is directing the campaign for the porters, saying: "If the statement is true that Pullman porters only receive $72.50 per month, that condition of affairs is a disgrace, and a decent compensation and living wage should be accorded this class of employees."

Senator Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota, wrote: "I am in heartiest sympathy with your organization."

"I am to assure you that I am in favor of the changes suggested," declared Senator Arthur W. Capper of Kansas.

"I am writing the Interstate Commerce Commission urging them to take action in behalf of your organization," said Senator C. C. Dill of Washington.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is now considering the petition of

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE, TUESDAY, MARCH 13, 1928

7,000 Pullman Porters Ready For Strike Call

Plan to Force Company to Raise Wages and Abolish Dependence Upon Tips Disappointed by I. C. C.

Hope to Force Mediation by U. S. Board in Emergency

The refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington last Friday to issue an order forbidding the Pullman Company to permit tipping may result in a strike of more than 7,000 sleeping car porters, who demand that their wages be increased and gratuities abolished.

A. Philip Randolph, general organizer of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, which represents more than two-thirds of all the porters in the United States, said yesterday at union headquarters, 2311 Seventh Avenue, that members of the brotherhood in twenty cities would probably vote to strike within several weeks.

Company Refuses to Arbitrate

In its refusal to intervene in the dispute the Commerce Commission maintained that it had also no jurisdiction over Pullman Company affairs. The strike threat also follows the refusal of the Pullman Company to arbitrate or to interview delegates of the brotherhood.

Union officials said yesterday they hoped a vote to strike would cause the United States Board of Mediation to recognize an emergency, and by terms of the Watson-Parker act to ask President Coolidge to appoint a board of arbitration.

The Watson-Parker act provides that the Mediation Board must make such recommendations to the President of the United States if an emergency exists. Randolph said brotherhood organizers were preparing for the strike. Picket committees made up of wives and children of porters are prepared to stage demonstrations in stations and terminals, he explained.

Say Chinese and Filipino Porters Used

"The Pullman Company," said Randolph, "has already begun to fight our strike threat by firing brotherhood men on the club cars and employing Chinese and Filipino porters. In the last two and a half years the company has discharged 150 members for the crime of belonging to the brotherhood. Some of them had been employed by the company for twenty years."

The Pullman porters receive $72.50 a month in wages. Randolph explained that although they get about $58 a month in tips, their expenses in transit—food, shoe polish and various items—average $33 a month. They work about 330 hours a month, he said, without extra pay.

A citizens' committee of 100, headed by Henry T. Hunt, formerly a member of the War Labor Board, is co-operating with the porters. Among members of the committee are the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist Church; Professor John Dewey, of Columbia; Stewart Chase, Eugene O'Neill and Samuel Untermyer.

Says Strike Plans Are Up

KANSAS CITY, March 12 (AP).—The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is making immediate preparations to declare a strike on all Pullman cars, Ashley L. Totten, assistant general organizer of the brotherhood, announced here to-night.

The purpose of the strike, Totten said, would be to create an emergency which would invoke the services of the emergency board, created under the Federal railway act, in settling a wage dispute with the Pullman company.

Amsterdam News

A Pullman Bluff

IT IS REPORTED by the Associated Press that twelve Chinese have been employed as club car porters on the crack trains of the Northwestern Union Pacific railroads. This is interpreted as the first move in a campaign of the Pullman Company to displace Negro porters or to compel them to dissolve their union and surrender to the Pullman Company's terms.

IT IS NOT likely that the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters will allow itself to be bluffed by this move. The closely restricted immigration of Chinese to this country will prevent the Pullman Company from getting enough Chinese to man its cars. Even if enough Chinese could be found the American labor unions would bitterly resent the employment of large numbers of Chinese, with their cheap living standards.

THE BROTHERHOOD of Sleeping Car Porters has won several points in its fight for better conditions, and it should keep on fighting till victory comes. The Pullman Company is between the devil and the deep sea. If it discharges its Negro porters and employs white ones the American Federation of Labor will compel it to raise their wages even beyond the Negro porters' demands; it cannot get enough Chinese; the United States Board of Mediation has recognized the Negro porters' union; and the American public has awakened to the fact that its tips are the real source of the Pullman Company's dividends. Sooner or later the Pullman Company must yield.

NEW YORK TIMES, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 25, 1928.

PULLMAN PORTERS READY FOR STRIKE

Union Official Says Only 26 of 7,300 Members Have Voted Against Walkout.

RECOGNITION IS DEMANDED

Federal Mediation to Be Sought in Two Weeks When Ballots Are All in and Counted.

A country-wide strike of Pullman porters is inevitable within a short time if the Pullman Company does not recognize the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and deal with it through the United States Mediation Board to regulate wages and working conditions, according to Roy Lancaster, general secretary and treasurer of the brotherhood.

Strike ballots were issued on April 5 to the 7,300 members of the union. Mr. Lancaster said that 5,100 men have voted, all but 26 favoring a strike. All ballots should be returned within two weeks, he said, when A. Philip Randolph, general organizer, will inform the Mediation Board of the result of the vote. The board will notify the President, who will appoint an Emergency Board to deal with the brotherhood and the company. If the company refuses to negotiate, the union officials undoubtedly will cal a strike, Mr. Lancaster said.

One purpose of the strike vote was to convince the Mediation Board that the brotherhood deserves recognition as an authoritative union. The brotherhood on previous occasions appealed to the board and to the Interstate Commerce Commission, but failed.

In addition to the basic demand for recognition, the brotherhood asks for a wage of $150 a month on a time basis of a240-hour month, without tips. Pullman porters now receive a minimum wage of $72.50 a month on a mileage basis of 11,000 miles a month, with tips. The tip system of earning a living wage is termed undependable and unfair.

1928

TO PREVENT STRIKES.

News of a most important conference is published this morning, being the result of efforts by the American Bar Association in consultation with the American Federation of Labor to bring about legal methods of both preventing and adjusting industrial disputes. The subject is one which the Bar Association has long had under consideration. Varied projects have been laid before its committees. One of these has been the plan to create a special industrial court with power of coercion over the parties to a given controversy. But the present decision has been to strive for a measure embodying the idea of voluntary arbitration rather than compulsory. The question has been raised whether it would not be possible to pursue the analogy of the Federal Arbitration law providing for settlement of commercial disputes and to apply it to collective bargaining between Capital and Labor.

Already an outline of the desired legislation has been agreed upon and public hearings on it are to be held at the Bar Association Building in New York for three days beginning on Thursday, Feb. 16. Opportunity will be given both to advocates and opponents of the project. It has the approval of the President of the American Bar Association, Mr. SILAS H. STRAWN, who speaks with special appreciation of "the helpful spirit manifested by the American Federation of Labor." It may be said that not for years have relations between organized labor and the large employers been sa satisfactory as they are today. It seems to be an auspicious time to take a forward step safeguarding what may easily be a more troubtous future. In any case, the plan is up for discussion. It has excellent backing both among lawyers and the large employers been so doubtless will also find many critics and objectors. The public hearings are meant to give a chance to all. If the plan is wrong, let it be shown to be. But if it is right and full of promise, let it be proceeded with as one of the most encouraging signs of industrial peace anywhere visible.

[illegible] PULLMAN FARES

While Congress is considering the repeal of the remaining wartime taxes it might well turn its attention to one tax of war origin which proceeds to flow into the Federal Treasury. This is the surcharge of 10 per cent on Pullman fares. It was originally imposed when the Government was in control of the railroads and was intended for the twofold purpose of raising revenue and discouraging civilian travel when a large part of the railway equipment was needed for moving troops.

After the armistice this surcharge was discontinued, but in 1920, when the roads were hard hit by the post-war inflation, the Interstate Commerce Commission restored it. Since then conditions have changed, and the reasons for its retention appear to be no longer valid. An examiner of the commission has recommended its removal, but the commission itself has not been able to agree whether it should be removed or only reduced. Meantime the Senate has twice passed a bill for its repeal, but so far the House has failed to act.

It has been objected that a bill of this character puts rate-making into the hands of Congress. The measure now before Congress, however, prescribes no rates, but leaves that function to the Interstate Commission, where it properly belongs. It merely prescribes a policy which the commission is to follow by stipulating that there shall be no discrimination of double charges for the same service. The Pullman surcharge is in effect a double payment, for which the passenger gets nothing in return. Its proceeds do not go to the Pullman Company, which renders the special service, but to the railway company.

As a second objection to the repeal of the [illegible] it is urged that the roads badly need the [illegible] whether they do or not, a discrimination [illegible] of traffic is hardly the proper way to [illegible]

SAYS ARTHUR BRISBANE

Arthur Brisbane is the highest paid editorial writer in the United States. Not only that, but his opinions reach more persons than any individual now writing in this country. Therefore it is significant that he makes the following observation concerning the defiant attitude taken by railroads against the organization of Pullman porters:

"For the first time Chinese replace Colored men as porters on trains. The Union Pacific-Western-Union Pacific lines have imported 12 young Chinese as club car porters in place of Negroes. All but one of the 12 are American born.

"They will work well doubtless, but the public, satisfied with the excellent service rendered by Colored porters, will not like them displaced. Colored men are descendants of those brought to this country against their will, as slaves, and for that reason are entitled to special consideration."

Mr. Brisbane, usually right, has not missed the mark in this statement except for the fact that porters are not seeking special consideration because of their color. They do feel, however, that they have done the best they knew how to satisfy those who have made the Pullman car a profitable proposition. They have given their service for the Pullman company from the time George Pullman started his first traveling bedroom, and they feel that this alone should entitle them to some small share in its prosperity.

These porters feel, also, that the right to organize should be theirs without question. That they have waited this long to attempt it is a tribute to their patience with thoroughly disgusting conditions. That they would seek through every means to bring about a reasonable understanding with the company is evidence that they want to work in harmony with their employers. And that they are now attempting to organize is proof that they have exhausted exery other means to bring about the desired result.

But through it all they have asked for no special consideration because of their color. True enough, their Race has contributed enough to this country's welfare to entitle them to some consideration, but they have not sought it. They merely ask a living wage and better conditions under which to work. And even this modest request is being flouted. Mr. Brisbane says the public will not accept these substitutes quietly. Mr. Brisbane usually knows whereof he speaks.

The Universal Stewardess

When the first Pullman, and later, on the California-Chicago run, the Silver Palace cars came into being, during the latter part of last century, the functions of steward and porter on these ornate vehicles were performed by a man known as "conductor," the lineal antecedent of the Pullman conductor of modern travel. This was before the era of the Negro porter, and white men made the berths and saw to the comfort of passengers in the sleepers. The idea of women as part of a train crew would have been an ultimate outrage. As a matter of fact, women passengers on the sleepers were relatively rare during their first decade of operation and, when finally tempted to overland travel, after the completion of the Central Pacific-Union Pacific Railway, to transcontinental voyaging, they usually slept with all their clothes on and a plentiful supply of hatpins and an occasional Derringer at hand.

With the passing of time, however, and the natural mutations of progress, hostesses, stewardesses and registered nurses have become familiar on almost all transcontinental trains both of tourist and de luxe order. But the last word in feminine achievement on the high iron would seem to be spoken by the Shore Fast Line, running between Atlantic City and Ocean City, N. J., where, according to the current issue of "Railroad Magazine," the first hostesses ever to be installed in trolley cars are now in service. Here is something that may yet abate the rapid obliteration of trolley runs throughout the country.

Pullman Porters and Maids

Stop! Look! Listen!

A Contrast and a Challenge

FATHER vs. SON

"I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, do order and declare that all persons held as slaves within said designated States and parts of States are and henceforward SHALL BE FREE. I recommend to them that in all cases when allowed, THEY LABOR FAITHFULLY FOR REASONABLE WAGES. . . . ."

—Abraham Lincoln in the Emancipation proclamation.

"My feeling about it (tips) is if you increase their (porters) wages without in some way stopping their tips, you simply make a larger income for them, and the question IS WHETHER THAT IS DESIRABLE TO DO. . . . ."

Robert T. Lincoln,

Chairman Board of Directors of the Pullman Co.

PORTER VOTE STRIKE ON

CASE BEFORE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION FAILS—WILL CREATE EMERGENCY—7000 PORTERS PLAN STRIKE AGAINST TIP

New York, March 13, 1928—Seven thousand Pullman porters are ready to strike because they are tired of being tipped. Instead they want higher wages.

A. Philip Randolph, general organizer of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, said members of the brotherhood in 20 cities would probably vote a strike within the next few weeks.

Friday the interstate commerce commission in Washington refused to issue an order forbidding the Pullman company to permit tipping. The company also has refused to arbitrate the dispute.

Porters receive $72.50 a month in wages" said Randolph, "and their tips average $58 a month. But their expenses in transit come to about $33 monthly. This includes the outlay for food, shoe polish and other items."

Boston, Mass., March 12, 1928—Announcement was made today from the local headquarters of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, that the organization will proceed immediately with its program of creating an emergency in the transportation system of the country by spreading before its membership a strike vote, thereby warranting the appointment of an Emergency Arbitrating Board by the President of the United States.

Under the terms of the new Railway Labor Act—The Watson-Parker Law, this is the only alternative left the porters and maids in their efforts to have their grievances with the Pullman Company amicably settled, according to Frank E. Crosswaith, Special Organizer of the union and in charge of the Boston Division.

—G—

PORTERS FAIL, FIGHT

NO JURISDICTION SAYS INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION AS TO TIPPING AND WAGES OF PULLMAN CO.—3 MEMBERS OF COMMISSION DISSENT—A MORAL VICTORY—A GREAT STAND BY A COLORED ORGANIZATION

Washington, March 12, 1928—The Interstate Commerce Commission on Friday dismissed, for lack of jurisdiction, the complaint of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters against the Pullman Company.

The porters protested that they were compelled to depend on gratuities for a considerable portion of their wages, that this was known to the Pullman Company, a part[illegible] practice, that this wa[illegible] to the the two section[illegible] a violation of Commerce [illegible] of the Interstate compell[illegible] act, in that passengers felt th[illegible]ed to pay more for service than the lawfully published rate and that there was undue prejudice and discrimination between passengers who paid unequal amounts and received unequal service.

PORTERS LOSE IN I. C. C. HEARING

Commission dismissed complaint of Brotherhood filed against Pullman Co.

Washington, D. C., Mar. 16,-(PNS)—Tips to Sleeping Car Porters are still legal according to the effect of the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Commission on Friday dismissed the complaint of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters against the Pullman Company, which sought to end the practice of having sleeping car attendant take a portion of their wages in the gratuities of the traveling public.

The petition which the commission turned down sought an order against the Pullman company which would have at least hampered the continuance of the tipping custom.

No Law Against Tipping

"Pullman passengers are under no legal obligation to pay more than the scheduled charges," the decision said. "We are referred to no law which prohibits tipping of Pullman Porters."

"Tipping in the Pullman service was practiced long before the Congress began to regulate interstate carriers and it is reasonable to assume that if Congress intended the practice of either giving or receiving tips to be unlawful it would have so declared in express terms.

Three Members Dissent

"Moreover, a consideration of the complaint in all its aspect leads only to the conclusion that the real objectives sought are increased wages for the porters and maids in the Pullman employ. We have no power to regulate wages, and consequently no authority to inquire into the justness of the complainants' demands however meritorious they might prove to be."

Commissioners Aitchison, Eastman

Tribute To Former Supt. J. F. Mitchell

By W. C. HART

Mr. J. F. Mitchell who has been district superintendent of the Penn Terminal District since 1918, has been appointed to the advisory board of the Pullman company and placed in charge of legislation. He has been succeeded by Mr. R. V. Watson.

While all groups in our district regret very much to lose the services of Mr. Mitchell as superintendent, the porters feel that they have lost a man who has been liberal in his attitude towards them and free from race prejudice. He believed in a square deal and an equal opportunity for our group. This is evidenced by the fact that more colored men have been promoted to the supervisory and clerical force here than in any other district. He leaves as a legacy to our group, one investigator, two sign-out clerks, one night clerk, who keeps the time of more than two thousand employees in Sunnyside yards.

Mr. Mitchell took great pride in his district and always insisted that the Penn Terminal District had the most intelligent, best uniformed and the most courteous and efficient men in the service. The outstanding characteristic of Mr. Mitchell has been his humane and benevolent spirit manifested towards the porters. There are countless numbers of porters who will testify that they have been beneficiaries of his liberalities in hours of need and difficulty. When called upon in a worthy case he never failed to respond, and in most cases out of his personal funds.

He has been president of the Citizens National Bank in New Brunswick for a number of years and has assisted a great many men of our district in paying off mortgage and other financial difficulties.

STRIKE POLL ON TO-DAY

Pullman Porters to Vote on Wage Dispute to Create Emergency

Members of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, to-day will begin voting on a proposal to strike to secure recognition of the organization by the Pullman Company.

Polling of the 7,000 members of the organization, A. Phillip Randolph, general organizer, said yesterday, is ordered to create an emergency under which the United States Mediation Board may act, and results from the refusal of the company to arbitrate the dispute as advised by Edwin P. Morrow, representing the board. The porters demand a minimum wage of $150 a month, as compared with the present wage of $72.50, and a 240-hour month, instead of the 400-hour month.

PRINCIPLE ABOVE DOLLARS

Advertise in the 'Black Worker," the official organ of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
National President

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN
National Sec'y-Treas.

JAMES E. SMITH
Field Organizer
N. Y. C. District

O. W. BYNUM
Field Organizer
Penn. Terminal District

TRUE FRIENDS OF HUMANITY

They do not stand in the market place
That all may see and hear;
Their one desire is to bring the light
To those enslaved by fear.

THIRD BALL ANNUAL

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

ROCKLAND PALACE

155th St. and 8th Ave.

Friday Evening, December 7, 1928

Headquarters and Home of the Brotherhood:

239 WEST 136th STREET

NEW YORK

Hordes of Men Wear
Hordes Clothes

ALL OF OUR GARMENTS ARE DESIGNED AND TAILORED IN OUR OWN WORKROOM MADE OF A LARGE SELECTION OF FIRST GRADE MATERIALS.

Suits, Overcoats and Tuxedos
From $22.50

JOSEPH HORDES, Inc.

125th STREET
Cor. St. Nicholas Ave.

110th STREET
Cor. Third Ave.

THIRTY-TWO YEARS IN HARLEM

("Royalties are the Gold Bonds of the Oil Industry")

MONARCH ROYALTY CORPORATION

—NOW offers you through "The House of George" an opportunity to become one of its many satisfied Preferred and Common Stockholders, who receive a dividend check at the rate of

1¼% MONTHLY

On the Par Value of the Stock

The Corporation Owns Royalty Interests

in

536 DIVERSIFIED PROPERTIES

(291 producing) located under 109,737 Acres

with

1941 PRODUCING OIL WELLS

from which the Corporation is receiving an annual income from the Standard Oil Company and other companies of which is being divided among the stockholders.

OVER $500,000

The source from which these dividends are paid, is supplied with money received by MONARCH ROYALTY CORPORATION as their royalty interest in the oil produced by the Standard Oil Companies, their subsidiaries and the leading major oil operators, who at their own risk and expense, find and produce the oil obtained from the lands under which Monarch owns its Royalty Interests.

Since 1923, there has been paid to shareholders, by this organization, a total of approximately 85 percent in cash dividends.

Remember: that for a limited time the Participating Preferred Stock of the Monarch Royalty Corporation is offered at

$1.50 PER SHARE

and with each 50 shares purchased by any one subscriber, 5 shares of the Fully Paid, Non-assessable Common Stock of the Coroporation will accompany the said 50 shares of Preferred to the name of the subscriber without any additional cost. Send your order NOW.

Or for further information apply to:

H. R. GEORGE & COMPANY, Inc.

INVESTMENT BANKERS

2298 Seventh Avenue, Suit 108, New York City

Phones: Edgecombe 2300 - 2301 - 2302 - 2303

Greetings to

The Pullman Porters

from

AMALGAMATED BANK

OF NEW YORK

11-15 UNION SQUARE—BROADWAY
(Corner 15th Street)

NEW YORK'S FIRST LABOR BANK

ASSETS
THIRTEEN MILLION DOLLARS

Greetings to the Public from the Brotherhood

SOME three and a half years ago the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters was born in New York City. It came into existence as a revolt against the indescribable and nameless injustices practised upon the porters and maids by the Pullman Company, through the Employee Representation Plan, a Company union, Company organized, Company controlled.

The movement swept the Country with amazing rapidity. In every district of the Country where the Pullman Company had porters, the Brotherhood established an organization. Practically seventy-five per cent or more of the porters and maids have been organized. The porters' case has been presented to the United States Mediation Board, the Interstate Commerce Commission, and for the first time in the history of Black Americans, a strike vote was taken and the date and hour set for the walk-out of the porters. The strike was postponed, however, upon the intervention of William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor. The organization is stronger now than ever before. It purchased its own home at 239 West 136th Street, in November, 1928. This is the first National Negro Labor movement in America. It is the pride of the race. Long live the Brotherhood! Long live the New Negro! Long live the spirit for Economic Freedom!

Faithfully yours,

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH,
President & General Organizer.

Greetings to the

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

from the

International Ladies Garment Workers Union

BENJAMIN SCHLESINGER - - - - President
ABRAHAM BAROFF - - - Secretary-Treasurer

3 West 16th Street

New York City

Dressed Head Contest

The following shops and Beauty Culturists are entering mannikins.

Madame Ruth Johnson.....2257 Seventh Ave.

Walker Shoppe.....110 West 136th St.

Mme. Nan U. Davis.....2217 Seventh Ave.

Miss Edna Morton.....1 West 135th St.

Mme. Estelle.....2305 Seventh Ave.

Mme. Iris Hall.....2295 Seventh Ave.

Mme. Latimer.....2399 Seventh Ave.

Mme. L. F. Hunter.....2234 Seventh Ave.

Mme. Lucille Johnson.....201 West 139th St.

Marcia Louise Lansing.....2309 Seventh Ave.

Miss Bernice Ince.....2580 Seventh Ave.
(Walkers Beauty Parlor)

Frankie & Jennie.....200 West 135th St.
(Exclusive Beauty Shoppe)

Greetings from the

LAFAYETTE THEATRE

SEVENTH AVENUE at 132nd STREET

"America's Leading Colored Theatre"

Presenting the Greatest

COLORED MUSICAL COMEDIES
and HIGHEST CLASS, FIRST RUN PHOTOPLAYS

Performances continuous 1 P. M. to 12 Midnight
ADMISSION PRICES: 25c, 35c, 50c

GALA MIDNIGHT SHOW EVERY FRIDAY

Have you been in to see

Bentley's

Greater Store?

THREE BIG FLOORS OF MERCHANDISE

For Men, Women and Children

We Completely Outfit the Family with Wearing Apparel

YOU MAY ALSO CHARGE YOUR PURCHASE BY TAKING ADVANTAGE OF BENTLEY'S 20 WEEK PAYMENT PLAN

Bentley's

151 WEST 125th STREET Bet. Seventh Ave. and Lenox

GREETINGS

NATHANIEL SPECTOR, Manager ALEX ROSE, Secretary-Treas.

Wisconsin 1270 — Spring 4548

MILLINERY WORKERS' UNION

LOCAL 24

CLOTH HAT, CAP AND MILLINERY WORKERS INTERNATIONAL UNION — AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

30 WEST 37th STREET

640 BROADWAY

Most of You Know and Deal With

UNION FURNITURE CO.

306 WEST 145th STREET

Homes Completely Furnished

COME IN YOURSELF AND SEND YOUR FRIENDS TO A GOOD HOUSE—BEST VALUES IN THE CITY

We Carry From the Cheapest to the Highest Grade of Furniture, Rugs and Bedding

Telephone, Edgecombe 5050 West of Eighth Avenue

Telephone, Bradhurst 5360-5361

UPTON CONSTRUCTION CORP.

209 WEST 145th STREET
NEW YORK

EDWARD CAHN, Secretary

Tel. Bradhurst 0678-3653 APPOINTMENTS

Distinctive Beauty Service

can be obtained at

Mme. C. J. Walker Beauty Shoppes

110 West 136th Street and 2580 Seventh Avenue

EXPERT MARCELLING, DYEING AND BLEACHING, FACIALS AND BOBBING

Courteous Attention to All Consultations Free

Compliments of

SILVER FURNITURE CO.

525 LENOX AVENUE, near 136th Street
NEW YORK

WISHING YOU ALL A PLEASANT EVENING

Greetings to the

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

White Rock

MINERAL WATER and GINGER ALE

Executive Offices: 100 Broadway, New York City

Telephone, Cathedral 2876

Finest Race Drug Store in New York

WILLIAMS PHARMACY

O. H. WILLIAMS, Ph. G.

2161 SEVENTH AVE., S. E. Cor. 128th St. NEW YORK

BE WISE — STOP PAYING RENT!

OWN YOUR OWN HOME IN CORONA, LONG ISLAND

Twenty Minutes from Times Square, with a Five Cent Fare

——: SEE :——

Walter E. Reifer & Co.

REAL ESTATE

103-15 Northern Boulevard Corona, N. Y.

OPEN SUNDAYS FROM 11 A. M. to 6 P. M.

Telephone: Pomeroy 2428-3243

Compliments of

Ethel's Beauty Salon

Tel. Audubon 4694

2354 SEVENTH AVENUE

A. D. STEINER

CHOICE MEATS

2429 SEVENTH AVENUE

New York

Audubon 2856 Bradhurst 2398

MRS. KEMP'S EMPLOYMENT AGENCY

Experienced Colored Help Wanted

2382 Seventh Avenue At 139th St.

Telephone, Delaware 8425 NOTARY PUBLIC

"HOME FOR FUNERALS"

JOHN E. WHITE

REPRODUCO ELECTRICAL PIPE ORGAN

767 Ocean Avenue Jersey City, N. J.

DANCE ORDER

PART ONE

1. The Song of Songs ..... Fox Trot
2. Everybody Loves You ..... Fox Trot
3. Doin' the Raccoon ..... Fox Trot
4. Ready for the River ..... Fox Trot
5. King for a Day ..... Waltz
6. Four or Five Times ..... Fox Trot
7. Birmingham Break Down ..... Fox Trot
8. Must Have That Man ..... Fox Trot

INTERMISSION

PART TWO

9. Stampede ..... Fox Trot
10. I Can't Give You Anything But Love ..... Fox Trot
11. Lilac Time ..... Waltz
12. Doin' the New Low Down ..... Fox Trot
13. Nagasaki ..... Fox Trot
14. When Sweet Susie Comes Stepping By ..... Fox Trot
15. Ah! Sweet Mystery of Life ..... Waltz
16. Let's Do It ..... Fox Trot
17. I'm on the Crest of a Wave ..... Fox Trot
18. Don't Wait Until the Lights Are Low ..... Fox Trot

We Can Sell You A Better Piano for Less Money on Easier Terms than any other piano institution in in New York

JANSSEN

Telephone:
MOTT HAVEN
2207

Factory and Warerooms:
132nd Street and Brown Place,
Bronx, N. Y.

Your Dollar Buys More Here

MICHIGAN FURNITURE CO.

GRAND RAPIDS FURNITURE

119 WEST 125th STREET
Tel. Cathedral 3585

2174 THIRD AVENUE
Tel. Harlem 9220

A Small Deposit Will Secure Any Purchase Until Wanted

Upon Presentation of this Advertisement an Allowance of 10 Percent Will be Allowed on all Purchases

Stores Open Every Evening Util 9 P. M. Except Friday

"All a Home Needs" Cash or Credit

The Loyal Furniture House

Quality Furniture, Lowest Price and Best Terms

MAIN STORE:
2375 EIGHTH AVENUE
Near 128th Street
Tel. Monument 2331-2339

BRANCH STORE:
220 WEST 145th STREET
Bet. 7th & 8th Aves.
Tel. Edgecombe 7319

Tel. Cathedral 2830

LANDAU & STREIFER

UNITED Credit Clothing Co.

OPEN EVENINGS

Your Credit is Good Here

Newest Styles in Wearing Apparel for the Entire Family

Easy Terms—Open a Charge Account Here

133 West 125th Street
New York

Tel. Harlem 9060

Jacob Goodman

Real Estate—Mortgages—Insurance

67 West 125th Street
New York, N. Y.

Telephone, Bradhurst 0166

DUNCAN BROS.
FUNERAL HOME

2303 Seventh Avenue
New York City

The Only Race Store of its Kind in the City

Standard Merchandise and Guaranteed

Christmas Gifts Galore

QUALITY — SERVICE — FAIR PRICES

Buy Your Holiday Gifts Here

Holiday Suggestions: Silk Shirts, Gloves, Hosiery, Pajamas, Lounging Robes, Bath Robes, Canes, Umbrellas, Neckwear, Silk Mufflers, Studs and Links—Ladies are assisted in their selection of gifts.

Bell & Delany, Inc.

202 West 135th St., near 7th Ave.

Othello G. Howell

MORTICIAN

EVELYN COOPER HOWELL,
Lady Attendant

NOTARY PUBLIC

2121 Madison Avenue
Cor. 133rd St.

SERVICE THAT SATISFIES

Our Chapel Is For the Convenience of The Public

Tel. Harlem 1394 — Night: Harlem 9575

Attractive Apartment House Investments are Respectfully Offered by Sales Department

—: of :—

NAIL & PARKER

NORMAN W. ROBINSON

145 West 135th Street
New York City

Tel. Monument 5133 Estab. 1907

S. M. FELNER

Custom Tailor

Snappy Styles

2102 SEVENTH AVENUE

Near 125th Street NEW YORK

Tel. Morningside 1581

JOHN C. SMITH'S

Modern Dance Orchestra

Office:
2297 SEVENTH AVE. (Up Stairs)
New York City

Tel. Audubon 3277

JOE. FROHLICH

POPULAR PRICE BUTCHER

Meats, Poultry and Provisions

2655 EIGHTH AVENUE
Near 142nd St.

Tel. Edgecombe 2653 Books Now Open

ROCKLAND PALACE

(Formerly Manhattan Casino)

BALLROOM "DE LUXE"

155th Street and Eighth Avenue
New York City

Tel. Harlem 0519

Manhattan

Furniture & Carpet Co.

Incorporated

Complete Home Furnishers

Your Credit is Good With Us

157 East 125th Street
New York, N. Y.

The Bamboo Inn

Seventh Ave. at 139th St.

Free offer to Club, Fraternal Organizations, etc., wishing to stage affairs can have the beautiful Bamboo Inn free of any charges or other assessments whatsoever. Call any evening and arrange for date.

Now Playing
JOE STEELE (Celebrated Pianist) and his Orchestra

Games and Toys for the Kiddies
Bring Xmas Joys

Cigars by the Box at Reduced Rates for Xmas

Gerford & Epstein

Dunbar Apts.

2818 Eighth Avenue

New York City

Compliments of

SAVOY

Ball Room

Tel. Cathedral 10264

General Stationery Co.

Printing and Engraving

Law Blanks, Office Supplies, Greeting Cards and Mottoes, Personal Christmas Greeting Cards, Dennison's Goods, Decorations and Favors, Toys and Novelties, Artist Materials.

2107 SEVENTH AVENUE

New York City

SMALLS' PARADISE

Presents

THE SIXTH EDITION OF

Leonard Harper's Revue

2 Shows Nightly—12 p. m. and 2 a. m.

Music by

Charles Johnson's Paradise Ten

DINING - DANCING - ENTERTAINING

No Cover Charge

2294½ Seventh Avenue New York City

Telephone, Audubon 0091-2

EDWIN A. SMALLS, Executive

JAMES ASHE, Manager

JAMES SAMPSON, Secretary

Telephone, Bradhurst 2345

LOVE B. WOODS

REAL ESTATE

101 West 135th St. New York

Tel. Bradhurst 0156 Prompt Service

SEE SAWYER

for

ELECTRICAL WORK

274 West 135th St. New York

Tel. Bradhurst, 1236

PRAUSE & SPREEN

Fine Home-Made Candies

505 Lenox Avenue New York

Telephone, Bradhurst 1570

T. M. GUY

Ladies' and Gents' Tailor

349 West 145th St. New York

Notary Public Lady Attendant

HARLEM 4886

GRANVILLE O. PARIS

UNDERTAKER and EMBALMER

151 WEST 131st STREET

Member of the

MASONS, ELKS, ODD FELLOWS
SOUTHERN BENEFICIAL LEAGUE

Clubmen's Beneficial League

The Moose

Telephone, Harlem 3770

I. KAVER

MERCHANT TAILOR

120 West 135th Street New York

Please Patronize Our Advertisers

Tel. Audubon 3796 Ed. H. Wilson, Prop.

HOTEL OLGA

A SELECT TRANSIENT AND FAMILY HOTEL

695 LENOX AVE. at 145th St.

Compliments of

BEN'S DANBURY HATS

521 LENOX AVENUE
N. W. Cor. 136th St. Tel. Audubon 4790

1416 FIFTH AVENUE
S. W. Cor. 116th St. Tel. Univ. 0103

BEN'S MENS SHOP

Hats, Caps and Furnishings

575 Lenox Avenue New York

Compliments of

COHEN & BERES

Cigars, Cigarettes, Breyers Ice Cream
2383 Seventh Avenue New York

GO TO

BERGMAN'S

Reliable Drugs
463 Lenox Ave., S. W. Cor. 133rd St.

Telephone, Harlem 6465

MARY LANE

Funeral Director and Embalmer
Funeral Parlor and Chapel Free

J. R. S. McLEOD, Manager

112 West 133rd Street New York

Audubon 4134 Harlem 1240

HARLEM FLOWER SHOP

ROBT. W. SPAULDING, Prop.

Artistic Floral Designs and Decorations

2365 SEVENTH AVENUE

Compliments of

A Friend and Sympathizer

Telephone, Edgecombe 3049

THE
CAPITOL FLOWER SHOP

579 LENOX AVENUE
Bet. 139th & 140th Sts.

Compliments of

United Shoe Repairing Co.

Hat Cleaning and Shoe Shine Parlor
471 Lenox Ave. New York

Compliments of

Reasonable Hand Laundry

Cuffs and Collars Turned Free
222 West 133rd St. New York

Telephone, Bradhurst 1440

West Side Tailoring

E. M. AMOS, Prop.

CLEANERS and DYERS

All Kinds of Alterations

200 West 138th Street New York

Telephone, Harlem 8931

Schwartz & Harrison

CUSTOM TAILORS

To the Better Dressed Man

2261 Seventh Ave. at 133rd St.

Tel. Bradhurst 1041

Dujon & Williams

Watchmaker and Jewelers

DIAMONDS

2667 Eighth Ave. New York

Compliments of

Morris Music Shop

"EVERYTHING IN MUSIC"

LENOX AVE., Cor. 143rd Street

Telephone, Audubon 9348

531 LENOX AVE. NEW YORK

Telephone, Bradhurst 1131

HOTEL DUMAS

F. C. FANE, Prop.

American and European Plan

205 West 135 Street New York

F. A. SAWYER

Merchant Tailor

Ladies' and Gentlemen's Suits Made to Order

200 West 145th St. New York

Telephone, Audubon 2881

Unity Protective Insurance Association

Life, Health and Accident Insurance

H. B. CARROLL

LET US TALK IT OVER

209 WEST 145th STREET

Phonographs — Radios — Player Pianos

Real Phonograph & Piano Co.

2535 THIRD AVENUE

Telephone, Mott Haven 6459-0714

Telephone, Audubon 1955

M. LEVY

Tailor and Furrier

Repairing, Reasonable Prices
Cold Storage Free

2376 Seventh Ave. New York

Telephone, Bradhurst 3971

Geo. W. McDermon

SIGNS

"OF THE BETTER KIND"

103 West 139th St. New York

Telephone, Morningside 4393

Compliments of

J. BLUM

Tailor and Clothier

135 WEST 125th STREET
(Bet. 7th and Lenox Aves.)

Telephone, Monument 1933

Captain Joshua Cockburn

REAL ESTATE — MORTGAGES

Steamship Ticket Agent

2164 Seventh Avenue New York

Telephone, Bradhurst 0840

THE WALKER'S INN

SAM WALKER, Manager

2350 Seventh Avenue New York

FAY'S

Latest Fashions in

Dresses, Coats, Millinery, Novelty Jewelery and Flowers

2389 Seventh Avenue New York
(Bet. 139th & 140th Sts.)

QUICK SERVICE NEVER CLOSED

Johnnie Jackson's Lunch

2285 SEVENTH AVENUE
(Bet. 134th and 135th Sts.)

Wholesome Food Home Cooking

Telephone, Audubon 3489

Gallmann's Confectionery

"We Lead in Quality"

637-639 Lenox Ave. New York

Telephone, Bradhurst 7135

Daylight Bakery

Hot Rolls Every Hour

2381 SEVENTH AVENUE
(Cor. 139th Street)

We Specialize in Pound Cake

Telephone, Audubon 6261

D. ENGELSON

Hardware and Housefurnishings

Locksmithing in all its Branches

2662 Eighth Avenue New York

Telephone, Cathedral 7689

The Violet Tailoring Co.

French Cleaners and Dyers

Full Dress and Tuxedos to Hire

Ladies and Childrens Dresses to Order

355 LENOX AVENUE
(Bet. 126th & 127th Sts.)

Audubon 9239 Motto: "Efficiency"

Howell's Funeral Church
Inc.

AUTOMOBILES FOR HIRE
FOR ALL OCCASIONS

MARTHA E. HOWELL, Pres.
GEORGE E. WEST, Vice-Pres.

2322 Seventh Ave. New York

Telephone, Edgecombe 3854

Lucius C. Jones

Ladies' and Gent's Tailor

201 West 145th St. Near 7th Ave.

Compliments of

Lenox Dept. Store
Inc.

537 LENOX AVENUE
(N. W. Cor. 137th St.)

Compliments of

A. GORDON

Seventh Avenue at 136th Street

Telephone: MORningside 1887

"SCHAFFERS ARE GOOD PEOPLE TO DEAL WITH"

Schaffer FURNITURE COMPANY, INC.

415 LENOX AVE., CORNER 131ST STREET

LIBERAL CREDIT

Open Monday and Saturday Evenings until 10

Telephone: Audubon 9614, 9615, 9616, 9617, 9618, 9619

JAMES REEVES, President

"Better Chain Store Grocers"

DANIEL REEVES, Inc.

44-58 WEST 143rd STREET

NEW YORK CITY

JOHN E. NAIL HENRY C. PARKER

Established 1907

Nail & Parker, Inc.

Real Estate

Collection Department Over $1,000,000 Annually

145 WEST 135th STREET

NEW YORK CITY

Telephones: Bradhurst 0670-0671

McAuliffe & Booth

Incorporated

PRINTING

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

166-172 East 124th Street

Telephone, Harlem 3136-3137-3138

The Brotherhood stands for Service not Servitude

[redacted]

VICE RIDES THE RAILS—
Here's one girl's story of her life with a thousand men and a hundred thousand miles.

by MARIE ANN EVANS

"OVER A DRINK——
in the club car is a usual method for hustlers."

"MY BEST FRIEND—— is usually the Pullman porter."

"IT COSTS MONEY—— to take care of the boys on the Pullman and day trains."

The porters are eager to speak out. For a share of the proceeds agreed upon in advance, they not only keep their mouths shut, but go out of their way to [illegible]

BULLETIN

"Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free"

The Pullman Porters Fight and the Black Man's Burden

Dear Brother:

The Brotherhood is the Greatest achievement of the Negro since Slavery. It is a great and powerful Symbol of Self-help, Self-reliance Self-respect. It is a demonstration of black men Striking a Blow for Themselves. This is as it should be. It is the Law of Progress, the Mandate of Destiny that Freedom Must Come from Within. Pullman Porters must Free Themselves. Negroes must Free Themselves. Nobody else can and nobody else will do the job for us, and nobody else ought to do the job for us. This is New, Strange and Unusual Doctrine for Negroes to hold, express and entertain, from the Pullman Company's and the time serving Negro's point of view.

The Pullman Company and White America are Amazed, Surprised, and Dumbfounded at your Manly, Militant, Clean, Courageous and Consistent fight for Justice, Freedom and Fair-play. The Company thought that you, like Babies, would cry for a minute and then shut up and Go to Sleep, so soon as it put the Nipple of a Meagre Wage Increase through the Employee Misrepresentation Slave Plan into your mouth. The Company thought that you are such Dumb-Bells that it could use wicked, corrupt and notorious Negro Misleaders, Welfare, better named "Hell Fare, Workers," Stool Pigeons, Spies, and Under Cover Men, to chloroform you to sleep forever. But you have taught the Company the Lesson of its Life.

But, Brothers, the Fight is Not Over. The Company Still Thinks that you have a Yellow Streak, that you are Cowardly, Craven, Cringing Slaves who will Grin, Dance, and Bow when you see a white Pullman Official coming around. It doesn't believe that you have the Guts, the Gumption and the Gall to Stick, Stand Firm and see the Fight Through to the Finish. What shall be your Answer? Black Boys and Girls who must face the Future are hanging on your every Word and Action. The White world is Waiting, Watching, and Wondering to see whether you are Men, True Men, Real Men, Red-Blooded Men, Double-Fisted HEmen, who will not Quail, Wince or Cower under fire, savage attacks, real pressure and positive persecution.

Now, you have gone too far to Turn Back, Stand Still, Grow Faint-Hearted, Get Cold-Feet, and Give Up the Ghost. You would not only be the Joke of the world, but the Foot-Mat and Dog of the Company, if you even think about slinking away like a Cur Dog who tucks his tail. Your children and wives would Despise you, your friends Spit Upon you. The Company would Kick you around and the public would Condemn you, for your failure to Face the music and go all the way.

Thus, dear Brother, Think! Think! Think! you are Bearing the Black Man's Burden. Let us face the future with Heads Erect and Souls Undaunted. Let us Resolve that the White Man has Borne the Black Man's Burden long enough. But let us not only Resolve, we must Act. Let us demonstrate that we are no longer Children of Charity, content to accept the Miserable Crumbs from the Rich White Man's Banquet Table, but let us Demand a Man's Pay for a Man's Work. White men are getting Sick, Tired and Disgusted with Giving, Giving, Giving a Begging, Crying, Whining race of so-called Grown-up Men. Do something for yourself! Stand Up! Be Independent! Self-Respecting! Self-Reliant!

You want and need Respect not Pity. You need Justice, not Mercy. You need Rights, not Stripes! You need Reasonable and Just Work-Hours, not Field Days, to dance around, sing and cut up like Monkeys for white Pullman Officials to laugh at and Black Pullman Officials to draw $150 per month on while you get $72.50 and Perhaps Tips and Perhaps Not.

Now you have Built up an organization which is here to Stay. Stand by it like Men. Support it by paying Dues, attending Meetings, distributing Literature and carrying the Message as your white brothers in the Unions are doing. Don't worry about opposition and abuse from either Pullman or Communists. Neither can Stop you. Jesus Christ was opposed, abused and crucified. The Company knows that if you Stick you can't Lose. That's why the Company Sics its Negro Lackey-Lick Spitling, Stool Pigeons and Communists on you and your leaders. The Company thinks that you are such complete slaves that you Think White and Act White, that is, do whatever a White Man says, believing it to be the Gospel Truth and will oppose the Brotherhood because white Pullman Officials tell Black Stool pigeons to advise you Against your own Welfare. But the day of that Spineless type of Uncle Tom Negro is going rapidly. The Brotherhood is proving that all Negroes are Not for Sale, are not Moral Cowards, Scabs, Stool Pigeons or Intellectual Serfs.

Remember dear Brother, you have won a great Victory, namely: you have proven that Negroes could build up an organization in this Country with their own money, brains and spirit, which the white man hasn't got money enough to Buy. If you have any pride of race, you will Rejoice in this and Rededicate Your Heart, Mind and Body to the Unfinished Task which lies before us of putting the Brotherhood Over the Top, regardless of Cost or Time, Sacrifice or Suffering. If you keep the faith, have no fear or doubt, and be not Weary of Well-Doing, you shall Reap your Reward in Due Season, but remember that the Remedy, the Key, the Solution is Fight! Fight! more Fight and still more Fight! Action! more Action! and still more Action! Organization! Education! and Agitation! With these weapons let us Slay, Kill and Destroy the Yellow Dog Contracts and the Plan.

The strike was postponed because it was sound strategy and it has made us stronger. The American Federation of Labor is with you. Plans are being worked with powerful labor forces of the Railroad Unions and the A. F. of L. of which I can now tell you, but you must trust your leaders.

FORWARD TO VICTORY!

Your faithful servant,

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH,
General Organizer

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

2311 SEVENTH AVENUE NEW YORK CITY

1928

Saturday, April 7, 1928

THINGS SEEN, HEARD AND DONE AMONG PULLMAN EMPLOYES

By JAMES H. HOGANS

Pullman Porters' Athletic and Social Club Oldest In Harlem's Piccadilly

HARLEM has its Piccadilly, or street of clubs, the same as London. The only difference that may be noted here is that of race, for while the clubs of London's Piccadilly are mainly English, those of Harlem's Piccadily are strictly Negro. But so far as numbers, and even diversity, go, the club-house street in the English city has little on the club-hous street in our own Harlem. Of course, there are no African kings and princes to be seen wending their way into these club houses, but now and then a direct descendant of this lineage may be observed entering one of these social and political homes.

Harlem's Piccadilly is 136th street, between Lenox and Seventh avenues. With this area, there are five bone-fide clubs and associations. These are the Pullman's Porters' Athletic and Social Club at No. 105. the Turf Club at No. 111; the Dixie Democratic Club at No. 112; the John R. Neel's Association Inc., at No. 113, and the My-O-bis Club at No. 129. Of these the Pullman Porters Club is the oldest in point of residence.

But aside from its reputation as an area of club homes this part of the street is noted for something else, something more historical with the growth of Harlem as a center of Negro business and activities. It was in this neighborhood that the first business building ing ever erected by a Negro in New York City was built. We refer to the Madame Walker's Building at Nos. 108-110 West 136th street.

The Pullman Porter's Athletic and Social Club is diagonally opposite this buiding. It is the only club house of its kind in the country for Pullman porters and other railroad men. In fact, it might be said that it is the ony tangible thing that Pullman porters as a body may point to as being absolutely their own, to govern and direct as they see fit This independence, however, hasn't been gained without internal disturbances. In its infancy, some of the earlier members tried to divert the club into a personal affair, to destroy the aims for which it was organized. Fortunately, the majority of the membership were interested enough in the organization to take things in their own hands, with the result that today, after seventeen years of existence, the organization has one of the best appointed club homes in Harlem.

It is a club home in which the fastidious may enter with ease, and to which no one may hesitate to invite members of his family or friends. The Evening Telegram's reporter, who visited the Brotherhood of Sleeping car Porters' headquarters at 2311 Seventh avenue recently, should have gone around afterwards to this organization's quarters. Perhaps he would not have gleaned the same color for his story, for tips and "snakes" are not discussions to be heard here.

As a matter of fact, "shop" is seldom heard discussed within the club's rooms.

But here is what the Telegram's reporter would have noted. He would have seen a club house that compared favorably in appointments with the Press Club downtown, and if he had been escorted through the entire building he would really have been surprised. He would have observed on the first floor a reception room containing club furnishings of consistent taste, and, on the same floor, a second room in the rear which is used as an office and meeting room, on the walls of which are hung several artistic paintings by old masters.

A walk to the second floor would have brought him to the club's pool and billiard room, which is served by a white-coated attendant. Probably some member would have invited him to "take a cue". Another flight up, and he would have been in the card room. Here he also would have seen a uniformed attendant. And if he were a reporter of the observing kind, he would have noted the perfectness of

[redacted]

e newly-elected prsident is rogram, so he informe etter organization
aternity in part the club.
Mr. Bo

VANN-RANDOLPH DISPUTE AIRED

Writer Says Brotherhood of S. C. Porters Chief Sufferers From Actions of Negro Leaders

Neither evidence or reason supports the conclusion that Mr. Robert L. Vann of Pittsburgh acted in bad faith or with ulterior motive in seeking to bring about recognition of the Pullman porters' union by the Pullman Company, even though the recognition involved elimination of the union's leader, Mr. Philip Randolph. Mr. Vann, successful Pittsburg lawyer and Editor of the "Pittsburgh Courier," is known for his more or less "big connections." In 1924, with Dr. Emmett J. Scott, of Howard University, and Mr. R. R. Church of Memphis, Mr. Vann made up the Republican National Committee's advisory committee. In 1920 he was of the managers of the Negro end of the Harding campaign.

In view of developments in the fight for the Republican presidential nomination at Kansas City six weeks hence, the motives and reasons for Editor Vann's move in the porter's union matter are so palpably obvious as to be almost evident.

It now is scarcely denied that President Coolidge favors Dwight W. Morrow, our Ambassador to Mexico, as the Coolidge legatee in the White House. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, credited with being closest to the President, almost stubbornly declines to indorse the leading candidate for the Republican presidential nomination — Secretary of Commerce Hoover, and there's every reason to believe that Mr. Mellon also is for Morrow. In fact, the rift in the hitherto solid ranks of the Massachusetts Republican organization is attributed to the Coolidge-Butler-Mellon yearns pro-Morrow-anti-Hoover d[illegible]mination. Keeping Ambassador Morrow in the "dark horse" stall and [illegible] the psychological moment in the convention, steam rollering the nomination on him will be all right of itself. But —only about one voter in [illegible] ever heard of the Coolidge college [illegible] whom the President drafted from the international banking house of Morgan [illegible] the Mexican portfolio and w[illegible]ernor Smith of New York— k[illegible] every school-child [illegible]ominat[illegible] the Democrats for President, the [illegible]row managers now while ke[illegible] their man under cover, must al[illegible] the groundwork of popular [illegible] during the campa[illegible] appeals to thous[illegible] [illegible]egro voters. Tell [illegible] the Negro [illegible] counter with the fact that Texas Congressmen Blanton always fights for the Howard University appropriation, stricken from the items of appropriations in the House of Representatives.

VANN-RANDOLPH DISPUTE AIRED

(Continued from page 1)

The Hoover managers have laid well their groundwork: first, on account of Hoover's fair and equitable manner in handling the flood-relief situation, even to the extent of dismissing a white female relief administrator on complaint of the Negro members of the Flood Relief Organization, and quite recently by abolish-

[illegible] according [illegible] comments.

Mr. Griffin Complimentary

New York, N. Y., [illegible]

"Mr. Dear [illegible]

"I have read with much pleasure the splendid article "W[illegible] in your column in the issue of The Age of March 24. Permit me to congratulate you on the views expressed therein. I believe your comments express the views of every thinking man engaged in our vocation. May I take this opportunity to thank you for the several kindly references you have made concerning me? My one hope is that I may always deserve the nice things you have written.

"I also desire to compliment you on the general excellency of your column and the well-balanced comments on the various subjects you discuss.

"I am enclosing you herein a copy of an editorial from the Rochester (N. Y.) Chronicle and Democrat, which, I think, contains one of the finest compliments ever paid our group.

With best wishes, I am, sincerely yours,

"T. E. GRIFFIN"

The following is the editorial contained in the March 21 issue of the up-state paper:

"SOMETHING SHOULD BE DONE"
(From Rochester, N. Y., Chronicle-Dispatch)

"Subtract the porters from the Pullman car and what remains in the way of courtesy and comfort? Very little, we fancy, in the minds of a goodly proportion of the passengers. For very many of them the porter is as characteristic a feature of the Pullman form of transportation as the highfalutin' system of naming the cars, or the Pullman style of interior decoration.

"Without the porter to do the honors, the atmosphere of the Pullman car would be as formal as that of a presidential reception. Years of experience have given him a knowledge of human nature, a genial spirit, an attitude of tolerance, a technique of service, rarely found elsewhere. His patience with the irritable passenger, his affability, with the talkative passenger, his faithfulness in the performance of his duties place him in a class unique, distinct, separate. His untrammeled individuality offers a welcome relief to the jaded wayfarer in a standardized world.

"The [illegible]sal by the Interstate Commerce Commiscsion of a complaint brought by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters against the Pullman company, which sought to end the practice of making tips a part of their wage, has led the brotherhood to consider plans of calling a strike. There is talk among them, as an alternative to a strike, of urging action by the United States Board of Mediation which has power, under the Watson-Parker act, to request the President to appoint a board of arbitration.

"This would seem to be the sensiblbe method of procedure. It would be a calamity of no small proportions if anything were to hap-

"prince of a gentleman," was almost Chesterfieldian. Unlike Davis, he had records and receipts and admitted frankly his organization is in debt for more than $4,000 and that a situation may arise where he will have to pay it himself. When the Crosby organization sought to put his wing of the party out of business it was the Democrats, Howard said, who came to the rescue of his organization.

Says He Reimbursed Himself.

Davis was the first witness. He said all the delegates from his State have been elected and that he heads the delegation. From the start he had difficulty recalling the financial features of the pre-convention campaign in Georgia, where, he said, there has been "no contest whatever."

He said he got, "all in all, $2,200" from Mr. Holland, of which $200 was expense money. Both payments, Davis said, were in cash and both were made before the Georgia Republican State Convention, which was held March 3 last.

"Have you any memoranda dealing with those transactions?" asked Senator Steiwer.

"No," Davis answered.

The witness declared that he got "a little" money in the State, much of which was used to "reimburse myself."

He explained that he had made many trips to Washington and had visited various districts in Georgia and that the "reimbursement" was mainly to cover his expenses on those trips.

"Have you any bills or any receipts to show how any of this money was spent in Georgia?" Senator Steiwer asked.

"Yes, here is a receipt for an ad- [illegible] in The Atlanta Inde- [illegible]

"Now about yourself.

"Unless it be shown that there has been no straddling with the other crowd, that I have not been doubled crossed or played with, I will vote with him (Mr. Hoover)."

The committee will hold an executive session tomorrow. The next public hearing may be in Ohio Thursday or Friday, that will be decided tomorrow.

SOCIALISTS APPEAL TO LABOR FOR AID

Resolution Wins After Spirited Debate—Platform Adopted, Silent on Prohibition.

PLANKS COVER WIDE FIELDS

Public Ownership of All Natural Resources and Utilities Urged—To Wage Fight in 48 Stat

The Socialist National Conve at its final session yesterday in nish Socialist Hall, 2,066 Fifth nue, adopted a platform coveri wide range of domestic and fore affairs, but omitting all reference the prohibition question. Before journing early last evening the d gates approved a report of th and Means Committee the party's determinat electoral tickets in at three States to suppor dacies of Norman Tho York for President an Maurer of Reading, P President.

The convention adopte condemning the foreign United States and cr treatment of political p others in Russia, Italy, Hungary. An appeal labor to support the p dates was endorced and tion voiced its willin operate with all polit sympathy with Social

Among the platform cal groups in wthout debate was a o ist principles. lic ownership of all na planks adopted and public utilities, emand for pub- wells, coal mines, powe tural resources roads and telephone a including oil systems. The platform plants, rail- quate flood control, e nd telegraph relief, old age pensions favors ade- injunctions in labor di ctive farm nition of Russia, wi abolition of armed forces from Nic tes, recog- entry into the League drawal of "under the conditions wh ragua and mote the peace of the f Nations League of Nations plan ich will pro- Mr. Thomas, was adop orld." The dissent after a previous , drawn by been sent back to comm ted without convention. plank had ittee by the

For Unemployment Relief.

Labor planks include g relief of unemployment overnmental of all public works, Fede y extension States and municipalities terest to promote public al loans to employment insurance, without in- accident insurance, a works, un- day, an adequate child health and ment to the Constitution oster work tion of convict labor und bor amend- tract system. and aboli- Repeal of the Espiona the con- fication of immigration tion of detective ager act, modi storation of civil rights ws, abol victed under war-tim and r among the planks deal those co liberties. Abolition of ws we the United States Supr with ci pass upon the constit power Congressional legislation Court tional representation ality were also advocated. pro

Farm relief planks ons construction of grain elevators, sto yards and other distributing agencies by the Government or by bona fide cooperative societies. Cooperative purchasing, marketing and credit agencies were also advocated as well as Government insurance against crop losses because of adverse weather conditions.

Foreign relations planks included demands that all private loans and investments of American citizens abroad be at their sole risk, without resort to military or other coercive aid by the Government. Cancellation of war debts due the United States, on condition that all inter-allied debts be canceled and reparations demands remitted, was advocated in another plank. General planks condemning militarism and favoring treaties outlawing war and promoting disarmament were also adopted. The convention went on record in favor of Philippine independence, autonomy for Porto Rico and civil government for the Virgin Islands.

Seek $10,000 Campaign Fund.

Following the report of William Henry of Indiana, Executive Secretary of the Socialist Party, the convention authorized the formation of an action committee to raise a campaign fund of at least $10,000.

Opposition to the resolution declaring that "the Socialist Party now, as always, is ready and eager to cooperate in united political effort with any and all groups honestly seeking to establish a party of the producing classes on the basis of belief in political and industrial democracy" resulted in a heated debate, several delegates declaring that it indicated an insane attempt to form a labor party. The resolution was adopted after [illegible] explained that its purpose was merel

Socialist Party.

The convention adopted a resolution advocating support of negro trade unions, with special reference to the Brotherhood of Sleeping-car Porters. Another resolution adopted urged restoration of citizens to 1,500 former political prisoners. Recognition of Soviet Russia was urged in still another resolution, with the understanding that recognition would not be "an expression of approval of the Bolshevik régime," but merely a contribution to the establishment of international peace and stability. The "terrorism" of the Communist rulers of Russia was condemned and the same resolution contained strictures upon the internal policies of Italy, Hungary and Rumania in dealing with political dissenters.

The convention's decision to appeal to organized labor for support of its ticket was preceded by the reading of a report on labor conditions by James O'Neal of New York, who said that from 1920 to 1926 the American Federation of Labor lost about 128,000 members a year, while company unions were gaining 125,000 members annually. Unless organized labor rallied to the Socialist banner, he declared, it would, in a few years, be shorn entirely of its power.

Concerning Mr. Mitchell

The tribute paid the former superintendent of the Penn. Terminal district, J. F. Mitchell, in this column last week, by W. C. Hart, one of the men who served under him, furnished those persons who have only known the man by what they have read in the press with a different picture of this Pullman official. In fact out of his, Mr. Mhitcell has always borne the reputation of being a "hard" man. During the past two years that conception has been freely circculated, as well as considerably stressed. How much virtue there was to it, we do not undertake here to say. For it has been our experience to note that all officials, whether railroad or Pullman, and whether deservedly or not, get the reputation of being lacking in humane feelings. One will find this opinion general among all groups of railroad workers. Concerning their supervisors. And it is only when one of these officials retires or dies that these employees will say, "oh, he wasn't so bad after all."

But, as we started off to say, Mr. Mitchell had been pictured to us in a different light. He may have been austere in his manner of handling his men; probably he was. But under this austerity, according to the panegyric that appeared in this column he possesses all the commendable qualities of a warm and sympathetic disposition.

Any official handling as many different groups of employees as there are in the Pullman employment, who has been known to go to the extent of aiding at times the various needy cases which are always turning up from his personal funds, is not such a hardhearted person after all. This is what Mr. Mitchcell's eulogizer said he did in many instances while superintendent.

Furthermore, the ex-superintendent had a credo. He was always willing to help the man who was trying to help himself. Especially, we are told, did he believe in extending aid to the man who was ambitious to own his own home, rear his family decently, and had church and fraternal connections.

We were also informed that as proof of his desire to give the Negro employee a chcance, during his ten years superintendency of the Penn. Terminal district he opened more clerical positions to colored men in this district than any other superintendent and district in the Pullman service. That alone indicates that the former superintendent was not such a "tight" man towards his Negro employees, since it is left solely to the discretion of the superintendent of a district, as to which employees under him are given clerical positions.

What opinions some persons may hold of Mr. Mitchell, and what may be Mr. Mitchell's opinion concerning them, are not matters for our comment. But, we do say this: He isn't nearly so bad as it has been painted, that is, if we maybelieve Mr. Hart and those employees of the Penn. Terminal district, whose testimonial to their former chcief was the gift of a $500 diamond ring and a set of golf clubs. Employees, especially of railroad connections, do not make such generous gifts without some very good reason.

Thanksgiving Dance and Frolic

——Given By The——

Chicago Division

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

——At Their Headquarters——

4231 MICHIGAN AVENUE

WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 27th, 1929

Dancing until 2 A. M. The peppiest music, of course!

COME OUT AND BRING YOUR FRIENDS

ADMISSION 35 CENTS

Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh
N. of a lower

Pittsburgh

FEDERATED PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU. Sheet 2. No.2929. Dec.26, 1929.

(Thursday Release.)

GREEN ENDORSES NATIONAL NEGRO LABOR CONFERENCE.

WASHINGTON-(FP)- Endorsement of the National Negro Labor Conference to be held in Chicago in January under the leadership of the Sleeping Car Porters' brotherhood is given by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in an editorial in the January issue of the American Federationist.

Speaking of the Sleeping Car Porters' union, Green says that "This splendid organization of Negro workers has recognized that the fundamental problem of Negroes, as of all other workers, is industrial, and the first attack on this problem is organization in trade unions. Organization is the way to status in industry, higher wages, just and honest working conditions, shorter hours of work. These things are essential to higher social and political standing.

"Trade union membership is open to all Negroes. The majority of trade unions accept Negroes as members, but when regulations are interposed the A.F. of L. rules provide that Negro workers may apply for charters directe from the A.F. of L.

"The second step in meeting the needs of Negro workers is vocational training. Workers who have no craft or special training must join the ranks of unskilled workers, who have lower wage rates and less continuous employment. Unions are the agencies through which workers can assure proper vocational courses through public schools.... The conference at Chicago in January will consider Negro problems from this practical and constructive approach. All phases of the lives of Negro workers are to be discussed; many of the speakers will be Negroes who have achieved distinction in their work.

"This conference is an opportunity to promote better understanding between all who work, and that cooperation will serve the best interests of all. No group or race can win permanent advantage by taking an unfair advantage, by exploitation or undercutting standards. Through union organization the Negro can raise his standards, and the A.F. of L. stands ready to help."

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

FOURTH ANNUAL BALL

Friday Evening, December 6th, 1929

ROCKLAND PALACE, 155th St. and 8th Ave.

Headquarters and Home of the Brotherhood:
239 WEST 136th STREET, NEW YORK

Foreword

THE Brotherhood makes its fourth annual entertainment bow to the public in a Costume Ball and Carnival. We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our patrons and friends for their cordial and loyal support and cooperation.

The Brotherhood is steadily making definite and constructive progress toward its goal. Since our last Ball, we have received charters of affiliation in the American Federation of Labor, and our delegates were duly seated in the Toronto Convention of the Federation. This is not only a signal victory for the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters; but a great achievement for the Negro race. For the first time in the history of our race, a national Negro Trade Union, the Brotherhood, holds charter and representation in the official labor movement of America, one of the most significant and powerful economic parliaments in the world.

Our position in the American Federation of Labor enables the Sleeping Car Porters not only to represent themselves but different groups of Negro workers in various industries in the Country.

Of course, ours has been a hard struggle and we still have a real fight ahead of us; but we knew that when we began. We know that nothing in this world worth while is ever secured without a fight—or struggle. This law of progress is that the fit will live and the unfit will die. It is apparent, too, that the fit are the organized, the educated, those who have the spirit to fight, stick and endure hardships, sacrifice and suffering.

There is no royal road to victory or progress for any great human cause or social principle. Mankind has steadily climbed upward throughout the centuries only because they doggedly fought and struggled without regard to cost, the loss of liberty and life, for freedom and justice.

The Brotherhood is a living monument and lesson to the race for its unflinching and relentless battle for the right to organize, a living wage, decent hours of work, and the right to be considered and treated as human beings.

When the Brotherhood wins, every Negro wins. If the Brotherhood should lose, every Negro would lose. Of course, we are as certain to win as the night follows the day. Our cause is right and just and righteousness and justice are certain to prevail, if we fight hard enough and long enough.

We wish also to express our fraternal appreciation to President William Green and Secretary Frank Morrison of the A. F. of L. and the various leaders of labor and the Democratic and Republican party friends, the Negro Press and Church, and our liberal friends for their constructive support in our struggle.

We shall march on to victory with our heads erect and souls uncurbed, undaunted and undismayed.

We are yours for an organized Black Worker,

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, President and General Organizer
ROY LANCASTER, General Secretary-Treasurer
A. L. TOTTEN, Second Vice President
S. E. GRAIN, Fourth Vice President

Get a copy of THE BLACK WORKER, official organ of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

Telephone, HARlem 1394

OTHELLO G. HOWELL

MORTICIAN

EVELYN COOPER HOWELL, Lady Attendant

NOTARY PUBLIC

111 WEST 132nd STREET

SERVICE THAT SATISFIES

Our Funeral Home is for the Convenience of the Public

Telephone, BRAdhurst 6913 C. A. Patterson, Prop.

EAGLE $ CLEANERS and DYERS

LADIES' and GENTS' TAILOR

295 West 147th Street New York City

COMPLIMENTS OF

The Brotherhood of Dining Car Employees

RHIENZI B. LEMUS, Grand Chairman

Telephone, AUDubon 2420

Pullman Porters' Athletic & Social Club

And Ladies' Auxiliary, Inc.

105 WEST 136th STREET

Office of Secretary: BRAdhurst 8922

We hope the fuel men never get control of the sunshine

JOHN E. NAIL HENRY C. PARKER

Established 1907

Nail & Parker, Inc.

Real Estate

Collection Department Over $1,000,000 Annually

145 WEST 135th STREET
NEW YORK CITY

Telehones: Bradhurst 0670-0671

Greetings to

The Pullman Porters

from

AMALGAMATED BANK

OF NEW YORK

11-15 UNION SQUARE—BROADWAY
(Corner 15th Street)

NEW YORK'S FIRST LABOR BANK

ASSETS
THIRTEEN MILLION DOLLARS

Telephone, Pennsylvania 4160-4161-4162-4163

BUCKLEY-NEWHALL CO.

BLUE RIBBON FURNITURE

147 West 125th Street

OUR POLICY

We own our own building and are centrally located, yet out of the extreme high rent district. Our expenses of doing business are less than that of our competitors. This coupled with the ability to pay cash for all purchases, enables us to sell at lower prices.

We would be glad to have our prices compared with those quoted by others who handle Standard Guaranteed Merchandise such as we offer. Open Monday and Saturday Evening until 10 o'clock.

Tel. Harlem 0002-0003

W. F. CUNNINGHAM

Successor to

JOHN F. CRONIN, Inc.

LUMBER and MOULDINGS

1776 PARK AVENUE At 123rd Street

Telephone, AUDubon 9239 Motto: "Efficiency"

HOWELL'S FUNERAL CHURCH, Inc.

2332 SEVENTH AVENUE, NEW YORK

HAROLD H. HEDGEMAN, Secy. Mgr. GEORGE E. WEST, Pres.

"Schaffers are Good People to Deal With"

Schaffer Furniture Company, Inc.

415 LENOX AVENUE, Cor. 131st Street

LIBERAL CREDIT Open Monday and Saturday Evenings until 10

We Can Sell You a Better Piano for Less Money on Easier Terms than any other piano company in New York

Direct from the

JANSSEN FACTORY

Telephone:
MOTT HAVEN
2207

Factory and Warerooms:

132nd STREET and BROWN PLACE
BRONX, N. Y.

Telephone, Edgecomb 2653 Books Now Open

ROCKLAND PALACE

(Formerly Manhattan Casino)

BALLROOM "DE LUXE"

155th STREET and EIGHTH AVENUE

NEW YORK CITY

HOTEL BROOKMONT

NEWLY DECORATED

Dignified Home-Like Quiet Reasonable

MICHIGAN BLVD. at 40th STREET

PHONES: BOULEVARD 5175-76-77-78

UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT—CONVENIENTLY REACHED BY ALL TRANSPORTATION

200 ROOMS

With Hot and Cold Water in Each Room Rates as Low as $4.00 per Week

OUR MOTTO: "POLITENESS AND COURTESY"

ALEX. BARR, Mgr. OCEY WILSON, Asst. Mgr.

Theirs is the Magic Touch

The MME. C. J. WALKER BEAUTY SHOPPES

110 West 136th Street—Brad. 0678

2580 Seventh Avenue—Brad. 3653

Women everywhere, leaders on the stage, in society, business and every walk of life tell us "Indeed there is a difference"

Marcels that are beautiful and lasting; Scientific Shampoos

Oil Hot Scalp Treatments

Call for Appointments

Telephone, Cathedral 2573

MONTAGUE E. MARKS

PIANOS :: RADIOS

MUSICAL MERCHANDISE

129 WEST 125th STREET NEW YORK

On 125th Street Over 25 Years

CLOTHIERS TO THE FAMILY

PAY AS CONVENIENT

WEST END CLOTHING CO.

208 WEST 125th STREET

Near Seventh Avenue—One Flight Up

Every now and then they postpone war a few days by holding a peace conference

Have you been in to see

Bentley's

Greater Store?

THREE BIG FLOORS OF MERCHANDISE

For Men, Women and Children

We Completely Outfit the Family with Wearing Apparel

YOU MAY ALSO CHARGE YOUR PURCHASE BY TAKING ADVANTAGE OF BENTLEY'S 20 WEEK PAYMENT PLAN

Bentley's

151 WEST 125th STREET Bet. Seventh Ave. and Lenox

"All a Home Needs" Cash or Credit

THE LOYAL FURNITURE HOUSE

QUALITY FURNITURE, LOWEST PRICE AND BEST TERMS

BRANCH STORE

2375 EIGHTH AVENUE

Near 128th Street—Telephone, Monument 2331

MAIN STORE

220 WEST 145th STREET

Between 7th and 8th Avenues—Telephone, Edgecomb 3637-3638

THE WOHLMUIH CO.

America's Largest Tailors

SUIT OR OVERCOAT $22.50 MADE TO MEASURE

NEW YORK STORES

57 WEST 125th STREET, near Lenox Avenue

477 LENOX AVENUE, Corner 134th Street

2146 THIRD AVENUE, near 117th Street

OVER 50 STORES

The evil that men do lives after them, the good is oft interred with their bones

Dance Order

PART I.

1.—Can't We Be Friends ..... Fox Trot
A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

2.—Love ..... Fox Trot
ROY LANCASTER

3.—Four Wheel Brakes ..... Fox Trot
A. L. TOTTEN

4.—Nea Politan ..... Waltz
S. E. GRAIN

5.—Stampede ..... Fox Trot

6.—My Fate is in Your Hands ..... Fox Trot

7.—Moanin' Low ..... Fox Trot

8.—Am I Blue ..... Fox Trot

INTERMISSION

To All Members of the Pullman Porters Union

UPON PRESENTATION OF YOUR UNION CARDS YOU WILL BE GIVEN A TEN PERCENT DISCOUNT ON ALL PURCHASES AND REPAIRS. . . . . .

A. EDELSTEIN, Inc.

JEWELERS

251 WEST 125th STREET

All Repair Work Done on Premises — Established 39 Years

Dance Order

PART II.

9.—Ain't Misbehaving ..... Fox Trot

10.—Singing in the Rain ..... Fox Trot

11.—Love Me ..... Waltz

12.—Great Dat ..... Fox Trot

13.—At the End of the Road ..... Fox Trot

14.—Louise ..... Fox Trot

15.—Lilac Time ..... Waltz

GOOD NIGHT AND REMEMBER

WHEELERS

(Formerly United)

COMPLETE OUTFITTERS OF WEARING APPAREL FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Special Terms to Pullman Employees

WHEELERS

133 WEST 125th STREET

New York City

Telephone, Bradhurst 6091 W. H. BROWN, Mgr.

Come in and look us over

VIRGINIA MEAT MARKET

ROBT. W. RANDALL, Prop.

HIGH-GRADE MEATS, SOUTHERN POULTRY, FRESH FISH AND COUNTRY SAUSAGE

2484 SEVENTH AVENUE Between 144th and 145th Streets

Telephone, Harlem 1948

WOLF THE CLOTHIER

N. E. CORNER MADISON AVENUE and 125th STREET

SMART CLOTHES

Each Garment a Masterpiece — Ask Your Friends About Us

GUS L. WOLF

Telephone, University 0977

ALL MAKES RECORDS — PORTABLES

MELLOW MUSIC SHOPS, Inc.

"EVERYTHING MUSICAL"

New and Used Instruments

205 WEST 125th STREET NEW YORK CITY

Telephone, Cathedral 8831

J. BLUM

TAILOR and CLOTHIER

OVERCOATS READY TO WEAR

135 WEST 125th STREET (Between 7th and Lenox Avenues)

DANIEL REEVES, Inc.

THE BETTER CHAIN STORE GROCERS

Over 700 Retail Branches

Your first sip of this cheery amber liquor introduces you to a new and deliciously different coffee flavor . . . Real BOGOTA. This zestful Coffee is straight BOGOTA bean and not blended as ordinary coffees are.

Sold exclusively at all

DANIEL REEVES, INC. STORES

One Pound can 45c

Telephone, Bradhurst 5360-5361

UPTON CONSTRUCTION CORP.

209 WEST 145th STREET

NEW YORK

EDWARD CAHN, Secretary

Telephone, Harlem 8931

Compliments of

SCHWARTZ & HARRISON

CUSTOM TAILORS

TO THE BETTER DRESSED MAN

2261 SEVENTH AVENUE at 133rd Street

Telephone, Bradhurst 0166

DUNCAN BROS., Inc.

FUNERAL HOME

2303 Seventh Avenue New York City

Telephone, Harlem 0519

Compliments of

Manhattan Furniture & Carpet Company

Incorporated

COMPLETE HOME FURNISHERS

Your Credit Is Good With Us

157 East 125th Street New York, N. Y.

MR. PULLMAN PORTER AND YOUR FRIENDS,
WE ARE HERE WITH YOU AGAIN.

BELL & DELANY, Inc.

"Around the Corner," 202 WEST 135th STREET, Near 7th Avenue

HABERDASHERY AND HATS — CHRISTMAS GIFTS GALORE

Why Go Down Town? We have what you want in

"YOUR OWN MEN'S SHOP"

Standard Merchandise and Standard Price

"Business that is a credit to the Negroes of New York City"

Compliments of

SILVER FURNITURE CO.

525 LENOX AVENUE, near 136th Street

NEW YORK

WISHING YOU ALL A PLEASANT EVENING

Telephone, Audubon 3277

JOE. FROHLICH

POPULAR PRICE BUTCHER

MEATS, POULTRY AND PROVISIONS

2655 EIGHTH AVENUE, Near 142nd Street

Telephone, Cathedral 10264

GENERAL STATIONERY CO.

PRINTING and ENGRAVING

Law Blanks, Office Supplies, Greeting Cards and Mottoes, Personal Christmas Greeting Cards, Dennison's Goods, Decorations and Favors, Toys and Novelties, Artist Materials

2107 SEVENTH AVENUE NEW YORK CITY

Telephone, Monument 5133 Established 1907

S. M. FELNER

CUSTOM TAILOR

Snappy Styles

2102 SEVENTH AVENUE

Near 125th Street NEW YORK

Telephone, Melrose 0736-0978

Crosstown Brass Rail
RESTAURANT

First Class Meals at Reasonable Prices

Open Day and Night

270 East 161st Street

Telephone, Bradhurst 1131

HOTEL DUMAS
F. C. FANE, Prop.

American and European Plan

205 West 135th Street

Telephone Monument 7019

$1.00 Cleaners Suits Pressed 35c

J. B. FINLEY
Cleaner and Dyer

Ladies' and Gents' Tailoring

318 West 127th Street

Compliments of

LENOX DEPT. STORE
Incorporated
537 Lenox Avenue

(N. W. Corner 137th Street)

Telephone, Audubon 9707

RELIGIOUS ARTICLE SHOP

Candles, Incenses, Rosaries, Bibles, Holy Pictures, Etc.

G. A. LUCAS, Prop.

299 West 137th Street

SHOE REPAIRING HAT CLEANING

SCIENTIFIC SHOE REPAIRING

135 West 135th Street

Telephone, Bradhurst 6152

Fire Insurance a Specialty

D. EDWARD SMITH
REAL ESTATE

INSURANCE and MORTGAGES

131 West 135th Street

Telephone, Edgecomb 8371

LAZAR MUSIC SHOPPE
Incorporated

"STORE OF SATISFIED CUSTOMERS"

VICTROLAS -- RADIOS -- PIANOS

312 West 145th Street

CLUNIE'S LUNCH

Southern Home Cooking

Bags Checked

836 Morris Avenue

Compliments of

MADAM EXEL

CHIC MILLINERY

The Little Shop on the Hill

324 West 145th Street

FOR PERFECT EYEGLASSES

Consult

DR. D. KAPLAN

OPTOMETRIST

For 20 Years at

531 Lenox Avenue

Telephone, Bradhurst 6459

LEARN TO DANCE

Stage and Social Dances

Prof. Darling Mack's Studios

104 West 136th Street

Telephone, Harlem 6700

BLUE RIDGE COAL CORPORATION

123rd STREET and EAST RIVER

Deliveries made to all parts of Manhattan and Bronx

Telephone connecting all departments

Telephone, Bradhurst 1359

RICHARDS-WARD PHOTO STUDIO

202 WEST 135th STREET (Near 7th Ave.)
NEW YORK CITY

PHOTOGRAPHS MADE AT OUR STUDIOS ARE PICTURES OF HIGH ART QUALITY

Bring this program with you and get 10 percent off our Xmas Specials

Telephone Monument 9781

JACKSON DOLLAR CLEANERS

"We Kleen Klose Kleen"

Cleaning $1.00 — Pressing 25c

2196 Seventh Avenue

ALBERT T. SAUNDERS

FUNERAL HOME

107 West 136th Street

Complete Funerals within the means of all

Always Open

Lady Attendant

HOME COOKING

ESTIMATES FOR BANQUETS

JOHNNIE JACKSON'S LUNCH

NEVER CLOSED

2285 Seventh Avenue

Compliments of

A. GORDON

Seventh Avenue at 136th Street

Telephone Harlem 3645

CHARLES MOSS

Diamonds, Watches, Jewelry

Clocks, Cut Glass and Silverware

40 West 125th Street

Telephone, Audubon 5350

WM. A. STUMPH

RADIOTRICIAN

Radio Sets Built, Wired and Repaired

Battery operated sets changed to electric

123 West 142nd Street

Telephone, Audubon 6261

D. ENGELSON

Hardware and Housefurnishings

Locksmithing in all its Branches

2662 Eighth Avenue

F. A. SAWYER

Merchant Tailor

Ladies' and Gentlemen's Suits Made to Order

200 West 145th Street

Perhaps also it would be desirable to see others as we see ourselves

Telephone, Monument 7625

BELMORE TERRACE HAND LAUNDRY

332 St. Nicholas Avenue
Between 126th and 127th Sts.

New York City

We Barber Hair With Special Care

ANTISEPTIC BARBER SHOP

All Night Service

Bobbing Ladies' Hair Our Specialty

101 West 135th Street

QUICK SERVICE NEVER CLOSED

JOHNNIE JACKSON'S LUNCH

2285 Seventh Avenue
(Bet. 134th and 135th Sts.)

Wholesome Food Home Cooking

IDEAL SHOE SHOPS

SMART SHOES FOR MEN

687 Eighth Avenue

101 West 125th Street

Telephone, Bradhurst 0446

Dr. MAURICE HOENIG
Optometrist and Optician

2313 Seventh Avenue
Between 135th and 136th Sts.

Open Until 10 P. M.

Telephone, Monument 8814

Poro Sub Station and Beauty Shoppe

BEAUTY CULTURE TAUGHT DIPLOMAS AWARDED

2026 Seventh Avenue

MRS. MINNIE DEHAVEN HURLEY
Manager

Compliments of

BEN'S DANBURY HATS
NEW YORK

521 LENOX AVENUE
N. W. Corner 136th Street
Telephone Audubon 4790

1416 FIFTH AVENUE
S. W. Corner 116th Street
Telephone University 0103

Telephone, Bradhurst 1440

E. M. AMOS
Cleaners and Dyers

All Kinds of Alterations

200 West 138th Street

McAuliffe & Booth

Incorporated

PRINTING
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION

166 - 172 East 124th Street

Telephone, HARlem 3136 - 3137 - 3138

THE MOST WORTHY BENEFIT OF ALL

THE NEW YORK

Amsterdam News

CHRISTMAS FUND BENEFIT, DANCE and ALL STAR SHOW

FOR BASKETS FOR THE POOR

ROCKLAND PALACE

155th STREET and EIGHTH AVENUE

Friday Night, December 18th, 1929

Boxes and Loges Can Be Reserved Now at the Office of the Amsterdam News

---

Telephone, Delaware 8425 NOTARY PUBLIC

"HOME FOR FUNERALS"

JOHN E. WHITE

REPRODUCO ELECTRICAL PIPE ORGAN

767 Ocean Avenue Jersey City, N. J.

JOHN C. SMITH'S

MODERN DANCE ORCHESTRA

Office:

2297 Seventh Avenue (Up Stairs) New York City

Tel. Audubon 3796 Ed. H. Wilson, Prop.

HOTEL OLGA

A SELECT TRANSIENT AND FAMILY HOTEL

695 LENOX AVE. at 145th St.

F. A. SAWYER

MERCHANT TAILOR

Ladies' and Gents' Suits Made to Order

200 West 145th Street New York

Compliments of

DR. C. E. BOMAR

227 MAIN STREET

ORANGE, N. J.

Telephone, Bradhurst 3971

GEO. W. McDERMON

SIGNS

"OF THE BETTER KIND"

103 West 139th St. New York

TO THE THOUSANDS—— of Pullman Porters and Maids — who live in New York and those who come to New York and our many friends. . . .

PLEASE PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

For that "Ritzy look" wear

Westin's New Fall and Winter Togs

Suits for the natty and conservative dresser in all the leading shades and models. Some with Tatersall and reversible vests also pleated trousers. Overcoats with the new broad shoulders and belted backs . . .

Hand tailored 100 percent all wool. Alterations free. Models for Slims, Stouts and Shorts. Open evenings.

Also featuring DE LUXE CLOTHES fashioned by master craftsmen from the finest fabrics as high as $32.50

WESTIN CLOTHES

HAND-TAILORED CLOTHES OF DISTINCTION

127 WEST 125th STREET

Between Lenox and Seventh Avenues, New York

McAuliffe & Booth, Inc., 166 - 172 East 124th Street, New York

MADE IN NEW YORK — THE STYLE CENTER OF AMERICA

Everybody knows that
HARLEM'S BETTER
DRESSERS — wear

HOWARD
CLOTHES

Men who want to appear well dressed at all times without paying too much for that privilege—appreciate HOWARD'S ability to offer real smart styles, good fabrics and excellent tailoring at one low price. . . . .

SUITS . . . . . .
OVERCOATS . . . .
TUXEDOS . . . . .

From the Howard factory
Direct to you

No Charge
for Alterations

167
E. 125th
Street
Near
3rd Ave.

822
Broadway
Cor.
12th St.

HOWARD
CLOTHES

2821
Third Ave.
Near 148th St.

75
Flatbush
Ave.
Brooklyn,
N. Y.

101 WEST 125th ST. Corner Lenox Ave.

RANDOLPH BEFORE PRES[illegible]

Guardian

[illegible] WHITE HOUSE AUDIENCE [illegible]ETS COOLIDGE TO SAY HE WANTS PORTERS WELL PAID PRESIDENT SAYS PUBLIC CANNOT GET ALONG WITHOUT PULLMAN PORTERS—RANDOLPH GIVES ADVANCE NOTICE FOR EMERGENCY BOARD

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12, 1928—[illegible] conference with President Coo[illegible], Tuesday afternoon, January [illegible] in the White House, a delegation, composed of A. Philip Randolph, General Organizer of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, Mrs. Mary Church Terrall, Whitfield McKinley, W. H. DesVerney, Assistant General Organizer, Roy Lancaster, Secretary-Treasurer and Peter Anthony, Washington Division Organizer, of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, they were told by the President that "the public cannot get along without the Pullman porter" and that the public and himself wish that the porter be well paid for his labor, and expressed the desire and hope that the railway management would grant the porters fair consideration.

Randolph Tells President Will Ask For Emergency Board

A. P. Randolph, as spokesman, said to the President: Porters, which represents the large majority of porters and maids in the Pullman service, we wish to express our pleasure with the opportunity of meeting you and acquainting you with our movement, its problems and aims.

"In 1925, in New York, the movement to organize the Pullman portars began. We are seeking a living [illegible] according to American standards of health and decency, better working conditions, decent hours of work and the abolition of the tipping system which requires Pullman porters to rely upon charity from the public in order to support their families.

"On July 11th, 1927, the Brotherhood presented its case to the United States Mediation Board in Chicago. Mr. Edwin P. Morrow, mediator, recommended and urged that the Pullman Company arbitrate the dispute with our organization, according to the provisions of the Railway Labor Act which was signed by you. The Company flatly refused, thereby violating the intent and purposes of the Railway Labor Act which was enacted for the purpose of maintaining industrial peace in the transportation industry.

RANDOLPH BEFORE COOLIDGE

Guardian

(Continued from Page 1)

"We have now raised our case before the Interstate Commerce Commission and a hearing will be held thereon January 21st. In the event we do not receive the desired and proper relief from this action, we shall call upon you to establish an emergency board upon the recommendation of the United States Mediation Board that an emergency exists in the Pullman service, so that an inquiry may be made into the whole dispute with a view to amicably and constructively settling same.

Praises Brotherhood to President

May I say that the Brotherhood represents the principles and ideas of honesty, responsibility, industry and sobriety and courtesy on the part of the porters. We feel that they represent some of the most loyal employees of the Pullman Company and the nation. We wish to say that this movement has received the support of practically all of the outstanding [illegible]tional organizations among Col[illegible]d people and it represents the most [illegible]nsible porters and maids in the [illegible]. We wish for you to know [illegible]acts since you may be called [illegible] act in our case should an [illegible]y arise.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 25, 1929.

[illegible] Brotherhood [illegible] of the [illegible] porters and maids to secure a [illegible] of wages and better working conditions and to [illegible] relations with [illegible] means of [illegible] which has proved to be an indescribably hard task. Out of their meager wages, the rapid passing of the tipping practice by passengers, and economic pressure by the company to destroy their own organization, these men and women are making great sacrifices for their economic advancement.

It cannot be said that the public is not in sympathy. The press has declared itself on the side of the porters. The church has given some support. Our business and professional men and women have listened approvingly to the message of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. It is the first movement sponsored by Negroes that has attracted such nation-wide interest.

Despite these facts, the Pullman Company still insists that its porters and maids shall have no labor organization of their own; that they must accept the employee representation plan with rules drafted by and for the company and against the interests of its employees; that they must remain satisfied with wages based on the rate of [illegible] for 400 hours [illegible] per month [illegible] living [illegible] per [illegible] is an occupational expense of approximately $33.80 per month; that they cannot be free American citizens and at the same time be porters and maids.

The question is, what are the representative [illegible] of America going to do [illegible] has reference [illegible] the Chamber of Co[illegible] Association [illegible] Board and other [illegible] fraternal organi[illegible] when riding [illegible] confronted with excessive berth [illegible] plus a 50 per cent surcharge [illegible]. Are they going to stand by and permit the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters to suffer defeat when the principles involved also affect the economic welfare of the [illegible]

[illegible] Assistant [illegible] Organizer.

20[illegible] Lincoln [illegible]

SHORT STRIKES AT RANDOLPH AGAIN

725 Lyon Street,
New Orleans, La.,
June 24th, 1929.

Mr. Crutchfield,
Editor, Louisiana Weekly,
537 S. Rampart St.,
New Orleans, La.

Dear Sir:

On May 13th, I wrote you a letter explaining the misguided efforts of Mr. A. Philip Randolph's interference in Pullman affairs, and the resultant damages that his activities have had, especially in the displacement of colored porters by other races.

Mr. Randolph has answered June 15th, through the Louisiana Weekly, but he has not acted fairly towards me, nor has he attempted to deny the truth of what I said, except in general terms, unsupported by facts. Instead of showing facts, as to where the Pullman Company is taking advantage of our labor, he has trained his ammunition on me because I disagree with him and because I attempt to show some very pertinent facts as pertains to our economic welfare.

Mr. Randolph calls me everything except a gentleman, but he does admit that since he has been intermeddling with Pullman porters' affairs, that the colored porter has been displaced by other races to the extent of a great many men. Of course, this means that the colored worker has lost, due to this displacement, many thousands of dollars per anum.

Mr. Randolph is NOT a porter, nor has he even been one, but from his interest in his affairs, he is either being misguided by a few indiscrete and illinformed ex-porters, or he is seeking notoriety and self-aggrandizement at the expense of men whom he will not sympathize with in real economical distress.

Now here are some things that may enlighten the public as to a Pullman porter's vocation:

The Pullman Company has rules for us which we have equal representation in making; we have accepted a salary ranging from a minimum of $77.00 to maximum of $105.-00 per month, based on the comparative wages paid porters in other industries; we have rules preventing our discharge without just cause; there are appeal boards in case one feels that he has not had a fair hearing. These boards are composed of both employe representatives and Company representatives, and our recommendations are given as much weight as the Company's representatives. In fact, ours is an equitable court. Those are some of the principal features governing Pullman porters, and there are others equally as beneficial. Do such conditions prevail with any other group of porters in America?

We are not professional men, nor are we classed as skilled laborers, but we are porters, and why should we be foolish enough to attempt to forge our industrial rating in the realm of which we do not belong? As it stands, we lead all porters in the income that we receive. U. S. Civil Service employes are not many steps ahead of us in the final analysis as to income and working conditions.

Our salary is above the average, for porters in general, and our gratuity included, put us far above the plane of want. It is no disgrace to accept a tip, especially when in many parts of the country, men are paying the employer to have such privileges.

Mr. Randolph says that we have to play Uncle Toms to get tips, but he is sadly mistaken. The more intelligent a Pullman porter is, the greater does the traveling public remunerate him.

Our employment cannot be so debase, when we can boast that we have lawyers, doctors, professors and college graduates employed in this service. We must give such men credit for having sense enough to choose a fair vocation in life.

There is nothing wrong with our conditions, but as porters, we are doing well, and believe Mr. Randolph will do a great work when he discontinues his suicidal efforts to make the Pullman Company believe that its great business is a direct result of the sweat of the Negroes' brow, and without us their business cannot be properly discharged, and that the public will censure it for our absence.

Our salary, as porters, is above the normal salary paid porters in other industries, but our income finally is enough to place us in the class of the normal American. If anyone can find a fault with this, let him seek employment elsewhere, and not be a discordant note among us. As porters already, we are exceptional, so can we logically expect to hire ourselves, that we are in reality professional, or skilled in the higher arts?

Mr. Randolph calls me "The Pullman Company's Spokesman", but I am speaking from a standpoint of industrial logic, and from the viewpoint of the welfare of the Negro worker in America. I am not selfish, nor am I being paid to differ on a question that affects twelve thousand Pullman porters.

There is a time and place for all things; there is a time for unions when the employer is taking advantage of him, and paying him lower than competitive labors of like kind; there is a place for a union when it is in such a position to paralize industry with an effective strike. The Pullman porter lacks both cause and effect to have sufficient reason to be inimical to their employer.

As an example of what Mr. Randolph calls effective union benefits, he cites the longshoremen of New Orleans, as being a well-organized body who is receiving satisfactory results in union organization. The truth is, that the longshoremen of New Orleans have no voice in the working condition of the river front, but are themselves employed alongside a scab labor with no contract of salary or working conditions. They lost their strike because they lacked both cause and effect, so essential to all unionized bodies.

Mr. Randolph thinks that he has achieved a great moral victory by begging admittance to labor leagues and cliques and being accepted. He was accepted, ony to open the doors of the Pullman Company and let the Negro out, and the other races in. These labor leagues and cliques do not discriminate against membership, when other races go into fields exclusively held by the colored man, but it is a different tale when the Negro attempts to join fields predominated by other races. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People often exposes the attitude of these cliques and leagues against the colored worker. Informed people know this to be true.

In my opinion, unjust criticism heaped upon the Pullman Company is doing the porter a great injury, especially since he is being rapidly replaced, whereas in the past, the colored man was exclusively employed. The many who replaced us are receiving the same compensation and working conditions that we receive, and are satisfied, and proud of their employer.

Who can prevent the Pullman Company from using the "open shop" policy? Who can prevent its hiring other than colored? We ought to appreciate that we have monopolized this field of endeavor for so many years.

If, in spite of what I have said, there are many who feel justified to pursue antagonistical methods in search of better conditions for porters, let them do so, but don't complain when the final result, i. e. other races have control of Pullman porters' jobs.

I am satisfied, and express myself publicly; the other porters also feel as I do, but do not express themselves publicly in order to avoid the abuse that Randolph's type may heap upon them as he has done me. But personally, Randolph cannot lead me into a snare which in all logic is very plain. Randolph's interference in Pullman porters' affairs is dangerous to industrial Colored America.

This is 1929, not 1932—Now is the time to fight Randolph, not in 1932, when we will have lost our places as Pullman porters.

Yours truly,

U. SHORT,
Pullman porter.

Parham Werlein, chairman of the Community Chest 1930 campaign, has made an early start in selecting leaders for the November drive. Fred Perkins and Harry Latter will head the rival division teams, and E. N. Kearny, the big givers committee.

Quality Frozen Deserts for All Occasions
M. D. DAVIS, Caterer
Phones JAckson 2186, 1161
Special prices to schools, churches, clubs and entertainments of all kinds

RE-OPENING
of
PERRY'S DRUG STORE
1102 LAFAYETTE STREET
Around Corner from Rampart St. MAin 8847
PRESCRIPTIONS CAREFULLY COMPOUNDED

Pullman Porters Plan Strike

MAY FIGHT NEW DECISION BY WALKOUT

Commissioners Fail to O. K. Plea

Kansas City, Mo., March 16.—The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is making immediate preparations to declare a strike on all Pullman cars, Ashley L. Totten, assistant general organizer of the brotherhood, has announced here.

The purpose of the strike, Totten said, would be to create an emergency which would invoke the services of the emergency board, created under the federal railway labor act, in settling a wage dispute with the Pullman company.

"When the order is passed to strike, it will be quite easy to interrupt interstate commerce to secure intervention by the emergency board," he explained.

Totten declared the Pullman company had refused to arbitrate when urged to do so by the United States mediation board. A decision of the emergency board would be final, he said.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—The interstate commerce commission last Friday dismissed for want of jurisdiction the complaint of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters against the Pullman company. The porters' union sought to have the commission order the Pullman company to cease and desist from permitting Pullman porters to receive tips from passengers.

The commission found that "the real objectives sought are increased wages for the porters and maids" in the employ of the Pullman company. It held that it has "no power to regulate wages, and consequently no authority to inquire into the justness of the complainants' demands, however meritorious they might prove to be."

Commissioner Clyde B. Aitchison dissented. He said that the complaint seems to state facts which, if established, may constitute violations of law, "which we should investigate further than can be done by mere inspection of the complaint and the argument thereon." Commissioners Joseph B. Eastman and Ernest I. Lewis joined him in his dissenting opinion.

Text of Decision

A part of the text of the decision by Commissioner Ezra Brainerd is as follows:

"Camplainant, an association of some 7,000 persons of the Negro race employed as porters and maids by defendant in its business of interstate transportation of passengers in Pullman service, alleges by complaint filed September 7, 1927, that certain practices of the defendant hereinafter set forth are in violation of the interstate commerce act. We are askad to order the defendant to cease and desist from these alleged unlawful practices.

"The defendant filed a motion to dismiss the complaint on the ground that the allegations set forth did not state a cause of action over which we have jurisdiction and that we are without authority to grant the relief prayed for in the complaint or any relief. We assigned the motion for oral argument before us, which has been had.

"A motion to dismiss a complaint for the foregoing reasons is not specifically recognized in our rules of practice. Such motions when filed are generally overruled, but our practice permits amendment of the pleading in all cases where we are satisfied that the complainant has within his knowledge facts which, if well pleaded, would constitute a cause of action within our jurisdiction and entitle the complainant to a hearing and decision at our hands.

"Counsel for both parties were permitted at the argument to amplify their written pleadings by stating certain alleged facts which they claimed could be proved by them if an opportunity for a hearing were afforded. For the purpose of this report we will treat the written pleadings as amended to contain such additional allegations of fact.

"[illegible] admits the truth of all facts well pleaded, and we therefore turn to consider what practices are assailed.

"It is stated that the regular monthly wage paid by the defendant to the majority of its porters is $72.50; that this wage is fixed after taking into consideration the amount which defendant estimates the porter will receive in tips, and that said sum of $72.50 is not more than one-half to two-third[illegible]s of the wage necessary to enable the said porters to continue in the defendant's service; that defendant is said to authorize the porters to collect the balance of such necessary wage from its patrons in the form of tips; that the average amount received monthly in tips by each porter is approximately $56, and that the aggregate yearly receipts by all porters is approximately $7,000,000.

Pullman Porters Plan Strike in Wage Fight

(Continued from Page 1)

"The complainant concludes that the foregoing practices violate Section 1 of the act because the tips plus the published fares result in charges that are unjust and unreasonable.

"We understand that it is not contended that the tips so given and received by said porters become the defendant's property or that they are turned over or otherwise accounted for to it. Pullman passengers are under no legal obligation to pay more than the scheduled charges. We are referred to no law which prohibits tipping of Pullman porters.

"Moreover, a consideration of the complaint in all of its aspects leads only to the conclusion that the real objectives sought are increased wages for the porters and maids in the defendant's employ. We have no power to regulate wages, and consequently no authority to inquire into the justness of the complainants' demands, however meritorious they might prove to be.

"The motion to dismiss will be sustained and the complaint dismissed for want of jurisdiction."

PORTERS TAKE STRIKE VOTE

PORTERS TO TAKE STRIKE VOTE

"Every Means To Secure Justice from Pullman Co., Exhausted," say local agents.

Announcement was made today from the local headquarters of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, that the organization will proceed immediately with its program of creating an emergency in the transportation system of the country by spreading before its membership a strike vote, thereby warranting the appointment of an Emergency Arbitration Board by the President of the United States.

Under the terms of the new Railway Labor Act—The Watson-Parker Law, this is the only alternative left the porters and maids in their efforts to have their grievances with the Pullman Company amicably settled, according to Frank R. Crosswaith, Special Organizer of the union and in charge of the Boston Division. In a signed statement Crosswaith said: "We have exhausted every honorable and peaceful means at our disposal to secure justice for our members from the Pullman Company. We first took our case to the United States Mediation Board, which, after a most thorough investigation recognized our organization as the legitimate representative of the porters and maids, and recommended arbitration proceedings; we accepted the recomendation while the Company brazenly refused it; thereby openly defying the Board and flagrantly violating the spirit and intent of the very law which, in co-operation with other railroad executives it had help to create. We next petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission asking for an investigation of the finances of the Company as they relate to wages of porters and maids, to tipping, and to the travelling public. On March 9th., the I. C. C. handed down a decision disclaiming power of jurisdiction over the questions raised by us; Commissioners Aitchison, Eastman and Lewis dissented from the views of their colleagues.

"Under these circumstances there is nothing left for us to do but proceed to register the desires of our membership on the question of a strike. The Brotherhood has a membership today of over 8,000. In every district where the Pullman Company has a Superintendent we have an Organizer and the loyalty of the overwhelming majority of the workers. We are also fortunate in enjoying the sympathy and support of the traveling public who see in the unreasonable and defiant attitude of the Company the cruel hand of prejudice. The fair-minded citizens of both races know that all other workers on the railroads are organized but Pullman porters and maids [illegible]

DECISION INSPIRES ACTION

Interstate Commerce Commission Turns Down Plea On Grounds of "No Jurisdiction."

BULLETIN!

(Special to The Courier)

CHICAGO, Mar. 15.—Pullman porters, in their fight to abolish tipping in favor of higher wages, will take a strike vote at once, G. P. Webster, Chicago District Organizer, said.

In a decision the Interstate Commerce Commission dismissed the plea of the porters for an order requiring the Pullman Company to forbid tipping. Webster said the porters would create an emergency by voting a strike and then it would be necessary for an arbitration board to take up their claims.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 15.—The Interstate Commerce Commission last Friday dismissed for want of jurisdiction the complaint of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters against the Pullman Company. A strike is threatened.

The porters' union sought to have the commission to order the Pullman Company to cease and desist from permitting Pullman porters to receive tips from passengers.

The commission found that "the real objectives sought are increased wages for the porters and maids" in the employ of the Pullman Company.

Los Angeles Evening Express.
Friday, July 13th.

TELLING THE WORLD

BY NEAL O'HARA

THEY'RE IN THE UNION NOW

THE next big union to be formed is the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. Heretofore the boys in dark blue got $77 a month and tips. They are now demanding $150 monthly from the Pullman Company and a union of their own. But it will cost you a quarter to get waked up at the wrong time.

When the Pullman porters are unionized—

Scene: The Pullman car Upsala or the Thanatopsis, if you prefer it. On the Twentieth Century Limited, New to Chicago.

Time: 6:19 p. m. daylight saving.

✣ ✣ ✣

Passenger—Oh, George!

(No answer.)

Passenger—Oh, George!

(No answer.)

Passenger—OH, GEORGE! . . . Well, how about a little attention?

NEAL O'HARA

Porter — We ain't allowed to called George any more. You has to call us Porter under union rules.

Passenger—And what do they call you under Confederate rules?

Porter—That's something I don't know nothin' about, suh.

✣ ✣ ✣

Passenger—Well, Porter, I've got a cinder in my eye. Would you mind lifting the lid and seeing if you can see it?

Porter—Sorry, mister, but that ain't my job no more. Any looking in the eyes for cinders belongs to the observation car porter. His office hours is from 1 to 3 and 7 to 8 p. m.

Passenger — How about getting me a bottle of ginger ale, then?

Porter—They ain't no ginger ale on the train, suh. They's been a question whether serving ginger ale comes under the club car or sleeping car porters' jurisdiction, and until they thresh it out at the A. F. of L. convention next October we just naturally ain't serving no ginger ale.

Passenger—Is there anything the union allows you to do now?

Porter — Oh, yes, sir! We's allowed to shine sixty pairs of shoes to an empty can of polish, the same as we always did.

Passenger—And I suppose you still expect a quarter for passing a whiskbroom over a passenger's clothes?

Porter—Yes, suh—a quarter or 50 cents. The union figures we's entitled to as much pay for a few strokes of the brush as Michelangelo, Rembrandt, or the Sign Painters' Union.

✣ ✣ ✣

Porter—And now, mister, I'll ask you to get out of your seat so I can make up your berth.

Passenger—But I don't want to go to bed yet—it's much too early.

Porter—Mister, you can sit on that seat all night if you wants to—but we don't make up no berths after 7 p. m.

Passenger—Oh, all right, then! But if I've got to go to bed now, be sure and call me at 6:30 in the morning.

Porter—If you want to get up at 6:30, you'll have to be called at either 6 or 7 a. m. We're only allowed to call passengers on the hour from now on.

Passenger—Good Lord! Then call me at 7 a. m. I want to get off at the Englewood Station.

Porter—We stops at Englewood all right, suh, but under the rules you'll have to carry out your own baggage.

Passenger—What's the big idea in that?

Porter—you see, suh, under the new union rules, we is only allowed to take off baggage at the Union Station.

(Copyright, 1929)

JUNE 24, 1929

A. F. OF L. TO FIGHT FOR TRAIN PORTERS

President Green to Initiate Nation-Wide Drive

HIGHER PAY IS DEMANDED

Mass Meeting Is Slated Here Next Sunday Afternoon

By John J. Leary Jr.

William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, will initiate a Nation-wide drive for the organization of Pullman porters with a mass meeting in the Abyssinia Baptist Church, No. 132 West 138th Street, next Sunday afternoon.

The meeting, over which the Rev. A. Powell Clayton, pastor of the church, will preside, will be the first of a series in the interests of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters to be addressed by Mr. Green in Chicago, Washington and other key points, including one of more important Southern cities yet to be agreed upon.

The drive is preliminary to pressing the demands of the porters for a minimum wage of $150 a month of 240 hours, equivalent to thirty eight-hour days. The present scale of the porters is $77.50 a month for 11,000 train miles, or approximately 400 hours of train service, with no allowance for overtime or waiting time. Out of this $77.50 a month the porter has an occupational expense of $33 a month.

Conference Maps Battle

The program for carrying the battle of the porters through to a finish was arranged at a conference here last week of Mr. Green with A. Phillip Randolph, General Organizer of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. It is in line with a decision of the May meeting of the Executive Council of the federation to extend every assistance to the porters in their fight for recognition and the right to be represented in negotiations with the Pullman Company and the United States Railroad Labor Board by agents of their own choosing.

The company, which operates through an organization dominated by it, has refused to deal with the brotherhood, though it does deal with other organizations of its employees that are unions in fact as well as in name.

Since February last, when, as exclusively announced in The World, the Executive Council meeting in Miami voted to grant local charters to the porters, local unions directly affiliated with the federation have been set up in New York, Boston, Washington, Jacksonville, Atlanta, New Orleans, Fort Worth, Los Angeles, Oakland, Seattle, Portland, Ore., St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Cincinnati. Plans under way call for the setting up of at least five additional locals at key points.

Representatives of these locals will, according to the present program, meet in Chicago Sept. 15 and arrange for formal application to the federation for an international charter. By this time, and with the assistance of Mr. Green, it is expected that 10,000 of the 12,000 porters in the Pullman service will have been enrolled in the organization, which now has some 8,000 porters and maids on its rolls.

Will Present Demands

Following this convention steps will be taken, with the co-operation of Mr. Green, to secure a conference with the Pullman officials and consideration of the demands of the men.

"Now the company has given the men a $5 monthly increase," Mr. Randolph said yesterday, "the second since we began the work of organizing. The increase, instead of mollifying the men as it was expected to, has only served to make them more insistent upon decent wages and freedom from having to depend upon tips, always a doubtful quantity and un-American, for their living."

An interesting phase of the contest of the porters with the Pullman Company is a report from Chicago that the company proposes to put into effect "yellow dog" contracts, by the terms of which the individual porters will be required to bind themselves for a period of ten years not to join any organization not approved by the [illegible]

EVENING WORLD, MONDAY, JUNE 24, 192[illegible]

DRIVE LAUNCHED TO FORM UNION OF TRAIN PORTERS

A. F. of L. Takes Up Cause of Pullman Servants for Higher Wage

Sleeping car porters announced today a campaign to organize an international union, the climax of which will be a unification convention of local unions Sept. 15 in Chicago. The first of a series of addresses to local unions of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters will be made here next Sunday in the Abyssinia Church, No. 132 West 138th Street, by William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor.

The drive is to unionize completely railroad porters and maids and force recognition of their organization by the Pullman Company. A. Philip Randolph, organizer, said about 8,000 of the 12,000 porters are now enrolled, and it is hoped to have all groups in an international organization by fall. Last year the porters called a strike but postponed it as the suggestion of Mr. Green.

The drive is preliminary to pressing the demands of the porters for a minimum wage of $150 a month of 240 hours, equivalent to thirty eight-hour days. The present scale of the porters is $77.50 a month for 11,000 train miles, or approximately 400 hours of train service, with no allowance for overtime or waiting time. Out of this $77.50 a month the porter has an occupational expense of $33 a month.

The program for carrying the battle of the porters through to a finish was arranged at a conference here last week of Mr. Green with Organizer Randolph.

The company, which operates through an organization dominated by it, has refused to deal with the brotherhood, though it does deal with other organizations of its employees that are unions in fact as well as in name.

Since February last, when the Executive Council meeting in Miami voted to grant local charters to the porters, local unions directly affiliated with the federation have been set up in New York, Boston, Washington, Jacksonville, Atlanta, New Orleans, Fort Worth, Los Angeles, Oakland, Seattle, Portland, Ore., St. Paul, Minneapolis, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Cincinnati. Plans under way call for the setting up of at least five additional locals at key points.

ganization, which now has some 8,000 porters and maids on its rolls.

Will Present Demands

Following this convention steps will be taken, with the co-operation of Mr. Green, to secure a conference with the Pullman officials and consideration of the demands of the men.

"Now the company has given the men a $5 monthly increase," Mr. Randolph said yesterday, "the second since we began the work of organizing. The increase, instead of mollifying the men as it was expected to, has only served to make them more insistent upon decent wages and freedom from having to depend upon tips, always a doubtful quantity and un-American, for their living."

An interesting phase of the contest of the porters with the Pullman Company is a report from Chicago that the company proposes to put into effect "yellow dog" contracts, by the terms of which the individual porters will be required to bind themselves for a period of ten years not to join any organization not approved by the company.

1929

PORTERS TO TAKE STRIKE VOTE

"Every Means to Secure Justice from Pullman Co. Exhausted," say local agents.

Announcement was made today from the local headquarters of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, that the organization will proceed immediately with its program of creating an emergency in the transportation system of the country by spreading before its membership a strike vote, thereby warranting the appointment of an Emergency Arbitration Board by the President of the United States.

Under the terms of the new Railway Labor Act—The Watson-Parker Law, this is the only alternative left the porters and maids in their efforts to have their grievances with the Pullman Company amicably settled, according to Frank R. Crosswaith, Special Organizer of the union and in charge of the Boston Division. In a signed statement Crosswaith said: "We have exhausted every honorable and peaceful means at our disposal to secure justice for our members from the Pullman Company. We first took our case to the United States Mediation Board, which, after a most thorough investigation recognized our organization as the legitimate representative of the porters and maids, and recommended arbitration proceedings; we accepted the recomendation while the Company brazenly refused it; thereby openly defying the Board and flagrantly violating the spirit and intent of the very law which, in co-operation with other railroad executives it had help to create. We next petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission asking for an investigation of the finances of the Company as they relate to wages of porters and maids, to tipping, and to the travelling public. On March 9th., the I. C. C. handed down a decision disclaiming power of jurisdiction over the questions raised by us; Commissioners Aitchison, Eastman and Lewis dissented from the views of their colleagues.

"Under these circumstances there is nothing left for us to do but proceed to register the desires of our membership on the question of a strike. The Brotherhood has a membership today of over 8,000. In every district where the Pullman Company has a Superintendent we have an Organizer and the loyalty of the overwhelming majority of the workers. We are also fortunate in enjoying the sympathy and support of the traveling public who see in the unreasonable and defiant attitude of the Company the cruel hand of prejudice. The fair-minded citizens of both races know that all other workers on the railroads are organized but Pullman porters and maids; and that not more than a fortnight or so ago Pullman conductors were granted a wage increase with a minimum of $160 and a maximum of $195. per month, and a 240 hour month; while the porters receive $72.50 with an approximate work work month of 400 hours, and they are compelled to resort to the despicable role of public mendicants in order to bring their income within a reasonable distance of what is considered a living wage. The very obvious difference in the treatment accorded conductors and the porters and maids is largely due to the difference in race and color, this fact is even more clearly seen when we realize that of the two groups of workers the porters and maids are by far the most important and indispensable group.

Porters Meet

Make Plans to Continue Wage Fight

(Photo on Picture Page)

"It is indeed significant that F. H. Nemitz, vice president of the Order of Railway Conductors has addressed this convention on behalf of his organization," was the declaration of A. Philip Randolph of New York, organizer and president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters (Pullman Porters' union) Tuesday afternoon at the western headquarters, 4231 Michigan Ave.

A. P. Randolph

The first national convention of the brotherhood, in session here, opened Saturday, Sept. 14, and closed Friday, the 20th. A number of outstanding members and officers of the various railroad employees' unions addressed the convention. The response of the conductors' organization to the invitation of President Randolph was considered by the organizers of the brotherhood to be the biggest point yet gained by them.

It is believed that the influence of the conductors will be more far reaching than that of the present affiliation with the American Federation of Labor. It was pointed out by Mr. Randolph that the Pullman company has shown no noticeable concern because of the connection of the brotherhood with the A. F. of L., believing that the organization, while its influence would be magnanimous after the porters are fully organized, would make little effort to assist in that work.

States Facts

"The case of the conductors," Mr. Randolph said, "is entirely different. Without doubt a porter has the utmost respect for the train conductor," he continued, "and will, almost without exception, regard his wishes and follow his advice. Much can be done toward the perfecting of a complete organization of the porters and maids with the co-operation of the train conductors," President Randolph concluded.

Other delegates to the convention who spoke concerning the effect that the expression of the conductors would have on the porters, not affiliated, as well as strengthen the faith of the men in the ranks, showed a unanimity of opinion. They believe, it was gleaned, that the conductors can be of more service in the direction of lining up men than all the organization plans the brotherhood can formulate. Many instances were cited in which porters who had been avowedly inimical to the movement have voluntarily come into different offices and made application for membership in the brotherhood. In a particular case the porter explained that "I see the conductors are with us now!"

Mr. Nemitz of San Francisco, representing President E. P. Curtis of the Order of Railway Conductors, was heartily applauded after he was introduced. He reviewed the splendid work of President Randolph of the brotherhood and besought the men to keep closed ranks in order that the leaders of the organization would be better able to accomplish their wishes.

(Continued on Page 2)

PORTERS TO CONTINUE IN WAGE FIGHT

(Continued from Page 1)

He urged the porters to assist the organizers in making the brotherhood 100 per cent strong. He pointed out that the president is no bigger than his organization, and that the amount of good he is able to do depends absolutely upon the strength of his organization, numerically and otherwise.

Time for Organization

"Years ago," Mr. Nemitz said, "men were discharged for advocating union principles or for holding membership in a labor union, but today governmental tribunals unhold the right of workers to organize and bargain collectively for better wages and working conditions. In this era," it was said, "no fair-minded employer would discharge an employee for connecting himself with a labor organization."

"When you are not fully organized," asserted Mr. Nemitz, "you are not respected. Every labor organization that its worth its place in society," he said, "if full organized; the others exert very little, if any, influence. Much can be done by the porters to help themselves, but they must concentrate their efforts on complete organization of the men," he advised.

Tremendous applause followed when Mr. Nemitz completed the assertion that "some people are of the opinion that labor organizations are formed to create strikes. This is not true. The primary object of organized labor is to benefit the constituency and society, and to prevent strikes, just as strong navies, and armies, and air fleets carry out policies of nations to prevent wars. When a labor body, fully organized, cannot arbitrarily benefit its members and society in general, there is only one course open to them, and that is to decline any further service until the unjust conditions imposed upon them are rectified."

Speaking directly about the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, the speaker said: "If labor conditions in general have been improved with only 50 per cent organization, imagine what improvements could be honorably accomplished if you were fully organized."

Best for Porters

In his concluding remarks Mr. Nemitz averred: "I believe every person engaged in honest labor should be affiliated with the organization that has the rightful jurisdiction over his vocation and that the best interest of every porter and his employer would be served if all porters were members of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters."

"The convention now in session," declared M. P. Webster, president of the Chicago local, "has as its primary purpose the formulation of plans to continue the campaign to augment the membership of 10,000. When this goal is reached," he said, "we shall be better able to carry out more forcefully our fight for better wages and working conditions for porters and maids and for the elimination of tips as a factor in determining their wages."

In an interview with President Randolph, he stated that "the president of the 20 standard railroad unions have been mobilized behind the movement and their influence, with the support of the A. F. of L., will assure the success of the brotherhood." He also stated that he believes "a labor organization should seek to improve the efficiency of its members to the end that the employer will be benefited, as well as to seek better wages and working conditions. If an organization fails to do this it does not justify its position," was his concluding remark.

Dad Moore Here

The oldest delegate in attendance was Dad Moore of Oakland, Calif. Mr. Moore served 40 years in the service and is said to be one of the most ardent and valiant fighters for complete organization of the porters.

"I know my time isn't long," he declared, "and I shall not live to enjoy any of the fruits of victory, but am fighting in order that future generations may live and work under better conditions as employees of the Pullman company."

Some of the other delegates in attendance were George S. Grant, Los Angeles; C. L. Dillons, Oakland; L. Totten and Spencer Watson, Kansas City, Mo.; E. J. Bradley, St. Louis, Mo.; Taylor Murrell, Omaha; L. Hampton, Fort Worth, Tex.; Benny Smith, Detroit; S. E. Grant and Roy Lancaster, New York, Frank Boyd and Paul L. Caldwell, St. Paul and Minneapolis. The Chicago delegates were George W. Clay, John C. Mills, W. S. Wesley, William Puckett, Ernest Smith and A. Austin.

1929

DAILY NEWS
11/8/29

EB 8, 1929.

NEGROES DIVIDED ON PROPOSAL TO JOIN A. F. OF L.

Prospects for Affiliation, However, Believed to Be Brighter.

BY FRANK L. HAYES.

The prospect for Negro workers in the American Federation of Labor is arousing divided opinion among leaders of the race.

That prospect is "brighter" after the [illegible] convention than for [illegible] Webster, Chicago district [illegible] the Brotherhood of [illegible] Porters, said today.

This statement [illegible] rejoinder to an editorial [illegible] Opportunity, publication [illegible] National Urban league, [illegible] racial organization. The [illegible] remarks that the Toronto convention lacked much of being able to convince observers that it is the pillar of flame by night and of cloud by day to lead the Negro worker . . . out of the wilderness."

Called "Most Exploited."

The editorial describes the Negro workers as "the most exploited in the United States" because "the least organized," but charges federationists with unjustly calling them "unorganizable," and adds, "as a craft organization—the so-called aristocracy of labor—the American Federation of Labor, has failed to meet the problem of the unskilled worker."

In [illegible] years of [illegible] Negro [illegible], Webster [illegible] "I have not found any [illegible] opinion prevailing among American Federation of Labor officials that the Negro worker is unorganizable."

"While it is true," he continues, "that a large number of the unskilled Negro workers are unorganized, there have been many efforts to organize the unskilled Negro workers, both by American Federation of Labor organizers and by others. In every such instance there immediately springs forth an avalanche of propaganda: 'Watch your step,' and 'Don't bite the hand that is feeding you.'

Influential Mi[illegible]

"This form of [illegible] has found expression through some of the most influential people and publications in Negro communities.

"I attended the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor in Toronto. There was much bona fide evidence of the intention of the American Federation of Labor to meet the issue involved in the organization of Negro workers fairly and with sympathetic co-operation.

"The question of organizing the south was not discussed from the standpoint of race, but from the standpoint of economics. And Negro members of the American Federation of Labor will be represented in the conference that will be held in Washington from which the southern campaign will be initiated."

CHICAGO DAILY NEWS.
11/8/29

50

CANAVAN HEADS GOLDEN JUBILEE DRIVE OF LABOR

Former Chicagoan Also Named to Help Unionize the South.

BY A. LINCOLN MAHONY.

A former Chicagoan, William F. ("Bill") Canavan, international head of the motion picture operators' union, heads the "golden jubilee convention" committee of the American Federation of Labor, which is to meet in Boston, Mass., in 1930.

WILLIAM GREEN.

Canavan is also one of the three men named by President William Green of the A. F. of L. on the committee to finance the drive to unionize the south and particularly the textile industry.

Well known to labor men in Chicago, "Bill" Canavan came here from St. Louis, where his activity as a member of the motion picture operators brought him to the attention of the international officials, with the result that he was made a field agent. In Chicago he founded a local organization back in 1914, and he patched up their differences with the assistance of Thomas E. Maloy, head of the Chicago organization, building up a friendship that has lasted throughout the years between dynamic little Chicago local head, Maloy, and the tall, easy-going Canavan, who weighs each word that he utters and turns aggressive only as a last resort, when his activity and explosiveness equal that of "Tommy" Maloy.

While the slogan of the A. F. of L. during 1928 was "double the membership," the golden jubilee year drive in 1930 has a twofold purpose. Not only is each member supposed to bring a man into the labor movement, but in addition a special drive is being made to further the circulation of the labor press, both national and local, weekly and monthly.

The Black Worker is the newest labor publication to make its bow. It is devoted to the interest of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, with principal offices in Chicago.

* * *

Locals Nos. 399 and 629 of the stationary engineers voted to amalgamate at a special meeting held in Electricians' hall last week. The vote was 1,776 to 7.

* * *

The Carpet and Linoleum Mechanics' union, headed by Thomas D. Ward, has obtained another wage increase.

* * *

George J. Bendel, head of the Laundry and Dye House Drivers' union, is negotiating with the laundry owners for an increase for his men.

* * *

International President Joseph N. Weber of the American Federation of Musicians is carrying on a campaign against "canned" music by means of newspaper advertising. The Chicago local, headed by James C. Petrillo, has contributed generously to this campaign.

* * *

"The Outlook of American Labor" will be the topic of an address by Dr. Leo Wolman, head of the research department of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, at the Nov. 24 meeting of the Chicago Forum.

* * *

The Cigarmakers' International union has agreed to aid in the formation of a co-operative cigar manufacturers' organization, being sponsored by the manufacturers themselves, the packers and the jobbers.

Address of

Hon. William Green

President, American Federation of Labor

at a

Mass Meeting

Held under the auspices of the Pullman Porter's Organization

Affiliated with the A. F. of L.

Headquarters:

239 West 136th Street

New York, N. Y.

Abyssinian Baptist Church

New York, June 30, 1929

64

PREFACE

This is undoubtedly one of the most important speeches ever made by a white leader of a great American Movement to Colored Americans. It does not only concern Pullman porters, but all members of our Race.

Pullman porters' wages are $77.50 a month. In 1925, when the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters was born, their wages were $67.50. The power and pressure of the Organization forced the Pullman Company to grant two increases of $5.00 each, since the Union began.

Porters' hours of work are nearly 400 a month. Thousands work from one to five hours or more preparing cars without any pay, since wages don't begin until the train leaves the station. Thousands of extra porters report for work and hang around for hours daily without getting any work and hence no pay, since porters' pay is based upon the trip, no overtime being given until 11,000 miles have been covered. If porters don't report for work they may not ever get any runs and may lose their jobs.

Tips are uncertain, irregular and inadequate. Combination tickets on buses and airplanes will lessen them.

Demands

Recognition of Union as agency for negotiation of agreements on wages, rules and working conditions.

Wages, minimum, $150.00 a month.

Hours of work, 240 a month.

The Brotherhood stands for higher service, courtesy, efficiency, industry, honest sobriety and discipline in the interest of the Pullman Company, the Public and the Porter.

Slogans: A quitter never wins and a winner never quits. He who would be free must himself first strike the blow. A hundred percent Brotherhood porter gives one hundred percent service. Down with the Employee Representation Plan or Company Union. Every porter a Union porter.

Fraternally,

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

President and General Organizer
Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

Address of Honorable William Green, President, American Federation of Labor, at a Mass Meeting held under the auspices of the Pullman Porters' Organization, Abyssinian Baptist Church, New York, June 30, 1929.

PRESIDENT GREEN:

Mr. Chairman, distinguished guests, ladies and gentlemen:

The human race from the beginning of time has been inherently good and fundamentally right. It has always possessed an individual and collective sense of justice and righteousness, but, unfortunately, there has been a minority among us that has been concerned only with the material things of life. The people who compose this minority have sought to accumulate wealth and to do so through the exploitation of their fellow-men. It is against that thing the great American Federation of Labor protests. It has been gratifying to observe that, notwithstanding this minority, in every stage of human development and in every period of the world's history there have been groups of people, representing a preponderance of public sentiment, that always placed human values, human and spiritual values, above the material things of life. I am of the opinion that this splendid audience this afternoon can be numbered among these groups. You are here because you are interested in human welfare and human happiness. You believe that after all that is the great objective of life and you are in sympathy with any movement that has for its purpose human welfare and human happiness. I am glad to come here this afternoon in my official capacity, representing a great movement that in its sphere of activity is paralleling the work of the Church, a movement which has for its great objective the advancement of human happiness and the promotion of human welfare.

I want you to understand that I am here because of my deep interest in a special group of workers classified as the Pullman Porters and Maids, a splendid organization that is developing and growing and that is seeking by every honorable means at its command to promote and advance the interests of these splendid working men and women. I take it for granted that all the men and women present this afternoon, composing this large audience, are not directly identified with this group of workers—that is, that you are not all Sleeping Car Porters or Maids employed on the sleeping cars of the country. Many of you are but a large number of you are here because you are sympathetic toward them. You come from other walks of life. You are here because you are interested in this splendid, patient, serviceable, efficient group of workers and you want to give to that group your moral support by your presence at meetings of this kind and by the assurance that you are with them in their struggle for the enjoyment of human rights and human happiness.

I am glad to come this afternoon and in my official and personal capacity bring to you this message of assurance from the great organized body of our continent: that we are, like you, immeasurably interested in the Pullman Porters and in the Pullman Maids and that it is our purpose, the purpose of this great economic movement representing the working men and women of the American Continent, to give to them all the support possible in their righteous endeavor to promote their common welfare.

First of all, I am personally interested. I have always been interested, deeply interested, in this movement that had its origin among the workers themselves. I want to see them succeed; I want to see them enjoy life and secure justice; I want to see them live in America as American citizens ought to live and I want to see them wring from an unwilling corporation a wage sufficient to guarantee them a living commensurate with the requirements of American citizenship. Then, too, I am here because I think I understand the great heart of Labor. It has been my privilege to be associated with Labor all my life. I know what it is to toil, to suffer and to struggle. I know the experience that comes from defeated hopes and I know the thrill that comes when success is realized. I know about it all. I have gone through it all and I think because of that experience I know the heart of Labor, the great heart of American Labor as represented by the American Federation of Labor. Knowing the heart of Labor, I can truthfully say to this audience this afternoon that I know that the heart of Labor beats in sympathy with these colored workers who are trying to improve their conditions in life.

It may be well for me just in the beginning to dwell upon some phases of this question in which, I know, you are deeply interested and some phases of the question which I know you are thinking about. There has been a group of people, small in number, I think, that has been composed of what I would classify as mischief makers. They have sought to build up a barrier of prejudice between the working men and women of our Country. They have sought to misrepresent the American Federation of Labor on every occasion and I am of the opinion that the basis for their action is found in human greed and dishonesty and because of the activities of these so-called mischief makers, I deem it my duty this afternoon to speak to you frankly and honestly about this phase of the problem referred to just now developed by reason of the activities of what I would classify as mischief makers.

The American Federation of Labor has been interested from the beginning in all classes of working men and women. It laid down as one of the fundamental bases upon which it stood and announced this great principle, that there should be no discrimination upon the part of organized labor against any working man or woman on account of his or her creed, color, or nationality. The American Federation of Labor has always stood upon that fundamental principle. I do not mean by that that we have always succeeded in having that principle recognized or applied but nevertheless it is fundamental. It is there. It stands there and no matter how the good faith of the American Federation of Labor may be challenged the fact remains that we rest securely upon that great basis, that great fundamental basis of no discrimination against any working man or woman on account of his race, his color, his creed or his nationality. And when our movement departs from that great program, when it destroys that principle, it will perish because there is so much human liberty, freedom and democracy involved in that fundamental principle that if it would attempt to stand upon any other basis, ignoring it and destroying it, it would perish and would not longer exist.

We are dealing with a practical problem because working men and women, regardless of color, creed and nationality, are working men and women. First of all, we are brought together in association and cooperation by laws that are inexorable, laws that not artificial, laws that are economic and laws that operate. It is inconceivable that at any time in the history of the human race any worker, no matter what language he or she may speak, no matter what is his religious creed, no matter what may be his color, should be discriminated against. They are workers and are in competition with each other and that truth, that fact, can never be set aside or destroyed and it is impossible for any group singly to separate itself from the whole and raise its standard of life and living at the expense of all other groups.

My presence here this afternoon ought to be an answer to every mischief maker who says that the American Federation of Labor is not interested in the colored worker.

In 1893 the American Federation of Labor declared, in solemn convention assembled, that "We here and now reaffirm, as one of the cardinal principles of the labor movement that the working people must unite and organize, irrespective of creed, color, sex, nationality or politics." That was a declaration made almost forty years ago and the records show that we have repeatedly reaffirmed that very fine position assumed by the American Federation of Labor in 1893.

But, there are those who say that National and International Unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor refuse to admit colored workers to membership and because these Unions refuse to admit colored workers to membership the American Labor movement is uninterested in the economic and industrial welfare of this great group of working men and women. What are the facts in connection with that? The facts are that at the present time there are 105 National and International Unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, representing the principal trades and callings in the industrial field, and out of these 105 Unions 100 Unions, by constitutional provisions and through the adoption of their organic law, make it possible for colored workers to be members. And, where a National Union refuses, for some reason over which we have no control, to accept colored workers into membership, the American Federation of Labor declares positively that it will charter them direct and accept them into membership with the great parent body.

I can mention some of the organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor that admit colored workers freely, heartily and cordially into membership. The great Union of which I am a member and of which I have been a member the greater part of my life has ever admitted, from the beginning, the colored workers. I refer to the United Mine Workers of America. The Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers of America, Longshoremen, Carpenters, Textile Workers, Seamen, Cigarmakers, Teamsters, Plasterers, Bricklayers, Maintenance of Way Employees, Laundry Workers, Cooks and Waiters, Tailors, Brewery Workers, and Upholsterers, all admit colored workers to membership. I might name some others: The International Ladies' Garment Workers, Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, Tunnel and Subway Workers, Street and Electric Railway Employees, International Typographical Union, Brick and Clay Workers, Hod Carriers and Building Laborers, Leather Workers, Blacksmiths, Motion Picture Players' Union, American Federation of Musicians, Bakers, Postal Employees, American Federation of Teachers, Steam and Operating Engineers, Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, Hotel and Restaurant Employees, Glass Bottle Blowers, National Association of Federal Employees, Barbers' International Union, Metal Polishers, Stereotypers and Electrotypers, Boot and Shoe Workers, Molders, Quarry Workers, Letter Carriers, International Fur Workers, Civil Engineers' Association of Boston, Firemen and Oilers, accept colored workers into membership.

I was very proud, only a few days ago, when I was privileged to listen to the most charming rendition of music by a colored orchestra. All of them were artists and I was proud to look upon them and see the great artistic progress which they had made. They rendered music that touched me deeply and charmed me. But, I was more proud when I was told that every one of them was a member of my great organization, the American Federation of Labor.

Perhaps I ought to explain to you the basis of the organization of our great American Labor movement. It is comprehensive in scope. Its jurisdiction covers the United States and Canada. It has endeavored to develop a brotherhood, a great economic force not for the purpose of making men and women individually wealthy but for the purpose of creating living conditions that are human, humane and tolerable here on the American Continent. The great American Federation of Labor is the parent body and it is clothed with authority to create organizations, giving said organizations jurisdiction over certain trades and callings. We have found, from human experience, economic and industrial as well, that that form of organization is best adapted to the success of the great organized labor movement. It represents more than half a century of study, growth and experience. It is believed to be the best form of organization, that form best suited to our economic and industrial conditions here. Now, when an organization is chartered it is given jurisdiction over the workers in certain industries, certain trades and certain callings and it is but natural that all trades, all organizations respect the jurisdiction of each organization as defined in its charter rights. When the American Federation of Labor charters an organization it clothes it with broad, autonomous rights. It is a child started upon its pathway in life. It is given a grant of authority and even the parent body, the great American Federation of Labor itself, has no authority to interfere with the exercise of the charter rights of the child it created. We have not always been able to control the children. I imagine that parents in every family have gone through that experience. You know that the children sometimes become obstreperous and they wish to assert their rights, sometimes even more than their rights. But the parent must be patient because he is dealing with a child. So we must be patient because we are dealing with our children and our great movement is a voluntary movement. Men and women come into it because they believe they can advance their interests best by associating themselves with their fellowmen. They come in and pool their economic strength and they march together along economic lines. There is team-work where there was only individual action and the interests of one are merged into the interests of all. It is upon that basis the American Federation of Labor rests. As we have dealt with other problems in dealing with these organizations created by us so we are dealing with this great problem of admission of all working people, of all creeds, colors and nationalities. We have succeeded in prevailing upon 100 of our children, out of 105, to write into their organic law that no working man or woman shall be discriminated against because of color and we have further stated that if one of you do and you persist in it then we will go to these workers and tell them: Here is your home. Come with us. We will charter you direct and we will protect you with the interests of three million workers of the American Federation of Labor.

I know you men and women here will understand that I am speaking to you the truth and it is coming from my heart and soul because I come from a busy life. I came here this afternoon not as an individual but as a representative of millions of working men and women. I would not be here if I was not interested in you and if I did not want to bring to you my message of Labor honestly this afternoon.

In our efforts to organize colored workers specifically employed in certain trades and callings we have, from time to time, employed colored organizers who were assigned to do this special kind of organizing work. Some of them were employed over a period of two years. I have one listed by the name of A. Goode, who was employed in 1916 and worked for the American Federation of Labor until 1920. One by the name of James Brown was employed in 1919 and worked for the American Federation of Labor until November, 1921. Other colored organizers employed in this work from time to time were men by the names of John Riley, Stephen English, G. W. Worthey, J. R. Rogers and L. L. Gibbs. All these men were employed specifically by the American Federation of Labor and paid for their services out of the treasury of the American Federation of Labor; commissioned to go out and speak for the American Federation of Labor and to appeal to colored workers especially to come with us and join with us. These splendid representatives rendered good service. These men organized many, many working men and women. I am happy to tell you this afternoon that we number as members of the American Federation of Labor, in many of our National and International Unions, covering them all in the aggregate, thousands of colored working men and women who are as good Trade-Unionists as ever breathed the breath of life.

In my own organization there are thousands of coal miners working in the mines who belong to us, are with us and are associated with us. Many of them come as delegates to our Conventions and there in our convention halls and in our Trade-Unions they express themselves. They never raise the question of prejudice but they are interested, as we are, in their wages, hours, conditions of employment, happy homes and happy surroundings.

May I pass on to a consideration of our important pressing problems? I am sure you must understand our attitude. You must understand my personal attitude and the attitude of the American Federation of Labor. The fact that we chartered these Local Unions of these organizations in the different cities, the Local Unions of Sleeping Car Porters and Maids, and that they are now a part of the American Federation of Labor—and I am speaking for them as much as I am for anybody else—that fact is enough to convince you that we are interested in them. It is in their welfare that I am deeply interested. I know something about the struggle and I know something about the hopes and aspirations of this group of workers represented in these Local Unions composed of Sleeping Car Porters and Maids. I have long been conscious of this fact, that this was a group of workers that was suffering from the imposition of grave injustic and it appears to me that if that fact could be brought home to the American people so that they could understand that injustice public opinion would be so crystallized against the Pullman Company that there would go up a ringing demand that justice must be done these workers.

First of all, the rates of pay are inadequate. The wages paid this patient, honest, faithful group of workers are altogether below the wage that should be paid to American working men and women. We want to so move in this organized movement that we can steadily raise their wages, gradually reduce their hours, improve their conditions of employment, wipe out the injustice under which they are suffering so that they can stand up as independent, responsible, free men and women. We shall give to the Local Unions represented in this movement our most sincere co-operation and support in the achievement of that worthy purpose. It is a worthy purpose because, after all, wages mean so much of life to working men and women. In fact, the kind of a life we live, whether with happiness or poverty and despair, depends, very largely, upon the wages working men and women receive. That is at the very basis of human happiness so far as the masses of the people are concerned. If working men and women receive decent wages they can educate their children. They can have homes that are respectable. They can furnish these homes and live in them in decency and comfort. They can enjoy enough of leisure in life so that they can have time to think about spiritual things and those intangible values which mean so much to humanity. Men and women were never intended by the Divine Creator to live a life of industrial servitude.

So we want to help these people. We want to help them in every way. We will help them and we propose to co-operate with them in carrying forward their plans and policies.

Mr. Randolph referred to a custom that seems to be recognized by the travelling public and by the Pullman Company. I do not know when it began. I suppose it was many, many years ago but it seems to me that even though it does prevail, and I refer to the custom of tipping, if there is anybody that should benefit by that custom it should be the Pullman Porter and the Maid. But, it occurs to me, if I study the situation aright, that they benefit very little because of public generosity but the Pullman Company benefits most. It is a personal matter if I appreciate the very fine service that the Porter renders me, or that the Maid gives, if I want to express my appreciation for that service. But the Pullman Company should not be permitted to take that into consideration when it fixes the wage scales for these employees. It is my opinion that the wages paid should be a wage commensurate with the requirements of American citizenship. It should be a wage, of itself, that would permit the workers to live in decency and comfort. It should be a wage that would be all-embracing, covering all the requirements of a normal life. The Pullman Company, in my opinion, should not take into consideration this custom that prevails when that wage scale is negotiated.

Of course, I am sure I understand the sentiment of the Sleeping Car Porters and Maids when I say that they wish the custom was wiped out. They would rather be paid by the Company as others are paid. They would rather have that system forever destroyed. That is the sentiment, as I understand it, of this splendid group of working men and women.

The reprehensible thing about it all is that it appears that the Pullman Company takes these facts into account when it is fixing the wage scale for this group of workers. In the name of the working men and women I protest against that thing as an imposition of injustice.

I want to leave this thought with you. We want to cease discussing this great industrial and economic problem from the standpoint of race, color, creed and nationality. What we want to do is to discuss it from the standpoint of working men and women who give service to society and must have a decent wage in return for the service rendered. I want you to think of it from that point of view for it is that point that I shall undertake to emphasize in all my discussions upon this great economic question.

And then I want the colored worker to think about this phase of the situation, that, after all, you find yourself an economic factor in modern industry, that you are not only competitors with yourselves but you are competitors with others; that it is impossible for you to elevate your standard of life and living yourself. Modern industry is so keyed that the voice of the individual is silent. It cannot be heard. The corporation is powerful and the individual does not come in contact with the officers of the corporation. This is the age of mass production and mass service. The individuals work like bees in an industry; each one of them relates and correlates in the service they give. How is it possible for the individual to walk into the executive chamber of the president of the gigantic corporation for which you work and there say to him: I want my wages raised: I want an eight hour day and a five day week: I want improved conditions of employment? How would you ever get in in the first place and how would you ever make him hear you? What would he say if you came in as an individual? He would say: I do not know you. You are just one among ten thousand workers. If you do not like your work, move on. I will get some one to take your place.

But suppose you organize to a man, everybne—every man and woman eligible to serve and work and employed by the corporation. And you send a committee and the committee says we are speaking for all your workers. That is different, much different, very much different. You will get a respectable hearing and then you will understand what it means to mobilize your economic strength. It is upon that basis all organization rests. I want you to keep that thought in your mind. It is organization among you, among yourselves, the mobilization of all the power you possess. That is your economic strength, your power to give service. Let every man submerge his individuality so that when a voice speaks it speaks for all and not for one. Let your slogan be "All for one and one for All."

Your great need is organization, the development of that power and I want you to think about that. Your salvation lies within yourselves. The door is open. We ask you to come in. Organize and come with us and we will bring you many benefits.

Perhaps I ought to leave this further thought in closing and that is we would be running contrary to human history and human experience from the time when Adam and Eve occupied the Garden of Eden until the present day if we believed we could organize today and solve our problems tomorrow. We cannot do that. The struggle of the workers now is but the continuation of an age long struggle. From the beginning of time, the few have attempted to exploit the many. White workers have been reduced to a condition of industrial servitude. There are many of them now occupying that position today but the struggle is now on. It has been on for ages—first the abolition of slavery, the abolition of industrial servitude, the abolition of feudalism in England, and you will recall, if you read history, that in the olden days when one nation conquered another, it made of the conquered nation a nation of slaves. It has been a struggle, an age long struggle. We are in it still. We have not reached our objective. We are not free. We are not all living in that condition of life to which we are entitled and so when you come with us, be prepared to give to the struggle all the help and support you can give—let it be for a day, a month, or a century. There is so much to do. The field is so great. The demands are so heavy. The opposition is so powerful that it requires earnest, honest effort on the part of all to overcome it.

I listen sometimes to those who loosely talk about a revolution today and a realization of a millennium tomorrow. I always classify that as loose, irresponsible talk. The Church has been trying to save sinners ever since the Master established it on earth and yet there is a lot of work for the Church to do. The sinners are not all yet saved and even in spite of the appeals of the Church and the earnest work that these Christian men and women are doing, we find many who say "No." Well, some of these loose, irresponsible men and women have failed to take into consideration human history. They have never read it or if they have, they are dishonest. The facts are that the struggle for the realization of human rights is an age long struggle. You cannot do violence to public opinion but you must build up public opinion in support of a righteous cause and then it will rally to you in your efforts to advance that cause. The millennium is not here. We will not reach it tomorrow or next week but we can press on with that great objective in view when all men and women will at least be economically and industrially free. Home will be home and justice and righteousness shall prevail among men. That is the great objective.

You will be beset by those extremists who want to play upon prejudice and hatred. Pay no attention to them. You will be beset by Communists, who would bring to you a strange and impossible philosophy. Everywhere they have been a miserable failure. They cannot succeed in America.

You will be opposed by powerful interests. Fight them with all the vigor you possess and count on the American Federation of Labor, your big parent, helping you. We do not want to destroy industry. It is not our purpose to tear down. We are not trying to organize working men and women for the purpose of doing violence or to injure industry but we are trying to organize men and women so that they may secure their rights; so that they can get out of industry that degree of justice to which they are entitled; so that we can make industry more productive and more efficient.

I believe that if the Pullman Porters were organized, and the Maids with them, that the Pullman Company would never regret it because I believe that through collective action and co-operation the public, as well as the Company, would receive greater and better results.

Your cause is just. It is a great, humane cause. When the public understands fairly and squarely the injustice under which you have suffered, when they know the treatment you have received, the public will rally as it has whenever any degree of injustice became manifest and demand that it be wiped out. Based upon the assurance of the justice of your cause, actuated by the humane sentiments that influence us all, I ask you to unite, to organize, to co-operate with your leaders, support them. Turn neither to the right nor to the left and bye and bye it is my honest opinion that your wrongs will be righted and justice will be enthroned.

HON. WILLIAM GREEN
President, American Federation of Labor

NATIONAL OFFICERS:

A. Philip Randolph, Pres. & Gen'l Organizer, 239 West 136th St., N. Y. C.
Roy Lancaster, Sec'y.-Treas., 239 West 136th St., N. Y. C.
A. L. Totten, Ass't. Gen'l. Organizer, 1510 East 18th Street, Kansas City, Mo.
Bennie Smith, Zone Supervisor, 2630 Baker Street, Detroit, Mich.
S. E. Grain, Field Organizer, 239 West 136th Street, N. Y. C.

DIVISION OFFICERS:

M. P Webster, Pres. & Organizer, Chicago, 4231 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
George W. Clarke, Sec'y.-Treas., Chicago, 4231 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
E. J. Bradley, Organizer, St. Louis, Mo., Peoples Finance Bldg., 11 N. Jefferson St., St. Louis, Mo.
Paul L. Caldwell, Sec'y.-Treas., Twin Cities of Minn., 659 St. Anthony Ave., St. Paul, Minn.
Mrs. Oneida M. Brown, Sec'y.-Treas., New Orleans, 303 Pythian Temple, New Orleans, La.
John W. Darby, Organizer, Jacksonville, 2029 Davis Street, Jacksonville, Fla.
Silas Taylor, Organizer, Boston, 922 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass.
Dr. O. L. Lawson, Sec'y.-Treas., Denver, Radio Pharmacy, Welton & 26th Sts., Denver, Col.
Kelly Foster, Sec'y.-Treas., Portland, 108 North 6th St., Portland, Ore.
Dr. E. I. Robinson, 1200 Jackson Street, Seattle, Wash.
L. Hampton, Sec'y.-Treas., 1115 East Humboldt Street, Fort Worth, Tex.
Taylor Murrell, Sec'y.-Treas., Omaha, 2118 North 27th Street, Omaha, Neb.

Feb. 6, 1929.

THE KANSAS CITY STAR, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUA

The Pullman Porter Case Again.

To The Star: The letter in the Public Mind relative to the plight of Pullman porters suggests that the public be informed just what steps have been taken to bring their case before certain tribunals charged with enforcing fair and equitable rules as to hours of labor and wages of public servants.

The answer is this: With more than the required 51 per cent membership, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, after making several requests for a conference with the Pullman Company only to be denied, appealed to the United States mediation board, which recommended that the company mediate or arbitrate; but it refused. Efforts were also made to secure relief through the interstate commerce commission, but the case was thrown out by a vote of 4 to 3 for want of jurisdiction.

The impending strike was called off at the request of the president of the American Federation of Labor when the mediation board failed to recommend an arbitration board according to the law governing it, but most especially because the porters themselves do not want to be classified with communists, who came in large numbers from all parts of the country urging them on to violence. It must be taken into consideration that the company is wholly dependent on the traveling public for its existence. The only service it sells is rendered by the porters. A well organized committee of public spirited citizens, representing the church, press, merchants, fraternal and other associations, waiting on the Pullman Company will at least determine whether it is amenable to reason or not.

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN,
Assistant General Organizer.
208 Lincoln building.

City Revenue in Public Nuisances.

To The Star: "Many Injured by Falls" has been a frequent report in The Star in the last few weeks. It has been a hazardous time, especially

Telephone: EDGecomb {2323 2324

BROTHERHOOD OF

Sleeping Car Porters

Headquarters:
239 WEST 136th STREET
NEW YORK, N. Y.

President and General Organizer
A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

General Secretary-Treasurer
ROY LANCASTER

Assistant General Organizer
A. L. TOTTEN
Field Representative
S. E. GRAIN
Regional Supervisor
BENNIE SMITH

March 8, 1929

Dear Sir and Brother:

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters has secured a Federal Charter and is now an integral part of the four million organized workers affliliated with the American Federation of Labor. It is the first national Negro Labor organization with a charter of its kind.

We are calling your attention no the fact that though the Pullman Company has refused to recognize the brotherhood it will not continue to do so when it realizes that the entire American Federation of Labor can be relied upon to aid the brotherhood in its demands.

Pullman porters are the only class of workers who are expected to be asleep and awake at the same time. It is assumed that every porter is the "thief" in the event of a loss but he is converted into a "George Washington" when some passenger sues the company and the porter is called to defend it. Porters may be dismissed by the Superintendent, then he is told to take his case before the grievance committee. The committee knows that the superintendent who also has a vote on the committee may fire its members so they vote to sustain the contention of management. Pullman porters are treated like slaves. You know it. Every porter knows it.

What is the remedy? ORGANIZATION. INDEPENDENT ORGANIZATION. The Company Union or Employee Representation Plan is Company owned and Company controlled. In other words if you sued me in court and I payed your lawyer what chance would you have to win the case? Down with the Company Union, give us JUSTICE AND NOT MERCY.

The brotherhood is giving you a fair chance to send in your application and $5.00 fee by March 30. To members who are back in their dues over a period of five months $5.00 will bring you a 1929 card. Once more we urge you to join NOW. Do not hesitate or procrastinate. Join now. The officials of the American Federation of Labor demand that the fees be raised within thirty days. There need be no fear brother, when the various crafts begin to operate around the country you may be sorry that you did not take advantage of this dispensation. Our last advice is to fall in line. You cannot be a slacker and expect to enjoy the fruits of labor which others are making possible for you. Organized Labor will not permit you to do so. Join the brotherhood and pay your dues.

Fraternally yours,

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN
Regional Supervisor
Mid west, Far west & Southwest Zones
Kansas City, Mo.

208 Lincoln Bldg.

OUR GOAL: More wages; better hours; better working conditions; pay for overtime; pay for "preparation" time; abolition of "doubling out," conductor's pay for conductor's work when in charge and manhood rights.

KANSAS CITY CALL
November 14, 1930

PORTERS TAKE JOB FIGHT TO C. OF C.

President Conrad Mann Is Told $10,000 Monthly Is Taken From City

Pullman porters of this city and Kansas City, Kas., took their fight for jobs to the Chamber of Commerce on Monday.

The chambers in the two cities were told that the policy of the Pullman company in shifting lines out of Kansas City to other centers in order to "freeze out" the union men in this city was taking a minimum of $10,000 monthly out of Kansas City.

The porters' union charges that the Pullman company, knowing this city is a stronghold of the new union, has decided to starve the men here by taking runs away from them and thus force them to come over to the company union.

So far the so-called "benefits" of the company union are that the porters are paid the magnificent wage of $77.50 a month; are required to work nearly 400 hours a month; are paid on a confusing 3-basis wage scale juggled about according to hours and mileage or both; and have their arbitration plan dominated by the company men, making it a farce.

129 Men Off Duty

The documentary report handed to the two chambers of commerce by Spencer Watson, representatives of the union here, through the Central Labor Council, recites that 129 men who formerly worked lines out of Kansas City are now idle and that the salary of these men, at a minimum, is $9,997.50 monthly.

The report states that these men could be put to work tomorrow by the company with no additional expense. The lines are now being operated out of Albuquerque, El Paso, Oklahoma City and other points. They could be switched back to Kansas City where they have always been, according to the report.

A Starving Policy

J. P. Leach, superintendent of the Pullman company, [illegible] in the Union station, [illegible] when he came to [illegible] in 1929 that he was going to [illegible] out the union men, according to Watson. This plan is being aided and abetted by A. V. Burr, of St. Louis, zone superintendent of the company, according to Watson. Burr's motto is said to be "hit 'em in the pocketbook."

Porters who have worked for the company from [illegible] to 13 years are reporting on the extra list, according to Watson and all men, except the company stool pigeons, who have been in the service from 4 to 10 years are being placed on furloughs.

The runs of these men are being brought into Kansas City from other points by men who have been in the service from two to four years.

Important to Business Men

"This condition should have the attention of all business men and professional men," Mr. Watson said. "The corner drug store and meat market as well as the doctor, dentist and lawyer are not getting payment as they should because the company is denying these men work. Ten thousand dollars a month missing from Kansas City's income is a serious matter and that is why we have called it to the attention of the chamber of commerce. The Pullman company has tried every means that a powerful, rich corporation could command to stamp out the poor, underpaid Negro porter. This latest trick is no meaner, no cheaper and no more brutal than others they have tried before now. We have stood the others and we are trying to stand this, but we feel the general public ought to know something about it."

Mr. Watson added that no white daily paper or magazine in the country had fought the porters, but many of the most powerful white papers were helping in the fight against the company. He said only two Negro papers in the entire country, one in Pittsburgh and one in Kansas City, were taking sides with the company in its exploitation of the 12,000 porters and maids in its employ.

The Kansas City, Kansas chamber has indicated it will take up the matter at once. Mr. Mann has referred the report to Lou E. Holland, executive director of the chamber here for action.

AFFIDAVITS OF FORCED VOTING IN COMPANY ELECTION

WHAT HAVE THEY DONE FOR US?

A short article written by some porter whom I do not know, in the New York Age of July 26, 1930, caught my eye the other day and expressed a thought which has been in my mind many times during the past year, and probably the same thought is in the minds of many other porters.

The article referred to reads as follows:

> "You should see our sign-out office these days. You can meet all the old-timers now that they have blanked so many cars. Boy, the 'repression' is one and how. All our friends who have been telling us what to do and what they wouldn't do, had better soon tell us where, oh where, we are going to get our rent money from if this keeps up. They are telling you 'what we are doing for your folks.' To my mind they have done too much and are about to do us out of a job. Altogether, boys, it's time you stop and think some for yourselves and families before it's too late."

These Brotherhood men have been giving us a lot of advice, which did not cost them anything because advice is free, but it has proved too expensive for us, and I am through taking their advice.

Their advice, if followed, would promote their purposes, but not ours, who still have our jobs and want to keep them. Most of these advisers are ex-porters who lost their jobs and are walking the streets, and they have nothing left to lose. They are on the outside looking in and we are on the inside looking out, and we don't want to change places with them. Some of these advisers never were porters and their advice is not based on service experience, but their fingers itch for a part of our earnings.

"What have they done for us?" Here are some of the things they have done for us, or done us for:

1. They have aroused The Pullman Company to the fact that there is no reason why the Negro Race should have a monopoly on the job of Pullman Porter, and now we find Filipinos, Mexicans, Hawaiians, and Chinese, being trained to gradually take our places.

2. All that double-crossing propaganda sent out by Randolph, who never worked as a Pullman Porter, that it is belittling, humiliating, and degrading to manhood for a Porter to accept a tip, and that we should stand on our dignity and refuse to accept tips and demand an increase of 100% in our wages instead, has hurt us. He hit us below the belt when he hit our pocketbooks.

The passengers who read this anti-tip propaganda or hear it over the radio, conclude that there is no longer any reason for giving tips, and so they avoid insulting our dignity.

I don't want any more such bonehead advice.

Did you know that Randolph actually filed a complaint before the United States Interstate Commerce Commission in 1928 in an effort to obtain a decision prohibiting tipping? Yes he did--tried to take food out of our children's mouths.

3. A barrier of suspicions and unfriendliness has been set up between those who were formerly good friends, by the use of such abusive terms as "scab," "stool-pigeon," "cotton-top," and "handkerchief head," by so-called Brotherhood men, who do not know the real meaning of "Brotherhood." This abuse has not helped them or us.

4. For many, many years The Pullman Company and its Porters were linked together in The Pullman Family as closely as were the Siamese Twins, of whom it was said that if the link should be cut both would die, but Randolph's misguided efforts, based on radical theories, are cutting through that link of friendship which made us a part of the Family, and unless we cease to give heed and money to these wreckers, we will soon be outside the closed door. We won't even be "poor relations."

5. His attempt to mislead us into a strike June 8, 1928, was an asinine blunder. There were 13 poor dupes out of 13,000 Porters and Maids who were foolish enough to give up their jobs and go out on strike, and they have been writing love letters to the Management ever since trying to get back. Of course, when Randolph saw that the strike was going to be a ludicrous joke on him, he got President Green of the A. F. of L. to advise him to recall the strike order to save his face, and it is a good thing he obtained such "unsolicited" advice and called off the strike, as otherwise he would have been the laughing stock of the Negro Race.

How far do you think Randolph could get with a strike at this time?

6. The Negro population in this country is a small minority, and racial prejudices against us in certain sections have caused discrimination against us everywhere, and this has been increased by the mouthings of Randolph and Totten in their socialistic attacks on religion, on Ministers of the Gospel, on prominent industrial leaders, and on the members of our own race, who are trying with fidelity, loyalty and integrity to do what we know to be right in the performance of their duties.

7. During the first two years when the suckers bit freely the money came in fast to the Brotherhood. They have taken our money, over $200,000.00, and squandered it foolishly, and so now they are always broke and eternally begging for more, but the suckers are not biting so fast any more. The Brotherhood seems to use the Amos and Andy system of financing and banking, under which they are all broke except the Kingfish, and he seems to get the money some way or another in the end, but apparently cannot account for it satisfactorily. How could we ever trust such an outfit to look after the interests of 13,000 Porters and Maids?

In the five years of their precarious existence they have not accomplished one thing of benefit to the Porters or Maids.

A PORTER.

New York, N. Y., September 4, 1930.

1/25/30

THE FEDERATION NEWS

The National Negro Labor Conference

Held Under the Auspices of

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

JANUARY 26-31, 1930, Inclusive

Chicago, Illinois

Negro Labor is the foundation of the [illegible] all groups of the Negro race, religious, pro[illegible] fraternal or otherwise. Negro workers [illegible] form the [illegible] impose over ninety per cent of this group. What is the destiny of the Negro worker in this new [illegible]al era? What is the best program for him [illegible]w in order to protect and advance his economic interests? Racial discriminations, unemployment and the attendant social problems constitute [illegible]c obstacles in the path of progress.

The [illegible]nal Negro Labor Conference has been called by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters for the purpose of discussing the facts pertaining to these problems and initiating an intelligent constructive program for the organization of workers, behind which all agencies interested in group can be [illegible]dified.

The most able authorities on the various [illegible] and economic subjects have been invited to [illegible] in this conference.

Among Those Who Talk

Among those who will speak are Dr. [illegible]ge E. Haynes of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America; Miss Mary Anderson, Director, Women's Bureau, Department of Labor; Mr. Albon L. Holsey, Tuskegee Institute; Mr. Matthew Woll, Vice-President, A. F. of L.; Miss Mary McDowell, University of Chicago Settlement; Mr. Spencer Miller, Workers' Educational Bureau; Mrs. Mary V. Halas, President, Women's Auxiliaries to the National Post Office Clerks' Organization; Dr. Herbert L. Willett of the University of Chicago; Mr. Robert S. Abbott, Editor and Publisher of the Chicago Defender; Mrs. Georgia Jones-Ellis, Court of Domestic Relations, Chicago; Dr. Norman B. Barr, Olivet Institute; Mr. Fred Atkins Moore, Adult Education Council; Mr. N. K. McGill, Attorney-Secretary Chicago Defender; Alderman Oscar F. Nelson, Vice-Presdent, Chicago Federation of Labor; Mr. Caswell W. Crews, Adult Probation Officer, Cook County; Mr. George Harris, Chief Ranger, Court Robert Elliot Ancient Order of Foresters; Mr. James A. Jackson, U. S. Department of Commerce; Mr. C. Francis Stradford, Cook County Bar Association; Mr. Frederic H. Robb, Washington Intercollegiate Club; Dr. Wilberforce Williams, Judge Mary M. Bartelme, Juvenile Court, Cook County; Rev. Harold M. Kingsley, Pastor, Church of Good Shepherd; Miss Frankie Adams, Industrial Secretary, Y. W. C. A.; Charles Armstrong, Mine Workers Organization; A. Philip Randolph; and others.

Labor Unions, Religious, Civic, Social and Fraternal Organizations, Greek Letter Societies, Sororities, Women's Club, and all associations and organizations interested in any phase of Negro Life are invited to send delegates to this conference.

Public Meeting Sunday afternoon, January 26, 1930, 3:30 P. M., Metropolitan Community Church, 4100 South Parkway.

Conference sessions held at Brotherhood Headquarters, 4231 Michigan Avenue, 1:30 P. M. to 4:30 P. M. afternoons; 7:30 P. M. to 10 P. M. evenings.

An interesting feature of the conference will be a Labor dinner which will be held preceding one of the evening sessions.

This conference has been endorsed by President William Green of the A. F. of L. and is being sponsored by a committee of a hundred Chicago citizens, of which Charles Wesley Burton is the chairman.

MILTON P. WEBSTER,
Director of Conference.

Additional information can be obtained by addressing the Director at 4231 Michigan Avenue, Telephone Oakland 6682.

Statement to Employes

[illegible] the recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States [illegible] concerning the Texas and New Orleans Railroad Company [illegible] employes, published statements indicate that there may [illegible] misunderstanding and misapprehension as to the effect of this decision wit[illegible] to the relations between The Pullman Company and its employes.

The Company, therefore, desires to state that this decision does not in any way affect or change the existing relations between the Company and its employes.

This decision confirmed the legal right of employes and employers to organize, and to designate their respective representatives, without interference, influence or coercion exercised by either party over the self-organization or designation of representatives by the other, as provided in Subdivision Third of Section 2 of the Railway Labor Act of 1926.

This legal right has never been denied or questioned by The Pullman Company.

When the Railway Labor Act of 1926 was passed, there was in effect and now is in operation a Plan of Employe Representation between The Pullman Company and its employes, and in conformity with the provisions of the first paragraph of Section 2 of said Act which makes it the duty of all carriers and their employes to exert every reasonable effort to make and maintain agreements concerning rates of pay, rules and working conditions, and to settle all disputes, there are also agreements between the Company and the several classes of its employes. This Plan and these agreements are in accordance with and meet all the requirements of the law. Both parties are adhering to them and are maintaining and complying with their provisions. As provided by Section 3 of the Railway Labor Act, boards of adjustment composed of an equal number of elected representatives of the employes and the management have been established, and all questions arising are being adjusted in accordance with the provisions of the law. Both the Company and its employes have [illegible] and are now doing everything which the Railway Labor Act co[illegible] and requires.

Statements that the agreement between the Company and a certain group of its employes has expired, or statements that the above decision of the Supreme Court has affected or modified this agreement in any way, or statements that this agreement is a so-called "yellow-dog contract," are misleading, deceptive and without foundation in fact.

No dispute exists between The Pullman Company and its employes or any group of employes. Should any dispute arise, the existing arrangements between the Company and its employes provide proper and ample machinery for conference and settlement. Under these arrangements the rights of the employes are safeguarded and the high standard of service which the Company is obligated to furnish to its patrons, the traveling public, is being promoted and protected.

THE PULLMAN COMPANY

July 17, 1930.

The fact remains that Adjustment Boards be maintained than 1000 officials which the Brotherhood has this is the contrary the maintenance of the Adjustment Board. The fact remains that the employer and employe of both parties

The Pullman Porters Injunction Fund

To Disestablish Company Union and Yellow Dog Contract

Affiliated with the American Federation of Labor

239 WEST 136 STREET, NEW YORK CITY

357

COMMITTEE

The Rev. WM. LLOYD IMES
Minister St. James' Presbyterian Church—New York

Dr. JEROME DAVIS
Divinity School—Yale Univ.

September 1st, 1931

Dear Sir and Brother:

A CALL TO ACTION

August marks our SIXTH YEAR of STRUGGLE for JUSTICE from Pullman. Let us Rejoice and be Glad! We have WON TWO WAGE INCREASES - Pay for DELAYED ARRIVALS - Discredited the EMPLOYEE PLAN FRAUD - secured charter in A.F. of L. - BROKW DOWN opposition of Big Negro Leaders and driven them into silence or support and ACHIEVED THE RESPECT of the Public and Pullman.

INJUNCTION CASE

But we cannot stop here. Our goal is complete VICTORY. CAN WE MAKE IT? Y E S, and we will!!! if every black man will do his DUTY and put in an envelope as soon as you get this letter just TWO ($2.00) DOLLARS or what you can, for the Injunction Case - we need money for this. Dont fail us, your family, race and yourself. I shall not FAIL you. We must hold a conference of our lawyers in Chicago prior to the case in September.

Act today. Dont delay. It's a matter of LIFE and DEATH. Let us be men - FIGHT - Stand up - Be not dismayed - be steadfast and sacrifice for a CAUSE that cannot lose.

Your faithful servant,

A. Philip Randolph

A. Philip Randolph
President & Gen'l Organizer
B.S.C.P.

APR:L

Make all checks payable to Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

Utica Observer-Dispatch
CLOSING MARKETS, LATE SPORTS, FINAL EDITION
UTICA, N. Y., WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL
VOL. 9—NO. 358.

Frazed Porter Injures Eight on Train

Negro Brought To Utica After Battle on Train

Eight Injured When Porter, Incensed When Conductor Finds Him in Passenger's Berth, Starts Fracas Armed with Club and Ax—Troopers Get Him at Thendara.

Five passengers and three trainmen on a New York-Montreal sleeper out of Utica were injured, one seriously, early today, when a crazed Pullman porter using a ventilator stick fought the crew and passengers.

Pullman Conductor Edward English, a brother of John English of Saranac Lake, was removed from the train at that station for medical treatment as a result of wounds inflicted by J. E. Smith, 94 Morris Avenue, New York City, the porter, who withstood the efforts of passengers and five trainmen to subdue him until state troopers, armed with tear gas guns, boarded the train at Thendara. Then the Negro surrendered.

Smith was charged with assault, second degree, after state police arrived here with their prisoner this afternoon to visit the district attorney.

The fight waged back and forth through four Pullman cars, with the result that many windows were broken, officials said.

James Morgan, 1662 Steuben Street Utica, conductor, was injured in the fracas, but was able to leave the train at Otter Lake and call R. C. Peacock, telegraph operator at Thendara, who notified Trooper Cowburn, in charge of the Old Forge patrol.

According to Trooper George C. Cowburn, E. G. Feather of 60 Hudson Street, New York City, and A. L. Candin of 321 West First Street, Brooklyn, were the passengers injured in the fracas with the porter. Feather was seriously hurt. Candin was said to be a World War veteran enroute to the veterans' camp at Tupper Lake.

Trooper Cowburn said these passengers were either at the [illegible] or left and [illegible] in the [illegible] R. H. Warner, 24 Green Street, Brooklyn; L. R. Wentworth, 220 East 42d Street, New York City, and Charles R. Armstrong, superintendent of Trudeau Sanatorium, Saranac Lake.

W. F. McCann, 2493 Mayfair Avenue, Montreal, conductor on the train to relieve Conductor English, at Remsen was beaten about the shoulders with the ventilator stick, he told State Police.

While officials were investigating the disturbance today, Trooper Cowburn furnished the most complete account. He said Conductor English told him Smith, the porter, could not be located soon after the train left Utica and while he was going through the car looking for him he heard a woman in a berth exclaim: "If you don't stop, I'll scream." English said he found the porter in this berth.

The trooper was told by Conductor English the woman had given the porter something to drink.

Smith offered resistance when English attempted to remove him from the berth and a fight started, several passengers, Conductors English and Morgan and Walter D. Jordan of 719 South Street, Utica, taking part with two brakemen in the effort to subdue the Negro.

C. K. Brodhead of Utica, superintendent of the Adirondack Division of the New York Central, was on the train, traveling in his private car. After Smith had [illegible] the brake club to advantage [illegible] retreated to the private car, [illegible] as from a fire [illegible] continued the battle, the [illegible] was cut, Smith was [illegible] at one end of the car [illegible] when the trooper [illegible] of cheesecloth.

Please Turn to Page 10

Porter Runs Wild, Hurts [illegible] on Train

Uses Club on Conductor, Holds Others at Bay With Ax

Fight in 4 Coaches

Negro Surrenders When He Sees Troopers Enter Car at Thendara

Utica, April [illegible] A porter at [illegible] Saturday [illegible] passengers on a [illegible] train that here [illegible] with a [illegible] Albany, [illegible] a sleeping car [illegible] four coaches and [illegible] the private car of C. B. [illegible] superintendent of the Adirondack division of the New York Central [illegible] train belonged to this division.

At the request of Mr. [illegible] car, the porter [illegible] New York City [illegible] from an [illegible] closet in the face of his [illegible]

[illegible]

(Co[illegible] Page [illegible] Column [illegible])

THIS TICKET AND
ONE DOLLAR WILL Admit
One

SIXTH ANNUAL BALL

OF

- - The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters - -

WILL BE GIVEN

THURSDAY EVENING, December 3rd, 1931

At The RENAISSANCE CASINO
138th Street & Seventh Avenue

Music by the Famous Cecil Scott Jazz Orchestra

ADMISSION - - $1.00

GENERAL ADMISSION

BROTHERHOOD
SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
Rockland Palace, May 15, 1931
Retain Stub

1931

You and your friends are cordially invited to attend

A Hallowe'en Party

GIVEN BY

The Ladies' Auxiliary & The Live Wire Club

of the BROTHERHOOD of SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

239 West 136th Street, New York City

On Saturday Eve., October 31st, 1931

GOOD MUSIC SUBSCRIPTION 25c. REFRESHMENTS

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

National Headquarters AFFILIATED WITH A. F. of L.

NEW YORK 239 W. 136th Street NEW YORK

ISSUED TO _____ REINSTATEMENT CARD FEE $7.00

Payable in seven (7) consecutive weekly installments of $1.00 each.

This card, paid up [illegible] week, and countersigned by Division Secretary [illegible] admits member to all Brotherhood meetings [illegible] payment, is exchangeable for paid up dues [illegible] last payment is made.

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, Nat'l Pres. A. L. TOTTEN, Nat'l Secy-Treas.

DATE ISSUED

No. 1061

Counter[illegible]

Secretary [illegible]

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

Division

— COSTUME AND CIVIC BALL —

PULLMAN PORTERS and MAIDS

A. F. of L. LOCAL 18068

ROCKLAND PALACE

155th St. & 8th Ave.

Music by FINLAY'S Sensational Jazz Band

BROTHERHOOD SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

FRIDAY EVE. MAY 15th, 1931

PERSONS WEARING COSTUME $1.00,

GEN. ADMISSION 1.50

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

239 W. 136 St., New York City

357 Tel. Edgewood 4-2323

Nº 1994

LOGE

NO. 8

SIXTH ANNUAL BALL

OF

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

WILL BE GIVEN

THURSDAY EVENING, December 3rd, 1931

At The RENAISSANCE CASINO

138th Street & Seventh Avenue

Music by the Famous Cecil Scott Jazz Orchestra

LOGES $3.00

1931

PULLMAN PORTERS AND MAIDS

HEAR

ASHLEY L. TOITEN

National Secretary-Treasurer Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

Read and explain the TWELVE PAGE sweeping decision of

FEDERAL JUDGE GEORGE E. Q. JOHNSON

upholding the rights of Porters and Maids to self-organization, free from Influence, Interference or Coercion by the Pullman Company and their rights to choose leaders Free from the dictates of their Management

at Brotherhood Headquarters, 239 West 136th Street

Friday and Saturday Nights Nov. 25 & 26, Monday 28, Tues. 29 Wed 30, and Thursday until midnight Dec. 1, at 8:30 p. m. Please be on time

---

New members and non members given until midnight Dec. 1st to join or re-instate under Dispensation Rate $3.50. Porters & Maids are urged to bring in all old time books at once. Do not send it, bring it yourself. It is imperative that you do so. Office open daily from 12 M.

BY ORDER OF

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, President M. P. WEBSTER, 1st Vice Pres., & Chairman Gen. Ex. Board

O. W. BYNUM, N Y. Field Organizer

Note: All members of the Ladies Auxiliary, the Live Wire Club, the Wives and other Women Relatives and Friends of the Brotherhood are invited to attend Meetings.

1931

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
Affiliated with the
AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR
National Headquarters:
239 West 136th Street New York, N. Y.

In view of the decision of the United States Supreme Court handed down May 26, 1930,

I, the undersigned, being at the present time employed as a Porter / ~~Man~~ by the Pullman Company, do hereby designate and authorize the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, as my sole representative to make and maintain agreements with the Management of the Pullman Company concerning wages and rules governing working conditions.

Name James Marsh
Street and Number 4119 Wabash ave
City Chicago State Ill
District C C

110

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
239 WEST 136th STREET, NEW YORK CITY

In view of the decision of the U.S. Supreme Court May 26, 1930, I, the undersigned, being at the present time employed as a Porter by the Pullman Company, do hereby designate and authorize the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, to make and maintain agreements, as my sole representative, with the Management of the Pullman Company concerning wages and rules governing working conditions.

District P.S. Name Sandie Wood

Address 10 E. 118 St N.Y.C.

CHILDREN FREE! - CHILDREN FREE!!

☞ BIG BASEBALL DOUBLEHEADER

New York Police vs Black Giants

with

(CYCLONE) JOE WILLIAMS

POLO GROUNDS, 155th Street & 8th Avenue

Sunday, August 6th, 1933

Game Starts 1:30 P. M.

Benefit of PULLMAN PORTERS' BROTHERHOOD

Box Seats $1.10 Including Tax General Admission 55 cts. Including Tax

(Note: One Child under twelve years admitted Free when accompained with Adult with General Admission Ticket)

TICKETS Now On Sale: N. Y. Amsterdam News Office. 2293 7th Ave. TIllinghast 5-1760
E. Knight, 231 W. 149th St. AUd. 3-1858 Mrs. K. Lassiter, 137 W. 141 St. BRad. 2-0726
Pearline Press, 127-07 - 176 St. Jamaica, L. I., LAur. 8-0879 Polo Crounds, EDg. 4-0800
Brotherhood Of Sleeping Car Porters, 239 West 136th Street

GEO. MORRIS, PRINTING, 270 W. 136TH STREET

THE LAST CALL

Every MAN and WOMAN, member of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and Ladies Auxiliary or FRIENDS of porters and maids, attend the last meeting FRIDAY, JUNE 23rd, 1933, 2. p. m. precisely.

Brothers TOTTEN and RANDOLPH leave immediately after meeting for trial in Chicago.

VICTORY is sure if you help. Without your help they cannot go.

BROTHERS AND SISTERS SHOW YOUR COURAGE NOW AS NEVER YOU DID BEFORE

Fraternally,

A. Philip Randolph, Nat'l. Pres. Ashley L. Totten, Nat'l. Ssc'y.
O. N. Bynum, Field Organizer B. F. Mc Laurin. Field Organizer
239 WEST 136th STREET, NEW YORK CITY

Traitors To Pullman Porters And The Race

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters will hold A DEMONSTRATION at West Haven Yards, Friday Morning, July 14th, 1933 at 9 a.m., against the activities of

A. R. Sindy	A. McIntyre	T. E. Warnhan	J. C. Hairston
H. C. Garland	C. C. Smith	P. A. Bracy	F. D. Robinson
L. Monroe	T. J. Bowler	O. Gunther	W. Parham
C. H. Manuel	C. Wigent	W. H. Butler	A. A. Thomas
	John Monroe	J. E. Russell

whose names appear as sponsors in a plan to block the porters-maids affecting an agreement with the Pullman Company through their bona fide union before the Federal Coordinator of the Railroads at Washington D. C., for the removal of Filipinos, 240 hour work month, higher wages and seniority rights

ONLY 15 DAYS LEFT TO SIGN AUTHORIZATION CARDS, SIGN NOW

FREE TICKETS For The BIG BASE BALL GAME - Polo Grounds SUNDAY, AUG. 6th. NEW YORK POLICE TEAM vs BLACK GIANTS.

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
138th Street New York City

NINTH ANNUAL BALL

PULLMAN PORTERS BROTHERHOOD

AT THE

LIDO BALL ROOM

160 West 146th Street New York City

Sunday Night, December 31st, 1933

MUSIC BY JOHN C. SMITH'S ORCHESTRA

GENERAL ADMISSION $1.00 INCLUDING TAX

BOXES $3.50 -0- LOGES $2.00

Make Reservations at Pullman Porters Brotherhood, 287 West 140th Street, N. Y. City

Geo. E. Morris - PRINTING - 216 W. 136th St. N. Y.

. NINTH ANNUAL BALL .

PULLMAN PORTERS BROTHERHOOD

AT THE

LIDO BALL ROOM

160 West 146th Street New York City

SUNDAY NIGHT, DECEMBER 31st, 1933

Music By

JOHN C. SMITH'S ORCHESTRA

General Admission -o- $1.00

THIS TICKET WILL ADMIT ONE

Extra! PULLMAN PORTERS Extra!

PULLMAN COMPANY UNION IS SLOWLY PASSING OUT

Veteran Pullman Porter Refuses to join Conference in Chicago to force the "Company Union" Representatives for the Porters and Maids to sign An Agreement to keep your Wages Reduced until June 1934.

ELLA LAWSON, (Maid) New York District accepts. Call out the band. Give her a warm reception when she returns.

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters makes its final dash for victory as A. PHILIP RANDOLPH goes to Washington to arrange conference with National Recovery Administration.

The Government is on your side Join or Reinstate To-day.

IS THE PULLMAN COMPANY MIGHTIER THAN THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES?

We will find out.

Meetings every night from Monday, Oct. 2, to Friday, October 6th, 1933, at 8 P. M.

AT 207 WEST 140TH STREET N Y. CITY

Be sure to come early to get good seats. The Boys are Flocking back

---

B. F. McLAURIN O. W. BYNUM

Field Organizers

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN, National Secretary-Treasurer.

Geo. B. Morris · PRINTING · 270 W. 136th St., N. Y.

CITIZENS! PULLMAN PORTERS & MAIDS!! CITIZENS!!!

ATTENTION

Break the Backbone of Depression now by helping the Pullman Porters and Maids to win their Federal Court Fight in Chicago.

Victory for them means Victory for the Race

HEAR

A PHILIP RANDOLPH

President of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, read and explain the 12 PAGE FEDERAL COURT ORDER which indicates that the Greatest Struggle of the Organization will soon come to a Victorious end.

ALSO REV. WM. LLOYD IMES

at Metropolitan Baptist Church, 128TH STREET & SEVENTH AVENUE

Sunday Afternoon, January 29, 33' at 2 p.m.

MEETING MUST CLOSE AT 5:30 P. M. PLEASE BE ON TIME

Furloughed and extra Porters and Maids be sure to be present.

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN, General Secretary-Treasurer, Chairman

THE NEW YORK TIMES
FRIDAY, APRIL 28, 1933

Text of the Administration's Bill for Railroad Rehabilitation

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The text of the administration's railroad bill reads as follows:

A BILL.

To relieve the existing national emergency in relation to interstate railroad transportation and to amend Sections 5, 15A and 19A of the interstate commerce act, as amended.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled.

That this act may be cited as the "Emergency Railroad Transportation Act, 1933."

TITLE I.

Emergency Powers.

SEC. 1. As used in this act—

(a) The term "commission" means the Interstate Commerce Commission.

(b) The term "coordinator" means the Federal Coordinator of Transportation for whose appointment or designation the act provides.

(c) The term "committee" means any one of the regional coordinating committees for whose creation the act provides.

(d) The term "carrier" means any common carrier by railroad subject to the provisions of the interstate commerce act, as amended, including any receiver or trustee thereof.

(e) The term "rates" means rates, fares and charges and all classifications, regulations and practices, relating thereto.

SEC. 2. In order to protect and foster interstate commerce in relation to railroad transportation by preventing and relieving obstructions and burdens thereon resulting from the present acute economic emergency, and in order to safeguard and maintain an adequate national system of transportation, there is hereby created the office of Federal Coordinator of Transportation, who shall be appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate or be designated by the President from the membership of the commission. If so designated, the coordinator shall be relieved from other duties as commissioner during his term of service to such extent as the President may direct. The coordinator shall have such powers and duties as are hereinafter set forth and prescribed, and may, with the approval of the President, appoint and fix the compensation of such assistants and agents, in addition to the assistance provided by the commission, as may be necessary to the performance of his duties under this act, not subject to the civil service laws and the classification act of 1923, as amended. The office of the coordinator shall be in Washington, District of Columbia, and the commission shall provide such office space, facilities and assistance as he may request and it is able to furnish. The coordinator shall receive such compensation as the President shall fix except that, if designated from the commission, he shall receive no compensation in addition to that which he receives as a member of the commission.

Carriers to Be Divided Into Three Groups

SEC. 3. The coordinator shall divide the lines of the carriers into three groups, to wit: an eastern group, a southern group, and a western group, and may from time to time make such changes or subdivisions in such groups as he may deem to be necessary or desirable. At the earliest practicable date after the cooridnator shall have initially designated such groups, three regional coordinating committees shall be created, one for each group, and each committee shall consist of not more than five members. The carriers in each group, acting each through its board of directors, or through an officer or officers designated for the purpose by such board, shall select the members of the committees representing that group, and shall prescribe the rules under which such committee shall operate. In such selection each carrier shall have a vote in proportion to its mileage lying within the group, subject to the approval of the coordinator. Members of the committees may be removed from office and vacancies filled in like manner.

SEC. 4. The purposes of this act are (1) to encourage and promote or require action on the part of the carriers which will (a) avoid unnecessary duplication of services and facilities of whatsoever nature and permit the joint use of terminals and trackage incident thereto or requisite to such joint use; (b) control allowances, accessorial services, including owned or partly owned air lines, bus lines, or trucks and other practices affecting service or operation, to the end that undue impairment of net earnings may be prevented; and (c) avoid wastes and preventable expense and unreasonable disturbance of rates by individual carriers; and (2) to promote financial reorganization of the capital structure of carriers so as to reduce fixed charges to the extent consistent with the public interest, the stability of railway credit, with due regard to existing legal rights; and (3) to provide for the immediate study of other means of improving transportation conditions in all its forms and the preparation of plans therefor.

SEC. 5. It shall be the duty of the committees, on their own initiative, severally within each group and jointly where more than one group is affected, to carry out the purposes set forth in subdivision (1) of Section 4, so far as such action can be voluntarily accomplished by the carriers. In such instances as the committees are unable, for any reason, legal or otherwise, to carry out such purposes by such voluntary action, they shall recommend to the coordinator that he give appropriate directions to the carriers by order; and the coordinator is hereby authorized and directed to issue and enforce such orders if he finds them to be consistent with public interest and in furtherance of the purposes of this act, and such orders shall remain in effect until they are vacated by him or suspended or set aside or modified by the commission as hereinafter provided. Any order so issued by the coordinator may provide for the creation and administration of such just pooling arrangements or for such just compensation as he may deem necessary or desirable and in furtherance of the purposes of this act.

Committees Must Obey Coordinator

SEC. 6. The coordinator shall confer freely with the committees and shall give them the benefit of his advice and assistance in administering the authority granted them by this act. At his request the committees, the carriers and the commission shall furnish him or his assistants and agents such information and reports as he may desire in investigating any matter within the scope of his duties under this act. If in any instance a committee fails to act with respect to any matter which the coordinator has brought to its attention and upon which he is of the opinion that it should act, under the provisions of Section 4, he is hereby authorized and directed to issue and enforce such orders giving appropriate directions to the carriers with respect to such matter as he shall find to be consistent with the public interest. Any order so issued by the coordinator shall remain in effect until it is vacated by him or suspended or set aside by the commission, as hereinafter provided. and it may include provision for the creation and administration of such just pooling arrangements or for such just compensation as he may deem necessary or desirable and in furtherance of the purposes of this act.

Employes to Be Informed Of Operation Changes

SEC. 7. The coordinator shall provide means whereby such central committees as may be selected by and represent railway labor organizations in each of the groups shall be advised of any contemplated orders requiring changes in service or operation which will affect the interests of the employes, and he shall confer freely with such committees before issuing any such order.

SEC. 8. Any interested party, whether carrier, shipper or employe, dissatisfied with any order of the coordinator may file a petition with the commission asking that such order be reviewed and suspended pending such review. If the commission, upon considering such petition, finds reason to believe that the order may be unjust to the petitioner or inconsistent with the public interest, the commission is hereby authorized and directed to grant such review and, in its discretion, the commission may suspend the order if it finds immediate enforcement thereof would result in irreparable damage to the petitioner or work grave injury to the public interest; but if the commission suspends an order it shall expedite the hearings and decision on that order as much as possible. Thereupon the commission shall, after due notice and a public hearing, review the order and take such action in accord with the purposes of this act as it finds to be just and consistent with the public interest, either confirming the order or setting it aside or reissuing it in modified form, and any order so confirmed or reissued shall thereafter remain in effect until vacated or modified by the commission.

SEC. 9. The carriers affected by any order of the coordinator or commission made pursuant to this act shall, so long as such order is in effect, be, and they are hereby relieved from the operation of the "anti-trust laws," as designated in Sec. 1 of the act entitled "An Act to Supplement Existing Laws Against Unlawful Restraints and Monopolies, and for Other Purposes," approved Oct. 15, 1914, and of all other restraints or prohibitions by law, State or Federal, other than such as are for the protection of the public health or safety, in so far as may be necessary to enable them to do anything authorized or required by such order made pursuant to this act: Provided, however, that nothing herein shall be construed to repeal, amend, suspend or modify any of the requirements of the railway labor act or the duties and obligations imposed thereunder or through contracts entered into in accordance with the provisions of said act.

SEC. 10. The willful failure or refusal of any carrier or of any officer or employe of any carrier to comply with the terms of any order of the coordinator or of the commission made pursuant to this act shall be a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof the carrier or person offending shall be subject to a fine of not less than $1,000 or more than $20,000 for each offense, and each day during which such carrier or person shall willfully fail or refuse to comply with the terms of such order shall constitute a separate offense. It shall be the duty of any District Attorney of the United States to whom the coordinator shall apply to institute in the proper court and to prosecute under the direction of the Attorney General of the United States all necessary proceedings for the enforcement of the provisions of this act and for the punishment of all violations thereof, and the cost and expenses of such prosecution shall be paid out of the appropriation for the expense of the courts of the United States.

Coordinator to Devise Service Betterments

SEC. 11. It shall further be the duty of the coordinator, and he is hereby authorized and directed, forthwith to investigate and consider means, not provided for in this act, of improving transportation conditions throughout the country, including the ability, financial or otherwise, of the carriers to improve their properties and furnish service and charge rates which will promote the commerce and industry of the country and including also the stability of railroad labor employment and other improvement of railroad labor conditions; and from time to time he shall submit to the commission such recommendations calling for further legislation to these ends as he may deem necessary or desirable in the public interest. The commission shall promptly transmit such recommendations, together with its comments thereon, to the President and to the Congress.

SEC. 12—The expenses of the coordinator except so far as they are borne by the commission in accordance with the provisions of Section 2, shall be allowed and paid, on the presentation of itemized vouchers therefor approved by the coordinator, out of a fund obtained from assessments on the carriers. It shall be the duty of each carrier to pay into this fund $1 for every mile of road operated by it on Dec. 31, 1932, as reported to the commission, and it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to collect such assessments. Any amount remaining in the fund when this act ceases to have effect shall be returned by the Secretary of the Treasury to the carriers in proportion to their contributions. The carriers and the Pullman Company shall be permitted anything in the interstate commerce act, as amended, to the contrary nothwithstanding, to provide free transportation and other carrier service to the coordinator and his assistants and agents.

SEC. 13—The commission shall not approve a loan to a carrier under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act, nor shall it authorize a carrier to issue bonds or other evidence of indebtedness under the interstate commerce act, as amended, unless it shall find that the financial structure of the carrier is such that there is reasonable prospect that such carrier can without reorganization survive the existing economic depression and provide for its capital needs thereafter.

SEC. 14—This act shall cease to have effect at the end of one year after the effective date [illegible] tended by a [illegible] President [illegible] part thereof, but orders of the coordinator or the commission made thereunder shall continue in effect until vacated by the commission or set aside by other lawful authority.

June 26th Is The Date

SPECIAL BULLETIN
TO
PULLMAN PORTERS and MAIDS

On June 26, 1933 at Ten A. M. in the Federal District Court at Chicago, the case of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters against the Pullman plan of Employee representation will be tried before Federal Judge Woodward.

—•—

The Sleeping Car Porters Union will aggressively prosecute this case for the elimination of the Company Union in order that the Pullman Porters and Maids may get the protection of a bonafide represeniation in all matters concerning wages and working conditions as is their right under the law.

—•—

The new industrial program of America, as it is being shaped by the United States Government, definately recognizes the right of all workers to organize Labor Unions for collective bargaining, advocates shorter working hours and a wage for workers commensurate with decent living standards. Only through an organized agency can the full advantage of the "New Deal" be obtained by workers. The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is properly equipped and qualified to get for the Porters the protection that is provided under the law.

—•—

Every Pullman Porter and Maid is urged to get in touch with his Local Brotherhood Headquarters at once and lend immediate assistance to the organization in its fight to end FOR ALL TIME this Company Union.

ACT AT ONCE SO THAT YOUR HELP WILL BE EFFECTIVE.

—•—

When in Chicago attend the meetings at the Brotherhood Headquarters, 4231 Michigan Avenue every Night at 8 p. m. standard time.

SPECIAL NOTICE!

Big Mass Meeting for Porters, Maids and Families, Sunday, June 25, 3 p.m. standard time at Chicago Headquarters. 4231 Michigan Ave. Henry T. Hunt, C. Francis Stradford and Walter F. Lynch, Brotherhood Lawyers and A. Philip Randolph, National President and other Brotherhood Officials will speak. Foreign Porters are especially invited.

—•—

A Show-down on this Company Union is at hand. With your immediate cooperation victory is assured.

—•—

Remember June 26 is the date. See your local organizer at once, get detailed information

---

Issued by Chicago Headquarters of Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters
4231 South Michigan Avenue
A. Philip Randolph, National President — M. P. Webster, Chairman General Eecutive Board
A. L. Totten, General Secretary-Treasurer

203

Towards an awakening and enlightened Black Worker

Method: Education—Agitation—Organization

The Black Worker

Official Organ of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

"Ye Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make You Free"

VOL. 3, NO. 1. 110 CHICAGO, ILL., MARCH, 21, 1932 PRICE 5 CENTS

SOME PULLMAN PORTERS' GRIEVANCES

WAGE CUT Porters everywhere are in revolt against the recent wage cut of $5.00. They are not only grumbling about the money taken from them but they are peeved and annoyed over the secret manner in which it was done. It is a matter of common knowledge that the porter-officials of the Employee Plan or Company Union refused to make any statements at all about the wage cut before it was effected. Brotherhood officials, of course, knew of the two secret conferences held by the Company with its hand-picked company union representatives to slash porters' wages. Were it not for the letter sent out by the Congregational Ministers' Union, at the request of Brothers Randolph and Webster, who told the story of Pullman oppression of porters to this body on the day the wage cut was being made, the letter that condemned said reduction in wages, the porters would not have known that their pay was being diminished until they received their next check.

The Company attempted to defend the pay cut of the porters on the grounds that Pullman Officials had sustained a cut of more than 10 per cent, as though porters' wages could be compared with officials' salaries. Those officials receiving over 10 per cent cut, it is interesting to note, received a salary of $400.00 a month. There is much justification for the porters widespread condemnation of their wage reduction, for as a result of the industrial depression which has lessened the travel, they have in consequence of the virtual vanishing of tips, received a reduction in income of some 33 per cent. The Company is perfectly unconcerned about the dropping in tips to almost the zero point. It readily takes advantage of its power to slash porters' wages, knowing fully that it is reducing the porter to a starvation level. From the very beginning of Pullman to the present time tips have been recognized as constituting practically one-half of the income of porters. Pullman officials, including former president Robert Todd Lincoln, have testified before industrial commissions that they did not consider that it would be hardly possible for a porter to work for the wages he received alone. They also contended that a good porter always made good tips. But what can they say now? What will they say? There are practically no tips at all. Porters make trip after trip in different parts of the country and return to their home districts in debt. Men are compelled to borrow money, while enroute, to buy food. Not only are porters suffering from this 33 per cent reduction in income, but they are not even certain of getting any income at all.

FURLOUGHING From the beginning of the industrial depression in 1929. the Company has inaugurated a ruthless and unfair system of furloughing porters. Probably more than 3,000 have been laid off during this time. No attempt has been made by the Company to provide work for these men. While other corporations, with more industrial enlightenment, have attempted to reduce the hours of work as a means of providing employment to their regular force, at least part time, Pullman simply lays men off right and left without rhyme or reason. Of course it claims that bad business is the cause, but upon reading fiscal reports setting forth the financial condition of the Company, one notes the amazing, startling and unusual fact, that it has not passed paying a dividend. The fact is Pullman Cut Porters' Wages to Pay Dole in Dividends to Stockholders.

(Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

PREACHERS ENDORSE BROTHERHOOD

Following the endorsement of the Sleeping Car Porters' Union, by the Congregational Ministers' Union (white) February 8th, in Chicago, Dr. Charles Wesley Burton, Chairman of the Citizens Committee of the Chicago Division to aid the Brotherhood, and A. Philip Randolph, National President, appeared before The Baptist Minsiters' Conference of Chicago, the A. M. E. Ministers' Association, the C. M. E. Ministers' Alliance, the A. M. E. Zion Ministers' Conference, and presented the case of the porters and Negro labor, requesting the support of these bodies of clergymen. In every instance endorsement was given and cooperation promised. This is the first time that the porters' union has been able to enlist the unified backing of the colored ministers of Chicago.

NEGRO WOMEN TURN ATTENTION TO PROBLEMS OF LABOR

One of the most effective agencies in the life of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters has been and is the Colored Women's Economic Council, or auxiliary to the union. This movement was started soon after the Brotherhood was formed in order that the porters' household may become labor-minded and the women relatives fully realize the high purpose and meaning of the struggle. Officials of the Brotherhood saw the necessity of enlisting the moral and spiritual support of the women. This is probably the only group of colored women in America who are committed to a basic and constructive, as well as aggressive economic program .

On the 28th of February. in the Brotherhood Headquarters, the Council. under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Moore-Smith, held an Inspirational Meeting with a picturesque Candle-Lighting Demonstration. Not only did the Brotherhood receive financial

(Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

SOME PULLMAN PORTERS' GRIEVANCES

(Continued from page 1)

The chief cause for furloughing porters is not so much poor business conditions as it is long hours of work they are subjected to. If porters enjoyed the 8-hour day, or 240-hour work month, instead of 3,000 being laid off, a thousand or more would have been taken on. The work month of nearly 400 hours is not only unjust, unfair, and unreasonable but inhumane and harks back to the cruel system of slavery. Other railway employees, including Pullman conductors, operate on a 240-hour work month basis or nearly one-half the time of porters. Now the Big Four Brotherhoods are fighting for the 6-hour day, and will get it. If the Pullman Company was the friend it pretends to be to the porters, it would grant them the 8-hour day which the Adamson 8-hour Law enacted by Congress during the World War, provides. Of course, Pullman is not going to give the porters anything it is not forced to give them, and it can only be forced to grant the porters industrial justice by the organized might of the porters themselves, symbolized in the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

CHAIN-GANGING RUNS Probably the most flagrant indication of the Pullman Company's bad faith with the porters and the public is its present policy of pooling runs, thereby adding even more hours of work to the porters who have not been furloughed. For instance, there are porters operating between New York and Springfield, Mass., who are on the road six nights a week, having only one night to sleep in a bed at home. Despite this grueling and exhaustive tax upon the nerve and physical energies of the porters, Pullman spotters and inspectors are ever snooping around the cars trying to find a porter nodding in order to write him up and give him ten or fifteen days in the streets or book suspension. What porter, pray tell us, can avoid dropping to sleep now and then, who spends six nights of the week on the road, and be it known, he is not allowed to sleep during these nights at work. On the runs from New York to Montreal, Canada, and up state New York, porters who formerly made one round trip and received a layover at home, under this vicious chain-ganging of runs, by Pullman efficiency experts, must make two round-trips, or remain four nights on the road before receiving only one night at home. The public will, doubtless, be interested in knowing that porters have very little time to sleep during the day as a result of this pooling of runs. For example, the porter operating from N. Y. to Montreal, leaves New York six o'clock in the evening and arrives in Montreal the next morning about eight o'clock and leaves Montreal that same day at six o'clock in the evening. He arrives in New York about eight o'clock the next day, and leaves for Montreal again that same day in the evening at six o'clock. Because of the fact the porter doubles out of the districts, he actually gets no more than about three hours of sleep during the day. Therefore, this pooling of runs policy is striking at the health and life of the thousands of porters in the Pullman service. The Company is doing probably more than any other industrial corporation to make unemployment conditions worse. There is no remedy for this situation, except bona fide collective action of the porters through an organization which they control. It is a notorious fact that the Pullman Employee Representation Plan, or company union, has conspired and cooperated supinely and slavishly with the company in imposing upon the porter the most reprehensible and indefensible conditions of work imaginable.

CONGRESS PASSES ANTI-YELLOW DOG CONTRACT BILL

By a vote in the Senate of 75-5 and in the House of Representatives of 363-13, Congress registered its definite and unequivocal opposition to injunctions employed by corporations to restrict strikers and yellow dog contracts that bind workers not to join bona fide trade unions while in the employ of corporations who have in force the said yellow dog contracts. This is a signal victory for organized labor and a fine tribute to the militant liberalism of Senator George W. Norris and Congressman Fiorello H. LaGuardia. Of course, this legislation does not alter the status of the Brotherhood's injunction case but it unquestionably gives it splendid moral support. The Brotherhood's injunction program will proceed on as it has been mapped out. Trial of the case will come in due time. Because of the precedent established in the case of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks against the Texas and New Orleans Railroad, which resulted in the significant and far-reaching decision of the U. S. Supreme Court, outlawing the Company Union on railroads, the outlook for victory in the Brotherhood's legal encounter is most reassuring and favorable. The action of Congress against the Yellow Dog Contract indicates the trend of public sentiment in favor or labor receiving its untrammelled right of self-organization. Of course, all workers will be required to organize into trade and industrial unions before they can take advantage of this law, the Railway Labor Act, or the Supreme Court decision, against company unions. Workers' unions must initiate action in equity courts in order to break down company unions and abolish yellow dog contracts. Legislation and court decisions do not execute themselves in the interest of workers or anybody else. The workers must see to it that said legislation and court decisions are obeyed by big business. The fact that this anti-injunction, anti-yellow dog contract bill has been passed by Congress, does not mean that the employers which seek to enslave workers through the aforementioned devices will emmediately abolish yellow dog contracts, company unions and their various methods of curtailing the self-expression of the workers. Yellow dog contracts and company unions will continue to plague the workers so long as the workers permit employers to maintain them. The recent law and the Supreme Court decision against company unions, yellow dog contracts and injunctions must be enforced and they will not be enforced except through the militant, organized struggle of the workers. It is therefore important for the porters to realize, that their task is to continue to build up the Brotherhood so that it will possess the economic power to bring the Pullman Company to book before the court through our injunction procedure.

NEGRO WOMEN TURN ATTENTION TO PROBLEMS OF LABOR

(Continued from Page 1)

assistance from this entertaining and ennobling effort, but it was also greatly enriched by the fine spiritual aspect which stressed the need of sacrifice on the part of the men for the attainment of industrial justice. The Chicago Council is being carried forward under the leadership of Mrs. Helena Wilson. The Inspirational Service was marked by the delightful singing of Mrs. Bessie Dixon and the recitational work of some of the members.

Other women giving cooperation to the Brotherhood are those included in the Federated Clubs of Chicago. In the Poro Dining Room March 8th, a group of women assembled and listened to the presentation of the case of the Brotherhood by M. P. Webster, President Chicago Division, and A. Philip Randolph, National President. The luncheon was presided over by Dr. Chas. Wesley Burton who made appropriate introductory remarks. An inspiring talk was given by Miss Mary McDowell, a staunch friend of the union. All ladies present expressed their interest in and desire to help the porters in particular and black labor in general, to exercise the right of self-organization, to win decent wages, hours of work and working conditions, and to play their part in ushering in the new day of economic freedom for all peoples, regardless of race, creed or nationality. Mrs. Irene Gaines, prominent clubwoman, was chosen as the chairman of the Cooperating Committee.

This affair was followed by another delightful luncheon in the Poro Dining Room, initiated and supervised by Mrs. Edith Sampson, prominent young social leader. On this occasion A. Philip Randolph, national president, spoke on world problems and labor to some twenty of Chicago's leading society women, and they pledged their cooperation in assisting the fight of the porters by helping to make the dance planned for April 5, in Bacon's Casino, a success. Dr. Charles Wesley Burton and M. P. Webster were present and made comments. Many questions were asked by the women about labor and world problems. The ladies present at this affair are also serving as patronesses of the dance. One of the most significant phases of the women's attitude toward the Brotherhood's fight, is their apparent interest in the ideas and philosophy of the movement. This is most hopeful.

Friday, March 18, in the Brotherhood's Headquarters, at the call of the women's committee, headed by Mrs. Irene Gaines, a large group of women gathered and listened to the story in detail of Pullman exploitation of the porter and the present status of Negro labor as presented by M. P. Webster, Dr. Charles Wesley Burton and A. Philip Randolph. They became enthusiastic in their expressions of interest in the work.

MEXICAN PULLMAN FORTERS THREATEN STRIKE

The following news item appeared in the California Eagle, Friday, Mar. 4, by Chas. L. Upton, Editor of Railroad Clatter and Coast Doings:

"Mexican Pullman porters and all Mexican employees of the Pullman Company threatened to call a strike to take effect February 29, in Mexico as a protest against the recent wage cut of the Pullman Company. So serious was the situation that the Pullman Company immediately dispatched their industrial relations superintendent, Mr. F. L. Simmons, to Mexico City to negotiate the wage difference with the porters in the hope that the tie-up might be averted. Mr. Simmons arrived in Mexico City February 25. Los Angeles porters operating through cars to Mexico as far as El Paso, where they turned them over to Mexican porters, were warned by the porters not to attempt to operate the cars into Mexico in the event the strike was called. They were told a strike was certain unless the Pullman Company would agree to a satisfactory settlement regarding the cut by February 29th.

This ought to be an interesting lesson to Negro Pullman porters. Whatever the outcome is, the militant spirit of the Mexican porters is commendable. Negro Pullman porters are entirely too docile, servile and submissive. No group of workers has, or ever will secure their economic rights, without the will to fight for them. In the final analysis it is not the Pullman Company but the porters themselves who are their own worse enemy.

PORTERS' LEADERS ADDRESS WHITE FORUMS

Sunday evening, March 13, M. P. Webster addressed the Forum of a Congregational church of Chicago on the Case of the Pullman Porter. Sunday, March 20, he spoke on the fight of the Brotherhood before the Forum of the Abraham Lincoln Center of Chicago.

A Philip Randolph addressed Forums in the Oak Park Congregational Church, February 14, the Chicago Forum in December, Jewish People's Institute in February and filled three forum engagements in Cincinnati. He addressed the Social the Y. W. C. A., and will address the Inter-Racial Commission, March 27th.

BROTHERHOOD FORMS NUCLEUS IN CINCINNATI

While in Cincinnati on speaking engagements, Brother Randolph organized the nucleus for a Brotherhood local in that city. This is the first time that the union has been able to get any of the porters together in Cincinnati. Brother Reese, a former porter, who resigned recently, will serve as organizer, under the regional zone supervision, of Bennie Smith, second vice president. Bro. Randolph also held a conference with the officials of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks on the injunction case while there. Much material was secured from the Clerks' Union which will be helpful in the porters' fight.

BROTHERHOOD TO HEAR CLERKS' RESEARCH DIRECTOR

Plans are afoot to have Brother Oliver, research director of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks to address a meeting of the Brotherhood in the headquarters of the Chicago Division on the injunction fight of the clerks against the company union of the Texas and New Orleans Railroad.

He will make a special interpretation of the meaning of the U. S. Supreme Court decision to railway employees with a special reference to Pullman porters.

THE SOCIAL CLUB

Every two weeks in the Headquarters of the Chicago Division, a social evening is staged for the entertainment of the porters, their wives and friends. These affairs are developing a fine spirit of fellowship among the men.

The Porter Wants More Than a Tip

By JOHN J. LEARY, Jr.

IN the heart of New York's "black belt" —No. 207 West 140th Street, to be exact—is a modest apartment house.

In the heart of the Chicago financial section—No. 79 East Adams Street—is a magnificent office building.

The former is the home of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, an organization of negroes too poor to have a telephone or to pay salaries to its officers.

The latter is the home of the Pullman Company, Inc., one of the wealthiest corporations in the United States and one of the comparatively few to maintain cash dividends throughout the depression. Its president is reputed to receive a salary of $100,000 a year. Between the two organizations a fight has raged for ten years, with the Pullman Company always on the defensive and never more so than now, with the contest on its way to the Supreme Court of the United States and reasonably certain to be threshed out in Congress. Meantime, the Interstate Commerce Commission, at the request of Joseph B. Eastman, coordinator of railroads, is conducting an inquiry into the conditions surrounding the porter and his work.

A recent decision by Judge Woodward, of the United States District Court for Illinois, which the porters are appealing, puts probably the poorest group in the labor movement of the United States in the position of making a fight on which the whole issue of trade unionism versus company unions may depend.

In an injunction suit, in which the porters sought the benefit of Chief Justice Hughes' ruling in the case of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks against the New Orleans and Texas Railroad barring company unions on railroads, Judge Woodward held that the Pullman "employes' representation plan" is not a company union, although finding that all the "expenses of elections and other expenses incident to the plan are borne by the company." Allowed to stand unchallenged, that ruling would be a precedent affecting every company union in the country. The porters are, therefore, appealing it not only for themselves but for every other union group. No matter how the United States Circuit Court of Appeals may rule, the loser is certain to seek a reversal by the highest Court.

The porters, in their ten-year fight, have succeeded in establishing a race solidarity unknown since Lincoln's proclamation, backed by Grant's guns, made the negro free, and in working a change in negro psychology that, until President Roosevelt launched his New Deal experiments, represented as interesting a social development as there is in process in America.

This change, in short, is recognition by the comparatively few well-to-do members of the race that they are not a group apart from the mass but that they must rise or fall with the less-well-to-do majority, and, more significant, that until the negro secures something like economic equality there can be nothing like social [illegible] political equality for any.

Until the financial crash of 1929, something like three per cent of the 12,000,000 negroes in the United States could be rated as prosperous. Chiefly, these prosperous ones lived in the larger cities—lawyers, doctors, real estate dealers, merchants. A few were manufacturers. Some were millionaires.

Ewing Galloway

"George's" average wage in 1932 was $810 for the year, compared with the $1,139.77 fixed by surveys as the minimum necessary for healthful living

• • •

This little group tended to flock together. Its members made up a "negro 400." They were inclined to look down upon the ninety-seven per cent of the race who are laborers. They had no more than languid interest in the announcement in 1920 that the Pullman Company had set up a plan of representation to deal with its 20,000 employes, 8,000 of whom were of their race. They were hardly more interested in 1924, when it was announced that a rebellion had started inside the "company union" led by Ashley L. Totten, one of its officers, who, viewing the operations of the organization from the inside, decided that a real union was necessary to protect his people.

THE well-to-do paid closer attention when it became known that Totten, Milton Webster of Chicago, and a few kindred spirits—the court records say fifteen in all—having set up their organization, had chosen A. Phillip Randolph, of New York, as its president. Randolph, an honor graduate of Harvard and a fine orator, was not a porter. As publisher of a weekly paper, The Messenger, he had expressed liberal views that were not pleasing to the Three Per Cent. As a Socialist, frequently seen on soap boxes, he ruffled their complacency. They did not like the new movement.

The company had, too, in very large degree the backing of the negro press. The clergy, also, were opposed to the porters, and were an important factor in any movement involving a highly religious people. Halls were closed to the "agitators." Churches which had been rented frequently were denied them and the rent returned. Sometimes a reason might be assigned. Sometimes there was none. The organizers might suspect it was Pullman influence that did it. They could not always prove it.

IN the face of these conditions, the organizers made so little progress that in 1925 they were about to admit defeat when their first big break came. It was in the form of a challenge, from the editor of the most influential negro paper in the country to Randolph, to debate in Chicago the question of unionism with Perry Howard, Republican National Committeeman from Mississippi and something of a race oracle.

"Randolph and I were holding a lodge of sorrow when that challenge came," Webster says. "We were pretty nearly down and out. We couldn't accept quick enough. We couldn't pray hard enough that the Lord would preserve Mr. Howard's good health until the night of the meeting, and not allow him to change his mind about meeting Randolph.

"The Lord was with us. Howard showed up all right, in the biggest hall in the negro section. In almost less time than it takes to tell, Randolph ran him out of gas. I got my coat ripped off, helping the police get Howard out."

The debate ended the opposition of the reputable negro press. The clergy changed front. No longer were churches closed to the organization. Opposition by the Three Per Cent ceased.

Meantime, at least three-fourths of the porters became members of the new organization. Formal demands were made on the Pullman Company for recognition. These being denied, appeal was made to the United States Railroad Labor Board. Edward P. Morrow, former Governor of Kentucky, as a member of the board, made an investigation of the brotherhood's records which convinced him that Randolph and his associates spoke for more than a majority of the porters. The board, however, could do nothing. Under the railroad labor law as framed, the Pullman Company was exempt. Seemingly the only thing left was to strike. There were Pullman officials who wanted a strike, holding the opinion that it would end unionism on its cars as effectually as the Debs American Railway Union strike of 1893 ended unionism in its shops. An order to strike actually was issued in 1928. It was cancelled almost immediately on the advice of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. He urged the less spectacular if slower [illegible]

(CONTINUED ON PAGE 23)

PULLMAN PORTERS AND MAIDS

ATTENTION!

"It Won't Be Long Now"

SATURDAY, JUNE 30th, 1934

(Weather Permitting)

Two Big Open - Air Meetings

HEAR

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN

National Secretary - Treasurer, B. S. C. P.

CORNER of 160th STREET and MORRIS AVENUE, NEW YORK

AND

B. F. Mc. LAURIN

Field Organizer, B. S. C. P.

VICTOR C. GASPAR

Trade Union Organizer

CORNER of HENRY and 28th STREET, LONG ISLAND CITY

10 A. M.

SUBJECT: How The New Railroad Labor Law Just Passed By Congress And Signed By The President Of The United States Will Benefit Pullman Porters, Maids, Dining Car Employees And The Race.

JOIN OR REINSTATE

WITH THE

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters TO-DAY

Don't Delay, Hesitate Or Ponder Over This, JOIN NOW

OFFICE OPEN EVERY DAY AND NIGHT

207 WEST 140TH STREET NEW YORK CITY

Extra! Extra!

BIG MASS MEETING AT

Shorter Church

23rd & Washington Sts.

Friday, Oct. 26th

At 8:15 P. M.

Under the auspices of the

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

Musical Program by Shorter Choir

Principal Speaker:-A. Philip Randolph

NATIONAL PRESIDENT of THE BROTHERHOOD of SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

Subject--"The Significance and Value of the Railway Labor Act and the Pension Law to Negro Railway Workers."

He will also discuss the "Economic Status of the Workers in general under N. R. A."

There will also be a speaker from American Federation of Labor, State of Colorado.

Rev. Russell S. Brown, Pastor of Shorter Church, will preside.

[PUBLIC—NO. 442—73D CONGRESS]

[H.R. 9861]

AN ACT

To amend the Railway Labor Act approved May 20, 1926, and to provide for the prompt disposition of disputes between carriers and their employees.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 1 of the Railway Labor Act is amended to read as follows:

"DEFINITIONS

"SECTION 1. When used in this Act and for the purposes of this Act—

"First. The term 'carrier' includes any express company, sleeping-car company, carrier by railroad, subject to the Interstate Commerce Act, and any company which is directly or indirectly owned or controlled by or under common control with any carrier by railroad and which operates any equipment or facilities or performs any service (other than trucking service) in connection with the transportation, receipt, delivery, elevation, transfer in transit, refrigeration or icing, storage, and handling of property transported by railroad, and any receiver, trustee, or other individual or body, judicial or otherwise, when in the possession of the business of any such 'carrier': Provided, however, That the term 'carrier' shall not include any street, interurban, or suburban electric railway, unless such railway is operating as a part of a general steam-railroad system of transportation, but shall not exclude any part of the general steam-railroad system of transportation now or hereafter operated by any other motive power. The Interstate Commerce Commission is hereby authorized and directed upon request of the Mediation Board or upon complaint of any party interested to determine after hearing whether any line operated by electric power falls within the terms of this proviso.

"Second. The term 'Adjustment Board' means the National Railroad Adjustment Board created by this Act.

"Third. The term 'Mediation Board' means the National Mediation Board created by this Act.

"Fourth. The term 'commerce' means commerce among the several States or between any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia and any foreign nation, or between any Territory or the District of Columbia and any State, or between any Territory and any other Territory, or between any Territory and the District of Columbia, or within any Territory or the District of Columbia, or between points in the same State but through any other State or any Territory or the District of Columbia or any foreign nation.

"Fifth. The term 'employee' as used herein includes every person in the service of a carrier (subject to its continuing authority to supervise and direct the manner of rendition of his service) who performs any work defined as that of an employee or subordinate official in the orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission now in effect, and as the same may be amended or interpreted by orders hereafter entered by the Commission pursuant to the authority which is hereby conferred upon it to enter orders amending or interpreting such existing orders: Provided, however, That no occupational classification made by order of the Interstate Commerce Commission shall be construed to define the crafts according to which railway employees may be organized by their voluntary action, nor shall the jurisdiction or powers of such employee organizations be regarded as in any way limited or defined by the provisions of this Act or by the orders of the Commission.

"Sixth. The term 'representative' means any person or persons, labor union, organization, or corporation designated either by a carrier or group of carriers or by its or their employees, to act for it or them.

"Seventh. The term 'district court' includes the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia; and the term 'circuit court of appeals' includes the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

"This Act may be cited as the 'Railway Labor Act'."

SEC. 2. Section 2 of the Railway Labor Act is amended to read as follows:

"GENERAL PURPOSES

"SEC. 2. The purposes of the Act are: (1) To avoid any interruption to commerce or to the operation of any carrier engaged therein; (2) to forbid any limitation upon freedom of association among employees or any denial, as a condition of employment or otherwise, of the right of employees to join a labor organization; (3) to provide for the complete independence of carriers and of employees in the matter of self-organization to carry out the purposes of this Act; (4) to provide for the prompt and orderly settlement of all disputes concerning rates of pay, rules, or working conditions; (5) to provide for the prompt and orderly settlement of all disputes growing out of grievances or out of the interpretation or application of agreements covering rates of pay, rules, or working conditions.

"GENERAL DUTIES

"First. It shall be the duty of all carriers, their officers, agents, and employees to exert every reasonable effort to make and maintain agreements concerning rates of pay, rules, and working conditions, and to settle all disputes, whether arising out of the application of such agreements or otherwise, in order to avoid any interruption to commerce or to the operation of any carrier growing out of any dispute between the carrier and the employees thereof.

"Second. All disputes between a carrier or carriers and its or their employees shall be considered, and, if possible, decided, with all expedition, in conference between representatives designated and authorized so to confer, respectively, by the carrier or carriers and by the employees thereof interested in the dispute.

"Third. Representatives, for the purposes of this Act, shall be designated by the respective parties without interference, influence, or coercion by either party over the designation of representatives by the other; and neither party shall in any way interfere with, influence, or coerce the other in its choice of representatives. Representatives of employees for the purposes of this Act need not be persons in the employ of the carrier, and no carrier shall, by interference, influence, or coercion seek in any manner to prevent the designation by its employees as their representatives of those who or which are not employees of the carrier.

"Fourth. Employees shall have the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing. The majority of any craft or class of employees shall have the right to determine who shall be the representative of the craft or class for the purposes of this Act. No carrier, its officers or agents, shall deny or in any way question the right of its employees to join, organize, or assist in organizing the labor organization of their choice, and it shall be unlawful for any carrier to interfere in any way with the organization of its employees, or to use the funds of the carrier in maintaining or assisting or contributing to any labor organization, labor representative, or other agency of collective bargaining, or in performing any work therefor, or to influence or coerce employees in an effort to induce them to join or remain or not to join or remain members of any labor organization, or to deduct from the wages of employees any dues, fees, assessments, or other contributions payable to labor organizations, or to collect or to assist in the collection of any such dues, fees, assessments, or other contributions: Provided, That nothing in this Act shall be construed to prohibit a carrier from permitting an employee, individually, or local representatives of employees from conferring with management during working hours without loss of time, or to prohibit a carrier from furnishing free transportation to its employees while engaged in the business of a labor organization.

"Fifth. No carrier, its officers, or agents shall require any person seeking employment to sign any contract or agreement promising to join or not to join a labor organization; and if any such contract has been enforced prior to the effective date of this Act, then such carrier shall notify the employees by an appropriate order that such contract has been discarded and is no longer binding on them in any way.

"Sixth. In case of a dispute between a carrier or carriers and its or their employees, arising out of grievances or out of the interpretation or application of agreements concerning rates of pay, rules, or working conditions, it shall be the duty of the designated representative or representatives of such carrier or carriers and of such employees, within ten days after the receipt of notice of a desire on the part of either party to confer in respect to such dispute, to specify a time and place at which such conference shall be held: Provided, (1) That the place so specified shall be situated upon the line of the carrier involved or as otherwise mutually agreed upon; and (2) that the time so specified shall allow the designated conferees reasonable opportunity to reach such place of conference, but shall not exceed twenty days from the receipt of such notice: And provided further, That nothing in this Act shall be construed to supersede the provisions of any agreement (as to conferences) then in effect between the parties.

"Seventh. No carrier, its officers or agents shall change the rates of pay, rules, or working conditions of its employees, as a class as embodied in agreements except in the manner prescribed in such agreements or in section 6 of this Act.

"Eighth. Every carrier shall notify its employees by printed notices in such form and posted at such times and places as shall be specified by the Mediation Board that all disputes between the carrier and its employees will be handled in accordance with the requirements of this Act, and in such notices there shall be printed verbatim, in large type, the third, fourth, and fifth paragraphs of this section. The provisions of said paragraphs are hereby made a part of the contract of employment between the carrier and each employee, and shall be held binding upon the parties, regardless of any other express or implied agreements betweeen them.

"Ninth. If any dispute shall arise among a carrier's employees as to who are the representatives of such employees designated and authorized in accordance with the requirements of this Act, it shall be the duty of the Mediation Board, upon request of either party to the dispute, to investigate such dispute and to certify to both parties, in writing, within thirty days after the receipt of the invocation of its services, the name or names of the individuals or organizations that have been designated and authorized to represent the employees involved in the dispute, and certify the same to the carrier. Upon receipt of such certification the carrier shall treat with the representative so certified as the representative of the craft or class for the purposes of this Act. In such an investigation, the Mediation Board shall be authorized to take a secret ballot of the employees involved, or to utilize any other appropriate method of ascertaining the names of their duly designated and authorized representatives in such manner as shall insure the choice of representatives by the employees without interference, influence, or coercion exercised by the carrier. In the conduct of any election for the purposes herein indicated the Board shall designate who may participate in the election and establish the rules to govern the election, or may appoint a committee of three neutral persons who after hearing shall within ten days designate the employees who may participate in the election. The Board shall have access to and have power to make copies of the books and records of the carriers to obtain and utilize such information as may be deemed necessary by it to carry out the purposes and provisions of this paragraph.

"Tenth. The willful failure or refusal of any carrier, its officers or agents to comply with the terms of the third, fourth, fifth, seventh, or eighth paragraph of this section shall be a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof the carrier, officer, or agent offending shall be subject to a fine of not less than $1,000 nor more than $20,000 or imprisonment for not more than six months, or both fine and imprisonment, for each offense, and each day during which such carrier, officer, or agent shall willfully fail or refuse to comply with the terms of the said paragraphs of this section shall constitute a separate offense. It shall be the duty of any district attorney of the United States to whom any duly designated representative of a carrier's employees may apply to institute in the proper court and to prosecute under the direction of the Attorney General of the United States, all necessary proceedings for the enforcement of the provisions of this section, and for the punishment of all violations thereof and the costs and expenses of such prosecution shall be paid out of the appropriation for the expenses of the courts of the United States: Provided, That nothing in this Act shall be construed to require an individual employee to render labor or service without his consent, nor shall anything in this Act be construed to make the quitting of his labor by an individual employee an illegal act; nor shall any court issue any process to compel the performance by an individual employee of such labor or service, without his consent."

SEC. 3. Section 3 of the Railway Labor Act is amended to read as follows:

"NATIONAL BOARD OF ADJUSTMENT—GRIEVANCES—INTERPRETATION OF AGREEMENTS

"SEC. 3. First. There is hereby established a Board, to be known as the 'National Railroad Adjustment Board', the members of which shall be selected within thirty days after approval of this Act, and it is hereby provided—

"(a) That the said Adjustment Board shall consist of thirty-six members, eighteen of whom shall be selected by the carriers and eighteen by such labor organizations of the employees, national in scope, as have been or may be organized in accordance with the provisions of section 2 of this Act.

"(b) The carriers, acting each through its board of directors or its receiver or receivers, trustee or trustees or through an officer or officers designated for that purpose by such board, trustee or trustees or receiver or receivers, shall prescribe the rules under which its representatives shall be selected and shall select the representatives of the carriers on the Adjustment Board and designate the division on which each such representative shall serve, but no carrier or system of carriers shall have more than one representative on any division of the Board.

"(c) The national labor organizations, as defined in paragraph (a) of this section, acting each through the chief executive or other medium designated by the organization or association thereof, shall prescribe the rules under which the labor members of the Adjustment Board shall be selected and shall select such members and designate the division on which each member shall serve; but no labor organization shall have more than one representative on any division of the Board.

"(d) In case of a permanent or temporary vacancy on the Adjustment Board, the vacancy shall be filled by selection in the same manner as in the original selection.

"(e) If either the carriers or the labor organizations of the employees fail to select and designate representatives to the Adjustment Board, as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, respectively, within sixty days after the passage of this Act, in case of any original appointment to office of a member of the Adjustment Board, or in case of a vacancy in any such office within thirty days after such vacancy occurs, the Mediation Board shall thereupon directly make the appointment and shall select an individual associated in interest with the carriers or the group of labor organizations of employees, whichever he is to represent.

"(f) In the event a dispute arises as to the right of any national labor organization to participate as per paragraph (c) of this section in the selection and designation of the labor members of the Adjustment Board, the Secretary of Labor shall investigate the claim of such labor organization to participate, and if such claim in the judgment of the Secretary of Labor has merit, the Secretary shall notify the Mediation Board accordingly, and within ten days after receipt of such advice the Mediation Board shall request those national labor organizations duly qualified as per paragraph (c) of this section to participate in the selection and designation of the labor members of the Adjustment Board to select a representative. Such representative, together with a representative likewise designated by the claimant, and a third or neutral party designated by the Mediation Board, constituting a board of three, shall within thirty days after the appointment of the neutral member, investigate the claims of the labor organization desiring participation and decide whether or not it was organized in accordance with section 2 hereof and is otherwise properly qualified to participate in the selection of the labor members of the Adjustment Board, and the findings of such boards of three shall be final and binding.

"(g) Each member of the Adjustment Board shall be compensated by the party or parties he is to represent. Each third or neutral party selected under the provisions of (f) of this section shall receive from the Mediation Board such compensation as the Mediation Board may fix, together with his necessary traveling expenses and expenses actually incurred for subsistence, or per diem allowance in lieu thereof, subject to the provisions of law applicable thereto, while serving as such third or neutral party.

"(h) The said Adjustment Board shall be composed of four divisions, whose proceedings shall be independent of one another, and the said divisions as well as the number of their members shall be as follows:

"First division: To have jurisdiction over disputes involving train- and yard-service employees of carriers; that is, engineers, firemen, hostlers, and outside hostler helpers, conductors, trainmen, and yard-service employees. This division shall consist of ten members, five of whom shall be selected and designated by the carriers and five of whom shall be selected and designated by the national labor organizations of the employees.

"Second division: To have jurisdiction over disputes involving machinists, boilermakers, blacksmiths, sheet-metal workers, electrical workers, car men, the helpers and apprentices of all the foregoing, coach cleaners, power-house employees, and railroad-shop laborers. This division shall consist of ten members, five of whom shall be selected by the carriers and five by the national labor organizations of the employees.

"Third division: To have jurisdiction over disputes involving station, tower, and telegraph employees, train dispatchers, maintenance-of-way men, clerical employees, freight handlers, express, station, and store employees, signal men, sleeping-car conductors, sleeping-car porters, and maids and dining-car employees. This division shall consist of ten members, five of whom shall be selected by the carriers and five by the national labor organizations of employees.

"Fourth division: To have jurisdiction over disputes involving employees of carriers directly or indirectly engaged in transportation of passengers or property by water, and all other employees of carriers over which jurisdiction is not given to the first, second, and third divisions. This division shall consist of six members, three of whom shall be selected by the carriers and three by the national labor organizations of the employees.

"(i) The disputes between an employee or group of employees and a carrier or carriers growing out of grievances or out of the interpretation or application of agreements concerning rates of pay, rules, or working conditions, including cases pending and unadjusted on the date of approval of this Act, shall be handled in the usual manner up to and including the chief operating officer of the carrier designated to handle such disputes; but, failing to reach an adjustment in this manner, the disputes may be referred by petition of the parties or by either party to the appropriate division of the Adjustment Board with a full statement of the facts and all supporting data bearing upon the disputes.

"(j) Parties may be heard either in person, by counsel, or by other representatives, as they may respectively elect, and the several divisions of the Adjustment Board shall give due notice of all hearings to the employee or employees and the carrier or carriers involved in any disputes submitted to them.

"(k) Any division of the Adjustment Board shall have authority to empower two or more of its members to conduct hearings and make findings upon disputes, when properly submitted, at any place designated by the division: Provided, however, That final awards as to any such dispute must be made by the entire division as hereinafter provided.

"(l) Upon failure of any division to agree upon an award because of a deadlock or inability to secure a majority vote of the division members, as provided in paragraph (n) of this section, then such division shall forthwith agree upon and select a neutral person, to be known as 'referee', to sit with the division as a member thereof and make an award. Should the division fail to agree upon and select a referee within ten days of the date of the deadlock or inability to secure a majority vote, then the division, or any member thereof, or the parties or either party to the dispute may certify that fact to the Mediation Board, which Board shall, within ten days from the date of receiving such certificate, select and name the referee to sit with the division as a member thereof and make an award. The Mediation Board shall be bound by the same provisions in the appointment of these neutral referees as are provided elsewhere in this Act for the appointment of arbitrators and shall fix and pay the compensation of such referees.

"(m) The awards of the several divisions of the Adjustment Board shall be stated in writing. A copy of the awards shall be furnished to the respective parties to the controversy, and the awards shall be final and binding upon both parties to the dispute, except insofar as they shall contain a money award. In case a dispute arises involving an interpretation of the award the division of the Board upon request of either party shall interpret the award in the light of the dispute.

"(n) A majority vote of all members of the division of the Adjustment Board shall be competent to make an award with respect to any dispute submitted to it.

"(o) In case of an award by any division of the Adjustment Board in favor of petitioner, the division of the Board shall make an order, directed to the carrier, to make the award effective and, if the award includes a requirement for the payment of money, to pay to the employee the sum to which he is entitled under the award on or before a day named.

"(p) If a carrier does not comply with an order of a division of the Adjustment Board within the time limit in such order, the petitioner, or any person for whose benefit such order was made, may file in the District Court of the United States for the district in which he resides or in which is located the principal operating office of the carrier, or through which the carrier operates, a petition setting forth briefly the causes for which he claims relief, and the order of the division of the Adjustment Board in the premises. Such suit in the District Court of the United States shall proceed in all respects as other civil suits, except that on the trial of such suit the findings and order of the division of the Adjustment Board shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated, and except that the petitioner shall not be liable for costs in the district court nor for costs at any subsequent stage of the proceedings, unless they accrue upon his appeal, and such costs shall be paid out of the appropriation for the expenses of the courts of the United States. If the petitioner shall finally prevail he shall be allowed a reasonable attorney's fee, to be taxed and collected as a part of the costs of the suit. The district courts are empowered, under the rules of the court governing actions at law, to make such order and enter such judgment, by writ of mandamus or otherwise, as may be appropriate to enforce or set aside the order of the division of the Adjustment Board.

"(q) All actions at law based upon the provisions of this section shall be begun within two years from the time the cause of action accrues under the award of the division of the Adjustment Board, and not after.

"(r) The several divisions of the Adjustment Board shall maintain headquarters in Chicago, Illinois, meet regularly, and continue in session so long as there is pending before the division any matter within its jurisdiction which has been submitted for its consideration and which has not been disposed of.

"(s) Whenever practicable, the several divisions or subdivisions of the Adjustment Board shall be supplied with suitable quarters in any Federal building located at its place of meeting.

"(t) The Adjustment Board may, subject to the approval of the Mediation Board, employ and fix the compensations of such assistants as it deems necessary in carrying on its proceedings. The compensation of such employees shall be paid by the Mediation Board.

"(u) The Adjustment Board shall meet within forty days after the approval of this Act and adopt such rules as it deems necessary to control proceedings before the respective divisions and not in conflict with the provisions of this section. Immediately following the meeting of the entire Board and the adoption of such rules, the respective divisions shall meet and organize by the selection of a chairman, a vice chairman, and a secretary. Thereafter each division shall annually designate one of its members to act as chairman and one of its members to act as vice chairman: Provided, however, That the chairmanship and vice-chairmanship of any division shall alternate as between the groups, so that both the chairmanship and vice-chairmanship shall be held alternately by a representative of the carriers and a representative of the employees. In case of a vacancy, such vacancy shall be filled for the unexpired term by the selection of a successor from the same group.

"(v) Each division of the Adjustment Board shall annually prepare and submit a report of its activities to the Mediation Board, and the substance of such report shall be included in the annual report of the Mediation Board to the Congress of the United States. The reports of each division of the Adjustment Board and the annual report of the Mediation Board shall state in detail all cases heard, all actions taken, the names, salaries, and duties of all agencies, employees, and officers receiving compensation from the United States under the authority of this Act, and an account of all moneys appropriated by Congress pursuant to the authority conferred by this Act and disbursed by such agencies, employees, and officers.

"(w) Any division of the Adjustment Board shall have authority, in its discretion, to establish regional adjustment boards to act in its place and stead for such limited period as such division may determine to be necessary. Carrier members of such regional boards shall be designated in keeping with rules devised for this purpose by the carrier members of the Adjustment Board and the labor members shall be designated in keeping with rules devised for this purpose by the labor members of the Adjustment Board. Any such regional board shall, during the time for which it is appointed, have the same authority to conduct hearings, make findings upon disputes and adopt the same procedure as the division of the Adjustment Board appointing it, and its decisions shall be enforceable to the same extent and under the same processes. A neutral person, as referee, shall be appointed for service in connection with any such regional adjustment board in the same circumstances and manner as provided in paragraph (l) hereof, with respect to a division of the Adjustment Board.

"Second. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent any individual carrier, system, or group of carriers and any class or classes of its or their employees, all acting through their representatives, selected in accordance with the provisions of this Act, from mutually agreeing to the establishment of system, group, or regional boards of adjustment for the purpose of adjusting and deciding disputes of the character specified in this section. In the event that either party to such a system, group, or regional board of adjustment is dissatisfied with such arrangement, it may upon ninety days' notice to the other party elect to come under the jurisdiction of the Adjustment Board."

Section 4 of the Railway Labor Act is amended to read as follows:

"NATIONAL MEDIATION BOARD

"SEC. 4. First. The Board of Mediation is hereby abolished, effective thirty days from the approval of this Act and the members, secretary, officers, assistants, employees, and agents thereof, in office upon the date of the approval of this Act, shall continue to function and receive their salaries for a period of thirty days from such date in the same manner as though this Act had not been passed. There is hereby established, as an independent agency in the executive branch of the Government, a board to be known as the 'National Mediation Board', to be composed of three members appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, not more than two of whom shall be of the same political party. The terms of office of the members first appointed shall begin as soon as the members shall qualify, but not before thirty days after the approval of this Act, and expire, as designated by the President at the time of nomination, one on February 1, 1935, one on February 1, 1936, and one on February 1, 1937. The terms of office of all successors shall expire three years after the expiration of the terms for which their predecessors were appointed; but any member appointed to fill a vacancy occurring prior to the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed shall be appointed only for the unexpired term of his predecessor. Vacancies in the Board shall not impair the powers nor affect the duties of the Board nor of the remaining members of the Board. Two of the members in office shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of the business of the Board. Each member of the Board shall receive a salary at the rate of $10,000 per annum, together with necessary traveling and subsistence expenses, or per diem allowance in lieu thereof, subject to the provisions of law applicable thereto, while away from the principal office of the Board on business required by this Act. No person in the employment of or who is pecuniarily or otherwise interested in any organization of employees or any carrier shall enter upon the duties of or continue to be a member of the Board.

"All cases referred to the Board of Mediation and unsettled on the date of the approval of this Act shall be handled to conclusion by the Mediation Board.

"A member of the Board may be removed by the President for inefficiency, neglect of duty, malfeasance in office, or ineligibility, but for no other cause.

"Second. The Mediation Board shall annually designate a member to act as chairman. The Board shall maintain its principal office in the District of Columbia, but it may meet at any other place whenever it deems it necessary so to do. The Board may designate one or more of its members to exercise the functions of the Board in mediation proceedings. Each member of the Board shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations. The Board shall have a seal which shall be judicially noticed. The Board shall make an annual report to Congress.

"Third. The Mediation Board may (1) appoint such experts and assistants to act in a confidential capacity and, subject to the provisions of the civil-service laws, such other officers and employees as are essential to the effective transaction of the work of the Board; (2) in accordance with the Classification Act of 1923, fix the salaries of such experts, assistants, officers, and employees; and (3) make such expenditures (including expenditures for rent and personal services at the seat of government and elsewhere, for law books, periodicals, and books of reference, and for printing and binding, and including expenditures for salaries and compensation, necessary traveling expenses and expenses actually incurred for subsistence, and other necessary expenses of the Mediation Board, Adjustment Board, Regional Adjustment Boards established under paragraph (w) of section 3, and boards of arbitration, in accordance with the provisions of this section and sections 3 and 7, respectively), as may be necessary for the execution of the functions vested in the Board, in the Adjustment Board and in the boards of arbitration, and as may be provided for by the Congress from time to time. All expenditures of the Board shall be allowed and paid on the presentation of itemized vouchers therefor approved by the chairman.

"Fourth. The Mediation Board is hereby authorized by its order to assign, or refer, any portion of its work, business, or functions arising under this or any other Act of Congress, or referred to it by Congress or either branch thereof, to an individual member of the Board or to an employee or employees of the Board to be designated by such order for action thereon, and by its order at any time to amend, modify, supplement, or rescind any such assignment or reference. All such orders shall take effect forthwith and remain in effect until otherwise ordered by the Board. In conformity with and subject to the order or orders of the Mediation Board in the premises, and such individual member of the Board or employee designated shall have power and authority to act as to any of said work, business, or functions so assigned or referred to him for action by the Board.

"Fifth. All officers and employees of the Board of Mediation (except the members thereof, whose offices are hereby abolished) whose services in the judgment of the Mediation Board are necessary to the efficient operation of the Board are hereby transferred to the Board, without change in classification or compensation; except that the Board may provide for the adjustment of such classification or compensation to conform to the duties to which such officers and employees may be assigned.

"All unexpended appropriations for the operation of the Board of Mediation that are available at the time of the abolition of the Board of Mediation shall be transferred to the Mediation Board and shall be available for its use for salaries and other authorized expenditures."

SEC. 5. Section 5 of the Railway Labor Act is amended to read as follows:

"FUNCTIONS OF MEDIATION BOARD

"SEC. 5. First. The parties, or either party, to a dispute between an employee or group of employees and a carrier may invoke the services of the Mediation Board in any of the following cases:

"(a) A dispute concerning changes in rates of pay, rules, or working conditions not adjusted by the parties in conference.

"(b) Any other dispute not referable to the National Railroad Adjustment Board and not adjusted in conference between the parties or where conferences are refused.

"The Mediation Board may proffer its services in case any labor emergency is found by it to exist at any time.

"In either event the said Board shall promptly put itself in communication with the parties to such controversy, and shall use its best efforts, by mediation, to bring them to agreement. If such efforts to bring about an amicable settlement through mediation shall be unsuccessful, the said Board shall at once endeavor as its final required action (except as provided in paragraph third of this section and in section 10 of this Act) to induce the parties to submit their controversy to arbitration, in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

"If arbitration at the request of the Board shall be refused by one or both parties, the Board shall at once notify both parties in writing that its mediatory efforts have failed and for thirty days thereafter, unless in the intervening period the parties agree to arbitration, or an emergency board shall be created under section 10 of this Act, no change shall be made in the rates of pay, rules, or working conditions or established practices in effect prior to the time the dispute arose.

"Second. In any case in which a controversy arises over the meaning or the application of any agreement reached through mediation under the provisions of this Act, either party to the said agreement, or both, may apply to the Mediation Board for an interpretation of the meaning or application of such agreement. The said Board shall upon receipt of such request notify the parties to the controversy, and after a hearing of both sides give its interpretation within thirty days.

"Third. The Mediation Board shall have the following duties with respect to the arbitration of disputes under section 7 of this Act:

"(a) On failure of the arbitrators named by the parties to agree on the remaining arbitrator or arbitrators within the time set by section 7 of this Act, it shall be the duty of the Mediation Board to name such remaining arbitrator or arbitrators. It shall be the duty of the Board in naming such arbitrator or arbitrators to appoint only those whom the Board shall deem wholly disinterested in the controversy to be arbitrated and impartial and without bias as between the parties to such arbitration. Should, however, the Board name an arbitrator or arbitrators not so disinterested and impartial, then, upon proper investigation and presentation of the facts, the Board shall promptly remove such arbitrator.

"If an arbitrator named by the Mediation Board, in accordance with the provisions of this Act, shall be removed by such Board as provided by this Act, or if such an arbitrator refuses or is unable to serve, it shall be the duty of the Mediation Board, promptly, to select another arbitrator, in the same manner as provided in this Act for an original appointment by the Mediation Board.

"(b) Any member of the Mediation Board is authorized to take the acknowledgment of an agreement to arbitrate under this Act. When so acknowledged, or when acknowledged by the parties before a notary public or the clerk of a district court or a circuit court of appeals of the United States, such agreement to arbitrate shall be delivered to a member of said Board or transmitted to said Board, to be filed in its office.

"(c) When an agreement to arbitrate has been filed with the Mediation Board, or with one of its members, as provided by this section, and when the said Board has been furnished the names of the arbitrators chosen by the parties to the controversy it shall be the duty of the Board to cause a notice in writing to be served upon said arbitrators, notifying them of their appointment, requesting them to meet promptly to name the remaining arbitrator or arbitrators necessary to complete the Board of Arbitration, and advising them of the period within which, as provided by the agreement to arbitrate, they are empowered to name such arbitrator or arbitrators.

"(d) Either party to an arbitration desiring the reconvening of a board of arbitration to pass upon any controversy arising over the meaning or application of an award may so notify the Mediation Board in writing, stating in such notice the question or questions to be submitted to such reconvened Board. The Mediation Board shall thereupon promptly communicate with the members of the Board of Arbitration, or a subcommittee of such Board appointed for such purpose pursuant to a provision in the agreement to arbitrate, and arrange for the reconvening of said Board of Arbitration or subcommittee, and shall notify the respective parties to the controversy of the time and place at which the Board, or the subcommittee, will meet for hearings upon the matters in controversy to be submitted to it. No evidence other than that contained in the record filed with the original award shall be received or considered by such reconvened Board or subcommittee, except such evidence as may be necessary to illustrate the interpretations suggested by the parties. If any member of the original Board is unable or unwilling to serve on such reconvened Board or subcommittee thereof, another arbitrator shall be named in the same manner and with the same powers and duties as such original arbitrator.

"(e) Within sixty days after the approval of this Act every carrier shall file with the Mediation Board a copy of each contract with its employees in effect on the 1st day of April 1934, covering rates of pay, rules, and working conditions. If no contract with any craft or class of its employees has been entered into, the carrier shall file with the Mediation Board a statement of that fact including also a statement of the rates of pay, rules, and working conditions applicable in dealing with such craft or class. When any new contract is executed or change is made in an existing contract with any class or craft of its employees covering rates of pay, rules, or working conditions, or in those rates of pay, rules, and working conditions of employees not covered by contract, the carrier shall file the same with the Mediation Board within thirty days after such new contract or change in existing contract has been executed or rates of pay, rules, and working conditions have been made effective.

"(f) The Mediation Board shall be the custodian of all papers and documents heretofore filed with or transferred to the Board of Mediation bearing upon the settlement, adjustment, or determination of disputes between carriers and their employees or upon mediation or arbitration proceedings held under or pursuant to the provisions of any Act of Congress in respect thereto; and the President is authorized to designate a custodian of the records and property of the Board of Mediation until the transfer and delivery of such records to the Mediation Board and to require the transfer and delivery to the Mediation Board of any and all such papers and documents filed with it or in its possession."

SEC. 6. Section 6 of the Railway Labor Act is amended to read as follows:

"SEC. 6. Carriers and representatives of the employees shall give at least thirty days' written notice of an intended change in agreements affecting rates of pay, rules, or working conditions, and the time and place for the beginning of conference between the representatives of the parties interested in such intended changes shall be agreed upon within ten days after the receipt of said notice, and said time shall be within the thirty days provided in the notice. In every case where such notice of intended change has been given, or conferences are being held with reference thereto, or the services of the Mediation Board have been requested by either party, or said Board has proffered its services, rates of pay, rules, or working conditions shall not be altered by the carrier until the controversy has been finally acted upon as required by section 5 of this Act, by the Mediation Board, unless a period of ten days has elapsed after termination of conferences without request for or proffer of the services of the Mediation Board."

SEC. 7. The Railway Labor Act is amended by striking out the words "Board of Mediation" wherever they appear in sections 7, 8, 10, and 12 of such Act, and inserting in lieu thereof the words "Mediation Board."

SEC. 8. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, or phrase of this Act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this Act. All Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent with the provisions of this Act are hereby repealed.

Approved, June 21, 1934.

FINAL ELECTION NOTICE

to

Pullman Porters & Maids

Local or Foreign

1. Vote from Monday, May 27th, at 8 a. m., through Saturday, June 1, inclusive, at Room 1040, Federal Building, Christopher and Washington Streets. Take 9th Avenue El or Interboro Subway to Christopher Street.

2. Attend and urge fellow workers to attend meetings at Brotherhood national headquarters, 105 West 136th Street, TONIGHT and EVERY NIGHT and Sunday afternoon until election is over.

3. JERSEY DISTRICTS men vote in New York.

4. URGE AND INSIST that EVERY porter you contact, whether foreign or local, vote in New York for the BROTHERHOOD.

5. All men on furlough or sick leave may identify themselves by letter, A. F. of L. Brotherhood black book, or insurance policies.

Vote Brotherhood - - - Talk Brotherhood
Advertise Brotherhood

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN,
National Secretary-Treasurer.

EDgecombe 4-1535
Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters
National Headquarters, 105 West 136th Street
New York City.

1934

Company Unions

BECAUSE organized labor is about to press Congress to outlaw company unions, and because the legality of company unions under the NIRA already has been questioned in the courts, many persons soon will be asking what company unions are and what are their virtues and defects.

Company unions are schemes for employee representation instituted by employers during the last twenty years, and especially during the last twelve months, principally as an alternative to ordinary unions.

Since a company union is organized among the workers engaged by one employer, the scope of the union fits the area of the most numerous industrial grievances. The company union is a shop affair with outsiders excluded. The conferences that are features of such organizations inform employers concerning labor problems and educate labor in management problems so the unions can be mutually beneficial. These unions extend responsibilities to labor over matters of labor welfare—savings, building and loan, lunch services, recreation and the like—as well as over hours and wages. Thus workers are trained to enlarge their functions. By bridging the gap between the front office and the shop, company unions promote loyalty and discourage resignations, friction and strikes.

On the other hand, no workers ever of their own initiative have organized a company union—it is a boss-inspired union. The power that creates company unions can destroy them. Worker representatives not only must not antagonize the management—for that means discharge—but are ignorant of labor conditions in other plants and other sections even in the same industry, and moreover are untrained in the tactics of bargaining; thus the representatives are usually timid, ignorant and unskilled negotiators. No truly equal-sided collective bargaining is possible in company unions. A company union cannot strike because it has either no treasury or one limited to its own members; it cannot get the help of other workers in the same industry. Consequently a company union has no power of compulsion over an employer.

Under a benevolent administrator a company union may produce harmonious relations, but most of the enterprises that have introduced company unions belong to the autocratic class of employers. Under the latter's administration, company unions exist mainly as a barrier to real unions; if in those instances the company union should destroy the regular union, the day of the company union probably soon would set.

If the New Deal aspires to balance a strong united employer group against an equally strong organized labor group, this ideal cannot be obtained through company unions; indeed, the existence of the company unions hinders the attainment of the goal. Therefore, except in those few cases where employee representation means a genuinely democratic control of working conditions, the attitude of the ordinary citizen toward company unions must be related to that citizen's attitude toward the control of industry. Shall it be autocratic if sometimes benign individualism, or collectivism balanced between employer, employee and the Government or the public?

Harlem Negroes' Views on Problems

A Clayton Powell Jr. Says Rents Are Excessive and Many Tenements Lack Simple Improvements

Editor's Note: The Post publishes below the second of a series of three articles which present the Negro's point of view on the recent disturbances in Harlem.

Today's article deals with housing conditions.

The author, A. Clayton Powell Jr., is associated with his father in the pastorate of the Abyssinian Baptist Church, the largest in Harlem.

Mr. Powell was educated at Colgate, Columbia and Union Theological Seminary. He has written for many magazines. He is now engaged on a book, "Religion Faces a Challenging World," the substance of a course he is giving in Columbia University.

BY A. CLAYTON POWELL JR.

[illegible]-to-mouth living has been [illegible] in Harlem Town for many [illegible]. Nothing keeps my fellow Negroes noses closer to the economic grindstone than the tribute levied by Harlem landlords.

It is impossible for the sepia-tinted citizens of New York ever to get out of their economic ruts as long as the costs of housing remain as they are. Rents in the Harlem area are about 20 per cent higher than in other communities of similar accommodations.

The overlords of Harlem are the landlords, and with very few exceptions they have worked out a standard of operating which is, roughly: The worse the accommodations, the poorer the people, the higher the rents.

Filthy Flats Shorten Life

Up on Sugar Hill, Harlem denizens regale themselves in modern dwellings where the costs are only about 12 per cent more than for the low-grade tenements. On the other hand, the folk on Lenox Avenue shorten their life spans in filthy flats in which they must render to Caesar a rental 30 per cent above the average for similar housing in other sections of New York.

On Sugar Hill, that distict stretching roughly from 145th Street to the

Continued on Page 10, Col. 3

HARLEM NEGRO'S VIEW ON PROBLEMS

A. Clayton Powell Jr. Says Rents Are Excessive for Unsanitary Flats

Continued from Page One

Polo Grounds, with St. Nicholas Avenue as the main artery, Harlem's would-be "sassiety" goes to town. 'Midst paneled walls, parquet floors, electric refrigeration, colored tile baths, luxurious lobbies, elevators and doormen resplendent in uniforms they cavort and disport themselves in what is called "the best of manner."

This group is composed of civil service employees, professional men and their families, social workers, the big [illegible] of Harlem's theatrical life, [illegible] overlords and that mysterious group of the well-groomed [illegible] the well-fed who never work.

Have Monopoly on Elite

With the exception of the Rockefeller-built Dunbar Apartments on West 149th Street and the Dorrence Brooks on West 138th Street, the Sugar Hill apartment houses have a monopoly on Harlem's groups of the [illegible] wage earners. There are [illegible] of course, the most [illegible] being West 136th to 139th [illegible] between Seventh and St. [illegible] Avenues, where the self-a[illegible] live comfortably and in some cases luxuriously.

These private houses were built by the late Stanford White. These $20,000 homes were bought by Negroes during the "Black Scare" of 1919 for four and five thousand dollars. These people are dwellers within the so-called upper pocket of Harlem. They pay the high rents and meet their mortgages by taking in lodgers; for only a handful of Negroes, even in these would-be opulent districts, have incomes which allow them to live without fear and trembling on the first of the month.

Looking down into the heart of old Harlem Town we find the salt of the earth living in the world's worst tenements.

Without exception, the tenements of Harlem are filthy. Landlords refuse to make janitors keep their houses clean, and how can they ask them to when he hires the man and his family for nothing per month except a basement to exist in and tells them to clean six floors, take care of the sidewalk and back yard, haul the garbage, stoke the furnace and make the minor repairs?

Sanitary Conditions Bad

There are hovels along 133rd Street where one hall toilet serves a floor of four apartments for as many as twenty-five people, no private bathrooms or public bathtubs. Some owners have installed bathtubs in the kitchens.

Along Fifth Avenue, from 135th Street to 138th Street, is one of the worst spots. Here are flats with the old-fashioned toilets, which are usually so broken that the refuse flushes down on the floor below.

Gaping holes in the skylights allow cold air to sweep down the staircase freezing the toilets so that for weeks during the winter they cannot be used. You can imagine the litter in the back yards and [illegible]. Go further [illegible] they cannot only rent a room at night, but also get a night worker to occupy during the day the same room, same bed, same sheets and be bitten by the same bugs. The luckiest family is that one which has a bathroom and rents the tub out for a bed, covering it with boards.

Many of these filthy, packed cesspools are owned by the Astor, Browning and Rockefeller estates.

Slum clearance started with a flourish, but it was only a gesture. There are three Negro companies organized to sponsor housing projects; one headed by the Hon. Charles Mitchell, former Minister to Liberia, has been trying to get its project through for two years. However, the Federal Government "no speakee English" at the appearance of a black face. But Negroes are slightly wary of "housing for the workers." They have seen the Paul Lawrence Dunbar project, built by John D. Rockefeller Jr. for the workers, turn out to be one of the more expensive spots in Harlem. Many pause and wonder why the same apartments built at the same time by the same Rockefeller money on the Grand Concourse, are identical in everything except the price.

Well, you may ask, why don't Harlemites move?

Harlemites are moving as fast as districts are opened up for them. Witness, however, the recent eviction of Negroes who had dared to move into the apartments on Prospect Avenue, Bronx, even though the landlord invited them. Harlem cannot build up while she cannot spread out further. What then for the families which cannot pay the high rents nor obtain relief? Down into the ground they have gone, into the cellars and basements they have scurried. Fully ten thousand of the Harlem citizenry now live in cellars: dark, damp, cold dungeons.

Here they exist in squalor worse than that of the share-croppers—for the Arkansas fieldhands at least have sunshine and fresh air. Families "live" in these basements, most of which have not even been remodeled into the semblance of a flat; floors of cracked concrete, walls of white-washed rock, slits for windows, no toilets except the tin can in the corner with a sheet hanging over it, no running water in some, no partitions to separate from the eyes of the curious young the various functions of this thing we call living, no furniture—sleeping on springs or slats, sitting and eating on boxes, children without shoes.

The dwellers within these gates have evolved a new social scheme or rather a new social "odor" that should smell pretty bad to the executives of the great estates that own the properties.

Barred from employment in the 125th Street five-ten- and twenty-five-cent stores, these cellar dwellers have organized their own five-ten- and twenty-five-cent standards of living. In these cellars are restaurants serving meals for ten and fifteen cents; barbers will cut your hair for twenty cents, beauticians wave it for thirty cents, tailors will put a crease everlasting in your one and only for twenty cents. Gambling halls, whisky joints and brothels are included in this new social scheme.

Cellar Dwellers in Riots

Many of those who voiced their resentment in the disorders on March 19 were cellar dwellers. Their ways of doing things that night may have been disorderly, loathsome and deplorable, but so my friends were their homes.

If Harlem's or any other community's social disorders are to be solved by first putting something between a man's belly and his backbone, then secondly, Mr. Landlord, give him some sunshine, fresh air, running water and heat. After all, he's paying for it.

morning. We remember these yards are rarely cleaned.

What is worse, these hovels have no heat, only coal grates. When the coal book from the Home Relief Bureau expires, the dwellers comb the neighborhood for fuel. Janitors in the surrounding district have to stand guard over coal deliveries until they are moved in. During December I saw five tons of coal that had been deposited in front of Lenox Avenue and 113th Street vanish in boxes, pails, paper bags—quicker than you could say Fiorello LaGuardia—that is, if you weren't too weak or too starved.

These hovels, these breeders of crime, these embassies of death and sickness, rent for twenty-five dollars per month; twenty-five dollars per month for four or five boxes, called rooms, with occasional sunshine in only one of the rooms, and this is the lowest rent in Harlem! Even these rents are prohibitive and met only by staging rent parties to which the public comes, plays, dances, eats and drinks.

Parents of good character are forced to welcome lodgers to their homes whom they have never seen, known or heard of and who, when they depart suddenly, will not be heard from. So that the maximum number of rooms may be rented out, an entire family usually sleeps in one room.

Some families are lucky if

Monster Parade & Demonstration

The United Interracial Honor Legion is calling all its Legionairs and friends to a Mass Parade and Demonstration

LABOR DAY
Sept. 3rd, 1934

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF

The Union Mechanics Association and in cooperation with the Pullman Porters and other progressive elements.

PARADE & DEMONSTRATE AGAINST RACE DISCRIMINATION
FOR EQUAL OPPORTUNITY IN WORK AND WAGES. AGAINST FASCISM, NAZISM, SILVER SHIRTS AND KLU KLUX KLAN
FOR BETTER HOUSING AND LOWER RENT
AGAINST JOB DISCRIMINATION

PARADE STARTS AT 1:00 P. M FROM 143rd STEEET & LENOX AVENUE PROCEEDS ALONG LENOX AVENUE TO 110th STREET, THEN ALONG SEVENTH AVENUE TO

MASS MEETING AT 4 P.M.

DORRANCE BROOKS PARK
137th St. & Edgecome Ave.

ATTENTION LEGIONARIES & FRIENDS HARLEM DISTRICT, AN EXTREMELY INTERESTING MEETING WILL BE HELD THIS FRIDAY EVENING AUGUST 31st, 1934 at 8:30 p. m. AT PROF. CHAUNCEY NORTHERN'S STUDIO, 107 WEST 117th STREET A WONDERFUL MUSICAL PROGRAM GIVEN BY FAMOUS ARTISTS EVERYBODY WELCOME NO CHARGE

NOTICE! THE MOST PROGRESSIVE INTERRACIAL WEEKLY PAPER "THE RAY" will APPEAR FOR THE FIRST TIME SEPTEMBER 15th, 1934 PRICE 3c READ "THE RAY"
"THE RAY" WILL BRING LIGHT "THE RAY" WILL BRIGHTEN YOUR FUTURE

FRED SPINKS, EDITOR

The Black Worker

Official Organ of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and Mouthpiece of the Negro Workers of America

239 WEST 136th STREET NEW YORK, N. Y.

.....19.....

RECEIVED from .....
(SUBSCRIBER'S NAME)

Street No. .....

City and State .....

the sum of FIFTY CENTS (50c) for one year's subscription to THE BLACK WORKER.

.....
SOLICITOR

357

LABOR INSTITUTE

Conducted by the

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

with the cooperation of the

WORKERS' EDUCATION BUREAU OF AMERICA

Negro Labor

and the

National Recovery Program

FRIDAY and SATURDAY, JULY 20-21, 1934

Afternoon Sessions — 2:30
Evening Sessions — 8:00

135th STREET BRANCH PUBLIC LIBRARY
103 West 135th Street New York City

THE INSTITUTE

The purpose of this Institute is to provide an opportunity for a free and impartial discussion of the meaning for Labor, and especially Negro Labor, of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

The N. I. R. A. and the whole recovery program constitute a direct challenge to existing economic and political philosophies. The theory that national prosperity results from a go-as-you-please policy is supplanted by the attempt to work out an orderly and cooperative economic life. The "New Deal," which puts labor and capital on a new basis of bargaining, implies for both of them a responsibility to see their relationship in terms of the American democratic tradition.

It is not the intent of the Institute to propose any line of action, but through study, analysis and discussion, to help Labor determine what the recovery program means.

—o—

Knowledge is one of the most potent sources of power. Knowledge leads everywhere. Knowledge breaks down all obstacles. Those who know the facts of history and the facts of our time are the ones best fitted to cope with the problems that confront us. Those who do not know either must be taught to know, or they must be carried along the march of progress by those who do know. It is only knowledge that leads us forward.

— SAMUEL GOMPERS

ROGRAM

AY, JULY 20th, 1934

Afternoon Session, 2:30 P. M.

Chairman — REV. WILLIAM LLOYD IMES, St. James Presbyterian Church.

Remarks — General Purposes of the Labor Institute,
A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, National President Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

Address — Economic Background of the N. R. A.,
Professor JOHN P. TROXELL, formerly of Duke University.

Address — The N. R. A.: What It Is and How It Functions,
SPENCER MILLER, Jr., Secretary Workers Education Bureau of America.

Discussion Opener, GEORGE SCHUYLER, Journalist.

Evening Session, 8:00 P. M.

Chairman — B. F. McLAURIN, Field Organizer, B. S. C. P.

Address — The Economic Consequences of the N. R. A. On the Negro,
IRA DeA. REID, Research Director National Urban League.

Address — The Social Consequences of the N. R. A. for the Negro,
DR. CLARK FOREMAN, Advisor on Negro Affairs
U. S. Department of the Interior.

Discussion Opener, AARON DOUGLAS, Artist.

—o—

SATURDAY, JULY 21st, 1934

Afternoon Session, 2:30 P. M.

Chairman — WALTER WHITE, Secretary N. A. A. C. P.

Address — Labor and the N. R. A.,
FANNIA COHEN, Educational Director, I. L. G. W. U.

Address — The Government, Negro Labor and the N. R. A.,
Lt. LAWRENCE A. OXLEY, U. S. Department of Labor.

Discussion—Opener: James H. Hubert, Social Worker.

Evening Session, 8:00 P. M.

Chairman — GERTRUDE ELISE AYER, Assistant Principal in Public Schools, New York City.

Address — The Future of the Negro and the Recovery Program,
Prof. EMMET DORSEY, Department of Political Science, Howard University, Washington, D. C.

Address — The Philosophy Back of the N. R. A.,
Dr. GUSTAV PECK, Executive Director of the Labor Advisory Board, N. R. A.

Discussion Opener, FRANK R. CROSSWAITH, Author and Lecturer.

THE COMMITTEE ON ARRANGEMENTS

Union Mechanics' Association, Bertram Taylor.

New York Urban League, James H. Hubert.

Workers' Council of N. Y., T. Holmes.

People's Educational Forum, Mitchinson I. Daniel.

Young Women's Christian Association, Mrs. Emma Shields Penn.

Young Men's Christian Association, H. K. Craft.

Young People's Forum of St. James Presbyterian Church, Miss Scott.

Virgin Islands Civil and Industrial Association, Juanita Gallwey.

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

LAGUARDIA [redacted] TO [redacted]

None [redacted]

[redacted]

In his speech the Mayor praised the fight of the Brotherhood and its president, A. Philip Randolph, to organize in behalf of their interests. "[redacted] in [redacted] fight-[redacted] ac-[redacted] the Mayor.

[redacted]ph described the strug-[redacted] the Pullman porters in the [redacted] years to establish the [redacted] own union [redacted] within thirty d[redacted] add-[redacted]herhood would [redacted]each [redacted]n Company [redacted]ociate [redacted] agreement [redacted]t. In [redacted] refus[redacted] Kas-[redacted]tinued, the [redacted]ood [redacted]al to the Nat[redacted] Medi-[redacted]rd.

[redacted] than 1,500 p[redacted] were [redacted] including 300 [redacted] in uniform. The Brotherhood [redacted]ing Car Porters, with [redacted] members throughout [redacted] is affiliated with the [redacted]eration of Labor. [redacted] D. McGoldrick, controller of the city of New York, also spoke a few words of greeting at the celebration. Ashley L. Totten, national secretary-treasurer of the Brotherhood, presided.

NINTH ANNUAL BALL

of the

PULLMAN PORTERS and MAIDS

ROCKLAND PALACE

155th STREET and EIGHTH AVENUE

•

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6th, 1934

•

Two Outstanding Orchestras

CLARK'S CARIBBEAN SERENADERS
WHN Broadcasters
Exponents of Rhumbas, Cariocas, Fandangos, Dansants, Contra Dans and Marengos

HULBERT FINLAY'S SYNCOPATORS
Special Artists of Dreamy Waltzes, Snappy Foxtrots, One Steps, Lindy Hops and Shim-Sham Shimmies

Continuous Dancing 9 P. M. until ?

Admission One Dollar

Boxes: $5.00 - - - - - - - Loges: $2.50

•

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
105 WEST 136th STREET
Telephone EDgecombe 4-1535 New York City, N. Y.

•

"You are always welcome at the Pullman Porters Brotherhood Home.
Dancing Free Every Saturday Night
Card, Pool, Billiard Games Daily."

AFTER THE BALL IS OVER

THERE WILL BE A

BREAKFAST PARTY

AT THE

PULLMAN PORTERS BROTHERHOOD HOME

"When they want to know the TRUTH about the Race in Harlem, they always visit the Home of the Pullman Porters Brotherhood. The above picture shows Ashley L. Totten, National Secretary-Treasurer, addressing a group of College Professors and Students. Standing beside him are Miss Jessie Carter, his secretary, and James Edward Smith, Field Organizer for New York Central District.

Help the — — —

PULLMAN PORTERS AND MAIDS

BRING MORE SUNSHINE, COMFORT AND HAPPINESS INTO THE HOMES OF THE RACE

When Wages are

HIGH

Life Is

HIGH

When Wages Are

LOW

Life Is

LOW

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
National President, Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

When the Emergency Railroad Transportation Act of 1933 was passed, Negro workers on the railroad were not included. The Pullman Porter, Maid, Dining Car employee, or other Negro worker, was known as "the equipment of the car."

On April 11, 1934, A. Philip Randolph fought for and won an Amendment to the Railway Labor Act to include all Negroes. But, for Randolph, Negroes would have been entirely forgotten in the New Deal. It is due to his brilliant and scholarly address before the United States Senate Committee, Washington, D. C., that Negroes are now classified as RAILROAD WORKERS, the COMPANY UNION outlawed and some 20,000 or more will benefit by the new PENSION LAW.

—o—

When in distress or need relief adjusted, old age pension or free legal advice visit the Home of the Pullman Porters and Maids. We help where we can. We turn no one away.

FOR MORE AND BETTER JOBS: Help the Pullman Porters and Maids drive unemployment out of Harlem by the purchase of one or more tickets to their Ninth Annual Ball at Rockland Palace, 155th Street and Eighth Avenue, Thursday night, December 6th. DON'T DELAY, HESITATE OR PROCRASTINATE. Only a few boxes and loges left. Make reservations NOW by phone, letter or in person with

MISS LYDIA M. CLAIR, Activities Secretary

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

Phone EDgecombe 4-1535 — 105 West 136th Street

New York City, N. Y.

You And Your Family Are Invited To The

JOINT MEMORIAL SERVICE

Under The Auspices Of The

Pullman Porters Benefit Association of America

SALEM M. E. CHURCH

129th Street and Seventh Avenue — New York City

SUNDAY EVENING, JUNE 10, '34 - 7.45 O'clock

Daylight Saving Time

S. GREEN, Chairman — R. R. WRIGHT, Secretary

The New York Age Press—PRINTERS—[illegible] West [illegible] Street, New York City

PULLMAN PORTERS ASK FOR A NEW DEAL

N. Y. Times 3/4/34

By GEORGE H. COPELAND.

THE depression has not dealt kindly with the Pullman porter. A usually generous public has not been so ready to tip smiling George. Moreover, pay envelopes have been considerably thinner and jobs have been fewer. In 1929 there were 13,000 porters in service. Now there are about 8,900, the others being "on furlough."

In a recent petition to President Roosevelt the porters pointed out that they held "the anomalous, strange and unfavorable position of being excluded from the beneficent and helpful supervision and regulation by the National Recovery Act and the Emergency Railroad Transportation Act of 1933, although they perform necessary and useful service for an interstate public utility which is the beneficiary of Federal legislation." The Pullman Company, they declare, "is not subject to the NRA because it is a carrier, and it escapes the jurisdiction of the ERTA because it is, as alleged, not a carrier by railroad."

The Federal Coordinator of Railroads, Joseph B. Eastman, is now undertaking a survey of the labor conditions of Pullman employes, and upon its completion will report to the President and Congress.

Wages Based on Mileage.

Porters and maids receive the same wages, which are paid on the basis of service miles. For years the monthly pay has been and still is based on 11,000 service miles. In February, 1932, the porters received a cut of $5 a month and the minimum wage, computed on the mileage basis, now ranges from $72.50 to $83.50, the latter sum going to those who have worked for the company for fifteen years or more.

If the run of any sleeping car porter or maid is less than 11,000 miles he or she receives the minimum wages for his or her class. If the number of miles served is more than 11,000 the porter or maid receives three-fifths of a cent for each additional mile traveled. It has been estimated that at present the average wage for porters and maids is about $75 a month or $900 a year. The average monthly service mileage is 10,400.

But, although the minimum is set at $72.50 a month, there are many who do not make this much. The Brotherhod of Sleeping Car Porters

Their Pay Has Been Cut And Tips Have Dwindled

estimates that more than 3,000 of the porters and maids are "extras," without regular assignments. In one month an "extra man" may have only one run and make only two days' pay. Still, extra men have to report every day, even though they are sure there is no work for them.

The Decline in Tips.

In 1929 it was estimated that the porter averaged $58 a month in tips and that he had to pay out, according to a survey by the Labor Bureau, about $33 a month for his occupational expenses. These consisted of shoe polish, the two uniforms he must buy in a year and keep in first-class condition, his meals, which he can purchase at the dining car at a 50 per cent discount from regular prices; his lodging at the end of the run, and so on. Since the depression, however, tips have dropped about 75 per cent.

Porters now spend about 278 hours a month on runs, or about ten hours per working day, according to an investigation made last October by Professor Edward Berman of the University of Illinois for the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. This time does not include preparatory and terminal work, time spent before and after each run making up berths, cleaning the cars, and so on, for which the porter gets no extra pay. It was found that time spent in this manner averages forty-one hours a month before and fifteen hours after runs, making a total of 334 hours of service monthly, or about thirteen hours per working day.

The porter has days off according to his run. If he is on the New York-Montreal trip he leaves this city at 6 P. M., arriving in Montreal at 8 the next morning. The next night at 6 he leaves Montreal, getting to New York at 8 A. M., and leaving again that evening. This is kept up for six days; then the porter may go home for a night. That is the usual custom.

Sleeping on a Pullman train is not easy for the porter. He is supposed to get three hours of sleep, which he must snatch on the couch of the smoking room, and then only if there are no passengers present. He is given a certain time for his sleeping early in the morning, at which time the porter in the next car is supposed to look after his duties. But he must answer the bell if any passenger rings, he must get up at every stop of the train, he must keep the temperature of the car below 55 degrees and must take care of late card players, &c. He uses no alarm clock; he has trained himself to awake when the three hours are up.

In the Labor Bureau investigation it was found that, of those replying to a questionnaire regarding sleep, 57 per cent obtained three hours' sleep, 23 per cent received more than three hours, 4 per cent got less than three hours and 16 per cent obtained no regular sleep at all.

When a porter begins his run he must first go through the car and see that everything, from the electric light bulbs to the rug, is spotless. Then he checks up the linen, sees that there are 180 sheets, plenty of pillow slips, towels, &c., and fills out a blank to that effect. He is responsible for the linen. He then makes up the berths, if he is on a night train; receives the passengers and tucks their baggage away.

Next he must find out the hour at which each passenger desires to be called in the morning before reaching the destination, inquire if any telegrams are to be sent from stations en route, and whether any passengers wish to get off the train before the end of the run.

Work During the Night.

When all passengers are in bed the porter reduces the temperature of the train and goes to each berth, taking away one pair of shoes at a time to be shined. This method of caring for the shoes is required in order that the porter shall not be away from his passengers too long at a stretch.

In the morning he begins to call the passengers, folds away the berths, brushes the passengers' clothing, and puts the bags out, having a smile ready for his departing guests. Then he must again check up on all linen and clean the car thoroughly. The car is then locked, and the porter takes his report to the agent at the station.

THE BOSTON CHRONICLE

NEGRO WORKER O. K. IF HANDLED RIGHT

Calvin Continues Examination of "The Negro In Industry"

By FLOYD J. CALVIN

NEW YORK, Apr. 12.—Continuing my examination of the booklet, "The Negro in Industry," which is the official publication of the American Management Association, 20 Vesey street, and which represents what Big Business thinks of the Negro, I find under "The Character of the Negro" this:

"Some people seem to believe that the Negro is entirely inferior to the white man and that no discussion is necessary. 'The Negro is different physically, temperamentally and psychologically.' Yet he has a heart and a stomach which react to medicine and food in exactly the same way as with whites. What distinguishes the Negro from others is his history, his color and his environment. The Negro has been a slave for generations; he has been the underdog since his emancipation. He is thereby ignorant, and industrially inefficient since he has a rural rather than [illegible] industrial training. Given the s[illegible]nent, the same environment a[illegible] same opportunity he might not be [illegible] very different from the white man except in color. The fact remains, however, we have to consider him as we find him.

"The Negro is a slow thinker; his mind has not been trained and thus he often misunderstands simple directions. Being a slow thinker he is slow in action and hence dubbed stupid. If he grasps a situation, however, he may be relied on to do his share. His history has made him suspicious, but this condition may be overcome by plain, square dealing. The Negro is unsteady from the factory point of view; he is unaccustomed to the discipline of industry; he has not been used to the daily grind, but training and persistence gradually brings him in line. He likes intermittent rather than monotonous work, we all do. He prefers indoor to outdoor work in Winter simply because he is unaccustomed to cold and, besides, he is subject to pulmonary disease. Likewise, he prefers outdoor work in Summer and can stand more heat than would be good for others.

"Responsibility is not readily accepted by people who recognize their limitations and the Negro has been made to see this. This does not imply that no Negro should be given a responsible position because it is good practice to give every worker responsibility to the limit of his capacity. The Negro is credited with small regard for the truth, low cunning and so forth, but these are the relics of slavery and subsequent events. We talk of the idle, rather than the lazy, colored worker, but laziness sometimes aids him to find out the easiest way to work and his vice becomes a virtue; he uses his head to save his brawn. Some employers find the Negro irregular in attendance while the majority find him no worse than others."

Concerning "The Negro as an Industrial Worker" the report says: ". . . The evidence, as is, establishes the general fact that the Negro is capable and there is the further confirmation that he is being found, in ever increasing numbers, in coal, iron and steel, stockyards, building and transportation.

"Some well marked mental and physical differences exist between white and colored workers that demand attention. Even if the Negro is handicapped by slow think[illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

You And Your Family Are Invited To The

JOINT MEMORIAL SERVICE

Under The Auspices Of The

Pullman Porters Benefit Association of America

SALEM M. E. CHURCH

129th Street and Seventh Avenue — New York City

SUNDAY EVENING, JUNE 10, '34 - 7.45 O'clock

Daylight Saving Time

S. GREEN, Chairman — R. R. WRIGHT, Secretary

The New York Age Press—PRINTING—230 West [illegible] Street, New York City

YOU AND YOUR FRIENDS ARE INVITED TO SPEND AN EVENING
AT THE
Pullman Porters Brotherhood's
TEA PARTY AND DANCE
SUNDAY EVE. JANUARY 27TH, 1935
207 WEST 140th STREET, APT. 1

Good Music ✦ Refreshments

Silver Offering

Get your Tickets for Ol[illegible] Tuesday [illegible] February 3rd

GRAND DIVISION

Order of Sleeping Car Conductors

107 W. Linwood Boulevard

Kansas City, Missouri

October 25, 1934.

To the Porters, Maids and Attendants, Employed by The Pullman Company.

Greetings:

You have learned from the experience of the last seventeen years that there is no substitute for a bona fide labor organization. Up to this time you have not been able to participate in the American Labor Movement by membership in a bona fide union with all the necessary affiliations functioning as prescribed in the law. You are the best judge of what this lack of organization has meant to you individually and to all of you collectively.

This right of self-organization, so long denied to you, is now guaranteed by Federal law. The Pullman Company has posted official notices advising you that you are now free to join the organization of your choice without interference. Therefore, it rests with you to determine what you will do with this priceless privilege.

No doubt you have all been asked to join some of the organizations already started since the Railway Labor Act was amended by Congress this year. You should have no trouble in classifying them or forecasting their merits. Some of them will claim to offer you superior advantages because they prohibit any participation by "Outsiders." You have heard this sort of thing for seventeen years and probably know as well as anyone else how this elimination of help from "Outsiders" has worked against you. Did you ever hear of a successful business man or corporation refusing aid from "Outsiders"? As a matter of fact, they could not succeed without aid from the outside, and this holds true of labor organizations for the same reasons. That is merely common-sense and because it is so obvious I marvel at the complacency with which porters are told that "Outsiders" are barred. If the organizers of these pseudo-unions were good psychologists, they would soft-pedal such matters because they would know that anyone who is at all conversant with business practices, which includes the work of labor organizations, would recognize the need for outside help in the conduct of business.

Another strange argument is the one concerning dues. Twenty-five cents a month in dues is held out as being a good reason for joining an organization. It may seem paradoxical, but it is true nevertheless, that the cheapest rate of dues is the most costly. When you buy anything, the price you pay is commensurate with its value. Putting it the other way round, you can determine the value of anything, with reasonable accuracy, by its price. An organization having nothing better to offer than a low rate of dues is in a bad way indeed. But why pay any dues at all if the avowed purpose of the organization is to keep you out of the labor movement? You surely do not think you have to PAY anything for being deprived of privileges granted to you by Federal law?

Still another argument held out as bait for membership is that the purpose of the organization is to maintain harmonious relations with the Management, the inference being that this particular organization will have the blessing of the employers and for that reason can get more out of them. Doesn't this sound a little fishy? Would an employer be partial to an organization if it was not because he knew he could save money thereby? The truth is, that the moment an organization asks higher wages or better working conditions than the employer is willing to give voluntarily, a controversy is precipitated that will not be adjusted in favor of the employes unless and until their organization has convinced the tribunal having jurisdiction over the dispute that their requests are justified. It requires no stretch of the imagination to see that in this situation there is no hope for the success of the workers if they are represented by an organization dominated by, or in the favor of, the employers. There is only one explanation for a management dominated or favored organization, and that is, to have the committees under sufficient control to prevent them from carrying any dispute beyond the point where the Management can dictate the terms of settlement. There is just one organization that can avoid such a fiasco, and that is the bona fide union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and other recognized labor associations.

One more word about this so-called "favoritism." Whenever this word is used as a bait for membership, it veils a violation of the law. It is a misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, for any employer to attempt to influence or coerce employes in their choice of membership in an organization, and it is a self-evident fact that "favoritism" toward an organization implies undue influence or coercion or both. Any employer, acting as a witness under oath, would deny the existence of favoritism, and would frankly state that no such thing would be countenanced by him. He would further state that a bona fide labor union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor would receive the same treatment from him that would be accorded any other acting in its place—and I want to remind you at this point, that the Order of Sleeping Car Conductors, which is the duly-accredited representative of all Conductors, has been given such impartial treatment by The Pullman Company. We know from seventeen years of experience in negotiating rules and handling grievances, that favoritism plays no part in collective bargaining of the sort recognized by the amended Railway Labor Act. The law has reduced these relationships to a strictly business basis, which it is well worth noting has been perfected upon the theories and the practices of the American Federation of Labor and the Association of Railway Labor Executives. It should also be remembered that the law as amended was introduced to Congress by these two labor associations jointly.

By action of the Executive Council, American Federation of Labor, following the Fifty-fourth Annual Convention in San Francisco, the door was opened to Porters, Maids and Attendants for membership in a bona fide union internationally chartered and with affiliations in all the recognized associations of the American Labor Movement. This includes membership in the Railway Labor Executives Association and representation on the National Railroad Adjustment Board. All this was accomplished by extending jurisdiction of the Order of Sleeping Car Conductors to cover the Porters, Maids and Attendants. There was no other way in which this complete and unrestricted membership could be accomplished in your behalf. If you are a member of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, your current receipt for dues will be accepted in lieu of the membership fee; otherwise a small charge will be made.

It was obvious that an affiliation between the Conductors' organization and the Porters, Maids and Attendants was essential to the welfare of all. This has been recognized by me since 1919, when I first started to organize porters but was stopped by the jurisdictional claim of another organization The recent elimination of that claim has made possible this final movement giving you recognition by the American Federation of Labor under international charter and full rights under the law.

In a few days you will be given an Application Blank for membership in this new organization. You are not being given "the rush act." This is not a matter for hasty action. There is too much at stake. Your decision will have far-reaching effects on your future life and work. I have no doubt as to the choice you will make if you consult with, and act on, the advice of those who are a part of the great American Labor Movement. Members of the train crew with whom you are associated on the road will give you good counsel from their years of experience as members of their respective organizations. Do not hesitate to talk freely with them and tell them all about this proposition now open to you. The more light shed on it, the better.

PULLMAN PORTERS' POPULARITY CONTEST

Dinner at Touissant Will Open Contest

The newly organized Buffalo local of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is proving to be one of the livest organizations ever in Buffalo.

One of the first acts of the local after its formation two months ago, was to appoint an entertainment committee and the merit of the appointments is proven by the fact that this committee is already sponsoring a trip to New York City for some lucky Buffalo girl.

On December 9th the Ninth Annual Ball given by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters will be held at Rockland Palace, New York City, and the winner of the popularity contest will be the guest of the committee at this ball.

Five young ladies are entered in this contest, each sponsored by a member of the entertainment committee. These young ladies will be presented to their friends and the public at the Touissant Grill, 392 William Street, on Monday, November 19th, and at this time the contest will be officially started.

The committee in charge consists of W. D. Baker, chairman; C. English, H. Evans, M. E. Meadows and L. C. Richie.

The public is invited to this grand affair at the Touissant.

Attention! Attention!

PULLMAN PORTERS AND MAIDS

Mayor LaGuardia Calls Brotherhood Splendid Fighting Organization

Speaking before an audience of 5,000 persons, including 350 Pullman Porters in uniform, at Mother A. M. E. Zion Church, Mayor Fiorella H. LaGuardia of New York, said as follows: "You must fight if you expect to get a wage increase. You must not allow COURTESY to be mistaken for SERVILITY. You can maintain your DIGNITY and still be COURTEOUS. When you are courteous to PASSENGERS your have fulfilled YOUR FULL DUTY — but SERVILITY is not COURTESY."

STOOL PIGEON COMPANY UNION ROUTED. In reply to a protest from the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters against activities of Pullman stool pigeons who were holding "Company Union" meetings on railroad property, a flagrant violation of the new Railroad Labor Law, the following letter is released for publication:

THE NEW YORK CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY

D. W. Dinan
Vice President
& General Manager

466 Lexington Avenue
New York

August 16, 1934 hjp.

Mr. Ashley L. Totten,
National Secretary-Treasurer,
Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters,
207 West 140th Street, New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—

Your letter of August 10, in regard to meeting of Pullman employees in our yard at Mott Haven has been referred to me.

We are informed that the so-called Employees Association had been holding meetings by permission of the Pullman Company in the recreation room leased to the Pullman Company in the Melrose Central Building, and that the Pullman Company has now denied the use of the recreation room for the holding of meetings by the Company Organization.

We understand that on Friday, August 10, there were several meetings in the vicinity of Mott Haven Yards, all of which were held off our property, except that several Pullman employees did meet in a coach in Mott Haven Yard.... A police officer noticed the men in the car but did not think it necessary to evict them.

We have been informed that the Pullman Company is making an effort to be neutral in the matter. We will so arrange that no meetings will be held in cars or buildings in Grand Central or New York Central areas at Mott Haven.

Yours very truly,

(signed) D. W. DINAN,
Vice Pres. & Gen'l Mgr.

Upon your shoulders rests the burden of responsibility for the future economic well-being of your RACE. Wont you show one spark of manhood by joining the ranks in the ONWARD MARCH TO A NEW EMANCIPATION? You owe it to your Wife, Mother, Children and YOURSELF. Remember: "God only helps those who try to help themselves."

Send application or reinstatement to any of the following Brotherhood officers:

M. P. WEBSTER, Chairman National Executive Board, 4231 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, Oakland 6682
C. B. GOLDMAN ..... 4410 Aspen Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
CHAS. KELLY ..... 973 Tremont Avenue, Boston, Mass.
BENNIE SMITH ..... 2355 Eighteenth Street, Detroit, Mich.
GEORGE W. CLARK ..... 4231 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Ill.
FRANK BOYD ..... 443 Mackubin Street, St. Paul, Minn.
TAYLOR MURRELL ..... 2719 Corby Street, Omaha, Nebr.
SPENCER WATSON ..... 2412 Campbell Street, Kansas City, Mo.
W. B. HOLLAND ..... 1938 So. Central Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif.
W. E. CAMPBELL ..... 1014 Dumaine Street, New Orleans, La.
J. W DARBY ..... 2029 Davis Street, Jacksonville, Fla.
C. L. DELLUMS ..... 1716 Seventh Street, Oakland, Calif.
E. J. BRADLEY ..... 2117 Market Street, St. Louis, Mo.
J. R. BENOIT ..... 2740 William Street, Denver, Colo.
L. B. BASKERVILLE ..... 628 North Fourth Street, Richmond, Va.
J. WOODWARD ..... 452 Jefferson Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

* *

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

National Headquarters:
105 WEST 136th STREET
New York City

Phone EDgecombe 4-1535

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
National President

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN
National Sec'y-Treas.

MAKE RESERVATIONS NOW FOR OUR NINTH ANNUAL BALL
ROCKLAND PALACE, DECEMBER 6, 1934

THE PULLMAN PORTERS and MAIDS PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION

4321 Forestville Avenue
CHICAGO

October 8th, 1934

BULLETIN OF INFORMATION:

For many years the Pullman Porters and Maids were represented under the Plan of Employee Representation. We found this a very good form of representation, bringing about friendly relations between the Company and the employees, but on June 21, 1934, a Federal Act was passed amending The Railway Act of 1926, which made it necessary for us to sponsor an organization of our own.

Therefore, in order to provide vigorous and steadfast protection for the Porters and maids in all rights arising out of their employment by the Pullman Company, this Association was organized. The organizers of this Association are men who are now in service, and have a good reputation as to honesty and integrity of purpose. This Association is an independent national Union embracing every District and Agency throughout the country. As required by law it is being financed solely by the Porters and Maids; it is being organized by Porters and Maids, will operate solely for the benefit of Porters and Maids, and will never be managed or controlled by anyone but Porters and Maids.

The purpose of this Association is on behalf of the Pullman Porters and Maids to make and maintain agreements concerning rates of pay and rules governing working conditions, with the management of the Pullman Company; and also to represent the Porters and Maids in their grievances and all other differences before the officials of the Pullman Company, all agencies set up under the amended Railway Act, and before all other proper governmental agencies.

The government of this Association shall be vested in the members as represented by their duly elected officers and delegates of the Local Lodges and the Grand Lodge. A Local Lodge may be set up in any District or Agency. Its officers shall be a Chairman, Secretary-Treasurer, and Committeeman. The Chairman of the Local Lodge shall be the delegate of that Local Lodge to the Grand Lodge. The Grand Lodge shall consist of one delegate from each Local Lodge. These delegates shall elect among themselves officers of the Grand Lodge who will be the national officers of the entire Association. The officers of the Grand Lodge shall be: President, Vice-President and Secretary-Treasurer. There shall be a Regional Board of five which will hear appeal cases from the different locals under their jurisdiction.

On petition of the Porters and Maids of any District or Agency, the President of the Grand Lodge may create a Local Lodge in any District or Agency.

This organization is not for profit; consequently, initiation fees and dues now being charged cover nothing but the bare expenses of organization. The initiation fee is $1.00 and the dues 25c per month—all payable to the Treasurer of the Local Lodge. Upon payment of the inititation fee, the Local Treasurer will have members sign Application and Authorization Card and will tear off receipt at bottom of the Card. Then, in turn, the Local Treasurer will forward the card and cash to the Grand Secretary-Treasurer, who will by return mail send receipt and membership card.

At a joint meeting held in the city of Chicago, July 25, 1934, the following temporary officers and temporary Regional Board were elected and appointed:

President, J. S. Morris (C. E.) Vice President, U. J. Turnquest (C. C.)
Secretary-Treasurer, W. H. Thomas (C. N.)

REGIONAL BOARD

J. M. Brown (P. T.) G. C. Shannon (St. Paul) H. Pope, Jr., (Nashville)
H. O. Phillips (Los Angeles) E. Eustace (San Antonio)

General Counsel: Clarence F. McCarthy,
Attorney at Law, Room 705, 111 West Monroe Street.
Chicago, Illinois.

Further detailed instructions as to how to set up and operate a Local Lodge in any District or Agency, will be furnished upon request.

THE PULLMAN PORTERS and MAIDS PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION
4321 Forestville Avenue, Chicago, Illinois
APPLICATION and AUTHORIZATION CARD

In accordance with the provisions of the Railway Labor Act of 1926 as amended by Act of Congress approved June 21, 1934, I, the undersigned, being at the present time employed as a Porter-Maid by the Pullman Company, do hereby apply to become a member of The Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association, an independent National Union, managed by, and composed only of Porters and Maids.

Further, in all matters affecting rates of pay, working conditions and grievances, I hereby designate the said Association my sole representative. To that end I hereby authorize it to make and maintain agreements with The Pullman Company and to represent me before the management of the Pullman Company, all agencies set up under the amended Railway Labor Act, and all other proper governmental agencies.

Signed_____

District_____ Address_____

City_____ State_____

THIS IS YOUR RECEIPT

THE PULLMAN PORTERS and MAIDS PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION
4321 Forestville Avenue, Chicago, Illinois

Amount Received_____ _____Representative

CONSTITUTION

FOR

PULLMAN PORTERS

AND

MAIDS PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

1934

CONSTITUTION

FOR THE

GRAND LODGE AND LOCAL LODGES

OF THE

PULLMAN PORTERS AND MAIDS

PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION

PREAMBLE

We, the Porters, Maids, Cooks, Waiters and Bus Men in the employ of The Pullman Company, do hereby adopt and subscribe to this, our Constitution.

NAME OF ORGANIZATION

Section 1—This organization shall be designated, hailed and entitled as: The Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association.

MEMBERSHIP

Section 2—In orders to be accepted as a member of this Association the applicant must be of the Negro Race and a citizen of the United States of America or of the Dominion of Canada, and be in the service of The Pullman Company in some one of the classifications of employees hereinbefore named.

TERMS OF OFFICE

Section 9—The terms of office of the Directors, of the Officers of the Grand Lodge, of the Officers of the Local Lodges, and the Adjustment Committees, shall be for one (1) year immediately following their election or appointment, and they will continue to serve until their successors are elected.

VACANCIES

Section 10—Vacancies shall be filled by special elections when authorized by the President.

ENROLLMENT FEE AND MONTHLY DUES

Section 11—The enrollment fee, upon acceptance of any applicant, shall be $1.00, payable in advance, and the monthly dues 25 cents, payable in advance.

NEGOTIATION OF LABOR AGREEMENTS

Section 12—The President, with the concurrence of the majority of the Directors, may appoint a committee of members consisting of such number as the President, with concurrence of a majority of the Directors, may deem advisable, and authorize such representatives to request conference with and confer and negotiate with representatives of the management for the purpose of negotiating an agreement covering wages, rules and working conditions; such representatives shall have the authority, when agreement is reached, to execute same by their respective signatures.

CHANGES IN CONSTITUTION

Section 13—This Constitution may be altered, amended, amplified or abrogated at any Annual Convention of the Association by a vote of two-thirds of the delegates present, provided that written notice of such proposed change or changes shall be given to each delegate at least 30 days before the Convention.

[illegible] REGULATIONS

Section 14.—There will be presented to the First Convention of this Association for its consideration, amendment, if necessary, and final approval the proposed By-Laws which shall set forth the rules and regulations governing the interior workings of the Association, specifying the times and places for Annual Nomination and Final Elections, the times and places for meetings of the Local Lodges and of the Grand Lodge, salaries to be paid, the methods of procedure to be followed by the Adjustment Committees in the handling of differences, disputes and grievances that may arise, procedure in calling and conducting meetings, procedure in collecting and remitting monthly dues, and other matters of detail; it being the purpose of this Constitution simply to set forth in general outline the fundamental principles on which this Association is based.

Send your application card and $1.00 for enrollment fee to your Local Treasurer or to W. H. Thomas, Temporary Secretary-Treasurer, 4321 Forestville Ave., Chicago, Ill.

J. S. Morris,
Temporary President.

W. H. Thomas,
Temporary Sect'y.-Treas.

THE TAMPA BULLETIN

We have a president who keeps on trying.

Some men are much less than we think they are.

Some of the open doors set before us are hard to enter.

People tell us we are right when we know we are wrong.

Talkative people deserve to be watched as well as listened to.

Florida is still a great state and we work right on to keep it so.

Real men are known more by their works than by their words.

Mother's Day was a great day for all who think on good things.

Many boys are named George Washington, but it doesn't help—.

And we've had some rain to the delight of the farmers and the rest of us.

We have yet a few men among us who are dedicated to the good things of life.

Race relations grow better every day, despite foolish sayings of men on both sides of the fence.

We are not concerned so much about what [illegible] about what we are going to be right here.

[illegible] Florida have helped (?) to make one of [illegible] a millionaire, A. L. Leach [illegible] Jacksonville.

NEGRO RAILWAY PORTER'S BODY TIED TO TREE

193 2

Miami-Kansas City Train Worker Is Slain in Georgia

LOCUST GROVE, Ga., April 5.—(AP)—P. F. Pruitt, chief of police of Locust Grove, said the body of [illegible] H. Wilkins, negro Pullman porter of the Southern railway's Kansas City Special, was found near here today with the knees touching the ground and the head tied to a small tree by his porter's coat.

Pruitt said a large wound beneath the negro's left arm led into the heart and a [illegible] had been made with a knife.

The police chief said a set of footprints led from the railroad tracks across a freshly plowed field some 300 yards away where the body was found and that the same prints led back again to the tracks. The footprints, he said, did not correspond to the negro's shoes, which were muddy. A trail of blood, he declared, paralleled the footprints.

The Kansas City Special did not stop at Locust Grove, but at Juliette, Ga., 17 miles from here.

Railroad officials said that the negro was last seen alive when the train left Macon at 3 a. m., today, and was not missed until the train [illegible] Atlanta. Railroad [illegible] unknown [illegible] the [illegible] from the train. [illegible] to have lived in [illegible] and to have handled the Pullman for several months between Kansas City and Miami.

Implied Rebuke to Il Duce

ONLY about 300 Jews of American citizenship reside in Italy. The state department, therefore, was speaking directly for a very small group when it asked the Fascist government not to discriminate against American Jews who now are legal residents of the Italian kingdom.

The note is a businesslike document, which lets Mussolini know clearly what the United States government expects of him in dealing with Jews of American citizenship in his country. Il Duce will not overlook the pointed statement that Italians resident in the United States are not discriminated against because of their nationality.

The note is more important for its implications than for what it actually says. While demanding protection for American citizens, the note plainly infers that the United States disapproves of the new Italian policy of persecution of persons of Jewish ancestry. Mussolini is told, if not in so many words, that the power of public opinion in America is opposed to his anti-Semitic program.

Both Hitler and Mussolini in the past have been contemptuous of the opinions of the people of outside nations, but in more recent times they have given evidence of being more concerned about what they do. More particularly is this true of the Roman dictator.

If every nation in the world that treats its Jewish minority fairly, including Great Britain, Russia, the Scandinavian countries, the Latin-American countries, would send a note to Rome similar to that which our state department has sent, Mussolini would recognize more fully the position of isolation, in regard to the treatment of Jews, that he and Hitler have come to occupy, and it is not hard to believe that he would modify or repeal his drive against the Jews in Italy.

Another thing, if the movement now on foot in this country to secure a modification of the Johnson

MERIT AWARDS

E. J. BRADLEY

[illegible] is a man who has sacrificed his material well-[illegible] a principle and done it without a complaint. Nine [illegible] E. J. Bradley was one of the Pullman Company's [illegible] porters, having worked for that company for [illegible] years. He had a select run to Chicago on the Ban-[illegible]ed; he had a fine home at 4444 Cook avenue [illegible] out of his earnings; he had money in the bank; in [illegible] was worth over $15,000. Bradley, although in a [illegible] position with the Pullman Company felt that his [illegible] porters should be given a fairer break as [illegible]n.. He gave up his job and became the St. Louis [illegible]er of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. The [illegible]r battle that followed has been one of frequent [illegible]ntment. St. Louis was the most difficult city in [illegible] to get the porters organized, because not only did [illegible]mpany officials here leave no stone unturned and [illegible]ed to defeat the Brotherhood, but some of our "leading Negroes" joined in with the company. Bradley's life was one of constant up-set and discouragement.

His own money began to dwindle. He saw $1200 of his cash go into the work; he was supposed to receive a salary of $100 per month as organizer, but has not received a full months pay in more than 7 years, often going months without any compensation. He has spent more than $1700 of his own money in the cause. Finally he mortgaged his home and later lost it; and yet through it all he has kept on plugging with sheer determination in the service of the Brotherhood here in St. Louis. During the past four years Bradley has "walked on the bottom" of life, yet his head is unbowed and his faith unshakened in the rights of the Negro Pullman porters to organize in quest of fair wages, reasonable hours and the right to bargain with their employer in the same manner as the white Pullman Conductors are organized to do and as other American workers.

Upon such sacrifice the Gods themselves threw incense.

But too often we do not recognize or reward such silent suffering heroes among us as is E. J. Bradley. But it is what we give up, not what we lay up, that adds to our lasting store.

However the future bears promises to dawn brighter for Bradley and the embattled Brotherhood. Last year Congress passed a bill which included the Pullman porters and maids in the labor set-up and gave them the right to organize provided they show sufficient strength. Now even in St. Louis the Pullman porters (and St. Louis has more Pullman porters living in it than any other city except Chicago and New York) are rallying to the Brotherhood and E. J. Bradley's nine years of sterling sacrifice are to be rewarded with success.

[illegible] was born in Alton, Ill., 58 years ago (the [illegible] P. Lovejoy's great sacrifice for freedom). He [illegible] St. Louis in [illegible]. He has three children, two daughters and a [redacted]

Young Business Man, Two Teachers and Labor Organizer Get St. Louis American's First Annual Awards

The 1934 Merit Award to five citizens whose outstanding endeavors and achievements during the past four years in St. Louis are a genuine credit and a lasting inspiration. "Real merit, like a deep river, is noiseless." Their's is not of the spectacular, showmanship achievements. By the popular yard-stick that rules money-making the criterion of success, these five citizens would hardly be considered. But men do not live by bread alone. There are the spiritual values—the willingness to make a sacrifice for principles, the concrete love of one's fellow man, the courage of one's convictions, and the perseverance and determination to reach the goals of real service—and these five citizens are fine examples. Living in this age of jazz-values and quick money-making, of ballyhoo and false-fronting, of worshipping as a hero or a "great" he who may manipulate and scheme a money success by any means, fair or foul, the solid achievements amongst us go unheralded and unappreciated. And it is in an effort to set up a truer standard here in St. Louis that these (call them homely forgotten virtues if you must) are presented the First Annual MERIT AWARDS by the St. Louis American. Following is a brief sketch of each:

SACRIFICE

EDWARD J. BRADLEY

PULLMAN MAIDS AND PORTERS IN VANGUARD OF NEGRO'S STRUGGLE

THIS WEEK, when Pullman maids and porters choose between their own Brotherhood and the Wall Street controlled company union, it will be the first time that Negro workers have had the opportunity of voting for their economic rights in an election under federal supervision.

The election will be secret, and held off Pullman property. On the ballot will be the names of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association. This last named organization is a device by which the Pullman Company intends to continue its exploitation of Negro workers. It is paid for by the Company, which means that it is paid for by J. P. Morgan, R. K. Mellon, Alfred P. Sloan, George F. Baker, Harold S. Vanderbilt, George Whitney, and other financiers and industrialists who sit on the Pullman Company board of directors.

Because of the courageous educational work carried on during the last ten years by the leaders of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, most of the maids and porters understand the role played by Morgan, Mellon, and company in maintaining the Negro's present economic status in America. These black workers are not deceived by the Company union tactics. They plainly see the issue. And all who are not completely demoralized by fear or bribery will vote for the Brotherhood.

Voting for the Brotherhood, and thus against the company union, is both a self-protective measure for every maid and porter, and a measure by which the maids and porters may step into the vanguard of Negro leadership. Not only is a strong and formidable Brotherhood the sole instrument through which maids and porters may have their grievances against the company adjusted, their wages raised and working conditions improved, it is also an effective instrument by which Negroes as a whole will win over the rank and file of the American Federation of Labor, thus causing that organization to abolish the color line in its affiliated organizations and to enter more militantly into the struggle for Negro liberation.

Therefore, every ballot for the Brotherhood is a stone that kills two birds. It makes every maid and porter's job more secure. It strengthens the entire labor movement. Let no maid or porter fail to throw this stone!

* * * * *

CONFUSION AMONG LEADERS

NOW THAT THE National Conference on Negro problems has ended at Washington, we will wish to see some action taken. This is the real test of the value of the conference.

There was not as much confusion in the viewpoints expressed at the conference as might have been expected. Every speaker emphasized the economic basis of the problem. It was chiefly in methods proposed for working out the problem on its economic basis that the speakers differed. Certainly some of these methods appear on their face less clear, less likely to lead to success than others. Notably deficient in logic as well as historic perspective are the methods proposed by Dr. DuBois, T. Arnold Hill, Eugene Kinkle Jones, and the spokesmen for the New Deal. The chief failing of all these proposals is their lack of appeal to militant action, their emphasis on theory, their unhistoric approach to the problem, and their approval of gradualism as an inevitable process of social change.

If, however, the conference served no other purpose than that of clearing away some of the debris of useless and treacherous theory, it has done a necessary job.

Ballot Arranged For Choice of Union By Pullman Porters

By a Staff Correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor

NEW YORK, May 25—A milestone in the fight of Negro workers for recognition in organized trade union groups will be passed Monday, May 27, when the porters who protect the person and property of passengers on Pullman cars will cast their ballots in a national election ordered by the National Mediation Board in the first recognition of their right to organize in an independent union.

The election, which comes after a 10-year struggle, has been called in 88 districts and agencies, including New York, Chicago, New Orleans, St. Louis, Los Angeles and Jacksonville. It will be secret and off Pullman property, and the participants will be protected from interference.

On the ballots will be printed the names of two organizations—the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, of which A. Philip Randolph is national president, and the Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association. The former, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, is the medium through which the porters have sought to establish an independent system of employee representation in their dealings with Pullman, Inc.

The brotherhood was organized by Pullman porters in New York City in 1925. It was able to invoke the services of the National Mediation Board upon refusal of the company to meet union representatives last November.

The protective association is a company union, formed under the amendment of the Railway Labor Act by the last Congress, prohibiting a carrier from financing its employee organization. It took the place of the plan of employee representation previously maintained by the company.

Ballots will be taken to Washington and tabulated, and announcement of the victorious organization will be made.

THE NEW YORK CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY

D. W. Dinan
Vice Pres. and Gen'l Manager

466 Lexington avenue
New York

Aug. 16, 1934. hjp

Mr. Ashley L. Totten,
National Secretary-Treasurer,
Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters,
207 West 140th street, New York, N.Y.

Dear Sir:-

Your letter of August 10, in regard to meeting of Pullman employes in our yard at Mott Haven, has been referred to me.

We are informed that the so-called Employes Association had been holding meetings by permission of The Pullman Company in the recreation room leased to The Pullman Company in the Melrose Central Building, and that The Pullman Company has now denied the use of the recreation room for the holding of meetings by the company organization.

We understand that on Friday, August 10, there were several meetings in the vicinity of Mott Haven Yards, all of which were held off our property except that several Pullman employes did meet in a coach in Mott Haven Yard. A police officer noticed the men in the car but did not think it necessary to evict them.

We have been informed that The Pullman Company is making an effort to be neutral in the matter. We will so arrange that no meetings will be held in cars or buildings in Grand Central or New York Central areas at Mott Haven.

Yours very truly,

(signed) D. W. Dinan.

BROTHERHOOD COMMENT: We sent the CHALLENGE!

HERE IS YOUR ANSWER!!

DOES THIS CONVINCE YOU?

1934

NATIONAL BULLETIN
OF
BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

Following the passage of the Amended Railway Labor Act the most rapid strides have been made in the Brotherhood's program since its origin in 1925. Pullman porters north, south, east and west are enthusiastically responding to the call of the Brotherhood in its fight for economic emancipation of the Pullman porters in particular and the Negro workers in general.

The Brotherhood is now making a Nation-wide drive for a membership of an overwhelming majority of Pullman porters and maids and to that end, every member is urged to cooperate with his local representative in making his district one hundred (100%) per cent.

The Federal Government has completely abolished Company Unions and Employee Plans on railroads, and in addition guarantees to railway employees, including Pullman Porters, absolute protection under the following provisions of the Amended Railway Labor Act.

Sec. 2, Paragraph 4. "Employees shall have the right to organize and bargain collectively thru representatives of their own choosing. The majority of any craft or class of employees shall have the right to determine who shall be the representative of the craft or class for the purposes of this Act. No carrier, its officers or agents, shall deny or in any way question the right of its employees to join, organize, or assist in organizing the labor organization of their choice, and it shall be unlawful for any carrier to interfere in any way with the organization of its employees, or to use the funds of the carrier in maintaining or assisting or contributing to any labor organization, labor representative, or other agency of collective bargaining, etc."

Sec. 2, Paragraph 10. "The willful failure or refusal of any carrier, its officers or agents to comply with the terms of the third, fourth, fifth, seventh, or eighth paragraphs of this section shall be a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof the carrier, officer, or agent offending shall be subject to a fine of not less than $1000, nor more than $20,000, or imprisonment for not more than six months, or both fine and imprisonment, for each offense, etc."

The Brotherhood is prepared to handle all grievances of its members and urges that wherever they occur that they be taken up with your local representative and, if there is no local representative in your district, communicate with the National Office. The Brotherhood alone is responsible for the placing of Pullman porters on a basis of equality with all other railroad workers under the Amended Railway Labor Act and is the only agency that will give you absolute protection in your pension rights.

In order to get reliable information about the Brotherhood's program, consult the Brotherhood official in your district. There is a Brotherhood official in every important railroad center.

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
National President

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN
General Sec.-Treas.

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

National Headquarters
105 West 136th Street, N. Y., N. Y.

M. P. WEBSTER, 1st Vice Presi.
4231 S. Michigan Avenue
Chicago, Illinois

BENNIE SMITH, 2nd Vice Pres.
2355 Eighteenth Street
Detroit, Michigan

E. J. BRADLEY, 3rd Vice Pres.
2117 Market Street
St. Louis, Missouri

C. L. DELLUMS, 4th Vice Pres.
1716 Seventh Street
Oakland, California

Pullman Porters Notice!

THE NATIONAL MEDIATION BOARD

and the

PULLMAN PORTERS CASE

will be discussed at a

Special Meeting

under auspices of the

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

Tuesday, March 26, 1935, 8:00 P. M., at

DORIC HALL

N. E. Cor. 51st Street and Michigan Ave.

Entrance: 108 E. 51st Street

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is fortunate in being able to present speakers who will convey important facts of deep interest to every Pullman porter. Therefore, all Pullman porters and their families are invited.

Other meetings at Brotherhood Headquarters
Every Night.

CHICAGO DIVISION HEADQUARTERS

4231 South Michigan Avenue

GEORGE W. CLARK — M. P. WEBSTER, President

NEW YORK AGE
Aug. 17, 1935

Things Seen, Heard And Done — N.Y. AGE Aug. 17, 3

Among Pullman Employees

By JAMES H. HOGANS

PULLMAN DIPLOMACY

Although this may not be so obvious to some persons as to others, the fact is that the Pullman Company is one of the most diplomatic business corporations in America. For one example, take the case of its porters.

For years, its porters, or most of them, anyway, labored under the impression that the company would fight to the last ditch any decree which would necessitate the company having to treat with the porters through outside or union representation.

That impression was so deeply held by the porters that even now they cannot quite bring themselves to believe that this situation is about to become a reality. Briefly, they are amazed at the situation. They are, however, still more amazed at the agreeable manner in which the company has accepted the situation.

The company has apparently adjusted itself so well to the turn of events that the following conversation may be repeated.

A veteran employe, whose relations with the heads of the Pullman management afford him a close observation of their actions and reactions, was asked recently this question: "How did the management take the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters' victory and the conditions it meant?"

This veteran who has a fine sense of wit and humor, smilingly replied. "They (meaning the managing heads) took it on the chin, took it on the nose, in fact, took it with a smile." As an afterthought, he added, "The Pullman heads are big people and they are good sports."

Whether all the porters will share that opinion or not is another matter. But it will have to be admitted that the managerial personnel has so far shown an admirable spirit in the matter, if all reports are true.

On the other hand, the same thing cannot be said of all the porters. Some of these, despite the evidence which the porters' election gave, are still querulous about the outside organization. They are still trying to discredit its purpose.

Suppose, for instance, all of these purposes are not realized, and suppose it turns out that these shall prove more detrimental than helpful to the group in the long run, it is no more than fair that the organization should be given the chance to prove that.

This column has always tried to adopt a neutral attitude in the industrial affairs of the group and shall endeavor to follow that course. But it would be false to its sense of fairness not to state its opinion on the subject.

But whether the opinion here is worth anything or nothing, the fact is the porters are going to get, so it seems, the opportunity to try the effects of outside representation. All the caviling and criticism against it will simply be a case of pulling against the porters' tide of sentiment.

However, there is one thing which the leaders and adherents of this form of industrial relations will do well to bear in mind, and that is, Pullman diplomacy is Pullman philosophy. What the outside organization wants and what it gets will depend largely on what it does. The reception and courtesy which were shown its representatives at the recent Chicago conference may only be interpreted as a sample of the company's business acumen and diplomacy.

Picked Up Here And There

The porters' stovepipe committee is indulging in its usual summer pastime, that of shuffling the Pullman executive cardboard. This time, the cards center around Superintendent J. Bryce of the New York District. Mr. Bryce, reports the committee, will leave this district shortly for Chicago.

Sylvester Brown, a veteran porter of the New York District, began his duties last week as custodian of the porters checkroom at Mott Haven Yards. Interviewed several days after he had assumed charge, the veteran said that he thought he would like the job. When asked how about his Sundays (Mr. Brown is a high officer in Mt. Olivet Baptist Church, this city) he replied "that had all been arranged." Mr. Brown succeeded the former custodian, Andy Condy, who was retired on July 29, after 45 years of Pullman service.

Porter Thornton Duval, a substantial member of porters group in the New York area, and Mrs. Duval left this city on Saturday for a Southern vacation trip. Their itinerary will include Bowling Green, Va., at which point they will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. John Carter of Lancaster, Penn., brother-in-law and sister of Mr. Duvall, thence by motor to Leesburg, Va., where the party will be guests of Mrs. Sherman Berry, also a sister. The Duvalls expect to be away until August 24.

P. A. Sample, comptroller of the P. P. B. A., with offices at Chicago, is spending his usual summer vacation with Mrs. Sample at their home, 101 Virginia avenue, Jersey City. Arriving East the latter part of last week, the comptroller anticipates staying here until August 20th.

THE SPOKESMAN
July 26, 1935

THE PORTERS WIN

MORE THAN ten years ago, the Pullman porters began to assert their right to organize their own union. That wise and beneficent organization which manufactures dining and sleeping cars had also manufactured a union with a name more prosaic than that which it bestows upon its rolling stock, to-wit, the Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association. But the workers, with the ingratitude which characterizes their class, would have nothing to do with it; whereupon in its paternal manner the company ruled that if the employes would not take a union which was good for them, they should not be permitted to take any union at all, Daddy knows best, said the Pullman Company, or words to that effect.

But daddy is now on the run. Two weeks ago, in an election held by the National Mediation Board, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters was chosen by the employes to represent them in collective bargaining. As the vote was 5,931 to 1,422, the Company's claim that its employes detest and abominate the Brotherhood seems to lack plausibility.

We wish the porters all success in their new venture. . . . Let us hope that the public, white as well as black, can take a more enlightened attitude.—America (A Catholic Review of the Week)

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
239 WEST 136th STREET, NEW YORK CITY

-*-

In view of the decision of the U.S. Supreme Court May 26, 1930, I, the undersigned, being at the present time employed as a Porter by the Pullman Company, do hereby designate and authorize the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, to make and maintain agreements as my sole representative, with the Management of the Pullman Company concerning wages and rules governing working conditions.

District Louisville Name Edward Johnson Hammonds

Address 1724 W. Chestnut St.

MAYOR LAGUARDIA ADDRESSES

Stirring Ovation Tendered New York's Chief On Brotherhood's Ninth Anniversary.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Four thousand people of all walks of life, including Mayor LaGuardia, joined with the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in celebrating its ninth anniversary at the Mother A. M. E. Zion Church, Wednesday night of last week. Equal to the stirring ovation given the mayor was the warm acclaim paid A. Philip Randolph,

PULLMAN PORTERS

NEW YORK TIMES
July 2, 1935

PULLMAN PORTERS WIN RECOGNITION

A. F. of L. Union Triumphs Over Company Group in Collective Bargaining Poll.

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters won today a ten-year fight for union recognition by the Pullman Company, when the National Mediation Board of the Railway Industry certified that the porters affiliated with the American Federation of Labor had won elections for collective bargaining representation by a vote of 5,931 against 1,422 for the company union.

The Pullman porters have tried vainly to have the Pullman Company bargain collectively with them for ten years.

Several months ago there was a dispute concerning representation between the porters affiliated with the A. F. of L. and the Pullman Porters' and Maids' Collective Association. The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters appealed to the National Mediation Board, and submitted more than [illegible]00 names of porters who had authorized the union to represent them.

The board also received 2,054 authorizations from the company union. It was then arranged by the board that six elections committees should take the votes in different cities. The vote was begun on May 27, 1935, and ended on June 27, 1935. In the twenty-nine cities the independent union was the victor. It also won a majority of ballots cast by mail.

The election is said to be the first under the auspices of any governmental agency in which a Negro trade union has won recognition as spokesmen for the employes.

The voting was conducted under authority granted the National Mediation Board of which Dr. L. L. Laiserson is chairman.

WHITE AND NEGRO JOIN PEACE RALLY

Separate Parades of 20,000 in Harlem Unite in Anti-War Meeting.

ETHIOPIA IS CHEERED

Cry of 'Down With Mussolini' Brings Approval From Sidewalk Crowds.

About [illegible] whites and [illegible]groes marched through the streets of Harlem yesterday afternoon in two separate parades, and then joined in a mass meeting in the square at 141st Street and Edgecombe Avenue, in a protest against war in general and Italian aggression in particular.

The parades and meeting also marked the twenty[illegible] anniversary of the outbreak of World War. Participating marchers and speakers were many Negroes and white liberals, ministers and trade unions. There was a sprinkling of adult and juvenile Communists.

Both parades started at the same time. The west parade got under way from 127th Street and Lenox Avenue at 1:45 in the afternoon and the east contingent started at the same time from 120th Street and Second Avenue. In the latter group were a large number of whites and this contingent marched through the section in Harlem where there are large numbers of Italians.

There were shouts of "Down with Mussolini," as well as "Death to fascism." "We are against war in Ethiopia," chanted the marchers. With but few exceptions these sentiments were cheered by those on the sidewalks and by those leaning out of windows.

Porters Are in Line.

One of the features in the parade was a group of uniformed, white gloved Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, a Negro trade union. There were delegations from the International League for Peace and Freedom, the American League Against War and Fascism and other organizations having 'no more wars' as their slogan.

In the parade were many floats and posters. One poster had the inscription "Schools—Not Battleships." Another poster carried by whites depicted a collapsing soldier and the inscription read, "They fell in battle because they fell for propaganda." Still another read, "Sixteen million unemployed want bread, not bullets." One poster read, "Hands Off Ethiopia."

There were constant cries, "Italian and Negro people, unite in a common front against war."

Because of conditions in Harlem, the recent riots and dissatisfaction with relief and housing, as well as resentment against alleged racial discrimination, the police were unusually alert to prevent trouble. A police detail of 210 patrolmen, 150 detectives, 20 mounted men, fourteen sergeants, four lieutenants and three captains under the command of Deputy Chief Inspector David J. McAuliffe were on duty in the square where the protest meeting was held.

Crowd Is Warned.

The two contingents met at 129th Street and Seventh Avenue, and marched north to Bradhurst and Edgecomb Avenues. There was a huge wooden stand with amplifiers in the square and the speakers constantly warned those in the crowd not to get too near the stand for fear it would collapse.

At one point in the meeting, when those in the square were exhorted to [illegible] generously in the fight against war and fascism, the advice was offered from the speakers' stand, "This is not time to eat ice cream or peel bananas. Listen to the speeches and donate as much money as possible," the crowd was told.

S. A. Cowan, Negro founder of the Pioneers of Tthiopia, was given a rousing cheer when he told the crowd that Mussolini had advised Americans to turn their attention to lynchings in the South rather than to the affairs in Ethiopia. "We will show that the American Negro is going right over into his backyard," Mr. Cowan shouted amid much applause.

There was a large contingent of Father Divine's followers present. They wore brown [illegible] with gold lettering "Father Divine is God" on them. Father Divine, Negro evangelist, had promised to attend and speak at the meeting, but he did not show up.

There were several Ethiopian flags on display. They were in tricolor arrangement of green, orange and yellor. Each time they were waved the crowd cheered lustily. Boos greeted every mention of Mussolini.

The speakers included the Rev. W. L. Innes, rector of St. James Presbyterian Church and assistant grand marshal; the Rev. Dr. George Frazier Miller, rector of St. Augustine's Protestant Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, Paul Reid, national secretary, American League Against War and Fascism; Miss Eleanor Brannon, [illegible] International League for Peace and Freedom, Robert [illegible], of the central committee of the Communist party, Juan Ta[illegible], New York [illegible] committee, American League against War and Fascism; Tito [illegible], editor of Unità Operaia, [illegible] representing the P[illegible] Committee for the defense of Ethiopia; Ashley Totten, secretary and treasurer of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, and Rabbi Michael Alper, of the executive committee of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum.

The meeting adjourned at 7 o'clock. Resolutions protesting the actions of Hitler and Mussolini were adopted.

PORTER'S BROTHERHOOD TRIUMPH

WIN TEN-YEAR FIGHT FOR RECOGNITION—A. P. RANDOLPH RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters won this week a hard uphill fight for union recognition over its rival the Pullman Porters and Maids Protection Association, a company union, by a vote of 5,931 to 1,422. Officials and members of the local branch of the S. C. P. at headquarters, 431 Columbus avenue were jubilant when the news of victory was flashed here last Monday night immediately after the result was known.

The victory settles a contention as to which organization should represent the porters. The National Board of Labor Mediation arranged to hold elections in various cities to reach a decision. Voting began on May 27 and closed on June 27 last and was conducted under the supervision of the board, with the result in favor of the Brotherhood by a much larger majority than was expected by even its most optimistic members.

The Brotherhood thus now won the right and authority for collective bargaining with the Pullman Company after a struggle that started when the Brotherhood was organized in 1925. A. Philip Randolph, through the years, has been an untiring leader and repeatedly elected its president. The porters, now having representatives of their own choosing, will next present to the Pullman Company a schedule of hours, wages and working conditions which the company will dutifully consider in an effort to arrive at a friendly adjustment.

—G—

BROTHERHOOD ORGANIZER IN NEW ORLEANS

Vice-President of Sleeping Car Porters Holds Meetings

C. Lawrence Dellums, of Oakland, Cal., national vice-president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, will arrive in the city late Saturday evening for a stay of several days, according to an announcement of W. E. Campbell, local representative of the Brotherhood.

A mass meeting of all Pullman porters and interested citizens has been planned for Sunday evening at 7:30 at the Fourth St. Mark's Baptist Church, at which time Mr. Dellums will speak on the subject, "'The Negro Faces the Future". Other meetings will be held each evening from Monday through Thursday, according to Mr. Dellums' plans, for the purpose of acquainting the public with the work and aims of the Brotherhood whose organization was perfected several years ago in order to effect higher pay and shorter working hours for Pullman porters. The meetings will be held at the Pythian Temple.

As this is the first time in the history of the Brotherhood that a national officer of the organization has visited New Orleans, it is expected that his coming here will be of interest locally.

PULLMAN [illegible]ESTS PORTE[illegible]A

WASHINGTON, [illegible]—The Pullman Company took issue [illegible] the Interstate Commerce Commi[illegible] with the Brotherhood of Slee[illegible] Car Porters which recently prot[illegible] that Pullman porters faced the n[illegible]ity of receiving pay in part in "[illegible]" from the traveling public.

The porters' complaint to the commission declared that the uncertain returns from "tips" was a discrimination which the commission might remedy.

In the Pullman Company's answer, filed to-day, it was contended that the "real purpose of the petitioners was to secure an increase in wages and a change of working conditions." The Interstate Commerce Commission, it was added, has no jurisdiction over such matters because another arm of the Government has been expressly created by Congress to supervise railroad labor controversies.

BUFFALO STAR
May 24, 1935

PULLMAN PORTERS TO HOLD ELECTION

ATTENTION! PULLMAN PORTERS

Buffalo, N. Y., May 23, 1935.

Dear Brothers:

Beginning May 27th it will be your privilege to vote for your choice of a group or body to represent you in future negotiations with your employers, whereby you may secure wages commensurate with your type of work and better working conditions; two items which lead to the blessings of "Security on the job and security in old age."

After nine years of tireless efforts and the overcoming of almost unsurmountable obstacles the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, American Federation of Labor, under the leadership of A. Philip Randolph, was able to secure the passage of an amendment to Section 1 of The Railway Labor Act (as of June 21st, 1934). giving you certain rights and privileges; and now the Federal Mediation Board is ready to conduct the election commensurate with the Act.

The United States Government has completely abolished company unions and employee plans on Railways, and in addition guarantees to every Railway employee, including Pullman Porters, the absolute privilege of the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of his own choosing.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is an American Federation of Labor organization and can in no way be mistaken for a company union; while those who have been lured with honeyed words and tempting offers, (methods practiced upon our old mothers and fathers in the days of slavery) too claim that they are not of company unionism; but, as said the old patriarch Isaac, "The voice is the voice of Jacob, but the hands are the hands of Esau."

Brothers! the day that the overworked underpaid Porter, who now sleeps in an early grave, so often prayed for is here.

Our fathers; carried captive nearly three thousand miles from home to a land where for nearly 250 years they worked without a payday; lifting their voices as one from the cotton plantations of the Mississippi Valley, the can-brakes of the Louisiannas, the swamps of the Carolinas, the everglades of the Floridas, the tobacco fields of Maryland and the Virginias and the coral islands of the seas; to the God of freedom for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness for their children; yet unborn. We are those children. Our only heritage is "They taught us to work." What shall we do with our heritage?

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters has brought us thus far. Nine years of untiring efforts to better the conditions of his brethren has Phil Randolph and his co-workers spent and now The New Day is Here.

The mighty American Federation of Labor, of which the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is a part, is the bulwark of Labor on the American Continent. Space forbids the detailing of its years of activities in behalf of the working man of all races, colors and creeds.

Its mind is keen to labor interests, and everyone of its major and minor officials and negotiators are thoroughly trained and experts in their line.

Our fellow workers, with whom we come in daily contact are American Federation of Labor men. Engineers, firemen, train conductor, sleeping car conductors, brakemen and yard men; and even the man who taps the wheels are members of the American Federation of Labor. Are Their Working Conditions Better Than Yours? Ask them.

Why then should there be a special Association for Porters organized almost overnight and directed by ghost officials, whose only qualifications for labor leadership are that the Pullman Co. says they have been good porters?

Men and Brethren; would you place your grievance in the hands of men of limited experience? Would you trust the "Security of your family" which is dependent upon you, to a group of men who are susceptible to become rubber stamps?

The American Federation of Labor, the Workingman's union, regardless of Race, Color or Creed is the only way out.

Why Have a Jim Crow Union For Sleeping Car Porters?

In 1863-65 at Fort Pillow and Fort Wagner our fathers fought against Jim Crow and all his relatives. Only a short while ago the bones of our brethren lay bleaching in the sun on the battlefields of Europe, that we might have the right of self-determination not only for nations, but for us whom they left behind. Shall we fail to keep faith with them? Have they died in vain?

Shall we vote for "Isolation from our fellow Railroad workers' and erect a Jim Crow Union as a monument to them, and a heritage to our children?

Think, Then Vote, For the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters of the American Federation of Labor.

Stand Up and Be Counted.

Vote Thus

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters X

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, A. F. of L. Buffalo Division, O. H. Thomas, Pres., R. Woodard, Exec. Sec.-Treas.

Note—Copies of the Amendment to section 1 of the Railway Labor Act may be had at the Brotherhood Offices, 419 Jefferson Ave., also information on "How to Vote for Yourself." Phone WAshington 9639.

Welcome Kanju Kato

4/23/35

To the Editor of New[redacted]

Sir—If it [redacted] true, as per your editorial, that this Government has denied [redacted] Japanese labor leader, Mr. Kanju Kato, invited here by [redacted]rican Federation of Labor, then I should say this was a case [redacted] for the most vigorous action of which we are capable agai[redacted] State Department, in whose hands, through our consuls, lies [redacted] matter of issuing visas.

The wonder is that Mr. Kato would accept [redacted] invitation from the A. F. of L., which was responsible [redacted] our discreditable exclusion of the few Japanese who would be a[redacted]ted if the immigration law operated the same for Oriental people that it does for others.

It might well be that from such a visit which would be all to the credit of Mr. Kato, a new good will might spring up between Japanese labor and our own.

[redacted] the State Department [redacted]ustrate such an opportunity to cultivate mutual good will in [redacted] wise.

ROBERT J. CALDWELL.

INVESTIGATE A. F. OF L. PRACTICES

DEMAND FOR THIS WAS IN RESOLUTION BY A. PHILLIP RANDOLPH AT [illegible]TH AM. LABOR CONVENTION.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (CNA)—For the first time in its history, the National Executive Committee of the American Federation of Labor opened its doors to a hearing on discriminatory practices against colored workers in its unions. This hearing is the result of widespread movement for equality among rank and file members of locals throughout the entire country.

A resolution embodying this demand was introduced at the 54th annual convention of the A. F. of L. in San Francisco by Philip A. Randolph, National Presid[illegible] Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

INVESTIGATE A. F. OF L. PRACTICES

(Continu[illegible] from page 1)

Stark living proof of the vicious practices were brought before the subcommittee appointed by the A. F. of L. by Mr. Randolph, Reginald J. Joohnson of the National Urban League, and John P. P[illegible] secretary of the John[illegible] National Recovery [illegible]

Mr. P[illegible] different forms of [illegible] as follows: a) [illegible] on; b) indirect [illegible] sham, petty tec[illegible] ow locals.

[illegible] immed[illegible] on of all color barriers and [illegible]nalizing of all union locals [illegible] who continue jim-crow, were [illegible]ded at the hearing.

THE AFRO-AMERICAN
July 13, 1935

Trickery Used to Bar Workers from A. F. of L. Unions

Committee Is Told that Color Bar Will Cause Opposing [illegible]

WITNESSES [illegible] IMMEDIA[illegible]ON

Cite Examp[illegible] Employed [illegible]

(AFRO [illegible])

WASHINGTON—[illegible] of the exclusion of co[illegible]led workers by devious [illegible] from the various locals [illegible]erican Federation o[illegible] were made in hearings [illegible] Tuesday and [illegible] are a committee [illegible] charges of discrimination [illegible] organization.

A[illegible] the [illegible]ted at [illegible] the A. F. [illegible] William G[illegible] labor organi[illegible]ently selected [illegible] The resolution [illegible] by A. Philip [illegible] president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

Randolph in Charge

Mr. Randolph was [illegible] of the hearings here, [illegible] John P. Rooney, white, [illegible] ers' [illegible] man of the [illegible] committee.

Witnesses who testified were: John P. Davis, executive secretary of the Joint Committee on National Recovery; Robert C. Weaver, [illegible] economic adviser; Reginald [illegible] Johnson, National Urban League; How[illegible] Woodson, president of [illegible]ational Builders' Associati[illegible] Professor Ralph Bunche, of [illegible] University; Professor C[illegible] Johnson, of Fisk University, and James Patterson, local carpenter.

Warns of Opposition

Reginald Johnson told the committee that strong movements toward company unions and anti-A.F. of L. unions among workers might attain headway if federation unions barred colored. If the A.F. of L. is sincere in its oft-repeated resolutions and pronouncements that it opposes a color bar, he said, it must take immediate action.

Expulsion Demanded

Mr. Johnson insisted that unions which set up color bars should be expelled by the federation. He also suggested appointment of colored organizers by the federation and a campaign of education among the group for trade union aims.

He told of instances in which district officials refused to grant charters either to mixed locals or to separate locals. Mr. Johnson spoke of the brickmasons who had tried to re-affiliate with the Bricklayers' Union in Atlanta in 1932.

A. F. of L. Scored for Its Discriminatory Policy

Federation's Committee Told That Organization Has Winked at Discriminations; Intrenched Official Clique, Rather than Entire Union, Blamed; Empty Promises of Appointing Colored Organizers Cited; Workers Now Swinging Left, Says Dr. Charles H. Houston.

WASHINGTON—The A. F. of L. committee of five appointed to investigate discrimination within that body heard witnesses tell them at their first hearing Tuesday in the A. F. of L. Building Massachusetts Avenue and 9th Street that leadership of the federation has "winked at" and "washed its hands of" discriminatory practices within its internationals and nationals.

They were told by John P. Davis, executive secretary of the A. F. of L., and John L. Donovan, white, president of the NRA lodge here, of the threat of the American Federation of Government Employees to expel the latter lodge because it dared to support a resolution protesting discrimination at the last convention of the federation.

They were told that in spite of the segregation and discrimination and intimidation of colored labor by that body, this group did not scab on union labor, but supported it.

Have Not Scabbed

"Despite all of this treatment by white labor," Davis said, "colored men have not scabbed on white labor. Out of 46 victims of labor struggles up to the end of 1934, 10 of them were colored. Against great odds we have always had loyalty on the part of our workers.

"No honest colored leader will urge his people to scab in retaliation. I don't say this to please you. I want you to know that colored workers have no other interest except to work with organized labor."

Warning the federation that its laissez faire policy may lead to greater hardships within the ranks of labor generally, Mr. Davis continued:

May Be Forced to Act

"We may be forced to do another thing. We may be forced to join with those progressive forces to oust any labor leader or union official who persists in maintaining a policy of discrimination.

"A. F. of L. leaders have issued effective statements against Communism. The executive council should speak fearlessly against discrimination."

He suggested that A. Philip Randolph, who he claimed was better prepared in the labor organizing field than any other person not white, be made a member of the executive council.

"The problem seems to be not so much an actual statement in the constitution or ritual," Charles S. Johnson, professor of sociology of Fisk University, told the committee, "but of solidarity of labor on the one hand and the relative security of colored workers on the other."

Instances Cited

Specific instances of discrimination, requ[illegible]edly by the committ[illegible] given them by the va[illegible] witnesses.

"Color bars are being maintained by an intrenched official clique," Reginald Johnson, National Urban League representative, declared, "rather than by the union as a whole. There is a [illegible]ing attitude among the rank and file against this discrimina[illegible] as a division of labor. The [illegible]ity of resolution passing was shown in the fact that a resolution was passed calling for a colored organizer in Souther[illegible] states, if funds were sufficient. Funds were not sufficient."

Mr. Johnson stated further that the NAACP and the Urban League had asked the A. F. of L. to appoint colored organizers. The [illegible] offered to pay half of the [illegible] with one but up to [illegible] no steps have been taken by the federation along these lines.

Must Inflict Penalties

"Legislation must be enacted," he continued, "which would call for severe penalties against those unions which break the federation's law. The situation has been winked at for 50 years."

Dr. Robert C. Weaver, advisor of the economic status of the colored people to Secretary of the Interior Ickes, read summaries of government agents sent out to investigate problems of labor on government projects.

The summaries were from the confidential files of his department, and names of the persons involved had to be withheld.

It was the belief of one agent, he said, that discrimination against colored mechanics "has been emphasized by the unions in the attempt to obtain the available work for white members." There were very few mechanics employed on PWA projects because of this problem with the unions, he testified.

He read a statement from Samuel Taylor, administrator of public works, saying that discrimination seemed to be not only on the part of contractors but on the part of the unions. It is secured by coercion of the foremen on jobs by the unions, he said.

No Lip Service

"We are not impressed by the indulgence in lip service," Dr. Charles H. Houston, NAACP counsel, told the committee. "Colored people are swinging left because they get more brotherhood there than they get from the right-wing leaders."

[illegible] the colored group [illegible] is not the letter of [illegible] the administration of the [illegible] is also a matter of whether they will be starved out after they get into the unions."

Ultima[illegible] applicants were fin[illegible] on a pretext [illegible] for this illegal [illegible] a cha[illegible] brie[illegible]

Fa[illegible]

Pain[illegible] who [illegible] a local of the union in Atlanta, accordi[illegible] to Mr. Johnson, were told that their leader was a Communist. They withdrew the leader and then again applied. This time, he said, they were informed by the district council of the Painters Union that the hod-carriers were forming a union and that their members should apply to that organization.

When the applicants responded that they were skilled painters and not hod-carriers, the secretary of the International Painters' Brotherhood suggested that they send the usual $15 fee to accompany the request for a local union charter. They did, but the charter was refused, Mr. Johnson charged.

Offenders Named

John P. Davis charged the following unions with outright color bars: Sleeping Car Conductors, Railway Mail Association, Masters, Mates and Pilots' Association, Machinists, Boilermakers, Railway Clerks, and Telegraphers.

He condemned the practice of "corralling colored workers into jim-crow unions for the purpose of paying dues" but denying benefits to them. Mr. Davis advocated the ending for all time of color bars in union constitutions and the ending of the separate unions.

Get No Representation

Mr. Davis pointed out the case of a tobacco union local in Winston-Salem, in which "colored" and "white" contracts were made under the name of the white union. The colored were not represented but had to abide by the contracts.

The committee taking the testimony consisted of J. W. Gaffney, hod-carriers; Joseph Brophy, miners; T. Carroll, maintenance of way; J. L. Banks, barbers; and J. E. Rooney, plasterers. All are white.

Concerning—

NEW YORK CITIZENS COMMITTEE OF ONE HUNDRED

in behalf of

PULLMAN PORTERS and MAIDS

To establish their right of self-organization and the abolition of tipping as a reward for their labor

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is the first and only National Negro labor union in the United States

---

Issued by the Committee

HENRY T. HUNT, Chairman
100 East 42nd Street
New York City

1. The Citizens Committee of New York is composed of over 100 of the most outstanding men and women of the nation in various walks of life as a glance at the list of names of the Committee will disclose.

2. The Committee was organized January 18th, 1927 and held its first public meeting at the Community Church, 34th Street and Park Avenue, New York City.

3. PURPOSES OF THE COMMITTEE:

   (a) To assist the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in establishing the right of self-organization of the Pullman porters and maids as against the Company Union known as the Employee Representation Plan.

   (b) To give the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters counsel and support in public opinion and before the United States Boards of Mediation and Arbitration.

   (c) To stimulate public interest in favor of a living wage for the porters and maids and the abolition of tipping as a reward for labor.

   (d) To support fully the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters until the organization has secured the just demands it is striving for and finally takes its place in the ranks of the organized American labor movement.

   (e) The Committee is convinced that the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is a stable and progressive organization with responsible and capable leaders who recognize their duty not alone to the porters and maids but also to the Pullman Company and the travelling public.

   (f) The Committee is also convinced that the firm establishment of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters will stimulate Negro workers in other industries to organize; making thereby for the elimination of antagonism between workers of both races and for better race relations.

The Committee asks for the support of all fair minded citizens in behalf of these Negro workers whose organization's slogan is SERVICE NOT SERVITUDE.

HENRY T. HUNT, Chairman
Rev. WM. LLOYD IMES, Secretary
ARTHUR C. HOLDEN, Treasurer

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Wm. H. Baldwin
Abraham Beckerman
Thos. J. Curtis
Dr. Harry E. Fosdick
Arthur Garfield Hays
Morris Hillquit
Rev. John Haynes Holmes
James W. Johnson
Rev. Geo. F. Miller
John E. Nail
Mrs. Gordon Norrie
Amos R. E. Pinchot
Rev. F. Clayton Powell
Mrs. V. G. Simkhovitch
Arthur B. Spingarn
Dr. Norman Thomas
Frank P. Walsh

FINANCIAL COMMITTEE

Wm. H. Baldwin
Arthur C. Holden
Rev. Wm. Lloyd Imes
Mrs. Gordon Norrie
Dr. Norman Thomas

THE COMMITTEE

Dr. Robert W. Bagnall
Forrest Bailey
Abraham Beckerman
Dr. A. A. Berle
Alfred Bernheim
Alexander M. Bing
Julius Bledsoe
Bruce Bliven
Prof. Franz Boas
Leonard Bright
Dr. W. E. B. Du Bois
Katherine D. Blake
Harriot Stanton Blatch
S. John Block
Prof. LeRoy E. Bowman
Prof. Paul Brissenden
Heywood Broun
Edward P. Cassidy
Stuart Chase
Judge Thomas W. Churchill
Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin
McAlister Coleman
Herbert Croley
Anna N. Davis
Prof. John Dewey
Mary E. Dreier
Thomas B. Dyett
Mrs. Charles Noel Edge

THE COMMITTEE (Continued)

Dr. John L. Elliott
Morris L. Ernst
Rev. Edwin Fairley
John A. Fitch
William Floyd
Walter Frank
Lewis Gannett
Rev. A. C. Garner
Mrs. Clara A. Goldwater
Dr. Ernest Gruening
Prof. Robert Lee Hale
George E. Hall
H. Adolph Howell
Rev. Clarence V. Howell
Fannie Hurst
Eugene K. Jones
Nicholas Kelley
Wm. L. Kelley
Freda Kirchwey
Mrs. Charles E. Knoblauch
Dr. Harry W. Laidler
Rev. John Howland Lathrop
Mrs. Henry G. Leach
E. C. Lindenman
Dr. Henry R. Linville
Cedric Long
Gertrude E. McDougald
Wesley C. Mitchell
Prof. Wm. P. Montague
Fred. R. Moore
Miss Ruth Morgan
Dr. Henry Neuman
James Oneal
Eugene O'Neill
Prof. W. F. Ogburn
Prof. Harry A. Overstreet
Kirby Page
William L. Patterson
Mrs. Alice K. Pollitzer
Rev. A. Clayton Powell
Prof. John H. Randall, Jr.
Paul Robeson
Rev. John W. Robinson
Miss Ernestine Rose
Joseph Schlossberg
Prof. E. R. A. Seligman
Rev. Guy Emery Shipler
Mrs. Albert De Silver
Helen Phelps Stokes
Benj. Stolberg
Ordway Tead
Philip Umstadter
Samuel Untermyer
Oswald Garrison Villard
Dr. U. Conrad Vincent
B. Charney Vladeck
Miss Lillian Wald
Lester A. Walton
Prof. Harry F. Ward
Mrs. Jean Mackenzie Walser
Dr. J. P. Warbasse
Miss Truda T. Weil
Miss Bertha Poole Weyl
Walter White
Leo Wolman
Dr. Louis T. Wright

Any further particulars, telephone Edgecombe 2323-2324

CITIZENS !! WORKERS !!

REGISTER NOW

– for the –

Big Negro Economic Parade
MASS MEETING and Victory Celebration

TUESDAY, AUG. 20th, 1935

– of the –

Pullman Porters & Maids

under the distinguished cooperation of

Hon. FIORELLO H. La GUARDIA

Mayor of New York City

All Tradesmen and Women, Fraternal, Religious, Civic and Benevolent Organizations are urged to participate. Parade starts 5 p. m. precisely and will terminate at Salem M. E. Church, 129th Street and Seventh Avenue, where the Mayor will speak. Only organizations and persons registered will be allowed to participate.

For further information inquire at the

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

105 WEST 136th STREET Phone EDgecombe 4-1535

COURIER EXPRESS
JULY 10, 1935

DANGER SEEN IN PLACING LABOR BAN ON NEGROES

Discrimination held likely to divert 1,500,000 men to red unions

Special to Courier-Express

Washington, D. C., July 10—A warning that 1,500,000 Negro workers might move in the direction of left and radical unions, organized mainly by Communists and others seeking to rival the American Federation of Labor, if federation unions continue to discriminate against Negroes, was conveyed in testimony presented before a special committee at federation headquarters.

The committee was appointed as a result of the demand made at the last American Federation of Labor convention by A. Phillip Randolph of the Brotherhood of Pullman Porters. He proposed that unions barring Negroes be disciplined and that the federation send Negro organizers to form unions among Negro workers.

Warns of Union Setback

Reginald J. Johnson of the National Urban League told the committee that strong movements toward "dual" unions, company unions and anti-A. F. of L. unions among Negro workers might attain headway if federation unions barred Negroes and if so that the movement for trade union work among the Negro race would be set back a decade.

If the A. F. of L. was sincere in its oft-repeated resolutions and pronouncements that it opposed a color bar, he said, it must take immediate action.

After speaking of "the futility of resolution passing" and rehearing the resolutions favoring Negro organizations adopted by the federation since 1917, the witness insisted that unions that kept out Negroes should be expelled by the federation. He also suggested appointment of Negro organizers by the federation and a campaign of education among Negroes for trade union aims.

It was the unwillingness of local and international unions to accept Negroes rather than the refusal of Negroes to join unions that was responsible for the small number of colored workers in the unions, according to Mr. Johnson. He told of the difficulties met with by Negro brickmasons who had tried to re-affiliate with the Bricklayers Union in Atlanta in 1932.

Ultimately these applicants were fined $1,000 each on a pretext and it took a year for this illegal action to be rescinded and a charter granted to the Negro bricklayers, he charged.

Charter Denied to Painters

Negroes who tried to enter a local of the painters' union in Atlanta, according to Mr. Johnson, were told that their leader was a Communist. They withdrew the leader and then again applied. This time, he said, they were informed by the District Council of the Painters' Unions that the hod-carriers were forming a union and that their members should apply to that organization.

The applicants responded that they were skilled painters and not hod-carriers. Then the secretary of the International Painters Brotherhood suggested that they send the usual $15 fee to accompany the request for a local union charter. This they did and the charter was refused, the witness explained.

John B. Davis, executive secretary of the joint committee on national recovery, divided the A. F. of L. unions into several groups as far as the color bar was concerned. He said that unions that had an outright bar against Negroes were the Sleeping Car Conductors, the Railway Mail Association, Masters, Mates and Pilots Association, the Machinists, Boilermakers, Railway Clerks and Telegraphers.

Excluded by Indirect Means

Exclusion of Negroes by indirect means was carried on, he said, by the blacksmiths, the railway car men, the seamen and rural letter carriers. The unions that organized separate local unions for Negroes were the bookbinders, elevator conductors, hotel and restaurant workers, oil workers, painters, American Federation of Teachers, United Textile Workers and Tobacco Workers.

Mr. Davis suggested that the following program be adopted:

End for all time color bars in union constitutions.

End creation of separate locals for Negroes.

Place A. Philip Randolph as the Negro representative on the Federation's executive council.

Name a Negro organizer for Negro workers.

Begin an educational campaign among black and white workers to the end that both be convinced there could be no strong trade union movement until both races were organized for joint action.

The committee taking the testimony consisted of J. W. Garvey, hod carriers; John Brophy, miners; T. C. Carroll, maintenance of way; J. L. Hanks, barbers, and J. E. Rooney, plasterers.

The committee will report to the federation's executive council.

193

A. Philip Randolph

EDITOR OF THE "MESSENGER"

GENERAL ORGANIZER

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

PHONE
BRADHURST 0454

2311 SEVENTH AVENUE
NEW YORK CITY

WHY PULLMAN PORTERS WILL VOTE FOR

FIORELLO LAGUARDIA

1. BECAUSE LAGUARDIA championed the CAUSE of the PORTERS for more WAGES and SHORTER HOURS, in a series of articles in the DAILY MIRROR, at the beginning of the PORTERS' UNION, while many other prominent leaders in public life, chose to remain silent.

2. BECAUSE LAGUARDIA gave of his TIME and PROFESSIONAL ABILITY, paid his RAILROAD fare to UTICA and his hotel expenses while there, and DEFENDED and LIBERATED James E. Smith, a PULLMAN PORTER, who DARED to FIGHT BACK when attacked by EIGHT (8) WHITE MEN, on his car. LAGUARDIA did all THIS without receiving ONE RED CENT in return. He BARED and EXPOSED the Notorious PLOT of the PULLMAN COMPANY to FRAME UP PULLMAN PORTER SMITH and railroad him to JAIL merely because he was an ACTIVE member of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. This fight for SMITH was waged by MAJOR LAGUARDIA in 1930.

3. BECAUSE LAGUARDIA brought SMITH back home a FREE MAN although THIRTEEN (13) WHITE MEN testified against him, ACCUSING him of FORCING his attentions upon a WHITE WOMAN, in the PULLMAN CAR.

4. BECAUSE LAGUARDIA'S FIGHT for SMITH served notice upon the PULLMAN COMPANY that when a PORTER is unjustly TREATED, ACCUSED and VICTIMIZED, the PORTER has a CHAMPION who will go to the BAT for him. And what a CHAMPION is this man MAJOR LAGUARDIA ! ! !

5. BECAUSE LAGUARDIA advised with the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in the FAMOUS INJUNCTION CASE for the PURPOSE of abolishing the HATED and HATEFUL COMPANY UNION known as the Employee Representation Plan. And he gave his valuable advice, worth thousands of dollars, WITHOUT a NICKLE in COST to the UNION.

6. BECAUSE LAGUARDIA paid his own FARE in an AIR-PLANE to Chicago, his hotel expenses while there, to address the EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, the 25th of August, 1933. This Anniversary marked a milestone in the historic struggles of Black Workers for Industrial Justice.

7. BECAUSE LAGUARDIA began working and fighting for economic rights for the PULLMAN PORTERS and MAIDS long before he was ever thought of in connection with becoming the MAYOR of New York City, which proves his broad and unselfish spirit and devotion to the CAUSE of the PORTERS and MAIDS in particular and the Negro race, in general.

VOTE FOR LAGUARDIA the downtrodden PULLMAN PORTERS' FRIEND and the FRIEND of ALL HUMANITY, regardless of race, color, creed or nationality ! ! !

(This circular was paid for by PULLMAN PORTERS and MAIDS)

NEW YORK CITY

Geo. B. Morris · PRINTING · 270 W. 136th St., N. Y.

BROTHERHOOD CONVENTION OPENS MONDAY

Pullman Porters Will Hold Public Mass Meeting Sunday

The third national convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters will open here Monday, Jan. 28, at Street's hotel. Delegates from all sections are expected to attend, according to Spencer Watson, local organizer who is in charge of the local committee on arrangements.

The fight for full recognition of the Pullman porters and maids will be emphasized at the convention here and plans will be laid for further attack on the effort made not to recognize the brotherhood and to deny it the right to bargain collectively.

Members of the organization will come from Denver, New York, St. Paul, Oakland, Omaha, Atlanta, St. Louis and Detroit.

Randolph To Speak

Prior to the convention will be a public mass meeting Sunday at Allen Chapel A. M. E. church, Tenth and Charlotte streets, at 2 p. m. A. Philip Randolph, national president and M. P. Webster, national vice president, will appear in the program. The convention will end Tuesday, Jan. 31.

Program for the Sunday afternoon meeting:

Negro National Anthem
Invocation...Rev. C. A. Williams, pastor Allen Chapel A. M. E. church
Chorus..."How Firm a Foundation"
Official welcome of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, Rev. D. A. Holmes, pastor Paseo Baptist church.
Chorus....."All Hail Emanuel"
Address.....M. P. Webster, first vice president and chairman executive board, Chicago.
Silver offering
Vocal solo.....Mrs. Viola Nickens
Address.....A. Philip Randolph, President Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, New York City.
Chorus....."He Brought Joy To My Soul" . . Herbert
Benediction.....Rev. S. C. Doyle, pastor Friendship Baptist church
C. H. Calloway, master of ceremonies.

Meetings Open to Public

Cornelius Daniels, musical director; Eric Franker, organist; Mrs. Viola Nickens, chorus leader; Mrs. Snovia Elliott, pianist. S. Watson, president local No. 18077.

Tuesday night, aJn. 29, and Wednesday, Jan. 30, the brotherhood will hold open meetings to the public at the hotel.

The following persons are on various committees: Mrs. Ella Roberson, Mrs. Ruth Langley, Mrs. Mattie Williams, Mrs. Caddie Lawson, Mrs. Gwendolyn Jackson, Mrs. Lucile Dulin, Mrs. Naomi Robinson, Mrs. Lou B. McDonald, Mrs. Francis Tillman, Mrs. Ethel Williams, Mrs. Lola Tivis, Mrs. C. B. Kimble, Mrs. Clara Fulcher, Mrs. Viola Nickens, Mrs. Francis Tillman, Mrs. Madeline Madison, Mrs. Lillie Hadley, Mrs. Addie Elliot, Mrs. Eulalia Golden, Mrs. W. H. Franklin, Mrs. Eddie Rhodes, Mrs. Bertha Rector and Mrs. W. P. Mims.

Letters From Readers

[EDITOR'S NOTE—To insure publication in The Journal-Post Letters must be clearly and concisely written, free from offensive personalities and be accompanied with the true name and address of the writer, whatever the chosen pseudonym. Since no anonymous letters will be examined, communications should be addressed to Letters Editor, The Journal-Post, Kansas City, Mo.]

JANE HATCHET QUERYS.

To the Editor of The Journal-Post:

Ask any man of standing in the community the general question, how he classes a person who pays another to commit crime in order to secure for himself some gratification or advantage, and he will tell you that he considers a person who thus encourages and supports crime a criminal. He will probably add that he considers such procurement, not merely to be condemned, but to be stamped as contemptible in comparison with the conduct of the person who actually commits the legally prohibited act, assuming in so doing, all the risk. If such an answer would meet general approval, how about those who purchase alcoholic liquors, sold for beverage purposes?

JANE HATCHET,
Kansas City, Mo.

ALL JOINTS WARNED.

To the Editor of The Journal-Post.

I noticed in a recent issue of The Journal-Post that booze was found in only six of fifty places searched locally.

It is strange that even six places could be caught with the goods after the police had pledged themselves in the newspapers to clean up the joints.

It would seem that an intelligent force would have gone about the raiding of several places simultaneously, without broadcasting their intentions to the world at large.

E. BRYAN,
628 LEXINGTON, Independence, Mo.

SAVE YOSEMITE TREES.

To the Editor of The Journal-Post.

I have made a personal investigation of the situation in Yosemite park, and there must be immediate demand by the people for action, for lumbermen are ready to move in and begin cutting trees.

"It may now be stated that $1,000,000 has been made available from private sources to match a government appropriation of equal amount for the elimination of private lands in the Yosemite National park." Louis C. Crampton, representative from Michigan, chairman of the interior department appropriations subcommittee, called attention to this in his testimony. If there is no appropriation it is clear that the chances of settling the private lands question, which seemed so favorable, will be gone, and that this $1,000,000 of patriotically offered private money will go begging. And it is also clear that the last opportunity to preserve Yosemite will have passed.

The lumber companies have gone past the planning stage. The Sugar Pine Lumber company of Fresno, Cal., has bought out the White and Friant company, it is reported, also the Yosemite Lumber company and the Steinmets holdings in this region. The purchasing concern is now moving its lumbering engines into these timberlands, and will be cutting timber inside the park by April, unless something happens, and will fell the finest section of sugar pine remaining on the continent.

ARTHUR NEWTON PACK,
President of American Nature Association.

PULLMAN WAGES LOW.

To the Editor of The Journal-Post:

According to a report issued by the western railways committee on public relations, day coach passenger train service on western railroads is being rendered at a heavy loss despite the revenue now derived by them from the Pullman surcharge.

C. D. Morris of Chicago, representing the committee, states that the railroads sustain a loss in the present year of 49 per cent, while receipts from Pullman car travel had increased 20 per cent. The bulk of the loss was occasioned by a decrease in the number of day coach passengers, which he said was unquestionably due to the large increase in private automobiles now in use, and to the increasing travel in buses.

If, in its own defense [illegible] Pullman surcharge, the committee hopes to win sympathy from the traveling public who are [illegible] a comparison of the wages paid railroad workers and Pullman porters should also be made public to justify its claim.

Quite recently the western railroads granted its employes, (conductors, trainmen and train porters) a 6¼ per cent increase with eight months' back pay, based on the 240-hour work month. This is in addition to what is considered a living wage, and the report of the committee shows a loss of $11,000,000 to the railroads for the present year, despite the revenue collected on Pullman surcharge. On the other hand the Pullman company reports no decrease in the number of passengers riding on its cars. Its last fiscal report shows a net profit of $16,000,000 and it only pays its porters at the rate of $72.50 for 400 hours' work a month.

Now, if it is necessary that the traveling public must pay a 50 per cent surcharge tax to the railroads for the privilege of riding on a Pullman car, why should they be expected to pay a part of the wages of the Pullman porter by reason of a custom built up and established by the company? The traveling public ought not to be made to suffer the embarrassment of doling out its nickels and dimes to professional mendicants on Pullman cars and it is inconceivable that anyone should expect tipping porters to be a lucrative business if the surcharge tax is not lifted.

The committee should first recommend that the Pullman company pay its porters and maids wages sufficient for them to support their families without having to depend on tips. When this is done, the public will be more in a receptive mood to consider arguments in favor of the surcharge.

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN,
Western Regional Director Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

BUT HISTORY IS BUNK.

To the Editor of The Journal-Post.

While Henry Ford believes that history is bunk, he is not averse to prehistoric lore. In fact, he apparently has devoted some time to the subject himself, for in an interview with Ralph Waldo Trine he announces that airplanes, automobiles and other scientific devices existed in civilizations so remote that historians have no record of them. This will be news to many anthropologists. It just goes to show that the author of Ecclesiastes was right. Possibly Mr. Ford's prehistoric men worked out many of the problems with which we are now faced. If so, we hope Mr. Ford will consult his records and tell us how they found parking space in their shopping districts.

B. B.

CALLS GREEKS MOST HOSPITABLE PEOPLE

Hospitality, that much praised possession of many people on the globe, can be found in greatest abundance among the mountain people of the world, and it exists to a greater extent among the mountaineers of Greece and the Balkans, in the opinion of one roamer over the face of the earth.

Interviewed by the American magazine, Dr. Michail Dorizas, explorer, athlete and college professor—he is on the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania—describes the peoples of the earth and concludes that "the latch-string of the mountaineer is always out, in any part of the world." Dr. Dorizas has traveled over the earth since his boyhood, his only baggage being that which he has carried on his back. He has been to every populated part of the world except Australia, New Zealand, Central and South Africa and parts of interior Asia.

While classifying the mountaineers of Greece and the Balkans as the most hospitable people he classes the French as the most polite.

"But they don't always mean it," he continued. "The French are also the most contented, which is why they don't leave home. And they are the best cooks, which is why they are so contented.

Uruguay he picks as the home of the most beautiful women and he says that the Japanese are one of the cleanest people.

MAKES ITS ALL WOOLED.

"Almost every kind of warm-blooded animal is represented by some kind of hair," says a nature note. [illegible]

PULLMAN PORTERS ASK RECOGNITION

Union Urges Mediation Board to Accept It for Collective Bargaining

By EDWARD LEVINSON

The union of Pullman car porters today asked the National Mediation Board, created under the railway labor act, to recognize its claim to represent the porters of the nation in collective bargaining.

The request was forwarded to Washington by A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, and M. P. Webster, its first vice-president. The two declared the Brotherhood was ready to face a show of strength with the company union in force on the Pullman system.

Efforts of the porters to organize have been made for nine years and are said to have taken a great spurt in recent months. The movement has been aided by the American Federation of Labor as an effort to raise the standards of Negro labor.

Wide Sympathy

The porters have attracted wide sympathy for their demands because of their unusually long hours of work and the meagerness of their earnings. The company has maintained that deficiencies in wages are made up by tips.

When the emergency railway transportation act was passed last year, the Brotherhood immediately sought an answer to its claims for representation. Joseph P. Eastman, Federal Co-ordinator of Railroads, ruled, however, that neither the porters nor the Pullman company came under the act.

"It was contended that we did not come under the railroad act because the Pullman cars were not 'carriers by railroad,' nor under the national recovery act because it was a carrier," Randolph said today. "Furthermore, the NRA said it was concerned only with interstate commerce."

Congress Acts

The last Congress, however, ended the strange situation by placing the Pullman Company within the scope of the railroad act.

"We immediately took advantage of the amended law," Randolph said, "and launched a nation-wide organization campaign on which to base our claims to represent the majority of the porters. The drive has resulted in a large majority of porters and maids indorsing the brotherhood as their organization."

New York Post
January 15, 1935

Labor Pays Taxes, Too

Labor pays taxes, as well as capital, and has just as much right to the protection of the police.

Unfortunately, some police officials consider themselves the hired hands of big property, rather than of the public.

William A. Galvin, president of the Inside Bakery Workers Federal Labor Union No. 19585, after his pickets had been repeatedly attacked outside the National Biscuit Company, asks the Mayor to instruct the police to "maintain an impartial attitude in this and all strike conditions, and that they should protect peaceful pickets as well as other persons and property in the City of New York."

Mr. Galvin denies that picketing by his union has anything to do with the injunction issued in the case, and declares that "we condemn violence and disorder, whether they be on the part of the strikers, strike-breakers or police."

Unfortunately there has been entirely too much violence on the part of the police.

Labor has a right to insist that the Mayor protect the picket line as well as property.

SUNDAY MIRROR
April 14, 1935

Harlem Pleas For Help Hit Aid to Aliens

A charge that more aliens have jobs in New York City than have Negroes caused a demonstration yesterday at a continued hearing under the Mayor's commission inquiring into conditions in Harlem.

A sub-committee on racial discrimination took testimony at yesterday's session in Washington Heights Courthouse, 447 E. 157th St.

Spectators broke into violent applause when the Rev. William Lloyd Imes, colored pastor of St. James Presbyterian Church, solemnly warned, in response to a question by A. Philip Randolph, the chairman, that "injunctions or no injunctions, the time may come when mass picketing may have to be employed to solve the problem of racial discrimination."

CRITICIZES LEGISLATURE.

Commissioner of Accounts Paul Blanshard and Norman Thomas, who ran for President on the Socialist ticket, were other witnesses at the hearing.

Blanshard assured the sub-committee and the spectators, a great majority of whom were Negroes, that New York City had already incorporated clauses in contracts with companies doing business with the city fixing penalties for practicing racial discrimination, or refusing to agree to collective bargaining with their workers.

Norman Thomas charged that the large milk companies, the Metropolitan Insurance Co. and large utilities doing business in Harlem practice racial discrimination by refusing to employ Negroes. Thomas also criticized adversely the State Legislature for adjourning at this time, when much needed legislation to solve conditions is needed.

The Rev. Mr. Imes denounced as an insult the maintaining of police on every corner in Harlem following the riot. He said neither Commissioner of Police Valentine nor the District Attorney had [illegible]

DAILY NEWS
April 14, 1935

Racial Favor Charged at Riot Inquiry

Racial discrimination in Harlem shops, on the police force—and among the school teachers, it was hinted—were charged yesterday at a turbulent hearing of the Mayor's Committee to investigate the Harlem riot.

Amid applause from a mixed audience, the Rev. William Lloyd Imes, colored pastor of St. James Presbyterian Church, declared: "It is an undue humiliation to have an unnecessary number of policemen of another race patroling our corners as if we were a group of criminals."

After he had finished, A. Philip Randolph, vice Chairman of the Subcommittee on Education, announced that a 3:30 P. M. Tuesday there would be a closed meeting for teachers, at which Louis Marshall, member of the Board of Education.

From Henry L. White, a leader in a colored a..liate of the American Federation of Labor, the Committee learned of difficulties encountered in placing colored workmen on City or State jobs.

In the case of the Brentwood, Suffolk, State Hospital, he said, colored bricklayers were stalled off until the State Department of Labor intervened. Then fifteen or twenty were hired, and shortly fired.

Mrs. Cecelia C. Saunders, a Y. W. C. A. official, said that Harlem stores would not employ colored girls unless they were "very fair-complexioned."

palmer
410 St Nicholas
Apt 10

Gala
Bus Ride
Frolic and Picnic
under the auspices
Brotherhood
of
Sleeping Car Porters
LADIES AUXILIARY
At Fuhrer's Park and Casino
First Ave. and First Street (Next to the Ferry)
College Point, L. I.
Thursday, July 22, 1926
12 noon to 1 a. m.
Buses leave Headquarters
2311 Seventh Ave.
at 11 a.m. sharp
and 3 p.m. sharp
TICKET
$2.00

LAFAYETTE THEATRE
2225 Seventh Avenue

MAY 21 | Sunday Midnight

X

Est. Price .68
Tax Pd. .07 Total .75

Brotherhood of Pullman Car Porters

X MIDNIGHT MAY 21
ELLIOTT TICKET CO., N.Y.C.

Good Only
Lafayette Theatre

Orches. 75c

1933

CENTR L 19

The Negro Is a Worker

By A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

WHEN ONE raises the question of a program for the Negro, it is thought of in connection with the solution of a problem, known sometimes as the "Negro problem" and the "Negroes' problem." The former suggests the consideration of the main facts surrounding the status of the Negro in America from a purely objective and scientific point of view, the latter from an inner or subjective angle.

The data that constitute the Negro problem, and are available for study, analysis and evaluation, are discrimination against Negroes with respect to their access to schools, theatres, Pullman cars and general railroad transportation, public utilities, the purchasing and the occupying of homes, employment on certain jobs; disfranchisement of Negroes in the South; segregation in housing, color bar in the constitution of certain trade unions; discrimination by government agencies, municipal, state and federal, both as relates to appointments and the election of Negroes to various offices.

In addition to these raw phenomena that indicate the existence of a race problem, there are the materials that students may study and examine such as theories and propaganda about and on the so-called Negro inferiority question and the general status of the Negro among ethnic groups. Thomas Dickson, Lathrop Stoddard, Madison Grant and Herr Hitler are some of the propagandists who continue to pour out a flood of superficial and vicious literature, mis-named anthropology on race and the Negro. Negro scholars, too, attempt to study these data of race maladjustments as objectively as their being part of the problem will permit.

But the Negroes' problem, which connotes an attempt at subjective and inner analysis and evaluation of the capacity and struggles of the Negro, has only recently begun to meet with a welcome among Negroes themselves. The sociology of this is that Negroes of scholarship and leadership have invariably stressed and emphasized the disabilities, handicaps, set-backs, defeats and lack of progress in certain fields on the part of the Negro as arising chiefly from external forces, namely, the limitations set upon the Negro by the white world.

For scores of years Negroes won great reknown and the reputation for high militancy whenever they assailed white people. Suspicion and distrust always arose around any Negro who suggested that the chief enemy of the Negro might be the Negro himself, and that his weakness and lack of progress in the field of education, political and economic action, might be essentially internal. It seldom occured to Negro leaders that the attitude of white enemies of the Negro could be changed by aggressive and courageous action on the part of Negroes themselves. Of course, this state of mind is not peculiar to the Negro. It may be found among all peoples. No individual or group wants to be told that probably he is largely responsible for his own plight.

* * *

FROM THE point of view of sound strategy, it was and is necessary for the Negro to fight both the external enemies, such as white Negrophobists who are nurtured and succored in the lap of modern capitalism and world imperialism, and his own internal impotency expressed in the lack of effective organization, the will to fight and struggle, the development of a sense of initiative, the pioneer spirit and self-reliance. These two forms of strategy may be styled as negative and positive. They are doubtless developed in logical sequence.

It was natural that the white man, who stood athwart the path of the Negro and cried "No further beyond," would be pictured as Public Enemy No. 1. Besides the attack upon this enemy had the necessary dramatic setting and emotional appeal. Only upon reflection and searching introspection do people discover that perhaps they are underlings, not alone because of their stars, but also because of themselves. Albeit, the fight of the Negro must both be destructive and constructive.

Social and natural history shows that destruction is quite generally the advance guard of construction. Kingdoms and empires were overthrown before republics and democracies could be established. You must excavate, remove the debris, if you would erect a building; disease germs must be destroyed if sound health is to follow. Free men could not exist until slavery passed.

Hence the whole sinister socio-economic political mechanism of the great illusioned. From the status of slaves, black men and women were transformed, not into free workers, but into a semi-caste position. They were neither slave nor freemen. The Civil War, which was a sort of bourgeois revolution in the South, did not run its complete course.

A. Philip Randolph.

The masters of the old slave regime were restored to power. The vote was denied the Negro. He received no land, though promised a mule and forty acres. The education granted him was a makeshift. As a consequence, Negroes were virtually re-enslaved through subtle political, economic and social devices such as the grandfather clause lily-white primaries, vagrancy laws, sharecropper and tenant farming, lynching and mob rule, segregation, discrimination and jim-crowism.

Northern industrial and financial capitalists, who welcomed and promoted the Civil War, were only concerned about sweeping away the remnants and vestiges of the agrarian slave economy that hindered the progressive development of a machine economy. When this was accomplished, they turned their attention to the exploitation of the west, and frowned with a tribal fury upon the clamor for complete freedom for the slaves by the old abolitionists and radicals, such as Stevens, Wade and Sumner.

* * *

DURING THE post-Civil War era, the industrialization of the South became the issue of the hour. Railroads must be built. Turpentine must be dipped, lumber mills run, cotton must be picked, factories and mines must be operated, Labor, skilled and unskilled, must be worked and worked cheaply. Thus attention was turned to the freedmen, a promising supply of labor for the building of the New South. To the end of preparing the ex-slaves for industrial wage-slaves, industrial schools of the south were established.

The leadership of the Negro since then has been largely shaped in correspondence and accordance with this big socio-economic change in the South, where some nine-tenths of the race then lived. While here and there, a Dr. DuBois and a Monroe Trotter cried out for civil and political rights and the higher learning, the dominant voice in the affairs of the race was of the school of Dr. Booker T. Washington. This was so because the regnant industrial and financial interests in the land made it so. The leadership was cautious, hesitant, timid, conservative, but strong.

Naturally, the education of the Negro, too, would be definitely influenced by this new condition: a sort of strange marriage between the southern whites, who each succeeded to supremacy and control of the state and Northern finance and industrial capital which came to invade the South.

We Need Philosophy of Working Class, This Leader Holds

many dimes to make less than one in all. If the Negro is essentially a worker, which has to do with money and it is the chief interests of the worker is to secure more wages with which he buys food, clothing and shelter, the matter of hours, shorter hours and better conditions of work, security on the job, in short, industrial and political democracy, then the Negro logically and inevitably becomes a working-class philosophy.

I am not here concerned about the many and varied schools of workers' philosophy such as Communists, Syndicalists, Socialists, Trotskyites, Adamsites, A. F. of L. Trade Unionists, Industrial Unionists, John Dewey-ites, Farmer-Labor Party-ites. Capitalists, too, have various schools of thought, although they are one in opposition to the organization of the workers. Suffice it to say, that the recognition by the Negro that his lot must be cast with the workers of these United States of America, white, foreign, Protestant, Catholic, Jew, Gentile and what not, will provide the intellectual, moral and spiritual condition for a sound settlement of questions of schools of workers' thinking, tactics, strategy and methodology.

Now the first and most important part of any program of action is the organization of Negro workers into trades and industrial unions. They should join hands with white workers in the existing unions. Where unions have a color bar against Negroes, Negroes should organize independent labor organizations to fight to enter the regular unions and also to increase their power to bargain collectively with their employers. To further this program, an organization such as a united Negro trades as proposed by Frank R. Crosswaith, general organizer of the International Ladies' Garment Workers of America, would be effective.

* * *

IN ADDITION to the need and value of labor organization to protect the interests of the workers at the point of production, consumer's co-operatives may and should be developed to protect the interests of the Negro when he goes into the market to buy back the goods he has helped to create with his labor power.

Products that may be handled by co-operatives rather easily are milk and eggs, non-branded goods. Harry Edwards is already proceeding with the co-operative sale of milk. There are several successfully operated co-operative apartments in Harlem. The Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Co-operative Apartments on the Concourse, however, may well serve as a model of emulation.

Laundry, too, is an enterprise which might well be conducted co-operatively. Of course, grocery stores and meat markets may be so conducted. A five and ten cent store and a department store of general merchandising should become within the co-operative managerial ability of an average Negro community. Practically any commodity or service may be supplied the public through the consumer's co-operatives.

Private capitalistic enterprise is about bankrupt, even the whites, with their access to large capital and an high order of entrepreneural ability. The small business enterprise conducted for profit, only where the commodity or service is unique, can have any hope of a small and limited success.

A Negro community which is impoverished at best, should not be exploited for the benefit of individual Negroes, even when this exploitation may be successful, as shown by big business enterprises. The masses of the community, aside from receiving the goods they purchase with wages, should also share in the profits of the business made possible by their purchasing power.

* * *

BUT ALL problems must be approached in terms of strategy with a view of facilitating and accelerating their solution. Thus, the strategy of the united front seems to offer a sound basis of power with which to beat down the barriers against black Americans. The united front involves the joining of various organizations upon a common issue, such as lynching, job discriminations, etc. An organization need not abandon its general program or accept the general program of any one of the organizations in the united front framework in order to function effectively in a united front plan.

Of course, no effective united front strategy can be executed between organizations whose programs and interests are poles apart, such as the Civil Liberties Union with the American Liberty League, or the Ku Klux Klan with a Jewish organization or Knights of Columbus. A sound united front can only be built upon consistency and organizations whose interests are within of the same general forces.

Negro movements, therefore, could not well develop

NEW YORK POST
APRIL 13, 1935

COLOR LINE BAR TO JOB, HARLEM INQUIRY HEARS

Negro Girl 'Y' Worker Finds Pay Is Graded to Shade of Skin

DOCTORS AND NURSES FEEL EXCLUSION MOST

A Negro girl's chances of employment in New York depedn entirely upon the shade of her coloring, Miss Cecilia Saunders, executive secretary of the 137th Street branch of the Y. W. C. A., testified today before the unemployment subcommittee of the Mayor'sCommittee on Conditions in Harlem.

A light skin enables a girl to get a job, though at less pay than a white girl would receive for a corresponding position, said Miss Saunders.

She has been a Y. W. C. A. worker for fourteen years, she said. She tok a Federal civil service examination for a job for which she considered herself well fitted, but the questions about education were so worded as to establish her race and she did not get the job, she said.

'Peonage' Charged

In her Y. M. C. A. work, she testified, she has found in depression days that many employers of domestics feel that girls should work for their board and lodging alone. This, she said, is virtually a form of peonage.

Robert Minor, author and left wing political leader, brought out by questioning her that the sharp color line which she said existed in all forms of business caused a lowering of the standard of living in Harlem and brought about high infant mortality rates and a high tuberculosis record.

She complained especially of discrimination against Negro doctors and nurses, which she said resulted in making it difficult for Negroes to get adequate attention in hospitals.

Only by a vigorous fight against the Jim Crow system, she said, could the committee accomplish any improvement in conditions.

George Philip Gantt of 2305 Seventh Avenue, another witness, said that his face had prevented him from getting a Federal civil service position as a dental technician.

Norman Thomas was among the spectators, but took no part in the questioning of witnesses.

Commissioner of Taxes Delaney presided. Countee Cullen, the Negro poet; A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters; Dr. John C. Grimley, commander of the 369th Regiment, a Negro National Guard unit, and Dr. Charles Roberts sat with him.

Riots among Harlem's Negroes are to be expected if living conditions in the district are considered, in the opinion of a New York County Lawyers' Association committee.

"The recent riots have surprised no one who has been in touch with the condition under which we have permitted our Negro fellow citizens to live," the report says.

The committee, called the Subcommittee on Young Negroes in the Children's Court of the Association's Committee on the Domestic Relations Court, was named last June.

It consists of Miss Dorothy Straus, chairman; Louis C. Haggerty and Edward R. Rayher.

A report by Judge Edward E. Boyle, then presiding justice of the Domestic Relations Court to the then Mayor O'Brien, prompted formation of the committee.

"As Judge Boyle pointed out," said the committee report, "there was no place to send young Negro boys below the age of twelve who did not come or should not be placed technically in the category of neglected children, but who required some form of custodial care."

The report pointed out that the Children's Village at Dobbs Ferry is closed to Negroes and that the Training School for Girls at Hudson and the Training School for Boys at Warwick cannot, under the law, take children under twelve.

State Held Neglectful

"It is obvious from the foregoing that the State and city have not fulfilled their duty toward one of the most unfortunate groups in our community," the report said.

"If we cannot remove maladjusted youngsters from the unsuitable environment where they develop into anti-social little beings and transplant them into healthier, more fruitful soil, we shall find springing up around them where we left them a rank and unexpected growth of destructive weed."

PORTERS' UNION HELD NEARING RECOGNITION

A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, appeared Tuesday before the National Mediation Board in Washington for a conference on aspects of the union's efforts to win recognition.

Ashley L. Totten, secretary-treasurer of the brotherhood, said yesterday that the union is nearing recognition by the Pullman Company. At present, he said, Pullman porters' cases are being handled by the organization at meetings with the company's superintendents.

May 4, 1935

K. C. Call
Mar. 1, 1935

BROTHERHOOD COMES TO AID OF W. SNELL

Pullman Porter Fails to Do Conductor's Work; Gets 15 Days

Because he failed to take up a passenger's ticket on a Pullman car in St. Louis enroute to Kansas City, W. Snell, 2426 Harrison street, Pullman porter, lost 15 days work on his run on the Wabash line.

Mr. Snell who has worked for the Pullman company for 25 years is at a loss to understand why he was "put on the ground" for half a month since he does not run in charge.

It happened this way, according to Mr. Snell and S. Watson, local organizer of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters who has taken charge of the case.

Snell's car, Trilium, left St. Luois for Kansas City Jan. 7, at 11:45 p. m. A few minutes before hand the train pulled out a man got on, and told the porter to make down lower one as soon as possible.

Placed on 'No Work' List

"I did as he ordered me," Mr. Snell said, "and a short while afterwards the conductor named Shaggs came to me and wanted to know who was in lower 1. I told him a passenger had asked me to make it down. Shaggs, using very abusive language, told me if I wanted to stay on that line I would have to look out for the transportation. I presumed that meant I would have to take up the tickets as well as keep the car in condition. I do not run in charge.

"A few days later I received word from my district office that I would be placed on the 'extra board' (no work list) for 15 days."

Several days later Mr. Snell wrote a letter to J. P. Leach, district superintendent, in Kansas City, asking for a hearing. One was granted. Snell was accompanied by an attorney, and S. Watson also a stenographer.

"When we arrived in the office," Mr. Snell said, "we were refused a hearing. Mr. Leach said he was not ready to discuss the matter, saying 'I don't care to turn my office into a court.'"

Mr. Watson will take the case to the regional labor board to recover Mr. Snell's lost time. Snell has been running on the Wabash between here and St. Louis for about a year. He is a member of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters that is carrying his fight to the regional board.

Celebreties At Polo Grounds Game Sunday

MANY PROMINENT in various walks of life were among those seen at the Polo Grounds last Sunday afternoon when the New York Police Department baseball nine met "Cyclone Joe" Williams and his Black Giants in a double header. Shown in the picture are Assemblyman Stevens, Asa Randolph of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, Judge Toney and Alderman John William Smith.

D. H. Dobbins Returns From Labor Convention

D. H. Dobbins 1608 East Twenty-fourth street terrace was the only Negro from Kansas City who attended the twetny-first triennial convention of the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers held at the Hotel Morrison in Chicago July 13, 14, 15 and 16.

There were 21 Negro delegates among the 300 deelgates. Four Negro delegates made addresses from the platform.

Dobbins has been employed for the last seven years in the freight car repair department of the Missouri Pacific railroad company.

He is recording secretary of local No. 642, Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers affiliated with the A. F. of L. and is secretary-treasurer of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters' local No. 18077.

At the Chicago convention, he was appointed to membership on the committee on appeals and grievances.

Dobbins is a member of the Paseo Baptist church.

Negroes are welcome to membership in the Firemen and Oilers' labor organization, according to Alexander Geisick, [illegible] Kas. general [illegible] souri [illegible]

SEEKS TO GUARD NEGRO PORTERS' JOBS ON TRAINS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—(AP)—The Negro Pullman porter was presented to the senate today by Senator Dill [Dem., Wash.] as beset by foreign competition and greatly in need of federal assistance.

To provide it Dill introduced a bill to require that all employes of Pullman, club, and observation cars on all railroads engaged in interstate commerce be Americans.

The competition, he said, is coming by the Negroes "being supplanted by Japanese and Filipinos, particularly here in the east."

"For long years," Dill continued, "Negroes have been most satisfactory porters. This is work they can properly do and to which they look. We should, by law, protect them."

Filipinos and Japanese, he said, "will work for such low prices that it is impossible for the Negro to live on such a wage."

"I am told," he concluded, "that the railroads have attempted to use two Filipinos or Japanese on Pullmans to do the work of one porter and get them for less than the porter is paid. It [illegible] because they are not physically strong."

Porters To Have Barbecue For Thanksgiving Day

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters will begin a ten-days celebration on Thanksgiving Day with a barbecue at their national headquarters, 105 West 136th street. The barbecue is being given in conjunction with the Edward Waters College Club of New York.

On Sunday, December 2, A. Philip Randolph, national president, will return to New York after a nationwide trip in the interest of his organization. He wil be welcomed with a public mass meeting at the Metropolitan Baptist Church, at 3.30 p. m.

There will be membership meetings December 3, 4 and 5 and the week's celebration wil reach its climax on December 6, when the ninth annual ball will be presented at Rockland Palace.

u May Never Know It

Many Affairs Honor A. Philip Randolph, Noted Labor Leader

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. White entertained Mr. A. Philip Randolph and Mr. M. P. Webster at dinner last Wednesday evening at their residence, 1567 West 35th street, just prior to going to the dance. The table was beautifully decorated and champagne of ancient vintage was served as a beverage. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Upton, Mr. and Mrs. F. White, Mr. W. B. Holland and Mother White. Mr. White was personal escort to Mr. Randolph during his entire stay here.

Mr. and Mrs. James Goodwin of 1378 Newton street, entertained Mr. A. Philip Randolph and several guests at a delightful breakfast Saturday morning. The guests included were Clarence R. Johnson, W. B. Holland, James White and Chas. L. Upton. The day was completed at the Oregon-USC football game.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Murray entertained Mr. A. Philip Randolph last Sunday for breakfast at their residence, 4715 Compton avenue. The table was delightfully decorated.

Mr. A. Philip Randolph, national president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, was one of the honored guest speakers at the Los Angeles Fellowship League last Sunday. He was accompanied by Mr. James White.

On Monday evening, October 22, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Richardson entertained Mr. A. Philip Randolph, Chas. L. Upton, James White, Wm. Glenn and W. B. Holland at their beautiful home, 9410 Baird avenue, for dinner. After dinner at the Richardson home, Mr. Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. James White and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Upton attended the play, "Stevedore" at the MusArt theatre.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Upton entertained Mr. A. Philip Randolph and guests for dinner at their residence, 2190 West 30th street, Tuesday evening. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. James White, Miss Faye Jackson, Miss Anita Grant and Mr. and Mrs. W. V. McCall. A delightful time was had by all. The dinner was a climx to a trip to Elsinore.

Mr. A. Philip Randolph, noted labor leader and national president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, was the honored guest at a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Starks, 1629 East 114th street, Wednesday evening, just prior to his departure for Denver, Colorado. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Rowan, Mr. and Mrs. James White, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Upton and Mr. W. B. Holland. The table was beautifully decorated and the dinner served in courses. The guests were reluctant to leave and had to drive at breakneck speed to make the train.

NEW YORK POST
APRIL 13, 1935

NEW YORK, SATURDAY, MARCH [illegible]

HARLEM'S PROBLEM IS NEW YORK'S PROBLEM

Ten days have passed since the Harlem disorders. The Negro point of view as to the causes has been graphically presented by the Rev. A. Clayton Powell Jr. in a series of three articles in the Post.

Comment in the press and special articles in the weeklies of opinion, by Mr. Hamilton Basso in The New Republic, by Mr. Claude McKay in The Nation and by Miss Louise Thompson in The New Masses, provide added perspective.

One consistent thread runs through all these presentations, from the ultra-conservative Sun to the near-Red New Masses: behind the trouble in Harlem lies not artificial agitation but genuine and long-suffered grievances.

Elimination of these grievances is necessary, not merely to prevent a recurrence of the disorder, but to protect all New York against the potential health menace represented by the ill-fed unfortunates in the dank cellars and often windowless tenements of Harlem.

The Harlem problem is a racial problem only to the extent that racial factors have intensified depression evils. The disorders there cannot properly be termed race riots. They were rather a miniature uprising by the most depressed section of New York's unemployed.

Fortunately the problems facing Harlem are not insoluble. New York is not the deep South and there are intelligence and good will aplenty here to meet them. If a willingness to hear the other man's point of view and political courage are added, New York has nothing to fear.

The Governor, the Mayor, the District Attorney of Manhattan and our leading business men each had a job to do. And the welfare of all New York, not merely of Harlem, can be advanced by their efforts.

It seems to us the Governor's job is to see that Harlem is treated fairly in reapportionment. A self-contained community of 300,000, it resents continued gerrymandering. Harlem wants a Negro Congressman, and has a right to one on the basis of population. Chicago has one.

The Mayor's task, it seems to us, is to clean up conditions in the Harlem Hospital, to end discrimination on relief, and to order investigation of reports that prisoners were brutally treated in the Harlem station houses the night of the disorders.

In particular the Mayor should throw some light on the Negro who was badly beaten by the police in the breadline at the 369th Regiment Armory on March 13. Is it true that he is in danger of permanently losing his sight? Why has no action been taken against the policemen who beat him? Why is he being held in a prison ward? What is the extent of his injuries? No one can find out at Bellevue.

Thorough airing of this case is especially called for because it spoils the good record made by the police on the streets during the rioting and because it is causing ill-feeling in Harlem.

What can the District Attorney do? The District Attorney can, if he has the courage, make himself a great reputation by cleaning up the politically protected rackets that thrive in Harlem and help to impoverish its people.

Clean up of Harlem rackets would benefit the whole city because the revenues of these rackets go to support powerful political forces that are rapidly coming to dominate the city.

As for the business men, we should like to see some of New York's more intelligent business leaders sit down with Harlem Negro leaders for a few hours of quiet discussion.

We should like to see them work out a plan to enlarge Negro opportunities in the Harlem area, and to present city authorities with plans for slum elimination and building improvement in Harlem.

The Mayor's committee on Harlem can, if it chooses, act as a spur on Governor, Mayor, District Attorney and business leaders.

Not to do so is to leave the roots of Harlem's troubles untouched. Not to do so is to encourage the continuance of similar conditions in other parts of the city. Not to do so is to run the risk of another outbreak.

Above all, inhumanity to Harlem is a menace to every family in New York. A great city cannot permit a minority to live under conditions that would really make them the prey of any epidemic, and others with them.

Surely there are good will and brains and courage enough in the [illegible] city for this job.

NEW YORK POST
JANUARY 15, 1935

PULLMAN PORTERS ASK RECOGNITION

Union Urges Mediation Board to Accept It for Collective Bargaining

By EDWARD LEVINSON

The union of Pullman car porters today asked the National Mediation Board, created under the railway labor act, to recognize its claim to represent the porters of the nation in collective bargaining.

The request was forwarded to Washington by A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, and M. P. Webster, its first vice-president. The two declared the Brotherhood was ready to face a show of strength with the company union in force on the Pullman system.

Efforts of the porters to organize have been made for nine years and are said to have taken a great spurt in recent months. The movement has been aided by the American Federation of Labor as an effort to raise the standards of Negro labor.

Wide Sympathy

The porters have attracted wide sympathy for their demands because of their unusually long hours of work and the meagerness of their earnings. The company has maintained that deficiencies in wages are made up by tips.

When the emergency railway transportation act was passed last year, the Brotherhood immediately sought an answer to its claims for representation. Joseph P. Eastman, Federal Co-ordinator of Railroads, ruled, however, that neither the porters nor the Pullman company came under the act.

"It was contended that we did not come under the railroad act because the Pullman cars were not 'carriers by railroad,' nor under the national recovery act because it was a carrier," Randolph said today. "Furthermore, the NRA said it was concerned only with interstate commerce."

Congress Acts

The last Congress, however, ended the strange situation by placing the Pullman Company within the scope of the railroad act.

"We immediately took advantage of the amended law," Randolph said, "and launched a nation-wide organization campaign on which to base our claims to represent the majority of the porters. The drive has resulted in a large majority of porters and maids indorsing the brotherhood as their organization."

Calling a Halt!

Editor of The New York Age:

Why need the porter let Mr. Randolph go on and usurp the power belonging to the porter only? Mr. Randolph, nor his group, represents the Pullman porter as an organization. If I am [illegible], I should like the following [illegible] answered:

Who [illegible] the present officers of the B. of S. P. C. P.?

At what meeting of porters were the present policies adopted, and where?

What porters or porter represents my district, and who elected the same?

And if Mr. Randolph represents a majority of porters, is it not legal that the minority have a say before final action is taken?

I deny that any of the above questions can be answered truthfully in the affirmative and because of that fact I deny Mr. Randolph or any one else the right to represent me before anybody and how the Mediation Board or the Pullman Co. can recognize Mr. Randolph as to authority for Pullman porters' representation is more than I can understand. What right has Mr. Randolph to demand from the Pullman Co. for the porters that which he refuses to grant them?

If Mr. Randolph wants to be fair, let him accept a challenge hereby submitted to meet me before any group of porters, and accept their vote after hearing us both, and, lest I be misunderstood, I am speaking for the porter and not for the company (nor Mr. Randolph).

If Mr. Randolph wants to lead the porter let him apply to the porter for election. If [illegible] alright; otherwise let the porter [illegible] his own problem.

DOCTOR D. WATSON
(A Porter)

Boston, Mass.

(Reprinted from The New York Age, Feb. 11, '28)

THE HOUSE COMMITEE

—OF—

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

invites you to play

BRIDGE or WHIST

Saturday, July 20 Nine-thirty P. M.

239 West 136th Street

Prizes Refreshments Dancing

Subscription : 25 Cents

Funds to be used exclusively to pay Mortgage on Brotherhood's Home

F. H. LA GUARDIA, M.C.

New York

The Ladies' Auxilliary

of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

cordially invite you and your friends to attend

A Hallowe'en Party

at 105 West 136th Street, New York City

on Thursday Eve. October 31st, 1935

Music — Dancing — Refreshments

ADMISSION . . . . 25c cents

PULLMAN PORTERS AND MAIDS

HEAR

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN

National Secretary-Treasurer Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

Read and explain the TWELVE PAGE sweeping decision of

FEDERAL JUDGE GEORGE E. Q. JOHNSON

upholding the rights of Porters and Maids to self-organization, free from Influence, Interference or Coercion by the Pullman Company and their rights to choose leaders Free from the dictates of their Management

at Brotherhood Headquarters, 239 West 136th Street

Friday and Saturday Nights Nov. 25 & 26. Monday 28, Tues. 29 Wed 30, and Thursday until midnight Dec. 1, at 8:30 p. m. Please be on time

New members and non members given until midnight Dec. 1st to join or re-instate under Dispensation Rate $3.50. Porters & Maids are urged to bring in all old time books at once. Do not send it, bring it yourself. It is imperative that you do so. Office open daily from 12 M.

BY ORDER OF

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, President M. P. WEBSTER, 1st Vice Pres., & Chairman Gen. Ex. Board

O. W. BYNUM, N Y. Field Organizer

Note: All members of the Ladies Auxiliary, the Live Wire Club, the Wives and other Women Relatives and Friends of the Brotherhood are invited to attend Meetings.

Pullman Filipino Scare Shattered

PUBLIC OPINION RISES IN FAVOR OF NEGRO PULLMAM PORTERS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8th The Negro Pullman Porter was presented to the Senate today by Senator Dill (Democrat, Wash.) as beset by foreign competition and greatly in need of Federal assistance. Introducing the bill which will require all Pullman Porters to be Americans, Senator Dill said, "for long years Negroes have been most satisfactory porters." This work they can properly do. We should by law protect them. I am told that the railroads are using two Filipinoes or Japanese on Pullmans to do the work of one porter. It takes two because they are not physically strong.

Make your sacrifice today to the fund for the court case which has been definitely set for Monday, March 13. You promised last pay day. Do as this pay day. Also buy two tickets 55c each for the Annual Ball at Lido Ball Room, 160 W. 146th St., Thursday Night, March 2nd.

Boxes Seating Ten Persons $3.00 Loges Seating Ten Persons $2.00 Special Meetings at Brotherhood Home, 239 W. 136th St., Wednesday 15th and Thursday 16th at 8 p. m.

A. Philip Randolph, Pres. Ashley L. Totten, Sec'ty.-Treas.

I'M TELLING YOU CONFIDENTIALLY!

By F. H. LA GUARDIA

(AMERICA'S MOST LIBERAL CONGRESSMAN)

THE PULLMAN PORTERS

The Pullman porters throughout the country constitute an army of some twelve thousand men. They are as fine and as efficient a group of men as can be found in the country. Energetic, courteous, patient and honest. Strange as it may seem, while traveling facilities in this country have improved and we have perhaps better railway accommodations than any other country in the world, the working conditions of these porters have not advanced and they are working under conditions that might have been considered favorable thirty years ago.

Every effort of these men to organize, the same as every other group of workers and in keeping with the custom of this age for workingmen to organize themselves for their own benefit and protection, has met with vicious and drastic opposition on the part of the Pullman company. The same old obstacle resorted to by many employers who are not willing to be fair with their employees has been re- [illegible] that is the so-called [illegible] company or- [illegible]

partial investigation was made by the department of research of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, and in presenting the facts it stated that "one of the principal demands of the union is for a wage which will permit the abolition of the tipping system. The existence of this system, it claims, has time and again hindered the porters from obtaining improved working conditions." The same report would indicate that on long runs, such as from New York to Key West, which takes four days and four nights, the Pullman porter is allowed six hours for sleep out of ninety-six, whereas the Pullman conductor, who is organized and has a powerful and well-officered organization of his own, is allowed two full nights and ten hours. That is the difference between a real organization of workers and a "com- [illegible] You should take

The Colored Women's Economic Council of Los Angeles presents the Music Lover's Club, Thursday evening, Oct. 12th, 8:00 P. M. at Independent Church of Christ, 18th and Paloma. [illegible] The Workers of this club are [illegible] L. C. Tharpe, M. V. Tompkins, [illegible] McSwain, Lillian Moore, [illegible] Scott and S. B. Rolls. They are products of Los Angeles and should be encouraged in their field of work. They have worked hard and long to prepare for this occasion and will bring to us a high class program. Their first number, "The Prayer of Emancipation," dramatized, is worth the admission [illegible] This number is by N. Clark [illegible] composer.

PULLMAN PORTERS & MAIDS!

The Spirit of 1925 is Here Again.

Realizing that the only hope rests with the Brotherhood, Porters and Maids are showing renewed interest and are flocking back to the union as Federal Coordinator prepares to make his report to Congress.

VITAL AND IMPORTANT NEWS AWAIT YOU

AT THE

SPECIAL MEETINGS: Wednesday, Jan. 31 FEB 4

Thursday, Feb. 15 and Friday, February 16, 2 p. m. & 8 p. m.

207 WEST 140TH STREET, NEW YORK

☞ POSITIVELY NO INFORMATION WILL BE GIVEN TO THOSE WHO DO NOT ATTEND THESE MEETINGS. Strictly Confidential.

O. W. BYNUM & B. F. McLAURIN
Field Organizers

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, National President
ASHLEY L. TOTTEN, National Sec - Treas
Phone AU dubon 3 - 3857

Don't Forget the Chicken-[redacted] Dinner Saturday, February 14

COMPLETE DINNER · 35c

anything or anybody very far.

The particular example to which our friend refers is, of course, rather provoking. Especially when it is observed by the unselfish worker. It is equally disconcerting when it is noted in those who reverse their attitude and opinion toward a subject in which they had shown conspicuous interest.

On the other hand, there is nothing immoral or wrong in a man changing his mind about a thing. But he shouldn't discourage those who do believe in it, nor should he do this merely because his opinions are not followed or his leadership rejected.

We do not think, however, that our P. T. friend shouldn't take the matter so seriously. If there is virtue in his objectives, whatever they concern, it will show itself eventually.

several weeks confinement at the Medical Center with an affected foot.

Penn Terminal Notes

J. T. Reid is still on the sick list having been confined to his home in Jamaica since January 28 with the flu. He expects to be out some time this week ,at least that's what the doctor's report says. We are hoping it's true as our old friend had a very close call.

Did you know that worry kills more people than cancer? In all the history of the world, no poem was ever written, no child was ever educated, no tragedy was ever averted by worry. Then why should be worry about bad politics and bad economic conditions. You have repeatedly been warned against outside attack. Have you thought about the testimony submitted to the house committee whereby the administration proposes to pay workers on government construction projects an average of $50 a month, and even with this hunger still stalks the land and millions seek work in vain.

Well, our old friend, S. E. King has moved again. Did you say where? Well, this time he has moved to 24 St. Nihcolas place. It seems to us as time goes on that he will continue to move. We know that every human being without suffers from a sense of inferoirity, but just why our friend suffers this constant moving program is a little more than we can understand. Unless it is because of Billy.

DETROIT INDEPENDENT

Detroit Independent - 1935

Pullman Conference At Chicago Grants Union Porters 4c Increase

By Bennie Smith
Company Union Pullman Porters Unable to see the woods for the trees were granted a 4c, per day increase in company union conference at Chicago May 16th, 1934. Effective July 1st, 1934.

According to Bennie Smith, 2nd vice president of the National Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, that despite the battle being waged in the Federal Courts and before the Legislative Committees at Washington, D. C. for the abolishment of company unions and the policy of the present administration for the spread of employment and increased purchasing power through the shorter work week and increased wage, there yet remains a few misguided chain loving Pullman Porter petitioning for a continuity of present conditions of no pay for P. M. time with 80 per cent of a Pullman Porters duty performed on P. M. time, this only proves the helplessness of a so called porter representative in a company controlled union: The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters composed of the union men in the service affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, realize more each day that a bona fide labor organization is the only solution for a workers problem and feel that they, starting as a bud of an acorn will at last become a forest of mighty oaks or a spark will consume the Pullman rubbish of 13 years, some times called the Employee Plan of Representation or Company Union.

Pullman Company Psalm

And now the twenty third psalm as rendered unto the Pullman Company and their company union: The Plan is my Shepard: I shall do nothing but want, it maketh me to lie hungry in damp unpleasant porters quarters. It leadeth me forth to beg on the cars and look for tips that are not. It restoreth my doubt in the blessings of a possible wage conference. It leadeth me past the Brotherhood and near the office of the Pullman Superintendent to vote. That I may know and keep the faith in the employe plan of representation. Yea, though I tighten my belt in search of a dead head car and stumble blindly in the valley of starvation, I do feel the hand of evil, for thou art the plan and the system is Pullmanism. Thy stool pigeons, Porter Instructors and welfare workers, they appal me with their vain words, Thou preparest a place for me in the porters quarters, and on the extra list in the presence of mine enemies, Thou anoint my poverty with the bunk oil of a molding half loaf is better than no loaf at all, and the cup of my hopelessness runneth over. Yea, surely will low wages, long hours, inhuman treatment, hunger, bewilderment and disgust follow me all the days of Pullman Planism or Company Union: and I will dwell in a poor place and depend on the uncertainties of tips throughout the reign of Pullman's Planism or Company Union.

KANSAS CITY CALL
JANUARY 25,1935

BROTHERHOOD CONVENTION OPENS MONDAY

Pullman Porters Will Hold Public Mass Meeting Sunday

The third national convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters will open here Monday, Jan. 28, at Street's hotel. Delegates from all sections are expected to attend, according to Spencer Watson, local organizer who is in charge of the local committee on arrangements.

The fight for full recognition of the Pullman porters and maids will be emphasized at the convention here and plans will be laid for further attack on the effort made not to recognize the brotherhood and to deny it the right to bargain collectively.

Members of the organization will come from Denver, New York, St. Paul, Oakland, Omaha, Atlanta, St. Louis and Detroit.

Randolph To Speak

Prior to the convention will be a public mass meeting Sunday at Allen Chapel A. M. E. church, Tenth and Charlotte streets, at 2 p. m. A. Philip Randolph, national president and M. P. Webster, national vice president, will appear on the program. The convention will end Tuesday, Jan. 31.

Program for the Sunday afternoon meeting:

Negro National Anthem
Invocation....Rev. C. A. Williams, pastor Allen Chapel A. M. E. church
Chorus..."How Firm a Foundation"
Official welcome of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, Rev. D. A. Holmes, pastor Paseo Baptist church.
Chorus....."All Hail Emanuel"
Address.....M. P. Webster, first vice president and chairman executive board, Chicago.
Silver offering
Vocal solo.....Mrs. Viola Nickens
Address.....A. Philip Randolph, President Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, New York City.
Chorus....."He Brought Joy To My Soul" . . Herbert
Benediction.....Rev. S. C. Doyle, pastor Friendship Baptist church
C. H. Calloway, master of ceremonies.

Meetings Open to Public

Cornelius Daniels, musical director; Eric Franker, organist; Mrs. Viola Nickens, chorus leader; Mrs. Snovia Elliott, pianist. S. Watson, president local No. 18077.

Tuesday night, Jn. 29, and Wednesday, Jan. 30, the brotherhood will hold open meetings to the public at the hotel.

The following persons are on various committees: Mrs. Ella Roberson, Mrs. Ruth Langley, Mrs. Mattie Williams, Mrs. Caddie Lawson, Mrs. Gwendolyn Jackson, Mrs. Lucile Dulin, Mrs. Naomi Robinson, Mrs. Lou B. McDonald, Mrs. Francis Tillman, Mrs. Ethel Williams, Mrs. Lola Tivis, Mrs. C. B. Kimble, Mrs. Clara Fulcher, Mrs. Viola Nickens, Mrs. Francis Tillman, Mrs. Madeline Madison, Mrs. Lillie Hadley, Mrs. Addie Elliot, Mrs. Eulalia Golden, Mrs. W. H. Franklin, Mrs. Eddie Rhodes, Mrs. Bertha Rector and Mrs. W. P. Mims.

DO NOT SIGN

The Pullman Porter who is Unconcerned, Indifferent, Unwilling to make a Sacrifice, Unappreciative, finds all kinds of [illegible] in reality he is scared of his own Shadow should not [illegible] to Lay Off a trip a month so that he might make one. The Pullman [illegible] who leave the Base right or wrong, works long hours, in [illegible] who are furloughed. If you are one of those who tear down what others are trying to build for You, your Children and your Race, you should not expect favors. Have you contributed anything for the Final Court Trial which comes up in January? Have You attended any of these meetings at 239 West 136th Street held every night at 8:00 p. m. Have you heard the reading of the Federal Court Order? Still drained in the fingers on one's hand, you support every scheme and Plan to hurt yourself. Now you cry Hard Times. What else do You Deserve?

Ashley L. Total
National Secretary-Treasurer

O. W. Bynum
Field Organizer

J. Edward Smith
Field Organizer

Once more we Warn You come to these meetings.
BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

NEW YORK AGE

Things Seen, Heard and Done

- Among Pullman Employees -

By JAMES H. HOGANS

Mr. Reid Complains

Our Penn. Terminal contemporary, Mr. J. T. Reid, has registered a complaint, which is as old as the hills but is somewhat novel for him, in his notes of last week. It concerns one of those common traits of the human family, which is nothing more or less than that quality we call inconsistency. Mr. Reid, however, who usually assumes a tolerant attitude toward such failings, is moved to comment on it.

To the Penn. Terminal correspondent, it seems "funny" that inconsistency should be so prevalent with some people, although he doesn't use these exact words in his comment. The phraseology is ours, but the meaning is his. At any rate, Mr. Reid has become peeved about some defection by a member or some members of the porters group to something with which he or they had always been conspicuolusly identified . In this connection, he says:

"It seems to me where there is a group of men pulling together for the same cause that they would at least try to cooperate and if you are misunderstood, go to work and make yourself understood. There is one thing you should bear in mind, you can never make yourself understood by trying to destroy something that you once held out to your fellowman."

Now, we do not know the "something" to which our contemporary refers, since he doesn't name it However, we assume he was referring to either the Pullman Porters Benefit Association, in which he is a conspicuous worker, or the Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association, of which he is local chairman.

Seemingly, someone in one of these activities has assumed a reverse attitude toward it by calling it a failure. That attiude, thinks Mr. Reid, is the result of an egotistical complex rather than a sincere conversion, for on this he says:

"It seems funny that in all walks of life we find some people, who if not permitted to run things as they see them, they will soon tell you that it is a failure because you haven't used the right methods in doing this and that."

Of course, you will, Brother Reid. It has been that way since Eve handed Adam that apple, and it will ever be so. As long and as often as men are permitted the right to express their personal opinions about a subject, just so long and often will that attitude be prevalent.

But because that is true it doesn't mean that opinions are to be taken as criterions, nor are they to be taken too seriously. And while there are times and occasions when these may be of inestimable benefit, alone they never ed in the agreement.

John R. Carmody, representative of the railroad labor meditation board, with several assistants visited B. of S. P. C. quarters, this city, and began examination last Friday of the books of the organization in reference to the claim that it represents 51 per cent of the members of the porters group.

The visit of the representative was extended to Monday, at which time he was in conference with local officials of the organization, headed by Ashley L. Totten, who had returned from the annual convention of the brotherhood at Kansas City.

Mr. Totten, who arrived in the city on Sunday, reported that he had received an enthusiastic reception from the members of the Kansas City Lodge on his arrival there Sunday before last. Although his train didn't reach Kansas City until early in the morning, a large delegation, composed of members, their wives sweethearts and other sympathizers, met him at the station and made his trip one of considerable pleasure as well as business.

Although Pullman local representatives have heretofore refused to deal with local representatives of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in the matter of cases involving adjusments of grievances and complaints, it is learned that several instances of such cases will be taken up this week between representatives of the organization and officials of the Penn. Terminal District which denotes a reversal of their former attiude in the matter.

The latest report from the pension board is that pensionable members of the railroad and Pullman groups will be allowed to continue in active service until further notice. This decision, which appears to be due to the final disposition of the railroad pension bill, which is now before the United States Supreme Court, affects a number of porters in both the Penn. Terminal and New York Districts.

Winter service meetings of porters of the New York District will be held at Mott Haven Yards on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week.

Joseph Robinson, a retired New York District porter, has reutrned to his home in the Bronx after

THE NEW YORK AGE

Things Seen, Heard And Done —

Among Pullman Employees

By JAMES H. HOGANS

Railroads To Get Breathing Spell

Railroads To Get Breathing Spell

According to latest reports from Washington, the railroads, like other large industries, are to be less hampered in the future by governmental influence. In other words, the railroads are to be given a breathing spell in the operation of their business. That should be encouraging as well as refreshing news to those whose interests are bound up in the industry. For there is no industry, unless perhaps it is the farming or mining industry, in which the experienced and practical operator has had less to say and do in recent years with solving its problems than this one.

In fact, the situation of the railroads in this respect has antedated the others many years. And while it is a question as to whether this influence is wholly responsible for the position in which the industry now finds itself, it is obvious to practical students that government regulation and restriction have been heavy contributing factors.

Still, the most rabid opponent of such regulation will have to concede that the railroads themselves have been decidedly responsible, in the first place, for the postion or regulator that the government has taken in their affairs. That much cannot be gainsaid. But, on the other hand, this interference has been carried to an unhealthy excess.

It has been carried to such an extent that not only has the effect been detrimental economically but it has been detrimental to the morale of railroad management. When a business is so restricted by regulation that even the most minute details of operation cannot be changed without the raising of a legal issue or the sanction of an outside body, that business is too greatly handicapped for its own good. Yet, this practically has been the situation with the railroad for sometime.

Of course, sympathizers of the railroads and their management are very much in the minority, even among their employees. The latter, along with the majority, not merely are critical of their omissions, but of what they opine is their selfishness. For one clear-cut example, they point to the fight which is being waged against the railroad retirement act.

This act, the carriers declare will place a financial burden upon them which cannot be carried. Assuming that this contention is not without certain merit, how does the contention become compatible with the fact that one of the roads which are fighting this bill gives one of its retired presidents a pension of $60,000 per year? The little fellows who only ask for $600 or so a year will never be able to see the point.

But leaving that side of the problem off, less governmental regulation of the railroads is not only desirable but it is needed.

Penn Terminal Notes

By J. T. REID

Decoration Day has come and gone leaving behind only memories of the past. However we are always glad to be numbered among those who have been spared by Dvine Providence to celebrate this day. When we stop to think of the many who were denied of the privilege of partaking in these annual ceremonies, we have to admit that we have been blessed. While some of us were not able to be home to share with our families and friends the celebration of that patriotic occasion, yet we should thank God that we are living.

The Penn Terminal Local of the Pullman Porters and Maids' Protective Association held a special meeting last Thursday evening at 151 West 131st street, New York City, for the purpose of nommating a delegate for the next convention of the porters and maids which will be held in Chicago the second Tuesday in August.

The meeting was called to order by J. T. Reid, chairman, at 8.30 p. m. Prayer was offered by Bro. J. S. Eaton and remarks were made by C. R. Rodgers, one of the field organizers in the south, who spoke on the success of the organization in the south. Mr. Rodgers said that he was much pleased with the interest that the porters were taking in the new membership drive and said that he felt that every permanent member of the staff should be actively interested both in advancing knowledge and in teaching the precepts of the organization.

Chariman Reid responded to Mr. Rodgers by saying that he concurred with his remarks and at the same time he would like to further state that the future of the organization depended on not only findng men of the type Mr. Rodgers suggested but the active support of the members. Mr. Reid said: "No carefully laid plans for rebuilding our future can succeed if the men of exceptional ability are lacking. No method of education will be successful if great teachers, great personalities are lacking to inspire and lead as well as to instruct. Those who are finally selected for the permanent posts must be worthy of the responsibilites thus placed on them. If we choose the wrong man, we automatically debar someone else who might have used the position to better advantage."

My Pledge

TO THE

It has carried me through these years of "Company Union" Tyranny

It shall carry me the rest of the way, So Help Me God.

Because I am thoroughly convinced that the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters has won for me and my race absolute freedom from "Company Union" slavery, recognition by the Pullman Company, and a greater measure of security on the job, and because I am confident that only through the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters I will receive better wages and working conditions, I DO SOLEMNLY PLEDGE to pay (if even at a sacrifice) in addition to my month's DUES, my VICTORY assessment and DONATION totaling $7.00, in instalments as indicated below, so that the expenses incident to the National Mediation Board will be met.

1935-36 Pay Day first of	$1.00	$2.00	$3.00	$4.00	$5.00	$6.00	$7.00	Date When Paid	1935-36 Pay Day 15th of	$1.00	$2.00	$3.00	$4.00	$5.00	$6.00	$7.00	Date When Paid
December	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐		December	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
January	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐		January	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
February	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐		February	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐
March	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐		March	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐	☐

Please mark X in dollar column exact amount you will positively pay each PAY DAY in addition to DUES each month, and return IMMEDIATELY to your LOCAL, ZONE or NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS.

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, Nat'l Pres.
105 West 136th St., New York, N. Y.

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN, Nat'l Sec'y-Treas.
105 West 136th St., New York, N. Y.

M. P. WEBSTER, 1st Nat'l Vice-Pres.
4231 So. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

BENNIE SMITH, 2nd Nat'l Vice-Pres.
2355 18th St., Detroit, Mich.

E. J. BRADLEY, 3rd Nat'l Vice-Pres.
304 People's Finance Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.

C. L. DELLUMS, 4th Nat'l Vice-Pres.
1716 Seventh St., Oakland, Calif.

Please sign and return immediately — Don't Delay!

Name..... Street No.....

City..... State .....

NEW YORK AMSTERDAM NEWS
January 12, 1935

REDS START FIGHT AT TRADE UNION DRIVE

FISTS FLY AT LABOR MEET

Socialists, Communists Clash at Meeting for Workers' Solidarity

What was planned to be a vast demonstration of labor solidarity at Rockland Palace Sunday afternoon ended in a melee in which the Socialist and American Federation of Labor sponsors of the meeting clashed with Communists and their sympathizers when the latter tried to gain the floor for Mrs. Ida Norris, mother of Clarence Norris, Scottsboro defendant.

Frank Crosswaith, chairman of the meeting and veteran Socialist campaigner, had hardly finished his introductory remarks in which he hailed the meeting as one of the most significant in the history of the Negro, before it became evident that all was not to be peace and harmony. A heckler arose to demand the privilege of questioning William Green, president of the A. F. of L., who was scheduled to speak, and other A. F. of L. leaders. Crosswaith asked that all questions be submitted in writing to the chairman and sought to squelch the heckler by accusing him of being the agent of forces aiming to break the meeting up.

The speechmaking, launching the campaign "to make Harlem labor conscious" went on uninterrupted until Crosswaith read a resolution requesting Congress to enact the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill. After calling for objections the chairman asked the audience of 3,000 workers, among whom were sprinkled a number of white, to approve the resolution. The audience assented vocally. At this point James Ford, organizer of the Harlem sector of the Communist party, rose from the floor to speak. He was at first ignored. Crosswaith started reading a second resolution. From Ford's supporters came the insistent demand that he be allowed to speak. Crosswaith halted his reading of the resolution and turning defiantly charged:

"Here is a Negro in the audience who is opposed to our fight against lynching. Furthermore, he is a representative of the Communist party."

This accusation was fat thrown on a fire which had been smouldering throughout the meeting. Half the audience was on its feet. There were cheers from Crosswaith's supporters and angry boos from the Communists. The fistic affray with which the meeting was concluded was only ly averted here by the intervention of police. Above the hubbub of the distraught audience which immediately began thinning out, Frank Crosswaith's deep throated voice continued booming out the sonorous phrases of the resolution condemning child labor. Another resolution approving the 30-hour week was read. The chairman declared both adopted.

While Ben Pegler of Local 306, Motion Picture Operators' Union, was calling for working class solidarity, Crosswaith conferred hastily in the wings of the stage with Ford and Ben Davis, Jr., editor of The Harlem Liberator, Communist organ, who were asking that Mrs. Norris be permitted to address the audience. Crosswaith explained that the hour was growing late and that there was no place on the program for such an appeal. However, upon the insistence of Ford and Davis he indicated that, if there was enough time at the close of the meeting, permission might be given to Mrs. Norris to speak.

As Crosswaith was summing up the meeting in conclusion, Ford and Davis, escorting Mrs. Norris, approached the platform. They were halted at the steps by an attendant. Concluding his plea for solidarity and labor consciousness, Crosswaith declared the meeting adjourned. Then turning suddenly, he and the other speakers walked hurriedly off the other side of the platform.

There was a howl of indignant protest from supporters of Ford and Davis. They surged upon the stage where a brief and heated argument ensued between the Communists and members of the Young People Socialist League. Somebody passed a blow. And in a minute a dozen fistic settos were milling about the stage, with chairs and a table lifted aloft. The fighting was over by the time a squad of police appeared. No casualties were reported. Efforts to stage a rump meeting with the remnants of the audience were thwarted when the management turned on a blatant mechanical piano which made public speaking impossible. The hall was cleared by police. No arrests were made.

Harlem Negroes' View on Problems

A. Clayton Powell Jr. Says Men Can't Get Jobs; Relief Is Discriminatory—Hits Fusion Administration

Editor's Note: The Post publishes below the first of a series of three articles which present the Negro's point of view on the recent disturbances in Harlem.

The author, A. Clayton Powell Jr., is associated with his father in the pastorate of the Abyssinian Baptist Church, the largest in Harlem.

Mr. Powell was educated at Colgate, Columbia and Union Theological Seminary. He has written for many magazines. He is now engaged on a book, "Religion Faces a Challenging World," the substance of a course he is giving in Columbia University.

By A. CLAYTON POWELL JR.

"White folks in the lead."

That has been the answer for years when one Negro queried a fellow Negro in Harlem, "How's things going in town?"

This native jest indicated the feelings of the majority of Harlemites regarding their position in New York.

An increasingly impenetrable wall has sprung up around Harlem, especially during the last five years. It is a wall of subtle prejudices, veiled discrimination and faintly concealed antagonism; a wall created on one side by a few Simon Legrees and bolstered up on the other by the modern honorable Uncle Toms.

This situation is no different in Harlem than in any other locality in this "land of the free and home of the brave." To understand, therefore, why Harlem Negroes especially resented this wall and voiced this resentment Tuesday a week ago, it is necessary to look over one's shoulder for a moment. You may look over your left or your right.

Symbol of Better Things

New York has stood as a symbol of all the better things that modern life could afford. To it flowed Jews, Irish, Italians, Germans and from the Southland, Negroes; and so it is not surprising to find that 80 per cent of the population of Harlem was born in the South.

To Harlem by the tens of thou-

Continued on Page 4, Col. 1

NEW YORK POST WEDNESDAY MARCH 27, 1935

HARLEM NEGROES PRESENT VIEW OF THEIR PROBLEMS

A. Clayton Powell Jr. Says Men Can't Get Jobs—Relief Is Discriminatory

HITS FUSION RULE ON PLIGHT OF THE NEEDY

Continued from Page One

sands they came, they saw, they conquered. So we find that the Jews own New York, the Irish run it, but the Negroes enjoy it. Harlem became a Mecca for the Negro—the pilgrimage to which made his life complete.

The new Negro basked in the sunshine of what he thought was freedom. It was a community, the residents of which enjoyed it thoroughly.

Gabriel Plays His Trump

They enjoyed Harlem so much that it became a symbol throughout the world—a symbol of pleasure. To the average outsider Harlem came to be considered as a place where Negroes never slept, where chicken and watermelon and corn whisky flowed as the proverbial milk and honey, and where life was just one big hi-de-ho—a romp for a race in rompers!

But Gabriel played his trump and in 1930 the croupier called his number—it was red! Since then the world has been blue in the face trying to get out of the red.

True, Black Harlem had always been at the bottom of the pile. Many of us ofttimes thought that Civic Virtue was standing not on a woman, but on a group of 300,000 Negroes.

Each winter since 1930 the Negro at the bottom of the pile felt that his burden was getting heavier. This past year Harlem was completely snowed under. One out of every twenty residents of New York City is a Negro. There are around 300,000 black, brown and yellow folk. One-half are not working, the other half is existing on the crumbs from the table.

The jobs for Negroes, even in the better days, were never the best—bell hops, waiters, porters, red caps, elevator boys, kitchen mechanics and pot wrestlers, with here and there a shipping clerk or a typist; but at least they were able to maintain a substantial pot of fatback and greens and also suck the meatless bones of contentment [illegible]

Where Life Is No Longer a Big Hi-De-Ho

Sketched by William Sharp

The Post artist, strolling in Lenox Avenue, through which flows the pulsing life of Harlem, sketched these types as illustrative of the subject of Mr. Powell's articles. "To the average outsider," writes Mr. Powell, "Harlem came to be considered as a place where . . . chicken and watermelon and corn whisky flowed . . . where life was just one big hi-de-ho—a romp for a race in rompers!"

saying that there were no trained Negroes to man such a school.

Mrs. Cecilia Saunders, executive secretary of the Harlem Y. W. C. A., immediately furnished them with a list of some twenty names of B. A.'s and M. A.'s in child psychology.

The next excuse offered was that there was no building in Harlem that was either sanitary or fireproof. Even though the fire department has okayed several buildings in the community, no further word has been received from the executives.

The EHRB Liberals

The Emergency Home Relief Bureau is staffed and manned by a group of so-called liberals, but they wear the round laurel wreath of liberalism upon their square heads, and I think there is an old adage, something about square pegs in round holes.

I shall show later specifically that Negroes meet with great discrimination in the administration of home relief. One unofficial commentator of the Harlem scene sums up the entire relief system in relation to the Negro by saying the EHRB, the TERA, the CWA, the PWA, etc., is "nothing but a Greek alphabet."

The average man or woman of Harlem does not know all about the various relief projects sponsored by the Federal, state and local governments, but he does know a lot of things about unemployment and discrimination in other fields because they are so obvious.

He knows that:

There are thirteen public schools in Harlem. The three [illegible] lars, which is almost completed, but no work has been done up[illegible] for the last year.

Commissioner Goldwa[illegible]

Amsterdam
March 2, 1935

Crosswaith 'No Ways Tired' After 20 Years of Service

To Get Testimonial Dinner in Honor of Work as Labor Leader

Frank R. Crosswaith

Frank R. Crosswaith is "no ways tired."

After twenty years of fighting on the labor front he is today as eager a soldier in the class struggle as he was in the early years, when as has been said of him, he was "about the only Negro Socialist in captivity."

As a token of appreciation of that score of years in the service of the working class, liberals, colored and white labor leaders, and rank and file workers will hail Frank R. Crosswaith as a fellow worker and comrade in arms at a testimonial dinner scheduled for 6 o'clock tomorrow (Sunday) evening in Park Palace, 110th street at Fifth avenue. Yesterday, according to Noah C. A. Walter, Jr., secretary of the sponsoring committee, nearly 500 reservations had been made for attendance at the dinner.

Veteran of many an industrial conflict and political campaign, Mr. Crosswaith is perhaps the nation's most widely known Negro leader in the radical movement. Across the continent his deep throated voice, raised in behalf of the workers, has challenged the evils inherent in the present social order. In Chicago, in St. Louis, in Denver and in San Francisco his great booming voice is known even as it is on the corner of Seventh avenue and 137th street, where in campaign season he nightly draws the largest crowds of any outdoor speaker in Harlem.

When the Pullman porters decided to organize for collective bargaining Frank Croswaith, along with A. Philip Randolph, George S. Schuyler, Ashley Totten and others, was in the midst of the fight against one of America's most powerful corporations. Again it was Crosswaith who conducted successful organization campaigns among elevator operators, barbers, laundry workers, motion picture operators and building trade mechanics.

Today he is an organizer for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the third largest unit with the American Federation of Labor, with a membership of 300,000, including some 12,000 Negroes.

Won Popularity.

Born in the Virgin Islands when they belonged to Denmark, Mr. Crosswaith came to this country in his early teens. He started work as an elevator operator. Interested in labor problems he studied at the Rand School of Social Science, where he has since served as a teacher. His eloquence has won him wide popularity in the Socialist party, and he is often in demand as a speaker at conferences, colleges and labor meetings.

Always smartly attired—buttonniere in coat lapel, white scarf about his neck, clothes faultlessly pressed—Frank Crosswaith has long been a familiar and welcome figure in gatherings of labor and Socialist leaders.

Looks to Future.

Tomorrow after his comrades and fellow workers have feliciated him, Mr. Crosswaith will tell of his hopes and plans for the future. He will outline his plan for the establishment of a united Negro trades organization to serve the Negro worker as the United Hebrew Trades serves the Jewish workers. Far from being a "tired radical," Frank R. Crosswaith believes he is on the threshold of a new day for labor to the realization of which he hopes to contribute even more fully than in the twenty years past.

KANSAS CITY STAR, THURSDAY, JANUARY

people must live on forever, or die at its own hands by the only disease that can kill democracy—contempt for law. Nor is it the low-down criminal who is a menace. The traitor who threatens the republic is the "highly respectable" citizen who scoffs at and defies law. Speaking to the Young Men's Lyceum on January 27, 1837, the great apostle of human freedom said:

At what point then is the approach of danger to be expected? I answer, if it ever reaches us, it must spring up amongst us; it cannot come from abroad. If destruction be our lot, we must ourselves be its author and finisher. As a nation of free men, we must live through all time or die by suicide. . . . How shall we fortify against it? The answer is simple. Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his posterity, swear by the blood of the Revolution never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country, and never to tolerate their violation by others. Let every American pledge his life, his property and his sacred honor, let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample upon the blood of his father and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty.

But, thank God, there is hope in the present political situation. "Give prohibition a sporting chance," is the slogan of thousands, if not millions, of men who a few months ago were defiantly and viciously assailing it. Regulation had 300 years of trial and failed. Prohibition has had but nine years and has already achieved much. "Reverence for law is the only hope of democracy." Let's not commit national suicide! H. P. FARIS.

Pullman Porters and Their Pay.

To The Star: Public sympathy for the plight of our downtrodden Pullman porters is being engendered now and then by a letter in the Public Mind, and by addresses of agitators representing these men. This writer is confident most members of the public are willing, or even anxious, to aid these men in securing better working conditions and more pay, but the average citizen does not know how to go about it. In recent travels I have put this question to the porters themselves. They do not know what to suggest.

The strike method has been suggested to the men, but has not been adopted, partly because the public frowns upon strikes generally, but mostly because so few porters are willing to run the big risk of losing their jobs. Therefore, the situation, from the public standpoint, has never reached an acute stage. Until it is acute the public shrugs a shoulder and turns in for the night.

It seems to this writer that we have certain tribunals in this country charged with the responsibility of enforcing fair and equitable rules relating to hours of labor and wages of public servants. Is it in order for a mere member of the public to ask what steps have been taken to bring this situation to the attention of such a tribunal, and what has been the decision? E. E. ELLIOTT.
123 South Kensington avenue.

How War Costs Are Figured.

To The Star: In a letter to The Star, Mr. George Ballew of Ottawa, Kas., questions the statement—made independently by myself and Dr. Fred V. Williams—that 82 cents out of every taxpayer's dollar is confiscated for militaristic preparedness and war purposes. Then in order to bolster his position, he quotes from the World Almanac the congressional appropriations in 1927 for military and civil purposes.

While the percentage devoted in any one year to militarism is only from 20 to 25 per cent of the total appropriations for that year, the percentage of the taxpayer's dollar levied on for military purposes is not calculated on any such basis. The burden of militarism placed upon American taxpayers includes all that enters into the debts created by past wars and the organization and preparation of the army and navy for future wars. This has been a rapidly mounting burden.

The World Almanac figures are not in error—merely the gentleman at

MAY CALL RANDOLPH FOR SENATE HEARING

Eastman Indicates That the Porters May Receive Legislative Help

Anticipating enactment of an amendment to the Emergency Railroad Transportation act which would apply to the Pullman Company as well as to other carriers by steam railroad, Joseph B. Eastman, Federal co-ordinator of transportation, has indicated in a letter to Senator Hiram Johnson that A. Philip Randolph, national president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, may be called to testify before the Senate Interstate Commerce committee.

The contents of the letter, which Senator Johnson forwarded to Mr. Randolph, was made public here yesterday. "I presume," Mr. Eastman wrote, "that Mr. Randolph will have an opportunity of giving testimony before the Senate Interstate Commerce committee, which undoubtedly is the proper procedure for him to follow in getting action upon his complaint."

Receipt of the information that representatives of the Brotherhood may be called to give testimony in the [illegible] Federation of Labor [illegible] in the face of the protests of liberals throughout the country to refuse to allow Negroes membership in the great majority of their unions. Negro women, however, continue to obtain "jobs." They are being hired now for $25 a month as "mothers' helpers." A mothers' helper ends up by becoming cook, housemaid, nursemaid and laundress. Last week a lady phoned asking if I had a "nice colored woman who could cook and typewrite for $35 a month."

An employment agency was recently forced to turn down an employer seeking a woman to work full time including two nights a week for three dollars a week.

On the files of a certain social service agency in Harlem there is a case of a graduate of one of the finest commercial schools in the Mid-West, who has received her degree B. S. in commercial science and who was working up until a few weeks ago for $5 a week and considered herself lucky.

For Doubting Thomases

For the doubting Thomases, a visit to Prospect Avenue and 161st Street or Southern Boulevard and Westchester Avenue, both in The Bronx, should prove that the slave market still exists.

Here, lined along the walls each morning, can be found dejected, tattered, young and old Negro women, many of them mothers, begging to be employed.

Garrulous, mercenary females haggle with them over the price per hour, driving their bargains as shrewdly as slave traders of old, often hiring these women for twelve and 15 cents an hour.

On Federal Relief

What about the Federal Relief jobs? That, my friends, is what Harlem wants to know. In the field of drama—that field in which Negroes because of their natural talents have been so prominent—the CWA refuses to hire Negroes.

Out of the thirty or more productions under the CWA only one employs Negroes, and that is exuberantly entitled "Meek Mose." I forgot, one Negro has a stellar role in the production of "Julius Caesar"—the part of the slave.

The CWA has a professional division. How many of Harlem's 135 doctors and 100 dentists are working in that division? The answer is very simple—not one! Yet, I am personally acquainted with a D. D. S. from Tufts College, who was assigned by the CWA last winter to dig ditches in The Bronx for twelve dollars a week.

The Federal Nursery Project has established nursery schools in every section of New York for the last two years. Full knowing that Harlem mothers are forced to work more than in any other community of this city, yet they have consistently refused to open a nursery to care for their little waifs who are forced to live the lives of adults before they have begun to live as children.

After much protest on the part of community leaders, the Federal Nursery Project said they were willing to open a nursery in Harlem but insisted upon an all white [illegible]

[illegible] all white.

The Harlemite does know that he spends annually $113,000,000 for food, $17,000,000 for clothing (figures furnished by R. D. Turner, Belclair Market, West 145th Street). But until last year only thirteen Negroes were employed on 125th Street out of the 2,791 employees.

Over $3,000,000 is spent annually for electricity and gas in Harlem, while the public utilities employ only three Negro maids and two inspectors.

The same situation is true of the other utilities: the telephone and transportation systems. The Fifth Avenue Coach Company has refused countless times to see Negro committees.

The city owned Independent subway refuses with a few exceptions to allow Negro employees to rise above the level of station and toilet attendants.

Three hundred thousand Negroes want one voice in the State Senate and in the national House of Representatives, but the legislative bodies of New York continue to gerrymander this community.

Rents are 20 per cent higher in Harlem than in any other section of the city. The John D. Rockefeller-built Dunbar Apartments carry one of the highest price tags per room to be found in New York City. Coupled with this, on March 1 an organized movement was begun by landlords to raise the rent, notably in the Graham Court on West 116th Street and Seventh Avenue, owned by "Daddy" Browning's estate.

The schools of Harlem are understaffed and overcrowded, and P. S. 89 and 5 have new names. P. S. for those schools means Public Sewers. Those schools have outside toilets; the entire structures are nothing but tinder boxes. The lunch rooms are as clean as the worst out-house.

The Harlem Hospital, the only city-owned hospital that will condescend to allow Negro doctors to work in it, has only thirty Negroes out of a staff of more than one hundred. Colored nurses are forced to eat in separate dining rooms from the whites.

I have seen a Negro patient in the dead of winter with the temperature hovering around zero, bleeding from head to foot, with his wounds freshly sewed up, thrown out bodily because he was drunk.

Criticizes Fusion Administration

The hospital is so overcrowded that patients are placed in the halls, and yet next door there is an annex as large as the main building, costing hundreds of thousands of dol- [illegible] of them in Alabama. [illegible] about this, the "liberal" La[illegible] replied in so many words that he could do nothing about it. Since he has been Mayor of this city he has refused consistently to see various delegates and committees from Harlem and has even ignored letters requesting an audience.

This is what the man and the woman of Harlem knows, and this knowledge is the fundamental cause of what has been erroneously called New York's worst riot in twenty-five years.

It was not a riot; it was an open, unorganized protest against empty stomachs, overcrowded tenements, filthy sanitation, rotten foodstuffs, chiseling landlords and merchants, discrimination on relief, disfranchisement, and against a disinterested administration. It was not caused by Communists, which is even apparent to the Washington (D. C.) Post, which on Saturday, March 23, had a headline which read, "Harlem Riot Due to Hunger, Not Reds."

It was not a protest against the shutting up of Father Divine's Kingdom. The people who were in the disturbance were not interested in Father Divines. It was not a protest against the police investigation of the policy racket.

Witness a man, tall, strong and well built, carrying through the murkiness of the Harlem morning two pieces of twelve-cents-a-pound salt pork that he had taken from a butcher's broken window.

Witness two young lads—one of them just finished high school—furtively sneaking home as the noise of March 19 subsided, lugging two sacks of rice and sugar.

Witness a young man step through the window of Wohlmuth's Tailoring Establishment at 134th Street and Lenox Avenue dressed on that cold, rainy night in nothing but a blouse, pants and an excuse for shoes. He comes out a moment later wearing a velvet collar Chesterfield and a smile upon his face—first overcoat this winter.

A great majority of these were men and women who have worked and held decent jobs in the past, but who have no reason or self-discipline when their bellies are rubbing their backbones.

Mr. Powell's second article will appear in the POST tomorrow.

BODY FOUND ON I. R. T.

The mangled body of an unidentified Negro was found at 9 A. M. today on the tracks at the south end of the I. R. T. subway at Lenox Avenue and 116th Street.

CHICAGO DEFENDER
January 12, 1935

U.S. TO SETTLE PULLMAN PORTER DISPUTE

Mediation Board To Take Hand In the Pullman Case

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, following a preliminary appearance before the National Mediation Board by A. Philip Randolph, national president, and M. P. Webster, first vice-president, Friday in Washington, D.C., has filed application with the Board, invoking its services to step in and settle the question as to which organization is entitled to represent the Pullman porters and maids in the negotiation of agreements concerning rates of pay and rules governing working conditions with the Pullman company.

This request of the board to determine and certify which organization the Pullman company shall recognize as the lawful agency for making and maintaining agreements, is the culminaiton of a long hard fight covering a period of nine years by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, states Randolph.

Since the organization of the Brotherhood in 1925 in New York City by a group of Pullman porters who had become disillusioned with the plan of employee representation or a company union, the fight to secure recognition from the Pullman company has gone through a hectic and dramatic period, including presentation of the Pullman porters'

Continued on Page 2, Col. 4

PORTERS ASK U. S. BOARD TO SETTLE COMPANY DISPUTE

Continued from Page 1

case in 1928 to the United States mediation board under the Railway Labor act of 1926; an effort to secure the jurisdiction of the case by the Interstate Commerce commission with a view to effecting changes in wage rates and hours of work through an examination of the Pullman financial structure; affiliation with the American Federation of Labor in 1929 and the filing of a petition for an injunction in the Northern Federal district court of Illinois in Chicago.

Porters Seek Settlement

When the Emergency Railway Transportation act of 1933 was enacted, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, because of liberal labor provisions in the act, sought the settlement of its fight at that time, but upon presentation of its case to Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation, officials of the brotherhood were informed that the Pullman company and the Pullman porters neither came under ERTA (Emergency Railway Transportation Act) nor the NRA. It was contended that the brotherhood did not come under the former because it was not a "carrier by railroad" nor under the latter because it was a carrier, and the NRA was only concerned with intra-state enterprises, observed the porters' leader, Mr. Randolph.

Forthwith proposal for the amendment of the Railway Labor act of 1926 was made and a draft of the amendment formulated. But the sleeping car porters were, by some hook or crook, excluded from the act. Immediately representatives of the brotherhood appeared before the Hearings of the Senate commmittees under the chairmanship of Senator C. C. Dill and also the House committee on interstate and foreign commerce and presented an amendment for the inclusion of the sleeping car porters.

The same was accepted and upon the basis of the Railway Labor act as amended by the 73rd Congress, the long sought opportunity of the brotherhood to settle the question of representation and secure recognition from the Pullman company as a lawful organization for the negotiation of agreements on the settlement of grievances was presented. A nation-wide organization campaign was launched by the brotherhood to enroll the porters as members as a basis for seeking the services of the National Mediation board to mediate in the dispute upon representation. The campaign resulted in the brotherhood securing the large majority of the porters and maids in the Pullman service who authorized the [illegible] to represent them in dealing with the Pullman management, states Randolph.

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

105 West 136th Street, New York, New York

Questionnaire

NAME.....

DISTRICT.....

STREET.....

CITY.....

STATE.....

NOTE. Please use care in filling out this questionnaire. IT IS IMPORTANT.

What was your basic and overtime wage in each of the following months.			How much in tips did you receive in each of these months. If no record was kept, estimate as accurately as you can.	How much in tips did you receive in each of these months 1928-29. If no record was kept, estimate as accurately as you can.	What was your occupational expense in each of these months. (Uniforms, shoe polish, food and lodging away from home). Estimate if no record kept.	What was your occupational expense in 1928-29. Estimate if no record was kept.	Have you failed to earn your basic wage in any of the following months? If so, state the exact amount earned.	If basic wage was not earned, state in this column the reason why. Such as Illness, Special Service, Disciplinary Action, Car Annulled, Thrown out of line, Leave of Absence, etc.
Mo. & Yr.	BASIC WAGE	OVERTIME WAGE	1934-35	1928-29	1934-35	1928-29	1934-35	Cause
Mar., 1934
Apr., 1934
May, 1934
June, 1934
July, 1934
Aug., 1934
Sept., 1934
Oct., 1934
Nov., 1934
Dec., 1934
Jan., 1935
Feb., 1935

NOTE. Please return this questionnaire when filled out to Professor Edward Berman, 319 Commerce Building, University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois.

Sixteenth Annual

Memorial Services

Pullman Porters Benefit Association of America

New York Central and Penna. Terminal Districts

AT

St. Marks M. E. Church

138th Street and St. Nicholas Ave.

Rev. Lorenzo H. King, Pastor

SUNDAY, JUNE 21st, 1936

7:30 P. M. (D. L. S. T.)

Pharoah Davis, Chr. Joint Committee

H. C. Hightower, Secretary

C. P. Loving, Treasurer

Our Honored Dead

New York Central

J. SAUNDERS
A. PULLINS
G. J. GREEN

Pennsylvania Terminal

J. C. BAUMAN (Pensioned)
W. L. CHEATMAN
F. U. WILLIAMS
CHARLES E. SMITH (Pensioned)

IN MEMORIAM

We will not forget thee
We who stay to work a little longer here
Thy names, thy faith, thy love, will live
On memory's tablet bright and clear;
And, when overwearied by the toil of life
Our heavy limbs shall be,
We'll come; and one by one, lie down
In Mother Earth with thee.

C. P. L.

Memorial Service

PROCESSIONAL HYMN . . . . . Choir

INVOCATION

SCRIPTURE READING . . . . . Pastor

HYMN . . . . . "Come Ye Disconsolate"

MASTER OF CEREMONIES . . . Mr. Charles P. Loving

SOLO—"Face to Face" . . . . . Mr. Robert Mormon

Introduction of Pullman Officials

Introduction of Local Lodge Chairmen and President of Women's Auxiliary, P. P. B. A. of A.

HYMN . . . . . "Life Is Like a Mountain Railroad"

READING—"In Memoriam" . . . Mrs. Rosa Weatherless

REMARKS . Mr. Perry Parker, Grand Chairman P. P. B. A. of A.

MUSICAL SELECTION . . . . . Choir

SERMON . . . . . Rev. Lorenzo H. King

OFFERTORY

SELECTION . . . . . by Choir

{ Mrs. Henrietta Kirk
Mrs. W. G. Bordner } at the Table

PRESENTATION OF OFFERING . . . Mrs. Viola Williams

ROLL CALL . . . . . Mrs. Lillian Hunter

SOLO—"Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled" . . . by Oley Speaks—Madame Constance Berksteiner White

FLOWERS . . . . . Mrs. Lottie Ballard

TAPS . . . . . Mr. Thomas Lowe

BENEDICTION . "God Be With You Till We Meet Again"

MEMORIAL SERVICE BY BROTHHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

Throughout 88 cities of the United States, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, jointly with the Women's Economic Council, an auxiliary to the Brotherhood, will hold Memorial Services on May 10. In Boston, the services will be held by the local, at the Mass. Ave. Baptist Church, Cambridge, corner of Hampshire and Norfolk [illegible] Rev. E. E. Thompson, pastor, [illegible] deliver the sermon "In [illegible] The program arrang[illegible] committee will include P.W. [illegible] singing [illegible] the di[illegible]s. Irene [illegible] Prof. [illegible] Pollen, p[illegible] by D[illegible]ods, talen[illegible] musician, an[illegible] by Everti[illegible] and the [illegible] choir. B[illegible] Mc[illegible]rin, N[illegible] field O[illegible] the B[illegible] will [illegible] Role of [illegible]ers in [illegible] the B[illegible]d." Mrs. C. [illegible] president of the Women's Economic Council will talk on "The Role of the Women in Strengthening the [illegible] of the Porters." This [illegible] is a [illegible]ting honor to the Pull[illegible]orters w[illegible] gave their time and [illegible] fina[illegible]cial support to the b[illegible] an o[illegible]ganization which is a mon[illegible]ent [illegible] race achievement. The p[illegible] is invited to attend.

—G—

Whitney Term Is Basis For Sentence in $2 Theft

By The Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, April 20.—George Jamerson, 27, pleaded guilty today before Louis L. Hicks, justice of the peace, of stealing $2 from a gasoline filling station.

Cautioning Jamerson he could expect leniency only because it was his first offense, Mr. Hicks said:

"Some people think there's one law for the rich and another for the poor, but we'll correct that right now."

Taking paper and pencil, the justice figured for a minute and then said:

"Richard Whitney got five years for stealing about $225,000. That would be about $45,000 a year, $120 a day and $5 an hour. You stole $2. That would be twenty-four minutes and that is your sentence."

Jamerson spent the twenty-four minutes in custody of the Sheriff.

GIFTS TO CHARITIES IN U. S. FELL IN 1936

Of 19 Billion Taxable Income, Only 2.03% Was Listed as Going to Philanthropy

'MORAL RECESSION' SEEN

Possible Link Between 'Selfish Living' After War and 1929 Slump Noted in Report

Philanthropic organizations received a smaller share of the national income in 1936 than in any year since 1925, Charles V. Vickrey, president of the Golden Rule Foundation, reported yesterday.

Although the declared net taxable income in the United States in 1936 was more than $19,000,000,000, or $4,400,000,000 more than the 1929 figure, religious, charitable and educational groups were listed in income tax reports as recipients of only $388,142,000, or 2.033 per cent, Mr. Vickrey said.

The highest ratio of charitable gifts to income was recorded in the low point of the depression in 1932, when 2.678 per cent of the declared income was given. The dip to 2.033 per cent in 1936 was disclosed in an analysis just completed by the Treasury Department, according to Mr. Vickrey.

"Gifts to benevolences in this quarter have never averaged as high as 3 per cent of taxable income," he commented.

Luncheon to Discuss Issue

"The questions recur: (1) Are we suffering primarily from a financial depression or is it basically a post-war, moral recession which expressed itself in luxurious living, selfish indulgence, speculative investments, leading to the climacteric explosion and stock market crash of 1929, followed by the inevitable financial reaction and depression of 1930 and following; and (2) can we by a cooperative educational campaign lift the American people to a higher conception of social responsibility and stewardship of life and money for the welfare of mankind?"

The answers to these questions will be sought next Monday at a luncheon meeting in the Town Hall Club of the council of executives of the Committee for Religion and Welfare Recovery, with which the Golden Rule Foundation cooperates.

Measured in terms of dollars, rather than in percentage of total national income philanthropic gifts rose $82,864,000 from 1935 to 1936, Mr. Vickrey noted. This represented an increase of 27 per cent, against a 30 per cent rise in declared taxable incomes.

Variations in Income Figures

"Leaders in philanthropic work, however, are perplexed as yet to know where this 27 per cent went," Mr. Vickrey said, "for the official figures from more than 400 community chests for 1936 show an increase over the preceding year of less than 5 per cent. The official figures from twenty-five of the largest religious bodies, registering a church membership of 25,221,696, show an increase of less than 4 per cent, as compared with the increase of 30 per cent in declared taxable incomes.

"Contributions to the churches in 1936 were less than they were at any time during the period from 1920 to 1934. They were 33 per cent less than they were eleven years earlier, in 1925; 35 per cent less than in 1926 and 1927 and 40 per cent less than they were in 1928, when the moral recession led to the stock market crash and depression of 1929-30."

While the proportion of benefactions to various forms of charity was declining from 18 to 30 per cent in the years 1932-1936, the American people were spending 25 per cent more for jewelry, 30 per cent more for the army and navy, 41 per cent more for theatres, 48 per cent more for cigarettes, 303 per cent more for automobiles and 308 per cent more for radios, the compilation shows.

Announcement!

An International Charter in The American Federation of Labor will be formally presented to the

BROTHERHOOD
OF
SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

at a

PUBLIC MEETING

to be held

Sunday, June 7th, 1936
2:30 P. M. (Chicago City Time)

at

AUDITORIUM, Du SABLE HIGH SCHOOL
South State Street at 49th

SPEAKERS

WILLIAM GREEN
President American Federation of Labor

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
National President Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

M. P. WEBSTER, Chairman

Good Musical Program

Public Invited Admission Free

Issued from

Chicago Division Headquarters, Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters
4231 South Michigan Avenue

287

LET'S CLEAR THE TRACKS!

FREE EQUIPMENT

(INSIDE)

DO YOU KNOW

HOW and why Labor Unions arose?

WHAT is meant by "Collective Bargaining?"

HOW Wages and Hours are decided upon?

WHAT a "Closed Shop" agreement is?

HOW contracts are negotiated and enforced?

WHAT the National Labor Relations Act is?

HOW recent laws affect your union?

WHAT the Structure and functions of unions are?

HOW a "Whitelist" is used?

WHAT is meant by "Real Wages?"

* * * * * *

HERE IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY!!

REGISTER NOW

- THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTER

BEGINING MARCH 28TH

A GROUP OF INTERESTED PORTERS WILL MEET AT THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE BROTHERHOOD EVERY

TUESDAY - 330 P. M.

TO DISCUSS

"THE PRINCIPLES OF UNIONISM"

These discussions will be le d by a competent teacher from the Workers' Education Division of Adult Education, W.P.A., of the New York City Board of Education.

* * * * * * *

- -

(If you are interested, tear this off after you have filled in your name and address and leave at the office.)

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

dj/

ERS, 217 West 125th St., New York City -

THE SIXTEENTH

Annual Joint Memorial Service

OF THE

Pullman Porters Benefit Association

OF AMERICA

WILL BE HELD ON

Sunday Evening, June 21st, 1936

AT 7:30 P. M.

At ST. MARKS M. E. CHURCH

136th Street, at Edgecombe Ave.

Rev. LORENZO KING, Pastor

ALL ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO ATTEND

P. DAVIS, Chairman H. C. HIGHTOWER, Secretary

FRANK R. CROSSWAITH

NEGRO CITIZENS

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

DO NOT BE FOOLED!

The drive by organized California employers against labor draws no color line! In Los Angeles, there is now a drastic law which can be used to smash all unions and all workers. Under it, wages can be slashed, and hours lengthened. Men can be thrown out of work. Our miserable living conditions can be made worse and workers made helpless. The bosses want only one thing—increased PROFITS for themselves and increased POVERTY for all workers, black and white. The employers and landlords are organized to get more rent and more profit, but they do not want workers to organize to get more wages and pay less rent.

Proposition Number One on the November 8th ballot is even more vicious than the City law. If Proposition Number One becomes a law, every right for which we have struggled and to which we are entitled will be taken away from us. It will make us the victims of every vigilante action at the command of California bankers, landowners, and industrialists. Under this law, no group will be more thoroughly exposed to injustice than the Negro. American custom and tradition show that every blow aimed at labor strikes the Negro hardest.

We must defeat Proposition Number One. Let us stand together. Let us show our bosses that we know how to unite to protect our common interests as workers regardless of color, sex, or religion. Proposition Number One can and must be defeated! Let reaction in California feel our united might at the ballot box on November 8th. VOTE NO ON PROPOSITION NUMBER ONE! By so doing you will be helping to establish industrial peace and safeguarding the rights of all labor.

Frank R. Crosswaith

Gen'l Org., Int'l Ladies Garment Workers Union
Chairman, The Negro Labor Committee

A. Philip Randolph

Int'l President, Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

LOS ANGELES TRADE UNION CONFERENCE

116½ West Ninth Street TR. 3817

DEPENDABLE PRINTERS, 2510 Brooklyn Ave.

You are Cordially Invited to be the Guest of the

BROTHERHOOD
OF
SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

(AN INTERNATIONAL UNION)
A. F. of L.

Memorial Services of the N. Y. Local

Sunday, May 24th
at 3 p. m.

St. James Presbyterian Church
141st Street and St. Nicholas Avenue
REVEREND WILLIAM LLOYD IMES
Officiating

•

ELEVENTH ANNUAL SPRING DANCE

(Celebrating our International Charter)
Renaissance Casino
138th STREET & SEVENTH AVENUE
Thursday, June 4, 1936

Tickets 75c Boxes and Loges $4.00 (Tax Incl.)
Reservations close at midnight, Wednesday, May 20

•

ELEVENTH ANNUAL BOAT RIDE

UP THE HUDSON
Thursday, July 30, 1936

Adults $1.00 Children under twelve years 50c

•

Tickets now on sale at —
HEADQUARTERS, 105 WEST 136th STREET
New York City
See MRS. LYDIA M. CLAIR, Activities Secretary — 'Phone EDgecombe 4-1535, 3520

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
National President

PRINCIPLE ABOVE DOLLARS

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN
National Sec'y-Treas.

•

TRUE FRIENDS OF HUMANITY

They do not stand in the market place
That all may see and hear;
Their one desire is to bring the light
To those enslaved by fear.

•

JAMES E. SMITH
Field Organizer
N. Y. C. District

A winner never QUITS

A quitter never WINS

O. W. BYNUM
Field Organizer
Penn. Terminal District

During the past year the N. Y. Local of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters has brought SUNSHINE, COMFORT and HAPPINESS in the homes of thousands whose relief applications were turned down, and others in need of work, and various kinds of help. The proceeds of our dance and boat ride goes to our Social Welfare Department.

Advertise in the 'Black Worker," the official organ of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

(New York Local)

105 WEST 136th STREET

T. T. PATTERSON, Vice-President — 'Phone EDgecombe 4-1535

●

Executive Committee

A. R. JOHNSON, Chairman
R. R. MATTHEWS
J. J. DAVIS
H. A. ROCK
D. LaROCHE, Secretary
W. C. MILLS
W. H. BOWE
C. WHITE
WM. SMITH

●

Organizing Committee

T. H. SMITH, Chairman
T. R. HARTMAN, Secretary

●

House Committee

W. H. BOWE, Chairman
H. A. ROCK
A. L. TOTTEN, Secretary
W. C. MILLS

●

Sick Committee

J. M. HOUSTON, Chairman
T. R. HARTMAN, Secretary
A. W. SMITH, Treasurer

●

Auditing Committee

T. WALTER JONES, Chairman
CASPER WHITE
ZEDDIE JOHNSON

●

Join Our
WOMEN'S ECONOMIC COUNCIL
(Ladies' Auxiliary)

MRS. K. LASSITER ..... President
MRS. LILA HUGHES ..... Vice-President
MRS. TESSIE McCANN ..... Recording Secretary
MRS. ALESA McBRIDE ..... Financial Secretary
MRS. SARAH T. HARPER ..... Treasurer

They entertain at the Home every Saturday night.
BRIDGE and WHIST games. MUSIC.
PULLMAN MEALS served. BEER ON DRAUGHT.

●

Entertainment Committee

H. J. MOORE, Chairman
RICHARD CLAY
T. M. O'BRYAN
S. WOODS
G. W. SEABORN

Why Every Porter Should Join the Brotherhood and Pay Dues

1. Because the Brotherhood has STOOD FIRM against GREAT OPPOSITION for over 5 years.
2. BECAUSE THE BROTHERHOOD has CHARTERED AFFILIATION with the AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR.
3. BECAUSE the BROTHERHOOD has WON a 2 MILLION DOLLAR WAGE INCREASE or $120 a year MORE than when the Union began, for 12,000 porters.
4. BECAUSE the BROTHERHOOD has put $420 MORE in WAGES into the pockets of every porter in the LAST 5 years in the form of 2 WAGE INCREASES of $5.00 each.
5. BECAUSE if a porter had joined the Brotherhood at the beginning and paid dues every month he could have paid in only $66.00 in dues in 5 years, and if he had paid 3 ASSESSMENTS of $10 each, he would have paid in only $30 or $96 in all. Subracting $96, his expense for the Union, from $420 his income from the Union, and he has made a PROFIT of $324. NOT A BAD INVESTMENT, Mr. Pullman Porter.
6. BECAUSE the Brotherhood secured the ADOPTION of a RESOLUTION CONDEMNING LYNCHING in the 50th Convention of the A. F. of L. Convention in Boston.
7. BECAUSE the Brotherhood has for the FIRST TIME INFORMED the General Public of the low wages and poor working conditions under which porters work.
8. BECAUSE the Brotherhood has WON the SUPPORT of the Negro Church and Press.
9. BECAUSE the Brotherhood presented William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor for the first time to the Negro Public in two addresses in New York and Chicago.
10. BECAUSE of the creation of the NATIONAL NEGRO LABOR CONFERENCE, the only VOICE of organized Negro labor in AMERICA.
11. BECAUSE the Brotherhood has given systematic economic education to the porters and the race for 5 or more years.
12. BECAUSE the Brotherhood presented the CASE of the porters to the U. S. Mediation Board and the Interstate Commerce Commission which advertised throughout the country the wages, working conditions and needs of the porters.
13. BECAUSE the Brotherhood has filed a petition for a PERMANENT INJUNCTION to overthrow the Employee Representation Plan or company union of the Pullman Company in the Federal District Court of Chicago, compelling the company to file an answer thereto, argument on which will come up in trial of case in the near future.
14. BECAUSE the Brotherhood prevented the Pullman Company from reducing wages of porters during business slump.
15. BECAUSE the Brotherhood has secured BETTER TREATMENT for porters and maids from Pullman officials.
16. BECAUSE the Brotherhood will get recognition, decent wages and the 240 hours work month, providing more work and wages for more porters and more work for extra porters, if the porters stick.
17. BECAUSE The Pullman Company hasn't money enough to buy the Brotherhood. A fact already demonstrated to porters, public and Pullman.
18. BECAUSE the Brotherhood stands for scientific service and safety-efficiency. It insists upon efficiency, honesty, industry, sobriety and courtesy on the part of the porters.
19. Because the Brotherhood OFFICIALS have remained TRUE and LOYAL to the TRUST and CONFIDENCE placed in them by the porters and public, and unselfishly and faithfully given the BEST that is in them, for which NO ONE, including the LEADER, receives more than $150 a month, and this is very seldom paid.

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN
Gen'l Secretary-Treasurer

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
President and Gen'l Organizer

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters
239 West 136th Street,
New York, N. Y.

Why Every Porter Should Join the Brotherhood and Pay Dues

1. Because the Brotherhood has STOOD FIRM against GREAT OPPOSITION for over 5 years.

2. BECAUSE THE BROTHERHOOD has CHARTERED AFFILIATION with the AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR.

3. BECAUSE the BROTHERHOOD has WON a 2 MILLION DOLLAR WAGE INCREASE or $120 a year MORE than when the Union began, for 12,000 porters.

4. BECAUSE the BROTHERHOOD has put $420 MORE in WAGES into the pockets of every porter in the LAST 5 years in the form of 2 WAGE INCREASES of $5.00 each.

5. BECAUSE if a porter had joined the Brotherhood at the beginning and paid dues every month he could have paid in only $66.00 in dues in 5 years, and if he had paid 3 ASSESSMENTS of $10 each, he would have paid in only $30 or $96 in all. Subtracting $96, his expense for the Union, from $420 his income from the Union, and he has made a PROFIT of $324. NOT A BAD INVESTMENT, Mr. Pullman Porter.

6. BECAUSE the Brotherhood secured the ADOPTION of a RESOLUTION CONDEMNING LYNCHING in the 50th Convention of the A. F. of L. Convention in Boston.

7. BECAUSE the Brotherhood has for the FIRST TIME INFORMED the General Public of the low wages and poor working conditions under which porters work.

8. BECAUSE the Brotherhood has WON the SUPPORT of the Negro Church and Press.

9. BECAUSE the Brotherhood presented William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor for the first time to the Negro Public in two addresses in New York and Chicago.

10. BECAUSE of the creation of the NATIONAL NEGRO LABOR CONFERENCE, the only VOICE of organized Negro labor in AMERICA.

11. BECAUSE the Brotherhood has given systematic economic education to the porters and the race for 5 or more years.

12. BECAUSE the Brotherhood presented the CASE of the porters to the U. S. Mediation Board and the Interstate Commerce Commission which advertised throughout the country the wages, working conditions and needs of the porters.

13. BECAUSE the Brotherhood has filed a petition for a PERMANENT INJUNCTION to overthrow the Employee Representation Plan or company union of the Pullman Company in the Federal District Court of Chicago, compelling the company to file an answer thereto, argument on which will come up in trial of case in the near future.

14. BECAUSE the Brotherhood prevented the Pullman Company from reducing wages of porters during business slump.

15. BECAUSE the Brotherhood has secured BETTER TREATMENT for porters and maids from Pullman officials.

16. BECAUSE the Brotherhood will get recognition, decent wages and the 240 hours work month, providing more work and wages for more porters and more work for extra porters, if the porters stick.

17. BECAUSE The Pullman Company hasn't money enough to buy the Brotherhood. A fact already demonstrated to porters, public and Pullman.

18. BECAUSE the Brotherhood stands for scientific service and safety-efficiency. It insists upon efficiency, honesty, industry, sobriety and courtesy on the part of the porters.

19. Because the Brotherhood OFFICIALS have remained TRUE and LOYAL to the TRUST and CONFIDENCE placed in them by the porters and public, and unselfishly and faithfully given the BEST that is in them, for which NO ONE, including the LEADER, receives more than $150 a month, and this is very seldom paid.

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN
Gen'l Secretary-Treasurer

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
President and Gen'l Organizer

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters
239 West 136th Street,
New York, N. Y.

To All Pullman Porters!

Brothers —

The Fascist butcher, Mussolini, is slaughtering thousands of peace-loving Ethiopian people. Not content with terrorizing thousands of Italian anti-Fascists at home who have fought against his government of hunger and low wages, he is now feeding them "Military Glory" instead of bread, by trying to destroy the last independent African nation.

The Imperialist powers in the League of Nations are trying to drive a bargain with Mussolini by dividing up Ethiopia. THE SOVIET UNION is the only nation that is UNALTERABLY opposed to such a division. THE SOVIET UNION STANDS FOR THE COMPLETE INDEPENDENCE OF ETHIOPIA!

Mussolini's war is encouraging Hitler to attack the Soviet Union and its small neighbors. He is encouraging Fascists all over the world, including our own fascist, Mr. Hearst- who spreads slanders about "Ethiopian savages."

MUSSOLINI'S WAR MUST BE STOPPED before it results in a SECOND WORLD WAR.

ONLY THE UNITED FRONT OF ALL THE OPPRESSED PEACE LOVING MASSES--- BLACK AND WHITE-- CAN STOP THIS FASCIST ROBBER.

Pullman Porters —

SUPPORT THE HEROIC ETHIOPIAN FIGHTERS BY TAKING THE LEAD IN ORGANIZING THIS POWERFUL UNITY AGAINST WAR AND FASCISM:

1. HAVE YOUR UNION PASS A RESOLUTION DEMANDING THE LIFTING OF THE EMBARGO ON ARMS TO ETHIOPIA.
2. ORGANIZE FINANCIAL AND MEDICAL AID FOR ETHIOPIA.
3. DEMAND THE STOPPAGE OF ALL EXPORTS TO ITALY.
4. DEMAND THE CLOSING OF THE SUEZ CANAL.
5. SUPPORT THE PEACE POLICY OF THE SOVIET UNION.

Communist Party Unit 26 Section 25

FIRST ANNUAL MEMORIAL SERVICE

of the

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

and the

Women's Economic Council

•

SUNDAY, MAY 24th, 1936
3:30 p. m.

•

ST. JAMES PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
141st Street and St. Nicholas Avenue
New York, N. Y.

•

REV. WILLIAM LLOYD IMES
Pastor

A PSALM OF LIFE

Tell me not, in mournful numbers,
Life is but an empty dream!
For the soul is dead that slumbers,
And things are not what they seem.

Life is real! Life is earnest!
And the grave is not its goal;
Dust thou art, to dust returnest,
Was not spoken of the soul.

In the world's broad field of battle,
In the bivouac of Life,
Be not like dumb, driven cattle!
Be a hero in the strife!

Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time.

Let us, then, be up and doing
With a heart for any fate;
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait.

IN MEMORIAM

H. Anderson	Frank Benn	G. W. Bordner
J. C. Bowman	S. E. Dansby	George Green
O. Y. Harper	E. Headen	B. Lassiter
G. E. Perry	A. Pullins	J. R. Roberts
G. R. Ross	R. S. Mancel	F. U. Williams
T. T. Toney	R. L. Vassar	Nelson Holt

PROGRAM

1. Processional —
   All Hail The Power (Hymn No. 192) ..... Choir and Congregation

2. Invocation ..... Rev. A. C. Garner, Grace Congregational Church, Pastor

3. Brotherhood Marching Song (words on sheet) ..... "Hold The Fort"

4. Master of Ceremonies ..... Bro. A. W. Smith, Treas. Sick Committee

5. Vocal Solo ..... Bro. William Mustin

6. The Women's Economic Council ..... Mrs. K. Lassiter, Pres.

7. Selection by Choir ..... Dr. Melville Charlton, Organist

8. The Brotherhood ..... By Bro. T. Walter Jones

9. Vocal Solo ..... Miss Helen Dowdy

10. Statement — "In Memoriam" ..... By Ashley L. Totten, Nat'l Secy.-Treas.

11. Resolution ..... By B. F. McLaurin, Nat'l Field Organizer

12. Serman ..... Rev. William Lloyd Imes

13. Chorus—(words on sheet) ..... "Courage, Brother, Do Not Stumble"

14. Offertory ..... By The Women's Economic Council

15. Presentation ..... By Ashley L. Totten, Nat'l Secy.-Treas.

16. Benediction ..... Rev. Paul E. West, Pastor, Lutheran Church of the Transfiguration

17. Recessional—(words on sheet) ..... "God Be With You Till We Meet Again"

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

105 WEST 136th STREET

'Phone EDgecombe 4-1535 New York, N. Y.

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, National President ..... New York
ASHLEY L. TOTTEN, National Secretary-Treasurer ..... New York
M. P. WEBSTER, First National Vice-President ..... Chicago, Ill.
BENNIE SMITH, Second National Vice-President ..... Detroit, Mich.
E. J. BRADLEY, Third National Vice-President ..... St. Louis, Mo.
C. L. DELLUMS, Fourth National Vice-President ..... Oakland, Cal.

NEW YORK LOCAL

T. T. Patterson, Vice-President

EXECUTIVE BOARD

A. B. Johnson, Chairman D. La Roche, Secretary

ORGANIZING COMMITTEE

T. H. Smith, Chaiman T. R. Hartman Secretary

HOUSE COMMITTEE

W. H. Bowe W. C. Mills H. A. Rock
A. L. Totten

SICK COMMITTEE

J. M. Houston, Chairman T. R. Hartman, Secretary

AUDITING COMMITTEE

T. Walter Jones Zeddie Johnson Caspar White

ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE

H. J. Moore, Chairman
T. M. O'Brien R. Clay S. Woods G. W. Seaborn

WOMEN'S ECONOMIC COUNCIL

MRS. K. LASSITER ..... President
MRS. LILA HUGHES ..... Vice-President
MRS. TESSIE McCANN ..... Recording Secretary
MRS. ALESA McBRIDE ..... Financial Secretary
MRS. SARAH T. HARPER ..... Treasurer

PULLMAN PORTERS CASTING BALLOTS ON COMPANY UNION

Mediation Board Holds Vote in All Railroad Centers of Nation

WORKERS GET ULTIMATUM IN LOCKOUT BY HOSPITAL

Pullman porters and maids throughout the country are making their choice today between an independent and a company union.

A plebiscite is being held in all railroad centers under direction of the National Mediation Board set up in Federal railroad labor legislation.

The unions on the ballot are the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association, described as a creature of the Pullman company.

RANDOLPH ADDRESSES BROTHERHOOD

Mr. A. Phillip Randolph, National President of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, was the special speaker at a three-day session held on February 13, 14 and 15 by Local No. 18097 at their new home 431a Columbus Avenue which was beautifully decorated for the occasion by the members of the Ladies Auxiliary whose presence and activity contributed largely to the success of the meetings.

Mr. Randolph in the course of his impressive talks called attention to the rapid growth of the Brotherhood, its progress in matters affecting the welfare of its members and urged those still on the outside to come in in order to give all the numerical strength possible to the organization.

An early morning luncheon given in honor of Mr. Randolph afforded an opportunity to members to extend him congratulations for the splendid work he has accomplished in connection with the organization and made a fitting climax to the inspiring and profitable occasion.

Louisiana Weekly

SLEEPING CAR PORTERS' HEAD HERE JUNE 13

When the local branch N. A. A. C. P. presents A. Phillip Randolph at First African Baptist Church on the evening of June 13, they will also present a silver loving cup to the campaign team reporting on time for several consecutive meetings. Mr. Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and Maids, will arrive in the city Friday, June 10, and will remain through June 17 in the interest of the organization which he helped to establish and carried to fame when he won a bitterly contested wage-hour agreement for the Pullman Company porters last year.

Rev. R. W. Coleman, pastor, will preside during the musical and literary program arranged in connection with an address by Mr. Randolph.

According to Dr. A. W. Brazier, president of the sponsoring branch, the membership drive is making steady if not spectacular progress. He urges that all New Orleanians pay the $1.00 yearly membership fee, citing the good to be obtained through the power of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

LAUDS RANDOLPH AS LABOR LEADER

president of the Brotherhood, and Ashley L. Totten, secretary-treasurer, and Wm. H. Desverney, veteran porter, all three of whom have been with the organization from the day it was founded, August 25, 1925.

In other parts of the country—from Jacksonville to Minnesota—where any number of Pullman porters make headquarters, similar observances are being held this week with a special program in Chicago Sunday at the World's Fair. $75.28 was collected at the meeting here.

Mayor LaGuardia told how he used to attend the meetings of the Brotherhood, and how he has always been interested in its program. "When the history of the American Labor movement is written," said he, "A. Philip Randolph will have a page as one of the foremost progressive labor leaders in America." Speaking to the 300 uniformed porters who sat in a body, the mayor said: "You have a great deal to be proud of—the progress you have made and your good fortune in having honest, reliable and courageous officers. Any man who wears that uniform and belongs to the Brotherhood reflects manhood and the courage to fight for one's own rights." Mayor LaGuardia asked the members of the Brotherhood to go out and bring in the timid souls so that the organization may represent the porters 100 per cent.

Mr. Randolph promised that within 30 days the Brotherhood shall have enrolled 80 per cent of all the porters in the country and will then start action for a conference with the Pullman Company regarding better wages for porters and maids, improved working conditions and reasonable hours. He recalled the struggle of the Borthehood since its organization, the several times it petitioned mediation boards the occasions on which it went to court, and then its final fight under the New Deal to get the Pullman porters and maids named among other railroad workers in the legislation of the amendment of the Railway Labor Act of 1926, taking the last pegs from under the legality of company unions. "The reason why we are here is because we have spirit, because we have courage, because we are militant, and because all the millions of dollars of the Pullman Company and Wall street have not been able to buy the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters," Mr. Randolph said.

Other speakers included Mr. Totten, national secretary-treasurer, who presided; the Rev. Jas. E. Mason, financial secretary of Livingstone College; Joseph D. McGoldrick, white, comptroller of New York; J. Dalmus Steele, "mayor" of Harlem, and prominent Elk; Wm. H. Davis, editor of the Amsterdam News; Rev. Wm. M. Byrd of Jersey City; Frank R. Crosswaithe, Socialist leader; Rev. A. C. Garner, pastor of Grace Congregational Church, and Mr. Desverney.

"But for the vision of Randolph and his untiring efforts the Pullman porters could not have gotten into the American Federation of Labor, or have won full recognition under the NRA," Steele stated on behalf of the fraternal organizations.

Rev. Byrd called the labor fight of the Brotherhood, "the most worthwhile struggle on the part of Negroes since the time of Frederick Douglass," and he called Mr. Randolph "one who forgot his education, his home and his accustomed environment when his soul was merged in making men of the Pullman Porters."

The Henry Lincoln Johnson band, directed by Hulbert Finlay, furnished the music.

CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE
NOVEMBER 23, 1936

REBEL UNIONS TO ORGANIZE IF OUSTER STANDS

Chicago Daily Tribune 11/23/36

Biggest Fight Is Faced by A. F. of L. Today.

[Continued from first page.]

bodies are in many cases controled by members of the ousted unions. The federal unions frequently are the result of organization attempts in mass production industries, and thus are sympathetic with Lewis' ideas.

It has been estimated that the craft union forces can line up from 80 to 90 per cent of the convention vote, depending upon the severity of the program they propose for dealing with the Lewis forces. Expulsion requires a two thirds vote.

The Lewis forces know this as well as any one else, but are not disheartened. With the convention as a sounding board, they are ready to tell their story to the world, beginning with an attack on the legality of the executive council's suspension order which barred the "rebel" unions from the convention and alone made their expulsion feasible.

Porter Is Orator.

Perhaps the greatest orator in the convention is A. Philip Randolph, the college trained colored delegate, who is head of the Sleeping Car Porters union. He is a Lewis sympathizer and is expected to take the floor in support of a resolution he has introduced, calling for the lifting of suspension on the C. I. O. unions.

The Lewis opponents are all hard bitten old timers in the labor movement. They are not the type to be swayed by oratory, even their own. They regard Lewis as a rule or ruin type, and have no illusions as to their fate if he should succeed in his organization drive and, with the voting power of the unskilled and semi-skilled workers in his production industries, wrest control of the A. F. of L. from the craft unions.

The bitter-enders of the group are John P. Frey, head of the Metal Trades department of the federation, who introduced the resolution to expel the insurgents, and William L. Hutcheson, head of the carpenters, who last year had a fist fight with Lewis on the convention floor.

Wharton Is Leader.

Their most able speaker is A. O. Wharton of Chicago, president of the Machinists union. No flowery orator, he possesses to a remarkable degree the ability to put a forceful argument in plain language.

In the end it is highly probable that victory will go to neither group of extremists, but to a middle-of-the road group which is supporting suspension of the C. I. O. unions but still hopes to effect peace. Despite his bitter denunciations of Lewis, Green has placed himself in this group by his statement opposing expulsion by the convention. He would have the convention give such power to the executive council, to be used only if peace negotiations fail. Another peacemaker is George M. Harrison, president of the Railway Clerks union. He is chairman of the committee named to negotiate with C. I. O. leaders, who have refused to talk.

Other Issues Forgotten.

In the turmoil over the C. I. O. issue, attention has been diverted from other issues before the convention which probably will be of vital importance long after the Lewis rebellion is of interest principally to labor historians.

Labor is bitterly resentful of the Supreme court's invalidation of New Deal measures which had A. F. of L. backing, particularly in the NRA, Guffey coal act, and New York minimum wage cases. Proposals to widen the powers of the federal government in social and economic fields, through constitutional amendment and possibly to restrict the power of the Supreme court, may receive official A. F. of L. backing during the coming week.

Another issue is that of abandoning the A. F. of L.'s historic policy of rewarding political candidates favorable to it, but keeping clear of formal alliances with political parties. There are a number of resolutions advocating organization of a labor party.

Approve Security Act.

There is apparently little chance that the federation will recommend that the whole burden of social security taxes for old age benefits [pensions] be placed on employers. The attitude of its executive council is one of the enthusiastic approval of the principles of the social security act, but of watchful waiting on some of the administrative provisions.

The council, for instance, joins some of the most conservative economists in the country in doubting the wisdom of the pension reserve fund, which is expected to reach 46 billions by 1980, and suggests that year to year financing of pensions might be better. It is probable that the federation will ask that the social security act be extended to provide a system of sickness insurance, which organized medicine, led by the American Medical association, succeeded in keeping out of the original bill.

NOVEMBER 27, 1936

A. F. L. COMMITTEE CHARGES PEONAGE IN TAMPA REGION

Delegates Resent Meeting in State Where They Say Slavery Is Prevalent

NEGRO LEADERS INSULTED AND BARRED BY HOTELS

By EDWARD LEVINSON
Staff Correspondent New York Post

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 27.—Undercover resentment against Tampa and Florida labor conditions flared today among delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Labor. Demands were made that no more Federation conventions be held in cities which do not meet high labor standards.

The criticism reached its height with submission to the delegates of charges of the existence of peonage and slavery in the town of McClenny, fifty miles away. An entire Negro population is being kept in servitude, A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, charged.

The accusation capped a series of recent incidents, all of them taking place against the background of the killing of Joseph Shoemaker, unemployed leader, by Klansmen and local police a year ago.

Not Brought to Trial

The delegates arrived to find that the alleged murderers have not been brought to trial. Five men convicted of flogging two of Shoemaker's associates are out on small bail. Last week thirteen striking seamen were virtually invited into a fight by the police, and then arrested, convicted and jailed.

On Wednesday 600 underpaid girls working in a cannery plant went on strike. Louis Boisclaire, their organizer, was arrested, beaten, given a suspended fine of $50 and told to leave the city. Later P. M. Austin, president of the union, was arrested. President William Green of the Federation declared the incident "reprehensible," and today appointed a committee of three to investigate Austin's arrest.

Even while Green was speaking, police at the municipal auditorium, where the convention is in session, took into custody three women who were handing out leaflets dealing with the state of civil liberties in this State and elsewhere. They were deleased without any charges being filed against them.

Negro Delegates Insulted

Meanwhile, delegates had been told of "studied insults" accorded Negro delegates. Randolph, a Harvard graduate, was told he could not enter a principal hotel to register as a delegate with the official convention clerks.

Delegates are blaming the executive council for having brought the convention here. Convict laborers, guarded by armed overseers, are seen daily at work in the city streets. Prostitution and gambling flourish openly and, it is charged, with police approval. Police Chief Woodruff praises the operation of 600 slot machines as giving the city a "mighty fine revenoo."

The slavery and peonage charges are considered the most serious of the chain of incidents.

Randolph today had placed in the record of the convention a report made by Frank McCallister, a white investigator of reliable character, Dr. C. F. Duncan, president of the Jacksonville Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and a Jacksonville journalist.

Children in Bare Feet

The three told of going to the Negro quarter at McClenny. They talked to a school teachers who told them of fifty-two children in a single room, most of them in bare feet. In the cold months they are forced to stay at home.

The "homes" are a collection of shacks owned by Will Knabb, turpentine operator, who exercises "constant fear over his employees."

"We talked with several turpentine workers who talked only after much persuasion," the report says. "They stated categorically that all the Negro people in the community live in virtual slavery. None is allowed to leave the place.

"The owner has two stool pigeons, who keep him informed of everything that goes on. These informers even slip under the shacks at night and listen in on conversations—which might indicate that some one was harboring thoughts of escape.

"One of these informers is named Cobb and after almost two hours in the quarters, Cobb detected our party and immediately ran to the clerk of the commissary to tell him that some one was prying around."

The investigators found that the turpentine workers "are forced to toil from daylight until they can no longer see at night." They receive from 50 cents to a dollar a day, a few as high as $1.25 daily. They are forced to purchase at the commissary owned by Knabb, where prices are double regular prices.

Bacon selling in Tampa for 15 cents a pound costs 25 cents in Knabb's store. Six pounds of flour cost 40 cents in the store, and 24 cents in Tampa.

"When the wages of the turpentine workers are translated into purchasing power," the report continues, "many of them are working for 25 cents a day. One man spent $2 outside the commissary a little while back, and he was told that his pay of $10 would be held up until he purchased all his goods at the commissary.

"Any desire on the part of the inmates to escape is effectively thwarted by the realization of possible consequences. Men may suffer beatings, their lives may be threatened if they attempt to leave. By a system of camps which surround the community, they are ready to head off any fleeing slave.

"As soon as we had secured this information, which we considered adequate, we decided it would be safer to leave. The informer had notified the commissary of our presence and we could see a small cluster of white men gathering. Wisdom seemed to dictate departure."

RANDOLPH TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Feb 24, 1936

A. Philip Randolph, National President, of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and nationally known lecturer on economics, will speak at a public mass meeting which will be held at the West End Hall, on Sunday May 10th, at 2:30 p. m. He will relate the recent accomplishments of the Pullman Porters in their struggle for economic security and explain what their struggle means to the race in general.

The Chairman of the National Executive Board of the Brotherhood, Milton P. Webster of Chicago, who has had more experience in the labor movement than any other Negro in America, will discuss specific phases of the porter's fight.

Martin Dillmon, Editor of the "St. Louis Union Labor Advocate" and outstanding local labor leader, will present the situation and suggested remedy as seen by white unionists.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, organized in August, 1925, has succeeded in causing the Railway Labor Act of 1926 to be amended giving protection to all railroad workers, has improved working conditions of Pullman Porters and is now in the process of negotiating an improved contract for the porters with the aid of the National Railroad Mediation Board.

How the porters have overcome their problems and how other workers can be benefitted by the porters' experience will be revealed in Sunday's mass meeting. If the Negro worker (and ninety-eight per cent of us are workers) wants to improve his knowledge of how best to obtain economic security, his presence at this mass meeting is indispensible.

Arrangements for this meeting are being made by the St. Louis Division of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car porters under the leadership of E. J. Bradley, Zone Supervisor. T. D. McNeal, Secretary-Treasurer of the St. Louis Division, will act as Master of Ceremonies.

PULLMAN, INC., NET 56C FOR QUARTER

Profit Compares with Nine Cents in Prior Year

Pullman, Inc., reports for quarter ended Sept. 30, 1934, net of $2,137,867 after federal taxes and depreciation, equivalent to 56 cents a share on capital stock. This compares with net of $228,680, or six cents a share in preceding quarter and $353,491, or nine cents a share in September quarter of previous year.

For nine months ended Sept. 30, last, net was $2,461,981 after taxes and charges, equal to 64 cents a share, against loss of $2,269,121 in first nine months of 1933.

Current assets as of Sept. 30, 1934, including $32,213,170 cash and United States government securities, amounted to $71,552,783 and current liabilities were $11,243,318, against cash and United States government securities of $36,440,967, current assets of $73,104,031 and current liabilities of $10,274,679 on Sept. 30, 193[illegible]

EDITORIAL
OCTOBER ISSUE
1937

INTERRACIAL REVIEW
[illegible] West 42nd Street
New York

THE TRIUMPH OF THE PULLMAN PORTERS

A [illegible] in the history of organized labor was [illegible] when the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters signed an agreement with the Pullman Company. For [illegible] years the Negro porters and maids have planned, sacrificed and fought to win decent working conditions and a just wage. Now that victory has been won. Won, not by picketing, sabotaging, sit-downs, violence and strikes, but through a peaceful, intelligent negotiating and reliance upon legal, ethical rights.

While the country has stood aghast at the frightful tactics of both capital and labor that have characterized our industrial struggles, the officials of the Brotherhood quietly won an astounding beneficial agreement for their members.

Only twelve short years ago, a small group of men, disgruntled at the meagre wages paid to them and the almost unbearably long hours that they had to work, together with other hardships, organized a union that became the first Negro union to secure international affiliation with the A. F. of L.

Since that eventful day of 1925, the history of the Union reads like Washington's military campaign. Defeats and set-backs were so frequent that it seemed that the members must give up the fight. They had their Valley Forge when they lost decisions before the I.C.C. and a Federal Court. Now they have their Yorktown! The salary increase will amount to over $1,250,000 a year; hours are not only considerably shortened but a porter's working time can now be easily computed by every worker, and the working conditions are wholesomely improved.

We are not surprised at this notable victory. We have known the officials and members of the Brotherhood. We have known that their ideals of living, their conception of proper working conditions, and their views of the means they should employ to win their rights have been in full accord with the principles of the [illegible] ideals. Since Justice and Charity must triumph [illegible] victory of the Brotherhood was logical. We congratulate the Porters and set them forth as an example to other unions of moral integrity, perseverance, and intelligence.

FREMONT TRIBUNE OCTOBER 2, 1937

FREMONT, NEBRASKA

Fremont Woman Interviews Pullman Porter on Trip West

(Editor's Note: This is the first of two feature stories written by Mrs. Lily Ruegg-Button of Fremont, following a trip to Milwaukie, Ore., suburb of Portland, where she now is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Millie Eisert.)

When you see the porters in their trim white coats and caps standing at the steps of their special Pullman cars, do you ever wonder about them—what their duties are, when then sleep, where they live and whether they're adequately paid?

On the Portland Rose, September 13 to 15, going to Portland, there was in my car one of the nicest porters I have ever had on my various trips. His name is Fred L. Daniels and his home is in Chicago. He is pleasant, extremely intelligent and attentive. It is a three-day trip from Chicago to Portland, where he lays over and rests for two days, comes back to Chicago, has a five-day lay-off there and starts all over again. As a porter always seems busy, I inquired when he slept, if ever, and he replied "from 4 to 6 a. m."

Mr. Daniels has been a porter 31 years, starting in 1906 on the New York Central, transferring in succession to the Northern Pacific, Chicago and North Western and Union Pacific in 1908. He has had a number of prominent people on his train and in his car: Theodore Roosevelt in 1914; William Howard Taft, John McCormack, Lillian Russell, Mrs. Pullman and daughters, Frank O. Lowden and various others of like importance.

His salary started at $25 per month and was raised to $37.50, $47.50, $60, $88, and the law just passed gives him $12 a month increase. His job requires 240 hours of work per month.

He permitted me to look into the linen closet; on his three-day trip, he takes 200 sheets, 400 towels, 160 pillow slips and 10 white coats as he is very particular about his appearance.

When I asked Mr. Daniels how much training he had at first, he said just three days with an experienced porter before he went out alone. At first he was pretty nervous because he was unable to answer the passengers' questions as to stations, etc.

Mr. Daniels eats breakfast about 10 a. m., dinner about 4 p. m., and a lunch about 11 p. m. Incidentally, porters pay for their food in the diner.

Such is the life of a porter on a Pullman car.

But..

By BOAKE CARTER

(As the author of the column which appears daily in this space, BOAKE CARTER is given the widest latitude. His viewpoints do not necessarily reflect those of the Daily Mirror.)

SOME bright personnel official on the New York, New Haven and Hartford has decided that no one can be comfortable or digest his meal in the future without being fussed over by a bevy of mincing females, logged under the title of "dining-car hostesses."

The "requirements of the job are: Height, 5 feet 7 inches to 5 feet 10 inches; age, 24 to 35; weight, 115 to 135 pounds. Candidates must be unmarried. College graduates preferred. They must pass a personality test, must learn correct diction, how to greet incoming diners, how to make menu suggestions, how to keep tabs on cooks and waiters."

I think 99 per cent of the traveling population can still take care of itself. I object to being forced to put forth the effort to be polite, grin and chatter inanities with a blonde who rattles off diction - school "cawn'ts" at a time when I don't want to talk. And yet, if I don't grin and answer enthusiastically "Rawther!" and and intone "By Jove, isn't it hot, eh, what!" I'm marked down as rude, a boor and a grouch and get no attention.

Boake Carter.

I'm quite well able to ring for the porter or the waiter if I want him. I'm quite well able to read the menu myself and decide what I want to eat, without being told that I've got to eat something else. And I dare say 99 per cent of the rest of the railroad travelers of America are just as capable and probably more so.

Women are always personal in their relationships, be they either with men or women. And hostesses are women. In addition they go out of their way to be superpolite to the gents. To put forth the effort to return the play is bad enough in a night club. If we now have to begin to play up to the gals when we get on a railroad train, some of the dear things are likely to be bounced with a verbal flea in their pretty ears.

Give me every time the quiet and rapid efficiency of the average dining-car waiter, than the gushing "How are you today? We have some nice pork chops and asparagus waiting for you on our menu!" accompanied by a cute little smirk and a whiff of fancy perfume.

The sex-minded personnel vice-presidents of the railroads, who want to knock the bottom out of this great pleasant and traditional characteristic of American trains to substitute a superpersonal, superficial, artificial, unwanted, irksome, annoying, simpering, supergracious, overdone attention, will drive me into the baggage car yet.

The railroads that are planning to dress their dining cars with night club atmosphere are said to be jealous of the popularity of hostesses on the air lines.

They forget that air lines must consider the weight and height of employes aboard, and that's one reason why they pick women. Also airline hostesses are primarily nurses, whose services are required often to treat airsick passengers, and they aren't put on the trans-

BROTHERHOOD

CONVENTION

SONG BOOK

HOLD THE FORT

We meet today in Freedom's cause
And raise our banners high,
We'll join our hands in Union strong
To battle or to die.

Chorus

Hold the Fort, for we are coming,
Union men be strong,
Side by side, we'll battle onward,
Victory will come.

See our numbers still increasing,
Hear the bugle blow;
By our Union we shall triumph
Over every foe.

(Chorus)

Fierce and long the battle rages,
But we will not fear;
Help will come whenever needed,
Cheer my comrades, cheer.

(Chorus)

JOHN BROWN'S BODY

John Brown's body lies a-mouldering
in the grave,
John Brown's body lies a-mouldering
in the grave,
John Brown's body lies a-mouldering
in the grave,
But his soul goes marching on.

Chorus
Glory, glory, hallelujah
Glory, glory, hallelujah
Glory, glory, hallelujah
His soul goes marching on.

John Brown's knapsack is strapped
on his back,
John Brown's knapsack is strapped
on his back,
John Brown's knapsack is strapped
on his back,
But his soul goes marching on.

(Chorus)

He's going to be a soldier in the army of the Lord,
He's going to be a soldier in the
army of the Lord,
He's going to be a soldier in the
army of the Lord,
But his soul goes ma rching on.

(Chorus)

WE SHALL NOT BE MOVED

The Brotherhood is behind us,
We shall not be moved;
The Brotherhood is behind us,
We shall not be moved.

Chorus

We shall not be, we shall not be moved,
We shall not be, we shall not be moved,
Just like a tree planted by the waters,
We shall not be moved.

We are lead by our Union
We shall not be moved;
We are lead by our Union
We shall not be moved.

Chorus

We shall not be, we shall not be moved,
We shall not be, we shall not be moved,
Just like a tree planted by the waters,
We shall not be moved.

NEGRO NATIONAL ANTHEM

Lift ev'ry voice and sing, Till earth and heav'n ring,
Ring with the harmonies of Liberty;
Let our rejoicing rise
High as the list'ning skies,
Let it resound, loud as the rolling sea.
Sing a song, full of the faith that the dark past has taught us,
Sing a song full of the hope that the present has brought us;
Facing the rising sun of our new day begun,
Let us march on till victory is won.

Stony the road we tread, Bitter the chast'ning rod,
Felt in the days when hope unborn had died;
Yet with a steady beat
Have not our weary feet
Come to the place for which our Fathers sighed.
We have come over a way that with tears have been watered,
We have come treading our path thro' the blood of the slaughtered,
Out from the gloomy past,
Till now we stand at last,
Where the White gleam of our bright star is cast.

God of our weary years, God of our silent tears,
Thou who hast brought us thus far on the way;
Thou who hast by Thy might,
Led us into the light,
Keep us forever in the path we pray.
Lest our feet stray from the places our God, where we met Thee,
Lest our hearts, drunk with the wine of the world, we forget Thee,
Shadowed beneath Thy hand,
May we forever stand
True, to our God, True to our Native Land.

GOD BLESS AMERICA

While the storm clouds gather
Far across the sea,
Let us swear allegiance
To a land that's free;
Let us all be grateful
For a land so fair,
As we raise our voices
In a solemn prayer.

Chorus

God Bless America
Land that I love
Stand beside her and guide her
Thru the night with a light from above;
From the mountains, to the prairies,
To the oceans white with foam,
God bless America
My home sweet home.

(Repeat
Chorus)

BEFORE I'LL BE A SLAVE

Bleeding Zion, Bleeding Zion, Bleeding Zion
Bleed no more, Bleed no more
Before I'll be a slave, I'll be buried in my grave
And go home to my Father and be saved.

Doubting Thomas, Doubting Thomas, Doubting Thomas
Doubt no more, Doubt no more
Before I'll be a slave, I'll be buried in my grave
And go home to my Father and be saved.

Poor Back-Slider, Poor Back-Slider, Poor Back-Slider
Come and Go, Come and Go
Before I'll be a slave, I'll be buried in my grave
And go home to my Father and be saved.

Weeping Mary, Weeping Mary, Weeping Mary,
Weep no more, Weep no more,
Before I'll be a slave, I'll be buried in my grave
And go home to my Father and be saved.

Lord revive us, Lord revive us, Lord revive us,
All again, All again
Before I'll be a slave, I'll be buried in my grave
And go home to my Father and be saved.

* * *
* *
*

THE RATIONAL PRAYER

Not more of Light we ask, O God,
But eyes to see what is;
Not sweeter songs, but ears to hear
The present melodies;
Not greater strength, but how to use
The power that we possess;
Not more of love, but skill to turn
A frown to a caress;
Not more of joy, but how to feel
Its kindling presence near,
To give to others all we have
Of courage and of cheer.
No other gift, dear God, we ask,
But only sense to see
How best the precious gifts to use
We have received from Thee.
Give us all fear to dominate,
All holy joys to know,
To be the friends we wish to be,
To speak the truth we know;
To love the pure, to seek the good,
To lift with all our might,
All souls to dwell in harmony
In Freedom's perfect light.

AGREEMENT

Between

THE PULLMAN COMPANY

and

PORTERS, ATTENDANTS AND MAIDS IN THE SERVICE OF THE PULLMAN COMPANY

IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA AND CANADA

Represented by the

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

EFFECTIVE OCTOBER 1, 1937

AGREEMENT

Between

THE PULLMAN COMPANY

and

PORTERS, ATTENDANTS AND MAIDS IN THE SERVICE OF THE PULLMAN COMPANY

IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA AND CANADA

Represented by the

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

EFFECTIVE OCTOBER 1, 1937

TABLE OF CONTENTS

PREAMBLE

SCOPE

Rule 1. Scope.

RATES OF PAY

Rule 2. Rates of Pay.

(a) Monthly Rates for Porter and Attendant Service.

(b) Monthly Rates for Maid Service.

(c) Rates of Pay for "In-Charge" Service.

(d) Rates of Pay for Training Student Porters.

(e) Daily and Hourly Rates of Pay.

(f) Applying Progressive Rates of Pay.

(g) Overtime Rates of Pay.

BASIC MONTH

Rule 3. Basic Month.

Rule 4. Rest Periods.

BASIS OF CREDITING DAYS AND HOURS

Rule 5. Crediting Days in Road Service.

Rule 6. Crediting Hours in Road Service.

Rule 7. Deadhead Service.

Rule 8. Station Duty.

Rule 9. Witness Service.

Rule 10. Held for Service.

Rule 11. Called and Not Used.

Rule 12. Release of Less than One Hour at Terminals.

TABLE OF CONTENTS (Continued)

BASIS OF PAYMENTS

Rule 13. Payment for Days Credited.
Rule 14. Payment for Hours Credited.
Rule 15. Payment for Overtime Credits.
Rule 16. Additional Pay When Used on Layover or Relief Days.
Rule 17. Avoidance of Duplicate Payments.
Rule 18. "In-Charge" Service.
Rule 19. Instruction Period.
Rule 20. Cleaning Interior of Cars.
Rule 21. Pay Periods.

LAYOVERS AND RELIEFS

Rule 22. Layovers in Regular Assignments.
Rule 23. Layovers Applicable to Incompleted Regular and to Irregular Service.
Rule 24. Days Off Duty.
Rule 25. Periodic Relief in Overnight Runs.
Rule 26. Pro-rating Relief.

SENIORITY RIGHTS AND ROSTERS

Rule 27. Basic Seniority Date.
Rule 28. Seniority Rosters.
Rule 29. Districts Consolidated.
Rule 30. Districts Divided.
Rule 31. Districts Discontinued.
Rule 32. Permanent Transfer to Another District.
Rule 33. Runs Transferred to Another District.
Rule 34. New Service Acquired by Company.

TABLE OF CONTENTS (Continued)

Rule 35. Temporary Transfers.
Rule 36. Employes Promoted to Supervisory Positions.
Rule 37. Employes Serving in Organization Positions.
Rule 38. Continuity of Seniority.

ASSIGNMENTS OF RUNS

Rule 39. Operating Schedules.
Rule 40. Assignment of Runs to Districts.
Rule 41. Bulletining of Runs.
Rule 42. Re-bulletining Changed Runs.
Rule 43. Temporary Discontinuance of an Assignment.
Rule 44. Rights of Displaced Employes.
Rule 45. Seniority, Fitness and Ability.

EXTRA EMPLOYES

Rule 46. Operation of Extra Employes.
Rule 47. Regulating Number of Extra Employes.

REDUCING AND INCREASING FORCES

Rule 48. Reducing and Increasing Forces.

GRIEVANCES

Rule 49. Discipline and Hearings.
Rule 50. Hearings.
Rule 51. Witnesses, Testimony and Records.
Rule 52. Date of Suspension.
Rule 53. Appeals.
Rule 54. Remanding Grievances.

TABLE OF CONTENTS (Continued)

Rule 55. Application and Decision in Writing.
Rule 56. Record Cleared of Charges.

CLAIMS

Rule 57. Application and Interpretation of Agreement.

REPRESENTATION

Rule 58. Representation.

MISCELLANEOUS RULES

Rule 59. Time and Place for Reporting.
Rule 60. Failure to Report.
Rule 61. Absence Without Permission.
Rule 62. Notification of Disallowed Time.
Rule 63. Leaves of Absence.
Rule 64. Committeemen.
Rule 65. Period of Probationary Employment.
Rule 66. No Shut Down nor Suspension of Work.
Rule 67. Duration of Agreement.

PREAMBLE

AGREEMENT

Between The Pullman Company and the Porters, Attendants and Maids in its service in the United States of America and in Canada represented by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

It is hereby agreed between The Pullman Company and the Porters, Attendants and Maids in its service represented by the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters that the following rules shall govern the rates of pay and working conditions of all employes of The Pullman Company in their performance of service as porters, attendants and maids, and their rights as such.

SCOPE

RULE 1. Scope. This agreement shall apply to all employes of The Pullman Company classified as

(a) Porters (including porters-in-charge when so designated);

(b) Attendants (employes assigned to buffet, club, broiler, restaurant and recreation cars who in addition to other duties are held accountable for commissary supplies and equipment on such cars); and

(c) Maids;

in their performance of service in connection with Pullman sleeping, parlor, buffet, and club cars, and in composite cars which are equipped to provide two or more of such services.

RATES OF PAY

RULE 2. Rates of Pay. The following rates of pay shall be applicable to all employes covered by this agreement:

(a) Monthly rates for porter and attendant service—

Class of Service	Minimum	2 to 5 Years	5 to 15 Years	Over 15 Years
Standard Cars...	$ 89.50	$ 93.00	$ 97.00	$100.50
Private and Tourist Cars....	96.00	99.50	103.50	107.00
Buffet, Club and "Composite" Cars	102.00	105.50	110.00	114.00
Swing.....	98.00	102.50	106.00	110.00

(b) Monthly rates for maid service—

All Cars.....	$ 87.00	$ 90.50	$ 94.00	$ 97.50

(c) Rates of pay for "in-charge" service—

An employe assigned to "in-charge" service consisting of one (1) car shall be paid at the rate of thirteen dollars fifty cents ($13.50) per month in addition to his established rate of pay, except that the differential for "in-charge" service on private cars shall be at the rate of twenty dollars ($20.00) per month.

An employe assigned to run "in-charge" of two (2) or more cars shall be paid the conductor's minimum rate for time actually in such service.

(d) Rates of pay for training student porters—

An employe assigned to train student porters in road service shall be paid at the rate of twenty dollars ($20.00) per month in addition to his established rate of pay.

(e) Daily and hourly rates of pay—

The daily rate of pay of an employe shall be determined by dividing his monthly rate by the number of days there are in the current month; his hourly rate, by dividing his monthly rate by two hundred forty (240).

(f) Applying progressive rates of pay—

When a leave of absence is granted for a period of more than thirty (30) days, the time in excess of thirty (30) days shall be deducted in the application of progressive rates of pay. Likewise, when an employe is furloughed for a period of more than ninety (90) days, the time in excess of ninety (90) days shall be deducted. Separate periods of leave or furlough shall not be cumulative when service intervenes. An extension of a leave shall be considered as a continuous period.

(g) Overtime rates of pay—

Time credited in excess of two hundred forty (240) hours, within a calendar month, shall be paid for as overtime at pro-rata hourly rates up to and including two hundred sixty (260) hours; time in excess of two hundred sixty (260) hours shall be paid for at the rate of time and one-half.

BASIC MONTH

RULE 3. Basic Month. Two hundred forty (240) hours' work, credited to a calendar month as hereinafter provided, shall constitute a basic month's service.

Where a regular assignment is less than two hundred forty (240) hours' work per month, deduction shall not be made from the respective established monthly wage in consequence thereof.

RULE 4. Rest Periods. (a) Where the requirements of the service will permit employes shall be released from duty for rest within the limits provided in paragraph (b) of this rule. Rest periods shall include sleep periods which shall be between the hours of 9:30 p.m. and 6:30 a.m., and shall also include such additional time for rest as may, under the rule, be designated or permitted. The sleep periods shall be three (3) hours on overnight runs of twelve (12) hours or less and four (4) hours each night on runs of over twelve (12) hours. The period of sleep shall be designated as information in the schedules of assignments. During each sleep period the employe shall be provided with a suitable place for sleeping, such as the couch in the men's room, an upper berth or a berth in a dormitory car. The sleep periods specified above and total rest periods tabulated in paragraph (b) of this rule are subject to the exceptions listed in paragraph (c) hereof.

(b) Deductions of time released for rest periods not to exceed the number of hours shown in the following tabulation shall be made from the elapsed time of a trip.

Elasped time in service	Deductible Hours For Rest Periods
12 hours or less	3
Over 12 hours to 16 hours	4
Over 16 hours to 24 hours	4½
Over 24 hours to 32 hours	5
Over 32 hours to 40 hours (1 night enroute)	5½
Over 32 hours to 40 hours (2 nights enroute)	9
Over 40 hours to 48 hours (1 night enroute)	6
Over 40 hours to 48 hours (2 nights enroute)	10
Over 48 hours to 60 hours (2 nights enroute)	10
Over 48 hours to 60 hours (3 nights enroute)	14
Over 60 hours to 72 hours (2 nights enroute)	10½
Over 60 hours to 72 hours (3 nights enroute)	14½
Over 72 hours	Proportionately

(c) Exceptions:

(1) No rest time shall be deducted for trips not involving overnight service.

(2) Deductions of time released for rest in an overnight trip shall not be made to an extent which will reduce credited hours to less than eight (8) for the trip.

(3) It is understood the requirements of the service may not always permit granting sleep periods to the extent provided in this rule, and where sleep is not given on any night to the amount provided in paragraph (a) of this rule, the deductible hours listed in the tabulation in paragraph (b) for the trip involved shall be reduced by the difference between the sleep period provided in paragraph (a) and the time actually released for sleep.

No deduction shall apply to any release for sleep of less than two (2) consecutive hours.

(4) Extended Special Tours. A maximum of eight (8) hours may be deducted for each 24-hour period of extended special tour service, and proportionate time for less than a 24-hour period, provided the employe is released for rest, which may be granted in one or two night or day periods. Deduction shall be made for the time released up to the maxima established.

Q-1. What is an extended special tour?

A-1. A special service movement of 72 hours or more, elapsed time, from time required to go on duty at point cars are placed in service to the time cars are released from the special service movement.

BASIS OF CREDITING DAYS AND HOURS

RULE 5. Crediting Days in Road Service. In regular assignments, employes working full time shall be credited for each round trip the number of days there are employes in the assignment, as covered by operating schedule.

Q-1. How shall the minimum number of employes to be placed in a regular assignment be determined?

A-1. By dividing the number of hours constituting a round trip by 8. Decimal fractions of .50 or more shall be regarded as one-half.

When the days credited for the last trip in a month extend into the succeeding month, they shall be pro-rated by allowing one day's credit for each calendar day remaining in the month (including day of departure if reporting time on such day is before noon) in which the trip was started and crediting the balance of the days to the succeeding month.

Example: A porter in a Chicago-Los Angeles assignment requiring 12 men and carrying hourage credit of 95 hours (49′ 30″ westbound and 45′ 30″ eastbound) in making a "lap-over" trip on the following schedule—

Report	Chicago	8:00 p.m. June 27
Released	Los Angeles	7:30 a.m. June 30
Report	Los Angeles	8:00 p.m. July 1
Released	Chicago	7:30 a.m. July 4

should be credited with 3 days in June and 9 days in July.

An employe (regular or extra) working part time in regular assignment, or on extra-in-line cars operated on the same train, or section thereof, between the same terminals as the regular line car, shall be credited for a round trip the number of days there are employes in the regular assignment, as covered by operating schedule; a complete one-way trip in such service shall carry a credit of one-half of the round trip assignment.

Q-1. How shall an employe making less than a complete one-way trip in a regular assignment be credited?

A-1. On the hourly basis, under the rule for crediting hours in road service.

Time in excess of an average of eight (8) hours a day for the actual days credited in a part-time regular assignment shall be credited on the hourly basis, but such excess may be absorbed during the same month by the undertime hours in a similar assignment.

Example: During the month a porter makes one round trip in each of two regular assignments. One exceeds an average of 8 hours a day for the days credited and the other is an undertime run. The first trip has a credit of 4 days on the day-service basis and an alternative credit of 35 hours; the second trip has a credit of 5 days on the day-service basis and an alternative credit of 38 hours.

A porter making these two trips accumulates 9 days' credit on the day-service basis and an alternative credit of 73 hours. This employe should be credited on the day-service basis for 9 days and would have a balance of 1 hour credited on the hourly basis because 2 hours of the excess time on the first trip would be absorbed by the 2 hours undertime on the second trip.

RULE 6. Crediting Hours in Road Service. In all classes of road service, except deadheading, the time of each trip shall be credited from the time required to go on duty until released from duty, less deductions, if any. In regular assignments, time credited in excess of the normal operating schedule due to delayed arrival of trains, up to two hundred forty (240) hours within a calendar month, shall constitute a part of the regular assignment.

In regular assignments, where the days credited for the last trip in the month extend into the succeeding month, the service hours in the trip shall be pro-rated by allowing eight (8) hours' credit for each day credited in the month in which the trip was started and crediting the balance of the hours to the succeeding month.

Example: A porter in a Chicago-Los Angeles assignment requiring 12 men and carrying hourage credit of 95 hours (49′ 30″ westbound and 45′ 30″ eastbound) in making a "lap-over" trip on the following schedule—

Report	Chicago	8:00 p.m. June 27
Released	Los Angeles	7:30 a.m. June 30
Report	Los Angeles	8:00 p.m. July 1
Released	Chicago	7:30 a.m. July 4

should be credited, under the rule for crediting days in road service, with 3 days in June and 9 days in July; and on the basis of the above rule should receive alternative credit of 24 hours in June and the balance of 71 hours in July.

RULE 7. Deadhead Service. Employes deadheading, either on passes or cars, on Company business (except in connection with witness service) shall receive credit of twelve (12) hours for each 24-hour period, and actual time up to twelve (12) hours for less than a 24-hour period, time to be computed from time required to go on duty until arrival at destination, with a minimum credit of eight (8) hours where overnight trips are involved.

Q-1. Shall two or more succeeding trips deadheading on passes or equipment be coupled together and treated as a continuous trip?

A-1. Yes, provided no "held for service" time intervenes.

Example:

Leave Miami	10:30 p.m.	1st day
Arrive Jacksonville	6:30 a.m.	2nd day
Leave Jacksonville	11:30 a.m.	2nd day
Arrive Washington	8:30 a.m.	3rd day

The elapsed time on continuous trip basis is 34 hours. As no "held for service" time intervenes at Jacksonville, an employe making these two deadhead trips should be credited with 22 hours, instead of 8 hours for the first trip and 12 hours for the second trip.

RULE 8. Station Duty. An employe called for and used on station duty shall be credited with the actual time on duty, with a minimum credit of four (4) hours if no other service follows continuously. An employe assigned to station duty shall not lose his turn on the extra board.

Q-1. What is station duty?

A-1. Station duty is any work performed by an employe at terminals where Pullman offices are located, other than that required of an employe assigned to road service, but it may include assisting such employe in preparatory work, including receiving.

Q-2. Is an employe entitled to credit for station duty at an away-from-home station?

A-2. Yes, if called upon to perform such service during layover or during time that is not credited as "held for service."

Q-3. An employe performs 2 hours station duty and then immediately goes into road service. What credit for station duty shall he receive?

A-3. 2 hours.

Q-4. Is time spent attending safety and service meetings or making statements relative to investigations to be credited as station duty, or otherwise?

A-4. No.

RULE 9. Witness Service. An employe required by the management to appear as witness in court proceedings shall receive credit of eight (8) hours for each 24-hour period and actual time up to eight (8) hours for less than a 24-hour period, while in such service, and allowed legitimate and reasonable expenses actually incurred.

RULE 10. Held for Service. An employe held at point away from his home station beyond the layover established for his immediately preceding trip, as provided in Rule 23, shall be allowed "held for service" credit of eight (8) hours for each 24-hour period from expiration of layover and actual time up to eight (8) hours for less than a 24-hour period.

Employes held for service at home station by direction of the management shall be credited with eight (8) hours for each 24-hour period and actual time up to eight (8) hours for less than a 24-hour period. Regularly assigned employes so held shall be allowed total credits (including actual service) of not less than the credits they would have earned on their regular assignment.

Q-1. Shall an employe held out of service pending an investigation be credited under this rule for time lost?

A-1. No, but see Rule 56.

RULE 11. Called and Not Used. An employe called and reporting for service, and not used, shall be credited with a minimum of three (3) hours, but shall not lose his turn on the extra board.

RULE 12. Release of Less Than One Hour Between Trips. Time between trips shall be computed as continuous in all cases where the interval from time of release until again resuming duty does not exceed one hour.

BASIS OF PAYMENTS

RULE 13. Payment for Days Credited. An employe completing a regular monthly assignment, properly credited, shall be paid his established monthly wage for such time, except where payment therefor on the hourly basis will produce a greater amount.

Q-1. Why are the words "properly credited" used in this rule?

A-1. To emphasize that the crediting of time for employes on regular assignments must take into consideration rules providing for the following conditions:

(a) The deduction of time for rest periods;

(b) The pro-rating of time when the last trip in the month extends into the following month;

(c) The inclusion of time credited in excess of the normal operating schedule due to delayed arrival of trains; and

(d) The crediting of time for trips made on layover or relief days in addition to monthly assignments.

Q-2. A porter completes a round trip in regular assignment in June carrying 12 days' credit and has 4 days' layover credit extending into July. He then lays off or leaves the service. How shall this porter be paid for this trip?

A-2. He shall be paid 8/30ths of his monthly wage for June and 4/31sts of his monthly wage for July.

An employe working part of a month in service credited on the day-service basis shall be paid his current daily rate for such time, except where payment therefor on the hourly basis will produce a greater amount.

RULE 14. Payment for Hours Credited. An employe shall be paid at his established hourly rate for all time credited on the hourly basis within the limits of the basic month, not paid for otherwise.

Q-1. How could time be "otherwise" paid for?

A-1. At the monthly or daily rate, where time credited on the day-service basis did not average more than 8 hours per day for the days paid for.

RULE 15. Payment for Overtime Credits. An employe shall be paid at his established overtime hourly rate for all hours credited within a calendar month in excess of the basic month.

Example: A porter makes one round trip in a regular assignment requiring 12 men and carrying alternative credit of 93 service hours, and in addition performs irregular service during the same calendar month carrying 170 credit hours. He should be paid for 12 days at his daily rate, for 167 hours at straight time hourly rate and for 3 hours at the rate of time and one-half. (93 hours + 170 hours = 263 hours)

RULE 16. Additional Pay When Used on Layover or Relief Days. Service performed on specified layover or relief days shall be paid for in addition to all other earnings for the month, on the basis of days credited (Rule 5) when in regular service and on the basis of hours credited (Rule 6) when in irregular service.

Q-1. A porter is doubled out in his regular assignment 24 hours prior to the expiration of his regular layover. How shall he be paid for this double?

A-1. One additional day.

RULE 17. Avoidance of Duplicate Payments. When service is paid for on day-service basis it shall not again be paid for, except that punitive time shall be paid for at the rate of time and one-half.

RULE 18. "In-Charge" Service. Employes assigned and equipped to run "in-charge" of one car shall be paid at their respective "in-charge" rates whether operating "in-charge" for the whole trip or only a portion thereof, or whether in one direction only or in both.

RULE 19. Instruction Period. An employe, when hired, shall be placed under instruction for a period not to exceed six (6) days, and shall be paid for such instruction period at his daily rate of pay.

RULE 20. Cleaning Interior of Cars. Employes required to perform interior cleaning of cars at any point, as specified in operating schedules or otherwise authorized, shall be paid at the rate of eighty (80) cents per cleaning.

RULE 21. Pay Periods. Employes shall be paid not less frequently than semi-monthly.

LAYOVERS AND RELIEFS

RULE 22. Layovers in Regular Assignments. Specific layovers at each terminal shall be designated in operating schedules for regular assignments.

RULE 23. Layovers Applicable to Incompleted Regular and to Irregular Service. A layover of two (2) hours for each hour of credited service, less time enroute not credited, if any, with a maximum layover of thirty-six (36) hours at an away-from-home station, shall apply to the following classes of service:

Regular service where round trip assignment is not completed.

Extra-in-line service.

Special service.

Extended special tour. (For the purpose only of applying Rule 46, an employe may be used after expiration of 7 days' layover at home station)

Similarly, a layover of two (2) hours for each hour of credited service, less time enroute not credited, if any, with a maximum layover of twenty-four (24) hours at an away-from-home station, shall apply to the following classes of service:

Deadheading on car.

Deadheading on pass at direction of management (except in connection with witness service).

(See following examples)

Class of Service	Reported			Released			Elapsed Time		Time Enroute Not Credited		Net Service		Actual Layover		Layover 2-for-1 Basis		Time held in Excess of 2-for-1 Layover		"Held" Time Credited
	Station	Date	Hour	Station	Date	Hour	H	M	H	M	H	M	H	M	H	M	H	M	H	M
EXAMPLE NO. 1
X Line 19	Chicago	1	10.00a	LosAng.	3	2.00p	54	00	10	00	44	00			36	00
Held	LosAng.	3	2.00p	LosAng.	6	6.30p							76	30			40	30	16	00
DH	LosAng.	6	6.30p	Chicago	9	7.50a	59	20	24	00	35	20	46	40	46	40	0	00	0	00
							113	20	34	00	79	20							16	00

Net service time credited.....79:20
Net "Held" time credited.....16:00
TOTAL time credited.....95:20

EXAMPLE NO. 2
DH on car	Chicago	11	7.00p	NewYork	13	7.30a	35	30	12	00	23	30	9	00	24	00	0	00	0	00
X Line 1620	NewYork	13	4.30p	Albany	13	9.50p	5	20	0	00	5	20			10	40
Held	Albany	~~13~~	~~9.50p~~	Albany	16	10.00a							~~60~~	~~00~~			49	30	17	30

Held	Albany	12	9.50	Albany	16	10.00a									60	45					49	30	17	30
DH on car	Albany	16	10.00a	Wh.River	17	12.30a	14	30	2	30	12	00	12	35	21	30	0	00	0	00
Special	Wh.River	17	1.05p	Detroit	18	9.00a	19	55	4	30	15	25	6	30	26	20	0	00	0	00
X Line 1112	Detroit	18	3.30p	Boston	19	10.50a	19	20	4	30	14	50			25	10
Held	Boston	19	10.50a	Boston	21	1.30p							50	40			25	30	9	30
X Line 1101	Boston	21	1.30p	Chicago	22	1.00p	24	30	5	00	19	30	34	00	34	00	0	00	0	00
							119	05	28	30	90	35							27	00

Net service time credited.....90:35
Net "Held" time credited.....27:00
TOTAL time credited.....117:35

EXAMPLE NO. 3

X Line 1570	Buffalo	21	7.05p	NewYork	22	8.30a	13	25	4	00	9	25	11	30	14	50	0	00	0	00
X Line 1527	NewYork	22	8.00p	Roch.	23	9.00a	13	00	4	00	9	00	11	00	14	00	0	00	0	00
Special	Roch.	23	8.00p	Cleve.	24	8.30a	12	30	4	00	8	30			13	00
Held	Cleve.	24	8.30a	Cleve.	25	7.00a							22	30			9	30	8	00
DH on car	Cleve.	25	7.00a	Galion	25	10.10a	3	10	0	00	3	10			6	20
Held	Galion	25	10.10a	Galion	25	7.00p							8	50			2	30	2	30
Special	Galion	25	7.00p	Roch.	26	9.00a	14	00	4	00	10	00	2	00	16	00	0	00	0	00
DH on car	Roch.	26	11.00a	Buffalo	26	12.45p	1	45	0	00	1	45	3	30	3	30	0	00	0	00
							57	50	16	00	41	50							10	30

Net service time credited.....41.50
Net "Held" time credited.....10:30
TOTAL time credited.....52:20

RULE 24. Days Off Duty. Not less than ninety-six (96) hours off duty each month in 24-consecutive-hour periods, or multiples thereof, shall be allowed at designated home terminal.

RULE 25. Periodic Relief in Overnight Runs. Employes operated exclusively in overnight runs, where the elapsed time is fourteen (14) hours or less in each direction, shall be given a 24-hour relief period (in addition to established layover) after not more than two (2) consecutive round trips. Equivalent relief shall be granted to employes in sleeping car lines operated only six (6) days per week, with the understanding that the day on which the line is not operated shall be considered a relief day.

Likewise, employes operating in one-night round trip assignments shall be given a 24-hour relief period after not more than four (4) round trips.

RULE 26. Pro-rating Relief. When an employe operating in an assignment carrying periodic-relief fails to complete the cycle, he shall be allowed pro-rata proportion of scheduled relief.

> Example: In an assignment requiring 2½ porters, where relief of 1 day is granted after 2 round trips, porter (regular or extra) making 1 round trip shall be allowed 2½ days' pay.

SENIORITY RIGHTS AND ROSTERS

RULE 27. Basic Seniority Date. Seniority begins the day the employe's pay starts in the seniority district and in the class to which assigned. Where the pay of two or more employes starts upon the same day the employing officer shall designate the order in which the names of such employes shall appear on the seniority roster.

RULE 28. Seniority Rosters. Separate seniority rosters of each class, showing name and seniority date of employes, numbered in chronological order, in the respective districts, shall be revised and posted as of January 1st each year in a place accessible to those affected.

The following rosters shall be established:

(a) Porters (including porters-in-charge)

(b) Attendants

(c) Maids

A copy of each seniority roster shall be furnished the Chairman of the Local Grievance Committee in the respective districts at the time posted.

An employe shall have sixty (60) days from date his name first appears on the roster to protest his seniority date or relative position on the roster, except, where an employe is absent on leave or because of sickness at the time the roster is posted, this time limit shall apply from the date such employe returns to duty. If no such protest is taken within the sixty (60) day period, future appeals shall not be recognized, unless the employe's seniority date or relative standing on the roster is changed from that first correctly posted.

RULE 29. Districts Consolidated. When districts are consolidated the employes affected shall be allowed full seniority on the consolidated roster. Assignments in existence shall not be bulletined as new runs at the time of consolidation.

RULE 30. Districts Divided. When a district is divided and the roster is separated, the employes involved shall have the choice on the basis of seniority, of remaining in the old district or of transferring to the new district at the time of separation. All transfers under this rule shall be made with seniority rights unimpaired.

RULE 31. Districts Discontinued. When a district is discontinued and runs are transferred, employes assigned to such runs, or an equivalent number, and a proportionate number of the extra employes, may transfer with the runs to the new point of operation, but such runs shall not be bulletined as new runs at the time of transfer. Employes so transferred shall be allowed full seniority in the district to which transferred and their names shall be added to the seniority roster of that district in accordance with their full seniority rights.

Employes not so transferred shall, upon application, be privileged to transfer elsewhere under the provisions of Rule 32.

RULE 32. Permanent Transfer to Another District. When employes permanently transfer from one district to another (except as provided in Rules 29, 30, 31, 33 and 34) or from one classification to another, their seniority in the district or class to which transferred shall begin with the date of permanent transfer and they shall lose all seniority in the district or in the class from which transferred. Employes shall not be compelled to accept a permanent transfer to another district or class. The names of employes permanently transferred shall be posted for thirty (30) days immediately after transfer in the district from which transferred.

RULE 33. Runs Transferred to Another District. When a run is transferred from one district to another in the same city through change in ownership of road over which it operates, terminal facilities or otherwise, the employes assigned to such run, or an equivalent number, may transfer with it, but such run shall not be bulletined as a new run at the time of transfer. Employes so transferred shall be allowed full seniority in the district to which transferred and their names shall be added to the seniority roster of that district in accordance with their full seniority rights.

RULE 34. New Service Acquired by Company. When sleeping or parlor car service is acquired by The Pullman Company the employes taken over with such service shall retain their seniority rights in the lines acquired. When such service is consolidated with an existing district the employes received by transfer shall begin to accumulate seniority rights in the district to which transferred as of the date taken over by The Pullman Company; employes carried in the district at the time of transfer shall begin to accumulate seniority rights over the service acquired as of the date of transfer.

RULE 35. Temporary Transfers. When employes are transferred to other districts to work on seasonal runs or other temporary assignments, they shall retain their seniority in the district from which transferred, shall rank as junior to all employes in the district to which transferred and shall not accumulate seniority in such district.

RULE 36. Employes Promoted to Supervisory Positions. Employes promoted to supervisory positions with The Pullman Company shall retain their seniority rights unimpaired, shall continue to accumulate seniority during the time solely employed in such supervisory positions and shall have displacement rights as provided in Rule 44 when returning to road service. This rule shall not be retroactive, but employes heretofore promoted and now filling such positions shall accumulate seniority from October 1, 1937.

RULE 37. Employes Serving in Organization Positions. Employes elected or appointed to official positions in the organization shall retain their seniority rights unimpaired, shall continue to accumulate seniority during the time solely employed in such official positions and shall have displacements rights as provided in Rule 44 when returning to road service.

RULE 38. Continuity of Seniority. No deductions shall be made from the seniority of employes coming within the scope of this agreement for time spent on authorized leaves of absence, furloughs or sickness.

ASSIGNMENTS OF RUNS

RULE 39. Operating Schedules. Schedules of regular lines shall be prescribed by the management and posted in places accessible to those affected or concerned.

RULE 40. Assignment of Runs to Districts. In the establishment of new service, consideration will be given to the seniority of extra employes in the districts involved in determining which district will furnish the employes; the facilities of the district and the number of extra employes carried being sufficient, the run shall be given to the district where the extra employes have the greatest seniority.

RULE 41. Bulletining of Runs. New runs and permanent vacancies, also seasonal runs and temporary vacancies known to be of more than sixty (60) days' duration, shall be promptly bulletined for a period of ten (10) days in the district where they occur. Employes desiring to bid for such runs shall file their applications with the designated official within the prescribed period, and assignment shall be made within five (5) days thereafter. The name of each employe assigned by bulletin shall be immediately posted where the run or vacancy was bulletined.

RULE 42. Re-bulletining Changed Runs. A change in terminal, alteration of total home layover in excess of ten per cent (10%) or change from or to an "in-charge" operation, shall consitute a new run and shall be bulletined as provided in Rule 41.

RULE 43. Temporary Discontinuance of an Assignment. Where a regular assignment has been temporarily discontinued due to causes beyond the control of The Pullman Company, the employes affected when at their home station shall not be considered as "held for service" but shall be privileged to operate on the extra board when no extra men are available.

RULE 44. Rights of Displaced Employes. An employe who loses his run through no fault of his own may apply for and shall have the right, in accordance with the provisions of Rule 45, to occupy any other assignment in his district where his seniority is greater than that of the junior employe on such assignment, who shall be the one displaced, except where there is a choice of layover days, as for example in an assignment requiring three and one-half (3½) employes, he shall be privileged to displace any employe junior to him. The right to apply for another assignment must be exercised within twenty (20) days from the date of displacement, except that in cases of sick leaves or leaves of absence the twenty (20) days shall date from the date on which the employe returns to work.

RULE 45. Seniority, Fitness and Ability. Assignments to regular service, by bulletin or displacement, shall be made on the basis of seniority, fitness and ability; fitness and ability being sufficient, seniority shall govern.

In the event the senior applicant is not assigned and waives his right to appeal he may, within five (5) days from date of non-assignment, request the district representative of the Company to suggest a course of training or preparation designed to correct his shortcomings. Such suggestion shall be made, and if within thirty (30) days thereafter, the employe is able to qualify without expense to the Company he shall be placed in the assignment for which he made application.

> Exception: Where the expense for maid service is borne by a railroad company or companies, maids may be, in order to meet the wishes of the roads, assigned without regard to seniority.

EXTRA EMPLOYES

RULE 46. Operation of Extra Employes. Extra employes, when available, except as provided herein, shall be used "first in, first out" after expiration of layover, which layover shall be that accruing to the last or home-bound trip, on the basis provided for in Rule 23.

When there is service requiring two or more employes at the same hour and employes eligible under this rule have layovers expiring simultaneously, the senior employe shall have his choice. Likewise, when there is requirement for one employe and there are two or more employes eligible under this rule whose layovers expire at the same hour, the senior employe shall be given the assignment.

An employe excused from an assignment under this rule shall immediately revert to the foot of the extra list.

Station duty, "called and not used," and witness service of less than eight (8) hours, shall not be considered an assignment under this rule.

This rule shall not operate to prohibit the use of an employe out of an away-from-home station, preferably in service toward his home station.

Exceptions to "first in, first out" provision:

(1) Use of employes while serving their six months' probationary period.

Note: It is understood that under this exception the management will use such extra employes with a view to giving them the greatest variety of experience.

(2) Use of employes with less than two years' service in filling "in-charge" assignments.

Note: When no two-year employes are available on the extra list, regular line employes may be used.

(3) Use of employes, irrespective of seniority or assignment, in filling private car or unusual special service requirements.

Q-1. What is a private car?

A-1. A car so designated in the Company's descriptive list of cars.

Q-2. What constitutes an unusual special service requirement?

A-2. A car provided for an individual or individuals of prominence, such as a Governor of a State, or a President of a Railroad.

(4) Use of a regularly assigned employe while held out of line for "witness" service.

RULE 47. Regulating Number of Extra Employes. Extra boards shall be so maintained as to afford each employe carried thereon, as nearly as possible, minimum earnings of approximately two-thirds of basic month's pay.

Employes who lay off of their own accord and those who are dropped from or added to the extra board during the month shall be given their pro-rata proportion of the work during the period they are subject to call.

This rule shall not be construed as a guarantee.

REDUCING AND INCREASING FORCES

RULE 48. Reducing and Increasing Forces. In reducing forces, seniority shall prevail in determining those to be retained in the service. When forces are increased, those furloughed shall be returned to service in the order of their seniority, provided they have filed their names and addresses with the district representative of the Company. Failure to report for duty within seven (7) days after written notice shall have been mailed or telegraphed to the last recorded address shall automatically terminate employment relation with the Company, unless a satisfactory explanation is given.

GRIEVANCES

RULE 49. Discipline and Hearings. The right of the management to discipline, suspend or discharge an employe for incompetency or other just and sufficient reason, and the right of an employe disciplined, suspended or discharged, or who considers he has been otherwise unjustly treated, to have a fair and impartial hearing, are both recognized.

Q-1. What is a grievance?

A-1. A grievance is a dispute arising from the application of discipline or alleged unjust treatment, personal in character and not covered (except as to procedure in handling) by rules of the agreement.

RULE 50. Hearings. An employe shall not be disciplined, suspended or discharged without a hearing. He may, however, be held out of service pending investigation. An employe shall be notified in writing of the time and place of hearing and the specific charge against him.

An employe who considers he has been unjustly treated and who desires a hearing shall make written request containing his specific charge within thirty (30) days from the date of the cause of complaint.

Hearings shall be held within ten (10) days from receipt of request for hearing or after notice shall have been mailed to an employe at his last recorded address, as the case may be, and decision shall be rendered in writing within ten (10) days after the hearing is completed.

RULE 51. Witnesses, Testimony and Records. At the hearing the employe aggrieved may remain throughout the proceedings, and with the designated representatives of the interested parties shall have the following privileges:

(a) To produce witnesses and question all witnesses giving testimony in the case.

(b) To have a written transcript made of the questions and answers, if requested by either side, which shall be jointly attested.

(c) To make statements off the record upon request.

RULE 52. Date of Suspension. If an employe is suspended, the suspension shall date from the time he is taken out of service.

If an employe shall have been held out of service pending investigation for a longer period than is represented by the discipline administered, he shall be compensated for the wage loss, if any, suffered by him for the time in excess of the disciplinary period. Such compensation shall be the amount of wages he would have earned, less compensation received in other employment.

RULE 53. Appeals. If the grievance of an employe who has served his period of probationary employment is not satisfactorily adjusted by the district representative, the person aggrieved shall have the right, within ten (10) days from the date decision is rendered, to appeal to the officer in charge of the Zone. Conference shall be held within ten (10) days after appeal is received, and decision shall be rendered within ten (10) days after the conference is completed.

If the grievance is not satisfactorily adjusted by the officer in charge of the Zone, the person aggrieved shall have the right, within ten (10) days from the date decision is rendered, to appeal to the Assistant to Vice President in Chicago or to such other operating officer as may be designated from time to time by the Vice President in charge of operations. Conference shall be held within ten (10) days after appeal is received, and decision shall be rendered within ten (10) days after the conference is completed. Any further appeal in accordance with provisions of the Railway Labor Act shall be taken within thirty (30) days thereafter.

RULE 54. Remanding Grievances. When new evidence or testimony, not available at the last hearing, is introduced at the time a grievance is being considered in conference on appeal, either party may elect to have the case remanded for rehearing and decision under Rule 50. If not then satisfactorily adjusted, it shall be returned to the remanding official. No case shall be remanded more than three times.

RULE 55. Application and Decision in Writing. Applications for appeals and all decisions thereon shall be in writing.

RULE 56. Record Cleared of Charges. If final decision exonerates the employe of the charge preferred against him, his record shall be cleared of such charge, and if held out of service or dismissed he shall be reinstated and compensated for the wage loss, if any, suffered by him. Such compensation shall be the amount of wages he would have earned, less compensation received in other employment.

CLAIMS

RULE 57. Application and Interpretation of Agreement. Claims involving the application and interpretation of rules of the agreement shall be handled as promptly as possible. When such claims are presented in writing to the district representative of the Company by the local representative of the organization, the latter shall submit a statement of facts in the case and refer to the rule or decision on which the organization bases its claim. If the claim is not allowed by the district representative, he shall furnish the local representative of the organization with a written statement of facts and reasons why claim is not allowed. If conference is desired by the local representative of the organization, it shall be granted without unnecessary delay.

If the claim is not adjusted by the district representative and the local representative of the organization, they shall prepare a joint statement of facts for the information of the zone superintendent of the Company and the zone representative of the organization. If the district representative and local representative of the organization fail to agree on a joint statement of facts, they shall prepare and exchange separate statements setting forth their version of the facts for the information of the zone representatives. No argument shall be used in the statement of facts.

If the claim is not adjusted by the zone superintendent and the zone representative of the organization, it may be appealed by an International Vice-President of the organization to the Assistant to Vice President in Chicago or to such other operating officer as may be designated from time to time by the Vice President in charge of operations. Any further appeal may be taken in accordance with provisions of the Railway Labor Act.

Q-1. What is a claim?

A-1. A claim is a dispute involving the application or interpretation of rules of the agreement.

REPRESENTATION

RULE 58. Representation. The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, referred to in this agreement as the "organization," shall represent all employes covered by this agreement in the making of agreements concerning rates of pay, rules and working conditions, and interpretations thereof, generally applicable to said employes, for so long as such representation is maintained in accordance with the provisions of the Railway Labor Act, and shall have the right to initiate claims alleging violation of agreement rules.

An individual employe, in handling a grievance involving himself or handling his own personal claim, shall have the right to and must designate his representative at the hearing or at the first conference, as the case may be, and advise whether he will be represented in person, by counsel (any other person or persons), or by the organization, and he shall notify the management and his representative in writing of any change in representation.

All personal claims involving the application or interpretation of rules of this agreement, handled by an individual employe without representation by the organization, shall be adjusted in accordance with the rules of the agreement and interpretations agreed upon between the organization and the management, and the advice of settlement made shall be in written form and a carbon copy thereof shall be furnished to the district representative of the organization.

In hearings and conferences (excepting agreement negotiations), the conferees shall not exceed four (4) in number on each side.

MISCELLANEOUS RULES

RULE 59 Time and Place for Reporting. Operating schedules for regularly assigned employes and assignment slips for other employes shall prescribe the time and place required to report for duty.

In event a dispute arises over the amount of time alloted for the preparation of or putting away of cars at terminals, a joint investigation shall be conducted to review the work required and, if necessary, a test made to determine the proper time allowance.

RULE 60. Failure to Report. An employe unable to report for duty for any cause shall notify his supervisor, in advance if possible, otherwise as soon as conditions permit, preferably in writing.

RULE 61. Absence Without Permission. An employe absent from work without permission for a period in excess of seven (7) days shall be considered out of the service, unless a satisfactory explanation is given.

RULE 62. Notification of Disallowed Time. When time claimed on time sheet by an employe is not allowed, he shall be promptly notified by his district representative and given reasons why such time was not allowed.

RULE 63. Leaves of Absence. Employes on request will be granted reasonable leaves of absence when they can be spared without interference to the service, but not to exceed ninety (90) days. An employe who fails to report for duty at expiration of his leave of absence shall be considered out of the service unless such failure is the result of unavoidable delay, under which condition the leave shall be extended to include the delayed time. Employes on leave of absence accepting other employment without the management's written permission shall be considered out of the service. This rule shall not take precedence over Rule 37.

RULE 64. Committeemen. Employes acting as committeemen representing employes governed by the provisions of this agreement will, upon request, be granted necessary time off and shall retain their seniority rights unimpaired during the time so occupied. They shall be furnished available sleeping accommodations designated by the management when required to travel on committee work.

RULE 65. Period of Probationary Employment. Six (6) months from date last employed (exclusive of time on furlough) shall be considered sufficient time to determine the competency of an employe. Within the probationary period the service of an employe may be terminated for any cause. He shall have the right to a hearing in accordance with the provisions of Rule 50, but shall not be privileged to appeal therefrom.

RULE 66. No Shut-Down Nor Suspension of Work. While questions in dispute are pending, there shall be neither a shut-down by The Pullman Company nor a suspension of work by the employes.

RULE 67. Duration of Agreement. This agreement, when signed by the duly authorized representative of The Pullman Company and of the employes, shall become effective October 1, 1937, and shall supersede all agreements governing rates of pay, rules and working conditions heretofore made for the employes involved herein. It shall continue in force for a period of two (2) years without notice of request for change being given by either party and thereafter until changed in accordance with the provisions of the Railway Labor Act.

Signed this 25th day of August, 1937.

For The Pullman Company:

CHAMP CARRY,
Vice-President

For the Porters, Attendants and Maids:

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH,
International President
Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

Souvenir Journal

BANQUET and DANCE

of

The System Federation of New York & New Jersey

A. F. of L. No. 18882

•

BRONZE STUDIO

227 LENOX AVENUE
New York City

•

Sunday Eve., February. 28, 1937

at 6 o'clock

112

MARI'S HAIR CONDITIONER

FOR BETTER HAIR

Straightens and Grooms, No Acid, No Grease

No Alkali or Other Harmful Ingredients

For Sale in All Drug Stores

A Trial Will Convince You

Joseph Reid, General Agent and Distributor

THE MARI CO.

265 WEST 129th STREET

Apt. 20 New York

OLinville 5-1108 Agents Wanted

MOnument 2-9600 Open Evenings

EMPIRE

Credit Clothing Co., Inc.

Wearing Apparel for the Entire Family

Radios - Jewelry - Men's Furnishings

133 WEST 125th STREET

New York City

Mme. NETHA CHAMBERS

BEAUTY SALON

Modernly Equipped

Expert Service in All Branches of

BEAUTY CULTURE

Good Customers Will Be Our Best Friends

133 SOUTH ORANGE AVENUE

Newark, N. J.

We Go A Long Ways To Make Friends

JOSEPH MAYER

Hair Cutting and Shaving Parlor

Also Women's and Children's Hair Cutting

78 MAGNOLIA AVENUE

Elizabeth, N. J.

FLOWERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS

W. M. CRIMES

FLORIST

Fresh Cut Flowers Daily

Decorations of All Kinds

Palms for Rent — Wedding Bouquets

Corsages a Specialty

Funeral Designs $1.00 up

Special Rates to Clubs

QUALITY — SERVICE

105 LENOX AVENUE

Bet. 115th and 116th Sts. New York

UNiversity 4-5940 Deliveries Anywhere

BOBBIE'S BEAUTY SHOPPE

Open 9:00 A. M.

Beauty Craft in All Its Branches

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday — Specials

81 PACIFIC STREET

Newark, N. J.

AARON FRAZIER

BARBER SHOP

All Sanitary Work

So Treat Yourself to the Best

Cigars — Cigarettes

81½ PACIFIC STREET

Newark, N. J.

BErgen 3-0752 Hair Cutting by an Expert

NAT and KITTY'S

COMBINATION

Barber and Beauty Shops

113 UNION STREET

Jersey City, N. J.

Barbers: H. Johnson - N. Johnson, Props.

Beauticians: L. Jenkins - K. Johnson

FOREWORD

OFFICERS:

MEMBERS:

PATRONS:

AND FRIENDS.

THE COUNCIL OF UNION Number 18882, of the American Federation of Labor of New York and New Jersey, WELCOMES YOU!

Your presence here today marks the beginning of History. You are either here to lend your Moral Courage and Strength to a good cause, or become a vital part of it. The results of this get-together will echo down through the ages. Our children will benefit, for we hope to cement a lasting friendship here today and create a new interest in the cause of Labor.

We are deeply grateful to the advertisers in our Journal and we can speak for every firm that has supported us, for, we know they are firms of integrity and stand for progress. We urge your hearty support and patronage, wherever possible, of these firms.

Again we thank you for your presence and welcome you and wish you a very pleasant evening.

THE COMMITTEE.

JOSEPH T. FACON

Organizer of No. 18882

Compliments from our Printers---

ARLAIN PRINTING CO.

UNION PRINTERS

Political, Social and Commercial

2349 EIGHTH AVENUE

ENTRANCE AT 126th STREET
New York, N. Y.

UNiversity 4-7728

Keys Made While U Wait Ladies Invited

BILL'S SHOE SHINE PARLOR

HATS CLEANED and BLOCKED

46 COURT STREET

Newark, N. J.

MOnument 2-8787 N.Y.S. Lic. L.1280

BRIGHTON LIQUOR & WINE CORP.

"America's Great Store"

Finest Imported and Domestic

WINES and LIQUORS

Orders Filled

136 LENOX AVENUE

Bet. 116th and 117th Sts. New York

Compliments of

DR. A. SHAPERA

DENTIST

72 WEST 133rd STREET

At Lenox Ave. New York

TIllinghast 5-6134

When Visiting Jersey City Stop at —

14 VIRGINIA AVE.

$1.00

STEAM HEATED ROOMS

Benj. Reed, Prop.
Jersey City, N. J.

COMPLIMENTS OF

M. B. HAYNES

PIANIST

265 WEST 129th STREET

Apt. 20 New York

AUdubon 3-8686

LA LINDA CUBANA

Made by

M. RODRIGUEZ

Manufacturer of

CLEAR HAVANA CIGARS

3467 BROADWAY

Bet. 141st and 142nd Sts. New York

Phone 1113-J Ambulance Service

HAYNES FUNERAL HOME

Our Mottos "Courteous, Smpathetic Service"

Quality Funerals at Reasonable Cost

John D. Haynes

Licensed Embalmer and Funeral Director

1015 WEST SEVENTH STREET

Owensboro, Ky.

— MENU —

Pickles Olives Celery

Fruit Cup Supreme Hot Rolls

Soup: Chicken Gumbo En Tasse Ala New Orleans

One-Fourth Fried Chicken Southern Styles

Rice, Fresh Stringbeans, Candied Sweets

Salad

Garden Salad with Russian Dressing

Ice Cream Cake Coffee

PROGRAM

SPEAKERS:-

GEORGE L. LEWIS, ... Master of Ceremonies

WM. COLLINS, N. Y. Representative of American Federation of Labor.

C. E. PULLINS, General Chairman of the New Jersey Central Railroad.

A. PHILLIP RANDOLPH, President of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

HARRY J. CHAPMAN, Assistant General Chairman of the New York Central Railroad.

MACON T. COTTON, Active Member of the Labor Movement.

JOSEPH T. FACON, Organizer of Local 18882, A. F. of L.

LOTTIE B. WADE

ANDREW WADE

WALLACE COLDMAN

Confectioneries — All Kinds of Candies

Also a Full Line of Canolene Products, How to Lighten and Beautify the Complexion. — Stays Sweet — Acts Quicker — Easy to Use.

Prices Right. — Honey and Almond Lotions Tetter Salve. Healing Ointment.

It's a Skin Food — No Fuss, No Muss.

Simple and Easy to Use.

WALLACE COLDMAN, Prop.

214 BROOME STREET

NEWARK, N. J.

Ted's Confectionery and Sandwich Shop

Home Made Candies — Tasty Salads

DAILY and WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS

Orders Delivered Anytime - Anyplace - Anywhere.

MRS. FERN ADAMS, Proprietor

Dolly Madison's Ice Cream

75A BARCLAY STREET

NEWARK, N. J.

Phone BIglow 2-9006

For a Nice Home Cooked Meal Visit

FOR A NICE HOME COOKED MEAL

VISIT

CRYSTAL RESTAURANT

OPEN DAY and NIGHT. — MEALS BY AN EXPERIENCED CHEF.

FIRST CLASS FOOD AT MODERATE PRICES.

Meet Me Here, Will You?

54 KEARNEY AVENUE

COR. HART ST., JERSEY CITY, N. J.

Greetings from

MACON T. COTTON

To No. 18882

Funeral Director and Embalmer

New York and New Jersey License

FUNERAL PARLOR and CHAPEL FREE — LADY ATTENDANT.

145 WEST MARKET ST.
Cotton Bldg., NEWARK, N. J.
Tel. MArket 2-6757

108 OAKWOOD AVE.
ORANGE, N. J.
Night Phone: ORange 5-6610

MOnument 2-0368 I. E. Sidney, Prop.

THE BRONZE STUDIO

The Ideal Place for Your Party

227 LENOX AVENUE

Bet. 121st and 122nd St. New York

Compliments of

MENTER STORES

CREDIT — CLOTHING

Selling on Credit for 40 Years

157 West 125th Street New York

MOnument 2-5361 At Lowest Prices

Compliments of

THE PEOPLES TAILOR

CLEANERS and DYERS

Dry Cleaning, Pressing Dyeing & Remodeling

All Work Called For and Delivered

268 WEST 129th STREET

Near 8th Ave. New York

BIgelow 3-3295 Appointments

BILLY'S BEAUTY SALON

All Work Done By Experts

W. B. Lockett, Prop.

202 BELMONT AVENUE

Newark, N. J.

Compliments of

WILLIAMS BARBER SHOP

Electric Hair Cutting, Shampooing and Massaging

Ladies' and Children's Hair Bobbing

315 MULBERRY STREET

Newark, N. J.

DElaware 3-7851

BURDELL'S BANNER STORE

We Carry a Complete Line of Dairy Products — Fruits

Vegetables and Groceries

417 JACKSON AVENUE

Jersey City, N. J.

BELL TAILOR SHOP

J. Bell, Prop.

Cleaning, Dyeing and Pressing

Altering and Repairing

New Linings Put in Garments at Short Notice

We Also Make Extra Pants

We Call For and Deliver

183 W. KINNEY STREET

Newark, N. J.

NICKERSON'S BEAUTY BOX

Nickerson Style Mme. M. Homes

SHAMPOO —— PRESS — WAVE

Monday, Tuesday, Wedneday—$1.25

Curling and Croquignole Our Specialty

122 BROOME STREET

Newark, N. J.

COMMITTEE

JOSEPH T. FACON

JOSEPH RANDOLPH REID

GEORGE LEWIS

ANDREW WADE

F. W. HATCHETT

OFFICERS

FEDERATION COUNCIL

JOSEPH T. FACON, President
ANDREW WOOD, Vice-President
GEORGE L. LEWIS, Secretary
JOE R. WILLIAM, Treasurer

N. J. CENTRAL RAILROAD No., 1

ARTHUR BLACK, President
LUTHER WILSON, Vice-President
THOMAS BENJAMIN, Financial Secretary
ERNEST JOHNSON, Recording Secretary
JOHN WILLIAMS, Treasurer
STONE GALE, Chaplain

N. Y. CENTRAL RAILROAD, No. 2

JOSEPH REED, President
IVAN McRAE, Vice-President
THOMAS SMITH, Financial Secretary
NATHANIEL ROLLE Treasurer

ERIE RAILROAD, No. 3

J. B. RICHARDSON, Vice-President
J. SABALETTE, Secretary
B. E. HUNTER, Treasurer
A. VAUGHAN, Recording Secretary
H. BRIGGS, Sergeant-at-Arms
G. JENNINGS, Chaplain

LONG ISLAND RAILROAD, No. 4

RICHARD PRESSEY, President
HARVEY ANDERSON, Vice-President
WALLACE HILL, Treasurer
FRED GRIFFIN, Recording Secretary
CHESTER DEVINE, Sergeant-at-Arms

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD, No. 5

C. H. STRAYHORNE, President
H. E. ROBERTS, Vice-President
FRANK DUANY, Secretary and Treasurer
P. H. SPENCER, Recording Secretary

HEgen 3-4763 R. S. Johnson, Prop.

TWENTIETH CENTURY TONSORIAL PARLOR

Candies, Tobacco and Toilet Articles
Quick and Polite Service
74 EGE AVENUE
Jersey City, N. J.

S. MILLER

The Store They Talk About
Specialist in Southern Products
307 MULBERRY STREET
Newark, N. J.
MArket 2-5322

Compliments of
F. JEFFERSON
755 MARCY AVENUE
Brooklyn, N. Y.

MORRIS CLEANERS & DYERS
WE DYE and DRY CLEAN
Work Called For and Delivered
One-Day Service
"There's A Difference"
Cleaning - Dyeing - Pressing - Repairing
We Also Clean
Blankets, Curtains, Portiers, Rugs, Etc.
All Kinds of Hats Cleaned and Blocked
337 MULBERRY STREET
Newark, N. J.

Greetings —
SAMUEL R. SHELTON
Post 2294 V. F. W.
81 EGE AVENUE
Jersey City, N. J.

Charles C. Russle, A.D.T. Commander
Leroy J. Randolph, Robert Thornton
Quartermaster

DElaware 3-5345

GOLDMAN'S
CLOTHING
Tuxedo Outfits to Hire
Furnishings and Hats
For Particular Men and Boys
505 JACKSON AVENUE
Jersey City, N. J.

Herman Signar Raymos, Prop.

CLUB RESTAURANT
CHINESE and AMERICAN FOOD
Fried Chicken and Spaghetti
Service Is Our Motto
Full 24 Hours Each Day
1169 DICKSON STREET
Elizabeth, N. J.

Greetings to
The System Federation of N. Y. and N. J.
A. F. of L. 18882
From the

Brotherhood of SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

Greetings —
MILITARY BARBER SHOP
Guarantees the Best of Service
Try Us Please
Binnie Milner, Prop.
69 EGE AVENUE
Jersey City, N. J.

C. FOSTER
Specializes in SOUTHERN and TROPICAL PRODUCTS
MAin 2-3964

Randolph Challenged

Editor The New York Age:

Satisfied that A. Philip Randolph president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, cannot refute the charges of manhandling the employment situation of the distracted Pullman porters of the country. I, as the president of the Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association, now demand that he recant his charges against us as being "stool pigeons and a company union" and apologize or take the consequences.

Up to date the effervescent president of the Brotherhood has refused because he can't answer our charge, that through his errors and his ignorance he has caused a $900,000 yearly loss of the Pullman porters and the race. In our answer to the scurrilous attack upon the Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association we stated that 2500 of the 10,000 Pullman porters of the country had been furloughed, put on the extra list, discharged and other ways displaced since his signing of the collective bargaining agreement with the Pullman Company before the National Mediation Board.

We proved that it was his high-flown theories that was responsible for the changing of the pay basis for Pullman porters from that of an 11,000 mileage month to a 240-hours a month. We proved that it was his own lack of knowledge of railroad conditions together with his socialist character and conduct that estranged the Pullman Company from its former friendly and cooperative interest in the Pullman porters and their people. Randolph admits our charge that the Pullman Company now operates trains with 3½ and 4 porters that were formerly operated by 5 porters.

It was his monstrous error, we state, to separate the Sleeping Car Porters from the Club Car porters by the suicidal agreement which he signed as bargaining agent which separated and dealt a death blow to seniority rights of Pullman porters and thereby sacrificed scores of the oldest and most reputable porters in the service. We challenged him to prove his statement that he and his group of swivel chair union lieutenants were Pullman porters or have been Pullman porters in good standing.

Mr. Randolph realizes that he is losing members as well as financial support in the porters group. That is why he has turned to making false love to the Filipino; but I am sure that the Filipino realizes that he is using the same bait with the same hook that caught the porters, and from all the indications the Filipinos are shy. In the first place, they are using a discharged cast out Filipino as bait. That smells bad. That is the same bait that caught the porters. Still Mr. Randolph claims that his executive board consists of operating porters. That is untrue and we can prove that statement which we asked Mr. Randolph in our article of a recent date, to state why his first vice-president was out of the service.

He has done the porters an injustice as well as the race. There are only a few corporations in America that will employ our race as a whole and the Pullman Company is the leading corporation, but through Mr. Randolph's activities, it is just a matter of time that we wont be able to make that farsighted boast. But the time is at hand when all clear thinking porters and a far-sighted public should join hands in a much needed battle to save at least what we have, if we cannot add to it. We should try to convert other corporations to our side, instead of making enemies of them. After all, Mr. Randolph and his group of parasites are trying to get a livelihood through this same corporation, at the expense of millions of dollars lost to the porters and the race through this corporation, the porters and the race as a whole have plenty to be thankful for and through this same corporation the porters and the public have a lot to lose.

J. T. REID,
Pullman Porters and Maids Protective Association, New York City.

Today's Labor Hierarchy

MEN WHO LEAD LABOR.
By Bruce Minton and John Stuart . . . 270 pp. . . . New York: Modern Age Books . . . 35 cents; cloth bound, 85 cents.

Reviewed by
WINIFRED RAUSHENBUSH

"MEN Who Lead Labor," written by two young men connected with the editorial staff of "The New Masses," is presumably written for workers. Its value to the middleclass reader is that it does a candid camera of John L. Lewis against a trade union back-drop, instead of a national back-drop. It compares him not with the possible Presidential candidates of 1940, but with the trade union officials who are his peers.

The authors consider Mr. Lewis a midway type of labor leader. They state, what every one knows, that from labor's point of view Mr. Lewis's record prior to 1936 was not quite pretty. But they also note that he has never been a nonentity or "snuggle-pup" like William Green, a reactionary like Hutcheson of the carpenters, nor a smoothie and careerist like Edward F. McGrady, Assistant Secretary of Labor. On the other hand, Mr. Lewis, the American Saul of Tarsus, who was dazzled by the neon light of industrial unionism at the age of fifty-five, does not quite compare in the authors' estimation with the three men whom they present as representatives of the "new type" of labor leader: Heywood Broun, of the Newspaper Guild; Randolph, of the Pullman Car Porters, and Bridges, of the West Coast Longshoremen's Association.

Middle-class readers who are not particularly interested in the intense enmities now current in the American radical movement should be warned that this book is not impartial. Of course, no book about labor written by a spokesman of any of the current radical sects is going to be impartial. The sophisticated reader has learned to sample the writing done by various factions, being persuaded in advance that the whole truth is not to be found in any of them. But "Men Who Lead Labor" is not only not impartial, it is also not quite honest. For it pretends to be impartial, and isn't. Propaganda that has a label is sanitary; it is no longer propaganda but a point of view taken from a definite stance, and therefore immediately comprehensible. It is propaganda that is not labeled that arouses distaste.

Curiously, this lack of honesty in the book makes for bad organization. Perhaps party policy does not allow the authors to lay their cards on the table. The book would have been much more comprehensible and much better organized if the authors had written a preface in which they said something like this: "We are Communists. Of course, we are interested in industrial unionism and the C. I. O. Also in a number of other things—a labor party, for instance. So we're telling you how the labor leaders line up. From our point of view. As Communists."

If the authors had done this everything would have been aboveboard. The fact that the authors chose as representatives of the type of labor leader whom they prefer three men who are sympathetic to the Communist party, although not necessarily affiliated with it, would have shocked and offended no one. With Mr. Kaplan, the reader would have agreed, "Is netcheel." As matters stand, the reader does not succeed in finding out what the authors are driving at until the next to the last chapter. They appear to be dealing with the theme of Gompersism versus the C. I. O., although somewhat fumblingly. In the chapter about Bridges the reader suddenly realizes that the authors are not primarily concerned with the C. I. O. at all. Their real theme is Gompersism versus the enlightened doctrines of the Communist party. Now there is nothing wrong or shocking about this theme. It has been dealt with before by people like William Z. Foster, and will be dealt with again by other able people. It is only that the flash ending does not sit well with sociological writing. If the authors imagine that the implication that all the bright boys among the labor leaders are Communists, and that all Communists are archangels comes as a happy surprise ending for a book that tries hard to sound impartial, they have another guess coming.

The drawings of seven labor leaders by Scott Johnson are amusing. Like the other Modern Age books, "Men Who Lead Labor" has an attractive lay-out.

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

National Headquarters:
105 WEST 138th STREET, NEW YORK CITY
Phone EDgecombe 4-1535

A PHILIP RANDOLPH, National President. ASHLEY L. TOTTEN, National Secretary-Treasurer

B. F. McLAURIN, National Field Organizer.

ATTENTION: ALL PULLMAN PORTERS & MAIDS — ATTENTION PPBA CONVENTION.

The annual P. P. B. A. election of officers will begin on Monday, October 8th, and continue through October 28th. This period includes the primary and final elections of delegates for the National Convention of the P. P. B. A. in Chicago the coming November.

The time is now when all members entitled to vote should definitely decide to ELECT A DELEGATE FROM EACH DISTRICT WHO IS A MEMBER IN GOOD STANDING OF THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS. Do not Hesitate, Procrastinate or Equivocate.

SUPPORT YOUR FRIENDS.

DEFEAT YOUR ENEMIES.

A BROTHERHOOD delegate from EACH DISTRICT at this Convention will kill the continued activities of the stool-pigeons and give the porters FULL control of their own organization.

If you have not signed your authorization card for the BROTHERHOOD, do so NOW.

If you have not signed your application for the BROTHERHOOD, do so NOW.

If you have not completely reinstated in the BROTHERHOOD, do so NOW.

All Cards and Applications MUST be at National Headquarters on or before October 15 to be absolutely certain of our coming Victory.

See your local representative at once for full instructions on P. P. B. A. voting:

M. P. WEBSTER, Chairman National Exec. Board ..... 4231 S. Michigan Ave, Chicago
BENNIE SMITH ..... 2355 Eighteenth Street, Detroit, Michigan
GEORGE W. CLARK ..... 4231 Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois
FRANK BOYD ..... 443 Mackubin Street, St. Paul, Minnesota
TAYLOR MURRELL ..... 2719 Corby Street, Omaha, Nebraska
SPENCER WATSON ..... 2412 Campbell Street, Kansas City, Mo.
W. B. HOLLAND ..... 1436 West 36th Street, Los Angeles, California
W. E. CAMPBELL ..... 1014 Dumain Street, New Orleans, Louisiana
J. W. DARBY ..... 2029 Davis Street, Jacksonville, Florida
J. R. BENOIT ..... 2740 Williams Street, Denver, Colorado
E. J. BRADLEY ..... 2117 Market Street, St. Louis, Missouri
C. L. DELLUMS ..... 1716 Seventh Street, Oakland, California
CHARLES KELLEY ..... 973 Tremont Street, Boston, Massachusetts
LONNIE HAMPTON ..... 1115 East Humboldt Street, Fort Worth, Texas
L. B. BASKERVILLE ..... 628 North Fourth Street, Richmond, Virginia
S. L. JOHNSON ..... 1341 Mt. Vernon Avenue, Portsmouth, Va.
S. J. McCLELLAN ..... 404 P Street N. W., Washington, D. C.
A. J. MADDOX ..... 8324 Central Street, Cleveland, Ohio
J. WESTMORELAND ..... 4215 St. Antoine Street, Montreal, Canada
J. L. HARPER ..... R. F. D. No. 4B, 213 C, Asheville North Carolina
RAYMOND SIMPSON ..... 1715 Fontain Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania
RICHARD WOODARD ..... 489 Jefferson Avenue, Buffalo, New York
O. L. WHITAKER ..... 114 Kelley Street, Chattanooga, Tennessee
J. W. JOHNSON ..... 1359 S. Parkway, Memphis, Tennessee

National Negro Congress Reported Under Red Control

Secretary of Sleeping Car Porters Charges Recent Meeting in Washington Was Dominated by Communists

Denouncing Communism as "the enemy of American Negroes, just as it is the enemy of any decent people," Asley L. Totten, international secretary of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, largest and most influential Negro labor union in this country, charged that the National Negro Congress is definitely controlled by Communists.

Mr. Totten was the principal speaker on May 2 at a meeting at the De Porres Center, under the auspices of the Catholic Interracial Council, an organization working for interracial justice and better understanding between races. The meeting, presided over by George K. Hunton, secretary of the council, was attended by delegates from many Catholic colleges and universities and other Catholic organizations.

As proof of his assertions about the National Negro Congress, Mr. Totten, who is a non-Catholic, said that events at the third meeting of the Congress held recently at Washington, D. C., clearly showed its communistic control. [illegible] the fact that the Communist party line was followed in [illegible] respect at this con[illegible] Soviet Russia was [illegible]ended and praised by [illegible]ders, especially by [illegible] secretary of the [illegible] said that scores of white [illegible] attended as "official delegates."

With [illegible] Webster, an international [illegible]sident of the Brotherhood [illegible]tten said he attended the [illegible], and that they were "[illegible]d then an[illegible]d, by the [illegible] on all sides of Communist [illegible]on of the congress and its [illegible]."

The action of A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and a former president of the congress, in quitting the congress was praised by Mr. Totten as that of "a real American Negro, who realized that the Communists would destroy all that Negroes, as American citizens, hold dear and cherish."

Mr. Randolph, he added, quit the congress because it received financial aid from the Communist party and also because he saw that its leadership was obviously communistic. As such, he refused to have anything more to do with it, Mr. Totten declared.

"The National Negro Congress, under its present leadership," he continued, "is just another Trojan Horse organization by which Communists seek to exploit the Negro for their own selfish ends in the guise of helping him to achieve economic betterment."

There are many organizations affiliated with the congress who have little if any knowledge of its communistic control, he said. He advised these groups either to resign from the congress, or better still, to organize and rid the congress of its communistic leadership.

"Communism," he declared, "deserves the condemnation of every thinking Negro, because it seeks to erect in this country a ruthless, bloody dictatorship without regard for the rights of any human being, black or white."

By eliminating economic and other unjust discriminations against Negroes, most, if not all, of the injustices on which Communism exists among them, will be eliminated, he said. Mr. Totten also praised the Catholic Church for its leadership in this respect.

Randolph and the Negro Congress

(In the following article A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters (AFL), gives his reasons for refusing to stand for re-election as president of the National Negro Congress and for severing all relations with that organization:)

By A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

I am convinced that unless the stigma of the Communist Front is wiped from the National Negro Congress it will never rally the masses of the Negro people.

The procedure, conduct and policies of the Negro Congress, as set up in this third national meeting, will make its influence in the affairs of the American Negroes, short lived. The American Negroes will not long follow any organization which accepts dictation and control from the Communist Party. The American Negro will not long follow any organization which accepts dictation and control from any white organization.

In the last national Executive Committee meeting in New York City, Brother John P. Davis was authorized to go out and borrow $1000 to help put the Third Congress over. He informed me that he had borrowed it and mentioned the name of a man. I was given no specific identity of the man. What was the source of this money? The delegates to the Congress should know. Because whatever is the source of the money with which the Congress is run, will also be the source of its ideas, policies and control.

It is a well known fact that most of the contributions to this Congress, expressed by the Secretary, Mr. Davis, are from CIO unions. Is this the reason why the Congress is taking the CIO line?

In an Executive Committee meeting in New York City, Mr. Davis informed it that the Communist Party contributed $100 a month to the Congress. Is this the reason why the Congress refuses to attempt to make plain to the American people that it is not a Communist Front? These questions should be definitely and unequivocally answered.

When I was asked in a Committee meeting in New York to visit some unions, or sign a letter to be sent to certain unions for funds, I refused, because I am unalterably opposed to having a Negro organization, which is supposed to be fighting the battles of the race, depending for its main income upon a source outside of the Negro people themselves.

I am opposed to the National Negro Congress depending upon the Communists or CIO for its financial maintenance, because I am opposed to the Congress being dominated by either the Communists or the CIO. The Congress should be uncontrolled and responsible to no one but the Negro people. But it will not be uncontrolled and responsible to no one but the Negro people unless the Negro people supply the money for its maintenance.

Now, there is nothing against the Congress receiving contributions from unions, but it is dangerous business where there is a split in the labor movement, for it to receive practically the major funds, upon which its existence depends, from unions on one side of the fence. It is bound to make the Congress biased toward one side, and thereby, destroy the united front and mass character of the Congress, because it will no longer be able to rally the Negro workers in the A. F. of L.

When the National Negro Congress loses its independence, it loses its soul, and has no further reason for being. It also forfeits and betrays the faith and confidence of the Negro masses. It will shatter the hopes and aspirations of the Negro people who yearn and pray for the Negro Congress not to sell out either to labor or capital, Communists or Republicans or Democrats.

Since the trend of the National Negro Congress is obviously toward domination by the Communists and the CIO, I would not stand for re-election for President.

I quit the Congress because I was opposed to linking it up with Labor's Non-Partisan League, the political mouthpiece of the CIO, since this was a departure from the original minimum program upon which there could be general agreement and a sound basis for rallying the Negro masses.

I quit the Congress because I was opposed to it, or its officials, expressing sympathy for the Soviet Union, which is the death prison where democracy and liberty have walked their "last mile" and where shocking "blood purges" wipe out any and all persons who express any dissenting opinions from dictator Stalin.

The Negro people must beware of all subtle forms of Communist propaganda poison to save themselves from destruction. It seems to be beyond the realm of debate that the Negro people cannot afford to add to the handicap of being black, the handicap of being red.

FLASH!

January 10, 1938

A LIVING WAGE FOR AIRPORT AND RAILWAY STATION PORTERS engages the attention of A. Phillip Randolph, President of the International Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters (FLASH, October 25, 1937, et seq.) The tireless worker in the field of labor is pictured to the left in one of his characteristic moments as he makes a radio broadcast. His Harvard accent and sincere determination to bring about labor justice for workers account for his success in winning official recognition of and higher wages for over 3,000 sleeping car porters. He holds both the strong support of employees and the fear and respect of employers. Throughout his fight for labor rights he has violated neither power nor taken any step which would betray those for whom he has sought justice. Labor leaders have presaged Mr. Randolph's victory in efforts to raise living standards among "Red Caps."

SURVEYS REVEAL AS LOW AS $1 A MONTH PAID "RED CAPS" FOR SERVICES. With a general falling off of tips, upon which this class of labor depended, these porters have faced a serious crisis in their general economic welfare. Organization of "Red Caps" is held by observers as most imperative. As in his twelve-year struggle to organize sleeping car porters, Mr. Randolph will look to the rank-and-file workers for cooperation. He appears to have lost faith in the educated big-wigs. Of trade unions he says, they "are the most effective method of obtaining economic freedom—economic organization spells economic power, economic power spells economic security." Labor Organizer Randolph, who also heads the National Negro Congress, has shown constantly a remarkable capacity for work. He attends lectures, gives them, yet keeps all his projects going with full force.

Copyright, 1937, by FLASH!, Incorporated.

Declarations of Chamber on the Vital Problems of Business

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Following are textual extracts from the resolutions adopted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States at the end of its annual meeting today:

Recovery

Because efforts of government and business for recovery from the disastrous depression of the last eight years have fallen short in their objectives, every consideration of public interest requires that governmental measures already taken be re-examined by Congress in the light of experience in order that unnecessary regulations may be removed and additional measures taken directed to recovery. Such measures should free initiative in enterprises promoting employment.

Capital Needs

The normal processes of saving and investing must again be encouraged and permitted to have their beneficial effects in increasing business activity and adding to employment.

To this end Congress should direct that regulatory legislation should be applied to prevent abuses without destroying the capital market for legitimate private enterprise and without making the security markets so unstable as to defeat the purposes for which they exist.

So far as these destructive effects have their source in legislation, Congress should promptly revise the regulatory statutes in order that handicaps upon recovery may be removed.

Labor Relations

The Labor Relations Act and its administration exert influences working strongly against recovery. Recent action of the Labor Board is tantamount to public admission its proceedings have not been fair and impartial, and there has been ample demonstration the legislation has not fulfilled its stated purpose of lessening industrial disputes.

We favor a thorough Congressional investigation to determine whether the act should be withdrawn entirely or whether amendments should be made.

We advocate repeal of the act. If the act is not to be wholly withdrawn, we urge that it be structurally amended. Amendments should include protection of employes against interference in any of their rights, including their rights of self-organization, whether the interferences come from employers, employes or any one else.

Appropriate rights should be given to employers, and afforded protection. All provisions should be restricted to matters properly subject to Federal regulation.

Any attempts, such as those contemplated by a pending bill, to provide double penalties in connection with the Labor Relations Act, or to extend the application of that statute to recipients of government contracts and all of those dealing with instrumentalities of the government are not in the public interest and should not be passed.

Wages and Hours

We believe that, with regard to minimum wages, maximum hours and working conditions, there should be only such public regulation as may be validly applied by State Governments for those special classes of workers for which legislative protection may be necessary to prevent their oppression and to safeguard their health and well-being.

Management and Labor

In a number of foreign countries, the encroachment of government in the field of business has led to the partial, and in some cases complete, liquidation of the rights and authority of management and labor. Such developments must, for the common welfare, be avoided in the United States.

We believe that management and labor should work together without recourse to the Federal Government on these things of common concern which fairly conserve their respective interests, promote industrial peace and stimulate employment on which the propsperity of the country depends.

Agriculture

Recognizing the importance of balance between supply and demand, we believe the welfare of American agriculture requires vigorous stimulation of demand at home and abroad for agricultural products, rather than the curtailment of supply.

The prosperity of agriculture depends primarily on expanding industrial activities and upon the enlargement of foreign markets. Government can, accordingly, best serve agriculture by the most generous encouragement of private initiative.

Foreign Trade

It should be the objective of government and business during the coming year to maintain and increase the volume of export trade, which in the past year has taken up much slack in domestic business and employment.

Our government should continue its activities for the stabilization of world currencies, for the amelioration of exchange restrictions and for the protection of American investments in foreign countries.

The negotiation of reciprocal trade agreements, to the extent that they are concluded without causing destructive competition for American agriculture and industry, is a long step toward enlargement of American export trade and toward international acceptance of more reasonable commercial policies.

Federal Anti-Trust Laws

This Chamber has a long record of advocating legislation and enforcement of legislation to protect all business enterprise against unfair competition in all of its forms, in order that every enterprise may have its opportunity to succeed in accordance with the ability of its management and the value of the products and services it offers.

It continues to advocate these propositions as fundamental principles, believes that those responsible for the representative business enterprises of the country subscribe without reservation to these principles, and condemns every expression that falsely represents existing conditions of competition as calculated to cause confusion and to obscure the true causes of decline in business activity and decrease in employment.

Government Competition

Government competition with private enterprise is taking many forms and is retarding business recovery. Government agencies, Federal and State, should cease all enterprises through which they seek to supplant their own citizens in supplying the public; should supply their own needs, whether for materials or for construction, by contracting with the lowest responsible bidder after obtaining the widest possible competition, and should cease subsidizing one form of business, such as cooperatives, against other forms.

Government should always leave open opportunity to all of its citizens for the development [illegible] legitimate forms of law[illegible] prise, each form being [illegible] succeed or fail in acco[illegible] its own merits.

Monetary Policy

The Chamber reiterates its [illegible] lief that restoration of a satisfactory international monetary standard and strict maintenance of the integrity of the currencies of the world are vital needs of the times. Without the one there cannot be adequate revival of international trade, and without the other there can be no dependable basis for the operations of domestic commerce and industry. Both are essential for economic recovery.

Banking

The dual system of banking, with the States as well as the Federal Government exercising chartering and supervisory powers, should be preserved. This system promotes the flow of credit into productive channels and affords checks and balances in matters essential to the well-being of the people.

Railroad Transportation

Improvement in the situation of the railroads, which are among the largest employers in the country and the heaviest buyers of a great variety of supplies and equipment, will aid recovery in important ways.

Steps should be taken promptly to work out a long-term program to place essential railroad transportation on a stable basis, and to this end it is urged that a Congr[illegible] be made prior to [illegible] Congress.

Merchant Marine

Continuing support should be given for a systematic rehabilitation of the American merchant marine. Such changes should be made in our laws as will help to attract private capital to the shipping and shipbuilding industries.

There should be assurance on the part of the government that subsidies paid for the maintenance of our merchant marine will be fair and consistent, irrespective of changes at any time in the national administration; that American operators on essential trade routes will, as a matter of national policy, be placed on a parity with their foreign competitors; and that government superyision will not interfere with the flexibility of operation necessary to an industry such as shipping.

Flood Control

Flood control projects should be prosecuted in accordance with the Flood Control Act of 1936, and without delays and impediments, contrary to the principles enacted in that legislation.

Land and Water Policy

The United States should develop land policies based upon studied considerations and suited to differing regional advantage. The beneficial use of water upon the land is a composite problem, for the solution of which the Federal Government and the States, in any programs of useful public works, may wisely expend public funds upon carefully planned projects that will stand the test of economically sound investments or repayment arranged upon a business basis.

National Defense

The United States should continue to support the principle of international agreements for the settlement of disputes between nations by peaceful means and for the limitation of armaments.

In armament limitation agreements, and in its defense policies in the absence of such agreements, the United States should be assured of naval, land and air defenses adequate to protect our shores and our territories and possessions, and to safeguard our foreign commerce to an extent equal to that employed by any other power.

State and Local Taxation

State and local taxes, combined with Federal levies, have increased until they are equivalent to one-fifth of the national income.

We commend the several hundred member organizations which are actively working to foster economy and to reduce the tax burden in their States and communities.

Soap Box

By Adam C. Powell, Jr.

STRANGELY, NEGROES must fight labor as well as capital for work. For years we have been waging our battle against the employer, demanding jobs, but with the rapid growth of authority of the trade union we have another factor to reckon with. The industrial world is becoming increasingly trade unionist. Trade unions almost without exception in the A. F. of L. are opposed to Negro membership. Even in the highly touted C. I. O. there are unmistakable evidences of prejudice of the worst type which means the subtle type.

A. C. Powell, Jr.

Transport Unions

Take the transport Workers Union of which the loudly liberal Michael Quill is president. Not a Negro driver rolls a bus on the thoroughfares of New York City. This is strictly the Union's fault. Take again the case of Arnold Johnson. Arnold Johnson was one of the co-founders of the State, County and Municipal Workers Union. During the past years this union has expanded to a national organization. Whites have been advanced and Arnold Johnson still remains at his early post. Frank Crosswaith's case is almost simiar. If these men had been white they would have been up on top of the ladder by now.

What does this mean? Does it mean away with trade unions as far as the Negro is concerned? Emphatically, no! It merely means that our fight develops along two fronts: Against the employer for jobs and against the trade union for admission, recognition and advancement.

Speaking at the largest labor mass meeting that Harlem has ever had on Monday night these sentiments were expressed by two men of different philosophies. Speaking to a packed and jammed Rockland Palace Arthur Reid the Czar of Lenox Avenue emphatically condemned trade unions for their policy of discrimination. He said he had expected to find Michael Quill on the platform and was going to ask him to see that 100 Negroes started rolling busses in New York immediately or to shut up about being liberal. Arnold Johnson, veteran trade unionist said that he was fully conscious of the prejudice in trade unions and urged the Negro laboring masses to stand ready to demand at the slightest evidences of this prejudice.

To Soft On Unions

As we begin this Saturday to picket and boycott every organization and enterprise in Greater New York that descriminates against us as regards jobs we are going to soften up the trade unions of New York City. Using our Supreme Court given right we will lay down our barrage this Saturday. Not only along 125 St., but at the World's Fair Preview where hundreds of thousands of jobs are and will be available, and we must have them. Borough President Stanley Isaacs on Monday Night related these words to the Negro masses that discrimination was undemocratic and that we must fight in every way to abolish it especially in the field of employment.

And so, Harlem marches. We march again for work. And as we demand from the employer, so special committees are going to demand from the trade unions. I will never forget the picture in the metropolitan press of the Communist headquarters being picketed. I am sure an equally strange picture will be the picket line that will be thrown in front of the offices of the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. trade unions which try to continue discriminatory practices.

We must not allow the situation to turn us against trade unions but must use it rather as a stimulus to fight the harder for our rights, for there are some trade unions which are doing their best. One trade union that is needed and that is rapidly coming to the forefront is the Domestic Workers Union. Everything that can be done to aid this group must be done for one of the most exploited groups in America is the domestic worker.

AS I SEE IT

By C. W. RICE

THE LABOR MOVEMENT AND LIBERAL CIVIC ORGANIZATIONS "TROJAN HORSES" COMMUNISTS USE TO CAPTURE THE NEGRO

As I See It, the truth regarding the trickery of the Communists to dupe the Negro has come to light, and I can say to my critics, "I told you so."

From time to time in this column, I have warned that Communists were trying to get control of the Negro by forming and supporting new organizations and getting control of established organizations, especially in the labor field.

I have charged that the National Negro Congress was Communist inspired and would eventually be dominated by Communists; that A. Phillip Randolph, president of the International Brotherhood of the Sleeping Car Porters, an affiliate of the A. F. of L., as brilliant as he is, was used as a tool and even a "figurehead" in the Congress; that John P. Davis, national secretary of the congress, was the guiding genius of that organization; that he, Davis, was a strong supporter of the C. I. O. and made frequent trips to "red" Russia.

I have charged that the two men could not work together in the Negro Congress. I said that when the Congress was founded three years ago.

Now Davis and Randolph at Washington, only a few weeks ago, came to the parting of the ways, Randolph, disgusted, dismayed, and disappointed to find that he had been duped so long. Mr. Randolph admits that the organization he has headed since its beginning has been turned over to the Communists.

In his farewell message he states, "I am convinced that until the stigma of the Communist taint is wiped from the Negro Congress, it will never rally the masses of the Negro people."

Mr. Randolph says further, "I consider the Communists a definite menace and a danger to the Negro people and labor because of their rule or ruin and disruptive tactics."

He said, but almost too late, "I quit the Congress because I was opposed to it and its officials expressing sympathy for the Soviet Union, which is a death prison where democracy and liberty have walked their last mile and where shocking blood purges wipe out any and all persons who express any dissenting opinions from dictator Stalin."

The internationally known labor leader, orator, scholar, and genius of his race, warned his people just as I have been doing for many years in Houston, Texas, and throughout the South, that "the Negro must beware of all subtle forms of Communist propaganda poisoned to save themselves from destruction. It seems to be beyond the realm of debate that the Negro people cannot afford to add to the handicap of being BLACK—the handicap of being RED."

As I See It, just as A. Phillip Randolph has discovered that the Communists were firmly in the saddle of the Negro Congress and the delegates were not subject to the influence of facts and reason, many of the other Negro leaders both in labor, civic and even religious movements, are going to find out the same thing.

Many of the white leaders in politics, business and religion, who feel that "It Can't Happen Here," and are passive in their actions and expressions, will discover soon in many of their organizations a more serious situation than A. Phillip Randolph found in the National Negro Congress.

The Dies committee on un-American activities cannot tell all because of political pressure and the people are not really ready to accept the truth.

5 STATES OPPOSE PLEA BY PULLMAN

10% Rate Rise Sought to Pay Dividends, Commissions Charge in I.C.C. Brief

PRODIGALITY IS SCORED

Boards of Idaho, New Jersey, New Hampshire, North Dakota and Utah Fight Move

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The Pullman Company in a brief filed today with the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Railroad Regulatory Commissions of Idaho, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Dakota and Utah, was charged with seeking a 10 per cent rate increase to pay dividends.

The company's application for a 10 per cent increase, on which the commission is expected soon to hand down its decision, was made "to enable dividends to be paid in a time of great depression, despite the recent prodigal distribution of quick treasury assets," the brief said.

The State commissions said there would have been no interruption of dividends in 1931, "but for the prodigality of the company in paying special dividends." It paid special dividends aggregating 19 per cent in 1930, distributing in cash the government securities $27,325,986, they added.

"This squandering of its quick treasury assets in 1930 when the period of scant earnings had already begun," the commissions declared, "constitutes no justification for an increase in the petitioner's rates to enable dividends to be paid out of earnings in a time of extreme economic depression."

In reply to the assertion of company officials that their revenues were used to a large extent in meeting recent pay increases for employes, the commissions said the record showed the increases were made voluntarily by the company.

The commissions asked the I. C. C. to take into account, in passing upon the justice and reasonableness of the petitioner's rates, "the fact that substantial amounts of money are being paid by the Pullman Company to the Pullman Standard Car and Manufacturing Company as a manufacturer's profit upon equipment purchased, and that such profit represents nothing more than the changing of money from one pocket to another by Pullman, Inc., which owns the stock of the petitioner and of the Pullman Car and Manufacturing Company."

"No public utility company," the brief declared, "in a period of economic adversity, has a right to expect to earn a return upon the value of its property equal to a fair return in normal times. The prospective return of the Pullman Company, as indicated by the evidence, is a fair return, taking into account present and prospective economic conditions of the country."

Browning Delays Order for Troops To Enter Memphis

Crump Ready To Ask U. S. Court To Block Guard

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 1.—A statement by Governor Gordon Browning that he would not send troops into Memphis for Election Day duty "unless I change my mind" today somewhat eased the tenseness over the Tennessee Democratic primary Thursday.

A Governor, United States Senator and Public Utilities Commissioner are to be nominated but a break between Mr. Browning and National Committeeman E. H. Crump, leader of the potent Shelby County (Memphis) political organization, far outshadowed all other activities.

Citadel of Crump.

Memphis is the citadel of Mr. Crump, whose organization is supporting Prentice Cooper, Shelbyville attorney, against Browning's bid for renomination.

Governor Browning, who invades the Crump stronghold tonight for a campaign speech, before his statement last night had promised to reveal tomorrow his plans about some 1,200 militiamen, carrying full field equipment and ordered concentrated in three camps "subject to duty for the State."

The troops were held from scheduled movement into Mississippi for third army maneuvers by verbal orders from Governor Browning to Adjutant General R. O. Smith.

No Orders Given.

The Governor said last night, however, that no orders had been given for a troop movement to Memphis, "and will not be unless I change my mind."

Crump organization attorneys had prepared a petition for a federal injunction to keep the soldiers out of the city, but the Governor said "the threat of Federal Court injunction has no bearing whatever on my course."

"It is silly," he added, "to think the Governor of a State cannot send his National Guard to prevent the stealing of elections if he chooses."

When informed of the Governor's statement, Mr. Crump, in Memphis, said:—

"We've got him on the ropes—he's groggy. The people of Tennessee will give the final wallop on August 4, and he realizes it fully."

TO VISIT HERE

A. PHILLIP RANDOLPH, famous and militant labor leader whose signal victory over the Pullman Company last year marked the end of a ten-year struggle and set a record for Negro labor organizations, will come to New Orleans June 10-17 as the guest of the local branch of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and Maids.

AMSTERDAM NEWS

RANDOLPH HEADS COMMITTEE FOR BIG ART BENEFIT

Program at Savoy May 3 for Center Here

Stage and screen stars, two swing bands, a big apple contest and an evening of dancing will fill out the benefit program to be held at the Savoy, May 3 for the Harlem Community Art Center.

The Citizens Sponsoring Committee for the center, of which A. Philip Randolph is chairman, announced that committees are rounding up an impressive list of celebrities of the stage, screen and radio who have indicated their willingness to support the Community Art Center which is located in the heart of Harlem at 290 Lenox Avenue.

Among those invited to be present are two of the outstanding exponents of swing William C. Handy, composer of the St. Louis Blues, and Louis Armstrong. Willie Bryant will serve as master of

Domestic Worker

Devoted to the Social and Economic Welfare of Domestic Employees

Monthly Bulletin of the Domestic Worker Association, 3451 Michigan Ave., Room 8, Cal. 7667

VOL. 1 — No. 1 CHICAGO, ILL., MAY, 1938 PRICE 5

Domestic Workers Meet

STATEMENT BY MARY ANDERSON, DIRECTOR, WOMEN'S BUREAU U. S. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Without question domestic workers need to work together to raise their standards of work. It is very important further that this vast group of workers—2,000,000 women and about 200,000 men at the time of the last census count in 1930—be strongly represented in the American labor movement. It is an abvious fact that the low wages paid domestic workers affect directly the wages paid other workers. Domestic workers are consumers whose low purchasing power needs materially to be raised that they may buy more products and services and so provide employment for workers in other fields.

Dep't of Labor Official and Domestic Leader

MISS MARY ROBINSON

Director of Public Information Women's Bureau, U. S. Dep't of Labor. Miss Robinson will attend the Domestic Workers Conference May 19-22.

MISS NEVA RYAN

President of the Domestic Workers Association. President Ryan announces an extensive organization campaign after the conference

Outstanding Labor and Liberal Leaders to Attend Conference

Domestic Workers Hold Confab.

East side, west side, northside, southside, all around the town domestic workers throughout the city of Chicago will raise the voices against the lowly standar of household employment M 19-22 at the Womens Trade Uni League, 630 South Ashland Bl

Also attending the conferen will be many outstanding libe and labor leaders. Miss M Robinson, Director of Public formation Womens Bureau, U Department of Labor will att and participate in the conferen Mr. John Fitzpatrick, Presid of the Chicago Federation of bor will be represented by M Henrietta Macy, Organizer for Womens Trade Union League, Miss Agnes Nestor President the Womens Trade Union Lea of Chicago. Other who will att are: Miss Fern Dunkin, Chai of the National Council of Ho hold Employees; Miss Thyra wards, lecturer, social worker Chairman of the Citizens Com tee of the Domestic Workers sociation; Miss Annetta Di man, Industrial Secretary, M politian YWCA; Miss Li Herstein, Vice President of American Federation of Teach and Miss Ernestine Friedman, cialist in Workers Education.

This conference, the first its kind in the city of Chi is being sponsored by the Dom Workers Association. Orga in 1933 under the leadersh Miss Neva Ryan the D.W.A. limited funds and volunteer workers has consistently been champion of the Chicago dom worker. Against great od has been able not only to ho membership but also to cons increase its membership.

The conference will open at A .M. Thursday morning and w continue through until 10 P. the same day.

Friday will be devoted t dividual and committee confer with Miss Robinson. Friday at 8 P .M. a radio program be broadcasted over station W

Saturday night, a dance dramatic program will be h Hull House. The Womens tic Group of the ILGWU

52,000 Domestic Workers in Chicago

Over 50,000 of the 2 million women in domestic and personal service employment in the United States are working in Chicago. Of this number approximately 20,000 are native white and foreign born and 32,000 Negroes.

DESIGN FOR BUILDING A DOMESTIC WORKERS UNION

Writing in the May issue of the American Federationist under the title "Domestic Workers and Unions," Jean Collier Brown, Public Information Assistant of the Womens Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, gives a comprehensive outline of the functions of a domestic workers union.

Miss Brown sums up in eight points the whole scope and activity of a progressive and intelligently led domestic workers organization. Included among the points discussed are:

1—A domestic workers union can raise standards of employment in a given community through the signing of union contracts.

2—A domestic workers union can make a significant contribution in a community through the means of a careful classification of domestic workers according to the jobs they do—as cooks, general house-workers, waitresses etc., and definite description of the duties required of each class and the work conditions stipulated by the union... in addition.... some sort of examination of prospective members by objective tests such as given by unions in other fields.

3—Such unions should attempt to establish their own agencies to place their members so that they can control wages and other employment standards.

4—Further training facilities for domestic workers are urgently needed.... sponsored by unions, to insure work[illegible] skill, to offer them [illegible] wo[illegible]ties for in- [illegible] this ser[illegible]

DOMESTIC WORKERS "SLAVE MART" EXPOSED

Reminiscent of the old southern slave block, modern industrial Chicago carries on an old tradition despite the fast that chattel slavery was declared illegal 73 years ago. However, there is a vast difference between the past and present situation. The "slaves" of 1938 are not unwilling, but willing victims of circumstances who make themselves available by travelling from the southside to the west side and station themselves at strategic points along the throughfares in the area around 16th St. and Kildare awaiting the highest bids for their services as day workers in the homes of shrewd west siders.

Negro women may be found from early spring until late fall auctioning their services in this area whose bounds have broadened until now it covers an area of approximately eight blocks. Today this practise is a definite part of the culture of Chicago's great west side. In no other section of this great metropolis can one find this impromptu community service where the house-wife may venture forth any morning and pick up a bargain in a maid, along with her cabbage and potatoes. All that is required is shrewdness, a quick eye and ability to judge the relative pressure of circumstances on prospective maids.

There is no "servant problem" on the west side because the relationship between employer and employee is a very temporary one. There is no need, under such an arrangement, for anything more than a verbal agreement as t hours and pay for one day's work

Official Organ of the
DOMESTIC WORKERS ASSOCIATION
3451 Michigan Avenue, Chicago
Room 8 CALumet 7667

NEVA RYAN ..... President and Editor
HELEN DOWDY ..... Associate Editor
DORA ALFRED ..... Vice-President and Treas.
HAZEL HAYES ..... Secretary
THYRA EDWARDS
Chairman, Citizens Committee
THELMA KIRKPATRICK
Chairman, Education Committee
LOIS CUGLAR
Secretary, Citizens Committee
ERNEST CALLOWAY
Publicity Director

VOL. 1—No. 1 MAY 1938

Domestic Workers Must Be Organized!

Are domestic workers to be organized? Why should we remain unorganized? Is it because we get more for not being a union member? Are the indecent working hours, hard labor, and certain unpleasantries etc., the advantages keeping us from organizing or joining up? Or maybe we think that we cannot afford to pay dues out or our small wages? Or are we just a disbeliever in the good of unions?

Honestly, we do not believe anyone who is a worker can show why he should stay out of a union. The case is wholly in our favor. Hear our story.

We should unionize—

1. To protect ourselves and our job. This is the most important reason for a union. Dont we know some maids who will work for less than others? Dont we know some house-servants who will overwork themselves without a murmur of complaint? Such women are a threat to us. They put an undue hardship on our efficiency and unknowningly lower our income.

2. Because now the Federal Government is supporting the organizing of workers. Because now the laws of the land protect the unionizing of workers. Because now the Supreme Court has been compelled to recognize the rights of workers and Because public opinion is sympathetic to the cause of unionism.

3. And through a strong union with local and national organizations share in the benefits of the Social Security Law. There are about fifty million women in this land: Ten million of them are domestic workers. This group of workers are among the lowest paid and most highly exploited group of laborers. Day in and day out they worry about the next day's job, the next day's meal. Their lives are an open chapter of worry and anxiety. Insecurity stalks them when they are young. And when they are old, security for old age becomes a serious and anxious and threatening problem.

Yet you—a domestic worker—as well as the agricultural workers are not allowed to share the benefits of the Social Security Law. About two million white domestic workers and nearly a million Negro domestics are excluded. What will force a change in the Law to include you? Only unionism will!

You must unionize! For on that depends the fate of your children, that depends the kind of society we wish to bring into existence. With an affective, hard-working union built to meet the needs of the most lowly of workers, we shall start on a magnificent forward march to protect humanity.

MYSELF

I have to live with myself, and so
I want to be fit for myself to know.
I want to be able, as days go by,
Always to look myself in the eye.
I don't want to stand with the setting sun,
And hate myself for the things I've done.

I don't want to keep on a closet shelf
A lot of secrets about myself,
And fool myself as I come and go
Into thinking that nobody else will know
The kind of a person I really am;
I don't want to dress myself up in a sham.

I want to go out with my head erect,
I want to deserve all men't respect;
But here in the struggle for fame and pelf,
I want to be able to like myself.
I don't want to look at myself and know
That I'm bluster and bluff and empty show.

THE ASSOCIATE EDITOR GREETS THE HOUSEHOLD EMPLOYEES OF CHICAGO

To all household employees on the occasion of our first edition of the DOMESTIC WORKER, the paper of the Chicago household employees.

GREETINGS:

We have long complained of the house maids lot, how long her hours, how hard her work and how in many instances she is under paid. Now we have an opportunity to do something about it.

No group of workers can expect to create outside interest in their problems, get sympathetic co-operation from her imployers or establish any degree of dignity in their occupation or vocation without some kind of organized background. All types of workers; business, professional, educational and labor are represented by some kind of organization except the household employee, and we are one of the groups needing it most.

Your present position may be quite satisfactory, but what if something should happen to that position and you should have to seek another?

Now then, with a good strong organization back of you, co-operation to make your working conditions better, to shorten your hours and to boost your wages, cant you see how necessary it is for you, for me and for all of us

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Suggests

It is interesting to note the number of outstanding Americans who have evinced a desire to see the problems of the domestic worker solved.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt some time ago, held one of her press couferences in which she gave some itneresting light as to her opinions concerning the joint problems of the American domestic worker and the American house-wife. The following statement is taken from a report of this particular conference with the President's wife. "Mrs. Roosevelt suggested a project that she thought would be of considerable value in connection with the training of house-hold employees. She stated that the employer or wife should be educated in regard to the matter of employment of standards at the same time that the worker is being trained and that a project might be established giving the opportunity for the housewife to apply to a definite center where workers have been trained in order to have her own household problems analyzed and to receive definite information as to how her home could maintain satisfactory employment standards so that she could get the maximum of leisure and not overwork the person whom she employs. Mrs. Roosevelt stated that so many housewives feel that their homes are so individual that they cannot fit into a scheme of general employment standards, but she believes that it is possible for all kinds of homes to make the necessary kinds of adjustments in the two communities. She believes that the housewives can make the necessary adjustments to maintain standards if they put good will and intelligence in their efforts."

DOMESTIC WORKERS "SLAVE MART" EXPOSED

(Continued from page 1)

know each others name during the whole period of employment. Then too, there is no personal interest evinced on either side—no sense of personal responsibility on the part of either party—and neither seems to be desired.

For at least eight years this auction system has been operating in the west side area. That there is "undercutting" of the tacit wage standard which ranges from 75c to $1.25 a day, is revealed in a recent survey [illegible]ducted among the domestic [illegible] who frequents

CAR PORTERS

NEW YORK CITY

Miss Neva Ryan, President
Domestic Workers Association
3451 Michigan Ave., Room 8
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sister Ryan:

Permit me to extend, in behalf of the officials and members of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, greetings and felicitations to the Domestic Workers Association in its first city-wide conference on domestic services. The organization of domestic workers is one of the most important movements of the organized labor movement of America. It is the only safeguard against ruthless exploitation and unjust treatment of this class of workers.

Congratulations upon the splendid work of your organization. May I bid you forward, onward and upward! Always press on, and victory is certain to crown your efforts.

Fraternally, yours,

(Signed) A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

International President.

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
International President of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

NATIONAL URBAN LEAGUE

NEW YORK CITY

Workers' Bureau Head

LESTER B. GRANGER
Secretary, Workers Bureau
National Urban League
Chairman

Miss Neva Ryan, President
Domestic Workers Association
3451 Michigan Ave., Room 8
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sister Ryan:

I am sorry to state that it is utterly impossible for me to consider returning to Chicago for the Domestic Workers conference. I don't believe I need to tell you how much I regret this, as you know how deeply interested this office is in the question of improving the situation among domestic workers.

The Workers' Bureau of the National Urban League is already committed to the position that the domestic workers can improve their wage and hour conditions materially only through trade union organization and through wage and hour legislation which will include domestic workers. The chance of getting such legislation passed, however, is very small until domestic workers themselves show enough interest in their economic plight to organize into associations and trade unions for collective bargaining and co-operation with trade union movements. I don't see how any worker in domestic service or any person who is interested in the situation of domestic workers can possible remain indifferent to the need for effective organization.

I wish very much that I could be with you in your discussions and wish for you all the success possible. Please remember me for the next meeting and give me a chance to make plans to be present.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) LESTER B. GRANGER
Secretary, Workers' Bureau.

STATEMENT BY MARY ROBINSON

Director, Division of Public Information, Women's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor

One of the most challenging problems facing women today is that pertaining to household workers. Household employment is still the most understandardized of all types of employment for women as to job performances, training facilities, and working conditions. To protect women in most other occupational fields from exploitation, considerable effort has been made through legislation, organization, and education of public opinion. But for workers in the field of household employment, practically no legal safeguards have been set up as to maximum hours of of work, minimum wages, or regulations of places or policies of employment, and very little has been achieved in building up standards in other ways.

What are the possible solutions? Obviously, the housewives have a crucial role to play in straightening out the troubles. If they hope to secure satisfactory domestic employees they must provide satisfactory standards for their employment, more commensurate with those set up for the other types of workers. It is necessary to remodel the household employment program, which is still, for the most part, characteristic of a horse-and-buggy era, to fit into the new order with its modern labor standards.

The need of a much better training program for domestic service must be recognized in every community and adequate facilities for thi[illegible]rk be established by those agencies best [illegible] for [illegible]vice.

DESIGN FOR BUILDING A DOMESTIC WORKERS UNION

(Continued from page 1)

5—The need for organized domestic workers to aid in the enforcement of laws affecting their welfare is clearly shown in the case of a law providing for a 60 hour week for domestics in the state of Washington.

6—A vigirous workers' education program, particularly in regard to economic and labor problems, seems desirable for household workers as for other employed groups. Domestic workers need to realize their relationship with other workers in building a responsible labor movement.

In her last point Miss Brown discusses the relationship of the domestic workers to the general American labor movement. She states, "Organization of domestic workers are seriously handicapped at the present time by the lack of moral and concrete support by other sections of organized labor, support which they must have if they are to succeed. It should be realized that organization of domestic workers is important to the trade union movement for.... a low paid domestic worker competes with and threatens the security of the factory worker, the office worker, and labor in general. It would be an intelligent investment for garment, laundry and office workers union and the like to contribute annually to the support of organizations and teachers who are promoting workers education and union organization among the house-hold employees of this country.

By HAZEL HAYES

"Man's work is from sun to sun Woman's work is never done!"

This couplet was the theme of an earlier day—a day when the individuality of women's work was more clearly defined and found expression within the bounds of the home. This couplet marked an era of life and living which fell into a simple, familiar pattern.

Woman's accepted place was in the home and though many women sold some of their home-made products in the outside market, there were no serious complications, no great problems relative to compensation.

Within this early framework, there existed still other women whose dusky hands performed arduous tasks in the fields but their relationship to the social order was far different from that of their white sisters. Yet—here too, life flowed along simple, though greatly restricted lines.

The invention of machinery, unprecendented industrial expansion and the Civil and World Wars brought significant and far reaching changes which affected all Americans with a fine impartiality, revolutionizing the whole patters of American life. The Machine Age marked the beginning of a system of production for profit. Women have played their part in this system from the beginning. As the Machine Age developed, as transportation and communication rendered space and time irrelevant, as simple towns grew into vast cities, women turned away from the environs of the home to work for wages in the new industrial fields.

The World War removed many of the prejudices against women in industry and proved conclusively that they could handle many jobs as well as men. Women became an integral part of our industrial life and in 1920 there were over 7 million women at work in many fields, ranging from the factory to the office and from professional fields to the government service.

(To be continued next issue)

Special Bulletin

As we go to press the first session of the city-wide conference is underway. Out of the session devoted to "Legislation for the Domestic Worker," the conference unanimously voted to appoint a legislative committee to work out a legislative program around maximum hours for domestic workers. The committee will make its report at a future conference. Miss Agnes Nestor, president of the Women's Trade Union League, will serve as an advicory member of the committee.

Mrs. THELMA KIRKPATRICK Chairman of the Education Committee of the Domestic Workers Association, who has issue questionaires relative to wages, hours and working conditions which will be circulated among the workers

United Auto Workers Wire Greetings

Miss Neva Ryan
Domestic Workers Association
Chicago.

GREETINGS:

Madam President: Please convey to your City Wide Conference on Domestic Service our Sincere Greetings. I want to say to the splendid showing that your organization is making we feel that your efforts in organizing the Domestic Workers in the City of Chicago places you as a pioneer in one of the greatest needed organizational drive in the United States today. Your slogan "Domestic Workers Must Organize" should be a national slogan placed in every center and on every thoroughfare throughout the United States. I am extremely sorry of the inability of myself or a member of our department to te present at your conference. We bring before this conference our acceptance in giving whatever ser[illegible] possible by the Negro Organizational Department of the [illegible]ted Automobile Workers of

Phones
FAIrfax 2941 and 2942
We Delivery Promptly
Segal's Pharmacy
North West Corner
63rd and EVANS

BLOUNT'S
320 East 58th St.
MAGAZINES, BOOKS and NEWSPAPERS
Rental Library
Went. 2068

MADELINE'S
BEAUTY SHOP
Shampoo, Press and Wave
$1.00 - Wave 50c and 75c
3508 SO. PARKWAY
Cal. 2378

Greetings
MR. AND MRS.
Robert Marcus
Employers

JOHNSON'S GROCERY
655 East 63rd St.
FAIrfax 5323

Greetings to the
Domestic Workers Association
From an Employer

Greetings
From
Mrs. Leah Fink

FACTS ABOUT [illegible]

1—Q. How many women were working for a living in 1930?
A. According to the 1930 census, there were 10,752,116.

2—In what large classification did they find employment?

A. Domestic and personal service	3,180,251
Clerical occupations	1,986,830
Manufacturing and mechanical industries	1,886,307
Trade	962,680
Professional Service	1,415,425

In these five major occupation groups, women outnumbered men only in domestic and personal service, though they almost equalled men in clerical work and are not far behind them in professional service, the last mentioned being due in a large measure to the number of women who are teachers. In the manufacturing and mechanical group and in trade there are more than five men to every woman.

3—What significant change is taking place with reference to this group?
The domestic workers form 3/10 of the gainfully employed women.
There has been a 25 percent increase in this group over the 1910 figures.
Though there still are many more women than men in this work, women lost out somewhat as compared to men in the (1910-1930 period). Men gained as cooks and other servants, women gained as operatives in laundries and rapidly as waiters and beauty shop operators.

4.—Q. How many families are there in the U. S.
A. Nearly thirty million.

5. Q. What is normal size of these families?
A. Four to a family.

6—What is average family income?

7—Q. How many families make use of domestic help?
A. 5 percent uses paid help, 95 percent have no paid help.

8—Q. What do we mean by domestic service?
A. As used by the Federal Government the term means "The group of occupations concerned with the physical care of the house and its members and carries on in private homes for a money wage."

9—Q. What have men done toward protecting their wages, hours, etc.?
A. They have unionized into two large groups of unions: A. F. of L. and the C. I. O.

10—Q. Is this method of use to domestic workers?
A. Surely. The gains made for workers who are members of these unions show the possibilities unionism has for domestics.

11—Q. What are some problems involved in organizing them?
A. "Single rather than group labor, a personal relationship between employer and employee, and individual bargain for employment, and freedom from legislative control and trade-union regulation are prevailing conditions in this type of work."

12—Q. How many domestic workers are in Chicago?
A. 52,000.

14—Q. How many Negro women workers are there?
A. Nearly two million.

15—Q. What are their chief occupations?
A. "It is a well-known fact that the two types of work in which Negro women were occupied in slavery days—domestic and personal service and agriculture—have remained their chief occupations up to the present. However, there has been a rather steady trend away from farm work on the part of Negro women since 1910.
In 1930 (Domestic and personal service work) claimed by far the largest proportion of Negro women workers (well over three-fifths) than did any other main occupation."

Above information was secured from government publications: Employment and Unemployment of Negro Women and Standards of Placement Agencies for Household Employers, U. S. Dept. of Labor: Women's Bureau.

Fraternal Greetings
From
INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF RED CAPS
WILLIARD S. TOWNSEND
Int'l President

TO THE
Domestic Workers Association
GREETINGS
CROWN FUR COMPANY, Inc.
202 SO. STATE STREET (5th Floor)
Let us clean, glaze and re-style your Fur Coat.
Our prices are extremely low. All our work is guaranteed for 3 years. Your visit to our Show-room will be highly appreciated.
COURTESY & SERVICE
Is Our Motto
FOR STORAGE OR CLEANING
Call WABash 7663

Greetings from
Women's Auxiliary
INT'L BROTHERHOOD OF RED CAPS
Hazel Hayes
National Director

Greetings
Edward Bland
Cretora Hayes
Harry I. Jones

Fraternal Greetings
From
JOINT COUNCIL OF DINING CAR EMPLOYEES UNIONS
ISHMAEL P. FLORY
Secretary-Treasurer

Fraternal Greetings
From
BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
MILTON P. WEBSTER
Int'l Vice President

Official Photographer for the Conference
HARRISON'S STUDIO
306 East 43rd Street
HOME PORTRAITS A SPECIALTY
Phone OAKland 3887
Member Photographer Association of America

LEO SCHNEIDER'S
MEN'S, LADIES' AND CHILDRENS' FURNISHING[illegible]

Organized labor can render important service by advising and assisting household workers interested in organization as one method for putting this form of employment on a better basis.

An intensive and extensive educational program is essential in order to safeguard the interests of household employees by means of labor laws more or less similar to those now covering workers in other fields.

WALTER HARDIN
Organization Director of Negro Work United Automobile Workers

America to make the Domestic Workers Association a national organization.

Fraternally

WALTER HARDIN, Director
Negro Organizational Work,
United Automobile Workers of America.

creasing that skill, or to specialize in the better paying branches of house-hold employment.

(Continued on page 3)

so temporary is the relationship that it is not uncommon for "the party of the first part and the party of the second part" not to

(Continued on page 2)

sent some labor skits an bers from "Pins and Need
The closing session will b
Sunday at 7 P. M.

JOIN THE DOMESTIC WORKERS UNION

Greetings
from Chicago–
Tuskegee Club

JOIN YOUR Union

Dry Goods, General Merchandise
Shoes
2359 SO. STATE ST., CHICAGO
Phone VICtory 3484

I never can hide myself from me:
I see what others may never see;
I know what others may never know
I never can fool myself, and so
Whatever happens, I want to be Self-respecting and conscience-free.

—AUTHOR UNKNOWN.

to work wholeheartedly together and make this a worthwhile and far-reaching thing. Because the organization can not progress unless we held it to do so and it can only be what we make it.

Helen Dowdy
Associate Editor
DOMESTIC WORKER.

justments. She said that she was speaking from personal experience in regard to the possibility of adjusting a home to necessary standard , that she has, for example, run a home both in Georgia and in Maine, using native workers in each case, who obviously differ greatly in the this area. In various instances girls who accepted work at a lower rate than 75c have been 'punished' for their audicity.

Two weeks ago, observers from the DOMESTIC WORKERS ASSOCIATION made an investigation of the "slave mart."

E. SIMMS CAMPBELL

Caricaturist, New York City; won $1,000 Hearst prize on tax graft cartoon; illustrator for newspapers, Esquire, Saturday Evening Post, London Spectator, other magazines.

PAUL R. WILLIAMS

Architect, Los Angeles, Calif.; associate architect on $1,600,000 Federal housing project; designer of over 450 homes; employes fifteen draftmen.

—Harris & Ewing.

ARTHUR W. MITCHELL

Congressman, Washington, D. C.; represents First Congressional District of Illinois; only Negro Democrat ever to achieve such distinction; serving second term.

DR. AMBROSE CALIVER

Specialist, Negro education, United States Office of Education, Interior Department, Washington, D. C.; civil service appointee; noted authority in his field.

This newspaper is happy to cooperate with Kappa Alpha Psi, national Negro College fraternity, in presenting the above men for the vocational inspiration of Negro youth during its fifteenth annual "Guide Right" Concentration Week, April 24-30.

The movement, which has as its purpose the vocational guidance of Negro youth, especially high school seniors, along suitable lines, has been endorsed by Commissioner John W. Studebaker of the United States Office of Education as being of "special pertinence at present."

Not [illegible] above men are memb[illegible] Psi but all of the[illegible] are [illegible] tinction in their respe[illegible] Most of them are in voc[illegible] other than those of "the beaten path," and in that the fraternity expresses this hope: "That Negro youths will study these and other fro[illegible] opportunity and be inspire[illegible] think courageously, broadly, deeply, and unlimitedly, in choosing their careers according to their best aptitudes and interests; and that the public at large considering their difficulties

C. A. SCOTT

Journalist, Atlanta, Ga.; general manager, Scott Newspaper Syndicate, publisher of many weeklies and Atlanta Daily World, "The nation's only colored daily newspaper.

THOMAS R. GENTRY

Real estate developer, Tulsa, Okla.; played major role in developing for Tulsa Negroes beautiful residential districts and thriving business centers.

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

Labor leader, New York City; organizer and international president, Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters; recently achieved $1,500,000 wage increase.

BENJAMIN O. DAVIS

Colonel, cavalry, United States Regular Army, Wilberforce, Ohio; began as private; served in Spanish and World wars; now commanding R. O. T. C., Wilberforce University.

will resolve to play a [illegible] in making it easier for [illegible] to eliminate color and prejudice as factors, influencing their decisions."

No part of the United States will go unreached by the eighty-five chapters of the fraternity promoting the "Guide Right" idea. Activities will include mass meetings, self-discovery blanks and expert counselor services for the boys, radio addresses, forum discussions, and various other special features.

The movement is under the direction of the fraternity's Guide Right Commission of which R. J. Reynolds, Topeka, Kan., is director. Other members are H. Stratton Hopson, Columbus, Ohio, first assistant; L. Virgil Williams, Dallas, Texas; Ray B. Ware, Athens, Ga.; John D. Silvera, New York City, and Dr. R. E. Singleton, Chicago, Ill., assistants; Thomas E. Batson, Washington, D. C., statistician; and G. James Fleming, Philadelphia, Pa., public relations associate. This commission was appointed by Theophilus M. Mann, Chicago, grand polemarch of the fraternity.

RAILWAY WAGES

In private life, when a banker is asked to make a loan to a borrower who has got himself into difficulties, he does so only on condition that the borrower will take steps to solve those difficulties. If the borrower is a company that is not earning expenses, the lender will insist that it cut down expenses to a point where they are less than its gross income. But when the United States Government is the lender, apparently these rules are exactly reversed. A bill was all prepared for the RFC to make special loans to railroads to tide them over their present difficulties, but when Senators discovered that the railroads were trying to reduce wages sufficiently to make ends meet, the bill providing for the loans was promptly withdrawn. The loans will be made, it is now hinted, only if the railroads do not attempt this economy. The loans will be made only if the railroads do not take this step to put themselves in a position to be able to pay back. A temporary sop will be extended only if no permanent cure is sought.

Spokesmen for the railroad brotherhoods are outraged by the proposal for a 15 per cent reduction of wages. The railroad workers of America, they say, are "already grossly underpaid." "Wages in the railroad industry rank among the lowest paid in the nation's major industries." Senator McAdoo agrees. "I think the scale of wages on the railroads is already as low as it could possibly be."

Are these statements true? As a matter of fact, railroad wages are the highest in history. Last February the average hourly wage of all railroad workers (though not including the clerical force) was 75 cents compared with an average of 71 cents in manufacturing industry, while average weekly earnings were in excess of $30 compared with an average weekly wage of $23.53 in manufacturing industry.

But the railroad average is brought down by a large number of moderately paid workers and does not indicate what the aristocrats in the Big Four Brotherhoods are getting. In February passenger conductors averaged $1.57 an hour and from $60 to $63 a week; passenger engineers averaged $1.91 an hour and from $65 to $68 a week. As Elisha M. Friedman points out in a remarkable summary of the railroad situation published on this page today, this situation is intensified by all sorts of technical rulings which result in payment for work not done and employment of unnecessary men. He cites among others the anachronistic ruling that one hundred miles constitutes a day's work and another ruling that compels a day's pay for a twelve-minute trip.

Against the contention that the cut in expenses should come out of the bondholders it is sufficient to point out that the bondholders are already taking their share of the cut. About 40 per cent of railroad mileage is in bankruptcy. In the first quarter of this year, as Mr. Friedman points out, seven-eighths of railroad bond interest was not earned; sixty-five railroads tional charge, they would not only be performing a patriotic act but one in their own ultimate self-interest.

Railroad Crisis Demands Prompt and Lasting Solution

Carriers Must Be Allowed Leeway of Free Enterprise and Wage Rates Must Be Made Flexible If the Industry Is to Recover Its Former Position

To the Editor of The New York Times:

This country is faced with the most serious railroad crisis in its history. The earnings of all Class I railroads available for interest for the first quarter of 1938 amounted to $19,000,000. Interest requirement is about $150,000,000 a quarter. In other words, seven-eighths of the railroad bond interest was not earned. Railroads are earning interest charges on one-eighth of the debt and the other seven-eighths is virtually now confiscated. In the first quarter of 1938 sixty-five Class I railroads failed to earn even taxes and expenses before interest.

The securities of twenty roads in receivership or bankruptcy dropped from a total value of $3,738,000,000 on June 30, 1929, to $630,000,000 on Nov. 18, 1937, causing an actual or potential loss to investors of $3,018,000,000. The market for railroad stocks has been more inactive and their market values have declined in even greater proportion.

The features of private property in the railroads have all but disappeared. Without the government's consent the railroads may not fix selling prices or wage rates. They may not borrow money or fix the price or the rate of borrowing. They may not expand or abandon facilities. The sole remaining private right, unrestricted by the government, is the right to go into bankruptcy. And they have done so.

Receiverships Hit Record

Railroad receiverships now number the highest in history. At the end of 1937, companies operating 77,135 miles were in the courts, compared to a previous high record in 1894 of 41,000 miles.

The railroads are buffeted between apathetic investors on the one hand and short-sighted and aggressive labor unions on the other. Government bureaus without responsibility or with divided responsibility stand by, insensitive or impotent. As for the railroad managers, government regulation for fifty years has dimmed initiative.

There is only one organized party whose needs are actually considered—the railroad brotherhoods. Who are the other parties?

(1) The consumer—130,000,000 people who need cheap transportation. (2) The shipper. (3) The private investor, not merely the 1,000,000 individuals owning railroad securities, but 64,000,000 people who own life insurance policies. These are, in the main, poor people, working people, the masses. Then there are 44,000,000 bank depositors.

There are about $12,000,000,000 of railroad bonds outstanding. Of these, 55 per cent are held by life insurance companies, savings banks, universities, hospitals, foundations, etc. The 40 per cent shrinkage in the valuation of railroad bonds in the past two years has caused a loss to this part of the American people of about $5,000,000,000.

4. The workers in the railroad supply industry, over 395,000 men who lose their jobs when railroad credit is injured or destroyed. Furthermore, the railroad equipment industry gives work, directly and indirectly, to another 500,000 men who likewise become unemployed when railroad credit is impaired. Comparing the fifteen years 1916 to 1930 with the right of way and pay heavy taxes on it. The heavy buses and heavy trucks are using the highway. They pay less than adequate charges for the use of the right of way and in most cases do not pay for the extra wear and tear. They enjoy special subsidies by the taxpayer.

3. The separation of rate-making and wage-setting is basically unsound. Railroad rates are low compared to the wholesale price index. Wage rates are high compared to the cost of living index. The railroad workers refused the responsibility in 1937 of finding the income out of which increased wages might be paid.

To bring railway rates back to the level of 1926 would require an increase of 15½ per cent in revenue per ton-mile. Since 1906, when government regulation of railway rates began, commodity prices have risen 41 per cent, but railroad ton-mile-revenues only 25 per cent.

4. Railroad taxes have risen sensationally from $98,000,000 in 1911 to $319,000,000 in 1936. As a percentage of interest charges, taxes have risen from 13 per cent in 1890, 17 in 1900, 25 in 1910, 59 in 1920 and 68 in 1936.

Wages Main Issue

5. However, these difficulties are of lesser importance. The major issue is wages. There is a strange silence about this whole problem. It has never been referred to by members of Congress or by government officials until the cautious suggestion by Commissioner Eastman for an impartial investigation. But the combined income account of all Class I railroads tells the story.

CLASS I STEAM RAILROADS—YEAR ENDED DEC. 31, 1936.
(Millions)

Gross sales		$4,053
Cost of sales:
Wages and salaries	$1,738
Materials and supplies	1,310
Taxes	320
Depreciation	193
Total	$3,561	$3,561
Balance for interest		$ 492
Interest charges		496
Balance for equity		$ —4

In other words, interest charges were not earned in a year when the Federal Reserve Board index of production was at the highest level since 1929. Why?

First, railroad wages are the highest in the fifteen groups of workers cited by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The excessive wages paid to the train service crews raise the average, and the shopmen, maintenance men and clerical staff, who are not overpaid, suffer in rates and unemployment as a result.

In October, 1935, bus drivers received from 65 to 77 cents an hour, and were paid only for hours worked. Railroad passenger engineers averaged $1.84 an hour and were paid in addition about 50 per cent for hours not worked.

Secondly, wages were raised $320,000,000 in 1935 and 1937.

"Make-Work" Costly

Thirdly, under technical rulings which about fifty years ago set 100 miles as a day's work, and under other "make work" devices, the train and engine crews are paid for work not done.

railroad bonds in RFC loans or in life insurance portfolios is a polite lie and really disguises the trouble.

Bankruptcy is not a solution. If the interest charges on the railroads were halved in reorganization, one good wage increase would wipe out the saving.

A government guarantee would merely enable the fundamental unsoundness to persist. It would maintain high wages for the four train service brotherhoods and ignore the interest of other railroad employes and of 130,000,000 people.

Danger in Proposal

Government ownership, advocated by the Big Four brotherhoods, is not a solution. Having bankrupted private capital, these unions are now looking for a new source of funds to debauch. The Federal Treasury would be ideal unless all other groups, taking their cue from the brotherhoods, likewise fastened themselves on the public treasury. The political risk involved in government ownership is grave. One million railroad workers with their wives and adult children could swing an election, break the budget and destroy the very concept of democracy.

Any solution must come through an analysis of the facts, the income account and the balance sheet, and not out of any doctrinaire approach to economic problems.

The near-term remedies should remove some of the difficulties.

Competition subsidized out of the Treasury must cease. Waterways should become self-supporting or be abandoned. The competition of less regulated transportation must cease. The heavy buses and trucks should be made to pay their full share for the use of the highways.

The railroads should not be taxed more heavily than any other neighboring property. Interstate shippers and nationwide consumers must not be taxed to pay for local schools and hospitals. Excessive regulation should be supplanted by a sensible and flexible regulation.

Equalized Wages

The last two wage increases in the railroads should be suspended immediately until the traffic can stand the additional charge. The wage rates on trucks, buses and waterways should be equalized with railroad standards. Here is a socially constructive task for the railroad unions. Their present course is self-destructive.

The long-term solution would involve several factors. The problem needs a unified approach. The treatment should be integrated, not fragmentary.

1. Rate-making and wage-setting, or power and responsibility should be unified.

2. Transportation is essentially a monopoly. Therefore competition should not be required. The unification of government regulation of all aspects of transport agencies in a coordinated scheme is essential. Uniformity should be required for all agencies, in standards of safety, wage scales, labor standards, rate-making, accounting and depreciation and taxation.

There should be coordinated operation of railroads, waterways, trucks, buses and all the agencies of transportation. They are essentially supplementary.

THE NEW YORK TIMES, SUNDAY, MAY 22, 1938.

RAILWAY WAGES

In private life, when a banker is asked to make a loan to a borrower who has got himself into difficulties, he does so only on condition that the borrower will take steps to solve those difficulties. If the borrower is a company that is not earning expenses, the lender will insist that it cut down expenses to a point where they are less than its gross income. But when the United States Government is the lender, apparently these rules are exactly reversed. A bill was all prepared for the RFC to make special loans to railroads to tide them over their present difficulties, but when Senators discovered that the railroads were trying to reduce wages sufficiently to make ends meet, the bill providing for the loans was promptly withdrawn. The loans will be made, it is now hinted, only if the railroads do not attempt this economy. The loans will be made only if the railroads do not take this step to put themselves in a position to be able to pay back. A temporary sop will be extended only if no permanent cure is sought.

Spokesmen for the railroad brotherhoods are outraged by the proposal for a 15 per cent reduction of wages. The railroad workers of America, they say, are "already grossly underpaid." "Wages in the railroad industry rank among the lowest paid in the nation's major industries." Senator McAdoo agrees. "I think the scale of wages on the railroads is already as low as it could possibly be."

Are these statements true? As a matter of fact, railroad wages are the highest in history. Last February the average hourly wage of all railroad workers (though not including the clerical force) was 75 cents compared with an average of 71 cents in manufacturing industry, while average weekly earnings were in excess of $30 compared with an average weekly wage of $23.53 in manufacturing industry.

But the railroad average is brought down by a large number of moderately paid workers and does not indicate what the aristocrats in the Big Four Brotherhoods are getting. In February passenger conductors averaged $1.57 an hour and from $60 to $63 a week; passenger engineers averaged $1.91 an hour and from $65 to $68 a week. As Elisha M. Friedman points out in a remarkable summary of the railroad situation published on this page today, this situation is intensified by all sorts of technical rulings which result in payment for work not done and employment of unnecessary men. He cites among others the anachronistic ruling that one hundred miles constitutes a day's work and another ruling that compels a day's pay for a twelve-minute trip.

Against the contention that the cut in expenses should come out of the bondholders it is sufficient to point out that the bondholders are already taking their share of the cut. About 40 per cent of railroad mileage is in bankruptcy. In the first quarter of this year, as Mr. Friedman points out, seven-eighths of railroad bond interest was not earned; sixty-five railroads even failed to earn taxes and expenses before interest. The purely political slogan that no wage rate must be cut, no matter how it was achieved, no matter how high it is compared with other wage rates, no matter what effect it is having in bringing about economic paralysis and intensifying unemployment, must at some point or other yield to the realities of the situation. If the railway workers would allow their last two wage increases to be suspended until the traffic could stand the additional charge, they would not only be performing a patriotic act but one in their own ultimate self-interest.

Railroad Crisis Demands Prompt and Lasting Solution

Carriers Must Be Allowed Leeway of Free Enterprise and Wage Rates Must Be Made Flexible If the Industry Is to Recover Its Former Position

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEW YORK TIMES:

This country is faced with the most serious railroad crisis in its history. The earnings of all Class I railroads available for interest for the first quarter of 1938 amounted to $19,000,000. Interest requirement is about $150,000,000 a quarter. In other words, seven-eighths of the railroad bond interest was not earned. Railroads are earning interest charges on one-eighth of the debt and the other seven-eighths is virtually now confiscated. In the first quarter of 1938 sixty-five Class I railroads failed to earn even taxes and expenses before interest.

The securities of twenty roads in receivership or bankruptcy dropped from a total value of $3,738,000,000 on June 30, 1929, to $630,000,000 on Nov. 18, 1937, causing an actual or potential loss to investors of $3,018,000,000. The market for railroad stocks has been more inactive and their market values have declined in even greater proportion.

The features of private property in the railroads have all but disappeared. Without the government's consent the railroads may not fix selling prices or wage rates. They may not borrow money or fix the price or the rate of borrowing. They may not expand or abandon facilities. The sole remaining private right, unrestricted by the government, is the right to go into bankruptcy. And they have done so.

Receiverships Hit Record

Railroad receiverships now number the highest in history. At the end of 1937, companies operating 77,135 miles were in the courts, compared to a previous high record in 1894 of 41,000 miles.

The railroads are buffeted between apathetic investors on the one hand and short-sighted and aggressive labor unions on the other. Government bureaus without responsibility or with divided responsibility stand by, insensitive or impotent. As for the railroad managers, government regulation for fifty years has dimmed initiative.

There is only one organized party whose needs are actually considered—the railroad brotherhoods. Who are the other parties?

(1) The consumer—130,000,000 people who need cheap transportation. (2) The shipper. (3) The private investor, not merely the 1,000,000 individuals owning railroad securities, but 64,000,000 people who own life insurance policies. These are, in the main, poor people, working people, the masses. Then there are 44,000,000 bank depositors.

There are about $12,000,000,000 of railroad bonds outstanding. Of these, 55 per cent are held by life insurance companies, savings banks, universities, hospitals, foundations, etc. The 40 per cent shrinkage in the valuation of railroad bonds in the past two years has caused a loss to this part of the American people of about $5,000,000,000.

4. The workers in the railroad supply industry, over 895,000 men who lose their jobs when railroad credit is injured or destroyed. Furthermore, the railroad equipment industry gives work, directly and indirectly, to another 500,000 men who likewise become unemployed when railroad credit is impaired. Comparing the fifteen years 1916 to 1930 with the [illegible]

right of way and pay heavy taxes on it. The heavy buses and heavy trucks are using the highway. They pay less than adequate charges for the use of the right of way and in most cases do not pay for the extra wear and tear. They enjoy special subsidies by the taxpayer.

3. The separation of rate-making and wage-setting is basically unsound. Railroad rates are low compared to the wholesale price index. Wage rates are high compared to the cost of living index. The railroad workers refused the responsibility in 1937 of finding the income out of which increased wages might be paid.

To bring railway rates back to the level of 1926 would require an increase of 15½ per cent in revenue per ton-mile. Since 1906, when government regulation of railway rates began, commodity prices have risen 41 per cent, but railroad ton-mile-revenues only 25 per cent.

4. Railroad taxes have risen sensationally from $98,000,000 in 1911 to $319,000,000 in 1936. As a percentage of interest charges, taxes have risen from 13 per cent in 1890, 17 in 1900, 25 in 1910, 59 in 1920 and 68 in 1936.

Wages Main Issue

5. However, these difficulties are of lesser importance. The major issue is wages. There is a strange silence about this whole problem. It has never been referred to by members of Congress or by government officials until the cautious suggestion by Commissioner Eastman for an impartial investigation. But the combined income account of all Class I railroads tells the story.

CLASS I STEAM RAILROADS—YEAR ENDED DEC. 31, 1936.
(Millions)

Gross sales		$4,053
Cost of sales:
Wages and salaries	$1,738
Materials and supplies	1,310
Taxes	320
Depreciation	193
Total	$3,561	$3,561
Balance for interest		$ 492
Interest charges		496
Balance for equity		$ —4

In other words, interest charges were not earned in a year when the Federal Reserve Board index of production was at the highest level since 1929. Why?

First, railroad wages are the highest in the fifteen groups of workers cited by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The excessive wages paid to the train service crews raise the average, and the shopmen, maintenance men and clerical staff, who are not overpaid, suffer in rates and unemployment as a result.

In October, 1935, bus drivers received from 65 to 77 cents an hour, and were paid only for hours worked. Railroad passenger engineers averaged $1.84 an hour and were paid in addition about 50 per cent for hours not worked.

Secondly, wages were raised $320,000,000 in 1935 and 1937.

"Make-Work" Costly

Thirdly, under technical rulings which about fifty years ago set 100 miles as a day's work, and under other "make work" devices, the train and engine crews are paid for work not done.

railroad bonds in RFC loans or in life insurance portfolios is a polite lie and really disguises the trouble.

Bankruptcy is not a solution. If the interest charges on the railroads were halved in reorganization, one good wage increase would wipe out the saving.

A government guarantee would merely enable the fundamental unsoundness to persist. It would maintain high wages for the four train service brotherhoods and ignore the interest of other railroad employes and of 130,000,000 people.

Danger in Proposal

Government ownership, advocated by the Big Four brotherhoods, is not a solution. Having bankrupted private capital, these unions are now looking for a new source of funds to debauch. The Federal Treasury would be ideal unless all other groups, taking their cue from the brotherhoods, likewise fastened themselves on the public treasury. The political risk involved in government ownership is grave. One million railroad workers with their wives and adult children could swing an election, break the budget and destroy the very concept of democracy.

Any solution must come through an analysis of the facts, the income account and the balance sheet, and not out of any doctrinaire approach to economic problems.

The near-term remedies should remove some of the difficulties.

Competition subsidized out of the Treasury must cease. Waterways should become self-supporting or be abandoned. The competition of less regulated transportation must cease. The heavy buses and trucks should be made to pay their full share for the use of the highways.

The railroads should not be taxed more heavily than any other neighboring property. Interstate shippers and nation-wide consumers must not be taxed to pay for local schools and hospitals. Excessive regulation should be supplanted by a sensible and flexible regulation.

Equalized Wages

The last two wage increases in the railroads should be suspended immediately until the traffic can stand the additional charge. The wage rates on trucks, buses and waterways should be equalized with railroad standards. Here is a socially constructive task for the railroad unions. Their present course is self-destructive.

The long-term solution would involve several factors. The problem needs a unified approach. The treatment should be integrated, not fragmentary.

1. Rate-making and wage-setting, or power and responsibility should be unified.

2. Transportation is essentially a monopoly. Therefore competition should not be required. The unification of government regulation of all aspects of transport agencies in a coordinated scheme is essential. Uniformity should be required for all agencies, in standards of safety, wage scales, labor standards, rate-making, accounting and depreciation and taxation.

There should be coordinated operation of railroads, waterways, trucks, buses and all the agencies of transportation. They are essentially supplementary.

[illegible]

THE TOPEKA DAILY CAPITAL
Sunday, April 24, 1938

National "Guide Right" Week for Negro Youth

A. A. ALEXANDER

Civil engineer, Des Moines, Iowa, builder of Iowa University's $500,000 heating plant and many government projects; recently finished big project, Cairo, Egypt.

R. R. WRIGHT SR.

Banker, Philadelphia, Pa.; president, Citizens & Southern Bank & Trust Company which has $750,000 in resources, and remained open thruout depression.

F. S. RANSOM

General manager, Mme. C. J. Walker Manufacturing Company, Indianapolis, Ind.; specialty, cosmetic preparations; employs over 1,100 Negroes.

C. C. SPAULDING

Insurance pioneer, Durham, N. C.; president, North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, with over $40,000,000 insurance in force; operates in eight states.

CARTER G. WOODSON

Historian, Washington, D. C.; his book, "The Negro in Our History," is a text in many schools; editor, The Journal of Negro History.

JOHN M. WRIGHT

Bookkeeper - accountant, Topeka, Kan.; former city treasurer, county treasurer, county clerk, present first deputy county treasurer; auditor for big corporations.

SAMUEL PLATO

General contractor, Louisville, Ky. As competitive bidder has erected United States post offices in eight states since 1931 costing several million dollars.

JOSEPH L. JONES

Oil magnate, Shreveport, La.; president, Universal Oil, Gas & Mining Corporation; capital stock $200,000; employes all Negro mechanical crew; holdings extensive in Texas.

NEW YORK, SUNDAY, APRIL 24, 1938.
TIMES

Nazis to Purge Vienna Library; 'Non-Aryan' Works to Be Burned

Part of Famed 1,200,000-Volume Austrian National Collection Will Be Destroyed —Begun in Sixteenth Century

By The Associated Press.

VIENNA, April 23. — Austria's Nazi chieftains today started a purge of proscribed "non-Aryan" volumes in the Austrian National Library, ranked among the world's finest.

Lists were sent to the chief librarian of books to be removed and burned from among the 1,200,000 volumes housed in the magnificent Hofburg, once home of the imperial Habsburgs.

It was not disclosed what books were designated of the valuable collection, which includes thousands of ancient papyrus works and manuscripts.

A private Viennese collection also was visited by officials seeking books outlawed by the Nazis.

Public bookshops already have had their own purge two weeks ago, when the works of Thomas Mann, Stefan Zweig, Jacob Wassermann, Vicki Baum and many others were relegated to cellars or destroyed.

Vienna's National Library, one of the world's most magnificent examples of baroque architecture, contains thousands of volumes and manuscripts of inestimable worth, in several collections. The first was begun in the sixteenth century when Maximilian I was emperor. From 1624 publishers connected with Frankfurt Fairs had to supply the library with copies of their books; and from 1809 to 1848 the same rule applied to all publishers in Austria and Hungary. In 1920 the rule was restricted to Austrian publishers. The library's book collection numbers 1,200,000 volumes. It is especially rich in German and Slavonic literature from old Austria-Hungary.

Its manuscript collection contains 30,000 Western and 4,000 Oriental, Greek and Slavonic manuscripts; 60,000 autographs, and 9,000 incunabula. The library's music department includes 19,000 printed scores, 12,000 volumes of manuscript, 3,000 sets of vocal music in manuscript, 8,000 volumes of reference works, and a famous collection of photographs of music manuscripts from other libraries. It has autograph scores of Bach, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Bruckner, Hugo Wolf and Richard Strauss. Of the last-named, it possesses the score

Continued on Page Thirty-six

FUR STRIKERS GET SETTLEMENT PLAN

Mass Meetings Today to Vote on Tentative Agreement

Settlement of the strike of 15,000 fur workers by [illegible] was predicted yesterday by Paul Abelson, impartial chairman of the fur industry, who has been mediating between the Association of Fur Coat and Trimming Manufacturers, Inc., and the International Fur Workers Union. A tentative agreement has been reached.

Representing the employers have been Louis F. White, president of the association; Irving Armheim and Louis Fenster. The conferees for the union are Ben Gold, international president; Irving Potash, manager of the Furriers Joint Council of New York City, and Joseph Winogradsky, assistant manager.

Mass meetings to consider the tentative agreement were called by the union for this morning. The first meeting will be at the Royal Windsor, Sixty-sixth Street and Columbus Avenue, at 10 A. M. The other meeting will be at the Hippodrome, Forty-third Street and Sixth Avenue, at 11 A. M. The meetings will hear a report from the general strike committee.

An unintentional burglar alarm rung by a switchboard operator for Ritter Brothers, fur manufacturers, on the fourteenth floor at 224 West Thirtieth Street, caused excitement two hours after the settlement was reached but before it became generally known. Nearly 1,000 persons gathered as policemen entered the building with drawn pistols. The girl had accidentally touched the button beside her board.

URGES JOB INSURANCE FOR 15,000,000 MORE

Advisory Council Calls on the Security Board for Later Data

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP).—The Social Security Board began studies today looking to inclusion of an estimated 15,000,000 additional persons under Federal old-age insurance.

The Advisory Council asked the board to provide data by Sept. 15 on possible methods of extending the coverage to domestic servants, farm laborers and self-employed workers.

It also recommended that the 570,000 employes of non-profit religious, charitable and educational institutions, now excluded, be brought under the plans.

Board officials estimated, on the basis of 1930 census returns, that there were 2,800,000 agricultural workers, 2,103,000 servants and 10,646,294 self-employed workers, including those engaged in farming and fishing.

About 38,000,000 workers in business and industry are now under Federal old-age insurance.

The council, composed of twenty-five persons representing employes, employers and the public, is headed by J. Douglas Brown of Princeton University. It was created last year to study the Social Security Act and recommend improvements. The report to the board opposed any change at present in social security tax rates.

Bills pending in Congress would add 600,000 workers to those included under the old-age plan. They provide for inclusion of an estimated 300,000 employes of member banks of the Federal Reserve System and an equal number of maritime workers.

"THE NEGRO PEOPLE AT THE CROSS ROADS"

Tampa Tribune April 30, 1938

MR. A. PHILLIP RANDOLPH

International President Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters' Union

The Tampa divisi[illegible] Brotherhood [illegible] Sleeping [illegible] Union will [illegible] mass meeting at St. Paul AME Church Thursday [illegible] May [illegible] which promises to be [illegible] and beneficial. Mr. A. Phillip Randolph, the international president, will address the audience; his subject will be "The Negro People at the Cross Roads." Mr. Milton P. Webster, first international vice president will accompany Mr. Randolph to the city. All Tampans are cordially invited to be present.

Mr. M. Gregory, president and Mr. H. P. Stephen is secretary of the Tampa division.

AUSTRIAN PROVINCE OUSTS 3,000 JEWS

Men, Women and Children Are Driven From Homes, Taken to Vienna and Left Penniless

BOYCOTT STARTED IN CITY

Elderly Persons Forced to Scrub Street in Rain at 4 A. M.—Many Monarchists Jailed

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 23.—The following information is from a competent informant who has just come from Austria:

More than 3,000 Jews in the province of Burgenland were expelled from their homes last week by local Nazi organizations. They were driven to the near-by Hungarian border, but the Hungarian authorities refused to receive them because they were Austrian citizens.

The Jews, including many women and hundreds of children, were then driven in trucks to Vienna and left in the city's Jewish quarters. They had been forced to leave their homes without an opportunity to remove any of their belongings, and they arrived penniless and without overcoats although the weather was unusually cold. The children were half-frozen and starving.

The Vienna Jewish community has collected funds for them and has installed them in synagogues and other buildings.

The Burgenland Jews had been settled for many centuries in that former Hungarian province. Burgenland has turned violently Nazi since former Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg's downfall, however, and Nazi agitators harangued the inhabitants, urging them to drive the Jews from the province. The Jews were forced to close their stores and were then expelled.

Homes Wrecked by Mob

Shortly before Easter several of the fugitives were permitted to return to their homes, which they found partly wrecked by a mob.

The Jews of Vienna have been ordered to pay 800,000 schillings, representing the amount they had contributed to Dr. Schuschnigg's election fund. Thus far only 100,000 schillings has been collected, and until the total has been paid hundreds of employes will not receive their salaries.

The main synagogue in the Seitenstaettengasse, which has been occupied by Nazi Elite Guards, is now allowed to be used by the Jewish community. The building itself, however, is still occupied by the Elite Guards, who have loudspeakers and phonographs at its windows broadcasting anti-Jewish addresses and songs.

Jews are still being forced by Elite Guards and Storm Troops to scrub sidewalks. In several instances the latter have mixed sulphuric and other acids with water so that scrubbers have been injured. Around the scrubbers large Nazi crowds gather chanting anti-Jewish slogans.

In many cases elderly men and women are forced to dance before crowds and shout, "I am a dirty Jew!"

There are cases of elderly persons who have been called at 4 in the morning to leave their homes, follow Storm Troopers and scrub streets in a pouring rain. Several have committed suicide afterward.

Jewish girls have been forced to go to Storm Troop barracks to clean the floor and kiss it. Doctors and lawyers are constantly employed to clean automobiles used by the Nazi party. More than 1,200 automobiles belonging to Jews are still confiscated and used by Nazis, the proprietors being forced to pay for repairs and in many cases for gasoline also.

Legitimist Chiefs Jailed

Legitimists and Catholics have been treated ruthlessly by the new regime. Almost all the Legitimist leaders are under arrest and have not even been heard yet by investigating magistrates. Several have been transferred to the concentration camp at Dachau, near Munich.

Leading Catholic politicians have also been arrested. Against several of them, notably former Mayor Kollmann of Banden-bei-Wien, have been laid charges of embezzlement of public funds.

Even former Nazis who show reluctance to follow the party in its Minister of War, was transferred today to the concentration camp at Dachau.

When the regime changed, General Vaugoin, who was president of the Austrian Federal railways, was in Italy, but he returned to Vienna, where he was immediately arrested. It was officially reported that his arrest was connected with financial irregularities discovered after the crash some years ago of the Phoenix Insurance Company, of which he was vice president.

The president of Vienna's Jewish community, Desider Friedmann, whose release from Dachau was reported yesterday, returned today to Vienna, where he was immediately rearrested.

Concerning the confiscation of the property of Baron Alfons von Rothschild, it was explained officially today that the measure was related to what were described as unsatisfactory features of the Creditanstalt crash some years ago.

Baron von Rothschild, it was stated, offered the receiver of this concern a quite valueless tract in a mountain district, whose upkeep cost more than it could produce. Consequently, it was declared, the new regime had decided to obtain better guarantees for the creditors.

Regarding the confiscation of the Habsburg properties, it was explained that the estates restored by the Schuschnigg government some months ago under a special law would be employed by the new regime for the benefit of wounded World War veterans, the original intention when they were first confiscated by the republic.

GARMENT UNION GIVES $15,[redacted] DRIVE

Dubinsky Praises Aims of the Greater New York Campaign

A contribution of $15,000 by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union to the Greater New York Fund, which is conducting a campaign for $10,000,000 for the city's private welfare and health agencies, was announced yesterday by James G. Blaine, president of the fund.

The donation was sent to the fund in a letter from David Dubinsky, president of the union, in which he said:

"I am confident that I express the collective feeling of our organization in saying that we regard the problem of adequate maintenance of our city's welfare agencies and institutions not merely as a matter of benevolence but as an inescapable communal obligation in which every group and element, employers as well as labor, should share to the fullest limit.

"I am certain that when the purposes of your fund and the nobility of its objectives are placed squarely before the great labor population of our city, they will be happy to make their contribution to help realize the goal which you have set out to achieve."

In reply, Mr. Blaine described the gift as "very significant" because it was received from a "group of citizens employed in an industry hard-hit by business conditions." For this, he expressed his own and the fund directors' "deep appreciation."

extreme actions have been arrested. They include the son of the noted economist Professor Othmar Spann, who is a Nazi theorist.

Suicides of Jews continue, although they are fewer than before. Now the number is fifteen to twenty-five daily, mostly doctors and lawyers deprived of their livelihood and business men forced to abandon their affairs.

There is now strong evidence that the voting in the Anschluss plebiscite was public in most of the Austrian districts. In some cases Austrians who feared they were under suspicion because of religious or political connections voluntarily and ostentatiously voted "yes" in order to avoid responsibility for any "no" votes cast. In other cases Nazi officials urged voters to show their patriotism by voting openly.

Under the Austrian secret ballot law before Anschluss, voters voting publicly lost their ballots.

Boycott Started in Vienna

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, April 23.—The first organized anti-Jewish boycott in Vienna was started this afternoon. Storm Troopers and Hitler Youth were stationed outside Jewish-owned shops and cafes, and only "non-Aryans" were allowed to enter. After two hours the pickets were removed.

In the Jewish quarter this evening owners of Jewish shops were being made to stand outside their establishments holding up notices that read, "Don't buy from Jews, buy from Aryans!" Among them were women and girls. Outside one shop a girl holding one of the notices was made to kneel, stand up and kneel again continuously while a crowd looked on.

In some cases "non-Aryan" customers leaving Jewish-owned shops were made to wear notices proclaiming, "I have bought from a Jewish shop," and were booed by crowds.

Foreigners going through the Jewish quarter were stopped by Storm Troopers, who asked to see their papers. One correspondent was stopped three times in a quarter of an hour.

General Carl Vaugoin, former

ES, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1938 Sixteen Pages — Two Sections

Proposition No. 1 Defeat Urged on Voters

You Must Vote 'No' on No. 1

Every voter in this community MUST vote "NO" on Proposition Number One on next Tuesday's ballot.

There is no room for honest difference of opinion on a measure that would curtail freedom of speech, prohibit free assemblage, crush labor, forbid boycotts, and open the door to dictatorship. It is the first step backward toward slavery.

Residents of this community do not need to be reminded of the benefits that have come to them through "Don't Spend Your Money Where You Can't Work" drives. Such campaigns would be forbidden under Number One; those who advocated them would be liable to imprisonment.

Everybody knows that it has been necessary to picket unfair places of business in which Negroes were denied the right to work solely on the basis of race. Picketing of that kind would be forbidden under Number One; those who dared to do it could be sentenced to San Quentin.

Your friends and neighbors, your fathers and husbands who work on railroads, and those who work in many other industries, are members of unions which have won them substantial wage increases and shortening of hours. Those unions will be crushed under Proposition One. Wages will fall, if the law is passed, and every person in the community—merchant, professional man and [illegible] will suffer and be denied the right to protest.

Unemployed organizations will be [illegible] without the right to petition authorities or assemble to protest conditions of Proposition Number One is passed.

Negroes know what it is to be denied the right to protest and organize; that condition exists in the southern states. And in those states Negroes are underpaid, denied the right to vote, lynched and oppressed in every way. Proposition One would bring similar conditions to California.

Housewives would be liable to fine and imprisonment if they dared complain to neighbors of the quality of service or goods sold by unfair merchants, if Proposition One is passed.

Negroes have seen what dictatorship has done to minorities in European countries. We must avert dictatorship here. We can do it by voting AGAINST Number One on November 8th.

It isn't enough for you to vote against this measure, Mr. and Mrs. Reader. Get your neighbors and friends to vote. Explain to them what Number One means. Talk against it, work against it and finally vote against it on November 8th.

Measure Is Branded as Slave Bill

All Groups Unite To Fight Against Dictator Law

A determined fight-to-the-finish drive to defeat Proposition Number One on next Tuesday's ballot shifted into high gear this week as aroused citizens awoke to the viciousness of the measure which would prohibit "Don't Spend Your Money Where You Can't Work" campaigns, crush labor unions, destroy free speech, prohibit effective protest actions of every kind and curtail liberty on every hand.

Everybody is invited to a free street dance to [illegible] support against Number One—which will be held Monday night, November 7, on East 43rd place, just west of Central avenue.

Opposition to the measure came from every section of the community with citizens in all walks of life rally against it. The Los Angeles Forum, the National Negro Congress, the Southside Young Democratic club, the Federated Young Democrats and dozens of other civic, political and social organizations had enlisted in the fight along with every labor union in the city.

Cheered by the presence of C. L. Dellums, vice president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, local labor unions were redoubling their battle against Proposition One. Mrs. Ray Allen, treasurer of the [illegible] of L. Musician's Union, is [illegible] of her union while [illegible] Alexander, organizer, rallied C.I.O. unions for a finish fight. [illegible] Dining Car unionists were devoting all their spare time to the battle while Halvor Miller, member of the Butcher's Union, strove to widen the struggle by enlisting the active cooperation of other groups.

Meanwhile various persons not connected with labor had entered the battle. Among those active were Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins, Sentinel Publisher Leon H. Washington Jr., Walter L. Gordon, Sr., vice president of the N.A.C.P.; Attorney Loren Miller, Mrs. Jessie Terry and dozens of others.

Those fighting the Proposition issued a strongly worded statement asserting:

"Proposition No. 1 is a deliberate, cunningly-devised fraud striking home at all Negroes. Masked behind loosely-worded, sweeping clauses—pushed by [illegible] million dollar advertising campaign—is a measure that would deprive Negroes of all their hard-won rights.

"Here is a fact the backers of Proposition No. 1 are trying to keep from Negro voters. Their billboards, their pamphlets, their propaganda, don't tell you that No. 1 will curtail the liberty of civic, religious, fraternal, and patriotic organizations as well as unions.

"They do not tell you this measure makes no distinctions—that trade unionists are denied the rights of free speech, free press, and free assembly—these same constitutional privileges are denied to all of us.

"No. 1 destroys the right to picket and to boycott, not for labor unions alone, but for all organizations and minority groups.

"No organization, no group, and no individual could boycott, or even advocate a boycott, against any business orcompany which refused to hire Negroes or was in any way unfair to them. No newspaper pamphlet, or leaflet could be issued which even hinted we should not patronize such an establishment.

The fight against Number One was being actively fought from two headquarters, that of the 62nd District Democratic Headquarters at 4255 Central avenue and from another one directed by Carl Johnson, young Republican, and member of the Musician's Union, at 2002 Central avenue.

"Our main task is to see that every person in California is told about this vicious measure," Mr. Dellums told The Sentinel this week, "we feel that the only danger lies in the fact that the voters may not know what Proposition One provides and vote for it out of ignorance of its terms. We are satisfied that if they do not know what the measure means they will not only vote against it but will urge their friends to do likewise."

12 PLANTS CLOSED IN DETROIT STRIKES

All Bohn Aluminum Units Shut —Company Would Leave the State—Flint Pickets Quit

By The Associated Press.

DETROIT, April 21.—The C. I. O. affiliated United Automobile Workers extended strikes to six additional Detroit plants today and brought their disputed "dues-collection" picket line manoeuvre to this city.

Eight plants of the Bohn Aluminum and Brass Corporation were among a dozen closed tonight by labor disputes. Bohn officials, who said the corporation had a $10,000,000 investment here, announced that plans to move their operations to other States were being considered.

The "dues" picketing to check on non-paying U. A. W. A. members occurred without incident at the Vernor Highway plant of the Briggs Manufacturing Company. Pickets stopped and questioned about fifteen workers entering the plant.

Heinrich A. Pickert, Detroit Police Commissioner, who announced yesterday that dues-collecting picket lines would be dispersed, said today that his department "takes no interest in the methods used by a union to collect dues so long as they are peaceable.

"The Police Department will not allow mobs to form outside plants to prevent men from going into factories to work," he said. Five policemen watched the unionists at the Briggs plant.

Seniority Rights in Question

The eight Bohn Aluminum plants normally employ 3,200 men, but only about 1,000 have been working. Richard T. Frankensteen, U. A. W. A. vice president, charging the Bohn management was "trying to deprive 2,400 men" of seniority rights, officially authorized the strike today and pledge the international union's support.

P. A. Markey, Bohn vice president, said the company "has been investigating real estate values in two or three States, including Illinois and New York," with a view to moving operations.

Strikes protesting wage cuts affected the American Brass Company plant and that of the Michigan Steel Castings Company. Other idle plants included the Detroit Moulding Corporation and the Hulet Top and Body Company. Hulet officials termed announcement of a strike "ridiculous," and said the plant had had no work for three months.

Leaders of the C. I. O. Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union predicted early negotiations for settlement of the strike at the brass plant, claiming "100 per cent" membership among the employes.

Continued on Page Seven

12 PLANTS CLOSED IN DETROIT STRIKES

Continued From Page One

U. A. W. A. officials said that return to work of about 200 workers in two departments of the Chrysler Corporation's Plymouth plant here ended a dispute over discharge of a union steward.

The Waiters and Waitresses Union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, threatened to call strikes in twenty independent hotels unless the managements signed contracts similar to one negotiated last night between the union and the Detroit Hotel Association.

Flint Dues Pickets Vanish

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FLINT, Mich., April 21.—With a strong force of detectives, uniformed police and sheriff's deputies on hand to prevent trouble, a scheduled demonstration by U. A. W. A. members at the Fisher Body No. 1 plant failed to materialize this afternoon.

The plant reopened this morning without incident after being closed for three days because of picketing for union dues by U. A. W. A. Nearly 4,000 men and women returned to work there, and operations were resumed at normal production schedules at the Buick Motor Company, where final assembly had been suspended due to lack of bodies.

Police and deputies were in complete control of the Fisher plant area this afternoon. Mobolized after union leaders scheduled the demonstration, uniformed police, armed with night sticks, formed lines at each gate. Detectives mingled with the street crowd and several police cruisers patrolled the area. Uniformed deputies augmented the police lines inside the gates.

City Manager James Pollock, Mayor Harold Bradshaw, Police Chief James Cole and Sheriff Thomas Wolcott were on the scene when the workers left the plant at the end of the shift. Union members had threatened to establish picket lines so that nonunion workers could not leave.

However, there were no pickets, the only semblance of a picket line being a man who paraded in front of the plant carrying a sign which read: "Owing to the unexpected activity of the law the demonstration has been called off."

This message was carried to the men inside the plant, with the result that the only trouble came from a traffic jam which required more than an hour to untangle.

Several nonunion men reported they had been threatened with a beating after they went to work this morning, but no trouble was indicated in the plant during the day.

A warrant was issued this afternoon for the arrest of three men at the Fisher No. 1 plant under an old law which makes it a misdemeanor to "by threats, intimidations and otherwise and without authority of law interfere with and molest any one in the quiet and peaceable pursuit of his lawful avocation."

William Johnston, a mechanic at the Fisher plant, [illegible] prosecutor that was threatened with bodily harm by the three men because he would not join the union.

MARTIN HALTS UNION DUES DRIVE AS G. M. ORDERS PLANTS CLOSED

-Telegram

on. All rights reserved.

t; showers and cooler tomorrow.

DAY, APRIL 19, 1938.

Entered as second-class matter Post Office, New York, N. Y.

Knudsen Charges Coercion To Force Men Into Group—Workers Clash at Gates

BULLETIN.

By the United Press.

FLINT, Mich., April 19.—President Homer Martin of the United Automobile Workers announced today that the union had called off a dues drive which caused shutdowns of the Fisher Body Plant No. 1 and stopped Buick production.

By the United Press.

DETROIT, April 19.—William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors Corp., charging the United Automobile Workers' Union with breach of its co[illegible] today warned that Fisher Body and Buick production i[illegible] would remain closed until picket lines are withdrawn [illegible] Fisher Plant No. 1.

The Fisher plant closed completely [illegible] Buick stopped its final assembly line this morning wh[illegible] union pickets blocked Fisher gates to non-union workers [illegible] members whose dues are in arrears.

"The corporation," Mr. Knudsen said, "will take the only way of meeting this latest breach of faith by the union, namely to let the plants remain closed until the practice is stopped and picket lines withdrawn."

Mr. Knudsen's statement was issued while Homer Martin, president of the U. A. W., was seeking a settlement of the dispute with C. E. Wilson, vice president of the corporation.

"General Motors Corp.," Mr. Knudsen declared, "condemns this latest method by the U. A. W. of coercing its employees and denying them entrance to the plant and their right to work at Fisher division No. 1 at Flint.

No Coercion.

"The corporation has kept its agreement with the union. It has no demands before it dealing with the Flint situation. It does not propose to overlook this latest development to obtain a closed shop by coercing methods. Men can work in our plant whether they belong to the union or not. The agreement expressly states that there shall be no coercion or intimidation of any kind."

Mr. Martin charged that the Fisher Body Plant No. 1 and the Buick Motor Co.'s assembly line had been closed in an attempt to "club down the union." He denied that a U. A. W. dues collection drive had caused the shutdown.

Earlier Mr. Martin had talked with Governor Frank Murphy by telephone and assured him that union men would be on hand ready to go to work tomorrow morning. At Flint, however, local union leaders said they would picket the Fisher plant again tomorrow and stop non-union workers and members whose dues were in arrears.

Ready to Work.

"Our men have been ready for work the last two mornings," Mr. Martin said, "but the company would not turn on the switches. I don't think the General Motors officials in Detroit have the true facts of the situation. When they get them I don't think they will permit the plants to remain closed when employees want to work."

Mr. Martin denied that U. A. W. members had refused to permit workers to enter the Fisher plant. He said that only forty-seven of the factory's 3,700 workers were not at their posts this morning. George Paterson, plant manager, estimated that union pickets had prevented 400 men from entering.

"To me," Mr. Martin said, "the situation sums up as an attempt by the company to use our dues drive as a subterfuge for closing their plants, when the real reason is a lack of orders."

Ready to Act.

Mr. Martin said he had told Governor Murphy:—

"If we are shown that we have done something wrong we are ready to correct it."

The union president also gave assurance that threatened strikes in Buick and Chevrolet plants at Flint would not materialize, at least until the union had exhausted all possibilities of settling their dispute

(Continued on Page Four.)

APRIL 19, 1938

EARLE EXPLAINS ACCEPTING LOANS

Answers Wilson's Charge Concerning Checks From Contractor

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 19 (AP).—Governor George H. Earle's private income today was an issue in Pennsylvania's Democratic primary campaign. It was raised by Philadelphia's Republican-elected Mayor, S. Davis Wilson, now running for the Democratic nomination for United States Senate on a C. I. O.-backed slate opposed to Earle.

Speaking at Williamsport last night, Wilson requested that Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti—an independent Democratic candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination—look into the source and nature of the Governor's private income.

Wilson asked that the inquiry develop whether Earle received in 1937 checks totaling $30,000 from Matthew H. McCloskey, Philadelphia Democratic leader and a contractor whose firm is working on several projects under a $65,000,000 State building program.

Answering Wilson's request for an investigation, Earle "categorically and emphatically denied malicious innuendo" that there has been any impropriety or favoritism in awarding State contracts.

"Matthew H. McCloskey has been one of my personal friends of years standing," Earle replied in a statement. "As my friend he made several loans to me during the years 1935 and 1936. These loans were made prior to the time when it was within any possible contemplation that he would ever be the recipient of any State contract. These loans have been reduced by monthly payments by me to the sum of $6,000, and as to this balance Mr. McCloskey continues to hold ample security."

A. F. of L. Indorses Jones

The Executive Council of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, representing A. F. of L. craft unions, indorsed the Democratic slate headed by Charles Alvin Jones for Governor and Earle for the United States Senate.

The council also indorsed the candidacies of United States Senator James J. Davis, Republican, for re-election and Frank J. Harris, Pittsburgh, Republican, for Lieutenant Governor, but made no mention of Republican candidates for Governor.

The statement said "the executive council has determined to centralize its entire strength and political power to secure the defeat of the candidates indorsed by the Committee for Industrial Organization as we realize the election of our enemies will probably result in the destruction of many of our unions in the Commonwealth."

The C. I. O. slate of Democratic candidates, which is backed by Senator Joseph F. Guffey, is headed by Lieutenant Governor Thomas [illegible]nedy for Governor and Mayor [illegible]son.

NEGROES WIN RIGHT TO PICKET FOR JOBS

Jersey Court Refuses to Bar Them From Demonstrating for Store Employment

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

NEWARK, N. J., April 20.—Employment discrimination against Negroes because of prejudice was deplored today by Vice Chancellor John O. Bigelow when he refused to issue an injunction to restrain a Negro organization from picketing a department store that allegedly had refused to hire a Negro saleswoman.

The injunction was sought against the Newark National Negro Congress by five Springfield Avenue merchants, who contended that the picketing of the F. W. Grand Silver Store at 192 Springfield Avenue blocked the sidewalk and kept customers from their establishments. The management of the picketed store was not a party to the suit.

"The Negroes in Newark number between 40,000 and 50,000 and their opportunities for employment are pitifully small," the Vice Chancellor said, referring to a report recently submitted to him by an attorney for the Negro organization.

"They can obtain work as common laborers, as janitors, as domestic servants, but very little beyond that," he added. "The cause of this situation is not a lack of educated and willing Negroes, but it is prejudice, not so much prejudice of the employer as of fellow-workers and the public, with whom they would be thrown in contact."

The Newark National Negro Congress asked the store to employ a Negro on the ground a large percentage of the store's customers were Negroes.

THE CHICAGO DEFENDER

PORTERS IN VOTE SET STATUS FOR UNION BARGAINS

(Special to The Amsterdam News)

CHICAGO, April, 27—Pullman porters here were voting to determine whether the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters would become the authorized agent to represent them in negotiating agreements concerning working conditions on the Milwaukee Railroad.

Ballots will be mailed by each porter to the national mediation board in Washington.

Ernest Smith, secretary-treasurer of the Chicago Division of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, presented authorization cards for his group last week. Later the Mediation Board ordered the election held.

A dispute between the Brotherhood and the Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad Company caused national officials to call an election when the railroad company refused to recognize the Brotherhood as the exclusive bargaining agent.

"Make Work" Bee Put on Pullman

Pepper pot-shots at practice of putting porters in places of conductors

Senator Pepper, Democrat of Florida, speaking in the Senate on March 30, criticized the Pullman Company for what he alleged to be its practice of substituting porters for sleeping car conductors on many Pullman runs over the country. Senator Pepper addressed his remarks particularly to the alleged failure of the Pullman Company to live up to its agreement with the Order of Sleeping Car Conductors and its alleged refusal to abide by various decisions of Railway Adjustment Boards which had ordered the company to reimburse conductors for back pay and reinstate them on runs where Negro porters had replaced them. Senator Pepper also obtained permission to print in the Congressional Record a statement by M. S. Warfield, president of the Order of Sleeping Car Conductors, in which the latter contended that the Pullman Company was gradually replacing conductors with porters and was refusing to abide by decisions of the Adjustment Boards.

After citing a case on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy where the Pullman Company had allegedly replaced conductors with porters on line 161 between Kansas City, Mo., and Billings, Mont. and the Adjustment Board had ordered payment of back pay and replacement on their runs, Senator Pepper asked the company to "reconsider its policy and to observe what the statute requires with respect to the decisions of the Board." "This," he concluded, "will probably avoid the necessity of reviewing this legislation with a view to strengthening its provisions as to observance of awards, and will make for good feeling generally."

Mr. Warfield, in his statement, said that the Order of Sleeping Car Conductors recently obtained Adjustment Board awards regulating certain types of overtime work and interpreting the agreement with the carrier to mean that wherever it is established that conductor's work exists, the conductors have the right to perform it. "Under that interpretation of the agreement," he said, "the carrier does not have the right to remove conductors from their regular assignments and give their work to porters, thus making the porters do two men's work for one man's pay. In each case where porters are given conductors' work the conductor loses his job, but when this work is returned to conductors the porters remain on their jobs; they are simply relieved of the necessity of doing two men's work."

Instead of applying the award interpreting the agreement to mean that the conductors have the right to perform the work for which they were employed, Mr. Warfield wrote that "the Pullman Company continues to remove conductors from their assignments with accelerated speed."

Mr. Warfield also pointed out that the practice of leaving Pullman cars without conductors would, when it became generally known, invite criminals to enter cars and commit various crimes. He especially noted the possible danger to women who might be sleeping in a car. The company was accused of not advertising the fact that conductors did not accompany the train during its entire trip and Mr. Warfield went on to say that because of the fact that conductors were on hand at terminals to receive passengers, the traveling public took it for granted that they continued with the trains.

Mr. Warfield said that bills to require the continual operation of Pullman conductors on trains have been introduced in the States of Texas, Arkansas and Tennessee, and he promises that more such bills will follow. In Florida and South Carolina, he asserts, there are orders of the state commissions requiring the operation of Pullman conductors on all trains within the State.

RAILROAD PENSIONS

19

Important Ruling Affects Union Officers Discharged Employes

If a pensioner under the Railroad Retirement Act serves as an officer of a local lodge or division of a railroad labor organization and receives compensation—even if such compensation is described as a donation or a gift—he may lose his pension.

That's the position taken by the Retirement Board in a decision announced this week.

The board holds that under the law a rail union is an "employer" in the same sense as a railroad. Therefore, any officer of a rail union receiving compensation for his services, must surrender his position before he can become eligible for a pension.

If a lodge officer is in doubt about his status, the board suggests that he supply it with the facts and it will let him know if he falls within the scope of the decision.

* * *

Discharged Employes

G. W. B., Roseville, Calif.—A railroad worker 60 years old, who was in an employment relation to a carrier on August 29, 1935, and who has 35 years of service, will not lose his pension if he is discharged by the carrier. He is entitled to a pension based on his service and compensation, less 1/15th for each year he is less than 65 at the time he applies.

* * *

Wife's Annuity Irrevocable

M. R., Duluth, Minn.—If you take out a joint survivor annuity in favor of your wife, it is irrevocable. However, if your wife dies or the marriage is dissolved before her pension begins to accrue, the joint survivor annuity becomes inoperative, and you will receive a straight "single life" annuity during the remainder of your life.

EARLE EXPLAINS ACCEPTING LOANS

Answers Wilson's Charge Concerning Checks From Contractor

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 19 (AP).—Governor George H. Earle's private income today was an issue in Pennsylvania's Democratic primary campaign. It was raised by Philadelphia's Republican-elected Mayor, S. Davis Wilson, now running for the Democratic nomination for United States Senate on a C. I. O.-backed slate opposed to Earle.

Speaking at Williamsport last night, Wilson requested that Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti—an independent Democratic candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination—look into the source and nature of the Governor's private income.

Wilson asked that the inquiry develop whether Earle received in 1937 checks totaling $30,000 from Matthew H. McCloskey, Philadelphia Democratic leader and a contractor whose firm is working on several projects under a $65,000,000 State building program.

Answering Wilson's request for an investigation, Earle "categorically and emphatically denied malicious innuendo" that there has been any impropriety or favoritism in awarding State contracts.

"Matthew H. McCloskey has been one of my personal friends of years standing," Earle replied in a statement. "As my friend he made several loans to me during the years 1935 and 1936. These loans were made prior to the time when it was within any possible contemplation that he would ever be the recipient of any State contract. These loans have been reduced by monthly payments by me to the sum of $6,000, and up to this [illegible] Mr. McCloskey continues to hold ample security."

A. F. of L. Indorses Jones

The Executive Council of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, representing A. F. of L. craft unions, indorsed the Democratic slate headed by Charles Alvin Jones for Governor and Earle for the United States Senate.

The council also indorsed the candidacies of United States Senator James J. Davis, Republican, for re-election and Frank J. Harris, Pittsburgh, Republican, for Lieutenant Governor, but made no mention of Republican candidates for Governor.

The statement said "the executive council has determined to centralize its entire strength and political power to secure the defeat of the candidates indorsed by the Committee for Industrial Organization as we realize the election of our enemies will probably result in the destruction of many of our unions in the Commonwealth."

The C. I. O. slate of Democratic candidates, which is backed by Senator Joseph F. Guffey, is headed by Lieutenant Governor Thomas [illegible] nedy for Governor and Mayor [illegible] son.

NEGROES WIN RIGHT TO PICKET FOR JOBS

Jersey Court Refuses to Bar Them From Demonstrating for Store Employment

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

NEWARK, N. J., April 20.—Employment discrimination against Negroes because of prejudice was deplored today by Vice Chancellor John O. Bigelow when he refused to issue an injunction to restrain a Negro organization from picketing a department store that allegedly had refused to hire a Negro saleswoman.

The injunction was sought against the Newark National Negro Congress by five Springfield Avenue merchants, who contended that the picketing of the F. W. Grand Silver Store at 192 Springfield Avenue blocked the sidewalk and kept customers from their establishments. The management of the picketed store was not a party to the suit.

"The Negroes in Newark number between 40,000 and 50,000 and their opportunities for employment are pitifully small," the Vice Chancellor said, referring to a report recently submitted to him by an attorney for the Negro organization.

"They can obtain work as common laborers, as janitors, as domestic servants, but very little beyond that," he added. "The cause of this situation is not a lack of educated and willing Negroes, but it is prejudice, not so much prejudice of the employer as of fellow-workers and the public, with whom they would be thrown in contact."

The Newark National Negro Congress asked the store to employ a Negro on the ground a large percentage of the store's customers were Negroes.

THE CHICAGO DEFENDER

PORTERS IN VOTE SET STATUS FOR UNION BARGAINS

(Special to The Amsterdam News)

CHICAGO, April, 27—Pullman porters here were voting to determine whether the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters would become the authorized agent to represent them in negotiating agreements concerning working conditions on the Milwaukee Railroad.

Ballots will be mailed by each porter to the national mediation board in Washington.

Ernest Smith, secretary-treasurer of the Chicago Division of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, presented authorization cards for his group last week. Later the Mediation Board ordered the election held.

A dispute between the Brotherhood and the Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad Company caused national officials to call an election when the railroad company refused to recognize the Brotherhood as the exclusive bargain[illegible]

NEGRO JUDGE RESENTS BID TO REICH OFFICERS

Virgin Islands [illegible] to Visit Training Ship [illegible]nnel

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, May 16.—William Henry Hastie, the first Negro judge of the District Court here, has protested the admission of German naval officers and cadets of the training ship Horst Wessel, which included the Virgin Islands in its itinerary, to a benefit party at the Grand Hotel sponsored by colored residents.

Judge Hastie pointed out to the entertainment committee that in Germany Negroes are discriminated against, and he insisted that invitations to the visiting Germans be canceled.

Judge Hastie is a director of the National Association for Advancement of the Colored People. Since his arrival Governor Lawrence Cramer has repeatedly invited him to attend dinners and receptions at Government House. The Governor joined a Negro tennis club to play with Judge Hastie when board members of the St. Thomas Tennis Club are said to have hinted that they would not accept Judge Hastie as a member although it has been customary for the St. Thomas Tennis Club to extend complimentary membership to all District Court judges.

Despite cancellation of their invitations to the benefit, the German cadets and a small group of noncommissioned officers visited the Grand Hotel to watch the Negroes dance and to patronize the bar. Judge Hastie said that he and Mrs. Hastie would not attend the function under the circumstances.

Mayor Takes Athenian Oath of Fealty As Expressing 'Duty and Steadfastness'

The "oath of the young men of Athens" was repeated yesterday by Mayor LaGuardia at the close of his address from the NBC studios. The Mayor said that he could find nothing "more expressive of our duty, our determination and our steadfastness."

The oath follows:

"We will never bring disgrace to this, our city, by any act of dishonesty or cowardice nor ever desert our suff[illegible] in the ranks. We will fight for our ideals and sa[illegible] the city, both alone and with many. We will revere [illegible] laws and do our best to incite a like respect in th[illegible] us who are prone to annul them and set them at naught. [illegible] will strive unceasingly to quicken the public sense of civic d[illegible] In all these ways we will transmit this city not only n[illegible] but far greater and more beautiful than it was transmitted [illegible]

The Mayor also pledged his allegiance to Pre[illegible] Roosevelt in the following words:

"To the President of the United States, in these times of stress and trouble, I publicly pledge my complete, whole-hearted and individual loyalty and support and that of my administration. To the Governor of New York State I pledge that same loyalty and support."

A. F. L. LEVY REJECTED BY PRINTERS' UNION

I. T. U. Autonomy Is Affirmed in Votes on Policy Points

INDIANAPOLIS, April 18 (AP).—Woodruff Randolph, secretary-treasurer of the International Typographical Union, announced today results of the recent referendum vote by the membership on five points of "basic policy." Four dealt with the union's connection with the American Federation of Labor.

The union voted 35,730 to 12,115 against payment of an assessment of one cent a month a member to the A. F. of L.

President Charles P. Howard, a candidate for re-election, had opposed payment of the assessment, while Charles M. Baker of San Francisco, Mr. Howard's opponent in the election to be held May 25, had advised members to pay the assessment.

By a vote of 44,138 to 4,493 the members approved a proposition that a referendum vote be required before payment of any assessment levied by a convention or executive council of the A. F. of L.

A third question, carried by a vote of 45,284 to 3,226, read: "Shall our union continue to maintain the policy adopted at the time the A. F. of L. was formed: 'That the individuality of the International Typographical Union shall be maintained and that the International Typographical Union, shall not take a charter or be subordinate to any organization.'"

A fourth proposition authorizing the executive council "to take such action as may be necessary to retain the rights of the I. T. U. in the A. F. of L.," carried, 44,841 to 3,475.

The members voted 25,919 to 21,804 against relinquishing the typographical union's jurisdiction over mailers and mailing.

HILLMAN RENEWS LABOR-UNITY PLEA

Says Forming of Permanent C. I. O. Will Not Lead to Bitter Warfare With A. F. L.

NO PAY RISE SOUGHT NOW

He Declares Textile Union Prevented General Cutting of Wages in South

By LOUIS STARK

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 15.—Even though one peace conference between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization failed to bring about a reunited labor movement that does not mean that conferences are bound to fail, Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, declared today.

Mr. Hillman said that his union was not planning to ask the men's clothing industry for wage increases or reductions in hours at this time.

"We are not asking for a wage increase," he said. "We are not even thinking about it. We have a sense of responsibility and we watch conditions. We are not asking less than thirty-six hours a week, for we believe thirty-six is very reasonable. We don't ask for things we don't expect to get."

Mr. Hillman explained that while he was unable to indicate the action of his union's convention tomorrow on the best approach toward unity in the labor movement he believed that peace would come ultimately because the rank and file of workers wanted it.

Seeks to Prevent Hostilities

The statement of Mr. Hillman, who is a vice president of the C. I. O., was interpreted here as a desire to cooperate with the A. F. of L. to the maximum in an effort to prevent hostilities or any "overt act" pending the time when peace negotiations would be resumed.

Mr. Hillman's expression took on added significance in view of the fact that John L. Lewis told the convention several days ago that he was in full accord with the clothing union's president. Mr. Lewis in his address made no reference to peace between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. and this was interpreted as a willingness to resume peace parleys at any time that would be agreeable to Mr. Hillman.

Asked whether the forming of a permanent organization in the Fall by the C. I. O. would mean bitter warfare between that organization and the A. F. of L., Mr. Hillman said:

"I do not believe so. Our union was outside the A. F. of L. for many years and maintained fraternal relations with organizations in the federation. Many A. F. of L. organizations voted against the minority resolution [on industrial unionism] in the 1935 convention in Atlantic City but they are not unfriendly to us even though they are not in the C. I. O.

"I prefer to think of the situation as rivalry for building up labor's cause rather than as a civil war between two labor organizations.

"I rejoice at the increase of strength by the A. F. of L. as well as by the C. I. O. We are glad to help the A. F. of L. unions when we can and we have done so in many cases.

"The Horn & Hardart strike in New York has been settled so that I am now free to say that before I was taken sick last Winter an offer was made to settle the strike if the C. I. O. took over the union. We refused because it was an A. F. of L. affair.

"Some people wanted us to take over the milk wagon drivers in New York but we refused because that is an A. F. of L. organization. The C. I. O. had chartered a local union in the building trades in New York and I had the charter returned because the C. I. O. is not taking in building trades mechanics."

ACCUSES INDUSTRY OF WAR ON UNIONS

NLRB Economist Puts Evidence Into Berkshire Case, Hitting Manufacturers' Association

CITES 'NEW TECHNIQUE'

Knitting Mills Counsel Fights 'Background' Data on Alleged Company Union—Overruled

By JOSEPH SHAPLEN

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

READING, Pa., Jan. 4.—The charge that there was a concerted nation-wide movement on the part of large employers, with the National Manufacturers Association as the "spearhead," to frustrate the Wagner act and make impossible genuine collective bargaining was made by David J. Saposs, chief economist of the National Labor Relations Board, at a board hearing in the Berkshire Knitting Mills case here today.

The NLRB is investigating a complaint filed by the American Federation of Hosiery Workers, C. I. O. affiliate, alleging violations of the Wagner act by the company, which operates the largest hosiery mill in the country with nearly 6,000 employes.

Testifying against repeated objections from Wellington M. Bertolet, counsel for the company, who characterized the testimony as irrelevant to the charges under investigation, Mr. Saposs, who is also director of research for the NLRB, said that evidence assembled by the board disclosed that the National Manufacturers Association, supported by other anti-union organizations, was directing what he termed a systematically organized drive to prevent unionization of workers.

Cooperating in this drive, he said, were the National Metal Trades Association, the Citizens National Committee, the Citizens Committee of Johnstown and the Constitution League of America.

Among individual companies and employers mentioned by Mr. Saposs as leading in the anti-union campaign were Henry Ford, Republic Steel Company and Remington Rand, Inc.

Most "Belligerent," He Says

Efforts to widen the campaign against unionization, said Mr. Saposs, were being made through some 2,000 employer and trade associations, as well as individual employers, not all of whom, however, he included as participants.

Dividing employers into two categories, "belligerent" and "negotiatory," Mr. Saposs said that the former constituted the majority. No country in the world, he said, had as many "belligerent" employers as the United States. By "belligerent" employers he meant those who actively and militantly opposed "regular" trade unions.

"Negotiatory" employers he referred to as those practicing collective bargaining and dealing with their employes on an amicable basis.

Through Samuel G. Zack, counsel for the National Labor Relations Board, directing the Berkshire investigation, Mr. Saposs offered in evidence records of the board and other material purporting to support his charges.

He also presented an analysis of eighty-five independent unions of recent formation, designed to show that with the outlawing of the company union under the Wagner act and validation of the act by the Supreme Court, employers were resorting increasingly to the encouragement of independent unions as a subterfuge. These independent unions, he said, were a revival of the old company unions under a new "technique."

The evidence presented through Mr. Saposs was intended also to demonstrate that, as part of the anti-union drive, employers were conducting a campaign of terrorization of communities and local officials with the end in view of swinging their support in the fight against labor organization.

"Law and Order" Disguise

In large part, this campaign was being waged under "the guise of patriotism," he declared. As instances he mentioned the Citizens Committee of Johnstown, the Citizens National Committee, Constitution League and the Law and Order League and back-to-work movement of Massillon, Ohio.

The latter, he said, was organized on the initiative of the Republic Steel Company in the strike of last year in "Little Steel." The alleged terrorization of communities in the anti-union campaign, Mr. Saposs asserted, was practiced through threats to move plants affected by strikes, and the organization of vigilante committees.

relationships, both before and since adoption of the Wagner act.

Scores Leeway for Saposs

Finally, Mr. Bertolet denounced the appearance of Mr. Saposs as a "disgraceful and un-American proceeding." He complained that "the whole thing has been staged beautifully" and that "there is no chance of interrupting anybody." The last reference was to Mr. Kriz's repeated refusal to stop Mr. Saposs and the examiner's seeming failure in several instances to inspect documents offered in evidence before permitting them to go in.

Mr. Kriz's rulings were based on argument by Mr. Zack that the general picture presented by Mr. Saposs had a material bearing upon the complaint against Berkshire Knitting Mills and its alleged sponsorship of the Berkshire Employes Association, an independent union.

It was also Mr. Zack's contention that the association and its methods bore many of the earmarks described by Mr. Saposs as characteristic of the erstwhile company unions and was formed in violation of the Wagner act. He made the point that the president of the Berkshire Employes Association, Fred Werner, had been in correspondence with some of the organizations mentioned by Mr. Saposs as leading in the anti-union drive.

"Background" for Court Action

It was important for the courts to have a complete picture of the background and situation surrounding the alleged anti-union movement both in its general and specific aspects, Mr. Zack argued. He maintained that the courts had already ruled in some instances that such background was material to a specific case.

"We will show," said Mr. Zack, regarding the purpose of putting Mr. Saposs on the stand, "that there are national organizations, parading under the guise of patriotism, such as citizens' committees and Constitution leagues of various names and descriptions inspired and dominated by anti-labor employers; and that these groups, whatever their names, are the groups with which the president of the Berkshire Employes Association conducted an ardent and feverish correspondence, ostensibly paid for by the employes of the Berkshire Association, and that these organizations are not what they claim to be, but are pseudo-patriotic organizations, whose sole and only purpose and reason for existence is to cripple and interfere with the rights of workers to join labor organizations."

Mr. Saposs said that evidence accumulated by the NLRB and from other sources since the Supreme Court upheld the Wagner act revealed "a crop of organizations and agencies formed to carry on and improve upon the old company union methods.

"The new methods and agencies are more difficult to detect and it is more difficult to show their relationship to the employer," he said. "However, we have been brought to the conclusion that in all of them the employer is in the offing as the directing power of these agencies."

Says Banks Put Up Funds

Mr. Saposs said that investigation had disclosed that the moneys for "these so-called independent unions" came from banks, which furnished them with loans without collateral, and from attorneys who advanced the initial outlays.

Mr. Bertolet entered one of his most vigorous objections, which brought the heated response from Mr. Zack that the objection emanated from the fact that the "testimony given by Mr. Saposs applied perfectly to the Berkshire Employes Association."

A list of fifty-four such independent

NLRB as in violation of the Wagner act, was offered in evidence.

Among other documentary material offered in evidence was literature distributed by the National Manufacturers Association, accompanied by a chart, giving detailed directions of how a back-to-work movement should be launched.

Mr. Saposs said these instructions were devised at the Congress of Industry held recently in New York under the auspices of the National Manufacturers Association.

crease," he said. "We are not even thinking about it. We have a sense of responsibility and we watch conditions. We are not asking less than thirty-six hours a week, for we believe thirty-six is very reasonable. We don't ask for things we don't expect to get."

Mr. Hillman explained that while he was unable to indicate the action of his union's convention tomorrow on the best approach toward unity in the labor movement he believed that peace would come ultimately because the rank and file of workers wanted it.

Seeks to Prevent Hostilities

The statement of Mr. Hillman, who is a vice president of the C. I. O., was interpreted here as a desire to cooperate with the A. F. of L. to the maximum in an effort to prevent hostilities or any "overt act" pending the time when peace negotiations would be resumed.

Mr. Hillman's expression took on added significance in view of the fact that John L. Lewis told the convention several days ago that he was in full accord with the clothing union's president. Mr. Lewis in his address made no reference to peace between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. and this was interpreted as a willingness to resume peace parleys at any time that would be agreeable to Mr. Hillman.

Asked whether the forming of a permanent organization in the Fall by the C. I. O. would mean bitter warfare between that organization and the A. F. of L., Mr. Hillman said:

"I do not believe so. Our union was outside the A. F. of L. for many years and maintained fraternal relations with organizations in the federation. Many A. F. of L. organizations voted against the minority resolution [on industrial unionism] in the 1935 convention in Atlantic City but they are not unfriendly to us even though they are not in the C. I. O.

"I prefer to think of the situation as rivalry for building up labor's cause rather than as a civil war between two labor organizations.

"I rejoice at the increase of strength by the A. F. of L. as well as by the C. I. O. We are glad to help the A. F. of L. unions when we can and we have done so in many cases.

"The Horn & Hardart strike in New York has been settled so that I am now free to say that before I was taken sick last Winter an offer was made to settle the strike if the C. I. O. took over the union. We refused because it was an A. F. of L. affair.

"Some people wanted us to take over the milk wagon drivers in New York but we refused because that is an A. F. of L. organization. The C. I. O. had chartered a local union in the building trades in New York and I had the charter returned because the C. I. O. is not taking in building trades members."

ployes.

Testifying against repeated objections from Wellington M. Bertolet, counsel for the company, who characterized the testimony as irrelevant to the charges under investigation, Mr. Saposs, who is also director of research for the NLRB, said that evidence assembled by the board disclosed that the National Manufacturers Association, supported by other anti-union organizations, was directing what he termed a systematically organized drive to prevent unionization of workers.

Cooperating in this drive, he said, were the National Metal Trades Association, the Citizens National Committee, the Citizens Committee of Johnstown and the Constitution League of America.

Among individual companies and employers mentioned by Mr. Saposs as leading in the anti-union campaign were Henry Ford, Republic Steel Company and Remington Rand, Inc.

Most "Belligerent," He Says

Efforts to widen the campaign against unionization, said Mr. Saposs, were being made through some 2,000 employer and trade associations, as well as individual employers, not all of whom, however, he included as participants.

Dividing employers into two categories, "belligerent" and "negotiatory," Mr. Saposs said that the former constituted the majority. No country in the world, he said, had as many "belligerent" employers as the United States. By "belligerent" employers he meant those who actively and militantly opposed "regular" trade unions.

"Negotiatory" employers he referred to as those practicing collective bargaining and dealing with their employes on an amicable basis.

Through Samuel G. Zack, counsel for the National Labor Relations Board, directing the Berkshire investigation, Mr. Saposs offered in evidence records of the board and other material purporting to support his charges.

He also presented an analysis of eighty-five independent unions of recent formation, designed to show that with the outlawing of the company union under the Wagner act and validation of the act by the Supreme Court, employers were resorting increasingly to the encouragement of independent unions as a subterfuge. These independent unions, he said, were a revival of the old company unions under a new "technique."

The evidence presented through Mr. Saposs was intended also to demonstrate that, as part of the anti-union drive, employers were conducting a campaign of terrorization of communities and local officials with the end in view of swinging their support in the fight against labor organization.

"Law and Order" Disguise

In large part, this campaign was being waged under "the guise of patriotism," he declared. As instances he mentioned the Citizens Committee of Johnstown, the Citizens National Committee, Constitution League and the Law and Order League and back-to-work movement of Massillon, Ohio.

The latter, he said, was organized on the initiative of the Republic Steel Company in the strike of last year in "Little Steel." The alleged terrorization of communities in the anti-union campaign, Mr. Saposs asserted, was practiced through threats to move plants affected by strikes, and the organization of vigilante committees.

Having been compelled by the Wagner act to abandon company unions and "yellow dog" contracts, employers were now resorting to "new and more subtle methods" of frustrating the design of the law, Mr. Saposs stated.

Mr. Saposs mentioned Remington Rand, Inc., headed by James H. Rand Jr., as the author of the Mohawk Valley back-to-work formula, and he offered literature distributed by the National Manufacturers Association as evidence of its efforts to obtain acceptance of the formula by employers.

The hearing was marked by repeated clashes between Mr. Zack and Mr. Bertolet in the company lawyer's fight to have the testimony of Mr. Saposs excluded as "irrelevant, incompetent and immaterial."

Mr. Bertolet demanded to know why the testimony should be permitted, arguing that it had no direct bearing on the Berkshire case. He made this objection both at the beginning of Mr. Saposs's testimony and at many points during his discourse, but was overruled in each instance by Leo J. Kriz, presiding as trial examiner.

Renewing his objection at one point, Mr. Bertolet charged that Mr. Saposs was delivering a "lecture" to the audience of former Berkshire employes, discharged as a result of the strike in the company's plant in October, 1936.

"Proceed," and "Objection overruled" were the only responses Mr. Bertolet got from Mr. Kriz as he sought to stop the board economist from expanding upon his exhaustive analysis of employer-employe

It was also Mr. Zack's contention that the association and its methods bore many of the earmarks described by Mr. Saposs as characteristic of the erstwhile company unions and was formed in violation of the Wagner act. He made the point that the president of the Berkshire Employes Association, Fred Werner, had been in correspondence with some of the organizations mentioned by Mr. Saposs as leading in the anti-union drive.

"Background" for Court Action

It was important for the courts to have a complete picture of the background and situation surrounding the alleged anti-union movement both in its general and specific aspects, Mr. Zack argued. He maintained that the courts had already ruled in some instances that such background was material to a specific case.

"We will show," said Mr. Zack, regarding the purpose of putting Mr. Saposs on the stand, "that there are national organizations, parading under the guise of patriotism, such as citizens' committees and Constitution leagues of various names and descriptions inspired and dominated by anti-labor employers; and that these groups, whatever their names, are the groups with which the president of the Berkshire Employes Association conducted an ardent and feverish correspondence, ostensibly paid for by the employes of the Berkshire Association, and that these organizations are not what they claim to be, but are pseudo-patriotic organizations, whose sole and only purpose and reason for existence is to cripple and interfere with the rights of workers to join labor organizations."

Mr. Saposs said that evidence accumulated by the NLRB and from other sources since the Supreme Court upheld the Wagner act revealed "a crop of organizations and agencies formed to carry on and improve upon the old company union methods.

"The new methods and agencies are more difficult to detect and it is more difficult to show their relationship to the employer," he said. "However, facts have been brought to our attention that in all of them the old idea is in the offing as the directing power of these agencies."

Says Banks Put Up Funds

Mr. Saposs said that investigation had disclosed that the moneys for "these so-called independent unions" came from banks, which furnished them with loans without collateral, and from attorneys who advanced the initial outlays.

Mr. Bertolet entered one of his most vigorous objections, which brought the heated response from Mr. Zack that the objection emanated from the fact that the "testimony given by Mr. Saposs applied perfectly to the Berkshire Employes Association."

A list of fifty-four such independent unions, which had been found by the NLRB as in violation of the Wagner act, was offered in evidence.

Among other documentary material offered in evidence was literature distributed by the National Manufacturers Association, accompanied by a chart, giving detailed directions of how a back-to-work movement should be launched.

Mr. Saposs said these instructions were devised at the Congress of Industry held recently in New York under the auspices of the National Manufacturers Association.

LOUISIANA WEEKLY
MAY 28, 1938

(Continued on Page 4)

TO VISIT HERE

A. PHILLIP RANDOLPH, famous and militant labor leader whose signal victory over the Pullman Company last year marked the end of a ten-year struggle and set a record for Negro labor organizations, will come to New Orleans June 10-17 as the guest of the local branch of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and Maids.

BROTHERHOOD PREPARES FOR LABOR LEADER

Expensive and elaborate plans, in proportion to his importance to local members of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and Maids, are being completed in preparation for the impending visit of A. Phillip Randolph, authority on economics and militant labor leader. Mr. Randolph, accompanied by M. P. Webster, First International vice-president of the Brotherhood, will arrive June 10 and remain through June 17, holding a series of meetings daily with Pullman porters of the New Orleans district.

Because of his victory in behalf of Pullman porters and maids, won last year after a ten-year struggle which was brought to a conclusion only after the United States Mediation Board was called in, Mr. Randolph is considered the "Savior of Negro Labor". His determination to gain better working conditions and increased pay for this class of workers, and his ability to match wits with learned corpora-

COMING

M. P. WEBSTER, first international vice-president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and Maids, will accompany A. Phillip [illegible] president, to the city [illegible] a series of conferences [illegible] members. An extended [illegible] has been arranged [illegible] two labor leaders during their stay here by a committee headed by N. F. Williams.

made to him today by Acting Director Emil Rieve of the Textile Workers Organization Committee; Roy R. Lawrence, in charge of the committee's Southern campaign, and Sol Barkin, T. W. O. C. research director.

Although detailed reports on the general textile situation will be made at the convention session tomorrow Mr. Hillman indicated that maintenance of the present wage scales in the South would be stressed by the speakers.

"Had it not been for the T. W. O. C. there would have been a general wage decrease in all Southern industries," he said. "In textiles the industry is generally observing the wage scale, though here and there cuts have been made. Wholesale wage cuts would be deplorable for the nation's consuming power."

As soon as the convention ends on Tuesday, Mr. Hillman added, the union's major activity will be to accentuate its drive for the Federal Wage and Hour Bill.

He could not agree with Mayor La Guardia, who told the convention last Friday that a maximum hours bill would be sufficient without a minimum wage provision. In that case, he went on to say, purchasing power would be broken down and the law nullified, because wages might drop to a very low figure; and workers would not be content with shorter hours as they would wish to earn as much as possible.

As chairman of the T. W. O. C. Mr. Hillman conferred with his associates on the strike of 6,500 employes of the Bigelow Sanford Carpet Company in Amsterdam, N. Y., and Thompsonville, Conn. He announced that full support of the organization would be extended to the strikers.

PRICE 5 CENTS

Coming Here

A. Phillip Randolph, militant victor of the Pullman company's labor issue and M. P. Webster, first international vice-president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and Maids, will be in New Orleans, June 10, for a important series of labor confabs.

A large group of recently organized union representatives from Monroe, Shreveport, Lake Charles and Vicksburg, Miss.,

(Continued On Last Page)

Saturday, June 4, 1938

Pullman Porter

Continued from page 1

and other points will hold a speci?al meeting here with these labor leaders. Much information and results are expected as fruits of this meet.

According to announcements made from the local Pullman Porters headquarters, New Orleans is expected to receive this champion organizer and contender for organized labor in such a manner as is deserving of his demonstrative leadership. The activities planned for these two emminent authorities are many and varied. A mass meeting is scheduled for Mr. Zion M. E. Church, Friday night, June 10 The principle speakers for the occasion will be Mr. Randolph, Mr. Webster, Mrs. Alice Dixon Williams, James E. Gayle, Sr. Rev. W. T. Handy, Prof. A. E. Perkins and Mr. C. J. Pharr, vice-president of the local organization. Saturday night, June 11, an invitational smoker will be given in the Masonic Hall, 815 So. Rampart street, while Greater Tulane Baptist Church, Rev. Morris, Pastor, will entertain the distinguished guests with special services Sunday, June 12th.

Monday night, June 13th, Dr. A. W. Brazier, president of the local N. A. A. C. P. will sponsor Mr. Randolph's speaking at Old Baptist Church, Third and Liberty Streets, Rev. R. W. Coleman, pastor. The Seventh Ward Civic League, Dr. J. A. Hardin, president, will introduce Mr. Randolph at the Autocrat Club, Tuesday, June 14th. Students of Dillard University will hear Mr. Randolph Thursday, June 16th.

One of the high points in the leader's coming, will be the installation of the officers of the Women's Auxiliary at Mr. Zion M. E. Church. Mrs. Nelson F. Williams is the dynamic president who has increased the auxiliary membership in one month from 16 to 52. Other officers of the ladies auxiliary membership are: Mr. J. J. Jones, vice-president; Mrs. C. M. Lester, secretary; Mrs. Ruth Campbell Porter, assitant secretary; Mrs. C. J. Pharr, treasurer, Mrs. Dennis Weston, chaplain, and Mrs. E. T. Mitchell, reporter.

Officers of the local organization are: W. W. Copelin, president; C. J. Pharr, vice-president; E. L. Edwards, secretary; C. M. Lester, assistant secretary; G. C. Garron, chaplain, and W. E. Campbell, local organizer.

Climaxing it all with a social aspect will be the Pullman Porters Grand Spring Dance at the Rhythm Club, Wednesday, night, June 15, and a reception in the parlors of the Canal Y. W. C. A. Friday, June 17th.

BAN IN IOWA SEEN CHALLENGE TO NLRB BY STATE'S POWER

Governor's Barring of Federal Hearing in Maytag Strike Situation Raises Issue

FORMAL ORDER AWAITED

Martial Law Officer Says He Hasn't Received It—Board Directs Hearings to Proceed

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

NEWTON, Iowa, July 31.—A clash between the power of State martial law and the authority of the National Labor Relations Board seemed to be brewing in this strike-harassed town tonight.

Governor Kraschel has ordered the stoppage of Labor Board hearings of a C. I. O. complaint against the struck Maytag Washing Machine Company, terming the hearings a disturbing factor. National Guardsmen are keeping the plant shut under orders of the Governor.

Whether State troops can halt a Federal inquiry is the question being heatedly discussed. Newton people, chafing under twelve days of martial law, welcome a fight between rival authorities as a respite from the tension of the local situation.

Adding to the confusion was the fact that nearly twenty-four hours after the Governor's stoppage order had been made public by newspaper and radio, neither the military authorities here nor the Labor Board trial examiner, Madison Hill, had been officially notified that the hearings were not to be resumed tomorrow.

Mr. Hill indicated the NLRB might have consented to postpone the hearings upon word that they were impeding a settlement in the three-month-old strike, as the Governor asserted, but said he could not forecast the board's attitude toward Mr. Kraschel's order.

Major Gen. Mathew Tinley, in command of the State troops, said he had anticipated the Governor's order because the hearings had been causing tension. He stated that he had not been notified officially, however, and that until he received the formal order he could not say how it would be carried out.

Absence of Order Unexplained

No explanation was given as to why General Tinley had not received the order from his commander in chief, the Governor, whose headquarters at Des Moines is only thirty-five miles from here.

It was also considered unusual that Mr. Hill had not been told of the order by the Governor or his military aides in Newton in an effort to avoid a possible conflict which might have far-reaching implications.

Governor Kraschel has extended the martial law throughout the State for the purpose of carrying out his stop order. An attempt to hold the Labor Board hearings on Federal property might bring the awaited test.

E. W. Ford, counsel for the Maytag Company, criticized the Labor Board hearings as "a disturbing element in this strike." The company had previously asked the governor to permit the plant to be opened.

"I believe that whatever action is necessary to maintain peace can be done by the State," said Mr. Ford. "While I am not an authority on martial law, it is my understanding that the power to preserve the peace is reserved to the States under the Federal Constitution.

"There is no doubt in my mind

Continued on Page Three

THE NEW YORK TIMES

MAY 9, 1938

PUBLIC OPPOSITION TO LABOR ACT SEEN

Survey of Nation Discloses Groups in Both Parties Who Want Law Revised

REPEAL FAVORED BY MANY

Opinion Against Act Is Most Marked in the Largest Industrial States

By Dr. GEORGE GALLUP
Director American Institute of Public Opinion.

A fight by conservatives and employers to amend or repeal the Wagner Labor Act was touched off in speeches and resolutions at the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce last week.

Though Washington observers believe there is little chance for revision of the Wagner act in the present session of Congress, they hold that Congress may move in that direction next Winter, especially if New Dealers lose a substantial number of seats in the Fall elections.

What is the attitude of the public as the fight begins to take shape?

Today a nation-wide survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion shows that the Wagner act is being seriously questioned by a large group of rank-and-file voters of both major parties. The strength of the group foreshadows a strong drive to revise the existing statute or repeal it outright.

But the Institute survey also shows that a large part of the public has not been directly concerned by the operation of the Labor Act. As a result, approximately half of the voters interviewed in today's study say they have not formed opinions one way or another about the Wagner act.

Both sides will attempt to enlist these "no opinion" voters as the issue develops. At the present time the undecided group is made up in almost equal proportions of Democrats and Republicans.

Largest Group Wants Act Revised

The Institute asked a carefully selected cross-section of voters in all parts of the country, "Do you think the Wagner Labor Act should be revised, repealed or left unchanged?"

The answers show that the largest number of those who have an opinion think the act should be revised. Together with those who want the act repealed outright, they constitute a large majority of those giving an opinion. The actual vote of those with opinions is:

Revise	43 per cent
Repeal	19 per cent
Leave unchanged	38 per cent

States where the greatest industrial difficulties have occurred in recent months show the greatest sentiment for amending the act or repealing it.

In the four East Central States, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, the vote for revision reaches 48 per cent of those with opinions, while 33 per cent want outright repeal and only 19 per cent favor leaving the act unchanged.

Here in recent weeks several of the National Labor Relations Board's most important decisions have been rendered—one against the Ford Motor Company and another against Tom Girdler's Republic Steel Company. Complete sectional percentages are as follows:

	Revise.	Repeal.	Leave Unchanged.
New England States	35	19	46
Middle Atlantic States	45	13	42
East Central States	48	33	19
West Central States	39	25	36
Southern States	38	22	40
Rocky Mountain States	37	21	42
Pacific Coast States	48	26	26

Will Be Party Issue

Spokesmen for business and employer groups have asked revision of the Wagner act on the grounds that it should permit employers as well as employes to file charges of unfair practices and to call for plant elections. They have also charged the National Labor Relations Board with bias and unfairness.

Today's survey indicates that the fight over these issues is actually a party fight, although a substantial number of Democrats, including Senator Burke of Nebraska, are calling for revision.

Fifty per cent of the Democrats with opinions in today's survey say that the Wagner act should be left unchanged, while 81 per cent of the Republicans want it either revised or repealed. The table show how major party voters with opinions divide, the figures being percentages:

	Revise	Repeal	Leave Unchanged
Democrats	39	11	50
Republicans	49	32	19

Set up by the Wagner act, the National Labor Board administers the act and deals out decisions.

The Institute's tests show that opinion is almost evenly divided among those having opinions today on whether the board has been fair to employers in its decisions. Sixty per cent of the Democrats responding to the question say that the board has been fair to employers, but only 20 per cent of the Republicans think so.

May 17, 1938

GOLDWATER WARNS OF DEPRESSION ILLS

Sickness Increases as Family Income Drops, He Says, Urging Aid to Charity Fund

POSTER PRIZES ARE READY

City Pupils Get Awards Today in Contest Conducted as Part of $10,000,000 Campaign

Depression conditions make imperative the expansion of all private health and welfare agencies, Dr. S. S. Goldwater, commissioner of hospitals, declared yesterday in a statement issued through the Greater New York Fund, which is seeking $10,000,000 to supplement the finances of the city's private charities.

Pointing to the striking parallel between business setbacks, unemployment and rising sickness rates, Dr. Goldwater stressed that in times like the present the need for privately supported hospitalization and health work was far greater than in normal times.

Federal Studies Cited

Federal studies have disclosed that families going from a comfortable status to relief showed a disabling illness incidence of 208 per thousand as against 120 per thousand for "comfortable families" whose incomes suffered no substantial drop, Dr. Goldwater said. He pointed out that without exception the sickness rates rose as the family incomes grew less. Brooklyn showed the highest illness proportion and Manhattan the second highest of the ten localities studied. The sickness index of families on relief was highest of all.

"These figures," Dr. Goldwater said, "do not necessarily show unemployment causes sickness, or that sickness causes unemployment. There is probably an interaction there involving both of them. Before we can say which causes which in the majority of cases more exhaustive studies will have to be made and the results analyzed.

"But it seems likely that diseases which have a nervous rather than functional origin, as stomach disorders, ulcers and digestive troubles, become more frequent in bad times because of worry and the shock of economic change.

"In our efforts to maintain a high level of community health we must take these facts into consideration. Bad business conditions should be a signal for immediate expansion of corrective as well as preventive facilities all along the line. People who are periodically ill are less apt to be self-supporting than those who are well."

Report Luncheon Tomorrow

James G. Blaine, chairman of the Greater New York Fund's campaign committee, announced that the second report luncheon would be held tomorrow at the Hotel Commodore. Former Justice Joseph M. Proskauer will be the principal speaker.

Prizes will be awarded at 5 P. M. today to the winners of the poster contest in behalf of the fund, in which 1,350 children of the city's grade, junior and senior high schools are participating. Thirty-nine prizes, representing $300 worth of artists' kits donated by the Devoe & Raynolds Company, will be awarded at the Wanamaker Department Store where the winning posters will be exhibited. The contest was held under the supervision of Forest Grant, director of art of the Board of Education.

UNION LABEL WEEK

AN EDITORIAL

LAST WEEK WAS UNION LABEL WEEK. Thousands of trade union members marched downtown with their union banners flying, proud of the opportunity to let the world know that they were trade unionists.

The Amsterdam News is in full accord with democratic trade unionism. We believe that through it the Negroes are bound to progress. In keeping with our belief, The Amsterdam News is a 100 per cent union shop; the Rapid Reproduction Company which makes all of the cuts used by the paper is a 100 per cent union shop and the paper is printed in a 100 per cent union shop.

Label of the American Newspaper Guild of Amsterdam which the News office staff is a unit.

We believe that decent wages, job security, vacations and sick leave with pay, some of the benefits of unionism enjoyed by our employees, make them happier and better workers. We also believe that if we preach against discrimination of the Negro workers by trade unions and white employers we ourselves not to discriminate against unions ourselves. Our policy is a simple one of practicing what we preach.

I.P.E.U. 223

Insignia of the Photo Engravers Union with which employees of Rapid Reproduction Company are affiliated.

We also believe that it is good for business in general and businesses owned and operated by Negroes in particular to sponsor small enterprises. With this in mind the Rapid Reproduction Company was formed to do general engraving work [illegible] Walker, a journeyman member of the [illegible]

As a group we believe that the welfare and progress of the race depend largely upon businesses owned and operated by Negroes and unionism. In reference to the latter, such tried and true Negro labor leaders as A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters union, and Frank R. Crosswaith, president of the Negro Labor Committee, have done much to break down union barriers against Negro workers—barriers put up by both employers and union employees.

UNION LABEL 20

Union label of the plant where the Amsterdam News is printed.

We are in full accord with the labor philosophy that there must be no barrier between black and white workers, but that both must work as one for the benefit of all laborers. We are opposed to any system in this or any other city that would result in the victimization of white workers. The danger of sponsoring a campaign to fire all white workers in Harlem, for example, and to hire all black ones in their places is obvious: it would result in less employment for Negroes in the final analysis.

The Harlem Job Committee is determined to blaze a safe and sane trail for labor in this section. We oppose chiseling white and black employers, workers and labor leaders alike. None of these means labor any good. But we will cooperate with any group or individual who is anxious to adhere to a rational labor policy. For through such, the black and white workers are bound to benefit; and when they do the nation will benefit.

C. B. POWELL.

CLOAK UNIONS PAY HUGE JOB BENEFITS

Nearly $500,000 Distributed to Unemployed Members in 5 Months, Leader Says

WORKERS TAXED FOR FUND

Needle Trade Groups Appeal to Hopkins and La Guardia to Expand WPA Projects

Unions affiliated with the New York joint board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America have distributed nearly $500,000 in unemployment benefits to their members in the last five months, Louis Hollander, City Councilman, manager of the joint board, reported yesterday.

His announcement came as the Cloak Operators Union, Local 117 of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, began the three-day task of apportioning a special fund of $75,000 among 1,400 workers who received $300 or less in wages in the season just ended. Reports from other units of the international union here showed that they, too, were caring for their unemployed through cash payments and share-the-work plans.

Season Called Worst

Leaders of both major labor groups in the needle trades—the Amalgamated for men's clothing and the Garment Workers for women's apparel—united in pronouncing the Spring season the worst in their memory. Mr. Hollander said his organization had been able to keep its jobless off public relief since the depression began, but that this responsibility now was too great to be shouldered by individual unions.

With their own unemployment funds running low, the two unions have appealed to Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Works Progress Administrator, and Mayor La Guardia for expansion of the WPA sewing project in this city to put 5,000 more persons to work making clothing for home relief recipients.

"It is impossible for a single union to meet the problem," Mr. Hollander observed. "The people who helped to create the unemployment fund yesterday are seeking aid today. About one-third of our 35,000 members had no work at all in the Spring season, and most of the others were on part-time."

The Cutters Union, Local 4 of the Amalgamated, assessed its employed members 10 per cent of each week's pay for the benefit of those without work and raised more than $100,000, Mr. Hollander said. The other locals in the joint board disbursed more than $350,000 more through a system under which employers contribute a percentage of their payrolls for unemployment purposes. Because the State provides some unemployment insurance, the amount of this contribution has been reduced from 1½ per cent of payroll to three-quarters of 1 per cent, according to Mr. Hollander.

Checks to Poor Earners

Three long lines formed in the offices of the Cloak Operators Union, 242 West Thirty-sixth Street, as officials began to give out checks of $45 to $85 to those who had made the least money during the season. Persons on the union's sick benefit list were permitted to share in the distribution.

A tax of $10 on each employed member of the union brought in the $75,000 fund, the first in the fifty-two-year history of the organization. The distribution will continue today and tomorrow.

Charles S. Zimmerman, manager of the Dressmakers Union, Local 22 of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, said that a share-the-work movement initiated by his local under the slogan, "Take an additional worker into your shop," had succeeded in making places for at least 1,200 workers. The union distributed $10,000 to its needy members in January.

The Cloak and Suit Pressers, Local 35, also followed the share-the-work principle. Its members allotted 4,271 days of work (at $11 a day) to their unemployed fellows. The Cloak Tailors and Finishers, Local 9, made available $15,000 in cash.

Elimination Of Color Bar Asked AFL

1938

White Primaries Also Target of Brotherhood Body

HOUSTON, Texas—A. Phillip Randolph, international president, and M. P. Webster, first international vice president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, are credited with having tried to align the A. F. of L. behind the movement to break down white primaries and thereby eliminate the disfranchisement of Negroes.

In a speech against white primaries in the South, before the Brotherhood here on last Friday, Mr. Randolph bitterly assailed the poll tax, while both ridiculed the jim-crow system of the South, pointing out that it was a form of economic duplication which caused the South to be the nation's No. 1 problem, according to President Roosevelt.

Southern delegates and the people of Houston were astonished at the drastic demands and attacks of the Brotherhood delegates against all forms of race discrimination, as attested by general expressions of the Southern delegates.

The A. F. of L. has adopted the Brotherhood's resolutions on elimination of the color bar and requested committees to be set up in national and international unions to discuss the question and report to their succeding convention.

A resolution on the Scottsboro boys was adopted and also the resolution for an anti-lynching law. The convention also reaffirmed its position in favor of the restoration of the independence of Ethiopia.

At a meeting of the NAACP, Mr. Webster assailed Negro leadership as a failure and called for a working class Negro leadership which has courage, vision and intelligence as is expressed in the Sleeping Car Porters and other unions.

He told the story of the Brotherhood and pointed out the significance of the role of the Brotherhood in the AFL and that workers of both races should unite in a common cause.

SLEEPING CAR PORTERS HEAD VISITS EAGLE EYE OFFICE

Mr. W. Philip Randolph, National President, and M. P. Webster, Vice President of the Sleeping Car Porters, were in the city this week in conference with Mr. Lon Hewston, Secretary of the Local, and Mr. S. Graham, President. While in the city they were the distinguished guests of the Editor of the Eagle Eye who graciously praised their work to the highest, and welcomed them back to Texas at their will.

RELIEF NOW AMPLE, 3 OUT OF 4 BELIEVE

Institute of Public Opinion Survey Shows Few Favor Increase in Benefits

NO PARTY LINES SHOWN

Chief Dissent Found to Come From Those Receiving Aid—Long-Term Plan Approved

By Dr. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

As the problem of relief for the unemployed takes the national spotlight again a nation-wide survey conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion indicates a majority of Americans think persons on relief are already getting "as much as they should."

The survey underlines the long tug-of-war between the advocates of higher relief standards and the general public, and it demonstrates clearly that while relief has been accepted in principle the public has not been sold on the idea of a better standard of living for the unemployed.

The institute put its question to a carefully selected cross-section of voters in all sections of the country and in all walks of life. Persons on relief were included, as were voters in all income levels, in proportion to their numbers in each State.

"Do you think," the institute asked, "that people on relief in your community are getting as much as they should?"

3 of 4 Against More Pay

The country over, nearly three voters out of every four indicate that reliefers are getting enough. The actual vote is:

Getting enough.....71%
Not getting enough.....29%

Last month the American Association of Social Workers published a survey of actual relief standards in twenty-eight States which put forward the case for heavier relief allowances. The association's report found that Federal work relief has lagged behind increasing needs and that direct relief allowances—for those outside the WPA—are "shockingly low" in many areas.

Even WPA standards are admittedly far below the "American standard" of living. The monthly earnings of WPA workers range from $21 a month in rural sections of the South to an average of about $60 a month in the large cities of the North.

But the present institute survey proves that the social agencies have not won the public's support for their argument. The voting shows that all sections of the country, and especially the agrarian States of the Middle West, are unwilling to allocate more to their relief "cases" than they do at present.

The typical attitude is epitomized in the following comment from a voter in New York:

"To my mind, relief is just what the word implies. It shouldn't go any farther than lending a hand until those on relief can be shifted into private jobs."

In spite of some sharp differences, Democrats and Republicans take the same side in today's survey. Sixty-six per cent of those who voted for Roosevelt declare that relief allowances are adequate. Eighty-three per cent of those who voted for Landon call them adequate.

"Reliefers" Seek More Aid

The chief dissent comes from the group who are themselves on relief. A breakdown of their vote shows that only 27 per cent of them think relief allowances are as great as they should be, while 73 per cent want them increased.

The United States had no plan for giving relief to the unemployed when the country entered the depression in 1929, and for a long time the Hoover Administration was reluctant to have the Federal Government enter the field of relief at all.

In recent years the surveys of the American Institute of Public Opinion show how sentiment toward the relief problem has developed.

One of the first surveys ever conducted by the institute, in February, 1934, found that a prevailing number of voters thought government spending for relief "about right." But by the following Summer opinion had shifted, and the greatest number thought the government's spending "too great." Public opinion has remained critical of these amounts during each succeeding year.

Although the average American voter takes an adamantine attitude toward larger relief allowances for the unemployed, the average voter is also prepared to see the Federal Government continue its relief appropriations for a long time to come.

He believes that the government may have to continue its assistance permanently.

This is indicated in a companion survey on the relief problem.

The institute interviewed a carefully selected cross-section of Amercan voters, asking them:

"Do you think the United States will have to continue relief appropriations permanently?"

Throughout the country two voters out of three say that in their opinion relief will be a permanent government responsibility.

Paris Reds Greet Gustaf With 'Long Live the King'

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 21.—French Communists vigorously applauded King Gustaf of Sweden and shouted "Long live the King!" when the monarch visited the Paris "Red belt" today.

The occasion was the inauguration of a home for aged Swedish immigrants at the suburb of La Garenne-Colombes, which has the reputation of being all Red. Headed by its municipal council, the population turned out and tendered a great reception to the 80-year-old King, who amiably chatted with inmates of the home, all of whom were younger but less fit than himself.

A. F. L. IN POLITICS ON NATIONAL SCALE

Federation Sets Up Machine to Combat Non-Partisan League of C. I. O.

GREEN QUOTES GOMPERS

He Advises Followers to Aid Friends and Oppose Enemies Regardless of Party

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor, following the example of the rival C. I. O., entered politics on a national scale today by forming an organization to back selected candidates for public office.

The action, emphasizing anew the split between the two labor associations, indicated that the labor vote would be divided in many State primaries and November Congressional elections.

William Green said the federation might support some candidates who also were approved by the C. I. O., but ordinarily, he added, C. I. O. backing would be "one thing against a candidate."

Mr. Green's announcement of the new organization followed his recent demands that federation members withdraw from Labor's Non-Partisan League, the political branch of the C. I. O. The league was formed in 1936 to support President Roosevelt's candidacy for re-election.

Although the A. F. of L. political set-up will resemble the league in many respects, Mr. Green said it would be a "much more democratic organization." There will be "no dictating from the top," he added.

State and city campaign committees, Mr. Green explained, will work with State federations of labor and city central bodies, and will decide which candidates are to receive A. F. of L. support. The federation's national headquarters will offer advice and campaign material.

The federation would keep in mind, in its political activity, he added, the advice of Samuel Gompers, for forty years its president, that labor should support its friends and oppose its enemies regardless of party.

SATURDAY, APRIL 23, 1938

Rev. L. H. King. A. Philip Randolph. Dr. C. B. Powell.

THE NEW YORK AMSTERDAM NEWS.

Citizens Join Amsterdam News Job Battle

Frank R. Crosswaith. Attorney Charles Houston. Mrs. P. M. H. Savory.

The Truth About

PROPOSITION NO. 1

Vote

A N

C. Laurence Dellums, District President of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, President of National Negro Congress, East Bay Section; President 17 Assembly District Club of Labor Non-Partisan League.

LOREN MILLER, Attorney and Chairman of the Colored Voters Division of the Democratic State Central Committee.

DICK ABRAMS, well known actor and civic figure is a member of the County Central Committee of the Democratic party.

PERCY
and

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1938

No Propo

essage to all Negroe

Proposition No. 1 is a deliberate, cunningly devised fraud striking home at all Negroes. asked behind loosely-worded, sweeping clauses – pushed by a million dollar advertising mpaign – lies a measure that would deprive Negroes of all their hard-won rights.

Here is a fact the backers of Proposition No. 1 are trying to keep from Negro voters. heir billboards, their pamphlets, their propaganda, don't tell you that No. 1 will curtail the berty of civic, religious, fraternal, and patriotic organizations as well as unions.

They do not tell you this measure makes no distinctions – that when trade unionists are enied the rights of free speech, free press, and free assembly, these same constitutional privleges are denied to all of us.

No. 1 destroys the right to picket and to boycott, not for labor unions alone, but for all rganizations and minority groups.

No organization, no group, and no individual could boycott, or even advocate a boycott, gainst any business or company which refused to hire Negroes or was in any way unfair them. No newspaper pamphlet, or leaflet could be issued which even hinted we should not atronize such an establishment.

REE SPEECH AND FREE PRESS, VITAL TO NEGROES AND ALL MINORITY ROUPS, WOULD BE ABOLISHED BY THE PASSAGE OF PROPOSITION NO. 1.

Suppose some group did engage in a boycott? Well, the penalty is clear. Under No. 1 very member of a group participating in the boycott would be liable to a fine of $5,000 and a entence of two years in San Quentin prison. THAT'S WHAT PROPOSITION NO. 1 OULD DO TO US!

KILLS EFFECTIVE ACTION

Consider the case of the Whitcomb Hotel in San Francisco. During the recent convenon of the Hotel and Restaurant Employee's International Alliance and Bartenders' League f America the manager of this hotel refused to rent rooms to the Negro delegates.

omptly and unanimously the convention voted to remove its headquarters from the rea. The hundreds of delegates immediately checked out.

Under Nov. 1 this fight for equal rights for Negroes would have been declared a boycott.

Or again, ta cent of its patr of Negro orga
ing the Negro were given em

As a resul
we can never a

These exa right to boyco
the fight AG
osition No. 1

The over
ple, they are s.

Trade uni
dreds of thous unions, but ag found.

There are imination is record as oppo record against

And the Bartenders' and con

ARKET

venue

urs., Fri., Sat. - Nov. 3 - 4 - 5

TRINDL'S

QUALITY

MEAT

PURE K. R. LARD 3 lbs. 25¢

Baby Beef POT ROAST 17½¢ lb

Eastern Quality PORK ROAST 17½¢ lb

EASTERN BACON ENDS

LARGE EASTERN BACON SQUARES 12½¢ lb

SHOULDERS OF BABY LAMB 17½¢ lb

LEGS OF BABY LAMB 25¢ lb

EASTERN QUALITY NECK BONES .....

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1933

Church Services

TRUE LIGHT BAPTIST CHURCH
1003 East Jefferson Blvd.
Rev. Chester A. Hemphill, Minister

Services were held at the usual hour with a nicely attendance and teachers present and on time. Our Pastor taught a Chalk Talk demonstration to the Sunday School children. 11:30 hour the Pastor preached a very interesting sermon we all enjoyed very much. Several visitors worshipped at True Light Sunday. They are always welcome to our service. Friday night Nov. 4th Evangelistic and Quartette singing. Sunday Nov. 6th Pastor will preach, "What Are Christians Made Like." Come and bring your loved ones.

7:45. Evening Rev. U. A. Harrell of Texas will be our speaker. Come to all services. Bro. H. C. Cornelius conducting all Inspirational singing come and see this coming Gospel preacher in action for the Christ. Open arms awaits you at True Light. Our Motto—Fight For The Holy Bible.

SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH
Dr. T. L. GRIFFITH, PASTOR

Dr. T. L. Griffith, Pastor, will preach morning and evening at Second Baptist Sunday, with Communion in the evening and Baptism.

Mrs. Ernestine Wade presented in Recital next Tuesday.

This Thursday in the Social Hall the "Boosters" will present a Program of merit, being three short sketches. A large number will participate.

Very fine services last Sunday with Rev. Herbert A. Foster speaking in the morning on "The Challenge of Jesus the Christ" and in the evening a fine program was rendered by the Missionary So. The Pres. Mrs. S. A. Reed made a very fine report of the Womens Auxiliary to the Nat'l. Baptist Conn.

Hamilton M. E. Church
E. 18th St. & Naomi Ave.
Rev. S. M. Beane, Pastor

The Holy Communion will be administered at the 11 a.m. service on Sunday. At the 7:30 p.m. hour, there will be a joint Communion service between Wesley and Hamilton. The Choir of Wesley will sing and Rev. E. W. Rakestraw will deliver the sermon. This will be a service you will enjoy. Come, help make it the service it can be. The Epworth League will hold its service at 6 p.m. The topic for discussion will be, "Should the nations of Great Britain & France have fought to save the Czechs from the hands of the German Dictator?" This discussion will be led by Mr. James Brown.

Lincoln Memorial Cong. Church
Vernon and Hooper Avenues
Rev. E. E. Lightner, Minister

This Sunday Nov. 6th is Communion Day. The Pastor will bring a "Communion Meditation" at 11:00 a.m. and administer the Lord's Supper at the close of the services. There will also be the reception of members into the church at this service. "Some Practical Objectives for the Church." You are cordially invited to worship with us at all times. Always something worth while at Lincoln.

Allen College Raises $26,000

COLUMBIA, S.C.—One of the most outstanding achievements in the history of Allen university was revealed here Monday when Bishop J. Simeon Flipper, presiding over the Seventh Episcopal District of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, reported that through the active cooperation of the presiding elders and ministers of South Carolina, $26,000 had been raised over the short period of six months for the endowment fund of the university.

After serving only three years in the state of South Carolina, the amiable Senior Bishop reported much progress to the leaders of the six conferences. He has served the race for more than 30 years in the highest office his denomination affords, and has gained the esteem of his followers everywhere. The distinguished religionist, who has had years of experience based on religious leadership in the state of Georgia for 16 years, Florida 8 years, and Oklahoma 4 years, has served without a blemished record.

YWCA NOTES

Miss Evangelina Abellara, Girl Reserve secretary of the Young Women's Christian assoication of aMnilla, Philippine islands, will be the guest of honor and speaker at the homecoming celebration of the 12th street branch Y.W.C.A. now scheduled for Thursday, November 17. This celebration comes during World Fellowship week when Young Women's Christian associations throughout the world will give time to meditation on the Christian Community in the oMdern oWrld. Dinner will be served Thursday all day; the family supper when Miss Abellara will speak, will be at 6:30 p.m. Reservations are necessary.

Members of the committee of management of the 12th street branch Y.W.C.A. attended the tea held recently at the Hollywood Studio club in honor of Miss C. M. aVn Asch Van Wyck. Mrs. Jessie Coles Grayson, chairman of the committee of management and Miss Dorothy C. Guinn, branch executive were among the hostesses at the tea.

The Y.W.C.A. employment service beginning November first will observe the following hours. nIterviews for applicants will be five days a week, Monday through rFiday from 9 to 12 a.m. There will be no applicants for work received during the afternoon or on Saturdays.

EVERGREEN BAPTIST CHURCH
40th Place and Naomi Avenue
Rev. T. J. Johns, Pastor

Evergreen Baptist church will enter into their new home Sunday, the 6th of November, and the public is invited to join us in parising God on that afternoon. J. T. Yancy, reporter.

MRS. TABER DIES

Following a long illness, Mrs. M. V. Taber, succumbed at her home last Thursday, October 19. Mrs. Taber was the mother of Jim Taber, dancer, who operates a pressing shop in Hooper avenue. Mrs. Taber was well known in this city.

osition 1

s of California

ke the case of the Lincoln Theatre in West Oakland, which received 80 per onage from Negro people and yet refused to give them a single job. A group izations jointly issued a leaflet setting forth the facts in the dispute and urg- people not to paronize the theatre until its policies were changed and Negroes ployment.

of this action Negroes are now employed at this theatre. But, if No. 1 passes gain issue such a leaflet.

NEGROES MUST VOTE 'NO'

nples show clearly why Negroes should vote "NO" on Proposition No. 1. The t, the right to picket, and the right to issue leaflets are our chief weapons in INST DISCRIMINATION and FOR JOBS AND EQUAL RIGHTS. Prop- ould disarm Negroes and all minority groups. IT MUST NOT PASS!

helming majority of Negroes are working people, and, like all working peo- ruggling to raise their standards of living.

ons are the organizations which this struggle is being waged. Already hun- ands of Negroes are members of trade unions. Our fight is Not against trade inst discrimination within the trade unon movement, and wherever else it is encouraging signs that in the trade union movement itself the injustice of dis- being recognized. At its recent national convention the A. F. of L. went on sed to discrimina ion against Negroes in trade unions. The C. I. O. is also on this injustice.

vention of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees' International Alliance and rue of America removed discriminatory practices from its own organization discrimination in all places of public accommodation. It also declared it-

Editor, Publisher, and leader of The Don't Spend Your Money Where You Can't Work Campaign.

GILBERT W. LINDSAY, Democratic campaign chairman Colored Division Los Angeles county.

W. B. HOLLAND is president of the Los Angeles local of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

C. LAURENCE DELLUMS
STATE CHAIRMAN

NEGRO CITIZENS

Do Not Be Fooled

FRANK R. CROSSWAITH

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

The drive by organized California employers against labor draws no color line! In Los Angeles there is now a drastic law which can be used to smash all unions and all workers. Under it wages can be slashed and hours lengthened. Men can be thrown out of work. Our miserable living conditions can be made worse and workers made helpless. The bosses want only one thing—increased profits for themselves and increased poverty for all workers, black, white. The employers and landlords are organized to get more rent and more profit, but they do not want workers to organize to get more wages and pay less rent.

Proposition Number One on the November 8th ballot is even more vicious than the City law. If Proposition Number One becomes a law, every right for which we have struggled and to which we are entitled will be taken away from us. It will make us the victims of every vigilante action at the command of California bankers, landowners, and industrialists. Under this law, no groups will be more thoroughly exposed to injustice than the Negro. American customs and traditions show that every blow aimed at labor strikes the Negro harder.

We must defeat Proposition Number One. Let us stand together. Let us show our bosses that we know how to unite to protect our common interests as workers, regardless of color, race or religion. Proposition Number One can and must be defeated. Let reaction in California [illegible] our united might at the ballot box on November 8th. VOTE NO ON PROPOSITION NUMBER ON[illegible] By so doing you will be helping to establish industrial peace and safeguarding the rights of all labor.

Frank R. Crosswaith

Gen'l Org., Int'l Ladies Garment Workers Union
Chairman, The Negro Labor Committee

A. Philip Randolph

International President of Sleeping Car Porters

JOHN E. HARGROVES, president of the local union of the Union Pacific Dining Car Cooks and Waiters Union.

CLARENCE R. JOHNSON, official in the Federal Housing Administration, and chairman of the executive board of the local National Negro Congress.

... Negro people, yet refused to ve jobs to Negroes. Negroes were forced to picket and boycott to secure jobs.

If No. 1 goes through, this constitutional right to picket and boycott will be taken away
nd WE CAN NEVER AGAIN WIN SUCH A FIGHT.

Some of t
ing Car Porte

Passage o
gaged in the f

EGRO CITIZENS' COMMITTEE AGAINST PROPOSI

SPONSORS

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

ren Pittman, President, California
tion of Colored Women's Clubs;
H. T. S. Johnson, Attorney George hns; Matt N. Crawford, Regional ector, National Negro Congress; Rev.
hur Johnson; Revels Cayton, Business Agent, Marine Cooks and Stewards Union; Attorney Walter A. Gordon; Terry Johnson, Dining Car Cooks and Waiters, Local 456; John Hoskins, President, Red Caps and Station Porters Union, Oakland local.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins; John E. Hargrove, Walter L. Gordon, Sr., Loren Miller, Gilbert Banks H W. Alexander Mrs. Jessie L. Terry, Mrs. Fay Allen, Floyd C. Covington, Miss Lillian Jones, Gilbert Lindsey, Dr. Herbert Fairs, Leon H. Washington, Jr.

THESE OR

Dumas Poli

Athens L

Negro Progr

San Francisco Council N

Los Angeles

PROTECT YOUR CIVIL RIGHTS V

e nation's outstanding Negro org
s and the Dining Car Cooks and Waiters, are f No. 1 would result in the destruction or weakening of every organization enight for equal rights and against discrimination.

TION No .1 — Los Angeles - San Francisco

RGANIZATIONS ARE AGAINST PROPOSITION No. 1

- tical League, Oakland
- odge of Elks No. 70
- essive League of San Francisco, Calif.
- ational Negro Congress
- Civic League National Negro Congress
- East Bay Council National Negro Congress
- Alameda County Branch National Association for the Advancement of Colored People
- Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters
- All Dining Car Unions

VOTE NO ON NO. 1

CHARLES L. UPTON, official of the local of the Los Angeles union of Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

JAY MOSS, president of the Federated Young Democrats and leader in youth affairs.

Oct. 1938

This is a story of a boy born in slavery who rose to the peak of scientific fame. To-day the South pays tribute to this noted Negro

by CARL CARTER

DR. GEORGE W. CARVER Portrait by Dunlap

One of Our Great Americans

WHILE the Civil War raged and men of color fused their fire with that of white fighters for democracy, a son was born of slave parents in the State of Missouri: a black son and slave of Southern soil who was to become its undisputed master and America's honored luminary in the orbit of international science.

Less than seven weeks old and suffering from whooping cough, he was stolen from the plantation, together with his mother, by Night Riders. Moses Carver, master of the plantation, sent out a "rescuing party" which redeemed him from the slave thieves for a run-down race horse valued at $300.

Thus began the life of Dr. George Washington Carver, internationally celebrated Negro scientist.

Recurrent illnesses throughout his early years, made him a child of "quiet temperament." He was "shy and solitary," his pleasures limited to self-study with "an old blue-black speller by the dim light of burning logs in the fireplace" and long walks in the woods giving close observation to weeds, flowers and birds.

BECAUSE he was "frail and weak" his work consisted chiefly of assisting Mrs. Carver in preparing meals for the family and gathering wood-chips for the fire. He received the name George Washington from the Carvers, because of "faithfulness and truthfulness."

His ambition for learning caused him to part with the Carvers when he was ten years old, to attend a little log-cabin school at Neosho, eight miles away. While attending this school he did odd jobs at neighboring farms, using an empty horse barn for a sleeping place.

Dr. Carver next hitch-hiked on a mule team to Kansas, where he attended Portscott High School. There he stayed for seven years, during which time he also operated a laundry, accumulating sufficient money to enter Simpson College in Iowa. From Simpson College he entered Iowa State College, where he took his B.S. and M.S. in 1894 and was appointed to the faculty two years later. Soon after his appointment at the college, Dr. Carver was persuaded by Booker T. Washington, Negro founder of Tuskegee Institute in Alabama, to relinquish his post for that of professor of chemistry at Tuskegee.

Dr. Carver in his laboratory

FOR many years the scientific experiments and achievements of Dr. Carver went unheralded, but when soil erosion in the South held the threat of a grave national problem, he was suddenly swept to the front-page of scores of the nation's newspapers.

Dr. Carver held that the constant and "careless" growth of cotton was chiefly responsible for pauperization of the land. He advised the planting of crops in rotation. "Plough up your cotton and plant peanuts," he recommended, for his experiments had indicated that the peanut "puts vitality in the soil."

But the farmers were loath to heed his advice; they questioned the feasibility of any such action. Only after Dr. Carver had successfully cultivated 19 acres of barren land were they prevailed upon to rotate their cotton crops with the planting of peanuts.

And then another serious problem developed. Thousands of bushels of peanuts were harvested for which there was no market, the nut being chiefly used as food for pigs.

Feeling ran high among the farm communities. Ill-tempered farmers in an alarming degree of unanimity felt that Dr. Carver was personally responsible for their plight. Faced with this problem, Dr. Carver retired to his laboratory to work indefatigably at discovering new uses for the lowly peanut.

TO date, Dr. Carver has created more than two-hundred and twenty products from the peanut. Other products from the potato, from clay, and from cotton add up to over four hundred discoveries. Because of the discoveries of this wizard of agriculture, huge industries have sprung up in the South; the wheels of the peanut industry alone turn to the tune of [illegible]

[illegible] butter, lard, milk, shaving-cream, linoleum, sheaves, instant Coffee, face-powder, soap, rope, matting, axle-grease, mixed pickles, washing-powder, chocolate, flour, meal, Scotch butter, wafers, relishes, shampoo lotion, printers' ink. . . .

From the potato he extracted: starch of a much better grade than any other on the market and the production of which is much cheaper; flour, meal, library glue, cocoanut, ginger, inks, vinegar, shoe-blacking, coffee, dyes, candies, rubber, molasses, sugar. . . .

From wood-shavings he made synthetic marble. From grass he created a material for making furniture. Dr. Carver extracted a substance from cotton for reinforcing asphalt paving, making it as serviceable as steel; the formula for this was turned over to the State of Alabama.

FOR the last four years Dr. Carver has been experimenting with peanut oil as a cure for infantile paralysis. "It has been given out," said he, "that I have found a cure for infantile paralysis. I have not, but it looks hopeful. I have used it on 250 persons, and it has never failed so far as I can find out."

Modest professor at Tuskegee, Dr. Carver has never received a cent for his discoveries. He makes his discoveries public for the "good of humanity." The farmer, he said, "must depend on the by-products these days to eke out a living from the soil."

More than one European government asked for his services; they offered him fabulous sums, but he refused to leave his native land. Thomas A. Edison offered him a position on his staff at the Orange Grove laboratory. But this, too, Dr. Carver refused. He desired most of all to continue his work in the Negro Institute.

The honorary degree of Doctor of Science was conferred upon him June, 1928, by the State College of Iowa. Dr. Carver is winner of the Spingarn medal and a member of the Royal Society of Arts of Great Britain.

HENRY A. WALLACE, Secretary of Agriculture, and John Sutton, Negro agricultural expert in the Soviet Union, are but two of a list of prominent Americans who give voluble praise to the genius of Dr. Carver. Sutton studied under Carver. The motion picture industry joined in paying him tribute when only last month Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer released a special screen short based on his life and scientific achievements.

[illegible] was never found, and his father, who was a slave on a nearby plantation, was trampled to death by a horse when Carver was still an infant. This Negro, who has earned the plaudits of the world, is symbolic of the unlimited contribution a free and equal Negro people can make to our civilization.

VOL. VIII—PRICE 5c

HOUSTON, TEXAS, SATURDAY, OCT. 1, 1938

NO. 15

A.F. OF L. CONVENTION OPENS IN HOUSTON OCTOBER 3

OVER 500 DELEGATES REPRESENTING NEARLY FOUR MILLION WORKERS EXPECTED TO ATTEND NATIONAL CONFAB

A. Phillips Randolph, President of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters Will Head the Negro Delegation and Address the Convention; Local Committee Plans Entertaining Features

The delegates and visitors to the national convention of the American Federation of Labor, which starts here October 3 at the Sam Houston Coliseum, have been arriving all week. It is estimated that around 500 delegates will attend the convention among whom will be numbered several prominent leaders, including A. Philip Randolph, New York City, head of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters; Ishmae Florey, Chicago, representing the dining car employes; Paul Hortman and Ed Rhone of New Orleans nad Mobile, Alabama, respectively; Dock Hamilton, Galveston, international vice-president; Phil Register, editor of Fort Worth Eagle Eye, and Freeman Everett of Houston.

The Negro delegation is said to be larger than in previous years due to the AFL's gain in racial membership. The convention as a whole will be surrounded with intense atmosphere due to the many national and international problems affecting labor. The most serious is that of the threat of a European war and its effect upon the American workers. American [illegible] the course this country is to pursue in a world's crisis, it is contended by labor tycoons.

National issues to be passed upon at the convention will be the fight on the CIO, the change in the National Labor Relations Board and the 30-hour week work law which are said to be some of President Green's pet measures.

The Negro delegation will again present to the convention resolutions seeking the removal of discriminatory clauses and practices in many of the affiliates of the federation.

Local committee on arrangements headed by Freeman Everett is making every preparation to insure visiting delegates a good time.

The committee on arrangements is composed of the following:

Freeman Everett, Local 872, chairman; W. C. Denson, Local 872; [illegible] Isaacs, Local 1271; O. Bailey, Local 1331; Albert Hall, Jr., Draintenders No. 84; Robert J. J. Jones, Boilermakers; M. Richmond, Freight Handlers; Sidney Haggett, Hod Carriers; L. Silas, Federal Labor Union No. 20579; S. D. Washington, 1271, secretary.

Headquarters have been opened [illegible]

THE Chicago Defender
WORLD'S GREATEST WEEKLY
CHICAGO, ILL., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1938

DEATH TAKES MRS. NETTIE L. NAPIER IN NASHVILLE

By REBECCA STILES TAYLOR

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 30—Mrs. Nettie Langston Napier, daughter of the late Congressman John M. Langston of Virginia, and wife of Hon. J. C. Napier, former register of the U. S. treasury, died here Tuesday in Hubbard hospital.

She entered the hospital four weeks ago after a prolonged illness which kept her under a physician's care at her home, 120 North Fifteenth avenue, for the past three years. She passed away under an oxygen tent.

Mrs. Napier was christened Nettie DeElla Langston. She was born in the historic educational center, Oberlin, Ohio. When she was nine years old her family moved to Washington, D. C., where her father was already pursuing his noted career. She entered Howard university where she spent only one year, returning to Oberlin to complete her education.

MRS. NETTIE L. NAPIER

Did Civic Work

Early in her young womanhood she married J. C. Napier of Nashville and became what can be easily said its most outstanding race woman. She gave constant attention to social duties that commanded her attention and was an efficient and consistent worker in enterprises connected with the Congregational church of her city. She interested herself in matters of education, never failing to aid by advice and substantial support persons seeking situations as students of Fisk university and other schools.

Mrs. Napier possessed an accomplished musical education, with a deep, rich contralto voice of great power and frequently took part in musical entertainments of public and general interest.

[illegible] Red Cross

[illegible] Red Cross campaign in [illegible] Mrs. Napier was ch[illegible]an of a committee of [illegible] women invited by the white [illegible] to cooperate with them for Red Cross work. Not only was this work carried out during the entire time of the World war, but other phases of war work were creditably done with Mrs. Napier as the leader.

Although Mrs. Napier, along with other women, was instrumental in bringing the National Association of Colored Women to Nashville in 1897, it was not until the meeting in Buffalo in 1901 that she became an active member. In this meeting she appeared on the program, her subject being "Woman's Domain." The subject of home-making had always been first and foremost with her. Afterwards when speaking to a friend concerning this paper, she laughingly said, "I put woman in the home and let her stay there."

Heads Association

Since the Buffalo meeting Mrs. Napier attended every meeting of the National Association of Colored Women and served on some of the most important committees of the organization. On the death of Mary B. Talbert, who was president of the Frederick Douglass Memorial and Historical association, Mrs. Napier became president of the association and it was in this capacity that she was most keenly felt. Through her efforts the Douglass home at Anacostia, Washington, D. C., has become the shrine it was intended to be.

Mr. Napier accompanied her at every meeting of the association. On their return from Fort Worth, Texas last summer the car in which they traveled, accompanied by friends, was struck and both Mr. and Mrs. Napier were injured, he receiving the worse injury, but it was believed that neither was fatally hurt.

Mrs. Napier has labored unceasingly for the growth of the fund for the Frederick Douglass Home and the clubs of Tennessee have rallied to her wonderfully well, as have the clubs of other states. It will be her work for the Douglass Home for which she will be longest remembered for it has been most exceptional.

NEW YORK TIMES, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 8

Hitler Program Held Impossible In Its Application to the Balkans

Racial Pride, Clashing Interests and Complex Nature of Scattered Minorities Viewed as Insuperable Obstacles

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Oct. 7—Whether his peace offer is accepted or not, it appears from the initial interpretation of Chancellor Hitler's speech that he is determined to establish a new order in Southeastern Europe and has agreed to take Soviet Russia into partnership to perform this herculean task. Every since Munich it had been rumored that Herr Hitler had some such undertaking in mind. Analysis shows that, on the face of it, an attempt to through carry such an intention would make the fabulous cleaning of the Augean stables a relatively simple affair.

To accomplish such a purpose, it would be necessary, in theory if not in fact, to tear up half a dozen postwar treaties governing this section of the world. Herr Hitler's fundamental intention appears to be double: to institute a Soviet-Nazi partnership to supervise an enormous exchange of populations in the little Balkan countries and a rectification of at least some of their frontiers; and a guarantee by the joint supervisors of this new "ethnical" order, when it has finally been established.

Before proceeding to analyze the extraordinary complications that would face such efforts in the Balkans, it is well to point out additional difficulties that Herr Hitler appears to have erected for himself by apparent contradictions in his statement. First he undertakes to guarantee the present Hungarian frontiers and reaffirms his recognition of the Yugoslav borders. At the same time he asserts that he has no intentions against Rumania. It would appear impossible to arrange an exchange of populations returning 1,900,000 Hungarians now living as minorities in two latter States without amending the frontiers, particularly since Hungary is a small and moderately crowded country.

Hornets' Nest in Prospect

Second Herr Hitler has not yet asked the Balkans how they feel about the matter and he is likely to stir up a hornets' nest in this group of States if he upsets the status quo. Every country in this part of the world proudly teaches its school children that at one time it has held hegemony over the peninsula. A little more than two decades ago Hungary extended down the Danube to Belgrade and into Rumania as far as the heart of the Carpathians. Bulgaria stretched from the Black Sea to Albania when first constituted seventy-one years ago, and later reached the Aegean. The medieval Serb empire, spanning the Balkan peninsula is the favorite subject of many Yugoslavs. And—to carry the point to a ridiculous extreme—both Albania and Greece claim as an ancestor Alexander the Great, whose domains included most of the then known world.

To guarantee tranquility and order in this section of the world—which has been proud of its peaceful record of the last five years—Herr Hitler would improve the "lines of demarcation" of nationalities and arrange spheres of interest with Russia that he says are already defined. Even if the partners did not clash, it is difficult to see how such spheres could avoid bringing the Russian influence to the Adriatic because of the traditional attitude of Moscow towards fellow Slavs—a possibility not exactly pleasing to the Axis partner, Italy.

The principal item in the Hitler program would be exchanges of population. To be sure, such action was harshly but effectively arranged between Greece and Turkey in the early Nineteen Twenties following the Kemalist war. However, it must be remembered that an absolute minimum of recognized minorities in the Southeast European States—excluding Turkey— is 7,000,000 and it probably reaches as high as 10,000,000. These are scattered far and wide in every valley of this mountainous, cris-crossed region. With his ally, Italy, Herr Hitler has found it a tremendous undertaking to arrange the disposition of 210,000 Tyrolesese. How will he do it with fifty times that number?

Some Speak Medieval German

German minorities alone in Southeastern Europe number 1,700,000, scattered mostly in population islands in Hungary, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria. A large proportion has been there for centuries and some do not even speak German as it is now understood. For instance, the Germans of Gottschee in Yugoslav Stovenia have been there more than five centuries and speak the medieval tongue.

The traditional German boast that a man could ride horseback from Vienna to the Black Sea and spend each night in a German village proves the scattered status of these minorities. Either Chancellor Hitler must given up a large segment of these extra-Reich Germans or start one of the most complicated exodus in history.

The largest minority group in the Balkans is Hungarian—1,900,000. Almost 1,500,000 of these are in the Rumanian province of Transylvania and the rest in Yugoslavia—in Banat and Bodinau. There are hardly any Hungarians or Rumanians in Hungary from whom these might be exchanged. It would be impossible to return Transylvania to Hungary in toto if Herr Hitler clung to his theories, because in a majority of the provinces the population is Rumanian.

Russia would be primarily interested in the 1,450,000 Russians and Ukrainians scattered mainly in Rumania and Hungary. Other Balkan minorities include 460,000 Bulgarians in Rumania, Greece and Yugoslavia; 800,000 Turks in Bulgaria and Greece, and 500,000 Albanians, almost all in Yugoslavia. The complicated crisscross exchange, involving transfers of long-held property and in some cases a lack of knowledge of the so-called "native" language, would be a virtually impossible job.

This analysis of the minorities does not include the position of 1,400,000 Jews in the region, whose lot would not be the happiest within the Hitler "sphere of influence." Nor does it include thousands of Kutzo Vlachs found all over the Balkans, who would owe allegiance to Rumania linguistically, but most never had ancestors in that country. The division of such a Tower of Babel into an orderly structure according to Herr Hitler's ideas is a problem that would be difficult for him if he had a majority of the Balkans backing him up. He hasn't.

DAILY RECORD, CHICAGO, ILL., SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1938

NEW BLOOD

Dining Car Union Asks Rail Pay Cut Mediation

The National Mediation Board was requested to [illegible] a 15 per cent wage cut by the Joint Council of Dining [illegible] Employes, A. F. of L., this week, it was announced [illegible]terday by Ishmael P. Flory, secretary-treasurer of [illegible] council.

The railroad owners early this week served the wage cut notice on the local unions to take effect Oct. 1.

The dining car employes locals are affiliated with the Hotel & Restaurant Employes' International Alliance & Bartenders' League of America, which is now one of the three largest unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. This international is already on record in support of the fight against the railroad wage cuts.

SERVE NOTICES

Nineteen other railroad unions were served with the wage cut notices last spring. They are now taking strike votes against the pay reduction threat, which will be counted in Chicago next week.

The dining car employes union is not affiliated with the Railway Labor Executives Association, which represents 18 of the 19 other unions involved. The other union is the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, which is dealing separately with the management.

The Joint Council of Dining Car Employes has requested the railroads and the National Mediation Board for a national conference, instead of the railroads dealing with individual locals.

STRIKE BALLOT

If the question is not settled in the Mediation Board, the union will issue strike ballots, Flory told the Record.

"It is absurd that the carriers should at this time be seeking to sabotage the recovery program of President Roosevelt, in the face of the need of increased purchasing power of the masses," said Flory. "It is even more absurd to talk of cutting the wages of dining car employes whose wages are as low as $40.00 a month, when they work.

Frequently these employes are out of work due to seasonal passenger travel. The attempt of the railroads to cut wages in the railroad industry represents a drive of Wall Street and the reactionary interests to reduce the standards of living of all workers in all industries and further wage cuts.

"The public, small business man, and all labor should support the struggle of railroad workers to resist these cuts for in the railroad workers struggle and stand against wage cuts, they are building the first line of defense against the reactionary Wall Street interest who would stop at nothing to build fascism in America.

The Gallup Poll

Business Slump a Leading Factor in Shift Against New Deal

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP.
(Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.)

New York, Nov. 21.—In the business circles of New York and Chicago, in the New Deal's fireside councils in Washington, and wherever political leaders and political analysts meet nowadays the question is being asked: "What explains the political shift indicated in this month's elections?"

On the answers depends the course of political strategy for the next two years. President Roosevelt is still popular with a majority (54.4 per cent) of the voters, but his popularity is less than it was on election day, 1936. This year, for the first time since 1930, the Republicans made substantial gains in state and congressional elections.

For many months the nationwide soundings of the American Institute of Public Opinion revealed that these Republican gains would be made. They have indicated that —almost step by step with a drop in President Roosevelt's own popularity—the strength of the Democratic party has dropped too.

Now an institute survey indicates which groups in the national life shifted most and what complaints had the most weight in bringing these shifts about.

Income Rates Guide Vote.

The institute has interviewed a sample of the men and women who were for President Roosevelt in 1936 but who voted against the administration this November.

White-collar workers, farmers, employers and even some of the unemployed—these voters have told in their own words why they no longer support the New Deal.

The institute's analysis of these voters points to one extremely significant fact:

The greatest rate of shift away from President Roosevelt is taking place among voters who have the most income, while the smallest shift is occurring with those who have the least income.

Some political writers have assumed that the Republican gains mean that the WPA has been "sapped" of political potency—that the men and women on relief are no longer overwhelmingly for the New Deal. But the institute's survey shows that the great bulk of the relief vote is still where it was in 1932, in 1934 and 1936—with President Roosevelt. On the contrary, the most important cause of Democratic losses this year was the defection of upper and middle income voters.

Opposition to Spending.

In the order of their frequency, the reasons which rank and file voters give for their shifts are:

1. Opposition to the large-scale expenditures of the federal government since 1933. Many say they would not be critical of this spending "if it had brought results," but these voters argue that the business slump of recent months is evidence that "spending doesn't work."

2. A general feeling that Roosevelt "has had his chance" to restore prosperity and make needed reforms and that "there needs to be a change."

3. Belief that the President's policies have been too dictatorial. Specific policies mentioned are the party "purge," the proposal to reorganize the Supreme Court and the plan to readjust the executive departments.

4. The belief that the New Deal program has proved impractical, that the President has been unable to keep his "promises" of a balanced budget and general prosperity.

5: The President's "interference" with busines and his "hostile" attitude toward it.

6. The New Deal's labor policy, including its handling of sitdown strikes.

Taxation Difficult Problem.

The institute survey indicates that government spending is the most common reason given for turning against the administration. Almost one fourth of all the shift voters mention it, and it is particularly prominent in the comments of persons in the upper and middle income groups.

If the administration is forced to vote additional taxes to meet its deficit spending the volume of middle-class protest may become even greater.

That is a serious part of the New Deal's dilemma. The administration must hold the vote of persons in the lower-income group—many of them dependent on federal spending—and yet hold its share of the middle-income group, which is showing signs, the institute survey shows, of becoming "tax conscious."

The middle-income group contains almost half of the total voting population and is made up roughly of persons earning between $20 and $40 a week or its equivalent. It includes the bulk of the country's white-collar workers, much of its skilled labor and many of its farm owners and small shopkeepers.

Above them are the higher-salaried workers, the employers and businessmen and professional people. Below them are the poor and those actually on relief.

The Groups' Changes.

The way President Roosevelt's strength has declined in these three groups since 1936 is shown below. The table shows the decline in the voting for Roosevelt since the 1936 election, according to income groups:

	1936.	Today.
Upper	42	38
Middle	59	49
Lower	76	73

Obviously, the Democrats' problem between now and 1940 is how to hold their share of voters in the middle-income group, while keeping their grasp on the lower-income voters. If they can do this they should elect the next President.

But the Republicans will also be seeking to make gains in this middle-income group. Undoubtedly a majority of these voters were Republican in the days before the New Deal, and the G. O. P. will make every effort to win them back.

Thus all signs indicate that the political "battleground" of the next two years is likely to be in this group.

A Variety of Reasons.

Other reasons why voters have shifted away from Roosevelt since 1936, the survey shows, include dissatisfaction with the government's relief policy and with the President's associates and advisers.

A Pennsylvania hotel manager explains that his attitude has changed toward the President "because his labor policy has driven a lot of business out of the state."

A 29-year-old theater attendant in West Virginia says: "He's gone back on all his premises. I'm worse off today than I was in 1932."

Other typical observations are: "There's no improvement in business for all the New Deal's reforms." . . . "The New Deal is costing the country too much money." . . . "Too much stuff is being handed out."

When the institute asked a cross-section of those who voted for President Roosevelt in 1936, but are against him now, the reasons for their shift, these were as given as the leading reasons, in the order of frequency:

UPPER INCOME GROUP.

1. Opposed to New Deal's spending.
2. Believe Roosevelt "has had his chance"—that the country "needs a change."
3. Believe New Deal recovery methods haven't worked.
4. Fear trend toward dictatorial powers for President.
5. Disapprove of New Deal's labor policies.
6. Believe President is "hostile" to business.

MIDDLE INCOME GROUP.

1. Opposed to New Deal's spending.
2. Believe Roosevelt "has had his chance"—that the country "needs a change."
3. Fear trend toward dictatorial powers for President.
4. Believe New Deal recovery methods haven't worked.
5. Believe Preisdent "hostile" to business.
6. Disapprove of New Deal's labor policies.

LOWER INCOME GROUP.

1. Believe Roosevelt "has had his chance"—that the country "needs a change."
2. Opposed to New Deal's spending.
3. "Business hasn't improved."
4. Fear trend toward dictatorial powers for President.
5. Believe New Deal recovery methods haven't worked.
6. Disapprove of New Deal's labor policies.

[Copyright, 1938.]

THE NEW YORK TIMES,

RAIL PAY REDUCED BY CHICAGO COURT

Federal Judge Orders 15 Per Cent Cut for 1,300 on North Shore Electric Line

STRIKE IS A POSSIBILITY

Ruling Holds That Operations Cannot Continue in Face of Persistent Losses

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—A 15 per cent wage reduction for employes of the Chicago, North Shore & Milwaukee Railroad was ordered today in Federal court here to become effective at midnight tomorrow. The order affects about 1,300 workers and brings the possibility of a strike. The employes, members of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, have said they would not accept a reduction.

Federal Judge Will M. Sparks, acting as emergency judge in district court, entered today's order, which approved the report of Master in Chancery Jacob I. Grossman, who recommended the wage reduction after holding hearings on a request by A. A. Sprague, the road's receiver, for court instructions on whether to put it into effect.

Five Points Made by Court

In approving Mr. Grossman's report the court made five points:

1. There has been a marked decline in revenues of the road, particularly in the first half of 1938. Revenues are materially less than expenses on an out-of-pocket basis.
2. The receiver has no available reserve to offset the mounting deficit in operations.
3. Operations cannot continue in the face of present earnings unless costs are reduced.
4. To insure continued operation of the road it is apparent that there must be an immediate reduction in wages paid by the receiver as part of the cost of operation.
5. A general wage reduction of 15 per cent, with provisions for a sliding scale of restorations as proposed by the receiver, if and as revenues increase, is necessary and reasonable. It should be put into effect without delay to the end that services to the public and jobs for the employes may continue.

The receiver was ordered to post notice of the wage reduction in the offices and stations of the road.

When Mr. Sprague put the case before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson in July he informed the court that the employes had been working under a contract extended from time to time. The last extension was made June 30. Mr. Sprague notified the workers of his proposed action July 15.

Pointed to Competition

At the hearing before the master in chancery Charles E. Thompson, financial officer of the road, said that the line had been losing at the rate of $23,000 to $25,000 a month. He estimated that the proposed wage cut would save the road $25,000 monthly and enable it to "break even." The road, an electric line, had been hard hit in recent years by competition from motor vehicles and steam railroads, he added, and both pasenger and freight business had suffered.

According to Mr. Sprague's explanation of the wage-cut plan, pay would be increased 1½ per cent when daily gross revenues for one month totaled between $11,850 and $12,199. If the total rose further the wages would be increased on a graduated basis until the full 15 per cent had been restored.

The workers took a 10 per cent reduction in 1932, when the road was in similar difficulty. In notifying the workers of the proposed new cut, the road canceled, effective Aug. 15, its contract with the union, Mr. Sprague saying it was assumed work would cease on that date unless the wage-cut plan was accepted.

Current assets of the road were $600,804 June 30 and current liabilities $1,128,923. Its deficit for the twelve months ended June 30 was $277,194.

HILLMAN PREDICTS C. I. O.-A. F. L. PEACE

He and Aides on Amalgamated Board Say Labor Unity Is Not 'Unduly' Distant

UNION REPORTS BIG GAIN

Membership Up 30% in Two Years—Convention Opens in Atlantic City Today

By LOUIS STARK

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 8.—While the recent peace conferences failed to reunite the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization, such efforts ultimately will be successful, it was asserted here today by Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, and his associates on the union's general executive board. Mr. Hillman is also a vice president of the C. I. O.

In making public their report to the union's members on the eve of the seventh biennial convention, the board expressed confidence that "the time will not be unduly long before a way may be found to restore the unity" of the warring wings of organized labor. They said that there was no need for "despair" over the situation.

The report betrayed no rancor against the American Federation of Labor, its members or officers. In fact, it said that there had been many instances of cooperative relationship with A. F. of L. unions. The Amalgamated union, however, it was added, did "have a heavy bill of grievances against the A. F. of L.'s executive council."

Eventual Peace Is Seen

Embodying a summary of the union's affiliation with the C. I. O., the report declared that the inter-union peace conferences failed last December "largely because the representatives of the A. F. of L. sought to evade the issue of industrial unionism." The C. I. O., by asking for a conference, it was asserted, had indicated that it wanted "agreement, not disagreement." While the breakdown of negotiations was "deplorable, we need not despair of the eventual outcome," the report said.

"We have set the aim and we proceed toward it: A union movement based upon such principles as will enable us to organize the unorganized and keep the organized," the report continued.

Since its last convention two years ago the union officers reported, the union's membership has increased 30 per cent, making the present membership well above 200,000 in the men's clothing and auxiliary industries, including cotton garments, shirts, neckwear, gloves, laundry, cleaning and dyeing. More than 800 delegates will be present tomorrow, representing 341 local unions and 28 joint boards in 163 cities and 32 States and three Canadian provinces.

The officers established that in the last twenty-four months the union had initiated 1,[illegible] collective bargaining agreements in the men's clothing industry, organized a number of auxiliary industries, participated in organization of other industries, such as textiles, and also taken part in the formation of Labor's Nonpartisan League and its New York State affiliate, the American Labor party. It has also greatly expanded its cultural and recreational activities, according to the report.

In the section discussing independent political action by labor the report said that the union was out to establish a "permanent medium of independent and progressive labor action in politics."

The officers continued: "We want to utilize political instrumentalities and our franchise as citizens to accomplish, by way of political participation and perhaps thus with greater ease, the aims which we are trying to bring about through organization in trade unions. Consequently, the political party of union labor does not pursue the realization of a philosophical or general social aim which is not implied in the meaning of the word trade union and its stated purposes."

Position on Wage and Hour Law

In the section on wage and hour legislation, the officers said they took the position that an unsatisfactory law was better than no legislative protection for sweated workers, as such a law might be amended later. Written before the circulation of petitions in the House last Friday, this part bitterly attacked those who are alleged to have "sabotaged" wages and hour legislation, and the union promised to "fight to a finish" the measure's opponents.

The board was gratified by the increased use of the Amalgamated label and announced that in the last year an average of 3,178,904 of the union's labels were sold every month, as compared with 1,473,126 monthly prior to that time.

Among the newcomers to the "amalgamated family," it was announced, were 30,000 laundry workers in New York City who have been organized in the last year and who now have collective bargaining agreements and arbitration machinery functioning for the first time in the history of this hitherto chaotic industry.

The officers explained that in the last two years the educational research and recreation activities of the union had been expanded in many directions. The union's official organ, Advance, is received in 218,000 homes, according to the report, and the organization also has published a dozen pamphlets, some in editions of 10,000 to 20,000.

A recent educational venture was organization of a correspondence school for union members with an enrollment of more than 1,300 students from various cities. The courses deal with the economics of the clothing industry, collective bargaining, contemporary organization problems and American and labor history.

Other activities reported included sports, choral and dramatic groups and weekly radio programs.

U. S. JUDGE DENIES PULLMAN CO. PLEA TO DROP 4 SUITS

Twelve-Year-Old Damage Cases By Porters to Be Brought To Trial.

Efforts of the Pullman Co. to dismiss four damage suits filed against it by former Pullman porters and pending in United States District Court for twelve years, failed today when Federal Judge George H. Moore denied the company's motion and promised counsel for the plaintiffs an early trial of the cases.

The suits were among sixteen which were filed following the discharge of several Negro Pullman porters by the company November 1, 1926, during labor troubles. The porters alleged they were fired in violation of their contract with the company and asked damages equal to their pay, plus 6 per cent interest, from the time they were discharged to the date of judgment.

Twelve of the sixteen suits were compromised and settled by stipulation, but the suits of D. H. Shelton, W. H. Edwards, W. A. Pate and George Mayes have remained on the docket. Their petitions set out that they were paid $83.50 per month, plus tips of $40, or a total of $123.50. From November 1, 1926, until the present, the amount they sought under the suits, plus 6 per cent interest, would total approximately $24,000 each, or nearly $100,000 for the four of them.

The company sought dismissal of the suits today on the ground costs of the cases were unsecured. Judge Moore pointed out that cost bonds had been on file until yesterday, when they were withdrawn by William L. Mann, attorney and president of the Board of Aldermen, who today withdrew as counsel for the four plaintiffs.

J. L. London, an attorney, appeared in court today as new counsel for the four and contested the dismissal. Judge Moore, in denying the company's motion, gave London ten days in which to file new cost bond, and promised to set the cases for trial as soon as the bond is posted.

ST. LOUIS STAR-TIMES

THE CHICAGO DEFENDER SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1, 193

A. Philip Randolph Enters Mayo Clinic

NEW YORK, July 8.—(CNA)—According to information received at the international headquarters of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, 217 West 125th street, A. Philip Randolph, international president, entered Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minnesota, for examination treatment last week. He was accompanied to the clinic by M. P. Webster, first international vice president of the Brotherhood.

Randolph suffered a collapse recently while in a conference in the National Mediation Board in Washington, D. C.

The foremost Race labor leader in the country, Randolph is also the president of the National Negro Congress.

Text of Mexican Note Rejecting Hull's Demands

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3.—Following is a translation of the text of the Mexican reply to the United States note of July 21 asking international arbitration of the question of immediate payment of indemnity upon nationalized American agrarian properties as handed today to Ambassador Josephus Daniels:

Mr. Ambassador:

I have the honor to refer to your government's note delivered on July 21 last to the Mexican Ambassador to the United States, Señor Dr. Don Francisco Castillo Najera.

In the note under reference your government admits Mexico's right to expropriate, as well as the social justice which inspires Mexico's agraraian reform resulting in expropriations from American landowners; but insists upon prompt payment to American citizens for their lands that have been affected, regardless of what our country may do with respect to its nationals.

Moreover, your government deplores the fact that to date American landowners, whose claims were included under the jurisdiction of the General Claims Commission 1923 have not received adequate compensation, and adds that the zeal of the Mexican Government to realize its program of social betterment has nothing to do with the question under discussion and is irrelevant to it.

Takes Issue With U. S.

Your government demands of Mexico the immediate payment of adequate compensation for American landowners affected by the agrarian reform since Aug. 30, 1927, alleging that otherwise my country will violate a universally recognized principle of international law based on reason, equity and justice.

My government maintains, on the contrary, that no principle, universally accepted in theory nor realized in practice, is found in international law which makes obligatory the payment of immediate compensation, nor even deferred compensation, for expropriations of a general and impersonal character, such as those which Mexico has carried out in effecting the redistribution of land.

The expropriations made in the course of our agrarian reforms do, in fact, have this double character, which should be very much taken into account in order to understand Mexico's position and (rightly) appraise her apparent failure to meet her obligations.

Agrarian Reform Necessary

Without attempting to refute the point of view of the American Government, I wish to draw your attention, very especially, to the fact that the agrarian reform is not only one aspect of a program of social betterment embarked upon by a government or a political group in order to try out new doctrines, but is also the most important fulfillment of the demands of the Mexican people who sacrificed the very lives of their sons in the revolution in order to achiev this end. The political, social and economic stability and the peace of Mexico depend upon the lands being placed anew in the hands of the peasants who work it; therefore, its distribution, which came to imply the transformation—that is to say, the future—of the nation, could not be halted by the impossibility of immediate payment of the value of the properties belonging to a small number of foreigners who seek only lucrative ends.

Unequal Dilemma Noted

On the one hand, are weighed the conquests of justice and the uplift of an entire people, and on the other hand, the purely pecuniary interests of certain individuals. The position of Mexico in (this) unequal dilemma could not be other than the one she has assumed, and this is not stated as an excuse for her actions but as a true justification thereof.

The enumeration made by your government in the note under reference of the social reforms realized recently in the United States shows the extent of present day demands for a fundamental readjustment in methods of government, for a few years ago such reforms would not have been approved nor even, perhaps, tolerated. If your government has been in a position to pay compensation forthwith, this merely indicates that its economic situation permitted it; but it certainly could not have postponed or abandoned those reforms even had its economic situation not been good.

Legality of U. S. Demand Denied

As previously stated, there does not exist in international law any principle universally accepted by nations, nor by writers on the subject, which makes obligatory the giving of adequate compensation for expropriations of a general and impersonal character. Nevertheless, Mexico admits, in obedience to her own laws, that she is bound to make adequate indemnification; but the doctrine Mexico maintains in the premises, upheld by the most authoritative opinions of writers on international law, is that the time and manner of such payment should be determined by her own laws.

Pursuant to the provisions of Article XXVII of the present Constitution, the Mexican Government enacted a law authorizing the issuance of agrarian bonds for compensation of affected landowners. But from the beginning the difficulty of deciding the extent to which the various claims of an agrarian nature filed by American citizens, considered individually, merited compensation or not, was for both governments an obstacle in determining the right of the claimant and the amount due him—for my government could not bind itself to pay claims which had not been duly appraised.

Old Concessions Canceled

There is, in fact, a group of claims based on large concessions granted in other times by other governments, which concessions have been canceled in view of the failure of the concessionaries to comply with their undertakings; another group is based upon the existence of vast landed estates acquired practically without payment; there is another type of claim in which the owners obtained titles for land—promotion companies, without having fulfilled the obligations undertaken. The restitution of lands to peoples who had been dispossessed of them by illegal means, constitutes another group in which the owner held a false title initially. The other affectations originated by ejidal donations, in accordance with the Mexican agrarian laws and, in these cases, Mexico has recognized her obligation to compensate. And, finally, there exist a certain number of claims of small and moderate landowners who, although subject to agrarian dispositions, because their proportions had not filled out the requisites which these (properties) point out for the ineffectable small property, nevertheless, having obtained them from fractionings made by companies which are actually property of the Mexican State, by reasons of moral order and equity, my government agreed to grant to the affected persons an immediate compensation, through an exception procedure (plea in defense denying cause for action).

Some Claims Held Doubtful

Thus it is, then, that there exist claims in which the right adduced by the claimants is doubtful and disputable; on the other hand, in others, there does not exactly exist juridical altercation, since having originated in acts clearly expropriatory of the government of Mexico, the latter solely opposes their amount (sum) in those latter (claims), the problem consists substantially in reducing them to their just terms, since the majority contain exaggerated claims (demands), because the value attributed to the properties is quite different from that which the same claimants declared for the payment of their fiscal obligations. An arrangement that would not take into account that situation, would approve, against Mexico, the fraud against the Treasury, conducted by the interested parties.

My government desires to make it clear that when it decided to suspend the payment of its agrarian debt in the year 1930, the measure affected equally Mexicans and foreigners. If Mexico had paid only the former, she would have without doubt violated a rule of equity; if she had paid only the latter, to the exclusion of the nationals, she would have committed a similar irregularity.

Foreigner Takes Own Risks

The republics of our continent have let their voices be heard since the first Pan-American conferences, vigorously maintaining the principle of equality between nationals and foreigners, considering that the foreigner who voluntarily moves to a country which is not his own, in search of personal benefit, admits in advance, with the advantages which he is going to enjoy, the risks to which he may find himself exposed. It would be unjust that he should aspire to a privileged situation (position) outside of all danger, by taking advantage, on the other hand, of the efforts of the nationals which should be in the interests of the collectivity.

As a coronation of the earnest desire sustained by the States of this continent against the idea of a special statute for foreigners, in the second Pan-American conference, held in Mexico in 1902, a formula was approved which was amplified and reinforced by Article IX of the convention signed in the seventh Pan-American conference, which says:

"The jurisdiction of the States within the boundaries of the national territory is applied to all inhabitants. The nationals and the foreigners who are under the same protection of the legislation and of the national authorities the foreigners shall not be able to aspire to different rights, nor more extensive than are nationals."

The demand for an unequal treatment is implicitly understood in your Government's note, since while it is certain that it does not express it clearly, it does not demand payment to its Nationals, independently of what Mexico might decide to do with respect to her own citizens, and as your Government is aware that ours find itself unable to pay indemnity immediately to all those affected by the Agrarian Reform, upon insisting on the payment to North American landowners, it demands, in reality, a special privileged treatment which no one is receiving in Mexico.

No Claims Have Been Paid

(In the not to which I refer, it is expressed that claims of an agrarian nature, prior to 1927, were submitted to the jurisdiction of the General Claims Commission, established in the agreement (pact) between the two governments and that, to date, for whatever reason it might be, not one claim has been adjusted nor has any been paid.—

(The Government of the United States of North America cannot ignore (be unaware of), and thus it appears to admit it in the note to which I have been referring, the clauses because of which the General Claims Commission has not reached, to date, a resolution on those (claims) of an agrarian character: causes owing to technical difficulties which were not foreseen upon establishing the regulating provisions of the arbitration, and which cannot be attributed to voluntary acts on the part of either of the two countries. Furthermore, it is known to your Excellency's government that Mexico is disposed to initiate the negotiations necessary to arrive at an en bloc agreement which would overcome these technical obstacles and resolve, definitely, those claims.

It is opportune to recall that the government of my country has been paying punctually, since the year 1935, the annual payment which it obligated itself to pay through a similar arrangement, which concluded the special claims commission, notwithstanding the fact that, for these (payments) there did not exist against it (the government) any responsibility imputable to it, according to the most indisputable precepts of international law, but rather that it was a question of voluntary acceptance of said responsibility.

Lists Points Answered by Note

In the final part of the note which I am answering the government of Your Excellency proposes that there be submitted to the decision of arbitrators, in the terms of the General Arbitration Treaty, signed in Washington on Jan. 5, 1929, the following points:

1.—The question of whether there has been compliance on the part of the Government of Mexico, with the rule relating to indemnification, as prescribed by international law, in the case of American citizens whose agrarian properties, in Mexico, have been expropriated by the Mexican Government since Aug. 13, 1927.

2. If not, the amount of the indemnity which the Government of Mexico should pay.

3. That the terms upon which such payment should be determined, and according to the dispositions of the General Treaty of International Arbitration, signed at Washington, Jan. 5 1929.

Would Limit Arbitration

Mexico has never refused to submit her international differences to the jurisdiction of a court to judge her actions or her attitudes with regard to aliens, nor has she objected to the decisions which have been unfavorable to her. Notwithstanding this, she considers that arbitration should be reserved, as the Washington treaty itself provides, for cases of irreconcilable difference, in which the judicial principle under discussion or the act gives rise to the arbitration are of such a nature that the two countrie sin conflict can find no other way of reaching an agreement. This is not so in the present case, for while it is true that Mexico does not consider the payment of indemnity for properties which the State expropriates for causes of public utility an invariable and universal rule of international law, it is also true that Article 27 of her Constitution orders the payment in such cases, and, for that reason, the Mexican Government has never denied the obligation. No subject exists, therefore, for the arbitration proposed.

Arbitration Held Unnecessary

With respect to the conditions under which such payment should be made, arbitration, likewise, is unnecessary, and it would, moreover, be unlawful, under the terms of the Washington Treaty, since the procedures of execution, for compliance with the obligations already recognized by Mexico, cannot be the subject of arbitration and must be determined according to her economic conditions, which cannot fail to be taken into account by a friendly nation, nor can they be the object of decision of an international court, which, in seeking to impose a given economic organization upon Mexico, would mortally wound her right to organize herself autonomously, the very foundation of her sovereignity.

In view thereof, I permit myself to invite the government of Your Excellency to name a representative who, together with the representative whom my government will designate, will fix, within a short period, the value of the properties affected and the manner of paying it, which my government considers the execution in part of a joint plan for compliance with her obligations in this respect, in favor of both nations and foreigners.

Ready To Discuss Arrangement

The government of Mexico is ready to begin at once the discussion of the terms of this arrangement.

I believe that in this way, as a demonstration of the spirit of friendship and cooperation which animate the government and the people of Mexico towards the government and the people of the United States, the request for the indemnifications of American citizens for the lands which, in compliance with agrarian laws, have been expropriated from them since Aug. 30, 1927, will be compiled with.

I avail myself of this opportunity to renew to your Excellency the assurances of my highest and most distinguished consideration.

EDUARDO HAY

RAILWAY AILMENTS; A CURE

The President has appointed an informal committee of six—three representatives of management and three of labor—to draft a legislative program for the railroads, which are all suffering from a financial headache. They are faced with diminishing operating revenues, declining net incomes, shrinkage in volume of trafic, meager return on investment, and growing deficits. Nearly one-third of them are in receivership. Over one hundred and three million dollars have been added to their pay rolls to meet the requirements of the social security and railroad retirement acts. They tried desperately to relieve the pain by a dose of aspirin in the form of a 15 per cent reduction in the wages of their employés. The federal fact finding commission denied this prescription and in effect suggested a better course to follow would be for them to make a searching diagnosis and then employ remedies which the roads themselves will be able to apply. The commission recommended this even though the course of treatment does "not promise the quick financial relief offered by a wage reduction."

* * *

Rail employés have offered, in place of the wage cut, coöperation in a 10-point program. Five of these points seem to have economic merit. Some of the other five are herb tea mixtures of doubtful worth and some are sure to be injurious rather than helpful to the patient. Experience has shown that substantial rate increases will drive the trafic to competing forms of transportation. To hobble the railroads' competitors by restrictive regulatory legislation similar to that which hampers the rail carriers is economically unsound. Restatement of the rate making rule so as to recognize the right of carriers to a fair return upon the value of their property would be nothing but an idle gesture. To give the interstate commerce commission greater power over state rates would augment the disease of the roads rather than act as a cure. The plan for the carriers to borrow a billion dollars from the government on easy terms would afford some quick relief, but its efficacy as a cure would depend upon many factors surrounding the terms of such a loan.

* * *

A serious diagnosis of the rail troubles to be made by the President's "informal committee of six" will undoubtedly reveal that the basic causes of their acute distress are:

[a] Too much regulation;

[b] Overproduction of rail transportation;

[c] Overcapitalization on basis of a reasonable earnings expectancy;

[d] Interest obligations on the enormous debt which they probably never will be able to pay;

[e] Truck, automobile, boat, pipeline, and airplane competition.

The development of government restrictions hampering and finally practically eliminating all individual initiative of railroad management during the past fifty years is clear to the student of transportation after a study of the decisions of the interstate commerce commission. To the power to fix maximum rates has been added the paternalistic power to fix minimum rates. The provisions of the "long-and-short-haul clause" of the act have been politically administered to the despair of the carriers.

The conditions which brought about the enactment of the interstate commerce act of 1887 are not present today. And yet the present act is being administered as if there still were danger of a monopoly of railroad transportation and as if the old theory of necessity of competition among railroads to insure the public against excessive charges were not now fictitious and absurd. Competition of other forms of transportation provides the most reasonable check to unreasonable rail rates. Elimination of reparation payments on overcharges, except on proof of damage before a court of competent jurisdiction, will save the carriers and the government millions of dollars, although it will put out of business the army of so-called "rate sharks" who stir up most of this sort of litigation.

The curse of overregulation can be eliminated only by a major operation. Part 1 of the interstate commerce act needs to be rewritten in line with the present needs of both the public and the carriers. This is probably too much to expect so long as the legislative and executive branches of the government are bent upon experiments in state socialism.

* * *

The cure for overproduction of rail transportation, overcapitalization, and debt funding difficulties also demands heroic measures. Consolidation, either voluntary or enforced, is the only solution which will allow the carriers to continue under the American system of private enterprise. The only alternative to that is government ownership. A move in the right direction was made a few days ago by two protective committees for shareholders, who proposed to merge the North Western and Milwaukee railroads on a plan that would make an annual saving estimated at more than ten million dollars and provide for reorganization on a much sounder financial basis. At the same time bondholders of the Mobile and Ohio railroad and directors of the Gulf, Mobile and Northern railroad approved a plan for the consolidation of those two competing carriers. Consolidation into regional systems to avoid ruinous railroad competition, to eliminate obsolete and needless rail facilities, to effect major economies of operation, and to bring about reorganization on a sound financial basis is the objective to be aimed at. Here is where the proposal of the employés that the government lend the carriers a billion dollars might be seriously considered. Such loans should be used as a means of bringing about sound financial reorganization, following regional consolidation of competing carriers, and should be offered only to those lines which voluntarily enter into such mergers under helpful enabling legislation.

* * *

No one who had anything to do with the railroads during the period of government operation resulting from the world war wants government ownership. It is true that the advocates of planned economy would welcome such a revolutionary move as a means of prolonging their political lives by enrolling under the banners of their machine organizations the millions of railroad workers and their dependent families and relatives. Such a scheme if carried out in a constitutional manner, would necessitate the purchase of the railroad properties by the government. The interstate commerce commission has determined over a period of years that there have been more than twenty-five billion dollars invested in railroad property account of class I railroads. These same railroads have a capitalization of approximately eighteen and one-half billion dollars. Even the most starry-eyed economy planner must know that to saddle the government with a debt of twenty-five or even eighteen billion dollars on top of the present national debt of [illegible] billion dollars in order to buy the railroad properties would stretch the country's credit [illegible] beyond the breaking point.

The employés pledged their coöperation with the carriers in seeking amendment of the revenue act to exempt railroads from the undistributed profits tax and certain state taxes. They also pledged to coöperate in insisting that the relocation of bridges resulting from the improvement of navigable waters should be done at federal expense. They further offer to help secure legislation which will cause the federal government to surrender its land grant privileges. All of these proposals are constructive and carried out by proper legislation [illegible] of great help toward solving the carriers' financial problems.

With the primary causes of the carriers' illness properly doctored they should be able to secure their fair share of the country's trafic in competition with other forms of transportation. They should be willing to survive or perish on "a fair field and no favors" policy.

NOVEMBER 20. 1938.

Wm. Green To Speak At Porters' Convention

Chicago, 1938

Information was received at the International Headquarters of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, 217 West 125th Street, from Ashley L. Totten, International Secretary-Treasurer, that Mr. William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, would be the principal speaker at the opening meeting of the Fifth Annual Convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in Chicago, Sunday afternoon, September 18.

This meeting will take place in the Du Sable High School and bids fair to be one of the biggest demonstrations of the Negro workers and the Negro people yet presented anywhere. Delegates from practically all of the states in the union will begin to move toward the Convention within the next few days. All interests are centered on the deliberations that will take place in the first national economic parliament of Negro workers that the Negro people have conducted, as a result of winning a signal victory over the Pullman Company, one of America's largest industrial corporations.

At the meeting in the Du Sable High School, Mr. A. Philip Randolph, International President, who has been ill for a long time, is also scheduled to speak. There will be an elaborate musical program, and M. P. Webster, First International Vice-President, will preside. Other International Officers that will be present are Bennie Smith of Detroit, Second International Vice-President, E. J. Bradley of St. Louis Third International Vice-President, and C. L. Dellums of the Pacific Coast, Fourth International Vice-President.

This will be the last public appearance of President William Green before he sounds the gavel for the opening of the 56th Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor in Houston, Texas.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is one of the one hundred and four international unions of the American Federation of Labor. This is the 13th Anniversary of the organization and the first convention following the signing of the wage contract with the Pullman Company, August 25, 1937, in Chicago. The Convention will extend through September 23.

Mr. Randolph's comment was that he expected this to be an interesting and significant labor parley.

St. Louis American

Daily Record

OF THE PEOPLE • BY THE PEOPLE • FOR THE PEOPLE

Published daily, except Sunday, by the Daily Record Publishing Co., 192 N. Clark St., Chicago, Ill.

Business Offices: 192 N. Clark St. Phone: STAte 9328.

Editorial Offices: 1838 N. Halsted St. Phone LINcoln 8313, 8314.

Entered as second class matter Feb. 11, 1938, at the Postoffice at Chicago, Illinois, under the Act of March 3, 1875.

Sub[illegible] Rates: By mail (except to Chicago [illegible]): 1 year, $6.00; 6 months, $3.50; [illegible]00: 1 month, 75 cents. To [illegible]: 1 year, $8.00; 6 months, [illegible]

[illegible] ITS PAGE

[illegible]UTION DAY

[illegible] Day in 1938 [illegible] Constitution Day.

For [illegible] the nation it was [illegible] day of d[illegible]s thought. The Constitution h[illegible] their most vital needs. The weakn[illegible]ve not all been weaknesses inherent [illegible]hat fundamental document. Grave weaknesses have flowed from the interpretation of the Constitution. Much has been read into that lofty charter which was not there.

One hundred and fifty-one years ago our forefathers brought forth a new nation.

To "secure the blessings of liberty" to themselves and to us they ordained and established a "Constitution for the United States of America."

By this act they had hoped "to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tran-

America can act only through an expression of the will of its people.

This will to win peace and save democracy must be made known to the President.

Every labor and progressive organization can advise Washington at once: "SAVE THE PEACE OF THE WORLD BY STOPPING HITLER!"

•

WELCOME, PULLMAN PORTERS

AN IMPORTANT section of the railroad workers are holding their 12th annual convention in Chicago.

The Brotherhood of Pullman Porters meets as the threat of the railroad companies to cut wages is about to be translated into action.

The railroad workers have spoken. They will not accept the cut. They cannot. Layoffs, reduction in the size of crews, the extension of part-time labor have reduced their wages to a bare subsistence level.

[illegible] the Negro workers on the rail[illegible] threat of a wage cut is still [illegible]

[illegible]he birth and the deve[illegible]therhood of Pullman [illegible]orious record of struggl[illegible]r test confronts the organizat[illegible] The threat against the rail men is a threat to recovery and progress.

The Porters meet a truly historic moment.

We welcome them to Chicago. We wish them strength and a vigorous expansion.

May they fearlessly assail the bars of prejudice and of jim-crowism that remain in the labor movement to retard unity and solidarity.

•

NEW DEAL ADVANCE

Randolph And Webster At Congregational Tonight

Public Mass Meet Sponsored By Local Leagues

As a result of the intense interest created by the turn of political events in Georgia during recent months, Atlantans are expected to fill the First Congregational Church to its capacity tonight, when A. Phillip Randolph and M. P. Webster, International President and First Vice President, respectively of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters speak at a public mass meeting.

This meeting, slated to begin at 8:15 o'clock is sponsored by the Atlanta Civic and Political League, headed by John Wesley Dobbs, and was arranged jointly by the League, Dr. John Clarence Wright, pastor of the church and William Y. Bell, Jr., secretary of the Atlanta Urban League.

Mr. Webster, a member of President Roosevelt's Fair Employment Practice Committee will explain the methods and procedure employed by this group in handling cases of discrimination, while Mr. Randolph will confine his message to the march on Washington, the Executive Order and the present outlook for jobs for Negroes in National Defense.

There is no admission. All are invited.

GET REGISTERED — GET REGISTERED

PORTERS PICK NEW YORK FOR 1940 CONFAB

1938

A. Philip Randolph Is Re-elected Pilot; Map Campaign

The annual conventions of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and its women's auxiliary closed here Tuesday, Sept. 27 with the re-election of A. Philip Randolph as international president of the brotherhood, and of Mrs. Helena Wilson as first international president of the auxiliary.

Both bodies will hold their next biennial meeting in New York City in 1940. The business of the brotherhood will be transacted between conventions by an international executive board established at the meeting just closed.

Election of Officers

Other officers elected by the brotherhood were M. P. Webster, first international vice president; Bennie Smith, second international vice president; E. J. Bradley, third international vice president; C. L. Dellums, fourth international vice president, and Ashley L. Totten, international secretary-treasurer.

Other auxiliary officers are Mrs. Katherine Lassister of New York, first international vice president; Mrs. Mae Dailey of St. Louis, second international vice president; Mrs. F. J. Cavaness of San Antono, Texas, third international vice president, and Mrs. Letitia Murray of Los Angelis, fourth international vice president.

Mrs. Rosina Tucker of Washington, D. C., was elected international secretary-treasurer.

The lay members of the international executive board are Mrs. Carey White, Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. Ella Johnson, Tampa, Fla.; Mrs. Rosa Taylor, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Marian Sappington, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Mrs. Anna E. Wilson of New York.

The new president f the woman's auxiliary has for the past several years served as president of the Chicago division of the organization.

Adopt Resolutions

Resolutions adopted by the two groups favored lifting the embargo on arms to Spain; freedom of Tom Mooney; freedom of the remaining five Scottsboro boys; opposition to the proposed railway wage cut; condemnation of fascism and in favor of the anti-lynching bill. An amendment was favored to the National Security Act to include agricultural and domestic workers.

Resolution was adopted in the interest of establishing scholarships for Race youth in order that they may pursue the study of labor problems in political science with a view to giving their talents and ability to the cause of Race workers, in particular, and the cause of workers, generally.

A nation-wide organization campaign was planned by the brotherhood to secure as members chair car porters, train porters, and those Pullman proters that are still out of the organization.

EXTRA! EXTRA!

Pullman Porters & Maids Citizens Attention!

RANDOLPH AND WEBSTER APPEAR BEFORE MEDIATION BOARD

A. Philip Randolph has been notified by the National Mediation Board that it will be pleased to have him appear before it upon any date of his choice this week for a preliminary discussion of the case of the Pullman Porters relating to the question of representation. Following this appearance an application for the services of the Board to settle the question of representation in the matter of making and maintaining agreements on wages and rules governing working conditions, will be made by the Brotherhood.

PORTER QUINN CASE

Support the Brotherhood's fight to prosecute the Railroad Officials and secure damages for forcing Porter Quinn of Detroit off a moving train. Remember it could have been YOU! Only the Brotherhood can and will protect you and make such tragedies to Pullman porters impossible in the future.

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

105 West 136th Street New York City

New York Times.

AUGUST 15, 1938

The Matter With the South.

The report on economic conditions in the South prepared for President ROOSEVELT by the National Resources Committee presents two p[illegible] first, dealing with the [illegible] ments of [illegible] on which [illegible] teen St[illegible] 25,000,000 [illegible] wonderfu[illegible] of fertile soil, [illegible] ports, navigab[illegible] ds, coal and iron and other [illegible] two-thirds of the nation's [illegible] of its forests, [illegible] g.

The other picture [illegible] income is low, housing is wretched, health is poor, illiteracy is high, [illegible] tenant farmers move on and on and do no better in the new places than they did in the old. What shall cure these evils? The report says that the solution must be "partly political, with the Federal Government participating along with State, county, city, town and township government." Industry, business and schools are also called upon to participate. So are "citizens, South and North."

So there is the modern weakness of wanting to start at the top and build downward instead of trying to remedy the ills from the very base. The farmers of the South have tried to play at gambling and they have lost. They have neglected to feed themselves in their effort to succeed with two gamblers' crops, cotton and tobacco. The report admits that Southern farmers grow at home only one-fifth of the things they use. They make up half the farm population of the country but raise less than a third of the nation's pigs and cattle. The South has more than a fourth of the total population but it raises only one-fifth of the country's dairy products—not enough for itself if it ate well.

These Southern farmers, concentrating on cash crops which often are speculative washouts, fail to raise the common vegetables that their health requires. This is no new story. A generation ago the South was gently scolded for sending to Chicago for pork when it could have fattened more hogs than it needed. Perhaps the chiding was heeded here and there, but the NEC report bluntly says that "Southern people need food." If they are too proud or too lazy to cultivate the garden and field foods to which their lands are particularly suited, all the king's horses and all the king's men cannot end their sickness. If they will stick to fatback, corn bread and molasses, which the report says is their all too common diet, when they could have poultry and greens and milk and butter, what shall cure their lassitude?

The wild cry for more cash, more credit, more industries, more education, better health is futile when the people who suffer will not take the primitive remedy of helping themselves. Let them beware of further political "help." The New Deal's policy of scarcity has stimulated the production of cotton in other countries and lowered its price. The New Deal's wages and hours legislation will lessen employment in the South.

AUGUST 3, 1938

Text of NLRB Order in Maytag Case

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The text of the statement issued by the National Labor Relations Board announcing its decision to reopen hearings in the Maytag case in a Federal court room in Des Moines on Thursday morning follows:

On the first day of August, 1938, Major Gen. Mathew A. Tinley of the Iowa National Guard directed Madison Hill, the trial examiner of the National Labor Relations Board, to close a hearing which he was conducting at Newton, Iowa.

The hearing began on July 18, on complaint of the board that the Maytag Washing Machine Company, whose employes have been on strike since May 9, 1938, has engaged in unfair labor practices as defined by the National Labor Relations Act.

The grounds for this peremptory military command appear on the face of the order which was based on a proclamation of the Governor of Iowa dated July 19, 1938, declaring martial law "for the city of Newton and the territory adjacent thereto in Jasper County."

Denies Hearings Caused Disorder

This command indicates on its face that it is made pursuant to some further order of the Governor which specifically directs the military commander to close the Labor Board hearing. No one asserts that the hearings have involved or resulted in any disorder. The fact is that the hearing has been perfectly orderly.

Statements issued by the Governor indicate that he would prefer that the parties spend their time in conference looking toward a settlement of the strike. The Governor's preference in this regard seems to have no relations to these extraordinary and overriding emergencies which justify the military in displacing the civil authority.

The board recognizes that the Governor of a State has a broad, although not an unlimited, discretion to determine the existence of martial law. Even were it conceded that the exigencies of the situation at Newton were such as to require the presence of troops to preserve law and order, the board could not acquiesce in the use of martial law to suspend those civil rights which are guaranteed to employes by the National Labor Relations Act.

Texas Case Is Recalled

The Supreme Court of the United States in the case of Sterling v. Constantine 287 U. S. 378, 1932, has clearly stated the law in a decision restraining the Governor of Texas from nullifying a Federal Court proceeding by a declaration of martial law. That court held that where a Governor is entitled to declare a state of insurrection and to bring military forces to the aid of civil authorities, the province of the courts is to maintain the courts in the exercise of their jurisdiction and not to override the courts and making their processes ineffective and not to nullify them.

The board does not therefore concede the validity of the order which closed the hearings in Jasper County. Nevertheless, in the interests of speedy performance of its duties and the avoidance of all unnecessary conflict with military authority, it is prepared to accommodate itself to the situation in so far as it is convenient to do so without serious interference with the performance of the duties imposed upon it by Congress under the National Labor Relations Act. Without great inconvenience, the hearing may be removed to the city of Des Moines, which is beyond the area declared to be under martial law.

Resumed Hearings Announced

The board is therefore directing its trial examiner to adjourn the hearings to the United States District Court room, United States Court House Building, Des Moines, Iowa, and then proceed as expeditiously as possible with the further taking of testimony on Aug. 4, 1938, at 10 A. M.

There is no pretense that either a state of insurrection or any form of disorder exists in Des Moines. No courts are closed and no public gatherings are prohibited except within the limits of Jasper County. However, Major Gen. Tinley's order contains the following words:

"For the purpose of defining the territory adjacent to the city of Newton, you are advised that the same includes the territorial limits of the State of Iowa."

Will Defy State-Wide Ban

We cannot believe that this phrase will be used to obstruct hearings beyond the territory in which martial law has been declared. Since the Governor's purpose is to maintain the peace, the board feels that the order must be interpreted with that in view, and that a hearing to be held in Des Moines at the seat of the State Government and the headquarters of the Governor himself, cannot be considered as forbidden by the real intent of the Governor's order. It hopes that the Governor will recognize the desire of the board to meet a difficult situation in a conciliatory spirit.

Should, however, the Governor take the position that the addendum to his order making it State-wide in effect must be read literally, the board sees no alternative, in the light of its obligations, but to proceed with the hearings under the authority of the national power which it exercises. Any other course would be a subordination of the national to the State authorities in matters affecting national sovereignty and of the civil to the military authorities in times of peace. Both are abhorrent to American institutions. Both have been held improper and illegal by our highest courts.

In the case referred to above the Supreme Court of the United States upheld an injunction by a Federal District Court restraining former Governor Sterling of Texas from enforcing military orders, under a proclamation of martial law, restricting the production of oil in several oil producing counties.

Hughes Ruling Is Quoted

Mr. Chief Justice Hughes, speaking for a unanimous court, held that the courts could reexamine and pass upon the situation of exigency which the Governor claimed to exist, saying as to the claim of power made on behalf of the Governor:

"Under our system of government, such a conclusion is obviously untenable. There is no such avenue of escape from the paramount authority of the Federal Constitution."

And it quoted from ex parte Milligan, 4 Wall 2, 124 (1866)—the famous case which held that even under the exigency of the Civil War, the civil rights of the non-military forces could not be suspended—that otherwise "republican government is a failure, and there is an end of liberty regulated by law. Martial law established on such a basis destroys every guarantee of the Constitution, and effectually renders the military independent of and superior to the civil power * * * civil liberty, and this kind of martial law cannot endure together; the antagonism is irreconcilable; and, in the conflict, one or the other must perish."

The act under which the board operates charges it with the duty of investigating proper complaints of unfair labor practices and of holding hearings to place the facts in a public record. The board cannot permit its orderly processes, conducted under Federal authority, to be arbitrarily suspended by action which the board deems both illegal and to constitute the substitution of State military authority for Federal civil processes.

PRESENT PLIGHT PUZZLES PORTERS; WON VICTORY BUT HAVE FEWER JOBS

Since Randolph Secured Union Agreement At Least 2,500 Porters Have Lost Jobs Or Are Furloughed; Maids Likewise

THOUSANDS ARE LOSING HOMES

NEW YORK—(ANP)—The Pullman Porters of the country are puzzled. What appeared to be a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow has not fully materialized. On the contrary their hopes, raised high by the contract signed last year between the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and the Pullman company, the contract under which the porters are now working, seem to have been dashed down. The men claim they are working longer hours and running more miles than ever before.

There is nothing in the above set of circumstances to discredit A. Philip Randolph, president, of the Brotherhood, nor his able lieutenants, A. Milton Webster, and Ashley J. Totten or their associates —not even though Pullman officials are reported to be quietly chuckling over the discomfiture of the brotherhood hopes.

Admittedly one of the hardest companies in the country to beat in a labor fight, the company capitulated only after Randolph and his aids, battling against odds, won fairly a majority of the porters to the Brotherhood. The company admitted Randolph's courage, his incorruptibility. It fought the organization of the Brotherhood with every weapon at their command, because the powerful Pullman company did not relish being dictated to by any group of employes.

Trrouble Begins at Bargaining Table

It was when they sat across the table to bargain that the Pullman company took advantage of Randolph and the Brotherhood. At least that is what T. J. Reid, president of the rival group, the Pullman Porters' and Maids Protective Association is not a "company union" Reid explains. "There is no such animal any longer because of the railroad labor law. The Pullman company has not put one cent into our organization, but we have organized because we believe our organization should be composed of Pullman porters rather than a group of professional organizers," Mr. Reid continued.

"Since this new agreement at least 2,500 porters throughout the country have either lost their regular runs or are furloughed through the application of the 240-hour basis month schedule, at least 35 per cent of the maids have fared likewise. The public has also observed that there are more than 700 Filipino porters on the club cars of the Nation's railways and on some trains white hostesses are now supplanting the former colored maids.

"We would not have been tricked by the company as Randolph was. The following facts, accounting for the sad plight of the Pullman Porters today cannot be controverted:

1. Under the present Pullman Porters Union agreement porters are working on a 240 hours per month basis. There is no other union in the United States of America working under such an agreement.

also signs and gestures.

[illegible]tation is not the same a[illegible] which must be tru[illegible] person b[illegible] as to whethe[illegible] it is true of [illegible]. Morally speakin[illegible] the estimate placed upon an ind[illegible]vidual by friends and neighbors, [illegible] public report or opinion in th[illegible] community where he or she [illegible] known, may or may be deserved.

The words may be harmless [illegible] themselves, but may be shown [illegible] means of an innuedo (an explana[illegible]tion) of the facts) that they ar[illegible] defamatory when applied to a cer[illegible]tain person, and may cause other[illegible] to think disparagingly of that in[illegible]dividual, it follows naturally, [illegible] course, that the reputation may b[illegible] injured.

Slanderous Words

(1) Words fasely spoken of [illegible] person which prejudice him in h[illegible] profession or trade.

(2) Defamatory words falsely spok[illegible]en of a person which impute tha[illegible] the individual is infected with [illegible] contagious disease which, if th[illegible] charge is true, would exclude tha[illegible] person form society.

(3) Words falsely spoken of a per[illegible]son which impute the commissio[illegible] of some criminal offense involv[illegible]ing moral turpitude for which th[illegible] party, if the charge is true, may b[illegible] indicted and punished.

(4) Words falsely spoken of a per[illegible] imputing unfitness to perform th[illegible] duties of an office or employmen[illegible] of profit, or of want of integrit[illegible] in the discharge of the duties o[illegible] such an office or employment.

(5) Defamatory words falsel[illegible] spoken of a person, which though not in themselves actionable u[illegible] slanderous words, occasion the per[illegible]

Present Plight

(Continued from Page 1)

the commissary department must forfeit all seniority in the department from which he transfers. On returning to that department, he stands as a new porter as far as displacement rights.

6. In the old agreement porters operating on club cars received 3 per cent commission on sales made by them in addition to their regular pay. Now, with the new agreement, no commission on sales is given.

Deadhead Allowance Taken Away

7. With the old agreement, porters deadheading on cars were allowed $1.00 per day special allowance for expenses. Now, with the new agreement no special allowance for deadheading is given.

8. In the old agreement, lines were operated with five porters. Now the same are operated with only four porters. Also, lines were operated with five maids, while now the same line is operated only with 3 1-4 maids, which makes their reduction greater. So, there is a greater proportional reduction on all lines.

9. On the old agreement, all porters doubling from or to their district received extra compensation at the rate of 25c an hour plus their regular pay. Since the new agreement practically all lines are doubling and porters do not receive added compensation for such doubling.

10. Porters who under the old agreement made 6 round trips to Chicago as a monthly basis, now make 8 round trips without added compensation.

Reid Tells of That Pay Increase

11. Notices were posted by the Pullman company in all districts throughout the United States May 1, 1937, promising an increase of salaries to 9 different classes of employes, porters were included in these groups. This promise was confirmed on August 1, 1937, yet the Leadership of the Recognized Porters Union is claiming credit for this increase.

The Socialist leaders and bargaining agents of the Union now recognized by the National Labor Relations Board have caused this strained and disastrous Pullman Porter impasse'. Thousands of them are earning a mere pittance now.

Sail to WOODCLIFF PARK, N. Y.

WITH THE

NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY LOCALS

13th Annual Boat Ride

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 3rd, 1938

Boat Leaves Jersey City . . . Pier C At 8 A. M.
New York West 132nd St. Pier 9.30 A. M.

Many Attractions That Furnish Real Fun and Enjoyment for The Entire Family.

Round Trip $1.00 Children Under Twelve 50 cents

FOR TICKETS CALL BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
217 WEST 125th STREET, ROOM 301, PHONE MONUMENT 2-50[illegible]
MRS. CARRIE HARRIS, 42-55 HUNTER AVENUE
LONG ISLAND CITY

NEW YORK TIMES, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1938.

NAMED IN HINES CASE

Times Wide World

William C. Dodge

Magistrate Hulon Capshaw

ever been bribed, intimidated or influenced by the defendant Hines or any one else in any case. The records, I have recently been informed, will show that I have held consistently as large a percentage of persons accused in the policy cases as any other magistrate and that correspondingly I have discharged as smal la percentage as any other magistrate. I have frequently denounced from the bench those engaging in and connected with the policy racket, stating that in my opinion they represent the lowest form of petty thieves and parasites, taking pennies from those who could least afford to lose them. Can such a record show favoritism to any one in the policy racket?"

Chief Magistrate's Letter

The letter that Chief Magistrate Schurman sent to Magistrate Capshaw follows:

Honorable Hulon Capshaw,
90 Morningside Drive,
New York City.

My dear Judge:

A motion was recently made in

The Court Order and Dewey's Reply

The text of Supreme Court Justice Pecora's order and District Attorney Dewey's bill of particulars follow:

Items Pecora Ordered Answered

1. State the number of lotteries it is claimed that defendant Hines conspired to contrive, propose and draw and assist in cotriving, proposing and drawing, as alleged in paragraph 1 of the first count of the indictment, together with a description or outline of the object, method of operation and plan of each of such lotteries.

2. With respect to each of such lotteries claimed to have been engaged in by defendant Hines, in paragraph 1 of the first count of the indictment, state the place where, in the County of New York, said lotteries were contrived or in which defendant Hines assisted in contriving, giving the street number of the building, and if an apartment house, giving the apartment number, or if not an apartment house, a sufficient description for identification of the place and portions of the building where said acts are claimed to have taken place.

8. State the exact day or days during the month of March, 1932, and the place or places where, stating the street address or apartment number, or giving a reasonable description of the premises where defendant Hines is claimed to have conferred and discussed plans to influence, intimidate and bribe judicial officers and others charged with the duty of enforcing and administering the criminal laws, as alleged in paragraph 15 of the first count of the indictment, also referred to therein as the "Third" overt act.

12. State the names and titles of judicial officers and other public officials whom the defendant James J. Hines, or any of the other defendants or co-conspirators named in the indictment, influenced, intimidated or bribed to refrain from doing their official duty in connection with the conspiracy charged in the indictment.

18. Does the District Attorney claim that defendant Hines, together with all or any of the other defendants, did contrive, propose and draw, or assist in contriving, proposing and drawing, the lotteries referred to in said counts of the indictment, and, if so, state, with reference to each of said respective counts, the name or names of each of said other defendants with whom defendant Hines acted, as therein stated, as to each of said lotteries.

19. With respect to each of said lotteries referred to in counts 2 to 13 inclusive, state the place where in the County of New York defendant Hines did contrive, propose and draw, and assist in contriving, proposing and drawing, a certain lottery, as alleged in each of said counts, giving the street number of the building, and if an apartment house, the apartment number, or if not an apartment house a reasonable description for identification, of the place or portion or portions of the building or buildings where said act or acts are alleged to have taken place.

22. State with respect to each of said respective counts 2 to 13, inclusive, the nature, name, method of operation, method of play and the system employed in each of said lotteries.

Answers to Items

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, COUNTY OF NEW YORK.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK against James J. Hines, J. Richard Davis, alias Dixie Davis; Abraham Weinberg, alias Bo Weinberg, alias Morris Klein; George Weinberg, John Cooney, alias John Sykes, alias John Eggelsden, alias John Silmore; Sol Girsch, alias Solly; Harry Schoenhaus, alias Big Harry; Harry Wolf, alias Little Harry; Martin Weintraub, alias Moe Weintraub, defendants.

The People for their bill of particulars allege the following:

1. (In response to item "1") The lotteries were known as the numbers game or policy. Each of such lotteries was a scheme, with persons selecting or drawing their own numbers, representing a chance, paying a valuable consideration for such chance, namely, a sum of money, and obtaining a distribution of property, namely, money, in the event the number selected or drawn by any person was the winning number, the winning number being represented by a combination of the figures of the odds paid on various horse races at various race tracks where such races were run.

Numerous persons were employed by the defendants to obtain the selected and drawn numbers from the persons playing said numbers game, and to collect the money paid for such chances, and to transmit said numbers to central clearing places, known as banks, where they were checked for the winning numbers.

Numerous persons were employed in the general management of the business, namely, to keep accounts, handle arrests, and perform all the other functions deemed necessary by the defendants to facilitate the operation of said lotteries. Defendant Hines conspired to contrive, propose, and assist in drawing, a separate lottery for every day in the year except certain holidays, namely, New Year's Day, Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving, and Christmas Day, beginning with on or about the first day of March, 1931, and continuously thereafter. Defendant Hines assisted in contriving, proposing, and drawing the above lotteries, from on or about March 1, 1931, to and including Jan. 13, 1937.

2. (In response to item "2") The People at this time are unable to state all of the places, in the County of New York, where said lotteries were contrived or in contriving which defendant Hines participated, assisted, aided or abetted. Those places in the County of New York presently known to the People, where said criminal acts were performed, are: 19 East Ninety-eight Street; apartments 2B, 3E, and 8B; 16 East Ninety-eighth Street, apartments 4E and 8E; 898 West End Avenue, apartments 3E, 4C, 5E; 351 Lenox Avenue, 870 St. Nicholas Avenue, 500 West 144th Street, 119 West 148th Street, 292 Madison Avenue, 1,450 Broadway, 1 Central Park West, 600 West 148th Street.

3. (In response to item "8") The People are at this time unable to state the exact day or days during the month of March, 1932, when defendant Hines conferred and discussed plans to influence, intimidate and bribe judicial officials and others. The places where such acts took place are: 19 East Ninety-eighth Street, and 16 East Ninety-eighth Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, County of New York, and other places at this time not known to the District Attorney.

4. (In response to item "12") Hulson Capshaw, magistrate, New York City, Francis Erwin, magistrate, New York City; William Copeland Dodge, District Attorney, New York County, and others, the names of whom are not presently known to the Distrist Attorney. The names above stated include only those directly involved in the present indictment.

5. (In response to item "18") Defendant Hines, together with the other defendants, contrived, proposed and assisted in drawing the lotteries above referred to, with respect to each of the counts of the indictment, and with respect to each of said lotteries, defendant Hines acted in concert with all of the other defendants.

6. (In response to item "19") The People are at the present time unable to state all of the places in the County of New York where defendant Hines did propose and draw, and assist in contriving, proposing, and drawing the said lotteries, or aid and abet therein. Those places in the County of New York now known to the District Attorney have been given above.

7. (In response to item "22") The information herein sought has been given in paragraph "12" above.

THOMAS E. DEWEY,
District Attorney, New York County.

the case of people versus James J. Hines and others that the District Attorney of New York County

State the names and titles of judicial officers and other public officials whom the defendant, James J. Hines, or any of the other defendants or co-conspirators named in the indictment, influenced, intimidated, or bribed, to refrain from doing their official duty in connection with the conspiracy charged in the indictment.

Today the District Attorney of New York County stated in the bill of particulars of the people that you were one of the judicial officers alleged to have been so influenced.

In view of the foregoing, it is deemed in the best interests of the Magistrates Courts that you refrain from presiding in those courts until this charge is fully disposed of.

Accordingly, pursuant to the power conferred on me by Section 81 of the Inferior Criminal Courts Act, you are hereby relieved of all your assignments in the Magistrates' Courts for the third quarter of 1938, and you are hereby placed on reserve until further notice.

Very truly yours,
Jacob Gould Schurman Jr.,
Chief City Magistrate.

Justice Pecora, during the afternoon, denied a motion made by Mr. Stryker for an inspection of the grand jury minutes.

Mr. Dodge is now head of the law firm of Dodge, Granik & Saltzman, 9 East Fortieth Street. At this office yesterday it was said that the former District Attorney might want to say something about the bill of particulars at a future time.

NEW YORK TIMES

MINISTER CHARGES REPUBLIC 'COERCION'

Youngstown Preacher Says He 'Felt' Request to Favor Company Was a 'Command'

IS CALLED PATRON OF REDS

He Used Church for Their Meetings, Retorts Steel Company Head at Hearing

By LOUIS STARK

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The Rev. Orville C. Jones, former pastor of the Pymouth Congregational Church of Youngstown, told the Senate Civil Liberties Committee today that the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, during the Steel Workers Organization Committee unionization campaign of 1936, gave a dinner to the thirty members of the local Ministerial Association and sought to "coerce" them into opposing the union.

After the ministers had heard the plea of W. B. Gillies, the company's operating vice president, Dr. Jones said, he began to "feel the pressure" from members of his congregation associated with the company to such an extent that he later felt compelled to resign because of the general antagonism.

Mr. Gillies who sat next to Dr. Jones during the latter's recital, denied exerting pressure on the ministers at the dinner and declared that it was beneath him to coerce the clergymen. His only interest, he said, was in emphasizing the need for peace and avoidance of a strike. He was sincerely interested, he asserted, in describing his company's contribution to the community.

Purnell in Congregation

In his recital Dr. Jones said that his congregation had been about evenly divided between supervisory officials of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and its employes. Frank Purnell, company president, and his famiy were attendants, he added.

Dr. Jones explained that Mr. Gillies told the ministers of the employe representation plan, of the value of the steel industry to the Mahoning Valley and of the "menace" of the union.

"He told us that the union work was carried on by outsiders whose main interest was exploiting the workers whose dues they wanted but that the company would protect the workers," declared the witness.

During the discussion Dr. Jones said that he took the position that the church had to serve both sides.

"I suggested," the minister said, "that he sit down with the men and talk things over. I said that Elmer Cope of the union had impressed me as a fair minded and honest sort of man. Mr. Gillies said that after thirty years experience he knew better than those fellows."

Some Members Quit Church

Later, in discussing the request of Mr. Gillies with his fellow-ministers, Dr. Jones said that they felt that the Gillies request "amounted to a command" that they take sides and that such pressure was so "powerful" that some of them would not dare "take an independent stand."

Subsequently, he added, when he preached on the relations of labor and the church families connected with the Sheet and Tube Company dropped out of the church.

On one occasion, after he had expressed his sympathy with labor organizations at a meeting of a local steel workers' lodge, Dr. Jones said, the chairman of his church's finance committee, who was an official of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, said that "if I ever spoke at a labor union meeting either he or I would have to leave the church."

Mr. Purnell told the committee that he left the church in 1935 before this incident and denied exercising any pressure on the minister. He added that the church had been used "by this gentleman as a meeting place for known Reds."

Criticism by Stockholders

Other disclosures made in today's testimony were:

1. The existence of correspondence between former Supreme Court Justice John H. Clarke, a stockholder in the company, and H. G. Dalton, chairman of the company board, in which the retired justice rebuked the company for refusing to sign a written agreement with the union when it had agreed orally on the four major points in dispute. In Mr. Dalton's reply he attacked the C. I. O. and asserted that a signed contract would produce discord. Whereupon Justice Clarke wrote back regretting the company's stand and saying that "Girdler and Lewis are two of a kind, neither fitted to exercise power wisely."

2. The hiring of industrial spies by company officials against Mr. Purnell's orders.

NEW YORK TIMES, TUESDAY, JUNE 7, 1938.

Einstein's Address at Swarthmore Exercises

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SWARTHMORE, Pa., June 6.—Dr. Albert Einstein's commencement address today at Swarthmore College was as follows:

If you will allow me, I should like first to express the great pleasure which President Aydelotte's invitation has procured for me by giving me an opportunity to speak before this Quaker college.

During many years I have witnessed with admiration and respect how the Society of Friends have labored in the whole world, as unselfishly as usefully, to mitigate the sufferings of men and to fill the realities of daily life with the teachings of Christ in their innermost sense. Every man, whoever he may be, if he has a concern for a better fate and a more decent conduct for the world, owes to the Society of Friends profound gratitude.

This society provides a happy testimony against the view that, as has been said, all organization kills the spirit which had created it.

We all know, from what we experience with and within ourselves, that our conscious acts spring from our desires and our fears. Intuition tells us that that is true also of our fellows and of the higher animals. We all try to escape pain and death, while we seek what is pleasant. We all are ruled in what we do by impulses; and these impulses are so organized that our actions in general serve for our self-preservation and that of race. Hunger, love, pain, fear are some of those inner forces which rule the individual's instinct for self-preservation.

At the same time, as social beings, we are moved in the relations with our fellow-beings by such feelings as sympathy, pride, hate, need for power, pity, and so on. All these primary impulses, not easily described in words, are the springs of man's actions. All such action would cease if those powerful elemental forces were to cease stirring within us.

Thought the Organizing Factor

Though our conduct seems so very different from that of the higher animals, the primary instincts are much alike in them and in us. The most evident difference springs from the important part which is played in man by a relatively strong power of imagination and by the capacity to think, aided as it is by language and other symbolic devices.

Thought is the organizing factor in man, intersected between the causal primary instincts and the resulting actions. In that way imagination and intelligence enter into our existence in the part of servants of the primary instincts. But their intervention makes our acts to serve ever less merely the immediate claims of our instincts. Through them the primary instinct attaches itself to ends which become ever more distant. The instincts bring thought into action, and thought provokes intermediary actions inspired by emotions which are likewise related to the ultimate end.

Through repeated performance, this process brings it about that ideas and beliefs acquire and retain a strong affective power, even after the ends which gave them that power are long forgotten. In abnormal cases of such intensive borrowed emotions, which cling to objects emptied of their erstwhile affective meaning, we speak of fetichism.

Yet the process which I have indicated plays a very important part also in ordinary life. Indeed there is no doubt that to this process—which one may describe as spiritualizing of the emotions and of thought—that to it man owes the most subtle and refined pleasures of which he is capable: the pleasure in the beauty of artistic creation and of logical trains of thought.

Moral Foundations in Peril

If I am putting before you today these elementary psychological ideas, it is not, as you may well imagine, from any ambition to deliver a learned lecture. The festive occasion which has brought us together, as well as my own small knowledge in this field, would forbid such a thing. I wanted to use these ideas merely as a means for considering, together with you, the dangers which are threatening the moral foundations of social life in our time.

Let me add that what I shall have to say on the nature of these moral issues makes no claim to objective validity. It is rather something in the nature of a confession of my own view in this the most important of all human problems. If I discuss it as if it were a settled conception, that is merely so as to present my view as simply and clearly as possible.

As far as I can see, there is one consideration which stands at the threshold of all moral teaching. If men as individuals surrender to the call of their elementary instincts, avoiding pain and seeking satisfaction only for their own selves, the result for them all taken together must be a state of insecurity, of fear, and of promiscuous misery.

If, besides that, they use their intelligence from an individualist, i. e. a selfish standpoint, building up their life on the illusion of a happy unattached existence, things will be hardly better. In comparison with the other elementary instincts and impulses, the emotions of love, of pity and of friendship are too weak and too cramped to lead to a tolerable state of human society.

The solution of this problem, when freely considered, is simple enough, and it seems also to echo from the teachings of the wise men of the past always in the same strain: All men should let their conduct be guided by the same principles; and those principles should be such, that by following them there should accrue to all as great a measure as possible of security and satisfaction, and as small a measure as possible of suffering.

Problem of "Potent Teaching"

Of course, this general requirement is much too vague that we should be able to draw from it with confidence specific rules to guide the individuals in their actions. And indeed, these specific rules will have to change in keeping with changing circumstances. If this were the main difficulty that stands in the way of that keen conception, the millenary fate of man would have been incomparably happier than it actually was, or still is, man would not have killed man, tortured each other, exploited each other by force and by guile.

The real difficulty, the difficulty which has baffled the sages of all times, is rather this: how can we make our teaching so potent in the emotional life of man, that its influence should withstand the pressure of the elemental psychic forces in the individual? We do not know, of course, if the sages of the past have really asked themselves this question, consciously and in this form; but we do know how they have tried to solve the problem.

Long before men were ripe, namely, to be faced with such an universal moral attitude, fear of the dangers of life had led them to attribute to various imaginary personal beings, not physically tangible, power to release those natural forces which men feared or perhaps welcomed. And they believed that those beings, which everywhere dominated their imagination, were psychically made in their own image, but were endowed with superhuman powers. These were the primitive precursors of the idea of God. Sprung in the first place from the fears which filled man's daily life, the belief in the existence of such beings, and in their extraordinary powers, has had an influence so strong that it is difficult for us to imagine on men and their conduct.

Hence it is not surprising that those who set out to establish the moral idea, as embracing all men equally, did so by linking it closely with religion. And the fact that those moral claims were the same for all men, may have had much to do with the development of mankind's religious culture from polytheism to monotheism.

The universal moral idea thus owed its original psychological potency to that link with religion. Yet in another sense that close association was fatal for the moral idea. Monotheistic religion acquired different forms with various peoples and groups. Although those differences were by no means fundamental, yet they soon were felt more strongly than the essentials that were common. And in that way religion often caused enmity and conflict, instead of binding mankind together with the universal moral idea.

Effect of Natural Sciences

Then came the growth of the natural sciences, with their great influence on thought and practical life, weakening still more in modern times the religious sentiment of the peoples. The causal and objective mode of thinking—though not necessarily in contradiction with the religious sphere—leaves in most people little room for a deepening religious sense.

And because of the traditional close link between religion and morals, that has brought with it, in the last hundred years or so, a serious weakening of moral thought and sentiment. That, to my mind, is a main cause for the barbarization of political ways in our time. Taken together with the terrifying efficiency of the new technical means, that barbarization already forms a fearful threat for the civilized world.

Needless to say, one is glad that religion strives to work for the realization of the moral principle. Yet the moral imperative is not a matter for church and religion alone, but the most precious traditional possession of all mankind.

Consider from this standpoint the position of the press, or of the schools with their competitive method! Everything is dominated by the cult of efficiency and of success, and not by the value of things and men in relation to the moral ends of human society. To that must be added the moral deterioration resulting from a ruthless economic struggle.

The deliberate nurturing of the moral sense also outside the religious sphere, however, should help also in this, to lead men to look upon social problems as so many opportunities for joyous service toward a better life. For looked at from a simple human point of view, moral conduct does not mean merely a stern demand to renounce some of the desired joys of life, but rather a sociable interest in a happier lot for all men.

This conception implies one requirement above all—that every individual should have the opportunity to develop gifts which may be latent in him. Alone in that way can the individual obtain the satisfaction to which he is justly entitled, and alone in that way can the community achieve its richest flowering. For everything that is really great and inspiring is created by the individual who can labor in freedom. Restriction is justified only in so far as it may be needed for the security of existence.

"Essence of True Tolerance"

There is one other thing which follows from that conception—that we must not only tolerate differences between individuals and between groups but we should indeed welcome them and look upon them as an enriching of our existence. That is the essence of all true tolerance; without tolerance in this widest sense there can be no question of true morality.

Morality in the sense here briefly indicated is not a fixed and stark system. It is rather a standpoint from which all questions which arise in life could and should be judged. It is a task never finished, something always present to guide our judgment and to inspire our conduct. Can you imagine that any man truly filled with this ideal could be content:

Were he to receive from his fellow-men a much greater return in goods and services than most other men ever receive?

Were his country, because it feels itself for the time being militarily secure, to stand aloof from the aspiration to create a supernational system of security and justice?

Could he look on passively, or perhaps even with indifference, when elsewhere in the world innocent people are being brutally persecuted, deprived of their rights or even massacred?

To ask these questions is to answer them!

[illegible], who was an official of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, said that "if I ever spoke at a labor union meeting either he or I would have to leave the church."

Mr. Purnell told the committee that he left the church in 1935 before this incident and denied exercising any pressure on the minister. He added that the church had been used "by this gentleman as a meeting place for known Reds."

Criticism by Stockholders

Other disclosures made in today's testimony were:

1. The existence of correspondence between former Supreme Court Justice John H. Clarke, a stockholder in the company, and H. G. Dalton, chairman of the company board, in which the retired justice rebuked the company for refusing to sign a written agreement with the union when it had agreed orally on the four major points in dispute. In Mr. Dalton's reply he attacked the C. I. O. and asserted that a signed contract would produce discord. Whereupon Justice Clarke wrote back regretting the company's stand and saying that "Girdler and Lewis are two of a kind, neither fitted to exercise power wisely."

2. The hiring of industrial spies by company officials against Mr. Purnell's orders.

3. Presentation of a gift of about $1,700 worth of tear gas, gas guns, hand grenades, nightsticks and star shells by J. M. Woltz, chief of the Sheet and Tube Company's police, to the Mahoning County Sheriff. Messrs. Purnell, Gillies and J. C. Argetsinger, company counsel and secretary, denied knowing of the transaction.

4. Large purchases of munitions coincidentally with conferences of company officials and S. W. O. C. spokesmen.

Harlem Demands Jobs for Starving

A. Clayton Powell Says Negroes, Idle and Without Aid, Dig in Refuse for Food —Police Brutality Charged

Editor's Note: The POST publishes below the last of a series of three articles which present the Negro's point of view on the recent disturbances in Harlem.

The author, A Clayton Powell Jr., is associated with his father in the pastorate of the Abyssinian Baptist Church, the largest in Harlem.

Mr. Powell was educated at Colgate, Columbia and Union Theological Seminary. He has written for many magazines. He is now engaged on a book, "Religion Faces a Challenging World," the substance of a course he is giving in Columbia University.

By A. CLAYTON POWELL JR.

Have you ever eaten garbage? Dined, but not wined, on bones sucked dry by strangers' mouths, bread soaked in the juices of a garbage can; maybe a rotten tomato as a relish and a partly devoured orange to top off the meal, in which some of the pith still remains? If not, my friends, you are not a member of the new social "odor."

Men and women comb the streets of pauper Harlem looking for cast-off food. This I and others have seen.

What makes a human being forage with the dogs and cats for food in this year of our disgrace 1935?

In old Harlem Town the working class finds no jobs for men, slave positions for women and very few Federal Relief jobs for either. The better trained Negroes have been hired by the E. H. R. B. as clerks and investigators, but despite this there are large numbers of well-trained Negroes idle, while the businesses of New York increasingly, say—"We do not hire Negroes." This situation is felt most acutely by the Harlemites along 125th Street. There he is cordially welcomed to spend his money, but firmly told that he cannot work.

Continued on Page 21, Col. 6

Continued from Page One

When Picketing Began

This strange paradox caused two groups last summer to picket Harlem's main crosstown artery. One group under an Egyptian, Sufi, was called the Negro Industrial and Clerical Alliance, and another under Mr. Ira Kemp and Mr. Arthur Reed was called the Picket Committee. They concentrated on Blumstein's, a large midtown department store. On the first of August they finally won. An agreement was signed, Negro girls were placed as the white ones left. No white ones were fired. All along 125th Street merchants relented and an appreciable number of Negroes began to be employed in the better positions. Koch's appointed a Negro, Miss Morgan, as head of the personnel. Chock Full o' Nuts opened a store staffed completely by colored and because of similar action by many others, the objectors to our affections began to change our mental complexions from black to rosy red.

Into this cordial atmosphere Tobin and Harvey Raymond stepped and organized an all-white Harlem Merchants' Association "to help the good colored people." This organization has existed merely as a buffer group. It has been so effective that the position of the Negro throughout Harlem has been reduced to almost its former status. Many stores in large numbers have fired the Negroes whom they hired last fall. To illustrate the inconsistency of this group: After signing a statement on March 20 pledging themselves to the utmost of cooperation, Mr. Tobin telegraphed Governor Lehman asking him to send troops to Harlem.

Seven Cents an Hour

Salaries have been reduced in Harlem to a level not even affording the earner the privilege to exist. For instance: A dress shop near 133d Street and Seventh Avenue employs in their clothes' shop a girl working from one to six in the afternoon, seven-thirty to ten-thirty at night, and on Saturdays from nine-thirty to ten or eleven at night, a total of about sixty hours. Believe it or not, her wages are less than seven cents an hour, for she gets the grand sum at the close of the week of $4. A hat shop on Eighth Avenue near 139th Street employs a girl for twelve hours a day and on Saturday for fifteen hours, and does not allow her any time off for lunch. She does get a grand salary of $9 for seventy-five hours.

Sixty per cent of Harlem is not working, and about half of the unemployed are not receiving any home relief. In other words, conservatively some fifty thousand human beings are neither working nor receiving relief. Why not at least relief?

lines? Into my study one morning came a Mr. Cecil A[illegible] address withheld, carrying [illegible] paper cup filled with slop, hu[illegible] rotten veal mixed with sogg[illegible]ge, the mixture still hot fro[illegible] food kitchen and yet it was [illegible]ly sour. This "meal" came from [illegible] tables of the 369th Armory a[illegible] 142d Street and Fifth Avenue. Here hundreds are fed one meal a day, it used to be three. "How can we eat this mess, and only one meal a day to keep us alive?" I couldn't answer. Can you?

A Letter From a Sister

This letter came last night. It is in the hands of the POST. Some names and addresses are obviously withheld:

> I am greatly upset over something that recently happened to my brother. Never having been in any trouble of this kind, I truly don't know just how to go about it. If it is not asking too much, will you please do all you can to help us? My mother is paralyzed and—my youngest brother, who is an innocent victim of the trouble, is worrying her greatly.
>
> My brother ———— was on the bread line at the 369th Regiment Armory the morning of March 13. As you know, I have the care of my children and ———— my oldest sister has the care of my invalid mother. Well, my brother has been out of work since September, but he didn't wish to increase our burden so that is the answer for his being in the bread line.
>
> He got in the line early in the morning and about noontime two men pushed him out of place and Officer [illegible] of the police tried to force him to the end of the line and when he tried to explain to the cop that he had been waiting since early morning, the cop struck him in the face and when he covered his face for protection the cop struck him [illegible]

Witness: Mrs. Annie Prance, of 270[illegible] Eighth Avenue, destitute and [illegible]. The home relief [illegible] $16 toward her last month's rent at 270[illegible]. With the furniture on the sidewalk and the home relief refusing to move people, in some miraculous way some kind truck driver freely offered his help. For almost three weeks now she has waited in this cold-water, no-heat flat with little food, and no assistance has come to date. The D. A.'s office should not be so concerned about looking into the Reds, but rather into the criminal red tape of the EHRB.

Red tape and discrimination in Harlem can easily be figured out when the bureau of administration at 124th Street and Lenox Avenue reeks with prejudice. White and colored workers cannot mix. No free speech is allowed at staff meetings. Special rules are laid down at this bureau for Negroes only. For instance, the top rent for relief in New York is $25. For Negroes in Harlem it is $16. They do this fully knowing that they pay the highest rent and expect them to pay for electricity and gas out of this meager allowance.

Eight Cents a Meal

On March 22, just three days after the disturbance, with the noise of window repairs on 125th Street still ringing in their ears, a rule was laid down at an open conference at which no one was allowed to speak, that in the future no recipient of relief would be allowed to supplement his relief with any other income. This was laid down for the Harlem precincts only.

The optimistic chant of some of my fellow Negroes in North Carolina does not hold in Harlem—"Jesus Will Lead Me and the Welfare Will Feed Me"—for they are allowed only eight cents per meal for food.

During Christmas clothing was dispensed in the grand manner in Harlem for the first time in months, and out of every 100 families fifteen were given $10 worth. Yet the commissioner's report this month showed hundreds of thousands spent for clothing, but not even a penny for a diaper, a shoelace nor a feather for your cap in Harlem.

Knowing all this it was not necessary to lift one's mental eyebrows in surprise or disdain, when of the 100 who were arrested for the voiced resentment against the new social "odor" twenty-five were EHRB clients. These people are expected to pay New York's highest rents, their lighting bills, their gas bills in proportion to accommodations, with $16 per month maximum. Yet, if they eke out a few pennies to supplement this, or to buy second-hand clothes for their naked babies, it is deducted from their rent allowance.

They Are Budget Balancers

Roosevelt need delay no longer—appoint any head of a Harlem family on relief to his "brain trust" and instantly the national budget will be balanced.

What about the Harlem bread a black jury [illegible] then clubbed him after he was knocked down unconscious.

He was then [illegible] in the emergency [illegible] and placed in the prison ward. [illegible] notice of this in the evening and he was operated on that night in an attempt to save his sight. Up to now it is doubtful if they can. After the riot he was moved to the Bellevue Prison Ward E-30th St.

We have the case in the care of lawyers and the witnesses' names are ———— of ———— Street and ————, ————. My brother is to undergo another operation any day to try and save his eye.

Now, Adam, please do all you can for mother, sister and me to see that the case gets justice as I don't know any one in the world who could help me as much as you. Maybe you could speak to the Mayor personally about it.

My mother and sister ———— live ———— Phone ———— and I am home every evening after 7 P. M. ———— Ave. A million thanks Adam and I know you will do all you can to help me.

Sincerely,

The Police, Generally, Intelligent

The police during the troubles of March 19 acquitted themselves admirably with very few exceptions. They knew they were confronted with people crazed with hunger, inadequate relief and garbage. To them goes the praise of Harlem's citizenry for their efforts. But what now, administration, about this boy at Bellevue? This misery filled family and this sorrow-drenched community? Don't think it is "only a few Negroes up in Harlem." Change any of the names I have used, substitute for Harlem any community and the new social "odor" there will smell just as bad.

Mr. Mayor, why not give the city a good washing, beginning with the administration, and hang it all on the line to air—maybe the new social "odor" won't smell so badly then?

NEW YORK TIMES, TUESDAY, JUNE 7, 1938

ROCKEFELLER FUND SHIFTS BOND HOLDINGS

Investments Had Book Value of $172,073,541 on Dec. 31

Only a few changes were made last year in the security holdings of the Rockefeller Foundation, it was disclosed yesterday. Ownership of stocks and bonds on Dec. 31 last represented a book value to the foundation of $172,073,541, compared with $172,546,008 at the end of 1936. A break-down of the investments revealed that holdings of bonds amounted to $67,450,288, against $63,690,855 on Dec. 31, 1936, and stock to $104,623,253, against $108,855,150.

Additions to the foundation's bond investments included $5,000,000 of United States Treasury notes, Series A, dated June 15, 1937; $726,000 of Bethlehem Steel Corporation consolidated sinking fund bonds, Series E, and $150,400 of Phelps Dodge convertible debentures. Important deletions included $838,000 of Armour & Co. real estate mortgage bonds, $178,000 of Delaware & Hudson fifteen-year notes, $168,000 of New York Central miscellaneous equipment bonds and $500,000 of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph first and collateral mortgage bonds.

The principle changes in stock holdings were the disposal of 19,944 shares of Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway common and 49,635 shares of New York Central capital stock.

At the end of 1937 the foundation owned 1,077,005 shares of capital stock of Standard Oil of New Jersey, which it carried at $36,962,526; 691,140 shares of Standard Oil of Indiana; 60,967 shares of Standard Oil of California; 135,646 shares of Standard Oil of Ohio common, and 94,684 shares of Ohio Oil common stock.

ORDERS ELECTION BY SCREEN WRITERS

National Labor Board Rules They Are Employes Under the Wagner Act

18 COMPANIES AFFECTED

Contract Between Producers and Screen Playwrights, Inc., No Bar, Decision Holds

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Overruling objection that screen writers should not be considered employes under the National Labor Relations Act since their work is creative and professional and because they receive relatively high salaries, the National Labor Relations Board today held that the long standing dispute between Hollywood screen writers and motion picture producers should be adjusted by an election.

In the election, screen writers employed by eighteen of the major producing companies on the Pacific Coast will determine whether they wish to be represented by the Screen Writers Guild, Inc., formerly the Screen Writers' Guild of the Authors' League of America, or by Screen Playwrights, Inc., or by neither.

The labor board's records showed that salaries for screen writing varied from $30 to $2,000 a week and that salaries in the higher brackets were common.

The picture producers affected are Loew's, Inc.; Metro-Goldwin-Mayer Pictures, Inc.; Selznick International Pictures, Inc.; Walter Wanger Productions, Inc.; Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., Ltd.; Republic Productions, Inc.; Columbia Pictures Corporation of California, Ltd.; Paramount Pictures, Inc.; R-K-O Radio Pictures, Inc.; Universal Pictures Company, Inc.; Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corpoartion; Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc.; Grand National Films, Inc.; Trem Carr Pictures, Ltd.; Major Pictures Corporation; Hal Roach Studios, Inc.; B. P. Schulberg, Inc.; Monogram Productions, Inc., and Darmour, Inc.

The dispute goes back to June 11, 1937, when the Los Angeles Regional Labor Board ruled against a request by the Screen Writers' Guild that all screen writers employed by companies holding membership in the Association of Motion Picture Producers, Inc., should be regarded as a single appropriate bargaining unit rather than divided into separate units according to their individual employers.

The producers and Screen Playwrights, Inc., held that the writers did not come within the jurisdiction of the board as the Wagner Act since the writers received high salaries, whereas the Labor Act was intended fo rthe protection of workers in the lower income brackets.

Screen writers, according to the producers and Screen Playwrights, performed their service free from control of the companies; were independent contractors rather than employers; were not required to observe regular hours or to maintain office discipline nor required to produce any fixed amount of work.

"Although the producer may concede points to the writer when differences arise between him and the writer with respect to a piece of work, the producer appears to have the authority to require the writer to rewrite material in accordance with the producers' suggestions," the National Board's decision stated.

A five-year contract made between seven of the film companies and screen playwrights, Inc., was held not to prevent the ordering of an election among writers covered by the agreement or the certification of new representatives of the writers.

The board found no merit in the contention that the individual contracts under which a majority of screen writers are employed preclude the holding of an election.

Hearings to Spur Labor Act Drive, La Follette Says

Evidence to Provide Momentum in Fight For Stronger Measure

By the United Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Senator La Follette (Prog., Wis.) said today that out of the current hearings of his Senate Civil Liberties Committee would arise an effort to strengthen the Wagner Labor Relations act, at the next session of Congress.

"There is no doubt," Mr. La Follette said, "from the evidence gathered by our committee that the right of labor to organize for collective bargaining has been frustrated.

"Undoubtedly recommendations will be made at the next session of Congress to strengthen the Wagner act. I do not know yet just what the recommendations will be, but when the hearings are completed we will submit a report with recommendations."

Senator La Follette opened the third week of hearings into the "little steel" strike of 1937 today by summoning Mayor Daniel Knaggs of Monroe, Mich., to tell about the strike riot that occurred there on June 10, 1937, while plants of the Republic Steel Corp. and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Corp. in seven States were tied up by a strike arising out of the drive of the Committee for Industrial organization to organize steel workers.

were brought to [illegible] The first had appeared two weeks ago, and had aroused nationwide comment at the time.

The mention of the coming fight on the local utilities was made in connection with the fight that has been waged in New York for several months. There the Harlem citizens have adopted a plan of making the service they get expensive to those utilities that will not give them employment.

The fact that a determined battle against segregation in the utilities here is to be waged came to the author of the Post article after a local delegation of young people had visited Governor Hurley in protest. Plans are expected to be completed for the beginning of it in the next few days.

Dr. Stanley High, editor of the articles, is a well known liberal. Writing under the title of "Black Omens," the author stated that John P. Davis, Harvard Student and well known man-about town here, until he began the phenomenal National Race Congress, is one of the greatest colored leaders of the day. Top place in the leadership he gives to A. Philip Randolph, head of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

The article commends the new trend toward organization in the race, and says that the colored voter will hold the balance of power in many elections to come.

May 1938

'SLAVE MARKETS' IN CITY PROTESTED

Housewives Bargain With Negro Girls for Services at $1 a Day, Social Worker Says

YOUTH VOICES DESPAIR

Council Welfare Group Hears Plea for Retention of the 'Cellar Clubs'

A protest against the exploitation of young Negro women engaged for wages of $1 a day or 15 cents an hour for domestic work at "slave markets" in Bronx and Brooklyn thoroughfares was made yesterday by Miss Dorothy Height, Negro representative of the Harlem branch of the Y. W. C. A. She spoke before the youth welfare committee of the City Council.

The girls, desperate for work, wait at the curbs on the Grand Concourse at Highbridge Road, the Bronx, and on Prospect Avenue near Prospect Park, Brooklyn, and bargain for work with housewives who drive there in automobiles when they need help, according to Miss Height. Miss Height said these two locations were known in Harlem as "slave markets."

A Well-Known Term

Councilman Charles Keegan objected to the term "Bronx slave market." But Miss Height said:

"The expression is as well known as 'Hi-de-ho.'"

The hearing was devoted to the testimony of many young men and girls. The youths all expressed despair over the futility of looking for regular employment and urged the committee to do nothing to eliminate their cellar clubs until better recreational centers were provided.

Hyman Trees, president of the East New York Inter-Club Federation, said that it was "nonsense" to criticize all cellar clubs because a few had been the scenes of infractions. He cited many clubs organized and operated by youths where work classes were held, WPA instruction given and other serious social activities promoted out of self-interest.

He asserted that because of the unfriendly attitude of the police and the Department of Housing and Buildings many cellar clubs in Brooklyn were being ejected from buildings where code violations existed. The clubs could find no other cheap quarters, with the result the boys probably would drift back to poolrooms and the streets, he said.

Pleads for Cellar Clubs

Sol Feldman of the Federation of East Side Social Clubs also protested any closing of cellar clubs, saying: "Where will we go if you close our only social centers?" Jack Hier of 253 Henry Street declared he was "only 24 and willing to work."

"What is to become of us if we are not aided in some way by government agencies?" he added.

Gladys Jamison, representing a Negro college sorority, and Lionel Florant of the American Youth Congress alleged discrimination against Negroes. Miss Jamison asked for closer supervision of open city markets, charging that Negroes obtained poor foods and received short weights. Mr. Florant said that utilities franchised by the city had given employment to few Negroes, although they collected millions from that race. Recently the companies have shown a more conciliatory attitude, he said.

The next meeting of the committee will be held on May 25 at 2 P. M. and a night meeting may be held in Brooklyn Borough Hall on May 31.

NEGROES PROTEST OLD FILM CLASSIC

Promoting of Race Hatred Is Charged in Court Over Showing of 'Birth of a Nation'

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., May 18.—The manager of a local motion-picture theatre is scheduled to appear tomorrow before Police Recorder Albert L. Vreeland here to answer a charge that he violated a New Jersey statute by showing "The Birth of a Nation," D. W. Griffith's film classic of more than two decades ago.

The defendant, Adolph J. Rettig, manager of the Ormont Theatre on Main Street, was arrested last night and paroled in custody of his counsel, Edward R. McGlynn of Newark. Mr. Rettig is a former big league baseball player.

The complaint against the manager was signed by two local Negro physicians, Dr. Theodore R. Inge and Dr. Harry W. Mickey. The two alleged that Mr. Rettig violated Chapter 151 of the laws of 1935, which makes it a misdemeanor to show "any picture, photograph or representation which in any way incites, counsels, promotes, advocates or symbolizes hatred, violence or hostility against any group of persons by reason of race, color, religion or manner of worship."

The complainants contend that the film, which portrays the Reconstruction period, including activities of the Ku Klux Klan and Negro Union soldiers, is an affront to their race. Dr. Inge said today the picture had been prohibited in California, Kansas, West Virginia and Ohio.

The film was shown at the Ormont from May 8 through May 11. On May 9 local Negro leaders submitted a protest, bearing 609 signatures, to the City Council, which delegated three of its members to confer with Mr. Rettig. The manager refused to stop the picture, but deleted those parts which he understood were considered particularly objectionable.

Local authorities said today that, as far as they know, this case was the first in which the 1935 statute had been invoked. The act provides for a penalty on conviction of a fine of not less than $200 and not more than $5,000 and imprisonment for not less than ninety days and not more than three years, or both fine and imprisonment.

Europe

Irish Patriarch-President Is a Symbol of the Nation

By ANNE O'HARE McCORMICK

The choice of the patriarch of the Gaelic revival movement to be the first President of Ireland has a fitness both symbolic and real. It is symbolic because if Eamon de Valera is right in believing that you can't have a nation without a national language—though the Irish seem to have done pretty well for themselves in English—then Dr. Douglas Hyde may be the creator of the country called Eire. President of the Gaelic League for nearly a quarter of a century and the first Professor of Modern Irish in the National University, it was he who popularized the almost-forgotten native tongue among the young. He is so steeped in folklore, besides, that he is like the memory of the race.

The President of the new State is meant to be a symbol. The day after the Constitution went into effect last December Mr. de Valera expounded to the writer what he had in mind when he created the office. The President was not to be a figurehead, but an eye-compelling figure out of and above politics. He was to have no direct power but great influence, so that his Ministers, while advising him, would also be guided by his advice. As the author of the Constitution conceives him, the Irish Chief Executive is to be less active than the President of the United States and far more important than the President of France. He is to fulfill the functions of an uncrowned king, chosen for his qualities rather than inherited, and therefore with less dynastic but more moral authority.

De Valera Still Creating

Probably Mr. de Valera himself would like to set the pattern for the Presidency. But he has other patterns to set first. He has to establish the new balance between the government and the President; he has to exemplify his idea of the Premiership; he has to chart the course of the untried Senate. In building a nation according to his own specifications, he is experiencing all the excitement of creation. He is too busy turning a dream into reality to be ready to be a symbol.

But Dr. Douglas Hyde represents the real Ireland too. In the first place, he is the first amendment to the new Constitution. Before his charter went into operation Mr. de Valera realized that the President he desired could not be chosen by popular election. He admitted that in the effort to carry democracy to the limit he had almost destroyed the chance of finding a great nonpolitical figure to act as symbolic head of the State. He hoped that all the political parties could be brought to agree on a single candidate, thereby avoiding the necessity of a popular election on party lines.

This is what has happened. And the reason the opposing parties have agreed in a country as political as Ireland is because Douglas Hyde expresses something deeper and more real than politics. The patriarch of a movement but not an elder statesman, he has never been heard to utter a political remark. He talks about things that interest Irishmen more. He is a scholar and a gentleman, old and quiet, full of wit and wisdom. He comes from the most Irish part of Ireland, the Kingdom of Connaught in the west, the country which strains farthest away from Europe, like the last of the Hesperides. Though the writer never heard this fact mentioned when his name was discussed, he is a Protestant, son of a clergyman; and the most impassioned leaders of Catholic Ireland have been Protestants—Isaac Butt, Wolfe Tone, Robert Emmett, Parnell.

A Leader From Literature

His chief recommendation is that he is a man of letters. In a country where you can attend two successive political luncheons, one to meet the leaders of the ruling party, the other to meet the leaders of the opposition, and at both

Represents Porters On Milwaukee Railroad

A. PHILLIP RANDOLPH, International Pres. of the Brotherhood

CHICAGO, Ill.—In an election held on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, ending May 4, under the supervision of the National Mediation Board, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters won the right to represent the sleeping car and chair car porters by a vote of 134 to 14, states A. Phillip Randolph, International president of the Brotherhood.

Mr. Murray, one of the mediators, conducted the election, with Mr. Ernest Smith, International Field Organizer, representing the Brotherhood.

Following the Brotherhood victory a request for a conference will be made, and an Agreement, concerning rates of pay and rules governing working conditions, will be negotiated with the management by Mr. Randolph and Mr. M. P. Webster, first vice president of the Brotherhood, for the porters.

NATIONAL CHARACTER visits Tampa—A. Phillip Randolph, International President of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. Mr. Randolph spoke to an unusually large audience at St. Paul Thursday night of last week. He was accompanied by Mr. M. P. Webster, first vice president of the Brotherhood. The visitors were banqueted Friday night. The local branch of the Brotherhood paid marked attention to their president. The visit was inspiring to all Tampa.

Greetings & Felicitations

to

International Brotherhood of Red Caps

From

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

Upon your

Second International Convention

Forward - Onward - Upward!

A. Philip Randolph
International President

Milton P. Webster
1st International Vice-Pres.

Bennie Smith
2nd International Vice-Pres.

Ashley L. Totten
International Sec'y-Treasurer

E. J. Bradley
3rd International Vice-Pres.

International Headquarters
217 W. 125th ST., New York City

C. L. Dellums
4th International Vice-Pres.

JULY 4, 1939

UNIONS FACE CURB IN THE NORTHWEST

Initiative in Two States Is Expected to Bring Question Before General Elections

By RICHARD L. NEUBERGER

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 12.—After exactly a year of strife, silent sawmills and idle men still mark the warfare between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization for control of the lumber industry in the Pacific Northwest. On its first anniversary the conflict shows no sign of cessation in the immediate future.

The most significant outcome of the long struggle is the possibility of incorporation and restriction that today threatens every labor union in Oregon and Washington. Initiative measures seeking this objective will be on the general election ballot in both States in November.

Sufficient signatures have already been obtained in Oregon. A similar eventuality is believed so certain in Washington that Dave Beck of Seattle, A. F. of L. teamster boss in the Far West, recently declared: "The initiative transcends all economic differences between the two labor groups."

United in Opposition

This statement is regarded as indicative of the proportions of the incorporation threat. Mr. Beck has been an implacable foe of the C. I. O. He has supervised the boycott that has shut down sawmills where the lumberjacks have voted to join the rival union. Yet he has proposed that the C. I. O. and A. F. of L. unite politically to ward off the initiative measures.

There are a few differences in the labor restriction laws put forward in the two States but many similarities. They would impose new responsibilities on the unions, outlaw sympathy strikes, curtail picketing activities and generally restrain the labor organizations.

The originators and the advocates of the initiative measures contend the plans would prevent violence and racketeering, protect the honest worker and make impossible such situations as that in the lumber industry, where for a year jurisdictional strife between two unions has thrown thousands of men out of work.

Passage Held Likely

Both the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. have denounced the petitions as schemes to destroy the labor movement in the Northwest. Union partisans warn that passage of the bills at the polls would take away inalienable civil rights, smash the trade unions and tear down the present wage structure built up over the years.

Political observers believe there is considerable likelihood the measures may pass in both States. The Oregon signatures were obtained in quick time.

If the two large warring labor factions do not get together politically to oppose the bills, the measures are believed certain to be adopted. It will be the first time general electorates will ever have passed on the broad question of labor union incorporation and curtailment.

Mr. Beck's hint that the rival labor organizations form a political fusion was also thought to be somewhat prompted by the recent arrest in Seattle of three A. F. of L. teamsters charged with assault. This was regarded as the start of a law-and-order drive on the part of Mayor Arthur B. Langlie, elected early this year when the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. backed different candidates.

Last week the law-and-order round-up led by Governor Charles H. Martin of Oregon netted the conviction for arson in the little Willamette Valley town of Dallas of Al Rosser, Mr. Beck's right-hand lieutenant and the head of the teamsters in Oregon. Governor Martin was defeated for renomination a few months ago when the New Deal backed his rival, Henry Hess.

Green's Stand in Doubt

There has been considerable wonder here as to what attitude William Green will take toward Dave Beck's suggestion of political fusion. The president of the A. F. of L. has been inflexible in his opposition to alliances with the C. I. O.

Whether there will be a real alliance to wage war against the initiative measures is still a moot question. The bitterness of the grim lumber struggle is clearly apparent. Mr. Beck frequently condemns Harry Bridges, the C. I. O. leader in the West, as an alleged Communist, and the lumber workers' paper in Portland, commenting on Mr. Beck's recent fusion remark, referred to him as "the odious Dave Beck."

In enforcing its boycott against the C. I. O. sawmills the A. F. of L. refuses to let its teamsters or carpenters handle the forbidden lumber.

This sword, however, was in the other scabbard last week. Harry Bridges's C. I. O. longshoremen in Portland refused to load lumber from a mill that had returned to the A. F. of L.

A New Tactic

A new variation in union tactics appeared in the lumber battle several days ago when the A. F. of L. promised C. I. O. sawmill workers that if they returned to the former union the $10 initiation fee would be suspended. The C. I. O. derided the offer as a "bargain day."

The opinion of political onlookers is that the continued internecine labor warfare strengthens the chance that the voters may adopt the restrictive union measures in November. The Associated Farmers are active behind the initiative bills. This is an organization which has declared war on union violence and racketeering. The State Grange of Oregon, representing many more farmers, has spurned the Associated Farmers, however, and the labor unions contend the latter organization is a "front" for anti-union employers.

IN POLITICAL FIGHT

Hershfield

Dave Beck, A. F. of L. leader in the Northwest, opposes a curb on labor unions of his region.

Pullman Flouts Contract, Avers President Warfield

Dropping of Sleeping Car Conductors Menace to Safety Of Public; Porters' Interests Are Not Jeopardized

The controversy between the Order of Sleeping Car Conductors and the Pullman Company over the determination of the Pullman Company to displace its conductors and make its porters solely responsible for the safety and comfort of passengers, led to a number of interesting developments in Washington during the week.

As a result, sentiment on Capitol Hill has been so aroused that the demand for a sweeping Senatorial investigation of the whole affair is decidedly stronger.

Sometime ago, Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, an old-time member of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, addressed a letter to the Pullman Company urging a change in policy. Vice President Champ Carry replied. He insisted that the dropping of conductors was "a long standing practice" and endeavored to drive a wedge between the Sleeping Car Conductors and the porters by declaring that the porters' rights were being "abridged."

Carry's Amazing Claim

Carry acknowledged that the National Railroad Adjustment Board—the court of last resort for such matters in the railroad industry—had sustained the contentions of the conductors, but he set up the plea that the Railway Labor Act gave the company the right to ignore an award until compelled to obey by court action.

Finally, he urged that instead of insisting on the Adjustment Board award, the conductors should negotiate changes in the rules.

Senator Johnson referred Carry's letter to President M. S. Warfield, and the Sleeping Car Conductors' chief prepared a devastating reply.

"This dispute between the Pullman Company and the Order of Sleeping Car Conductors involves the traveling public as well as the conductors," said Mr. Warfield.

Public Rights at Stake

"The elimination of Pullman conductors from trains, leaving Pullman cars in charge of porters, deprives patrons of the safety, comfort and convenience for which they pay.

"When riding in Pullman cars, passengers are necessarily isolated from police protection furnished by the state and, therefore, Pullman conductors are a necessary substitute.

"That statement does not imply any disrespect for porters, nor in any way underestimates their services. There is no quarrel between the conductors and porters in spite of the seeming attempt of the management to bring one about. Both organizations have charters in the American Federation of Labor.

Porters Won't Lose Jobs

"If conductors were returned to every train from which they have been removed, not a single porter would lose his job. They would simply be relieved from the necessity of trying to fill two jobs for the price of one."

The cost of restoring the conductors would be trifling, Mr. Warfield pointed out—"less than one-half cent a mile for all the miles traveled by Pullman cars."

Answering the suggestion that the conductors and the Pullman Company negotiate new rules, Mr. Warfield said the company was concealing the fact that such rules had already been negotiated. In other words, there is an agreement between the Pullman Company and the Order of Sleeping Car Conductors. That agreement provides for the employment of conductors.

When the Pullman Company violated the agreement, the Sleeping Car Conductors proceeded in the way indicated by the Railway Labor Act—they appealed to the National Railroad Adjustment Board.

That board, made up of equal numbers of representatives of the carriers and the employes, decided in favor of the conductors.

But the Pullman Company refused to obey the award. In fact, Mr. Warfield emphasized, at the beginning of 1939 "the Pullman Company began ignoring every Adjustment Board award, interpreting the rules of the agreement with its conductors."

Carry's suggestion that the Pullman Company has a right to ignore awards until a Federal court compels it to obey was vigorously protested by Mr. Warfield.

"The spirit of the Railway Labor Act is to promote peace in the industry through maintenance of agreements between employers and employes," said Mr. Warfield. "It confers the right upon the parties to establish the machinery for the settlement of all disputes. This has been done for the Pullman Company and its conductors. This machinery establishes the National Railroad Adjustment Board as the court of final appeal."

Persists in Flouting Law

But the Pullman Company persists in flouting the decisions of that court and invites endless and costly litigation in the Federal courts.

"The attitude of the Pullman Company in the present dispute, if followed out by other carriers, would be destructive of all the good contained in the law," said Mr. Warfield. "But that does not end the matter. There will be a serious let-down in the standard of service to the public.

"The Order of Sleeping Car Conductors is making every effort to preserve the sanctity of its contract with the Pullman Company. No common carrier is allowed to fix its own standards of safety and convenience, and the Pullman Company should be no exception to that rule."

Finally, Mr. Warfield declared that the Order of Sleeping Car Conductors was anxious to have all the facts placed before the public. To that end he and his organization would welcome a Congressional investigation.

Answers Pullman

M. S. WARFIELD

Sleeping Car Conductors' head protests against policy which jeopardizes passengers' safety.

Resolution Urges White Conductors

1939

TALLAHASSE, April 19 — (Special) — Policy of the Pullman company of placing Pullman cars in adjoining states in charge of negro conductors was condemned in a resolution introduced by Rep. E. P. Martin of Hillsborough county and Rep. Thomas H. Cooley of Lake county which unanimously passed the Florida house of representatives yesterday morning.

The resolution, taking cognizance of the fact that negroes have been placed in charge of Pullmans in other states, assumes that the company plans the same action in Florida in the future. White conductors, the resolution says, have always rendered splendid service and "have insured the safety of the travel of our mothers and daughters."

Replacing of these white conductors with negro conductors, the resolution maintains, will bring about a situation which will not improve the relation of the races in Florida, but will tend to aggravate the situation.

"Our mothers and daughters will not feel safe and fully at ease if the Pullman cars are in charge of colored conductors," says the resolution, continuing, "it is to the advantage of the citizens of Florida, both the white citizens and negro citizens, that the white conductors on the Pullman cars remain in charge of them and that they be not replaced by negro conductors.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the House of Representatives of the Florida legislature of 1939:

"That the Pullman company be requested and admonished to continue the services of white conductors in the operation of their Pullman cars in the State of Florida and

"That they do not be replaced by negro conductors."

LATIN AMERICA IS UNANIMOUS FOR PLEA

WASHINGTON, April 19—(AP)—The government of Honduras endorsed yesterday President Roosevelt's efforts to maintain peace in Europe, thus placing all twenty Latin-American republics on record as approving his messages to Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini.

Labor Protected In Rail Mergers Under ICC Ruling

Indemnities for Displaced Workers Ordered by Board

By the United Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today wrote into orders unusual provisions to protect railway labor from loss through mergers.

The cases involved were the merger of the Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas Railway Co. and the Louisiana and Arkansas Railway Co.; and the leasing of the Texas branch of the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf Railway Co. by the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Co. The I. C. C. said it would approve them only if protection was provided displaced workers and those retained.

Provisions Detailed.

The labor provisions which the roads must accept to obtain I. C. C. sanction include:—

Employees displaced by the change must be given a dismissal allowance equivalent to 60 per cent of advance monthly salary for the previous year. Dismissal compensation would range from six months' pay to one year's experience, to sixty months' for fifteen years of employment.

The railroads would pay moving expenses of transferred employees, and guarantee them against losses because of home sales or breaking of leases.

Pay of retained employees from the absorbed roads should not be reduced for five years as a result of the merger or lease.

Mahaffie Dissents.

Commissioner Charles D. Mahaffie dissented sharply, asserting that it was "a bad and dangerous policy for a commission, such as this, to undertake to regulate matters of social welfare without clear statutory authority."

Such a policy," Mahaffie said, "can lead only to confusion and misunderstanding.

"I am unable to agree that affirmative action should be deferred pending the acceptance by applicants of the conditions sought to be imposed by the majority relating to the pay and expenses of employees.

Jurisdiction Assailed.

"As a commission we exercise authority delegated to us by a statute. Had Congress intended that we have jurisdiction over the compensation and expenses of railroad employees it easily could have been provided. In the absence of such a provision in specific language, I do not think it proper that we attempt, by construction, to regulate conditions of employment as an incident to the exercise of power that clearly is conferred on us.

"Other means have been, and are now being, employed by the federal government specifically to deal with the conditions of carrier employment. Our jurisdiction has not been changed."

A.F.L. Asked to Sift Charges of Peonage in Florida Camps

1939

Turpentine Workers Paid 50 Cents to $1 a Day and Forced to Buy All Necessities in Company Store at Prices Far Above Ordinary Retail Stores, Investigators Say.

By Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance.

TAMPA, Nov. 27.—Charges of virtual peonage in a Florida settlement of Negro turpentine workers, who are allegedly guarded against escape, were before the American Federation of Labor today.

A. Philip Randolph, Negro Harvard graduate and chief of the Pullman Porters' Union, in submitting a report on the community to the federation's convention, asked William Green, federation president to seek a formal investigation by Governor Dave Scholtz and the United States attorney. Peonage is a federal crime. Mr. Green did not indicate whether he would act.

Frank McCallister, white head of the Socialist party in Florida, wrote the report which Randolph read. It related incidents and information obtained November 15 on a visit to the community—thirty miles west of Jacksonville—by himself, Dr. C. F. Duncan, head of the Jacksonville Chapter of the Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People; a Negro insurance man and a Negro newspaper man.

Fifty-Two in One Classroom.

A teacher told the group that there were fifty-two children in one schoolroom, that a majority of the children came barefooted and that attendance fell off in winter because the pupils did not have enough clothes.

"The houses (if you can call them that) in which these people live are all owned by a turpentine operator," the report said.

Several turpentine workers talked with the investigators "after much persuasion," and they are "in constant fear of reprisals," the report said.

"They stated that all the Negro people in this community were held in slavery. None is allowed to leave the place. The owner has two stool-pigeons who . . . even slip under the shacks at night and listen in on the conversations.

"Any desire on the part of the inmates to escape is thwarted effectively by the realization of possible consequences. Men may suffer beatings, their very lives may be threatened if they attempt to leave. By a system of camps surrounding the community fleeing slaves are headed off.

"The turpentine workers are forced to toil from daylight until they no longer can see at night. For their labors they receive pay ranging from fifty cents per day to $1. A very few receive as much as $1.25 a day.

"They are forced to purchase their supplies at the commissary, where prices are almost double regular retail stores'. For example, white bacon, which can be bought in Tampa stores for fifteen cents per pound, costs twenty-five cents a pound in the commissary. Six pounds of plain flour cost forty cents in the commissary and the same grade can be bought for twenty-four cents at retail stores. When the wages of the turpentine workers are translated into purchasing power, it is easy to see that many of them are working for twenty-five cents a day.

Threaten to Hold Up Pay.

"One man spent $2 outside of the commissary a little while back and he was told that his pay would be held up until he purchased all his goods at the commissary."

An informer reported the investigators' presence to the commissary clerk, whereupon, since they "could see a small cluster of white men gathering," they left.

Announcing

FOURTEENTH ANNUAL SPRING DANCE

given by the

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

(THE PULLMAN PORTERS UNION)

at the beautiful

MANHATTAN ODD FELLOWS TEMPLE

105-111 EAST 106th STREET

New York City

THURSDAY NIGHT, MAY 18, 1939

●

Fess Finlay's Celebrated Orchestra

●

General Admission - - - - - 75 Cents

Boxes Seating 10 Persons - $5.00 Boxes Seating 8 Persons $4.00

Loges Seating 6 Persons - $3.00

●

Tickets for sale at

BROTHERHOOD HEADQUARTERS
Suite 301 — 217 West 125th Street
New York City - MOnument 2-5080

VISIT OUR HEADQUARTERS

OUR STUDY CLASS

OUR SINGING CLASS

GET ACQUAINTED WITH OUR GROUP

WAITING TO COVER THEIR TRAINS

POOL AND BILLIARDS A PASTIME

PULLMAN UNIT FOUND GUILTY IN LABOR ACT CASE

The Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing Company, unit of Pullman, Inc., was found guilty of violating the National Labor Relations Act in an intermediate report today, and ordered to reinstate and reimburse Victor Gandolfi, a stationary engineer discharged by the company March 5, 1938.

The finding, made by Trial Examiner William Webb and announced by G. L. Patterson, NLRB regional director here, stated that the company "resorted to the unprecedented system of surveillance of engineers by armed guards every few minutes during the day and night and required the engineers to make detailed reports of their every action during working hours, for the sole purpose of discouraging the engineers in their effort to bargain collectively through the medium of the Committee of Engineers."

The complaint against the company was brought by Gandolfi as an individual. Since the action, the Committee has become affiliated with the International Union of Operating Engineers, an A. F. of L.

1939

PATHFINDER

5 Cents a Copy | More Than a Million Weekly | $1.00 a Year

NEGROES—

Their Goal Is Equality in the Land of the Free

IN A certain democratic country, there is a minority race of 12,500,000 people. Nearly 1/10th of their country's population, they have only one representative of their race in the nation's legislature. Many of them are prohibited by law from voting. Few of them are admitted to responsible jobs. Their incomes average less than half those of the majority race. Most of their residential districts are slums.

This democratic country is the United States, and these underprivileged are Negroes. They are the nation's largest and most important racial minority. Last week, almost unnoticed by white citizens, they observed Negro History Week.

In meeting halls and school auditoriums, colored speakers stressed some outstanding facts: that the Negro has been in the New World nearly as long as its English colonizers; that he has adopted and enriched American culture in a creditably short space of time; but that he is still the social and economic inferior of the white man.

EPIC: It is not strange that Negroes annually should devote a week to their history. Because it helps Negroes to understand themselves better, colored educators have campaigned tirelessly to have the Afro-American folk epic taught in Negro schools. With its periods of migration, captivity and persecution, it is a remarkable story.

For the African ancestors of the American Negro, captivity and migration began simultaneously. In 1619, a Dutch sea captain brought to Jamestown, Va., "20 Negars" from the west coast of Africa. To till the tobacco fields of Virginia, thousands more followed them into slavery. After Eli Whitney invented the cotton gin in 1793, the center of the Negro population moved to the cotton fields of the deep South, and stayed there more than a century.

By 1790, every fifth person in the United States was a Negro. Although the Constitution forbade the importation of slaves after 1808, slavery continued to be the backbone of an agricultural system based on cheap labor. Economically, it was so different from northern industrialism that a great Civil war was fought over slavery. At its end in 1865, the Negro found himself free.

For 20 years afterward, Negroes in the South enjoyed unprecedented liberty. Eight states sent colored senators or representatives to Congress. Negroes controlled several state legislatures. The right to vote was extended to include Negroes; civil rights were given new legal protection; and provision was made for the education of Negroes. But the Reconstruction governments were corrupt, and the white electorate finally returned to power.

Negroes themselves were saved from sinking back nearly to their previous level of serfdom by the appearance of a powerful orator and spokesman. He was Booker T. Washington, slave-born founder of the Tuskegee Institute for Negro education in Alabama. To the Negro, he preached the usefulness of education and honest labor. To white men, he promised: "In all things that are purely social, we can be as separate as the fingers, yet one as the hand in all things essential to mutual progress."

International

Washington Was Their First Great Leader

Under Washington's urging, churches re-established long-lapsed missions to the Negro. White philanthropists like Julius Rosenwald donated funds to promote Negro education. The lot of the colored man was made easier, and Negroes still have for Booker T. Washington the same kind of reverence that American whites reserve for another Washington called George.

About the time the Negro Washington died in 1915, Negroes saw promise of a "second emancipation" in the industrial boom during the World war. Eagerly recruited by northern industry, they moved from southern farms to new occupations and better pay in the great cities of the north. Before their migration ended in about 1930, millions had made new homes.

BROWN AMERICA: Thus was created what some writers have called Brown America. It lies chiefly in the South, but has islands scattered through the urban areas of the middle west and north. Only about 125,000 Negroes live anywhere west of Missouri, and 90,000 of them are in California.

In a "black belt" which curves through substantial parts of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana, Negroes outnumber the white population. Georgia and Mississippi, with more than 1,000,000 apiece, have the most colored inhabi-

International

Crowded Harlem Is the Heart of the Biggest Negro Settlement in the Nation

tains. Together, the 13 southern states have a population of 9,375,000 Negroes.

As a result of industrial migration, some 3,000,000 Negroes live in the north. New York, with a colored population of 330,000 largely contained within the section of Harlem, is the nation's biggest Afro-American city. Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, New Orleans and St. Louis have well over 100,000 Negroes each.

TENTH MAN: Because the colored race comprises almost a 10th of the population of the United States, sociologists sometimes refer to the Negro as "the 10th man." As such, he is little known to most of the other nine. Yet there are 12,500,000 colored persons in the nation—black, brown and some so white that 10,000 pass over the color line every year to take up life as whites.

At the beginning of this captivity, White [illegible] to have [illegible] A new [illegible] mulat- [illegible] tic Pat- [illegible] was so impressed by them that he once introduced a bill in the Virginia Assembly offering a state bonus to children of mixed parentage.

Today, at least 20 and perhaps 80 per cent of American Negroes have the blood of white men in their veins. One anthropologist has calculated that as many as 40 per cent have more white than Negro blood. The physical traits of the Negro race—black skins, kinky hair, broad noses, thick lips and powerful physiques—are no longer so uniformly characteristic as they once were. After 300 years of evolution, the typical Afro-American is infinitesimally taller, slightly larger around the chest and somewhat thinner than the average American white.

Similar in physical dimensions, the Negro is widely supposed to be the mental inferior of the white. Intelligence tests, in fact, show that the mental attainments of the average colored student are far below those of the white one.

These tests, however, are so strongly influenced by factors of environment and training that psychologists do not consider them actual gauges of native intelligence. During the World war, for instance, examinations of enlisted men showed northern Negroes only slightly less advanced mentally than southern whites. Thus, there is an indication that the mental attainments of the Negro are directly dependent on his environment; potentially, he seems to be the intellectual equal of the white man.

BRICK WALL: In the paths of Negro progress, however, great obstacles remain. Chief of these is the color line. Composed of fear, prejudice and misunderstanding, it is almost as solid as a brick wall.

Race prejudice is strongest in the South among the so-called "poor whites," and in the north among low-salaried workers—both of whom com-

(Continued on page 21)

THE NATIONAL SCENE

President: "Dutch" Up

Those who have believed that the strengthening of the anti-New Deal faction in the 76th Congress would cause Franklin Roosevelt to accept it without a fight, had reason to think otherwise last week. For with stern words, a surprise request, and a sharp letter, he indicated that his "Dutch" was up against both Congress and individual Congressmen.

The stern words were directed at those Senators who had created an international stir over his foreign policy by reporting that he had "placed America's frontier in France." The report, he said bluntly, was "a deliberate lie" (see page 5). The request, making clear his displeasure with Congress, was that it immediately restore the $150,000,000 lopped from his original relief demand (see col. 3).

Coming in for strong censure in the letter—sent to Floyd H. Roberts of Virginia—were Senators Glass and Byrd of Virginia for engineering the Senate's overwhelming rejection of the President's appointment of Roberts to a Federal judgeship in Virginia.

As the principal spokesman against Roberts, Glass had charged: (1) that the President had given Governor Price of Virginia, an Administration supporter, the veto power over nominations for Federal posts made by Glass and Byrd, and (2) that the U. S. Attorney General had given no consideration to their recommendations for the judgeship, for which they had suggested two other men. "Neither of these statements," said the President flatly, "is true."

Principal reason why the Senate had rejected Roberts, however, was that Glass and Byrd had termed him "personally obnoxious." This appeal to "Senatorial courtesy," the President said, in effect vested "in individual Senators . . . the power of nomination," since it enabled them to squelch any nominee not to their liking, regardless of the nominee's qualifications. The Constitution, he pointed out, gave the President the power of nomination, and the right of veto belonged not to a "Senator or two Senators" but to the entire Senate.

Harris & Ewing

Roberts' Rejection Brought a Retort

Himself angry, the 81-year-old Glass challenged the President in an answering statement. He asserted not only that his original charges were true but added another: that the President was planning to "purge" Byrd in 1940 and himself later "should I live longer than the intriguers hope." In addition, he said the President had written to him reserving the right to consult "Nancy Astor, the Duchess of Windsor, the WPA, a Virginia moonshiner, Gov. Price or Charlie McCarthy" on Virginia appointments, but that none was consulted "except Price." Whether the President would reopen the issue with another anti-Glass appointment was not immediately apparent; at a press conference he said he had not thought about it.

Although the President's Congressional troubles attracted the greatest interest, he also dipped into foreign affairs by conferring with Mexican Ambassador Castillo Najera and Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles in connection with the controversy arising from Mexico's expropriation of American-owned oil lands. That the Administration was still not ready to take a definite stand was indicated in a subsequent statement by Najera. "The matter," he said, "is still between the oil companies and the Mexican government—not between the two governments" (see page 9).

Congress: Personalities

On the Congressional stage last week, the player, rather than the play, was the thing. A young Representative and an old Senator, a Virginia judge and a Wisconsin "radical," a lady Cabinet member and the President of the United States—such were the diverse personalities shaping the legislative drama.

Franklin Roosevelt, in a thoroughly characteristic move, sprung the week's big surprise over the still simmering issue of relief vs. economy. While slashing 150 million dollars from the WPA deficiency appropriation, Congress had sought to soften its frugality by suggesting that the President ask for more money "in case of emergency." Accordingly, Roosevelt signed the bill and then promptly accepted the invitation. In a pithy message, he told Congress:

Full maintenance of relief rolls till April 1 would leave WPA two alternatives after that date: (1) to discharge "abruptly" a million workers, a number that "cannot possibly be absorbed by private industry in time to prevent pete with Negro labor. In both regions, America's 4,000,000 employed Negroes have been kept in the lowest economic brackets.

(Continued from page 4)

About half of Negro workers are farm tenants or farm hands, kept by the color line from advancing into more gainful occupations. Another 30 per cent make up the largest servant class in America. When depression struck, Negroes were the first to lose their jobs. Today, fully 1,500,000 colored adults are unemployed. About one-third of colored families receive some form of government relief, as compared with one-fifth of white.

In the South, where economic competition between Negroes and whites is greatest, funds for Negro schools are skimped. All of the southern states have enacted property or residence qualifications to keep the Negro away from the ballot box; not much more than 10 per cent of southern Negroes ever go to the polls.

Poorly paid and poorly educated, the nation's "10th man" has low standards of living. In the South, like the white sharecroppers, Negroes live in shacks without screens, toilets or electric lights. In the cities, colored families are crowded together more densely than any other part of the population. Yet rents for Negroes are higher than for whites.

Partly because of these factors, the Negro crime rate is twice that of other Americans. Because of environment, also, the colored man is critically exposed to disease. On the average, he dies about 10 years sooner than the white man. The proportion of Negroes in the general population is slowly diminishing.

NICHE: Despite these handicaps, the Negro has carved himself a niche in America. Barred from most institutions, he patronizes colored theaters, restaurants, banks, insurance companies and stores. Negro-owned enterprises of this kind have existed since the Civil war. Compared with white, however, Negro-owned business is generally so inefficient and so meager in capital that it handles only a small part of the two billion dollars colored persons spend every year.

In literature, art and music, the Negro has had a tremendous influence on American life. On the plantations, slaves took twin solace for their servitude in religion and song. Out of the two grew the melodious spirituals. Out of other Negro music grew ragtime, then jazz.

Beginning in the war era and flowering most in the 1920s, moreover, there was a Negro renaissance, when colored novelists, playwrights and poets attracted wide attention. Young Langston Hughes had a play produced in New York; novelist Claude McKay's Home to Harlem was admired by critics. Last year, in nation-wide competition with white short story authors, Charles Wright, a WPA writer, won a first and a second prize.

Scurlock, Irwin & Langen, International

America's 12,500,000 Negroes Look to Jones, White and Randolph (l. to r.) for Leadership

To the stage, the Negro has contributed abundantly. A colored presentation of Macbeth was a sensation in the theater season of 1936. Negro actors, dancers and singers—like Ethel Waters, Josephine Baker and Bill Robinson, who taught Shirley Temple how to dance—are famous. On the concert stage, baritone Paul Robeson, once an All-American football end, and contralto Marion Anderson have two of the finest voices in America.

Perhaps even more by inspiration than by authorship, the Negro has enriched America's art and literature. The Afro-American has often been the subject for white creations, beginning perhaps with Stephen Foster's ballads and continuing through Mamba's Daughters, a play enjoying considerable success on Broadway this week.

To his cultural institutions, the Negro looks for leadership. About Baptist and Methodist churches, to which the Negro has belonged ever since before the Revolution, revolves much of colored social life.

For leadership in political and economic thought, the Negro also looks to his cultural institutions, and his men of culture—his educators, his

PILES

Don't Suffer Needlessly!

Try this Wonderful Treatment for Pile Suffering FREE!

Those discomforting symptoms of Piles — pain, itching or bleeding — may be treated privately and conveniently at home. Thousands are enthusiastic about this amazing Combination Treatment. Read the statement below:

Mr. Edw. L. Pangburn, Sr.

"I can never thank you enough. Before taking your treatment, I could not stoop to do my work. I could not walk without great discomfort. I have not noticed pain since taking your treatment."

EDW. L. PANGBURN, SR.
316 E. Pine St. Millville, N. J.

If you suffer from itching, bleeding or protruding piles, you may have a generous supply of this good treatment absolutely free for the asking. Don't delay; don't suffer needlessly. Mail this coupon RIGHT NOW!

FREE TRIAL COUPON. To prove all we claim, we will send you promptly in plain package, a generous supply of this treatment. Don't wait; mail coupon TODAY.

E. R. Page Co., Dept. 300-D4, Marshall, Mich.

Name.....
Address.....
City.....State.....

WA[redacted]
500 M[redacted]

A REVOLUTIONA[redacted] invented that cle[redacted] like magic. Also [redacted] rugs, etc. Ends clea[redacted] about it. Approved [redacted]

The inventor wants 500 men and women at once to help him introduce this strange chemical sponge. He offers to send samples ON TRIAL to the first person in each locality who writes him. No obligation. Get details. Be first—send in your name to THE KRISTEE CO., 846 BAR ST., AKRON, O.

PIPE SMOKERS

can have a cool, clear, dry, sweet smoke of all the tobacco. No clogging, no waste, no wet heel. Will last a life time. Send 25c. Will forward postpaid.
B. B. BROWN, 271 Fifth St., NEWARK, N. J.

There's a CRYING NEED for NEW Writers!

Leading magazines pay as high as 10c per word. Send your best short story with $1.00 for intelligent criticism and advice on revision. We always endeavor to find a ready market for your stories.
SHORT STORY WRITERS' GUILD
1614 N. Sherman Ave., CHICAGO, ILL.

15 DAYS' TRIAL

SEND ONLY 20 CENTS with name, age and address, and by return mail RECEIVE a set of 14 TRIAL GLASSES to select from to fit your eyes NOTHING MORE TO PAY until you can see perfectly far and near. Then the above Beautiful Style will cost you only $3.90, no more; other styles $1.95 and up.

We only handle High Grade Single Vision and DOUBLE VISION or KRYPTOK BIFOCAL toric lenses, ground into ONE SOLID PIECE of GLASS. DOCTOR H. E. BAKER, O.D., with over 30 years' experience, GUARANTEES to give you Perfect Fit or NO COST. Circular with latest styles and lowest prices FREE.

MODERN SPECTACLE CO., Dept. 92-N1
5125 Pensacola Ave., Chicago, Ill.

BOYS GIRLS MEN WOMEN Youth

Prize 'Get Acquainted' Contest. 131 other cash prizes which are given ... tion to each ... Prize winner.

Sta. 43 Paradise, Pa.

SKIN TROUBLE

FREE TRIAL If you have a skin trouble that (1) itches or burns, (2) oozes or scales, (3) gets better then worse, let us send you a FREE TEST of the one thing found best by our Medical Advisor, Dr. Cannaday, who has specialized on Eczema alone, for over 38 years, treating thousands. It is by far the best he has found for the above conditions, and is usually mild, clean and comforting, no more visible than water. You, too, may find your "first real night's rest." Write today, a postal will do. Satisfaction guaranteed.

DR. J. H. CANNADAY CO., 941 Park Square, Sedalia, Mo.

ACID STOMACH ULCERS

If you suffer from acid stomach, write today for FREE ... Co., Dept. ...

ASTHMA TREATMENT mailed on Free Trial. If satisfied, send $1; if not, it's Free. Write me for your treatment today.

W. K. STERLINE, 817 Ohio Ave, Sidney, Ohio

Given Away

10 lovely Pencils with 5 your Name in gold foil ... selling 4 boxes ... Salve at 25c ... Send No Money. ... MARYLAND.

FOR Too Much Acid
Read Our Offer DO THIS

Thousands report relief from Stiff Joints; Sore Muscles; Rheumatic Pains; Neuritis; Neuralgia.

Bladder weak? Kidney irritation? Up many times at night? "Worn out"? "Acid" stomach? "Catch cold" easily? Skin itchy? No "pep"? Nervous?

WANT A 75c BOTTLE?
(Regular Prescription Quantity)

For more than 46 years The Williams Treatment has been helping others to more comfortable days and restful nights.. YOU try it!

We will give uric acid sufferers who send this advertisement, home address and ten cents (stamps or coin) one full size 75c bottle (32 doses) of THE WILLIAMS TREATMENT and booklet with DIET and other helpful suggestions. No obligation. No C. O. D. Only one bottle given same person, family or address. Sold since 1892.

This adv't and 10c must be sent
THE DR. D. A. WILLIAMS COMPANY, Offer RF-12 East Hampton, Conn.

writers, and his 100 colleges and universities. Typically, three of the most prominent Negro leaders today are a teacher and two authors.

AMBITION: The ambition of each of these three men is to widen the niche occupied by the Afro-American. The first is Eugene Kinckle Jones, once a teacher in a Louisville high school. He is head of the National Urban League, founded in 1910 to help Negroes adjust themselves to city life. Composed of Negroes and civic-minded whites, it is now active in more than 40 cities. It helps Negroes with vocational training and occupational advice. More strikingly, it compels stores with Negro patronage to employ Negro workers, and promotes participation by Negroes in city government.

Second Negro leader, and the best-known to white men, is himself only 1/64th Negro. He is 45-year-old Walter White, writer and executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. He travels 25,000 miles a year presenting the views of the 1,000,000 white and Negro members of his Association. Briefly, his group wants an end to lynching in the South; improved education for the Negro; more voting by the Negro; and the end of economic discrimination against the Negro.

Third colored leader is Asa Philip Randolph. As editor of a Negro weekly, he early advocated the unionization of colored labor, despite the cold attitude of the A. F. of L. In 1925, he founded the International Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. In 1937, the 8,000 members of his union won pay increases amounting to $1,250,000 a year—a feat which made him, next to boxing champion Joe Louis, the Negro most admired by Negroes.

Today, Randolph is head of a new organization—the three-year-old National Negro Congress for coordinating the work of country-wide Negro groups. He is typical of the willingness of the colored man to accept new ideas. Unionized Negro laborers now belong almost exclusively to the C. I. O. Important in the 1936 elections, most voting Negroes supported the New Deal. Arthur Mitchell, only Negro Congressman, is a Chicago Democrat.

At the present time, the Negro is progressing, with the help and understanding of whites, as he has done ever since his first arrival in America. Negro schools in the South are improving from year to year. A substantial minority of Negroes do not live in slums, nor do they receive mere subsistence wages or less.

Even after remarkable advancement, however, the Afro-American is still part of a submerged race. His leaders are convinced that not until the Negro can be as well educated as the white; not until he can vote as freely; and not until he can work beside and receive the same consideration as the white, will he receive his just due as a human being. That the bettering of the Negro would mean the betterment of the nation and of all races within it, they think, is obvious.

PASTIME, SMILES

Brain Teaser

The following was contributed by Albert E. Schaefer of St. Louis, Mo.: A neighborhood movie proprietor decided to give a bargain show with prices to be five cents for men, two cents for ladies and one mill for children. At the close of business he found his gross receipts to be $1 and that exactly 100 persons had attended his bargain offering. How many men, ladies and children attended the show? Answer next week.

Answer to Last Week's—The bouncing ball will have traveled 3,100 feet before coming to rest.

Smiles

Boogy—Do any of the good things you hope for come to pass?

Woogy—They all come to pass; but they come and pass so swiftly I can't grab any of 'em.

Tweedlepunch—It takes some brains to succeed in high society.

Defuniak—Why? You always seem to get on well enough.

Farmer Goober—I believe a horse understands more than a dog.

Farmer Brokaw—I don't.

Farmer Goober—Well, I wouldn't tell that to everybody.

Surveyor—What is your husband's average income?

Mrs. Sharp—Oh, about one a. m.

Scallop—When Fanny married Nathan she called him the light of her life.

Stingo—Did she?

Scallop—Yes, and evidently she meant it, for he's never allowed to go out.

Pahson—Bruddah Pick, yo' been fightin', I hears.

Pick—Yass, pahson, Ah wuz.

Pahson—Doan yo' 'member whut de good book sez 'bout turnin' de odder cheek?

Pick—Yass, pahson, but he hit me on mah nose, an' Ah's only got one.

SAN ANTONIO REGISTER

RIGHT • JUSTICE • PROGRESS

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1939

Taken by Death

WILLIAM SMALLWOOD, a life-long resident of San Antonio, and pioneer and fearless worker in the interest of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, who died Wednesday afternoon, following an illness of five months.

Smallwood served as secretary-treasurer of the San Antonio branch of the brotherhood for more than 14 years. He was also president of the San Antonio council of the National Negro Congress, and president of the Negro Voters League of Bexar county.

Funeral rites will be conducted tomorrow afternoon—Saturday, September 16—from St. Paul M.E. church, at three o'clock, the Rev. Dr. G. A. Deslandes officiating.

Wm. Smallwood Is Taken by Death

1939

WEDNESDAY afternoon, September 13, death cut down one of San Antonio's most colorful and widely known figures, when William Smallwood, active in civic, labor, and political circles, succumbed, at his home, 517 North Centre street, to an illness he had suffered some five months. The decedent had been confined to bed from the ninth of April until August 9, when he seemed to show decided improvement, and was allowed to leave the sick bed. He suffered a relapse on September 1, from which he was unable to rally. The end came at three o'clock.

Smallwood is probably best known for his untiring, militant, fearless efforts in behalf of the organization of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, at a time when most porters—fearful of losing their jobs—were afraid to admit affiliation with, or sympathy for, the struggling union. Smallwood was in the employ of the Pullman company for 21 years, being discharged in 1929 because of his courageous activities in behalf of the brotherhood. For more than 14 years the decedent served the San Antonio division of the brotherhood as secretary-treasurer.

Smallwood's efforts in the development of the organization brought him national attention.

At the time of his death, Smallwood was president of the San Antonio council of the National Negro congress, and president of the Negro Voters League of Bexar county. He was particularly efficacious in developing the local council of the National Negro Congress from a weak, ineffective organization to its present position of being one of the most powerful bodies in Bexar county.

A native of San Antonio, Smallwood was born here 59 years ago, February 11, 1880, was educated here, and had lived in San Antonio all his life, throughout which he took a foremost part in all activities for Race and community progressiveness, and for economic freedom and development for the Negro.

On April 15, 1903, Smallwood and Miss Willie Morrison, of Victoria, were married, the ceremonies being performed in Cuero, Texas. One child, a daughter, resulted from this union.

The decedent was a member of St. Paul M. E. church, from which final rites will be conducted tomorrow (Saturday, September 16) afternoon, at three o'clock, the Rev. Dr. G. A. Deslandes officiating, Sutton and Sutton Funeral home in charge. Services will be under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

Surviving are—widow, Mrs. Willie Smallwood; one daughter, Miss Geraldine Smallwood; three brothers, James and Abraham Smallwood, of San Antonio, and Alfred Smallwood of Los Angeles, California; one sister, Mrs. L. A. Alexander of San Antonio, and other relatives.

In The Shadow

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our many friends for their sympathetic thoughts, cards, telegrams and beautiful floral offerings during the illness and death of our husband, father and brother, William Smallwood, who departed this life September 13, 1939. We especially thank Rev. G. A. Deslandes for his words of consolation and the various organizations for their consoling remarks and the Sutton and Sutton funeral directors for their efficient and splendid service.

Mrs. W. Smallwood, widow.
Geraldine Smallwood, daughter.
Mrs. Lenora Alexander, sister.
James, Alfred, Abraham, Smallwood, brothers.
And other relatives.

THE OMAHA STAR

Dedicated to the Service of the People That No Good Cause Shall Lack a Champion, and That Evil Shall Not Thrive Unopposed

THE OMAHA STAR, OMAHA, NEBRASKA, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1939

Vol. II, No. 11

Price 5 cents

Renowned Labor Leader To Speak Here Thursday

NOTICE

Don't forget the Annual Charity Ball sponsored by the Elks Monday evening, December 4, at the Rainbow Ball Room.

NOTICE

The N A A C P will sponsor its Annual Minstrel Show at the Theatre tonight, Saturday, December 2, at 11:45 P. M.

Mass Meeting Orator

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

For Twelve Years Made History Through Sacrifice for His Race

Unfaltering Fight Climaxed with an Increase In Wages of $2,000,000 Annually

A. Phillip Randolph, who is to be presented as the principle speaker by the Omaha Division of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters Thursday evening, December 7th at a mammoth mass meeting to be held at Zion Baptist Church, 2215 Grant Street, stepped from the position of Editor, of the Messenger Magazine in 1925, destined to become the greatest labor leader in the history of our country.

Meeting with about a half dozen porters in the city of New York in 1925, plans were laid by this small group of crusaders, with better working conditions and higher wages as their goal. Realizing that confronting them in the Pullman Company was literally the Rock of Gibraltar, they sought to put their best foot forward with that in mind. They chose A. Philip Randolph, at that time a young militant editor, to lead them in what developed to have been a 12 year struggle, climaxing in 1937 in victory, and bringing to the coffers of black America, an increase in wages of $2,000,000 annually. Encroached in this history-making contract signed by the Pullman Company, was an all important clause calling for better working conditions, all of which played a great part in raising the moral of approximately 8,020 porters thruout the world.

Mr. Randolph is recognized as one of the foremost orators of America, so much so that he was selected to speak on a program with ex-Presidnt Herbert Hoover and Secretary of State Kellog in 1925 as the representative of the Negro people at the opening of the Susquicentennial at Philadelphia, Pa. His appearance is constantly being sought by colleges and universities from coast to coast with requests to speak on subjects of economics, politics, sociology and labor, all of which he is a student of rare ability.

Appearing on this same program as a speaker will be the Vice-President, Mr. M. P. Webster, who has proven to be a most valuable assistant in the fight which has and is still being carried on in behalf of the Negro race.

Music will be furnished by the St. John A. N. E. church choir, under the direction of Mrs. Pearl Gibson. The meeting will start promptly at 8:00 P. M. You are urged to come early if you wish to get a seat, as an overflow crowd is expected.

Saturday, July 29, 1939

Voluntary Health Insurance Aids Many Wage Earners and Farmers

Industrial Workers Get Complete Medical Care for $3 Per Month; Hospitalization for An Entire Family Costs Farmers $25 Per Year.

By A. F. of L. Weekly News Service.

Editor's Note.—This is the fifth of a series of six articles on "The Wage Earners' Stake in Health," sponsored by the Educational Service of the Workers Education Bureau of America, 1440 Broadway, New York, N. Y. The articles have been carefully scrutinized by Dr. Michael M. Davis, Chairman of the Committee on Research in Medical Economics, for their accuracy.

By CONSTANCE KENT

In Baton Rouge, Louisiana, there are about 2000 wage earners and their families who do not have to worry about oncoming and unexpected sickness costs because they pay for them every year in advance.

Fourteen years ago, the white employes of the Baton Rouge plant of the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, set up their medical service organization, the "Stanocola Employes Medical and Hospital Association." Since then they have built a clinic with laboratory and other facilities; they have selected their own medical staff by vote of their membership from among the physicians practicing in Baton Rouge. Three dollars per month, per member, provides almost complete medical care (except dentistry) for all these wage earners and their families.

Managed by Workers

No employe of the company is compelled to join, but about eighty per cent of the white employes have done so. The monthly payments are made through payroll deductions, the company cooperating in this respect; but the workers manage the Association. There are seven doctors, including five general practitioners, a surgeon and a specialist in eye, ear, nose and throat work. These doctors spend daily time at the clinic and also look after patients at home or in any one of the local hospitals where any member or one of his family may go when hospital care is recommended by one of the physicians. The only limit is that not more than $250 may be spent for any single illness.

Voluntary Plans Benefit Millions

The Stanocola Association has weathered the depression and the original opposition of the local medical society. This is one of many voluntary health insurance plans organized by or for wage earners and their families. About two and one-half million people now secure their medical care in this way, although many of the plans are not as complete or as satisfactory as the one at Baton Rouge. Most of the industrial plans are in railroads, lumbering and mining. Some of these have been running for many years. More lately, organizations of wage earners or of consumers in several cities have started plans of voluntary health insurance, selecting their doctors or cooperating with an already organized group of doctors. Examples are in Los Angeles, Chicago, Milwaukee, Washington, D. C., and elsewhere.

Farmers Operate Their Own Hospital

In Western Oklahoma the farmers have likewise set up voluntary health insurance for themselves. Six years ago, one of the local physicians started the idea with several cooperatively-minded farm people. Two thousand farm families have subscribed $50 apiece to set their plan under way. They have built their own hospital in Elk City, have a staff of doctors and have twice enlarged the hospital since it was started. Some members live as far as fifty miles away, but most are within a few miles of the center. Their organization is known as the Farmers Union Cooperative Hospital Association. It is not for profit. Each member is a stockholder with one vote—no more. They elect a board of five directors who manage the Association's affairs, and who employ a physician director for the medical staff, and a business manager for the hospital.

What does it cost? A member without dependents pays $12 a year. With one dependent, the rate is $18. For a whole family, no matter how large, the annual charge is $25.

Home Medical Service Provided

What do they get for their money? Members can get all medical service they need from the doctors at the hospital. If they need it at home they must pay $1.50 for call, plus 25 cents per mile one way. If an ambulance is needed, it will be sent to the house for $1 plus 10 cents a mile one way. If they must stay in the hospital for a serious sickness or an operation, they are charged $1 per day for room, board and general nursing in the hospital up to 30 days for any one sickness, $2 per day thereafter.

Scope of Hospital Service

A charge is made for anaesthetics and operating room supplies. No extra charge is made for consultations, physical or laboratory examinations, surgical operations, or obstetrical care. Private nursing is provided for three days in the hospital without extra charge on recommendation of the attending physician. Dental examinations, X-rays, and extractions are free. There are eight physicians on the staff and two dentists.

Non-members who live in the locality may use the service of the doctors and hospitals, but must pay the usual fees charged by other physicians in the county. The local medical society and the State Medical Society of Oklahoma have fought the Farmers Cooperative Hospital Association, but without success. The Association is now building an enlargement to its hospital.

A number of other farmers' cooperatives are now trying to work out medical-care insurance plans of their own.

Reprinted from
THE AMERICAN FEDERATIONIST
August, 1939

THE CRISIS OF NEGRO RAILROAD WORKERS*

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
International President of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

Problem

THE first and primary problem of the railroad workers today, black and white, is the loss of jobs.

What are the causes?

The causes may be listed as follows:

1. Reduced traffic volume of goods for more than seven years.
2. Reduced number of passengers carried.

These causes, however, are effects of deeper causes, namely,

(a) The business and industrial depression.

(b) Technological revolution or the introduction of labor-saving devices, such as high-powered locomotives and long trains.

(c) Consolidations, mergers, reorganizations and bankers' manipulation of railroad properties, stocks and bonds.

(d) Competition by other modes of transportation which has the advantage of less government regulation.

It is a commonplace fact that Negro railroad workers are victims of the general conditions that affect all railroad workers, and they must share in the general program of which all railroad workers are a part, to find and apply a remedy.

Loss of Jobs

A word, now, about the main problem—the loss of jobs.

This problem looms up in the form of a million jobs in the last twenty years. While there are no accurate figures indicating the number of Negroes that have lost jobs, roughly speaking, thirty or more years ago, there were probably more than a quarter of a million (250,000) Negro railroad workers in the railroad industry. Today, there are probably a hundred and fifty thousand, more or less, now at work on steam railroads. This means that some 100,000 jobs on railroads passed out of the hands of black workers in the last quarter of a century or more.

When one considers the fact that the Negro is a marginal worker in American industry, being the last hired and the first fired, the loss of one hundred thousand jobs is one of the Negro's major economic blows.

Stating this problem in the form of the computation of wage loss to Negro railroad workers, we have the staggering figure of one billion dollars, if 100,000 Negro railroad workers are only allowed an average of $500 a year for twenty years.

Put in more understandable terms, the probable loss in wages to this group of Negro workers is ten times greater, without a doubt, than the total amount of money in charity and philanthropy that has been contributed to the Negro people for education, churches and hospitals since the Civil War to the present time.

* An address before the National Conference of Negro Railroad Workers which met in Washington, D. C., at the Twelfth Street Branch Y. M. C. A., May 19 and 20, 1939.

But, of course, Negroes are not the only workers who have lost jobs on the railroads. White workers have lost jobs, too. And the general causes for the loss of jobs of both black and white railroad workers are the same.

Effects of the Loss of Jobs

In the large, the loss of jobs among black and white workers creates similar general social effects, such as undernutrition and malnutrition, broken families, child delinquency, more frequent illness, lower cultural standards, increase in criminal tendencies, and the vanishing of social hope and individual ambitions.

But in addition to the devastating moral and economic effects of the loss of jobs upon any workers, there is an additional demoralizing condition that arises out of the industrial fact that Negro workers are not only the last hired and first fired, but large sections of the race are confined to blind-alley jobs, where there is no opportunity for promotion, such as Pullman porters, dining-car employees, train porters, brakemen, firemen, hostlers, etc.

In fact, Negro workers are frozen into their class of employment on the railroad, and, in very truth, in most industries they are now in.

Blind-Alley Jobs

Concretely speaking, Pullman porters may run in charge of one car at a small differential in wages above the standard rate, but they are not promoted to the rank of conductors.

Dining-car waiters and cooks may run in charge at a small differential above the standard rate of pay for a waiter, but they don't become stewards. The reason is that these jobs —conductors and stewards—are considered, traditionally, as the white men's jobs.

Permit me to pause here to state that Negro sleeping-car porters and waiters have nothing to gain by running in charge except an inequitable differential in wages. These in-charge jobs only serve to displace a Pullman conductor or dining-car steward, thereby bestowing an unfair economic advantage to the carriers. This does not mean that Pullman porters should not desire to be promoted to conductors or that dining-car waiters should not aspire to become dining-car stewards. This is their right. But it does mean that these hyphenated occupational honors and advantages are more apparent than real.

The same thing applies to red caps. Negro red caps do not rise to the position of station master because station masters are supposed to be white.

Train porters are also blind-alley workers, although they perform the same work as brakemen, by carrying switch keys, coupling and uncoupling cars, fastening hose, attending to hot boxes, taking train orders, in addition to the porters' work of keeping the coaches clean and assisting passengers with bags, etc., they do not travel up to the status of brakemen.

While train porters do the same work as brakemen, they only draw the same wages in exceptional cases, such as on the Santa Fe Railroad. Generally, train porters draw from one-half to two-thirds of the wages paid to brakemen.

Train porters perform the work of two jobs, a brakeman and porter for pay which is less than the wages of one job—the brakeman's. And, again, it is well to stress that train porters are never granted the normal right of promotion to the next higher rank, the job of brakeman. The rule is, once a train porter, always a train porter, if he is not forced downward into a lower rank of chair car porter with lower pay, performing few of the duties of the brakeman, being deprived of switch keys.

The few Negro brakemen that now remain on railroads, if they don't receive lower pay, are without the right of promotion to the status of train conductors, although practically all train conductors were once brakemen or some form of trainman.

Negro firemen, though competent to drive the engine as an engineer, must remain firemen, if they are not sacrificed and displaced as a result of the introduction of automatic stokers on steam engines, and the use of Diesel or a different kind of motor power. Firemen are normally subject to promotion to engineers. White firemen are promoted to the jobs of engineers. Engineers are always former firemen. The job of fireman is the logical vocational stepping stone to the job of engineer. A fireman normally evolves into an engineer. The knowledge and experience of the former are essential to development of a necessary type of knowledge, skill and experience of the latter. But the knowledge, skill and experience of a black fireman find no reward in promotion, but he is constantly harassed and beset by fear of demotion or displacement.

While the jobs of brakeman and fireman are not blind alley in nature, they are tantamount to the same thing when held by Negroes.

In the shops, Negro workers have been reduced from boilermakers' jobs once held, if but in rare instances, to boilermakers' helpers and from boilermakers' helpers to common laborers.

Although this steady declension in industrial status, with consequent correlative pay-roll reduction, applies to white and black workers alike as a result of technological changes, the supersession and abolition of skills, the liquidation of the Negro's vocational status as skilled worker is partly ascribable to the operation of race and color discrimination.

Displacement of Negro Railroad Workers

In the main, the jobs of train porters were created by the desire of railroad managements to reduce costs of operation, since train porters receive less pay than brakemen. But with the loss of jobs by white brakemen, pressure is being brought to bear upon carriers to displace train porters and put white brakemen on the head end of the trains, and permit them to perform both the job of the brakeman and porter. Nor are Negro railroad workers alone required to perform compound jobs. This year on the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, a Negro train porter was displaced and a white brakeman took over the job as a brakeman-porter, performing both the work of the brakeman and the porter. This white brakeman got off the extra board of the brakemen's roster and bid in on the roster of train porters for work, but train porters are not allowed to bid in on the brakemen's roster for jobs. In other words, the seniority rights of Negro train porters are sharply limited in application, whereas the seniority rights of white trainmen are unlimited.

Negro switchmen are steadily losing their hiring rights. To cite two instances. In the terminal yards at Houston, Texas, while Negro switchmen were once holding a strategic position, they have now lost 85 per cent of their hiring rights, which is steadily making for the eventual elimination of the Negro switchmen from this terminal. And this condition in Houston is practically typical of the trend with Negro railroad workers throughout the country. In Florence, S. C., Negro switchmen once held 100 per cent of the jobs. Today there are no Negro switchmen at all in the terminal.

It is a matter of common knowledge that Negro firemen are continuously facing a drastic abridgement of their hiring rights on all roads. The percentage of Negro firemen is going down and of white firemen, going up. On the Atlantic Coast Line and Seaboard Air Line, Negro firemen are supposed to have 49 per cent of the jobs. No Negro firemen, however, know whether they have them or not.

Negro railroad workers are being dispossessed of their hiring rights by wage agreements and extra agreements, and confidential memoranda of understanding between the carriers and some of the standard railroad unions. For certain concessions made by the standard railway unions to the railway companies, the companies, in turn, make the concession of reducing the hiring rights of Negro railroad workers, such as firemen, switchmen, brakemen, etc., to the railroad unions.

The carriers find themselves incapable of resisting the tremendous power of the standard railroad unions, especially in view of the absence of effective organization on the part of the Negro firemen, switchmen and brakemen, etc.

Such are the problems of the Negro railroad workers. If they are dark, discouraging, and, in certain aspects, unique, they are so because they are conditioned by the prejudice of color and race. But, fundamentally, let us ever bear in mind, fellow brothers, that the problem of the white railroad workers is the problem of the black railroad workers. The task of the black railroad workers is the same as the task of the white railroad workers, except more difficult and perplexing and distressing because of the addition of the difficulties and problems of race to the problems and difficulties of class.

Causes

What are the causes?

It is eminently timely, proper and fitting that this conference address itself to the causes of the problems of the railroads and their employees since before one can prescribe a proper cure of a malady, he must diagnose its cause.

Now, the stakes of the 100,000 or more Negro railroad workers in the rehabilitation, stability and healthy growth of the 26-billion-dollar railroad industry are great and significant. Negro workers are interested in and deeply concerned about both immediate and ultimate causes of the present plight of the country's railroads. The fact that one-third of the nation's railroads are in bankruptcy and another third on the verge of bankruptcy, pressing hard upon the heels of receiverships, is a matter of primary and fundamental importance to black and white workers who have invested their labor and lives in the building up of the transportation arteries of the United States of America.

A word now as to the immediate reasons for the existing industrial and financial position of the railroads.

Reduction in Car Loadings

(a) A reduction in car loadings and number of passengers carried, flows directly from generally bad business conditions over a period of seven or more years. These unfavorable business years grew out of the general financial and industrial depression which is a sort of periodic and cyclical phenomenon considered to be inherent in our present profit system. These periods of business depression and recession are marked by drastic declines in purchasing power of the masses of the people resulting from unemployment. Unemployment in turn is increased and accentuated by the continuous curtailment of purchasing power. The closing of factories, mills and mines and other phases of our industrial machinery, the introduction of various forms of relief to assuage and ameliorate these periods of economic stress and strain, naturally have their effect upon every major industry including the railway systems.

Technological Revolution

(b) In addition to widespread business upset and uncertainty, which are reflected in all forms of transportation, a veritable industrial revolution in the form of the introduction of labor-saving devices on railroads, such as high-powered locomotives, has been going on. Whereas a quarter of a century ago, trains with more than thirty cars were a rarity, today not infrequently a hundred and fifty cars may be seen hauled by these giant engines. Despite this enormous increase in cars hauled, the operating crew of railroad workers has remained static. A few decades ago, some twenty-five or thirty men would have been required to operate the movement of so large a number of cars. But today, a crew of four, not even a full crew, handles the longest trains.

Of course the march of the technological revolution which changes the processes of our industrial life without regard to the human element can not be halted. Nor do the workers seek to set a limitation upon the refinement and elaboration of our modern industrial mechanism, except that they are concerned that their interests as workers be not sacrificed for the profit and well-being of absentee stock and bond holders and bankers that manipulate the capital structures of railroad properties.

Consolidations and Mergers or Business Revolution

(c) Even some of our liberal economists and government leaders seem ready to accept the formulae of the captains of the railroad industry which are designed to institute a wholesale wave of consolidations and mergers of railroad properties throughout the nation as a panacea for the sickness of this industry. Little thought is given to the fact that consolidations and mergers are certain to work irreparable hardships in the form of displacements upon railway employees. The business argument that duplication of service in existing roadbeds and terminals and shops is uneconomic and plays havoc with the ability of the roads to earn a necessary return upon invested capital leaves wholly out of consideration the fact that the railroad workers who have invested their labor and lives in this industry are also entitled to a proper return in the form of wages that are not only adequate but continuous. Any system for the rehabilitation of the railway properties which throws thousands of railway workers upon the human scrap heap, in the interest of a callous principle of profit and efficiency, is both unsound and unworkable.

Albeit, Negro workers not only face this menace of displacement as a result of a drive for the economic sufficiency of railroad companies, but in addition are the victims of the operation of a blind-alley vocational set up, together with an unequal competition from the powerful standard railroad unions that deny them membership because of race and color.

Competition with Railroads by Other Modes of Transportation

(d) Committees appointed by President Roosevelt and the Interstate Commerce Commission have consistently suggested the unequal competition between the railways and other modes of transportation such as the highways and waterways. The claim is set forth that the highways and waterways mode of transporting goods represent unfair competitors of railroads since there is not equal regulation by government agencies of waterways and highways transportation with the consequent impost of tax burdens. It is also claimed that these forms of transportation have inordinately benefited from government subsidies. Undoubtedly, this is true and plays no little part in conditioning the railroad enterprise.

Overfinanciering

(e) Probably one of the most outstanding causal factors of the present debilitated condition of American railways is overcapitalization and the reckless rigging of capital structures without regard either to the interest of stockholders, the workers or the traveling public. Bankers, not industrial railway managers, have bandied with railroads like pawns upon a checkerboard. Who has not heard of the amazingly fanciful financial manipulations of railway properties by the Van Swerigen brothers? Theirs was the hapless business of building financial, instead of industrial, railroad structures. Physical properties and workers were only important as they served as forms around which astronomical financial operations could be projected.

Remedies

While the analysis of causes of the present status of the railroads and the precarious position of railway workers, black and white, is necessary in order that effective remedies may be applied, the problem of remedies is of vast and surpassing importance as well as difficult and perplexing. The application of remedies is important to the workers both from the point of view of the business stability and progress of railroads and the security of jobs for the employees. Unless the railway industry is healthy and continues to grow, it offers a future for the workers which is dark and forbidding. Railroads must make money to provide employment for railway wage-earners and railway wage-earners must have employment if the railway industry is to preserve its health and go forward.

Many recommendations have been made to cure the malady of railroads. One basic remedy is better business. Congressman Lee E. Geyer of California suggests a four-point plan:

1. Improvement of railroad properties.
2. Elimination of grade crossings.
3. Better conditions for railroad workers.
4. New methods of financing and control.

These are basic immediate remedies. The execution of this plan, however, is the rub. Well did he state that the need for greatly increased railroad expenditures for rehabilitation work and equipment, repairs and maintenance, both for the sake of the railroads and for the good of the whole national economy, has been recognized repeatedly by the various government bodies which have been investigating the railroad situation in recent months. He continued that the focus of attention of railroad managements in recent years has been almost exclusively on an attempt to maintain payment of their capital charges at all cost. In pursuit of this policy, railroad management has laid off a million or more of their employees in the past years. It has attempted to cut wages, it has increased freight and passenger rates, it has drastically curtailed capital expenditures for maintenance work and for needed equipment and supplies. It has gravely neglected the maintenance of its physical properties. This is a sound and correct indictment of the management of the railroad industry of the nation.

Government Ownership

While, undoubtedly, the elimination of grade crossings and the inauguration of a general rehabilitation program on railroads will have a beneficent effect by way of the revival of this important industry, there seem to be numerous economic signs that the only eventual solution of the problem of the railroad industry is government ownership. Under government control, the public, the employees and expert and technical railroad management would contribute their coordinated intelligences and experiences to the stability and progressive well-being of this enterprise. Although this remedy may be largely in the ultimate, it has an important bearing upon the immediate proposals for the solution of the railroad problem. Railroads have long since ceased to be pure and simple private properties. They are properties public in nature. Even now they require government regulation in the interest of sound public policy. The Interstate Commerce Commission determines freight and passenger rates and myriad other conditions essential to the operation of American railways. Now, the government, if railroads are to be brought back to life and taken out of the hands of receiverships and moved back from the precipice of bankruptcy, must pour millions of money into them for their rehabilitation. Federal loans are now being made and must continue to be made to the railroads. These loans are the people's money. They must be properly handled. Rigid guarantees should be assured that they will be employed for the rebuilding of the physical railroads and not for the payment of fixed charges and dividends such as has been the case in the past.

From the point of view of the workers, government ownership is of paramount importance. It offers greater job security and less higgling over wage adjustments. The human element is recognized and accepted. Negro workers, especially, can expect greater opportunities for job placement as well as for promotion.

Expert and technical managerial supervisors of railroads under government ownership could look forward to the future with greater hope. The results of science and talent in effecting the advancement and development of the railroads would not be reflected in the concentration of profits into the hands of the few financial manipulators, but would be distributed among the workers and the public in higher wages and better service at lower rates.

Organization—Real Remedy

But it were well that it be understood that of all the remedies for the ills of the railroad workers, there is none as fundamental as the remedy of organization, bona-fide trade-union organization.

Even though the water be squeezed out of the capitalization of America's railroad properties and a sound and scientific principle of valuation be adopted; even if new capital is put into the rehabilitation of the transportation system, and bankers' control is eliminated; yes, even if government ownership is established over railroads, the solution of the problems of the railroad workers, black or white, will not have been effected without the selforganization of the railroad employees into legitimate trade unions, national in scope.

No type of legislation is a substitute for labor organization. The Government does not possess the power or the will to do for the railroad workers that which they must do for themselves. The Government can not give the railroad workers, black or white, freedom. It must be won. The Government can not bestow justice upon the railroad workers. They must exact it themselves. "How can this be done?" comes the query. The answer is, "Only through organization."

Railroad Labor and Legislation

Legislation sets forth and defines rights to which railroad workers are entitled, such as exists in the Railway Labor Act, but the workers can not secure, exercise or enjoy them unless they organize.

Neither the President of the United States, the Congress nor the Courts can win Labor's battles for it. Labor must win them itself.

But this does not mean that the workers should not fight to secure the enactment of labor and social legislation that is favorable to the workers. Not at all. More and more, our complex industrial and business order renders it necessary that the workers work for the adoption of certain forms of legislation to protect and safeguard their rights from invasion and abridgment by the powerful reactionary forces of the country. For instance, it was labor, organized labor, if you will, that placed the Railway Labor Act, the National Labor Relations Act, the Railroad Retirement Act, the Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act, and various state workmen's compensation laws on the statute books. The laws definitely set forth certain rights of the workers, such as self-organization, the selection and designation of representatives of their own choosing without interference, intimidation or coercion and collective bargaining. But these laws do not execute themselves. They must be set into motion by parties that seek benefits under them. This can best be done by organized groups. In fact, the Railway Labor Act and the National Labor Relations Act were not designed to serve the interests of individuals, except as members of organized bodies. The process and task of utilizing these Acts are too complicated and expensive for individual workers.

Nor do the railway carriers act alone under the aforementioned labor laws. They function through organized bodies, such as the Association of Railway Executives. This fact proves that the railway workers, black and white, do not only need organization into bona-fide labor unions, but their unions need organization into larger federated bodies such as the American Federation of Labor, the Association of Railway Labor Executives and the Railway Employees' Department of the A. F. of L.

Not only is it difficult and practically futile for individual railroad workers to act alone, but it is no little problem for individual unions to act alone. Verily, we are not only living in an age of organization, but an age of organizations' organization, such as the American Federation of Labor, the National Manufacturers Association and the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Negro railroad workers, especially, must sense this fact. Organization is their only hope and salvation. Either they band themselves into powerful labor organizations, national in scope, or they perish.

Negro Railroad Organizations

What is the present status of Negro Railroad Workers' organizations. The story is pathetic.

Exclusive of the sleeping car porters, dining car employees and red caps, I am willing to hazard the statement that there are not many more than 500 Negro railroad workers of the 100,000 or more who pay dues regularly into any organization. Yet there are numerous organizations of Negro railroad workers, such as many and sundry federal labor unions that have a high mortality rate and a variety of independent groups.

These organizations are isolated, distinct and unrelated. They are small, weak and helpless. They lack both numbers and money of any consequence. They are not much more effective than company unions. Their usual policy is to go along with the railway managements, because they have no power. They mean well, but they are ineffective. Some of these Negro railroad organizations have official staffs much more imposing than their membership. Most of them are not even aware of the existing body of railroad legislation or government agencies that might serve them. The rights of their small membership are ignored and trampled upon, because they can not fight.

Price of Organization

While in San Antonio recently, in a conference of train porters, the fact was brought out that not a member of a certain train porters' union was paying dues, including even the secretary and other officials. This condition is fairly typical of the condition of Negro railroad workers' organizations.

Is there any wonder that Negro railroad workers are gradually disappearing from the railroad industry?

White railroad workers have spent millions to build up powerful trade unions to protect their rights. Can Negro railroad workers protect their rights and do less than organize, fight and pay the price in money and sacrifice? If white railroad workers must organize and fight to get their rights from railroads that are owned and controlled by persons who are white, how can Negro railroad workers expect to secure justice unless they organize and fight when Negroes are not liked anyway, because of color and race?

But Negro workers on the railroads and in other industries have been discouraged from organizing by Negro leadership on the grounds that they may be displaced, if they fight and organize, since they are the victims of race prejudice. And if they have not counseled timidity on the part of Negro workers at all times, they have told Negro workers to stay out of the American Federation of Labor, because, as they say, Negro workers are discriminated against. Here is a contradiction, for if Negro workers are discriminated against and barred from joining the A. F. of L., why advise them to remain out? Apparently, discrimination would keep them out.

However, let me hasten to add that I do not apologize for the race discrimination in certain international and national unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. But lest emotion and not reason sway our judgments, it is well to state, in the interest of the truth, that the American Federation of Labor does not itself discriminate against Negro workers. The A. F. of L. proper does not turn down the membership of Negro workers. If Negro workers are denied the right to join a national or international union governing the industry in which Negro workers are employed, the American Federation of Labor has sought to organize these Negro workers into federal labor unions. Of course, these federal labor unions are not as effective as national or international unions, but they do serve to bring the Negro workers into the fold of organized labor where they may fight for their rights.

Race and Class

It is important to point out here that the Negro workers' place, at the bottom rung of the industrial ladder in the railroad and other industries, is not due solely to the fact of race and color. Race and color play some part, but not an insuperable one in the determination of the economic destiny of the Negro people. Negroes are down at the bottom of the industrial world primarily because they are weak, and they are weak because they lack organization—trade union organization.

It may not be amiss, in this connection, to observe that white railroad workers at one time were not allowed even to cross the threshold of the doors of the railroad Managements. White railroad workers are not where they are because they are white and railroad Managements or owners love them. No, not at all. The basic difference between white and black railroad workers is the difference of organization, bona-fide organization. White railroad workers are strong because they are organized, not because of their color or race. Negro railroad workers are weak, because they are unorganized, not because of their race or color. White workers on the railroads have been organized for over fifty years. Black workers have just begun. Black railroad workers want all of the rights of white railroad workers, but they, the black workers, don't want to organize, fight and pay for them, and their leaders, like the generals of the Haitian army of old, are content with titles without followers.

Full Crew Law

Negro workers have always opposed Full Crew Law Bills which have been introduced every year in the state legislatures of the South by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. The purpose of this law is to place a brakeman on the headend of the train. This would operate to eliminate Negro train porters, who, while doing the work of brakemen, are not recognized as brakemen, either in vocational status or pay roll compensation.

Of course, there would be no sound reasons for opposing the Full Crew Law in principle, if it did not exclude train porters. The chief intention of the bill is to increase the operating force known as the crew on trains. This is a worthy objective, since it is designed to increase employment among railroad workers. But Negro train porters have no alternative, save to oppose the Full Crew Law as a matter of self-preservation, unless provision in the law is made for their retention on the roads.

Because of the tendency of railroads to eliminate Negro brakemen, the Full Crew Law will not operate to increase the employment of Negro brakemen. And since there are thousands of white brakemen who have been laid off along with the million of railroad workers that lost jobs since 1920, the Full Crew Bill is intended to provide employment for some of these white brakemen who are now furloughed. We agree with this. White railroad workers that have been laid off should be restored to service, but not at the expense of Negro train porters or other Negro railroad workers. One worker can not rise permanently by pushing another worker down. This is an axiomatic truth that all workers should know and recognize.

The probabilities are that, if the Full Crew Bill was enacted as federal legislation, Negro train porters that now operate on the headend of trains, would be reduced to the status of chair car porters without switch keys and the right to perform the duties of brakemen, together with the duties of a porter. It is also possible that the train porters may be eliminated altogether and not even demoted to the position of chair car porters, since, in the interest of alleged economy, railroads may compel the white brakemen, not only to perform the work of a brakeman on the headend of the train, but to take on the additional duties of a porter. At the present time, railroad companies are fighting Full Crew Bills in the various states, primarily on the basis of economy and not because of any interest in Negro train porters. However, it is possible that constant propaganda for the enactment of Full Crew Laws in various states, if not as a federal measure, may eventually prevail. To prevent this, Negro train porters are faced with the problem of constant vigilance to guard their interests, which such a measure threatens.

Minority Representation and Race

One of the baffling problems that faces the Negro railroad workers, such as brakemen, flagmen, firemen, hostlers, shop craftsmen, is that of securing representation for the protection of their rights as workers in the railway industry. Agitation has gone forward, largely among Negro leaders, in the interest of the amendment of the Railway Labor Act for the purpose of providing that either railroad unions that exclude Negro workers on account of color and race, be denied the benefits of the law, or that minority representation be recognized. This same position is taken by Negro leaders on the National Labor Relations Act. The purpose of minority representation is to give the Negro workers in the railroad industry a voice in the determination of wage rates and the conditions of work that affect them. While this seems to be fair, superficially it is fundamentally unsound. Minority representation in industry would sound the death knell of the principle of democracy which the trade union movement is seeking to establish in the various industries in the nation. It would serve to stimulate the growth of Company Unionism and institute widespread chaos and confusion among the workers on the railroads, since a multitude of railroad workers would seek to exercise the right to negotiate agreements with railway Managements, concerning wages and working conditions. This would bring about the eventual disruption of every trade union in the railroad industry, because the Managements would, through spies and agents provacateur, create divisions in the ranks of their employees with a view to multiplying minority groups who would attempt to bring about a variety of agreements of working conditions and wage rates that would militate to the profit and power of railroad companies. Such a condition would be directly against the interest of all Negro railroad workers, because it would operate to reduce both black and white railroad workers to a condition of economic serfdom. Therefore, minority representation in the railway industry, or any other industry, strikes at the heart of industrial democracy and creates the basis for industrial autocracy and the intensification of the exploitation of the workers, white and black. The solution of the problems of Negro railroad workers does not consist in increasing the power of railroad managements to oppress railroad workers white and black, but by increasing the power of railroad workers, black and white, to resist oppression. Minority representation will hamstring railroad labor and serve as a boon to Managements.

Under the principle of majority rule, which is recognized in the Railway Labor Act and the National Labor Relations Act, a trade union which embraces fifty-one per cent of the class of workers which it seeks to represent, is regarded as the duly authorized agent for negotiating agreements for all of the workers of that class of industry. Even the other forty-nine per cent has no voice in the determination of wages and working conditions. But this makes for stabilization of employment and the orderly adjustment of problems that arise between the employers and employees. There would be no more justification to provide for minority representation in industrial government set up through collective bargaining between trade unions and the employers, than there would be to recognize minority representation in political government. Negro railroad workers must meet and fight to solve their problems within the labor movement through organization, education and agitation. They can not legislate themselves into trade unions either on railroads or in general industry.

The Negro Workers' Alternative

The question arises, "What is the alternative of the Negro Workers in the railroad industry, who are excluded from the right of agreement making, and probably from raising claims and grievances for settlement before the National Railroad Adjustment Board, that government body which is recognized as the supreme court for the adjustment of this class of problems. It seems to be apparent, from an analysis of the conditions of the Negroes in the railroad industry, that their only alternative is self-organization into a coordinated body for the purpose, not for amending the Railway Labor Act, but to win entrance into the standard railroad unions through the employment of constant propaganda to this end. Where Negro workers represent a majority on any particular road in a given class, they may win the right to make the agreement regulating the relationships between the carriers and their employees, and also fight for their maintenance on the job, through the mobilization of public opinion. The fact that Negro railroad workers have helped throughout the decades to make this enterprise what it is today, gives them the moral and economic right to present their case to the people, against their elimination from railroad jobs. The bar of public opinion will hear them. But the task of awakening public sentiment to the right of Negro railroad workers to stay in the industry, except where Negro railroad workers along with white workers are removed from jobs as a consequence of the operation of general economic processes and technological changes, is the task of the Negro railroad worker, himself.

The Purpose of This Conference

Before pointing out the specific purpose for which this conference is called, I wish to say a few words about what are not some of its purposes.

1. It is not for the purpose of creating one big Negro railroad organization. This would be impractical because of jurisdictional questions and the fact of varying affiliations. Some Negro railroad organizations are affiliated directly with the American Federation of Labor. Others are independent. For instance, the Dining Car Employees is affiliated with the A. F. of L. through an international union of the A. F. of L.

2. It is not for the purpose of creating any new movement among Negro railroad workers.

3. Its main object is to awaken Negro railroad workers to the danger and uncertainty of their position and stimulate organization into railroad unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor or independent organizations that may be able to serve effectively the interest of black rail employees.

4. It is also designed to bring together groups of Negro railroad workers of different crafts and callings to review the problems of the Negro railway workers, take stock and exchange opinions thereon, so that this class of employees may become aware of trends in this industry that affect their industrial destiny.

5. To establish a precedent for bringing Negro railroad workers together, periodically, so that they may recognize the value of pooling their power economically, morally and educationally to grapple with crises in this industry that are certain to confront them from time to time.

6. To impress the standard railroad unions, leadership and membership, with the fact that Negro railroad workers are unalterably opposed to the color bar and will never cease fighting until it is abolished.

7. To inform the American Public of the fact that Negro railroad workers have a right to employment in the railroad industry by virtue of the sweat, blood, tears, toil and hardships expressed in thousands of maimed and killed black men who have been and are engaged in building and maintaining this industry for the service of the nation.

In conclusion, may I say that because of the inspiration, hope and help President Roosevelt has been and is to the railroad employee, we hail him. We hail him for the appointment of an Emergency Fact Finding Committee which halted the 15 per cent wage cut proposed by railroad Managements, a year ago. We hail him for his creation of a special committee to plan the rehabilitation of railroads. We hail him as the world's greatest leader for peace, democracy and good-will.

We hail President William Green for his statesmanlike letter to all national and international unions affiliated with the A. F. of L., to eliminate the color bar. We hail his willing support and cooperation for the cause of justice for the Negro people.

We hail the splendid and aggressive fight the Red Caps are waging to organize for economic liberation. Black labor must back them with their moral and financial might.

We hail the new spirit to organize and fight for economic, social and political justice on the part of Negro workers. We hail the growing spirit of solidarity and cooperation between the black and white workers in America.

In the final reckoning, if salvation is to come to the Negro railroad workers, it must and will come from within. They can not rely upon outside forces. They must exercise their mass power upon legislation and government agencies, but they should avoid all entangling political alliances, regardless of political party, for the introduction of political controversies within the ranks of railroad unions can only make for disruption, chaos and confusion.

The future of Negro railroad workers lies with the Negro railroad workers, themselves, but marching forward with the advance guard of the organized workers of America under the banner of the A. F. of L., for practically all organized railroad workers are within the framework of the American Federation of Labor, or have friendly relations with it.

Brothers, let us ever remember that the greatest fear of the oppressors is the unity of the oppressed. Forward!

TIMES, SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1939.

POLL FINDS YOUTH GLOOMY ON JOBS

Y. M. C. A. Study Shows 80% in City Think Ability No Longer Is Assurance of Success

MANY IN DEAD-END POSTS

Artificial Employment Is Not Popular—Individuality of Thought Found Greater

Because of present-day conditions, ability no longer offers assurance of success, in the view of 80 per cent of a cross-section of the young men and women of New York City, according to the results of a poll conducted by the Young Men's Christian Association, made public yesterday. Twenty per cent believe that young people with ability are finding it no more difficult today than at other times to get ahead.

The association said it made the inquiry with a scientific sampling technique which, it believed, limited probable error to a margin of 5 per cent. Covered in the poll were sample groups of the employed and unemployed, those at school and not, the upper, middle and lower economic classes, Protestants, Jews and Catholics, white persons and Negroes—all young men and women from 15 to 34.

In its effort to determine the drift of thought among the young generation, the association found that 65 per cent think that expert advice on how to choose and get a job would be more valuable to unemployed young people or those in dead-end jobs than more school or college or government-made jobs to help until better times. It also learned that 80 per cent were guided less by religion than were their parents, and that 87 per cent put less store by their parents' opinions on political, social and economic matters than did their elders.

The association explained that its questions were formulated in the light of the previous inquiry made by the National Youth Commission, which revealed that almost 5,000,000 of the 21,000,000 young people in America between 16 and 25 were out of school and out of work, and that 43 per cent of those who did have work felt they were in dead-end jobs.

Saying that responses convinced the association that it had a real task before it to meet the changing needs and problems of youth, "particularly at this time when war may present a fascination to youth whose position is not certain," the association continued:

"Certain conclusions are inescapable. Foremost is that the state of mind of these youths in itself presents a pressing problem.

"A cardinal principle of democracy is equality of opportunity, and that means that individual ability shall determine individual success. It is obvious that when any considerable number of young citizens find that is no longer true, we face a serious situation. The state of mind of these young people represents a challeneg to us of this generation, to create conditions which will restore youth's faith in its future.

"It is reassuring to find that these representative youths, in spite of widespread unemployment, lack of confidence in ability and wrestling with dead-end jobs, believe so overwhelmingly in vocational guidance. Such belief manifests a willingness to be shown—a desire to be helped.

"The needs of youth, as indicated by these responses, emphasize the urgency of increased activities by organizations offering vocational guidance."

NEW YORK TIMES
OCTOBER 20, 1939

LABORITES EXTEND DRIVE TO OUST REDS

10 New Official Clubs Formed in Districts Now Said to Be Dominated by Communists

3 ON COMMITTEE DROPPED

They Were Active in Leading the Irregular Meeting That 'Elected' Marcantonio

Leaders of the American Labor party moved farther yesterday in their efforts to rid the party of Communists and Communist sympathizers.

The administrative committee approved the formation of ten new Labor party Assembly District clubs in New York County which it will recognize as the official party groups instead of the present clubs in these districts, which are alleged to be dominated by Communists and their "fellow travelers."

The New York County executive committee expelled from its membership Eugene P. Connolly, director of the taxicab division of the Transport Workers Union; Hyman Glickstein, lawyer, and Arthur Schutzer and adopted a resolution asking the State executive committee to expel them from membership in the party. These were the three men who wr active in directing the irregular meeting of part of the members of the New York County Committee that purported to elect Representative Vito Marcantonio chairman and Mr. Connolly secretary, which was not recognized as a valid meeting by the Board of Elections.

The county executive committee's action was on recommendation of its grievance committee, headed by John F. Sullivan, and on complaint of Rufus S. Paret, a county committee member. Mr. Connolly, Mr. Glickstein and Mr. Schutzer were charged with disloyalty to the Labor party in undertaking unlawfully to hold a "rump" meeting and elect officers. They did not appear at a meeting of the grievance committee Monday night.

The list of the new Assembly District clubs and their officers, as announced by Alex Rose, State secretary, follows:

First District—Henry Margolies and W. Charley Vladeck, son of the late B. Charney Vladeck, co-chairmen.

Third District—Julius Hochman, chairman; Allen Scott, secretary.

Seventh District—Emil Schlesinger, chairman; Henry Apotheker, executive secretary.

Ninth District—Nathan Spector, chairman.

Tenth District North—Louis Schaffer, chairman.

Tenth District South—Joseph V. O'Leary and Harry Greenberg, co-chairmen; Dr. Alfred S. Asgis, treasurer.

Eleventh District, West—Dr. Manus Ornstein and Walter Fried, co-chairmen.

Eleventh District, East—Gerald Allen, chairman.

Twelfth District—John F. Sullivan, chairman.

Sixteenth District—Usher Solomon and Samuel Messer, co-chairmen.

Twenty-first District—Noah Walter, chairman.

Twenty-second District—Mrs. A. Philip Randolph, chairman.

"These new clubs are headed by prominent leaders of the Labor party and reflect the determination of the leadership of the party to erase any influence of disloyal elements in the New York County organization," Mr. Rose said. "Every district in New York County will soon have an alive, functioning district club that will be unswerving in its loyalty to the principles and ideals for which this party was organized."

LABOR
OCTOBER 3. 1939

BOARD SLATED TO CONTROL INDUSTRY DITCHED BY "F. D."

President Seeks to Offset Bad Impression Made by Exposure of M Plan

WAR CHIEFTAIN REBUKED

Book With Johnson's Blessing Stirs Washington and Provokes Sharp Repudiation

The most significant development of the week was a decision by President Roosevelt to junk—temporarily, at least—the War Resources Board set up last month to prepare plans to mobilize and control industry and labor in a war or an "emergency."

Unquestionably, the President's action was designed to offset the bad impression made by the so-called M plan. The disclosure by LABOR in its last two issues that militarists had cooked up a scheme to draft labor, nullify all labor legislation and set aside all Federal agencies safeguarding workers created a furore on Capitol Hill and throughout the country.

Imperilled Neutrality Fight

The President was warned by his advisers that the scheme might be used with telling effect by the opponents of his neutrality program.

When the War Resources Board was created it was understood it was to become a permanent agency, with powers much broader than those given the War Industries Board during the World War.

The new board was headed by Edward R. Stettinus, Jr., chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, and the other members are big industrialists or economists who have served Big Business. Labor and agriculture have been ignored.

Johnson Repudiated

Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson, who is head of the section that drafted the M plan, said: "We are now preparing for mobilization of our material resources for war."

The President and Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring emphatically disavowed any such intention. The President insisted the board's work is done and that it will be disbanded within two weeks, while Woodring, contending there never was any intention of setting up a permanent agency, added:

"We are not setting up any war boards or machinery. As far as I am concerned, I hope we never will."

Book Forces Issue

The matter came to a head when Woodring called the President's attention to a book recently put out by the Tax Research Institute of America, composed mainly of large industrial concerns, most of which have bad labor records.

The book shows how the M plan will work out for business and carries an approving "foreword" by Johnson.

The book and Johnson's indorsement were repudiated by the President at a press conference. He said they did not represent administration views, and that the authors "knew less than nothing" about the subject.

The incident emphasized the friction between Woodring and Johnson, and if the latter is sensitive the only course the President has left open to him is to resign.

Undermining Woodring

For months Johnson's friends have been "plugging" him to head the War Department and have been re-

NEW YORK TIMES
NOVEMBER 19, 1939

JOBLESS PROBLEM IS HELD UNSOLVED

Millions to Be Unemployed Despite Trade Recovery, Economist Forecasts

TALKS ON FUTURE TREND

He Fears War Might Disrupt Steady Upbuilding Noted in Last Few Years

A. F. Hinrichs, chief economist of the Bureau of Labor statistics, told 300 members of the seventh Metropolitan Conference on Employment Guidance, in session at the Hotel Pennsylvania yesterday morning, that the United States would continue to "count its unemployed in terms of millions" regardless of recovery.

Discussing the probable future trends in employment at the conference held under the auspices of the section on Employment and Vocational Guidance of the Welfare Council of New York City, Mr. Hinrichs made it clear that he expressed only his personal views. He substituted on the program for Isador Lubin, Commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the United States Department of Labor, who was confined in Washington by illness.

Mr. Hinrichs suggested that it was difficult to visualize what impact the war now threatening the world would have on underlying economic trends.

"The course of business over the next few months can't be accurately forecast," he said. "During the last few months we have been accumulating inventory. During the next few months it seems logical to assume there will be increased industrial activity and employment.

"Irrespective of the volume of employment one may anticipate for the coming year, the problems of those who find employment for the unemployed is not solved. We are still going to count our unemployed in terms of millions."

Citing the Federal Reserve index of industrial production, Mr. Hinrichs said that while the volume of industrial activity was as great as in 1937 and 1929 the volume of employment was about 1,500,000 less than that of 1929.

Mr. Hinrichs further suggested that "we still face the world with our unemployed millions," among other reasons because of a yearly increment of some 500,000 new workers who come forward to look for jobs.

"It is therefore completely unsatisfactory for the picture of unemployment to fasten our eyes on a certain decade as a level which we should achieve," Mr. Hinrichs added.

Mr. Hinrichs also suggested that while the effect of orders for war materials would be temporarily to accelerate industry and employment it also might disrupt the steady upbuilding of industry over the last few years.

"Are we to have equilibrium or a first-class fever with the necessity of our national economy again going to the hospital as it did after the last war?" Mr. Hinrichs asked.

[illegible] House is "fed up" on Wo[illegible] intends to save him out.

At the same time, Johnson ha[illegible] grabbing the spotlight, delivering [illegible] noisily speeches that left the impr[illegible]sion that if he had his way troopships would now be on their way across the Atlantic.

The institute's book assured business men they had nothing to fear from the War Department. The mobilization plan, the author said, was not a New Deal "accomplishment," and it was gleefully pointed out that not one member of the War Resources Board was a New Dealer.

Shocking Letter

In an effort to obtain members, the institute first sent a letter to business men presenting the advantages of the M plan. In a few days the letter was recalled and an "over-enthusiastic advertising writer" blamed for its appearance.

However, in a subsequent letter, business men were again told that the institute would show them what to do in order to turn the mobilization p[illegible] to their advantage.

The "advice" came in the form of the book, carrying Johnson's official blessing, and it was that little volume which caused the President to issue his sweeping repudiation.

LABOR

January 18, 1940

Pioneers in Empire Building

Christopher Columbus

Columbus launched the period of modern imperialism by discovering there were new worlds to conquer, and by encouraging daring men to find new roads to old worlds.

He was born at Genoa in Italy about 1450. Became a sailor at 14. Spent 13 years trying to find a ruler ready to furnish him money, ships, and sailors for a voyage to China. April 17, 1492 the Spanish sovereigns concluded an agreement with him and gave him a letter of introduction to the Emperor of China. Friday, August 3, 8 a. m., Columbus sailed away with three little ships and 88 sailors. On another Friday, Oct. 12, at two in the morning, he sighted land—not China, but a little island east of Florida.

Vasco da Gama

Da Gama, Portuguese (1450-1524), made a voyage of more immediate practical benefit than that of Columbus. He first sailed around Africa and found a waterway to the riches of the East. With four vessels and 160 men he left Lisbon on July 8, 1497 and reached Calcutta May 20, 1498. He opened the road to spices, gold, and silken garments, to fables and to dreams.

Ferdinand Magellan

Magellan, a Portuguese (1480-1521), found the sea road Columbus sought, but it proved vastly longer than he anticipated. On Sept. 20, 1519, with five vessels, this Portuguese in service of the Spanish Emperor, left Spain on the greatest voyage of all the sailors of all the seas. A year and a day later he entered the strait leading around South America. It took him 38 days to get through it; speed 10 miles a day. Nov. 28 he pointed his fleet, now only three vessels, into the unknown Pacific, and kept on sailing for 100 days, lacking two, when exhausted and almost starved, he reached Guam. The intrepid sailor was killed a little later in the Philippines, but one of his ships, Victoria, completed the voyage, arriving in Spain three years, lacking two weeks, after it had left. It was the first ship to circumnavigate the earth.

Our Guest Speaker

Gilbert Murray, our guest today, is among the foremost scholars in England. Born in Australia, he left there aged 11 for England. He has been a professor at Oxford and Harvard Universities, is an outstanding liberal and a leader of the intellectual group which seeks collective security. An expert on empire and international government, he is a direct and vigorous commentator. Quickly responding to a cable from the Fireside Chairman, he sent his comment on Fireside page 23 by Press Wireless in time for today's discussion.

Robert Clive

Of the many noted Britishers, responsible for giving England control over India, the most spectacular was Baron Robert Clive of Plassey (1725-1774).

Clive was a genius, both as a soldier and organizer. Fighting both the French and the Indians, always against enormous odds, he won a vast empire for his country.

Henry Stanley

Sir Henry Morton Stanley (1841-1904), a noted journalist, who might almost be said to have launched modern imperialism in Africa.

At 26 he greatly distinguished himself as war correspondent in Abyssinia. He added to his fame by discovering Livingstone in Africa. He went back and explored the Congo. He soon became representative of King Leopold of Belgium and his activity enabled Belgium to obtain control of a territory 80 times as large as the home country.

Cecil Rhodes

Cecil John Rhodes (1853-1902), was one of the greatest of great English adventurers, statesmen, colonizers. At 17 he went to Africa. At [illegible] millionaire. He returned to [illegible], but soon settled permanently in South Africa, to which he gave his [illegible] devotion, rich imagination, and vast energy. Forming a colonizing company, he eventually obtained control over a territory nearly five times as large as the United Kingdom, now called Rhodesia. He did more than any one man to provide a solid Cape-to-Cairo area, joining South Africa by an inland route with the Mediterranean.

Jean Marchand

Major Jean Baptiste Marchand (1863-1934), a very bold and gallant Frenchman, who was disappointed. One of the most appealing of all imperial explorers.

As Rhodes and other Britishers worked with all their might to create a north-south road for Britain through Africa, Marchand and other Frenchmen worked to create an east-west road. Naturally, the rival groups had to clash some place. It was in the center, at the tiny town of Fashoda. Marchand, after traveling at remarkable speed through unexplored jungles, got there first, 1898, and hoisted the French flag. He showed a red light to the English explorers. France had its corridor.

But Kitchener was not far away and he had a big army. Behind him, also, was England. London peremptorily told Paris to withdraw the doughty major. A world war seemed imminent. But Paris appeased. And Marchand sadly marched home. In spite of that, France holds more of Africa than Great Britain.

Imperial Notes

	Square miles of land
The whole world	51,116,000
Self-governing areas	35,827,000
Colonies	14,311,000
International areas	978,000

Imperialism is not exclusively a modern development and is by no means due to capitalism. It has existed from the beginning of recorded history.

Almost every religion, every economic system, every form of government has adapted itself to imperialism. Republican Athens was once as imperialistic as Absolutist Persia; Christian England as Mohammedan Turkey; Protestant Holland as Clerical Spain; revolutionary Napoleon as reactionary Louis; Comrade Stalin may make their Majesties, the Romanoffs, seem modest.

Who Controls What?

Today's empires. How large are they, and how many persons do they include? A Foreign Policy Association Headline Book provides the following table, with small variations to include Germany's recent acquisitions, which answers these questions:

	Area sq. mi.	Population	Area of Colonies	Population of Colonies
U. Kingdom	94,000	46,500,000	13,100,000	470,000,000
France	212,600	42,000,000	4,300,000	65,000,000
Italy	120,000	43,800,000	1,400,000	10,000,000
Japan	148,00	70,000,000	576,000	59,000,000
Netherlands	13,200	8,500,000	790,000	66,000,000
Belgium	11,800	8,300,000	940,000	13,000,000
Portugal	35,000	7,200,000	810,000	9,200,000
Germany	350,000	104,600,000	None	None
Pre-war Ger	210,000	67,500,000	1,100,000	13,000,000
Un States	3,000,000	130,000,000	712,000	15,700,000

Read On—

Readers of this course will find the following list of books useful as sources of detailed information on this current topic.

Books

Imperialism and World Politics—By Parket T. Moon, 1926.
A valuable work on the effect of imperial policies on world politics and international relations.

The Balance Sheet of Imperialism—By Gover Clark, 1936.
An indispensable work of reference, filled with valuable data on colonies.

The Diplomacy of Imperialism—William L. Langer, 1935.
An authoritative and scholarly work on the subject in two volumes.

Atlas of Empire—J. F. Horrabin, 1939.
A basic primer for students of imperialism, containing maps showing the colonial possessions of the great powers.

LABOR

January 18, 1940

ONTARIO CRIMINAL CODE IS DECLARED LABOR SAFEGUARD

Attorney General Says He'll Act if Bargaining Rights Are Flouted

1940

GREED OF BOSSES SHOCKS

Trades and Labor Congress Leader Asks That Pension System Be Broadened

By J. A. P. HAYDON
("Labor's" Canadian Representative)

TORONTO, Can., Jan. 18.—"The provisions of the Criminal Code, which respect the right to organize, may be applied in Ontario, and if any responsible person brings a case to our attention where an employer interferes with a worker who wishes to join a trade union, we will see that the provisions of the code are invoked."

So declared Hon. Gordon Conant, Attorney General of Ontario, in response to a suggestion by Tom Moore, President of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, that in the matter of safeguarding workers' rights Ontario is lagging behind other provinces.

The Federal government has acted, Mr. Moore pointed out, but during the debate in Parliament, it was contended that the provinces must enact similar legislation.

Ontario Only Laggard

As the matter stands now, the labor chief contended, Ontario is the only one of the eight industrial provinces which lacks the necessary legislation to make the Dominion act effective.

"Therefore," he continued, "we again urge that action be taken at the present session of the legislature."

It was in response to this that Mr. Conant declared that the Criminal Code was sufficient, and that Ontario was prepared to enforce it.

It was the largest delegation that has met the Ontario government in many years. There was some criticism because the Prime Minister did not attend. However, it is recalled that since his election in 1935, Premier Hepburn, for reasons best known to himself, has never met a delegation of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Bosses Shock Hipel

Hon. N. O. Hipel, who received the delegation in the absence of the Premier, surprised and shocked the labor leaders when he declared that his department is besieged with requests from employers to extend the hours of labor. The labor leaders evidenced their satisfaction, however, when Mr. Hipel added:

"Instead of granting permits for longer working hours, we have suggested that these industries work two or three shifts, to the end that all available employment be shared by a greater number of workers."

All through the proceedings Mr. Hipel was extremely courteous and concluded by congratulating the delegation "for the moderation and reasonableness of the presentation."

Wider Age Pensions

President Moore struck a new note when he requested that the old age pension law be amended so as to become a retirement scheme "whereby all who withdraw from industry or commerce at the age of 60 or over will be entitled to receive benefits."

He said labor would not object if the scheme were made contributory.

Finally, the delegation urged that organized labor be given adequate representation on all important government boards, especially those which directly or indirectly affect the workers.

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH, PIONEER OF ORGANIZED NEGRO LABOR IN U.S.A.

TAMPA BULLETIN 3/16/40

"Let Us Build A United Front Of All Negro Organizations"

(By CHARLES ALEXANDER)
Crusader News Agency

At the National Negro Congress convention two years ago, a tall and commanding Negro rose to speak. A thunder of applause greeted him Then there was complete silence. Three thousand persons, black and white, eagerly awaited his message." . . . Let us build a united front of all Negro organizations, of varying strata, purpose and outlook. Let us build a united front in cooperation with the progressive and liberal agencies of the nation whose interests are common with Black America . . . . "

The throng cheered, whistled, stamped. They were paying tribute to A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, pioneer in the struggle for Negro equality and the rights of black wage earners.

Taught in the hard school of experience, A. Philip Randolph has had intimate knowledge of the intolerance and discrimination that confront his people. As a youth he worked at all kinds of menial occupations, thus he early knew what "Negro Jobs" meant, as well as the lot of black workers. His first attempt to improve conditions for Negro wage earners occurred a few years before the last war, when, as a waiter on a Fall River Line ship he organized a protest against the miserable living quarters which the waiters called the "Glory Hole." He was promptly fired. The experience was invaluable to young Randolph though it meant temporary worry over the problem of eating regularly.

America's declaration of war lifted Randolph to leadership. Then as now opposition to reaction called for courage and fortitude, and Randlph had both. He proposed common action of black and white workers against the war, and urged his people to take full advantage of their position in the mass-production industries and in the army to force correction of their worst abuses, even if it meant strikes and resistance to the draft. Seizing upon the "democratic aims" for which the war was supposedly waged, he insisted the government begin its rescue work at home, and called for an end to the intolerable conditions which submerged his people.

The militant views of the young "revolutionist" clashed with the doctrines of the "old, reactionary leaders" While they conditioned social political and economic equality. He was branded a "radical" and forced to resign the editorship of "The Hotel Messenger," organ of the Headwaiters and Sidewaiters Society of New York.

Arrested in 1918

Undaunted, Randolph together with Chandler Owens launched a new magazine, "The Messenger." The Luck Committee later declared the journal "by far the most dangerous of all Negro publictations." Under Randolph's leadership the magazine became a potent factor in stirring the Negro people. Through its pages he lashed out at the war, demanded for the Negro people, "the full product of his toil", and urged black workers to join trade unions wherever possible. His firm stand led to his arrest in Cleveland, June, 1918, by the Department of Justice, but after serving a few days in the city jail he was released. He continued to oppose the war and to fight for full equality.

In addition to editing "The Messenger" Randolph devoted much time to the labor movement. In 1917 he organized a union of Negro elevators operators and starters which later disintegrated. He also attempted to unionize shipyard workers in the tide water area of Virginia but the ruthless intimidation of the Negro workers by the ship owners prevented success. The daring young leader refused to be discouraged; his resolution to lift black wage earners from economic morass had become an obsession. He launched several campaigns chiefly among laundry workers, motion picture operators, garment and building workers, bakers and confectioners.

These early efforts were but the preliminaries before the main bout which Randolph undertook in 1925 when he moved to organize the Pullman porters. In August of that year he and a small group of men met at a dingy hall in Harlem. All except Randolph were employees of the Pullman Company. Nevertheless by speaking to dozens of porters and by studying their problems he was quite familiar with their needs. The men showed their confidence when they elected him president and general organizer of the union which as yet existed only on paper. "The Messenger" now became the organ of the embryonic organization.

The condition of the porters were unbearable. They worked from 300 to 400 hours a month for wages of about $100 a month. They received less pay for overtime than for straight work, and they were required to buy their own uniforms, shoe polish and incidentials. Tips which were generous in the lush days had dwindled considerably.

Despite discouraging predictions of critics who considered the Pullman Company an unbeatable foe, Randolph's patience, tenacity and hard work welded the porters together. As the union grew the common plotted to smash it. First, it announced a wage increase then it began to replace Negroes with Filipinos, and finally the corporation brought up its Big Bertha. It declared it would deal with the Brotherhood if the men would oust Randolph, "known socialist."

The porters were not swayed by the company's "offers" and Randolph assisted by Ashley Totten, M. P. Webster, Bennie Smith, C. L. Dellums and others—all porters who were fired for union activity—worked day and night to build the Brotherhood.

By 1928 the Brotherhood was ready to call a strike if the corporation refused to negotiate. But William Green, president of the A. F. of L., who up to that time had looked upon the porters campaign with apathy and had refused to grant the union an international charter, "advised" against it. Simultaneously the Order of Sleeping Car Conductions frowned upon the Brotherhood's activities. Though cancellation of the strike temporarily set back the union Randolph drove ahead, and by 1934 he forced inclusion of the porters in the new provisions that were written in the Railway Act of 1926.

Randolph now called for a vote to be supervised by the National Mediation Board to determine whether the porters desired the Brotherhood to represent them for collective bargaining purposes. The vote was a huge victory for the Brotherhood; 5,931 as against 1,422 for the company union. Randolph had achieved the "impossible."

Armed with this mandate A. Philip Randolph demanded a contract of the Pullman Company. Their terms included a 20 per cent wage increase, reduction in the monthly mileage requirements from 11,000 to 7,000 miles and 240 hour work month. The company fumed and gathered its high-priced lawyers, but Randolph was adamant and the porters won.

But while Randolph's dream was fulfilled, his work was unfinished. He now blistered the A. F. of L.'s jim-crow policy and launched a vigorous campaign for admission of Negroes to all its locals. He hailed the birth of the Congress for Industrial Organization in 1937, as heralding a new day for Negro wage earners.

As head of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and president of the National Negro Congress, he is firmly convinced that "only solidarity can save the black and white workers of America, and this solidarity must be developed in mixed unions composed of black and white, Jew and Gentile, native and foreign-born."

MARCH 22

AMSTERDAM NEWS

AFL LEADER GI[illegible] 3RD NEGRO CONGRESS

WASHINGTON—The National Negro Congress was in receipt this week of a check from President William Green of the American Federation of Labor as a contribution to the Third National Negro Congress and a letter from President Green congratulating the Congress on its work.

NEW. YORK TIMES, THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1940.

TELLS TNEC DIALS AID PHONE SERVICE

Official Says A. T. & T. Could Not Meet Present Volume if It Used Manual Method

MINIMIZES LOSS OF JOBS

Labor Opportunities Are Held Greater—Union Spokesman Calls Change Anti-Social

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, April 17—Introduction of the dial system and other technological advances in the communications industry has resulted in increased over-all employment opportunities, higher wages and shorter hours, W. H. Harrison, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, told the Temporary National Economic Committee today.

Although the dial system of telephone operation had displaced some operators, he said, such displacements had not been large in relation to the operating force as a whole, and every effort had been made to lessen the impact of the change. It would be impossible, he explained, to give service of present-day scope, quality and price under the manual system of operation.

From several of Mr. Harrison's contentions Miss Rose S. Sullivan of the Commercial Telegraphers Union took dissent.

Some Operators Retained

The A. T. & T. vice president told the monopoly committee, which is conducting hearings on the employment effects of technological changes, that the dial system had not ended the jobs of all operators, as many still were required for the handling of changes, toll and long-distance calls and information requests. The system also required additional men of greater skill and higher wage standards than under the manual system, he stated.

Mr. Harrison presented a table showing the present average weekly earnings of all A. T. & T. employes to be about $37 a week.

Not only were wages higher than under the old system, he said, but the Bell System (A. T. & T.) had saved the jobs of about 60,000 employes during the depression by spreading work and providing "made work."

The witness explained at length how his company has endeavored to cushion the effect of dialing on employment by reassigning employes, assigning to other areas, paying dismissal wages and by long-term planning, including the slowing up of installation in depression periods.

The depression was one of the main reasons why telephone companies' employment had not expanded in recent years, Mr. Harrison said. One result of it, he said, was to reduce the number of telephones and therefore the number of persons needed to service them. Another was that it created considerable excess plant capacity, which made unnecessary an annual plant construction program comparable to that in the last few pre-depression years.

He added, however, that the A. T. & T. companies now had more telephones in operation than ever before and looked forward with hope to steadily expanding business which would provide more employment.

Miss Sullivan for Old Method

Presenting labor's side of the story, Miss Sullivan contended that it was entirely practicable to handle the present volume of telephone service or any enlargement of it with a manually operated system, and to give far better service than did the dial system. She estimated that introduction of dials on about 9,000,000 of the 17,000,000 telephones in the Bell System had abolished 150,000 operator jobs in the last fifteen years.

Development of unionism among operators, besides the NRA and the National Labor Relations Act, she asserted, had much to do with the adoption of dialing.

Declaring that Mr. Harrison's picture of wage increases did not tell the whole story, she stated:

"Wages have gone up somewhat largely because no new employes, who naturally get the lowest rates, have been taken on for years."

MONOPOLY WITNESS
Rose S. Sullivan
Times Wide World

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

WEEKLY NEWS SERVICE

Entered as second-class matter September 30, 1912, at the Post Office at Washington, D. C., under the Act of August 24, 1912.
Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Sec. 1108, Act of October 3, 1917, authorized July 11, 1918.

WASHINGTON, D. C., TUESDAY, APRIL 30, 1940.

Randolph Renounces Negro Congress For Taking Aid From Reds and CIO

Washington, D. C.—A. Philip Randolph, gifted Negro leader, repudiated the National Negro Congress and refused re-election as its president because the organization accepted financial aid from the Communist Party and the CIO.

Mr. Randolph, who is president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, an A. F. of L. affiliate, warned the National Negro Congress that it would surrender control of its policies and affairs to the Communists and the CIO if it continued to accept help from them.

In confirmation of this warning, the Negro Congress proceeded before adjourning to adopt a resolution condemning President Roosevelt and the "imperialistic war," a direct echo of Communist Party propaganda.

Furthermore, the Congress surrendered its independence by voting, over the opposition of Mr. Randolph, to enter into a political alliance with the CIO Non-Partisan League.

These actions, Mr. Randolph predicted, would split the "mass action of this Congress." His attitude was fully endorsed by Cornelius Maiden, Negro A. F. of L. organizer in the South, who condemned the policy of the congress and resigned.

Of Goodwill

E. PHILIP RANDOLPH

Farther Left than NAACP's Spingarn, but no Red, "Phil" Randolph heads the strong and growing Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. . . For a decade fought the unpopular cause of raising the standard of the "Pullman Porter" from that of a menial to a place of actual importance in the railroad industry. . . Head of the National Negro Congress for five years, he left that unit when he no longer could stomach its definite trend toward Stalin's Red banners. . . Suave and cultured, believed in and trusted for the basics to which he clings, Philip Randolph is one of the vanguard of younger Negroes who day after day are striving and . . . Working for a Greater America!

Nat'l Conference of R. R. Firemen to D.C.

THE WASHINGTON TRIBUNE, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1940

RAILROAD FIREMEN FIGHT BIASED UNION

By JAMES H. PURDY, Jr.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Ed. Teague, firemen on the Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad filed suit last Monday in the Federal District Court for an injunction and $50,000 damages against the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, white, for making a secret contract with the Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad whereby senior Negro firemen were replaced by junior white firemen on stoker-fired engines.

The white brotherhood has claimed the right to make all contracts for the firemen on the Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad because the majority of the firemen are white and members of the Brotherhood.

The Railroad Labor Act gives the majority of the workers in any class or shop on the railroads power to name bargaining representatives for all the workers on the ralroad in the same class or shop. The white Brotherhood excludes Negroes from membership, but still claims the right to represent them under the Railroad Labor Act.

The action by Teague claims that the action by the white Brotherhood was not representative of the Negro firemen. He states that the law requires the Brotherhood to give the Negro firemen notice and a chance to be heard and vote before any contracts can be made by the Brotherhood under the Railroad Labor

Teague's case is being financed by the Negro National Organizations of the Negro Railway Workers; The International Association of Railway Employees and the Association of Colored Railway Trainmen and Locomotive Firemen. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has already endorsed the suit

Teague is represented by Attorney J. T. Settle of Memphis, Charles H. Houston, J. Henry Clay of Roanoke, Va., Joseph O. Waddy, of Washington, D. C., Thurgood Marshall, New York City.

EYES MOVE TO OUST COLORED IN ENGINE CABS

Many "Bumped" by Whites with Fewer Years of Seniority

NEW YORK—The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters through its president, A. Phillip Randolph, announced this week, that the organization plans to call a national conference of colored firemen on all railroads throughout the country for the purpose of formulating a "long range program of organization and legislation in the interest of the relief of this class of railroad workers from the present state of job insecurity."

According to Mr. Randolph, reports from colored firemen on railroads in the Sotuheast and Southwest reveal an alarming and serious state of affairs with respect to the continuance of colored firemen in the engine cabin. Many are losing their right of seniority and are being "bumped" and displaced by white firemen despite the fact that colored firemen may have 10 or 20 years of service above that of the white firemen, according to Mr. Randolph.

Confab in March

The conference will be held in Washington, D.C., sometime in March, the specific date to be announced later.

Regulations by the Interstate Commerce Commission require that in the next few years coal burning engines be equipped with stokers or replaced by Diesel power.

As a result of this change, and through the organized strength of the white firemen, definite confidential understandings have and are being developed that provide for the elimination of the colored Fremen by various subtle and devious means—one of which is that railway carriers shall not hire firemen to fill vacancies caused by the death of colored fire men, who are not promotable, and the refusal to give colored firemen training in the operation of the Diesel engine. Colored firemen are not promoted because they cannot become engineers.

The Brotherhood statement adds:

No Colored Members

"Since the Brotherhood of Locomotive Enginemen and Firemen, which controls the bargaining rights on most railway properties by virtue of the possession of the majority of the firemen in the employ of the carriers, will not accept colored firemen as members and hence they are deprived of representation before federal agencies regulating the relationships between carriers and their employees, colored firemen face the necessity of devising some program to meet this situation

"At the Washington conference, colored firemen will tell their own story about their problems and representatives of various national organizations will come to bring their messages of greeting and cooperation in the fight to save the jobs for colored firemen."

N. Y. AMSTERDAM NEWS

June 29, 1940

RANDOLPH ACCUSED OF CHANGING STAND ON PULLMAN BILL

Porters' Chief Ran Out On Promise, Says Report Of Rail Labor Leaders

ANSWER TO PROPAGANDA

Legislation Introduced After Pledge of Non-Interference Had Been Given

President M. S. Warfield of the Pullman Conductors has sent to Senators and Congressmen copies of a report by the Railway Labor Executives' Association's special committee which has been campaigning for passage of the bill to require the Pullman Company to employ conductors on all-night runs, instead of using "porters-in-charge."

The members of the committee are J. A. Phillips, president of the Railway Conductors and chairman of the association; B. M. Jewell, president of the Railway Employes' Department, A. F. of L.; S. J. Hogan, president of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association, and Warfield.

The report charges that A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, broke his promise not to oppose the bill, and thus blocked its progress through Congress after it had been approved by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

Doesn't Injure Porters

Warfield's letter pointed out that "the opponents of this bill sought to create the impression that it discriminates against porters because they are black. There is no foundation for this suggestion, as is shown in the record of the hearings before the Senate subcommittee on May 15, 16 and 17.

"It is the conductors, not the porters, who are the victims of discrimination under the present operating conditions. The bill would correct that discrimination by putting conductors back on the runs from which they have been removed. The porters would not lose a single job; they would simply be relieved of the burden of doing two men's work for the wages of one."

Answer to Propaganda

Warfield explained to the legislators that he sent them the letter and the report "to clear the atmosphere of all false propaganda concerning this bill, so that it may receive the consideration it deserves from Congress."

The report first reviews the long and patient efforts made by the Pullman Conductors to settle this dispute with the company by negotiation. Finally, "having no other course open to them, the Sleeping Car Conductors decided to seek a national law to compel the Pullman Company to employ conductors on all-night runs, as a safety measure as well as protection against unemployment."

Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana and Congressman Robert Crosser of Ohio agreed to introduce the bill, the report said, if Randolph would not oppose it.

Randolph's First Position

At a meeting in Chicago, on March 30, 1940, Randolph "refused to put anything in writing," but "he referred to his article in the 'American Federationist' of August, 1939, as sufficient evidence that he would not oppose our bill." In his article, Randolph said:

"These porter-in-charge jobs only serve to displace a Pullman conductor or dining car steward, thereby bolstering up unfair conditions [illegible]

They Are Prominent In Field of Labor

Pres. Willard Townsend of the Red Caps (top, left), Chr. Frank Crosswaith of the Harlem Labor Committee and Vice-Pres. Ashley Totten of the Sleeping Car Porters are among ranking Negro labor leaders.

"The committee [illegible] "Randolph said he [illegible] out of the picture, [illegible] oppose the bill, and [illegible] member of his organization [illegible] oppose it.

"With this positive assurance of non-interference, the committee obtained the cooperation of Minton and Crosser, and the bill was introduced. A representative of the Sleeping Car Porters attended the Senate subcommittee hearings. He did not register any opposition."

Makes Sudden "Switch"

So far, Randolph had kept his promise, but now, the report recalls, came a sudden change.

"On June 3, President Warfield called on Senator Minton and was told that Randolph had wired opposition to the bill, and was sending two of his officers to Washington to ask for another hearing by the Senate committee. The Senator said that, under these circumstances, there would be no chance of progressing the bill further at this session.

"Warfield immediately asked President William Green of the A. F. of L. to call Randolph to Washington for a conference to learn the cause of his actions." The conference was held on June 7, and Randolph "offered nothing to justify his conduct. He said simply that he had changed his mind."

"In view of these facts, and the serious damage to the Order of Sleeping Car Conductors," the report concludes, "this committee recommends that appropriate action be taken by the Railway Labor Executives' Association, and that it be referred to the American Federation of Labor for investigation and action."

They Are Prominent In Field of Labor

Pres. Willard Townsend of the Red Caps (top, left), Chr. Frank Crosswaith of the Harlem Labor Committee and Vice-Pres. Ashley Totten of the Sleeping Car Porters are among ranking Negro labor leaders.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY BULLETIN

VOLUME XX | JULY 1, 1940 | NUMBER 1

Citations by President Johnson

During the 73rd Commencement Exercises as Honorary Degrees of Doctor of Laws were conferred upon Myles A. Paige, A. Phillip Randolph, and John W. Davis.

ASA PHILLIP RANDOLPH

For fifteen years you have worked to organize Negro labor in one of the most difficult of all fields, and to get your organization recognized by employers and by the law. This you have done, not for Negroes alone, but in pursuance of your deep-rooted conviction of the necessity of the wide-spread organization of American labor for the purpose of securing the establishment of economic conditions favorable to the continuance and further development of American political democracy, civil liberty and spiritual freedom.

During the greater part of this period neither employers nor the law, nor public opinion supported your objectives.

Against lethargy, opposition and every form of discouragement you have maintained unswerving loyalty to your cause, indefatigable effort and a poise and restraint which have commanded the respect of all.

You have lived to see your organization established, recognized and constructively functioning to afford improved working conditions, shorter hours and greatly increased income for one of the most disadvantaged groups of American labor.

You have lived to see a basic change in the law and in public opinion and to see the labor movement day by day increasing in its strength and in fundamental understanding of its necessitous solidarity across the lines of race.

You are entitled to the crown of honor which comes to him who has fought successfully for the recognition of an unpopular cause of basic importance to his people and his nation; and, by reason of your rich experience, the central strength and poise of your mind, you are entitled to stand among the trusted leaders of your country.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY BULLETIN

VOLUME XX | JULY 1, 1940 | NUMBER 1

Citations by President Johnson

During the 73rd Commencement Exercises as Honorary Degrees of Doctor of Laws were conferred upon Myles A. Paige, A. Phillip Randolph, and John W. Davis.

ASA PHILLIP RANDOLPH

For fifteen years you have worked to organize Negro labor in one of the most difficult of all fields, and to get your organization recognized by employers and by the law. This you have done, not for Negroes alone, but in pursuance of your deep-rooted conviction of the necessity of the wide-spread organization of American labor for the purpose of securing the establishment of economic conditions favorable to the continuance and further development of American political democracy, civil liberty and spiritual freedom.

During the greater part of this period neither employers nor the law, nor public opinion supported your objectives.

Against lethargy, opposition and every form of discouragement you have maintained unswerving loyalty to your cause, indefatigable effort and a poise and restraint which have commanded the respect of all.

You have lived to see your organization established, recognized and constructively functioning to afford improved working conditions, shorter hours and greatly increased income for one of the most disadvantaged groups of American labor.

You have lived to see a basic change in the law and in public opinion and to see the labor movement day by day increasing in its strength and in fundamental understanding of its necessitous solidarity across the lines of race.

You are entitled to the crown of honor which comes to him who has fought successfully for the recognition of an unpopular cause of basic importance to his people and his nation; and, by reason of your rich experience, the central strength and poise of your mind, you are entitled to stand among the trusted leaders of your country.

OPPORTUNITY
Journal of Negro Life

The Case For Socialized Medicine

● By A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

SOCIALIZED medicine is a controversial question. Some doctors are for it. Others are against it. It is opposed on the one hand because it is alleged to be Socialism, on the other because it is said not to benefit either patient or doctor, and not to contribute to the progress of medicine as a science or art. There are also men of medicine and laymen who state that socialized medicine is simply not necessary. None of these positions is entirely correct.

First, let us determine what socialized medicine is not. It is not Socialism. Socialism means the social ownership and democratic operation of the social tools and natural resources of production and exchange for service. There is no intention to establish social ownership of doctors. Socialism does not mean the socialization of all property. It is concerned with social property which is socially necessary for social use. Socialized medicine will not compel a patient to accept a particular doctor, but will prevent a patient with smallpox or any harmful disease from refusing medical aid.

It is not the object of socialized medicine to exclude the practice of private medicine. Persons with large means will have the right and privilege of purchasing medical skill at as high a price as they wish to pay for it.

Socialized medicine does mean that no person who is sick will be permitted to go without proper and adequate medical attention, though moneyless and poor.

Socialized medicine, then, would provide compulsory medical attention to the needy sick at the cost of the government. Of course this implies that physicians, dentists and nurses would be regarded as public servants who would be required to minister to the needy sick for fees provided by the State. However, it does not mean that all doctors would become agents of the State and would be denied the right to conduct private practice. The theory behind this position is that preserving the health of the people is a paramount duty of the State.

Well has Dr. John A. Kingsbury, Associate Fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine, said that "The health of our people is our greatest wealth, and what is true in this regard of the nation as a whole, is true of the family and the individual. . . . It is self-evident that without physical and mental health freedom has but limited meaning, and the pursuit of happiness becomes but the shadow of its own substance."

There is more prejudice against the word "socialization" than against the fact of its existence. Elementary and high school education is socialized in the public school system today. It is financed and maintained by the municipal, State and Federal governments.

Public schools are available to the rich and the poor. They came into existence largely as the result of the demands of the working men's associations in the early part of the nineteenth century, for the early schools of the country were private and were only accessible to the children of the rich.

The government—whose purpose and function is the accommodation of the public needs of the population, among which is the maintenance of law and order—is itself socialized. It is maintained out of the public's funds, raised through taxation. And all of the people in the State pay taxes directly or indirectly. For if the mass of the people are not taxpayers, they are still tax makers since they are workers or consumers. While the government is not all we may wish it to be, without it there would be chaos and anarchy.

In the Middle Ages, "the government" was the strongest baron or lord. All power belonged to him. He used it for his private interest and profit. The maintenance of law and order depended upon the whim or caprice of the baron. Government was not yet socialized. Indeed, like land or cattle or women, it was the personal property of the baron who had the

and BI-ENNIAL CONVENTION

of the BROTHERHOOD of SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

AN INTERNATIONAL UNION

AFFILIATED WITH A. F. of L.

SEPT. 15th–20 1940

INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF
SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

HEADQUARTERS . . . 217 WEST 125th STREET

A STATEMENT FROM THE CHAIRMAN

For the first time since our struggle began in 1925, we are holding our Convention in New York City. Representatives and delegates from our fifty-nine divisions throughout the nation, Canada and Mexico have come to participate in our program of this our Second Biennial Convention and 15th Anniversary Celebration.

The Officers and Members of the Brotherhood wish to thank all Fraternal, Benevolent, Civic and Labor Organizations participating in our Program, including our "America First" Parade. We thank Rev. Cullen and the Salem Methodist Episcopal Church, Rev. William Lloyd Imes, pastor of St. James Presbyterian Church and Chairman of our Citizens' Committee, and Rev. Paul E. West of the Lutheran Church of the Transfiguration most especially for their untiring efforts and devotion to our cause.

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN,

FOREWORD

THE Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters was organized in 1925 in New York City. It has had fifteen years of hard and difficult struggle. During this period, many Porters have lost their jobs. Nevertheless, groups of Porters and Divisions throughout the country have remained loyal to the cause of the Brotherhood.

Because of this loyalty on the part of the Porters, Attendants and Maids, even though in small numbers in the various Divisions from coast to coast, the Brotherhood was able to sign an Agreement with the Pullman Company in Chicago in 1937.

That Agreement brought recognition to the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters as the duly authorized bargaining agency for the negotiation of agreements concerning rates of pay and rules governing working conditions for Porters, Maids and Attendants.

During the early days of the struggle of the Brotherhood, opposition was bitter and determined, not only from the Pullman Company, but also from some Negro leaders in the press, church and politics. Despite this fact, the Porters never quit. They fought tenaciously on.

Today, the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is an outstanding symbol of the capacity, will and spirit of the Negro people to stand on their own feet, for the Porters in the Brotherhood paid the price of their victory. They endured privation and suffered incident to the loss of jobs.

Thus, the officials and members of the Brotherhood consider that the most important contribution the struggle of the Porters has made to the life of the Negro people is the record of self-reliance.

INTERNATIONAL OFFICERS

M. P. WEBSTER
First International Vice-President

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
International President

ASHLEY L. TOTTEN
International Secretary-Treasurer

BENNIE SMITH
Second International Vice-President

E. J. BRADLEY
Third International Vice-President

C. L. DELLUMS
Fourth International Vice-President

INTERNATIONAL OFFICERS

KATHERINE LASSITER
First International Vice-President

HELENA WILSON
International President, Ladies' Auxiliary

R. TUCKER
International Secretary-Treasurer

MAE DAILEY
Second International Vice-President

J. B. CAVINISS
Third International Vice-President

LETITIA MURRAY
Fourth International Vice-President

Compliments of

GOLDEN GATE BALLROOM

"Harlem's Million Dollar Ballroom"

LENOX AVE. and 142nd ST.

New York City

(Now Booking for Club Affairs)

Compliments of

HOTEL MACEO

"The Transient Tourists' Home"

108 WEST 116th STREET
New York City

•

UNiversity 4-8539

WELCOME, CONVENTION DELEGATES!

If you are asked by a man: "Where is the best place in Harlem to live"? he is seeking your help.

Recommend
Harlem Branch Y.M.C.A.

and the Board of Managers and Staff will do their best to make the man realize that your recommendation was a service.

Special Rates to Railroad Men.

•

TWO BUILDINGS

180 WEST 135th STREET
181 WEST 135th STREET
New York, N. Y.

DON'T BE LOST IN THE CROWD

wear a YOUNG'S

Individualized Hat

Take your choice of any one of 25 different colored detachable hatbands when you buy your Young's hat and STANDOUT as a fashion leader. You choose you own band to suit you own taste.

DOEFELT
$2.95
MELOFELT*
$3.50
STETSONS
$5 up

Young's

HARLEM STORE:
201 West 125th Street

Largest Retailers of Stetson Hats

*Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

PROGRAMME

OF THE

Biennial Convention and Fifteenth Anniversary Celebration of Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

•

MASS MEETING

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 15th, 1940, 3 P. M.

INVOCATION ..... REV. F. A. CULLEN
Pastor, Salem M. E. Church

SINGING—"Lift Every Voice and Sing" ..... CHOIR and AUDIENCE

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS ..... CHAIRMAN

ADDRESS ..... M. P. WEBSTER
First International Vice-President, Brotherhoodof Sleeping Car Porters

SOLO ..... MISS HELEN DOWDY

ADDRESS ..... U. S. SENATOR JAMES M. MEAD

SINGING—"Hold the Fort" ..... CHOIR and Audience

ADDRESS ..... MAYOR FIORELLO H. LAGUARDIA

SINGING ..... CHOIR

ADDRESS ..... WILLIAM GREEN
President, A. F. of L.

SOLO ..... MISS ALBERTHA JACKSON

ADDRESS ..... A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
International President, Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

SINGING—"John Brown's Body" ..... CHOIR and AUDIENCE

Chairman—ASHLEY L. TOTTEN
International Secretary-Treasurer, Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and General Chairman Convention

A Parade of the members of the Brotherhood, other unions and organizations in uniform and the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary will precede the Mass Meeting.

A TOWER OF STRENGTH

The
AMALGAMATED LABEL

The Amalgamated label is the trade mark of --

1 -- High standards of work
2 -- American standard of living

Your demand for the union label of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America will lend added strength to the cause of organized labor.

WORK UNION AND BUY UNION

The Amalgamated label appears on all men's wearing apparel--men's and boys' clothing, shirts, work clothes and overalls, gloves, neckwear, sport clothing, pajamas and underwear.

The union label is a tower of strength for workers.

AMALGAMATED CLOTHING WORKERS OF AMERICA

IT is a privilege to be able to greet the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters on the occasion of its Fifteenth Anniversary celebration. During a period of vast social and economic changes, your organization has contributed much toward better working conditions of the men and women in the Pullman car service industry and in this way helped to advance the position of labor generally.

The delegates gathered in New York City and representing workers throughout the country will be faced with many urgent problems that concern all Americans deeply. I feel confident that this great Convention will help to further strengthen the position of American workers irrespective of race or color, and help to defend and promote our democratic institutions.

I am happy to extend the good wishes of the organization I represent to the delegates, officers and members of your great International Union.

JACOB S. POTOFSKY
General Secretary-Treasurer

Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America
15 Union Square New York City

Greetings from

"32K"

BROOKLYN AND QUEENS BUILDING SERVICE EMPLOYEES INTERNATIONAL UNION

George J. Troy, President
Joseph Moore, Secy.-Treas.

Fraternal Greetings

BUTCHERS UNION of GREATER NEW YORK

LOCAL L-74

119 EAST 18th STREET
New York City

Greetings from

BLASTERS AND DRILLRUNNERS UNION

LOCAL No. 29

162 EAST 23rd STREET
New York City

GRamercy 3-1842

BOOKBINDERS AND MACHINE OPERATORS

LOCAL UNION No. 25

63 PARK ROW
New York City

"Best Wishes for Continued Success"

GREATER NEW YORK CO-ORDINATING COMMITTEE for EMPLOYMENT

Officers

Rev. A. Clayton Powell, Jr., Chairman
Rev. Wm. Lloyd Imes, Co-Chairman
Mrs. Chester Chinn, Treasurer
Arnold P. Johnson, Exec. Secretary

The League for Industrial Democracy extends to the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters — Fraternal Greetings and Hearty Congratulations on the Brotherhood's Fifteen Years of magnificent labor achievement.

John Dewey, President, L.I.D.

Harry W. Laidler, Executive Director
112 East 19th Street
New York City

Compliments of

PRIVATE CHAUFFEURS UNION

Local 800

202 EAST 83rd STREET
New York City

Fraternal Greetings and Best Wishes

WINDOW CLEANERS UNION

LOCAL No. 2

B.S.E.I.U. A. F. of L.

217 EAST 6th STREET
New York City

Your organization has won the respect of the American labor movement for the courageous uphi.l fight it has waged for fourteen years in defense of the economic rights of a badly exploited group. Your present eminence is a high tribute to the ability and resourcefulness of your leadership.

Thirty thousand dressmakers join with the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in pledging a relentless campaign against those reactionary enemies of labor and democracy who sow intolerance and foster racial antagonisms. Congratulations to your entire membership on this significant Fifteenth Anniversary Celebration.

Minnie Lurye, Chairlady

Charles S. Zimmerman,
Secretary-Manager
Dressmakers Union
Local 22,, ILGWU.

STOP AT A UNION HOTEL!

Fair wages and fair work standards advance America's health and prosperity. Write for free list of Union Hotels with fair conditions.

•

HOTEL & CLUB EMPLOYEES UNION, Local 6, A. F. of L.

701 EIGHTH AVENUE
New York City

Trades Council
Affiliated with New York Hotel

Greetings:

FROM THE LAUNDRY WORKERS JOINT BOARD, AMALGAMATED CLOTHING WORKERS OF AMERICA

•

HYMAN BLUMBERG, Manager
NOAH C. A. WALTER, Asst. Mgr.
ROGER F. DOUGLAS, President
LOUIS SIMON, Secy.-Treas.

Fraternal Greetings, Best Wishes and Continues Success from

Officers and Members

Dining Car Employees Union, Local 370

and Ladies' Auxiliary

•

200 WEST 135th STREET
New York City

Theodore A. Jackson, President
Claude H. Mason, Secy.-Treas.
George E. Brown, General Chairman

PROGRAMME

SESSIONS OF THE CONVENTION

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16th, 1940

First Session

Registration of Delegates at Brotherhood Headquarters

OFFICES, 217 West 125th Street, Room 301 ..... 9 A. M.

CONVENTION CALLED TO ORDER ..... 10 A. M.
Report of International President
Report of Credentials Committee

ADDRESS—"What the Railway Retirement Act Means to the Railway Employees" ..... HON. MURRAY W. LATIMER
Chairman, Railroad Retirement Board

ADDRESS ..... FRANK R. CROSSWAITH
International Organizer, International Ladies' Garment Workers Union

ADDRESS ..... DR. WILLARD UPHAUS
Director, National Religion and Labor Foundation

ADDRESS ..... HON. OTTO S. BEYER
Chairman National Mediation Board

Subject: "What the Railway Labor Act has done for better Relations between Carriers and their Employees."

Recess—12:30 P. M. to 2:00 P. M.

Second Session

2:00 P. M. to 5:30 P. M.

●

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 17th, 1940

Third Session

9:30 A. M. to 12:30 P. M.
Recess—12:30 P. M. to 2:00 P. M.

Fourth Session

2:00 P. M. to 5:30 P. M.
Supper—5:30 P. M. to 7:30 P. M.

Fifth Session

7:30 P. M. to 9:30 P.M.

(Continued)

GREETINGS

from

SIGN-PICTORIAL AND DISPLAY UNION

LOCAL No. 230

22 EAST 17th STREET
New York City

GREETINGS

from

NEW YORK JOINT BOARD

Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America

LOUIS HOLLANDER
JOSEPH CATALANOTTI

ABRAHAM MILLER
Secretary-Treasurer

The Negro Labor Committee shares with the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters the Fraternal and Spiritual joy of fifteen years of unprecedented Negro progress, years that indicate the path over which our race and class must tread toward our next emancipation.

BLACK AND WHITE WORKERS UNITE!

FRANK R. CROSSWAITH,
Chairman.

RETAIL CLERKS COUNCIL of GREATER NEW YORK AND VICINITY, R.C.I.P.A.
American Federation of Labor

•

NATHAN WERTHEIMER, President
GEORGE BARASCH, Secretary
AL GREENBERG, Manager

Greetings

FROM COLORED EMPLOYEES OF THE KATY LINES

M. K. L. R. R.

The Railroad Which Serves the Southwest

Member A.F.O.E. 20940 — WI 7-1220

Greetings

E. G. FORD
Accountant and Auditor
140 WEST 42nd STREET
New York City
Specializing in International and Local Unions

Greetings
To a Pioneer American Trade Union from a
Pioneer Labor Political Movement

THE SOCIALIST PARTY OF U. S. A.
and
THE 1940 LABOR, LEAGUE FOR THOMAS AND KRUEGER

Co-Chairmen
Nicholas A. Zonarick
A. Philip Randolph

Secretary
Arthur G. McDowell
549 Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.

GREETINGS and CONGRATULATIONS
to the
Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters
on the occasion of their Biennial Convention and Fifteenth Anniversary Celebration

May your deliberations and decisions strengthen your Organization and bring added happiness to your membership.

•

UNITED HATTERS, CAP AND MILLINERY
WORKERS INTERNATIONAL UNION
M. ZARITSKY, President

BUILDING & ALLIED TRADES
COMPENSATION SERVICE BUREAU of Greater New York and Vicinity
2 LAFAYETTE STREET, NEW YORK CITY

•

THOMAS J. CURTIS
Executive Director

—

Hearing Representatives
WILLIAM E. CURTIS
MICHAEL MADONNA

Medical Director
SAUL P. LEHV, M.D.

Advisory Board
JOHN F. DALTON

—

Chairman
ADOLPH GERSH

Vice-Chairman
ALBERT F. DAY
HARRY EILERT
MOE ROSEN
THOS. F. MURPHY

PROGRAMME

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18th, 1940
Sixth Session

9:30 A. M. to 12:30 P. M.
Recess—12:30 P. M. to 2:00 P. M.

Seventh Session
2:00 P. M. to 5:30 P. M.
Supper—5:30 P. M. to 7:30 P. M.

Eighth Session

7:30 P. M. to 9:30 P. M.

Adjournment

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16th, at 7:30 P. M.

at MECCA TEMPLE

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS BIENNIAL CONVENTION LABOR DINNER

INVOCATION ..... DR. WILLIAM LLOYD IMES

SINGING—"Lift Every Voice and Sing."

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS ..... CHAIRMAN

ARRANGED SELECTION ..... THE THREE NATURAL ALABAMANS
1. "Who's That Callin' "
2. "De Train Is Comin' "

ADDRESS ..... C. L. DELLUMS
Fourth International Vice-President, Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

ADDRESS ..... JAMES C. QUINN
Secretary-Treasurer, Central Trades and Labor Council

SOLOS ..... PROF. FURMAN FORDHAM
1. "For You Alone" (by Geehl)
2. "L'Amour Toujours l'Amour" (by Friml)

INTRODUCTION OF MRS. ROOSEVELT ..... DR. MARY MCLEOD BETHUNE
Dirctor Negro Affairs, National Youth Administration

ADDRESS ..... MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

SOLOS ..... MISS NADINE WATERS
"O Ceil Azzure Avia Aida" (Verdi)

ADDRESS ..... SPENCER MILLER, JR.
Director, Workers Education Bureau of America, A. F. of L.

ADDRESS ..... AUBREY WILLIAMS
Director, National Youth Administration

ADDRESS ..... WALTER WHITE
Secretary, National Association For The Advancement of Colored People

SOLO—"Invictus" ..... PROF. FURMAN FORDHAM

Greetings

JOINT BOARD DRESS & WAISTMAKERS' UNION

JULIUS HOCHMAN, General Manager
BEN EVRY, President
N. M. MINKOFF, Secretary-Treasurer

AMALGAMATED LADIES' GARMENT CUTTERS' UNION, Local No. 10
Isidore Nagler, Manager

DRESS & WAISTMAKERS' UNION, Local No. 22
Chas. S. Zimmerman, Manager-Secretary

DRESS PRESSERS' UNION, Local No. 60
Max Cohen, Manager

ITALIAN DRESSMAKERS' UNION, Local No. 89
Luigi Antonini, General Secretary-Manager

THE RAILROAD MEN'S ASSOCIATION

To Promote Goodwill, Higher Ideals and Social Recognition for Railroad Men in the Industry

N. W. GRACE ..... President
JOHN PONZIE ..... Vice-President
P. L. BURTON ..... Secretary
H. F. BUFORD ..... Treasurer
GEORGE CAMPBELL ..... Steward
FITZROY JOSEPHS ..... Parliamentarian and Club Photographer

FITZROY JOSEPHS

Finance Committee

W. J. DONALDSON
CLARENCE MARTIN
J. W. MURRY
A. D. NOBLES
J. E. WILSON

Welfare Committee

W. J. MITCHELL
JAMES MOTT
WILLIAM MUSTEN
A. J. HARRIS
RICHARD MALLETTE

Entertainment Committee

BENNY BURLEIGH
CHARLES LOWE
RICHARD HOLMES
LLOYD MERRICK
JULIAN PRICE

BERNELL CLOTHING CO.

149 FIFTH AVENUE

Cor. 21st Street 2nd Floor

New York City

ALL GARMENTS $17.75

WELCOME TO

HARLEM'S FINEST SHOP

FLORSHEIM SHOES

New Fall Shoes

273 WEST 125th STREET
New York City

ED 4-3535

SELMA DAY

ART FOR INDUSTRY

LETTERING DESIGN

DECORATIONS

232 WEST 135th STREET
New York City

Brause Bros., Inc.

STATIONERS PRINTERS

70 EAST 125th STREET

New York City

Compliments of

TOWN'S HATS

149 WEST 125th STREET

New York City

STETSON HATS

CAthedral 8-1472-1473

UPTOWN GARAGE
TRANSIENTS

Harlem's Largest Garage
Courtesy - Safety - Cleanliness

154-160 WEST 124th STREET
New York City

TRAVELING?

You Will Need a Guide.

THE NEGRO MOTORIST GREEN BOOK

(Cooperating with the United States Travel Bureau)
PRICE 25c

VICTOR H. GREEN, Publisher
938 St. Nicholas Ave. New York City

AUdubon 3-9604

COLONIAL CRAZY HOUSE

Restaurant — Excellent Cuisine
Beers - Wines - Liquors

116 BRADHURST AVE.

At 148th St. New York City

David Francois, Manager

BLUMSTEIN'S WEST 125th ST.
NEW YORK CITY

invites you to visit the Optical Dept. located on the balcony in a quiet, dignified office which has every facility for complete Optometric service. Dr. S. Strugates, our Optometrist, is always in attendance.

Easy payment terms if desired.

Compliments of

OLD COLONY RESTAURANT

Fine Foods - Wines - Liquors

354 LENOX AVENUE

New York City

LUCILLE
HARLEM'S HOUSE OF FLOWERS

Fresh Cut Party, Wedding and Floral Designs a Specialty

Telegraph Orders—City-Wide Delivery

2306 SEVENTH AVENUE
Bet. 135th and 136th Streets
AU 3-9293 New York City

Compliments of

PEARL'S DRESS SHOPPE

4077 TIREMAN AVENUE

Detroit, Michigan

Mrs. Bennie Smith, Prop.

WILLIAM S. BERKOFF

Fine Wines and Liquors

ERNEST HUTCHINSON, Manager

30 WEST 125th STREET

New York City

Greetings

MAX'S GROCERY

AGNES and MICHIGAN STS.

Indianapolis, Indiana

FLORIDA'S FAVORITE REFRESHMENT

•

Makes You Glad You're Thirsty.

•

SOUTHERN BREWING CO.
Tampa, Florida

PROGRAMME

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 18th, 10 P. M. UNTIL?

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS COCKTAIL PARTY

at LIDO POOL

•

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 19th, 1940

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS WORLD'S FAIR DAY

PROGRAM

INVOCATION ..... BROTHER R. R. MATTHEWS
Chairman, Executive Board New York Division

SELECTION—"God Bless America" ..... Y.M.C.A. ALL GIRLS GLEE CLUB and AUDIENCE

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS ..... CHAIRMAN

SINGING—"Lift Every Voice and Sing."

ADDRESS ..... M. P. WEBSTER
First International Vice-President, Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

SOLO—"Homing" (by Del Reigo) ..... MISS BEATRICE ALLEN

SELECTION ..... Y.M.C.A. ALL GIRLS GLEE CLUB

ADDRESS ..... HONORABLE HERBERT LEHMAN
Governor, The State of New York

SOLO ..... PROF. FURMAN FORDHAM, Lyric Baritone

ADDRESS ..... HONORABLE FRANCES PERKINS
Secretary, U. S. Department of Labor

SOLO ..... MISS MAYE HOOPER, Mezzo Soprano

ADDRESS ..... A. PHILIP RANDOLPH
International President, Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

•

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 20th, 1940

10 P. M. Until ?

BIENNIAL CONVENTION BALL

GOLDEN GATE BALLROOM

142nd Street and Lenox Avenue

Greetings

from an Honorary Member who has been a friend from the beginning when friends were few.

JAMES A. (Billboard) JACKSON

"THE ESSO MAN"

who meets many of the members while traveling and wants the others to know as they do, that I am proud of my card.

Compliments of

HI-HAT BAR AND GRILL, Inc.

For Discriminating Pleasure Seekers

2394 SEVENTH AVENUE

New York City

Greetings from

HY GRADE

STORES CO INC

Clothing for Men, Women & Children

Radios - Wrist Watches - Haberdashery

131 W. 125th St. New York City

CA 8-2800

Compliments of the

HOTEL THERESA

When in New York for the day, the week, or permanently, for exquisite living.

WALTER W. SCOTT, Manager

7th Avenue at 125th Street

New York City

MO 2-1700

LUCAS & SONS CANDY STORES

Candy - Tobacco - Stationery - Sodas

100 W. 137th ST., at Lenox Ave.

100 W. 138th ST., at Lenox Ave.

548 LENOX AVE., bet. 137th-138th Streets, New York City

NEW YORKER SERVICE STATION, Inc.

CITIES SERVICE

(Service is our middle name)

GAS — OIL

155th St. & St. Nicholas Pl.

AU 3-1807

(On the Hill)

238 West 145th Street

AU 3-9085

(In the Valley)

Greetings from

BELSTRAT LAUNDRY, Inc.

18 years' satisfactory service

Fine Workmanship for the Most Discriminating.

51 W. 140th St. ED 4-7646

New York City D. Doles, Prop.

Greetings from

MADISON CLOTHING COMPANY

1733 AMSTERDAM AVENUE

(Bet. 145th and 146th Sts.)

New York City

●

AUdubon 3-4545

BEST WISHES

for a

SUCCESSFUL CONVENTION

Judge James S. Watson

117 WEST 120th STREET

New York City

New Features of Perkin's Services — Continuous Music from the Grand Console

210 WEST 145th STREET AU 3-3984

WELCOME

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

LAGOS BAR & GRILL

2496 SEVENTH AVE.
S.W. Cor. 145th St. New York City

AUdubon 3-9815

Welcome — and Best Wishes

SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

DANIEL'S RESTAURANT

BAR AND GRILL, Inc.

2461 SEVENTH AVENUE
AUdubon 3-8973 New York City

C. A. Daniel, Manager

Little Jock and Luther's

MODERN BARBECUE

Open Day and Night

250 EIGHTH AVENUE
Bet. 133rd and 134th Sts.
New York City

BELL & TUCKER, Inc.

MEN'S SHOP

2296 SEVENTH AVENUE

Near 15th Street

New York City

RAILWAY BAR & RESTAURANT, Inc.

414 EIGHTH AVENUE
New York City
(Near Pennsylvania Terminal)

A Favorite Meeting Place for All Railroad Men.

•

Pay checks cashed upon identification.

Meals served at all hours.

Compliments of

Jacob Goodman & Co.

Inc.

Real Estate and Insurance

•

217 WEST 125th STREET
New York City

MAin 2-0536

DILLARD
FUNERAL HOME
468 JEFFERSON AVENUE

Cor. Jefferson Ave. Brooklyn, N. Y.

AUdubon 3-1242

WILEY & THOMAS
FUNERAL HOME

2303 SEVENTH AVENUE
New York City

Walter H. Wiley
Charles W. Thomas

Compliments of
3 ROSES BAR & GRILL

330 LENOX AVENUE

LE 4-9245

Hymie Orgel, Prop.
David A. Gaines, Bar Attendant

An Outstanding Statesman

•

MAYOR MAURY MAVERICK

of San Antonio, Texas, is an institution in American political life. He is the only Southerner who supported the Anti-Lynching Bill in Congress. For this position he was condemned and viciously fought, but he never surrendered his principles.

Now, public sentiment is turned toward him again, recognizing his great worth and value to American public life. In every important struggle in the Congress involving a great social issue, he was found on the side of the oppressed and exploited, whether they be workers or minority groups.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, in its Biennial Convention, takes this opportunity to salute him.

Compliments of

EDWIN CRAIG RESTAURANTEUR
55 St. Nicholas Pl.
New York City

Greetings from

GOTHAM BAR & GRILL
2440 SEVENTH AVE.
New York City

CHICK'S, Inc.
Restaurant - Bar - Grill
"Rendezvous of the Smarter Set"
2556 Seventh Ave. New York City
Cor. 148th St. AU 3-9802

FLASH INN BAR AND GRILL
Fine Food, Wine, Beer and Liquors
2621 Seventh Ave., New York City
At 151st St. AU 3-7560

The MOONGLOW BAR & GRILL, Inc.
Entertainment Above the Average
220 WEST 145th STREET
New York City
LEhigh 4-8752 Eddie Roosevelt

COUNTY BEVERAGE
Largest Wholesale Distributors
424 E. 110th St. New York City

Greeting from

MRS. ALICE DUNLAP
Private Dining Room - Southern Cooking
166 W. 136th St. New York City

RUTH'S BARBECUE INN
(Home of Southern Barbecue)
105 Lenox Ave. New York City
Ruth Johnson, Prop.

MOnument 2-8187
MARVIN CASSELL
Retail LIQUOR Store
213 WEST 125th STREET
New York City

Compliments of

R. H. KING
Wine and Liquor Store
2622 Seventh Ave., New York City
EDgecombe 4-7946 License 753

ED 4-8810-1
M. FRIEDLAND
New York State Retail Liquor Store
605-7 LENOX AVENUE
New York City

AUdubon 3-9703 V. Burton, Prop.

When in New York Visit

VICKY'S BEAUTY SALON
Specializing in Marcel Waving, Etc.
2905 Eighth Ave. New York City

Greetings To You
On Your
FIFTEENTH ANNIVERSARY

S. P. DAVIS BARBER SHOP
69 W. 138th St. New York City

ELDORADO BARBER SHOP
203 WEST 116th STREET
Nr. St. Nicholas Ave. New York City

TESSIE'S HAIR BEAUTIFYING SYSTEM
For Growth - Itchy Scalp - Dandruff
301 WEST 120th STREET
New York City

Compliments of

LA PRINCESSE BEAUTY SALON
143 WEST 135th STREET
New York City
●
AUdubon 3-7722

JA 6-8045

JOHN H. KLUGH
Expert Tailors - Cleaners - Dyers
109-05 Union Hall Street
Jamaica, N. Y.

RE 9-0191
McCLESTER FUNERAL HOME
Devoted to a Sacred Service Since 1927
109-52 New York Blvd.
Jamaica, N. Y.

Greetings from the
PIONEER LAUNDRY
146-61 107th AVENUE
Jamaica, N. Y.

Congratulations to Your Brotherhood from Your Tailor
LEVON
110-31 N. Y. BOULEVARD
Jamaica, L. I.

Compliments of
J. FOSTER PHILLIPS
Funeral Director
163-01 SOUTH ROAD
Jamaica, N. Y.

Compliments of
"THE CLAYTON"
(The Porter's Barber)
42-16 28th STREET
Long Island City

Compliments of
MERRITT GREEN
Funeral Director
419 GATES AVENUE
Nr. Nostrand Ave. Brooklyn, N. Y.

BROOKLYN GENERAL AGENCY
"A Representative of Negro Insurers"
H. J. Smith, General Agent
425 SUMNER AVENUE
GL 5-0417 Brooklyn, N. Y.

Compliments of
DR. R. C. WORMLEY
1155 Prospect Avenue
Bronx, N. Y.

Compliments of
M. MARSHBURN'S BEAUTY SALON
1012 BROOK AVENUE
Bronx, N. Y.

Compliments of
HUBB RESTAURANT
Finest Home Cooked Food
Ladies Invited
1070 Union Ave. Bronx, N. Y.
KI 5-9509

KI 5-9248
E. A. JACKSON'S FUNERAL HOME
815 EAST 167th STREET
Bronx, N. Y.
Mrs. Edith Jackson, Prop.

BRONXWOOD FUNERAL CHAPEL
Inc.
3959 BRONXWOOD AVE.
Bronx, N. Y.

Compliments of
COOK'S BILLIARD PARLOR
2904 Northern Boulevard
Long Island City, N. Y.

Compliments of
SAM EINSIDLER
Wines - Liquors
28-28 Jackson Avenue
Long Island City, N. Y.

BADIAN'S
Men's Furnishings - Shoes - Hats
Sportswear
Jackson Ave. and Queens Blvd.
Long Island City, N. Y.

MAin 2-1913

DR. C. N. LASTIQUE

Dentist

446 Franklin Ave. Brooklyn, N. Y.

Greetings from

A FRIEND

Greetings from

ASHLAND PLACE Y. W. C. A.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

Anna A. Hedgmen, Executive Secretary

STAR MILLINERY SHOP

32 East 125th Street

New York City

Compliments of

W. S. GREEN'S CANDY STORE

37 WEST 120th STREET

New York City

Greetings from

GENERAL MARKET

2216 SEVENTH AVENUE

New York City

E. Steadman, Prop.

Compliments of

Ladies' Aid Society of the American Virgin Islands, Inc.

149 W. 136th St. New York City

NEvins 8-1990 P. O. Sta. No. 22

THE ACTIVE PHARMACY

Bedford and Greene Aves.

Brooklyn, N. Y.

LE 4-0989

ANDREWS & STEVENS

Attorneys and Counsellors At Law

44 WEST 125th STREET

New York City

Compliments of

DR. AND MRS. JESSE MILLER

935 St. Nicholas Ave.

New York City

Greetings from

MISS THELMA BRUNDER

133 WEST 129th STREET

New York City

MR. & MRS. LEON S. ADGER

Teachers of Piano, Voice & Pipe Organ

255 WEST 111th STREET

New York City

Greetings from

VERNON & KING

Photo Studio

135 W. 135th St. New York City

Compliments of

WAIN WRIGHT & SON

Funeral Home

162 W. 135th St. New York City

Compliments of

BENEVOLENT SOCIETY OF THE AMERICAN VIRGIN ISLANDS, Inc.

149 WEST 136th STREET

New York City

Greetings from

ALVIN PHARMACY

2560 Seventh Ave. New York City
At 148th St. AU 3-9539-9621

Compliments of

LEA'S HOME BAKERY

Hot Milk Rolls Twice Daily

Butter Bread - Spice Buns

2504 Seventh Ave. - 276 W. 141st St.
New York City

Greetings from

ALLEN'S TIRE AND BATTERY SERVICE

147 WEST 145th STREET
New York City

DAVID STEIN FURNITURE CO.

1619 Seventh Avenue
New York City

EDgecombe 4-3535

J. T. HAILSTALK'S LINEN SUPPLY Co., Inc.

Coats and Aprons and Hoovers

232 W. 135th St. New York City

Compliments of

SHIRT HOSPITAL

Dressmaking - Tailoring - Cleaners

126 W. 135th St. New York City
AUdubon 3-0343

J. BERNARD DENT

Tailoring Establishment

157 WEST 144th STREET
New York City

Greetings from

A. GORDON

Tailor to Men

2361 Seventh Ave. New York City

AU 3-2080

TURNER ELECTRIC & AUTOMATIC HEATING CORP.

2555 EIGHTH AVENUE
New York City

Compliments of

D. SURLES

Locksmith

2377 Seventh Ave., New York City
Nr. 144th St. AU 3-9169

Compliments of

GENERAL 5c and 10c STORE

196 LENOX AVENUE
Cor. 120th St. New York City

AU 3-2424-2641

MARGOLIN BROTHERS

Wholesale and Retail Hardware - Paint

2453 Eighth Ave. New York City

Compliments of

BERT BUTLER

The Tailor

304 LENOX AVENUE
New York City

Compliments of

HOWARD HATS

217 WEST 125th STREET
New York City

LEhigh 4-1410 Open Evenings

WESTIN CLOTHES

312 LENOX AVENUE
Bet. 125th-126th Sts. New York

Greetings from

EMPIRE CREDIT CLOTHING

Radios - Jewelry - Men's Clothing

133 WEST 125th STREET

MOnument 2-9600 New York City

Congratulations from the

Angelus Funeral Home to the Brotherhood of Sleeping

Car Porters on Their 15th Anniversary Celebration

J. L. Hill, Vice-Pres. and Mgr.

1030 E. Jefferson Ave.
Los Angeles, Calif.

HERE'S A TIP

Tell your traveling public about the most interesting city in the country —where the old world charm mingles with the progress of the new.

There are things to see in San Antonio

La Villita
The Alamo
The Missions
Randolph Field
Ft. Sam Houston

SAN ANTONIO

The Pan-American Center

of the Western Hemisphere

The Conner-Johnson Co. congratulates the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters upon their 15th year of organization and their 2nd BIENNIAL CONVENTION.

The senior member of the Conner-Johnson Co., Mr. Chas. Conner (now deceased) was for many years a Sleeping Car Porter carrying a card until his death, and the present President of the company, Mr. S. P. Johnson, having managed the labor organization of Los Angeles for twenty-five years, and served as General Secretary for seventeen years, can fully appreciate your problems, and knowing the cause for which you are fighting is just, wish for this splendid Organiation the greatest success. Service and Dependability is the motto of our Organization.

CONNER-JOHNSON CO., Morticians
1400 E. 17th St. Los Angeles, Cal.

A Name That Stands for the Finest in Entertainment

Lichtman Theatres

America's Foremost

District of Columbia
Howard - Lincoln - Republic - Booker T
Broadway - Raphael - Rosalia - Mott

Virginia
Regal, Norfolk - Booker T, Norfolk - Carver, Norfolk - Manhattan, Norfolk - Capitol, Portsmouth - Jefferson, Newport News - Booker T, Richmond - Walker, Richmond - Globe, Richmond - Hippodrome, Richmond - Robinson, Regal, Norfolk - Booker T, Norfolk - son, Lynchburg.

North Carolina
Booker T - Rocky Mount

Comfort Service Entertainment

LITTLE SAVORY BAR
Liquor, Beer and Wine

(Visit Our Tropical Room)

Central & Scott St. Tampa, Fla.

Greetings from
SUNSET GROCERY & MEAT MARKET

1301-1303 Nebraska Avenue
Tampa, Fla.

HONEY DEW INN
Bar and Restaurant
115 Front St. New Orleans, La.
L. & N. Employers Headquarters
Mike & Toney, Props.

Good Wishes from

ADELAIDE SCHULKIND
Executive Secretary of League for Mutual Aid
New York City

KARE FULL SERVICE BUREAU
Staffed to Complete
The Small Job Shopping Catering Clerical
2070 Seventh Ave. New York City
MO 2-1700

We receive, hold or forward your Mail and Phone Messages
$1.50 Monthly
CORLEY'S MAIL ADVERTISING SERVICE
217 W. 125th St. New York City

Compliments of

DR. S. P. HARRIS
505 4th Ave., N. Phone: 6-7480
Nashville, Tenn.

Greetings

DR. C. C. HARWELL

505 4th Ave., N. Phone: 76-7480
Nashville, Tenn.

Greetings
J. HOWARD HALE
Funeral Director - Embalmer
916-922 Wide St. Norfolk, Va.

Res. Phone 22415 - Office Phone 22321

BAKERS CONFECTIONERY WORKERS' INTERNATIONAL UNION

Local No. 507 - Westchester Branch
1258 Boston Road Bronx, N. Y.

HOTEL CURRIE
101 WEST 145th STREET
New York City

●

AUdubon 3-7841

AUdubon 3-7730 F. C. Fane, Prop.

HOTEL FANE
205 WEST 135th STREET
New York City
Rooms $1.50 up

Greetings to the Brotherhood
From "THE CRISIS"
(Official Organ N.A.A.C.P.)
69 FIFTH AVENUE
New York City

Greetings from
RAND SCHOOL

7 EAST 15th STREET
New York City

Greetings from

HARLEM COMMUNITY ART CENTER

290 LENOX AVENUE
New York City

The Colored Bricklayers, members of the Bricklayers Progressive Association, pledge our support to all organized labor affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.
209 W. 135th St. New York City

GRANBERRY SERVICE

Mortuary and Ambulance

2800 Downing St. Denver, Colo.

ARTEX PRINTING SERVICE

1435 EAST 26th AVENUE

Denver, Colo.

DOUGLASS UNDERTAKING CO., Inc.

2745 WELTON STREET

Denver, Colo.

Annie L. Gaines, Sec.-Treas.

ST. LOUIS BARBECUE

2856 Welton Street Denver, Colo.

Where good fellows get together and have ribs and good things to eat.

DOUGLASS CAFE

Open All Night

121 MONROE STREET
Montgomery, Ala.

BONNIE'S CASINO

Our Sandwiches Prove That Good Taste Has No Substitute.

390 W. Jeff Davis Ave.
Montgomery, Ala.

YORK HOTEL

We Are Always Glad to Remember Any Member of the Brotherhood.

1200 Madison Ave. Baltimore, Md.

Congratulations from the

EX-SERVICE MEN'S CLUB

2627 WELTON AVE.
Denver, Colo.

FIVE P'TS SOCIAL CLUB

2729 Welton St. Denver, Colo.

Friends and Members Always Welcome

When in Denver, Colo.

EAT AT THE RITZ

2721 Welton Street

Call TA 6328-6329 for Ritz Cabs

THE ROSSONIAN HOTEL & GRILL

2640-50 WELTON STREET
Denver, Colo.

"You are always welcome at the Rossonian"

You Are Always Welcome At

ANDERSON'S GRILL

Fine Liquors - Fine Food

715 E. 26th Ave. Denver, Colo.

Compliments of

HARRY T. JEFFERSON

One Day Laundry Service

1109 Hopkins Street
Cincinnati, O.

TRAVELERS' TAVERN

Headquarters for All Brotherhood Men

Beer and Meals

1115 Hopkins Street
Cincinnati, O.

VISIT SAM THE TAILOR

With Barber Shop Connections

Around the Corner from Terminal Hotel

TERMINAL HOTEL

Railroad Men's Headquarters

Wines and Liquors of All Kinds

1103 Hopkins St. Cincinnati, O.

Compliments of

DIXIE LUNCH ROOM
Good Home Cooking — Beer and Wine
Sea Foods in Season

1510 Nebraska Ave. Tampa, Fla.

Phone M56-102

OLD GOLD GROCERY

1508 Nebraska Avenue
Tampa, Fla.

Compliments of

JOE'S & SON
Grocery and Meat Market

1614 Nebraska Avenue
Phone M-1742 Tampa, Fla.

BRUCE'S COZY LOUNGE

Beer - Lunches - Dinners
Music and Dancing

813 Scott Steet Tampa, Fla.

THE AUGUSTUS R. JOHNSON
HIGH SCHOOL
Augusta, Ga.

C. W. Johnson, Principal

For Quick - Courteous - Service
Dial 2-9282
McKINLEY'S SHOE REPAIR
1205 Gwinnett Street
Augusta, Ga.

Stop In — Let Us Serve You

MRS. ANNIE BALDWIN'S
BAR-B. Q. PIT
AUGUSTA, GA.
Annie Baldwin, Prop. Phone 2-7149

Let Us Clean and Press for You
(Tailoring Our Specialty)

I. J. JENNING — DRY CLEANING
1352 12th St., Augusta, Ga.

I. W. Williams, Mgr. Phone: 2-9136

Compliments of the

METROPOLITAN MEAT MARKET
Cor. Madison Ave. and Mosher St.
Baltimore, Md.
Phone Madison 6282

Compliments of
CAPLAN'S DRUG STORE
Protected Prescriptions
Cor. Carey and Edmondson Ave.
Baltimore, Md. Phone Gilmore 0520

Compliments of

WEAVER'S PHARMACY
1944 DRUIDHILL AVE.
Baltimore, Maryland

Broadway 2210

ROBERT L. YOUNG

Funeral Director and Embalmer
Lady Attendant
804 N. Caroline Ct. Baltimore, Md.

Congratulations

ATLANTA LIFE INSURANCE CO.

912 Gwinnett St. H. C. Kickson
Augusta, Ga. Manager

Congratulations from

THE LADIES' AUXILIARY OF THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

Augusta, Ga.

McKINLEY ALEXANDER

Electric Shoe Repair

1712 E. Eager St. Baltimore, Md.

WM. KAUFMAN & CO.

Dependable Furniture and Clothing Stores
556-60 N. Gay St.—559-61 N. Gay St.
Broadway 6500 Baltimore, Md.

BERNARD HARRIS, M.D.

Surgeon

1207 N. Caroline St. Baltimore, Md.

JOHN L. BERRY

District Manager, E. Baltimore District

NORTH CAROLINA MUTUAL

703 N. Gay St. Baltimore, Md.

Phone Fre. 9696

CARTMELL & SMITH

Grill and Tap Room
Cocktails Our Specialty

2335 Berks Street Phila., Pa.

INDEX CONFECTIONERY

Cigars, Tobacco, Candy, Soft Drinks
Ice Cream, Newspapers, Shoe Shines

1534 Church Street Norfolk, Va.

D. & S. CLOTHIERS

Foll Line of Ladies', Men's and Children's Clothing
(We Invite Charge Accoonts)

437 CHURCH STREET

Phone 41604 Norfolk, Va.

MYERS BERLIN CO.

(We Invite Charge Accounts)
Clothing for the Family

411 CHURCH STREET

Phone 23801 Norfolk, Va.

C O O P E R ' S

Radios - Jewelry - Glasses

641 CHURCH STREET
Norfolk, Va.

W. T. MASON & CO.

Fire, Auto & Plate Glass Insurance

704 CHURCH STREET
Norfolk, Va.

PRospect 7-9319

CLARK HOTEL & ANNEX

Modernly Equipped
Service DeLuxxe

1820-24 SO. CENTRAL

Cor. Washington Los Angeles, Cal.

Phone: Blvd. 6993

W R I G H T ' S

PURE FOOD RESTAURANT

(The Best Place to Eat)

3753 SO. WABASH AVE.

•

(Next to Porters' Quarters)
Chicago, Ill.

S. B. BEES CO.

•

1306 Grand Central Ave.

Tampa, Fla.

Brotherhood Banner Builders

ALBANY DIVISION

BASON, R.
BENJAMIN, T.
BERRINGS, E.
BLASSENGALE, H.
BOLLING, A.
BRONK, J.
DEBOE, J. R.
DEBOE, J. B.
DUDLEY, G.
HODGES, W.
JEFFERSON, M.
JOHNSON, J.
MOORE, B.
RANDOLPH, F.
RAULLERSON, C.
RANSOM, R.
ROBINSON, B.
POTTS, J.
THOMPSON, S.
TONEY, E.
WYATT, J.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., DIVISION

BERTHA, J.
GREENLEE, W.
GARY, E.
HUNTER, J.
LITTLEJOHN, W.
NORMAN, C.
PORTER, B.
ROGERS, R.
STRICKLAND, M.
SHELTALL, C.
JOHNSON, J. I.
HARPER, J. H.
KELLY, W. O.
McMAHAN, F.

AUGUSTA DIVISION

ANDERSON, P. D.
JOHNSON, A.
LAMAR, P.
MARION, D.
McBOWMAN, A.
McCLADDY, C.
RICE, L. J.
SMITH, T.
THOMPSON, W.

BALTIMORE DIVISION

BAILEY, G.
HALL, C.
JOHNSON, W.
MAXWELL, U.
MORROW, C.
PETERS, J.
TATE, J.
WATKINS, R.
WHITAKER, J. C.
WILLIAMS, R.

BOSTON DIVISION

ATKINS, D. C.
BARCO, T.
BECKWITH, J. M.
BLACKBURN, J. S.
BLACK, R. A.
CAIN, S.
CARNEY, H. F.
CHARLES, W. E.
COLES, W. C.
EASTERLING, J. D.
EVANS, O. L.
FISHER, J. M.

BOSTON—Continued

FUBLER, W. J.
GARDNER, J. L.
GRAVES, J. H.
HASKINS, S.
HOLLY, H. E.
HOOD, G. W.
HUFF, J. H.
JOHNSON, H. A.
JONES, HENRY
JONES, R. F.
LEATHERBURY, W. H.
LYCURGUS, C. W.
NELSON F. D.
OGLESBY, M. C.
PEARSON, T. M.
PERRINEAU, W. A.
PRICE, J. W.
RILEY, H.
ROBINSON, J. M.
RUSSELL, W.
SHARP, J. L.
STONE, L. D.
SUMMERS, R. L.
TAYLOR, F.
TOWNES, J.
WALKER, W. A.
WATKINS, J. E.
WEBB, T. T.
WILLIAMS, J. L.

CHARLESTON-SAVANNAH DIVISION

GRAVES, J.
HOLLOWAY, C.
LEAK, J.
MATTHEWS, C.
McCOTTRY, A.
MIDDLETON, W.
SKIPPER, H.
TRESCOTT, L.

CHATTANOOGA DIVISION

CARLOSS, S.
MOORE, M.
STAPLES, V.
WHITAKER, O. L.
WOOD, S.

DENVER DIVISION

BENOIT, R.
McBRIDE, J.
McCOY, E.
SLATER, B.
WELLS, G.

DETROIT DIVISION

BRITT, M.
BUCKNER, C.
DAVIS, C.
DYER, C.
HAWKINS, S.
LATIMORE, C.
LATIMORE, H.
ROBERTS, H.
ROBINSON, M.
SMITH, J.
STEVENSON, C.

FORT WORTH DIVISION

BATTIE, H.
BELL, D.
BOLDEN, S.
BROWN, L.
GRAHAM, S.
HUDNALL, W.
HUDSON, E.
JONES, J.
PERPENER, L.
RAGSDALE, F.
REDMON, M.
SHEPPARD, H.

JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

BENNETT, S. L.
BROWN, EUGENE H.
BURWELL, A.
BUTLER, B.
CARSWELL, W.
DARBY, J. W.
DEBOSE, E. A.
DOWDELL, W. M.
FAULK, ED.
HARPER, S.
HARRIS, E. G.
JACKSON, J. F.
KINNON, ED.
NELSON, W.
PRESTON, J. L.
SATTERWHITE, C.
SCRIVEN, T. E.
THOMPSON, T.

JERSEY CITY DIVISION

ADAMS, W. W.
BARBER, C.
BRASWELL, F.
BURNEY, J. D.
CUNNINGHAM, W.
COOPER, R.
DAVIS, E.
DANIELS, C.
DIXSON, W.
DWIGHT, A.
FORD, M.
GARNER, F.
HALL, W.
HARRIS, J.
HOLLOWAY, W.
JOHNSON, J. A.
KEARNEY, V. L.
LAWTON, E.
LEWIS, M.
MATTHEWS, H.
MORGAN, R.
MORRIS, O.
MILTEER, W. W.
NEAL, C.
PARKER, P.
PENDERGRASS, E.
RAVENAL, P.
SHELTON, J.
TERRY, J.
UPPMAN, W.
WALLACE, W.

LOS ANGELES DIVISION

Men's Auxiliary

ARMSTRONG, H. L.
ARMSTRONG, O.
BELL, J.
BRAZLEY, M.
BROCK, F. D.
BROWN, J. E.
CAMPBELL, C. R.
CLARK, W. A.
DAVIS, F.
DAVIS, T.
FULLEYLOVE, H.
GLENN, W.
HAMMOND, F.
HAWKINS, B.
HENDERSON, G.
JOHNSON, K.
JOHNSON, O.
JONES, A.
LEE, A. S.
MINGLETON, H.
MURRAY, R.
NOEL, A.
PRESCOTT, H.
SMITH, F.
SOARES, O.
STAFFORD, J. E.
THREADFORD, W.
THOMPSON, L.
WALKER, W. H.
WASHINGTON, H. E.
WOODS, J. R.
WORTHAN, J.
WYNDON, W.
YOUNG, N.

Ladies' Auxiliary

BRAZLEY, M. B.
BROCK, F. D.
CAMPBELL, C. R.
CLARK, W. A.
DAVIS, E.
DAVIS, F.
FLETCHER, C.
GLENN, W.
HAMMOND, E.
HAWKINS, B. M.
HENDERSON, E.
JOHNSON, E. A.
MURRAY, L.
SMITH, F.
SOARES, T.
UPTON, T.
WALKER, W. H.
WYNDON, M.
YOUNG, H.

KANSAS CITY DIVISION

DOBBINS, D.
FULCHER, A.
HERNDON, C.
JEFFERSON, D.
LAWSON, W.
MASSEY, B.
MONTGOMERY, L.
NICKENS, W. H.
NORMAN, R.
SCHOOLEN, O.
THOMAS, L.
WILLIS, R. M.

MEMPHIS DIVISION

ANDERSON, E.
BALDRIGE, A.
BORDERS, I. R.
BRYANT, L.
COOPER, C.
CRITTENDEN, R.
FLETCHER, H.
GLOVER, W.
GOFFMAN, F.
HATCHER, C.
HAWKINS, E.
HUNTER, E.
McGAUGHEY, G.
NESBITT, T.
PATTON, H. F.
PERRY, H.
PLUMP, F.
ROGERS, C.
SMITH, R.
TAYLOR, J.
WATKINS, R.
WATSON, B. L.
WINSTON, C.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

BONE, F. H.
HOLT, L. T.
JAMES, W.
POPE, H.
ROBERTSON, S. W.
ROYSTER, WM.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

HALL, S. FRANKLIN
MITCHELL, A. T.
JOHNSON, WILLIAM

NEW YORK DIVISION

ARCHER, M.
ANDERSON, W.
ASHBY, C.
ADAMS, N.
ADAMS, J.
ACOSTA, F.
BLACKMAN, W.
BREWER, G.
BOWE, W. H.
BOWLER, F.
BROWN, E.
BYNUM, O. W.
BASILAN, V.
BROWN, H.
BROWN, J.
BROWN, J. W.
BAGLON, A.
BALLARD, J.
BANTISTA, F.
BARBER, J.
BABB, C.
BAILEY, H.
BELL, J.
BARNES, J.
BONNER, L.
BACCALLA, J.
BRANCH, A.
CUNNINGHAM, M.
CARTER, R.
CARTER, L.
COOPER, W.
CAREY, M.
CRAWFORD, T.
COLES, R.
CARTER, J.
COX, S.

NEW YORK—Continued

COX, J.
COLEMAN, M.
CHAPMAN, F.
COLEBROOK, T.
CHADWICK, T.
CHITTICK, T.
CUNNINGHAM, M.
CHESSE, E.
COLTRANE, L.
DONNELLY, A.
DAVIS, C.
DAVIS, J.
DUCKWORTH, C.
DANIELS, E.
CONELLY, M.
DORSEY, H.
DAVIS, C. E.
DEBRICK, H. REV.
DONNELLY, M.
DURANT, R.
ELTRIDGE, J.
DARDEN, E.
EADDY, J.
GREEN, J. W.
EICHELBERGER, T.
EURE, L.
EDMONDSON, F.
ELZY, A.
FRAZIER, W.
FORD, M.
FISHER, A.
GAVIN, D.
GOODING, T.
GRIFFINS, A.
GRAHAM, R.
GOODMAN, V.
GALLIMORE, T.
GUNTER, L.
GARNER, F.
GILBERT, J.
GREGORY, W.
HENDERSON, J.
HORTON, M.
HUNT, P.
HUNTER, A.
HARISTON, H.
HILL, S.
HILL, J.
HILL, M.
HAWTHORNE, G.
HANSHAW, W.
HOGAN, F.
HAMMOND, G.
HINTAN, P.
HOWELL, W.
HAMMOND, E.
HUTCHINS, R.
JEFFERSON, S.
JAMES, W.
JOHNSON, Z.
JOHNSON, A. A.
JONES, J.
JACOBS, W.
JONES, P.
JACK, J.
JONES, R.
JACKSON, C.
JOHNSON, J. T.
JOHNSON, J.
JOSEPH, S.
JACKSON, J.
JOHNSON, W.
JOHNSON, A. B.
KEMP, J.
KNEIGHTON, C.
KING, W.
KNIGHT, W.
KING, E.
LA ROCHE, D.
LAVONG, W.
LOGAN, C.
LOGAN, C. A.
LIGGON, T.
LOMAX, J.
LAWRENCE, T.
McILVAIN, S.
McCOY, J.
MIMMS, W.
MILLS, W. C.
MATTHEWS, R.
MAPP, R. S.
MOULTRIE, H.
MIMS, W.
MILLER, T.
MARSH, C.
McCARGO, J.
MURPHY, W.
MITCHELL, C.
McMILLIAM, FRANK
MANNING, J.
MARSHRURN, M.
MARINER, H.
MURPHY, J.
McCANTS, J.
MEYERS, R.

NEW YORK—Continued

MITCHELL, F.
MOORE, T.
McLAURIN, B. F.
McLARIN, W.
MOULTRIE, H.
NEILSON, L.
ODOM, H.
PARTEE, J.
PREDA, F.
PATTERSON, T. T.
PENN, J.
ROSS, G.
READY, Y.
REYNOLDS, J.
RHODES, J.
RICHARDSON, A.
ROBINSON, P.
ROXBOROUGH, M.
ROBERTS, WALTER
SLEIPLEY, H.
SCHOLFIELD, B.
SMITH, H.
SMITH, J.
SMITH, A.
SIMMOND, E.
STRAYHAND, F.
SLOCUM, J.
SAVAGE, J.
STRAYHAND, R.
SANDERS, J.
SMITH, T.
STRICKLAND, J.
SIMPKINS, W. W.
SMITH, G.
SALLY, M.
SUNDERS, M.
STEADMAN, E.
SMITH, D.
SCOTT, W.
SMITH, J.
SCALES, T.
SMITH, M.
SLEDGE, R.
SMITH, C.
SAVAGE, F.
SLATER, W.
SYKES, L.
SPIRES, J.
SPIRES, M.
SMITH, J.
SCOTT, J.
STRAND, C.
SMITH, J.
TRAVERSE, W.
TURNER, J.
TAYLOR, R.
TOLENTINE, M.
TEMPLE, T.
THOMAS, B.
TURNER, W.
THOMPSON, R.
TIBBS, J.
TAYLOR, R.
TEAQUE, E.
TYSON, R.
TURNER, Mr. & Mrs.
UPPERMAN, F.
VANGART, W.
VINSON, C.
VAUGHN, J.
WILLIAMS, R.
WEBSTER, R.
WOODRUFF, J.
WATKINS, H.
WALKER, J.
WENDELL, P.
WILLIAMS, M.
WINSTON, W.
WATSON, A.
WALKER, G.
WENDELL, P.
WHEELER, C.
WINFIELD, E.
WINSTON, W.
WHEAT, C.
WILLIAMS, J.
WILSON, P.
WILSON, A.
WELTERN, A.
WALKINS, G.
WISE, E.
WORRELL, G.
WOODROW, S.
YOUNG, W. H.

NORFOLK DIVISION

BRYANT, J.
CHANCE, J.
COOPER, F.
DEBERRY, M.
FINCH, C.
FULTON, J.
HUNTLEY, J.
JOHNSON, C.
JOHNSON, S.
JONES, C.
LEAK, O.
MALLOY, W.
McIVER, C.
MOFFATT, J.
REESE, S.
SHARP, W.
TAYLOR, R.
WATERS, J. E.
WHITE, N.

OAKLAND DIVISION

ALBERT, A.
BAKER, C.
BARKSDALE, A.
BASHFUL, G.
BEANE, E.
BENJAMIN, A.
BETTS, T.
BERGERON, I.
BROUSSARD, L.
BROWN, E.
CASIMERE, C.
CLARK, E.
CRENSHAW, C.
CULBERSON, L.
DANDRIDGE, W.
DAVIS, V.
DEGGS, F.
DUBOIS, J.
DEUBERRY, B.
ENGHRAM, R.
FERNIEL, D.
GORMAN, J.
GREEN, J.
HARVEY, J.
HUDSON, H.
HUNT, E.
HUNT, T.
HUGHES, N.
INMAN, R.
JANUARY, J.
KENNEDY, W.
MARTIN, C.
MARTIN, G.

OAKLAND DIVISION (Continued)

MATTHEWS, R.
McCAINE, G.
MELTON, C.
MILLER, C.
MOORE, A.
NUTTALL, R.
PARKER, H.
PARKER, J.
PORTLOCK, D.
RICE, O.
RICHARDSON, A.
RIDLEY, H.
ROBINSON, J.
SEYMOUR, O.
SHELTON, F.
SLOAN, F. B.
SIMON, G.
SIMMONS, G.
STOVALL, J.
THOMAS, A.
TRESVILLE, F.
TRUFANT, H.
TURNER, G.
VAUGHN, G.
WARNER, C.
WEAVER, C.
WEST, H.
WHEATLEY, P.
WHITE, W.
WILLIAMS, C.
WILLIAMS, M.
WILSON, E.
WILSON, W.
WILSON, L.
WINN, C.
WINN, R.
YOUNG, C.

OMAHA DIVISION

ADAMS, G. M.
ANDERSON, P. E.
ALTHOUSE, G.
AVANT, H.
BEASLEY, H.
BEASLEY, W.
BEASLEY, E.
BRADLEY, Z.
BRADLEY, N.
CLARK, L.
COUD, F.
COMANS, N.
DECKARD, G.
DAWSON, R.
ENGLAND, L.
FOSTER, S.
HARRIS, A.
HERRON, J.
HOUSTON, L.
JOHNSON, W.
JONES, J.
JUSTUS, C.
MARTIN, H.
McDANIEL, J.
MOORER, H.
MOORE, N.
MORGAN, L.
POPPS, R.
REESE, R.
SANFORD, S.
SANDERS, J.
SIMS, B.
SIMS, W.
SMITH, G.
TAYLOR, M.
THOMAS, A.
TODD, J.
TOWLES, S.
TRUEHEART, S.
VONER, J.
YOUNG, C.
WASHINGTON, A.
WILLIAMS, A.
WESLEY, F.
WOODS, S.

PHILADELPHIA DIVISION

Men's Auxiliary

ALLEN, E. F.
BAGBIE, CHARLES
BETSILL, E. C.
BILLINGSLEA, J. C.
BOTTOMS, W. A.
COLLINS, SAMUEL
COTTRELL, D. J.
DARDEN, A. G.
DORN, W. O.
FAUNTLEROY, L. B
FAULKNER, L. S.
JONES, W. S.
KENDRICK, W. M.
LANE, E. A.
LOVE, E. A.
MITCHELL, H. E.
MORRIS, WM.
MOSES, FRANK
NATHAN, JOSEPH
OLIVER, C. S.
PHILLPS, E. P.
PINNION, W. S.
ROSS, JAMES M.
SIMPSON, RAY
TAYLOR, HARRY

Ladies' Auxiliary

BILLINGSLEA, J. C.
COLLINS, S.
PHILLIPS, E.
OLIVER, S.
ROSS, J.
SIMPSON, R.

PITTSBURGH DIVISION

ATKINSON, G.
BLANKS, L.
BUCKNER, C.
CLARK, J.
EASLEY, W.
FORD, T.
FULTON, A.
HARPER, F.
HARPER, G.
HAYNES, A.
HENRY, M.
HOWARD, A.
JAMISON, W. E.
MASON, C.
MONROE, C.
MOORE, C.
MOORE, G.
MILLS, D.
NEELEY, C.
ROSE, J.
THOMAS, W.
STALLWORKTH, W
WILLIAMS, P.
WILSON, H.
WYNN, S.
YORBOROUGH, A.

PORTLAND DIVISION

ASKEY, A. A.
BESSELLER, H.
BILLINGSLEA, J.
BURKS, J. P.
CANADA, G.
CLAY, C.
COCHRAN, W.
COLLINS, D.
COULTER, F.

PORTLAND DIVISION (Continued)

CRAWFORD, E.
CULP, K.
DAVIS, J.
DAVISON, I.
DURM, E.
ERVIN, M.
EVANS, A. D.
FISHER, L.
FOSTER, K.
FREEMAN, H.
FREEMAN, T.
FRIDAY, B.
GREEN, L.
HILL, S.
JOHNS, B.
JOHNSON, M.
JOHNSON, O.
KIRLEY, W.
LABELL, W.
LAMB, C.
LAY, O.
LEE, F.
MORGAN, C.
NEELEY, W.
PARIER, P.
RANDALL, G.
RANDOLPH, G.
RAY, L.
REDMOND, S.
REDO, B.
ROBINSON, P.
SCHROPSHIRE, D.
SMITH, A.
SMITH, E.
SMITH C.
STANLEY, J.
STROWDER, E.
TINSLEY, B.
VARNER, E.
WADDY, D.
WAKLER, C. B.

SHREVEPORT DIVISION

BAKER, D. J.
DICKSON, E.
FULLER, C.
HARRIS, L.
MARTIN, H.
McADAMS
TOLIVER, D.
WHITMORE, T.
WILLIAMS, A.
WILLIAMS, J.
WILLIAMS, L.
WILSON, L.

TAMPA DIVISION

GREGORY, M.
JACKSON, J.
REDDICK, H.

TWIN CITIES DIVISION

BALL, C.
BROWN, B.
BUCK, E.
CARROLL, T.
CLARDY, F.
CLARK, A.
COMPTON, C.
FERGERSON, A.
GOODMAN, E.
GRIFFIN, L.
HARRIS, E.
JACKSON, G.
JEFFERSON, G.
JONES, J.
LARK, R.
MORRIS, B.
NORTH, A.
O'NEAL, J.
OWENS, A.
PERRY, D.
PHELEN, C.
POOLE, F.
ROBINSON, M.
SHARP, C.
SIMS, E.
SELDON, J.
VAUGHN, W.
WIMBERLEY, W.

RICHMOND DIVISION

ALLEN, J. H.
GRANDERSON, W.
GREY, G.
HARRIS, W.
LEWIS, W.
MADISON, R.
MONROE, W.
MOON, A.
McNEIL, W.
NEVILLE, J.
NEVILLE, W.
OLPHIS, J.
RALPH, A.
ROYSTER, J.
SIMMONS, J.
SMITH, J.
MADISON, R. H.

WASHINGTON DIVISION

ANCHETA, M.
ANDERSON, M.
ANDERSON, W.
ANTHONY, A.
AUSTIN, W.
BEACHMAN, R.
BEASLEY, A.
BELL, C.
BENTON, S.
BERRY, Z.
BINGHAM, J.
BLACK, A.
BLACK, F.
BLAKE, W.
BRANCH, E.
BRATTON, W.
BROWN, J.
BROWN, H.
LONG, J.
BROWN, T.
BUNCH, L.
BURTON, B.
BURWELL, G.
BURWELL, W.
CALLOWAY, W.
CAMPBELL, L.
CARTER, J.
CLAYBORNE, J.
COOPER, T.
COOPER, R.
COTTON, F.
CRAIG, E.
CUMBER, J.
CUNNINGHAM, J.
DACUS O.
DADE K

WASHINGTON—Continued

DESPERT, W.
DICKSON, A.
DOUGLAS, W.
DREW, F.
ELLIOTT, B.
ELLIOT, R.
ELLIS, C.
EVANS, D.
EVANS, L.
FAIR, F.
FINLEY, J.
FINLEY, S.
FISHER, E.
FOSTER, B.
FRYE, R.
GERALD, H.
GAINOR, L.
GIBSON, F.
GILMORE, T.
GIBSON, T.
GOODWIN, R.
GREEN, J.
GREEN, W.
GRENSHAW, S.
GRIFFIN, R.
HALL, H.
HALL, J.
HALLMAN, J.
HARRIS, G.
HARRISON, C.
HARDY, W.
HOLT, W.
HUDSON, W.
HUGHES, C.
HYLTON, C.
ISBELL, A.
IZZARD, W.
IRBY, J.
JOHNS, W.
JOHNSON, C.
JONES, C.
JONES, J.
JOYNER, H.
LAMB, J.
LANE, J.
LAXAMANA, M.
LEE, E.
LEWIS, JOHN
LEWIS, J.
LEWIS, J. T.
LOMAX, H.
LONG, A.
LONG, J.
LONG, L.
LOVING, H.
LUCAS, H. No. 2
LYTTLETON, H.
MASSEY, B.
MITCHELL, C.
MITCHELL, S.
MOORE, T.
MOORE, W.
MORGAN, W.
MORRISON, J.
McCOTTREY, S.
McDAVID, O.
McNEIL, B.
NEWTON, W.
OVERTSTREET, E.
PATTERSON, B.
PATTERSON, G.
PERRY, A.
PERRY, B.
PHOENIX, G.
PORTTEE, A.
QUIMADO, S.
RAMOS, T.
REYNOLDS, J.
REID, W.
RIDLEY, J.
ROBBINS, M.
ROBINSON, R.
SANDLE, A.
SARTOR, J.
SHELTON, J.
SHELTON, O.
SIMMS, W.
SINKFIELD, E.
SLADE, G.
SMITH, A.
SMITH, B.
SMITH, R.
SNOW, F.
SPEIGHT, A.
STEWARD, W.
STONE, W.
SWEENEY, H.
TAYLOR, H.
TAYLOR, T.
THOMAS, F.
THOMAS, W.
THOMPSON, J.
THORPE, J.
TUCKER, B.
TURNER, F.
TURPIN, J.
ULMER, D.
WILSON, T.
WALKER, C.
WALTON, G.
WESLEY, W.
WHEELER, L.
WHITELY, W.
WILKINS, A.
WILLIAMS, H.
WILLIAMS, H. T.
WILLIAMS, Q.
WILLIAMS, W.
WILLIAMSON, W.
WILSON, O.

WINSLOW, ARIZONA, DIVISION

COLE, H.
HAYS, W.
MILLER, R.
MURDOCK, G.
JONES, J.
SCOTT, L.
SIMMONS, R.
VANN, R.

World's Fair Day and Journal Committee

B. F. McLAURIN ..... Chairman

W. L. ANDERSON
W. C. BLACKMAN
M. BROWN
H. BOLDEN
T. BOONE
MRS. V. BOONE
R. CARTER
MRS. E. DAVIS
MR. & MRS. V. KEAR
MRS. L. LINTON
MRS. G. LUCAS
MRS. O. MORRIS
S. MAPP
G. ROSS
J. SPIRES
L. SIMS
MRS. H. WESLEY
P. WILSON

Banquet Committee

B. F. McLAURIN ..... Chairman

Mrs. FANNIE BOWE	L. J. LAWRENCE	T. H. SMITH
J. BEDDINGFIELD	J. T. LAMBERT	R. STRAYHAND
MRS. G. BOONE	MRS. L. MORGAN	W. W. SIMPKINS
W. CUNNINGHAM	MRS. A. MAPP	MRS. I. YOUNG
Mr. & Mrs. W. DIXON	MRS. P. NEILSON	G. WALKER
C. A. JOHNSON	E. STEADMAN

Transportation and Ticket Committee

D. LA ROCHE ..... Chairman

W. P. BARNES	C. E. DAVIS	Mrs. B. F. McLAURIN
O. W. BYNUM	L. W. HOGAN	R. MAULTSBY
R. E. COLES	MRS. HORTEN	W. ROBERTS
MRS. COAGLE	Z. JOHNSON	G. SMITH
		J. WILLIAMS

Housing Committee

W. M. BOWE ..... Chairman

R. COLES	A. JOHNSON	MRS. SLEDGE
S. JEFFERSON	C. MASSEY	MRS. SEWELL
S. JOSEPH	C. PERRY	F. STRAYHAND

Mass Meeting Committee

W. C. MILLS ..... Chairman

MRS. F. BRASWELL	Mrs. F. EDMONDSON	B. JENKINS
A. COAGLE	Mr.-Mrs. W. FRAZIER	M. McCARGO
C. DAVIS	MRS. WM. FANT	W. MURPHY
MRS. D. DE ZONG	MRS. S. HARPER	MRS. W. RANDOLPH
		E. ZACEROUT

Reception Committee

H. A. ROCK ..... Chairman

L. R. BROADUS	T. A. MILLER	MRS. M. WOODROW
W. E. ENGLAND	MRS. J. TOOGOOD	C. MORGAN
L. F. GOODING	W. TIMMONS	C. HEWITT
L. LIGGON	E. S. WISE

Permit me to use this means of expression as the token of my deep appreciation for the fine and excellent cooperation you have given as members of the Convention Committee, for the fine spirit of cooperation that has made this program the tremendous success that it exemplifies.

May our efforts to coordinate this Convention's Program prepare us for greater struggles and a finer devotion and loyalty to our great Organization.

THANK YOU!

B. F. McLAURIN

EXECUTIVE BOARD — NEW YORK DIVISION

The New York Executive Board, with the cooperation of the entire New York Division, wishes to express its appreciation for the privilege of acting as host to the 1940 Anniversary Convention.

R. R. MATTHEWS ..... Chairman
WM. H. BOWE ..... Vice-Chairman
D. LA ROCHE ..... Secretary

W. C. MILLS	A. B. JOHNSON	C. E. DAVIS
H. A. ROCK		L. G. SIMS

Greetings

BROTHERHOOD OF
SLEEPING CAR PORTERS
ON YOUR FIFTEENTH ANNIVERSARY

TRADE MARK OF
ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC.
ST. LOUIS, MO., U.S.A.

EVERYWHERE

Budweiser

THIS PROGRAM PRINTED BY IRA ROSENBERG

Mrs. Roosevelt Addresses Pullman Porters In New York

NEW YORK, Sept.—(By John H. Thompson for ANP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, First Lady of the Land, headed the largest group of celebrities ever to attend an all-colored labor convention in New York or elsewhere, when she addressed the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters at their dinner at Mecca Temple, Monday night, as part of the week long 15th anniversary and biennial convention, Sept. 15-20.

Other celebrities at the speakers' table included Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, "First Colored Lady of the Land," Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City; Lieut. Gov. Charles Poletti; Aubrey Williams, national director of the N. Y. A.; Dr. Channing Tobias of the UMCA; Walter White of the N. A. A. C. P.; James Quinn of the Central Trades and Labor Council of New York City; A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood, and other officials of the BSCP.

More than 800 persons paid the $2.50 per plate to listen to this brilliant array of speakers, who paid tribute to Randolph and the brotherhood.

Mrs. Bethune introduced Mrs. Roosevelt, who after paying tribute to the head of the colored division of the NYA, launched into her speech. Said the First Lady in part: "We have a right to improve Democracy in the U. S. . . . The Conscription Bill is the only way to make the nation really safe . . . for it is better to have young people trained for warfare than to send them into battle untrained. . . . . if they are not trained early, last minute measures may not save us from war.

"Each of us has an obligation to try in all ways to perfect the democracy of the country . . . you know what it is to struggle against handicaps . . . we can overcome them only as we work side by side. . . . The color line is gradually being broken down and becoming a thing of the past. . . We must work together and not let

(Continued from Page 4)

GUARDIAN, BOSTON, MASS., AUGUST 31, 1940

Brotherhood of S.C.P. and Auxiliary in N.Y.

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, affiliated with the A. F. of L. will hold its Biennial Convention in the International Headquarters of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, 217 West 125th Street, New York, September 16-19, inclusive. Preliminary activitiec will include a parade followed by a mass meeting at the Salem M. E. Church, 129th Street and 7th Avenue, Sunday, September 15, at 3:00 p.m. The Ladies Auxiliary will be the guest of the Brotherhood on these two occasions which also mark the beginning of the Second Biennial Convention and the 15th Anniversary of the Brotherhood. The Brotherhood sessions will be held simultaneously with those of the Ladies Auxiliary, but will be of longer duration.

William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, will address the opening mass meeting. This will be the second time that President Green has spoken under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters in New York City. His first appearance was some nine years ago. This time he will speak for the Brotherhood, which has successfully negtiated a wage agreement for Pullman Porters which has brought to them recognition from the powerful Pullman Company, states A. Philip Randolph, International President.

President Green will discuss the role of the American Federation of Labor in the organization of the American workers in general and the colored workers in particular.

The Ladies Auxiliary was organized August, 1925, in New York Ciy by the Brotherhood President, A. Philip Randolph, and was known at that time as The Colored Women's Economic Council. As rapidly as possible an auxiliary was set-up in each of the Brotherhood Divisions until today there are 44 such organizations throughout this country and Canada.

In July, 1938, a National Call was issued by Mr. Randolph requesting the auxiliary representatives to assemble the following September, in Chicago to be organized into an International Organization. This was to represent the first and only group of Colored women to be organized on an international scale by a duly recognized colored International Labor Organization. The following officials were elected at that time by the Convention Delegates:

Halena Wilson, Chicago, Illinois, International President; Rosina C. Tucker, Washington, D. C., International Secretary-Treasurer; Katherine Lassiter, New York City; 1st International Vice President; Mae M. Dailey, St. Louis, Missouri; 2nd International Vice President; F. J. Caviness, San Antonio, Texas; 3rd International Vice-President; Letitia Murray, Los-Angeles, California; 4th International Vice-President.

September, 1940

OPPORTUNITY
Journal of Negro Life

money to maintain the strongest private army. Thus, the State was not stable. Private property and the persons of citizens or subjects of the population were insecure. The evolution of the State has changed all of this. Today the State is no longer private but social property. It is now stable, because it is socialized, and as a consequence of its power to maintain law and order, all of the people, rich and poor, benefit—they are relatively secure.

Public streets and highways are socialized, as are the water supply and the fire and police departments. These are operated not for profit but for service.

Is there anyone who, because of the bugaboo of the word socialization, is ready to rise up and declare his desire to return to the old private, profit-making system for such social services as education, streets and highways, fire and police protection? Hardly—not even the rankest hater of Socialism.

The main issue here is not the name, but the fact. The name does not change the nature of the fact. In the words of the Bard of Avon, "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

Indeed, we must realize that the logical and inevitable consequence of the scientific and industrial revolutions is the industrialization of our modern society. Whether we like it or not, if we are opposed to the socialization of medicine, we must also oppose industrialism and advocate a return to medievalism, the pre-scientific era of superstition, witchcraft, and the handtool.

During the last one hundred years, as a result of industrialization, the structure of society has profoundly changed. At the turn of the century one out of five gainfully employed persons was a wage earner, and four owned their own means of production. Today four out of five are wage earners, or salaried employees, and the number of independent producers has been reduced to a minimum. In a society in which four-fifths of the gainfully employed population depend for an income on the labor market, there is naturally a strong feeling of insecurity, and, conversely, an insistent demand for security.

Social maladjustments and economic insecurity, arising out of the stress and strain of modern, profit-making industrialism, have given birth to the demad that social insurance systems be introduced everywhere in order to spread unpredictable risks among as many people as possible and to pool resources. It is a matter of common knowledge that insecurity created by illness is merely one aspect of the general insecurity resulting from our economic system.

In this period of rapid metamorphosis and transition, an increasing number of aspects of our economic life will become socialized, and we have the choice only between two possibilities: one, to socialize gradually; two, to let things drift along aimlessly, without rhyme or reason, until the pressure becomes so strong that it bursts forth in revolution and renders constructive, systematic and orderly adjustment impossible.

But the question may be asked: Does the American public in general, and the Negro public in particular, need socialized medicine? Does not the present system of private medicine adequately take care of the health needs of the people?

Let us see.

There are about 400,000 tubercular patients undergoing treatment every year. Over a half million people are infected every year with syphilis, and over a million with gonorrhea. Annually, 60,000 children are born with the handicap of congenital syphilis, and over 50,000 persons die from the results of syphilis. In spite of the advance of medical science, 12,500 Amer-

A Doctor in a Public Health Clinic Injects a Child with an Antitoxin which will Heighten his Resistance to Disease—a Service for which the Parents Probably Could Not Pay a Private Physician.

FIAT JUSTITIA RUAT CŒLUM

THE FRATERNAL ECHO

A FRATERNAL PAPER FOR FRATERNAL PEOPLE

Vol. 5. No. 9 — FRATERNAL ECHO, SEPTEMBER, 1940 — Subscription: $1.00 a year

Brotherhood Sleeping Car Porters Will Hold Monster Demonstation

In keeping with the spirit of the times, the Biennial Convention and Fifteenth Anniversary celebration of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters which takes place this month will be in the nature of a patriotic rally. Preceding the opening mass meeting, which will be held at Salem M. E. Church, 129th St. and Seventh Ave., on Sunday, September 15th, at 3 P.M., the Brotherhood will stage an "America First" parade through the principal streets and avenues of Harlem. Officers and members of all fraternal, beneolent and civic organizations have been invited to participate and the turn-out should be one of the largest in the history of Harlem. All paraders have been requested to wear red, white and blue arm bands so that the resulting general color scheme will be a gigantic and impressive display of the national colors. Hon. Fiorello H. LaGuardia, Mayor of New York City, William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, and A. Philip Randolph and M. P. Wilson, international president and vice-president respectively of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, will be the principal speakers at the opening meeting. Other high-lights of the Convention will be the Labor Dinner at Mecca Temple, 135 West 55th St., on Monday, Sept. 16th, at 7 P.M., which will be addressed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Brotherhood Day at the World's Fair on Thursday, Sept. 19th, when Hon. Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, will be the principal speaker. Hon. Herbert H. Lehman, Governr of the State of New York, is also scheduled to appear on the Convention program, on Tuesday, Sept. 17th, at 11 A.M.

The Convention Ball will be held

(Continued on next page)

SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

tion of every fraternal, benevolent and civic organization and we know that all will rally to their side and make the event a gigantic and epoch-making success. For fifteen years the Brotherhood has been the leader in the struggle for better wages and working conditions for Negro labor throughout the world and its operations have affected the lives of every man and woman of the Race who works for a living. This is the first time its convention has been held in the Great Metropolis and the Fraterial Echo bids it a hearty welcome and Godspeed in the name of all the benevolent and fraternal organizations for which we are the mouthpiece and news organ.

The Convention Committee consists of the following: Ashley L. Totten, International Sec.-Teras. and General Chairman of Convention; Thomas T. Patterson, Vice-President, N. Y. Division; W. H. Bowe, W. C. Mills, H. A. Rock, D. LaRoche, and C. E. Davis, Assistant Committee of Arrangements.

Fraternal and Benevolent Organizations are especially invited to take part in the parade and Mass Meeting so as to add more color to the demonstration. Please bring your Banners, Flags or Pennants.

SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

at the gorgeous and spacious Golden Gate Ballroom, 142nd St. and Lenox Ave., on Friday evening, Sept. 20th, where a galaxy of the leading popular dance orchestras will dispense a full variety of their musical wares from 10 P.M. to 3 A.M. (i.e. — in popular parlance, "the joint will jump from ten 'ill when").

Admission to the Convention Ball is also $1.00, boxes seating eight persons, $4.00. Lucky Millinder and Fess Finlay are the swing artists scheduled for the affair.

Tickets are on sale at the Brotherhood headquarters, 217 West 125th St., Suite 301, telephone, MOnument 2-5080. It is hardly necessary to caution our readers to secure their reservations at as early a date as possible as there is little doubt that an overflow crowd will be in attendance at all the events. Subscription to the Labor Dinner is $2.50 per plate. Admission to the World's Fair, including entrance to four concessions, will be $1.00.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters deserves the admiration, respect and whole-hearted coopera-

(continued on page 8)

Red Caps File $40,000 Suit Against Railroad

SEEK BACK PAY AND DAMAGES

Indianapolis Attorney Takes Matter to Federal Court for Action

INDIANAPOLIS.—Red Caps here asked $40,800 judgment for unpaid wages and a like amount in liquidated damages in a suit filed by their attorney, Henry J. Richardson, Jr., in Federal court recently. The Indianapolis Union Railway was named defendant. Charles A. Kelly and twenty-three of the thirty-four Red Caps employed at the local depot were represented by Willard S. Townsend of Chicago, who has been "designated" representative in bringing the action.

J. J. Liddy, Indianapolis Union Railway superintendent, declared the suit was the outgrowth of a dispute involving the Red Caps' organization and the Eastern Association of Railroads, with the question of pay for the Red Caps being the point of difference.

The suit cites provisions of the labor standards act in interstate commerce industries and alleges that the Indianapolis Union Railway should be required to pay employees not less than twenty-five cents an hour, beginning as of October 24, 1938, to October 23, 1939, and thirty cents an hour after the latter date.

Red Caps in many instances had not been paid at all, the complaint for judgment alleges, but in cases in which "wages" had been received they had amounted to one, two, three and in a few instances five cents an hour.

Under a recent agreement with large railroads, Red Caps here at the local Union station as well as those at other cities were receiving ten cents for each piece of baggage handled.

During the period October 24, 1938, to October 1, 1939, the Red Caps were put on the pay roll by the railroads through various depots took for granted that tips were meant to be a part of their salary. Contending that tips should be counted apart and not as a part of the salary, the Red Caps have disputed the railroad's position.

Under the present arrangement, which embraces eastern depots, Red Caps charge ten cents for each piece of baggage handled. [illegible] at the Indianapolis [illegible] kept [illegible] head [illegible] ent revealed [illegible]

Union Dues and Strike E[illegible]

Settlement of a brief s[illegible] AFL molders at the Ban[illegible] Company, who walked out when the company refused [illegible] a union employe who was [illegible] hind in dues, was reached [illegible] day and most of the 200 e[illegible] returned to their jobs.

Preparation was also [illegible] eight AFL building trad[illegible] ployes, who settled a nine-da[illegible] dictional strike at the new [illegible] of the Omar Tool and B[illegible] Company late Tuesday, to [illegible] to their jobs today.

DELIBERATE NONPAYM[illegible]

C. J. Anderson, attorney [illegible] Molders' Union, No. 59, at th[illegible] ner Company, said the str[illegible] called when the company [illegible] to fire a union employe wh[illegible] suspended from the unio[illegible] deliberate nonpayment of u[illegible] said the union's contract c[illegible] the company to keep men [illegible] job who are in good standin[illegible] the union.

Anderson said an agreeme[illegible] reached whereby the deli[illegible] union member was reinstate[illegible] the union by payment of bac[illegible] and the men agreed to ret[illegible] work. This agreement was r[illegible] in advance of a meeting sch[illegible] between David W. Hill, Fede[illegible] bor Conciliator, and compa[illegible] union officials.

$150,000 TOOL CASTINGS

Workers at the plant are engaged on orders for $150,000 in machine tool castings having an A-1-A priority rating. The work will be delayed two days due to the dispute, company officials said. Only a part

Randolph to speak today; okays FEPC hearings here

Arrived here Wednesday on his official visit, to be culminated this afternoon in a mass meeting at which he will speak, A. Philip Randolph, acknowledged as the Race's foremost labor leader, expressed [illegible] isfaction with the work of the Fair Employment Practice committee, formation of which he inspired and which held first hearings here last week.

Scheduled to speak this afternoon at two o'clock at the Sec[illegible] church, under aus[illegible] the Brotherhood of [illegible] Porters, which he [illegible] and heads, Randolph came from the North where he had played an active p[illegible] annual convention of the Amer[illegible] Federation of Labor, held in Seattle. He spoke before 1,600 in Oakland. His subject this afternoon will be "The Fight for World Democracy and its Meaning to the Negro People."

Four of six resolutions, proposed by himself and Milton P. Webster, first vice president of the Brotherhood, were passed by the AFL convention, which, because of tactics blocking the em[illegible]nt of Negroes in national defense industry, bore the brunt of FEPC attacks on discrimination in the local hearings, Webster is a member of the committee.

Randolph's master stroke in the conception and near-execution of a "March of 100,000 Negroes on Washington" in protest of discrimination in national defense and industry, was responsible for the issuance of Executive Order 8802 by President Roosevelt, banning discrimination in industries receiving defense contracts, and creating the six-man FEP committee. The work of the committee "thus far" has met with his approval, Randolph declared.

Although the most important resolution which he introduced on the AFL convention floor was defeated, Randolph voiced a feeling of encouragement that racial bigotry in the AFL is diminishing. Calling for a trade union commission to hold hearings into discrimination in the individual AFL trade unions, the resolution lost by the small margin of 50 out of 700 votes. Introduced last year, the resolution was defeated by a considerably wider margin, the labor leader declared.

Also defeated was a resolution condemning and seeking to eliminate auxiliary unions on grounds that they allow Negro members no voice in the national union. Formed as jim crow devices, auxiliary unions are such as that of the Negro freight handlers which is an auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks who are all white.

RAIL JOBS NOW AT DEPRESSION PEAK, SURVEY DISCLOSES

1940

Many Carriers Exhaust Furlough Lists and Send Out "SOS" Calls for More

AGE LIMIT BEING JUNKED

Shopcraft Union Officials Declare That Nearly All Members Now Have Jobs

Why Shopmen Are Needed

Expansion programs announced this week by many railroads tell the story of why shopcraft employment is zooming.

The Santa Fe said it would expend $21,000,000, part on rebuilding old rolling stock and part on new equipment. The Rock Island is spending $3,775,000, and Illinois Central, $4,000,000. New York Central and Great Northern are also among roads planning big outlays.

Meanwhile, rail traffic and profits are at new peaks. Freight loadings for the last week of September leaped to 835,000 cars, a 21,000 car jump over the previous seven days.

Nearly all carriers report revenues climbing swiftly. The Pennsylvania said its September income was 21 per cent higher than a year ago.

By RUBEN LEVIN

Highly encouraging reports of thousands of men being called back to work in railroad shops continued to flow into headquarters of A. F. of L. shopcraft unions this week. They show that employment is now at its highest level since 1931.

Many of the roads not only restored all shopmen they had laid off in recent years, but have sent out "SOS" calls for more, the unions revealed.

This "boom" trend was confirmed in checkups by several of the shopcraft organizations. One such thorough survey was made by the Sheet Metal Workers' International Association, which has headquarters in Washington.

Louis M. Wicklein, vice president of the association in charge of railroad locals, sent a letter to all his system chairmen asking for full information on how members were faring as to jobs.

Furloughed Men Back

Replies indicated that nearly every member of the organization is working, and that a similar situation prevails in the other crafts, Wicklein declared.

Virtually all furloughed men are now at work, and some shops that had been on a five-day week for years are now back to the former six-day schedule, the responses showed. This means thousands of men are earning an extra day's pay.

Of course, the fact that some of the carriers have recalled all the men on their furloughed lists does not [illegible] employment is back to

1940

CONGRESS TO TAKE HAND IN PULLMAN PORTER CONFLICT

1940

"Bob" Crosser Sponsors Bill Requiring Conductors Shall Have Charge of Cars

At last the controversy between the Order of Sleeping Car Conductors and the Pullman Company has reached the point where Congress has been asked to take a hand.

In violation of its agreement with the Sleeping Car Conductors, and in defiance of a specific order of the National Railroad Adjustment Board, the Pullman Company, one of the wealthiest corporations in the land, has been steadily withdrawing white conductors from their usual runs and turning the task of supervision over to Negro porters.

The net result has been that passengers have been deprived of the protection they have heretofore received, the Sleeping Car Conductors have been denied employment, and the porters have had their work and responsibility greatly increased.

Job for Uncle Sam

State legislatures and state regulatory bodies have taken steps to end the practice. This has helped, but nevertheless it has become increasingly clear that the situation can only be adequately met by Federal action.

Accordingly, at a meeting of the Railway Labor Executives' Association in Washington last week, President M. S. Warfield of the Sleeping Car Conductors, was pledged the active support of all the rail unions in the fight he has been making.

To make this support more effective, the Association appointed the following committee to look after the matter: J. A. Phillips, president of the Order of Railway Conductors; B. M. Jewell, president of the Railway Employes' Department, A. F. of L.; M. S. Warfield, president of the Order of Sleeping Car Conductors, and S. J. Hogan, president of the National Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association.

Backed by A. F. of L.

The A. F. of L. has already taken convention action against the Pullman's conduct. Therefore it may be taken for granted it will go along with the rail unions in supporting legislation.

The proposed bill will provide for a return to the practice which prevailed for almost half a century, by which conductors had supervision over night runs and other situations where experience demonstrated they were needed.

Congressman "Bob" Crosser of Cleveland, who has successfully guided so much railroad labor legislation through the House, has agreed to sponsor the proposal, which, of course, means it will be vigorously pressed.

Won't Injure Porters

"There is nothing revolutionary in our proposal," said President Warfield. "Every man or woman who ever slept in a Pullman knows how conductors have contributed to their comfort and safety. When they purchase their berths, they pay for that kind of service, and the Pullman Company must not be permitted to deprive them of it.

"This is not a racial fight. We propose to help the porters, not hurt them. Under our plan the porters will not lose their jobs, but, on the other hand, they will not be required to do two men's work."

1940

KILL LAW AIMED AT IN-CHARGE PORTERS

Declaring that "there need be no further fear by Pullman porters of losing their jobs through the passage of Senate Bill 3798 on the Supervision of Sleeping Cars, because the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters succeeded last Monday in killing the measure in committee," Ashley L. Totten, international secretary-treasurer of the Brotherhood, charged that the spokesman for the conductors attempted to deceive the senators at public hearings to force enactment which would eliminate the porters from "in-charge" services.

According to Mr. Totten, who, with Thomas T. Patterson, vice-president of the Brotherhood, appeared before Senator Sherman Minton of Indiana, chairman of the Senate sub-committee, the purpose of the bill was to eliminate Pullman porters from serving as conductors have a contract with the Pullman Company stipulating that there shall be a Pullman conductor on all trains with three or more cars.

"The Pullman Company is within its right to continue to use the Pullman porter to operate "in-charge," for the 1800 porters running "in-charge" have been doing this work long before cnoductors were hired to do it," Mr. Patterson said. Senator Minton after hearing the case for the porters ordered the measure killed, it was asserted.

Eight 'Interest Groups' Held To Be Masters of America

1940

President Told 83 Men Control Industry and Finance; Unite on Politics and Labor; Morgan's Vast Empire

By JOHN CARSON

Eight "interest groups," with the House of Morgan at the head of the list, influence and in large measure dominate and control America.

And here is what the National Resources Committee says about these eight groups in a report to President Roosevelt:

They control industrial and bank assets of $61,025,000,000. That is 62 per cent of the assets of the 200 largest industrial concerns and 50 largest financial concerns in this country.

The eight groups, thus dominating the industrial and financial power of the country through these corporations have control of 96 per cent of the assets of all railroads, 75 per cent of the assets of all public utilities, 48 per cent of the assets of all commercial banks and 34 per cent of the assets of all manufacturing corporations in the country.

83 Men Rule Nation

Eighty-three men, directors in these eight groups, hold 405 directorates in corporations. Their interests and their affairs are so interwoven and interlocked that all but a very few of the 250 largest corporations in the country could be brought together under one gigantic "interest group."

The House of Morgan controls railroads, utilities, banks and industries in general, with assets of $30,810,000,000.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. is largely interested in railroads, but also controls utilities and banks with total assets of $10,853,000,000.

The Rockefeller group is interested in oil and ole bank with total assets of $4,262,000,000.

Mellon's Varied Interests

The Mellon group is interested in oil, aluminum, coal, some manufacturing corporations, utilities and banks, with total assets of $3,332,000,000.

A Chicago group, interested in industries and utilities and banks in Chicago, has assets of $4,268,000,000.

The duPont group is largely interested in duPont companies, General Motors, some other corporations and banks, with total assets of $2,628,000,000.

The Cleveland group has industries, utilities and banks centering in Cleveland, with total assets of $1,404,000,000.

The Boston group has manufacturing concerns in that part of New England, utilities and banks with total assets of $1,719,000,000.

United on Politics and Labor

On some questions of business interests there is very marked distinction between these groups. Where their business interests conflict, as they often do, there is competition. But on other questions, such as those of government, of politics and of labor relations, there is a very closely affiliated interest running through each of the groups and into most of the other 250 corporations studied in this report.

As an example of the thoroughness of the committee inquiry, the report on the House of Morgan is discussed here.

A Morgan partner usually sits on the board of directors and more or less directs the affairs of the corporations which Morgan controls. The bank assumes a personal interest and a personal responsibility and asserts a personal and direct power. The policy is different in the Kuhn, Loeb group, where actual representation on boards of directors is not sought.

Industrial Empire

The Morgan group has under its wing the following industrial concerns: Pullman, Inc., General Electric, United States Steel, Kennecott Copper, Phelps Dodge, American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corporation, Continental Oil, Montgom-

Turn to page two, col. eight

EIGHT GROUPS HELD MASTERS OF AMERICA

Morgan's Vast Empire, Topping List, Reaches Into All Industrial Activities

(Continued from page one)

ery Ward, National Biscuit, Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron, Baldwin Locomotive Works, Glen Alden Coal, and the St. Regis Paper Company.

Morgan also controls the following utilities: American Telephone and Telegraph, International Telephone and Telegraph, Consolidated Gas of New York, and United Corporation, which controls Commonwealth & Southern, United Gas Improvement Company, Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, and Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation. The group also controls Electric Bond and Share, which controls American Power and Light Company, American Gas and Electric, National Power and Light and Electric Power and Light.

Power in Rail Field

In the railroad world Morgan controls such important properties as the anywhere near the peak figures of the 1920's, Wicklein stressed.

Not Due to War Orders

In the intervening years, many shopmen have died and others have retired on pensions without being replaced. Thousands also went into other lines of work and gave up their seniority on the railroads. Some of the latter, however, are now filtering back to the shops, Wicklein explained.

He emphasized that this climb in employment is not due alone to war orders.

"All this year jobs in the shops and membership in our unions have been on the upgrade," he said. "That has come about because of a healthy increase in business all along the line, and the war has simply accelerated this trend somewhat."

Age Ban Lifted

Another gratifying effect of the rise in jobs has been the action by a few roads in lifting, at least temporarily, the traditional ban on hiring of new workers over 45 years of age, union chiefs declared. One of the first roads to "break the ice" on the age limit is the Nickel Plate, reports coming in to the International Association of Machinists revealed.

Wicklein asserted that the time was now ripe for all carriers to ditch the age barrier.

"In the old days, when the roads had private pension plans, they raised the excuse that hiring of older men raised pension costs," he said. "Now that we have the government's railroad retirement system, that alibi doesn't hold water any longer.

"Besides, shopmen above 45 are at the height of their skill and they're the most reliable of workers. The railroads would be setting a good example for the nation by wiping out their foolish age requirements."

THE NEW YORK AGE

Saturday, September 7, 1940

. . Things Seen, Heard And Done . .

AMONG PULLMAN EMPLOYEES

By J. T. REID

The question that is so often discussed by porters: Who was the first to be employed on Pullman Cars? Some say that Negroes were first, and some say white men were the first to be employed. It would seem from the argument offered by many of those involved in the discussion that they have made but little study of the subject, and for the benefit of those who do not know, may I call your attention to an editorial which appeared in the New York Herald Tribune, Monday, August 12, 1940. It read as follows:

"When the first Pullman, and later, on the California-Chicago run, the Silver Palace cars came into being during the later part of last century, the functions of steward and porter on these ornate vehicles were performed by a man known as 'conductor' of modern travel. This was before the era of the Negro porter, and white men made the berths and saw to the comfort of passengers in the sleepers. The idea of women as part of the train crew would have been ultimate outrage. As a matter of fact, women passengers on the sleepers were relatively rare during their first decade of operation and, when finally tempted to over land travel, after the completion of the Central Pacific-Union Pacafic Railway, to transcontinental voyaging they usually slept with all their clothes on and a plentiful supply of hatpins and occasional Derringer at hand. With the passing of time, however, and the natural mutations of progress, hostesses, stewardesses and registered nurses have become familiar on almost all transcontinental trains both of tourist and de luxe order. But the last word in feminine achievement on the high iron would seem to be spoken by the Shore Fast Line, running between Atlantic City and Ocean City, N. J., where, according to the current issue of 'Railroad Magazine,' the first hostesses ever to be installed in trolley cars are now in service. Here is something that may yet abate the rapid obliteration of Pullman porters throughout the country."

We in our turn must learn to recognize such trains of thought at their inception, and shun them, for only thus can we avoid their inevitable and disastrous consequences. The more you talk about something that you know nothing about the more you become involved and the least said about some things the better. In fact, in my opinion the question is not who was on the cars first or who is on them today. But who will be on them tomorrow?

According to a late bulletin just posted in the order book, porters attendants, and maids will receive a new time book September 1st. It will be made up in three parts: Original, duplicate and triplicate. You will turn in two parts which which be sent to Chicago to be checked by the auditors. When you are given your check you will also be given a canceled time sheet with your check which will show you just what time you have been paid for. This will no doubt stop much of the confusion which takes place every pay day. Porters will not have to wait to see the time clerk to find out about their time, all they need to do is check their time slip and they will be able to see just what time they have been paid for and what time has not been allowed.

From 'Drunk Train' to Union Convention

William W. Milteer, 59, a Virginian, will take a leave from his job (at his own expense) to attend the opening of the fifteenth convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, AFL, today. Pullman porters see and do all sorts of things. Some have assisted at births, as well as berths.

For 30 years Mr. Milteer has been a porter—on the Lackawanna, Lehigh, and now the Pennsylvania railroads. Now he's on the New York-to-Washington run: leaves Penn. Sta. 2:35 a.m.; arrives in Washington 7:45. Returns the next day: Lv. 1:05 a.m.; Arr. 5:50 a.m. He works four nights, is off one.

Porters are not required to shine shoes; it's a tradition. But then they're supposed to do only one pair at a time, so they won't mix them up.

Photos by David Eisendrath, Jr., PM Staff

Most passengers on the late Washington train have a snifter or two before embarking. That's why it's known as the "drunk train." Mr. Milteer is a New Jersey convention delegate.

Mr. Milteer earns $87.50 a month, plus tips, which in late years have dwindled. His biggest ever was $5. The union starts negotiations next week for a 30-hour-a-month cut in hours.

Only Human

—By Candide—

No. 1 Pullman Porter

WE ONCE HEARD that it was the son of Abraham Lincoln who was responsible for the fact that all Pullman porters are Negroes — he wanted to do something to carry on the work his father had begun when he freed the slaves.

There is a man in New York now who is still doing great work through these Pullman porters to help his race. His name is A. Philip Randolph. He is head of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters—though he was never a sleeping car porter himself. On Sunday, that Brotherhood op[illegible] its 15th convention in New York City.

Randolph's story is an old, old story—the record of a struggle against misunderstanding and ignorant prejudice; a struggle that was bitter and full of defeat in the beginning.

When Randolph was a kid in Florida, he loved books and baseball—right away, he found out how it feels to be "on the outside looking in." Because books and baseball were not for him.

He clerked in a grocery, sold papers, shovelled dirt as a railroad section hand:

"I was never a union member at any of those jobs... Negroes couldn't be union members in those days..."

And there is still plenty of discrimination rooted in prejudice inside of Labor:

The heads of 21 Railway Unions form a central organization known as the Railway Labor Executives Association. Twenty of these unions have clauses in their constitutions which ban Negroes, or segregate them in separate locals—thus these little constitutions double-cross the Constitution of the United States of America.

Randolph's Brotherhood is barred from the Association—but since he began his fight for the Porters in 1925, Randolph has gained from the American Federation of Labor an International charter that guarante[illegible] autonomy for the Broth[illegible] in the A. F. of L.

R[illegible] landed in New [illegible] when he was 17, [illegible]k as an elevator [illegible] As Lincoln learned [illegible], so did Randolph—he haunted libraries, studied in night classes at City College, learned to express in powerful words the crusade that was hatching in his heart. He finally got a job writing for a Hotel Trade Magazine.

"I was fired when I wrote an editorial criticizing the way Headwaiters let their side-waiters gamble for their jobs, and then took a cut from each game...so then I started a magazine of my own..."

He called that magazine the "Messenger"; during Europe's last war, the "Messenger" was tossed out of the mails; Randolph was tossed into jail...

"But only for four days... wasn't considered much of a menace. We criticized the Government for sending our boys to Europe to make the world safe for democracy...before we had given democracy to the Negroes right here at home..."

TOMORROW: He whipped the Reds.

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

"My father was a Methodist Episcopal Preacher in Crescent City, Florida...we were so poor we ran a little tailor shop in order to add enough to my father's salary to feed the family"...cleaning suits was more profitable than cleaning souls...

15 • DAILY MIRROR MONDAY SEPTEMBER 16 1940

THE NEW YORK AGE

Saturday, September 7, 1940

Brotherhood Of Sleeping Car Porters Plan Huge Patriotic Demonstration

An outstanding feature of the Biennial Convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, September 15 to 20, will be a patriotic procession preceding the Sunday afternoon mass meeting to be known as "America First," it was announced Friday from their international headquarters, 217 West 125th street, New York City.

Several units represent ng labor, fraternal, benevolent, civic and religious organizations will march with the porters, maids, attendants, dining car cooks and red caps, demonstrating their patriotism and civic pride and desire to share in the defense program of the United States with equal rights as given to other American citizens, according to Ashley L. Totten, international secretary-treasurer and general chairman.

The procession will include all persons, who though not affiliated with any organization, but who believe in the ideals or traditions of the United States and the trade union movement and may participate by registering to march as a friendly unit at the Brotherhood headquarters, states Totten.

Cooperating with the "America First" procession is the Police Department, whose able Lieutenant Battle, has outlined assembling points on 126th, 127th and 128th street, resting on Seventh avenue as far west at St. Nicholas avenue and the line of march to be south on Seventh avenue to 112th street, east to Lenox avenue, north to 144th street, west to Seventh avenue and south to 129th street to Salem Methodist Episcopal Church where Mayor LaGuardia, Senator James Mead, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and others will speak, according to Totten.

Arrangements have been made by Brotherhood officials not to admit anyone in the church for the mas[illegible]ng until those participatin[illegible] demonstration have been [illegible]eated, states Totten.

of the principal speakers at the fifth national convention of the Workers Alliance of America here this week. The five-day parley was attended by 300 delegates, Negro and white, from all parts of the country. The sessions were held in Forresters' Hall.

The invitation to the Negro Congress head noted the rise in the Alliance's Negro membership during the past year, and recounted its battles for the rights of the race's relief recipients and WPA employes. It was also disclosed that there has been a marked increase in the number of Negroes who hold leading positions in the organizations, notably in New York, Illinois, Ohio and California.

Speakers at the parley pointed to the coming winter and the need of adequate federal assistance to prevent a repetition of the widespread suffering among the unemployed last winter when, as in the state of Ohio, state relief aid broke down. The convention urged passage of the Marcantonio American Standards Act which provides for employment of 3,000,000 workers on "socially useful projects."

MRS. ROOSEVELT, LEHMAN, LaGUARDIA SPEAK AT PULLMAN PORTERS CONFAB

Fully 2,000 persons representing many fields of activity were on hand Monday night at Rebecca Temple, 135 West Fifty-fifth St., at the testimonial dinner of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. This affair was a highlight on the fifteenth annual convention program. The pictures above show some of the program participants. At the top, (left to right) are Aubrey Williams, NYA director; Walter White, N.A.A.C.P. secretary; Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, who put in a bid for votes for President Roosevelt and praised men and women "who toil for their living in this country." At the bottom, (left to right) are A. Philip Randolph, international president of the Brotherhood; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, America's First Lady; Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, First Lady of the Negro race; Mrs. Lucile G. Randolph, wife of the Brotherhood's international president. (Photos on pages, 3, 4)

THE WORLD CRISIS

AND

THE NEGRO PEOPLE TODAY

By A. PHILIP RANDOLPH

440

Socialist, Communist, Prohibition, Socialist Labor, Progressive, American Labor and Farmer-Labor parties, for which anyone may belabor upon the hustings and vote.

Referring again to your comment on there being no race prejudice in Soviet Russia, may I direct your attention to the fact that despite the implied affection for the Negro people, the Soviet Union cancelled its much advertised propaganda to make a movie of America's injustice to Negroes with a group of well-meaning, but misguided young colored people who journeyed to Russia, when the turn of events indicated possible recognition by the Unitd States of America.

Certainly, you have not forgotten that Soviet Russia sold oil to Fascist Italy for use in war airplanes that dropped bombs of death and destruction upon the defenseless Ethiopians.

Do these deeds reveal Dictator Stalin any angel of virtue, tolerance, justice or devotion to the Negro peoples?

Yes, the poor Russian people have swapped one cruel dictatorship under the Czar for a brutal dictatorship under Communist Dictator Stalin. A dictatorship is a dictatorship. Don't forget that. Under any dictatorship, freedom and democracy cannot exist.

Yet, minority groups, like Negroes, can only struggle, fight, protest and demand their rights, and move forward in a democracy.

Are you prepared to advise the Negro people to support the Soviet Union or the Communist Party, which is only concerned about Soviet Russia? Is the Defender prepared to take such a course? In this dreadful hour of a world crisis, I am sure you are aware that this is no simple decision to make.

How can Negroes place their faith in, and give support to, the Communist Party, which expresses allegiance to an alien state, the Soviet Union?

I know you well realize that there is one chief, main and invaluable quality for which the Negro people are distinguished, honored, trusted and respected, and that is loyalty to the United States of America. If we should ever be even suspected of abandoning this priceless jewel, our loyalty to our fatherland, God help us! Of course, this will never happen. And we, who shape opinions, should be careful not to encourage it. I know you would not consciously do this.

Yes, dear friend, it seems even beyond the realm of debate that the Negro pople cannot afford to add to the handicap of being Black, the handicap of being Red.

Respectfully,

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH.

THE WORLD CRISIS AND THE NEGRO PEOPLE TODAY

By A. Philip Randolph

Mr. Chairman, Distinguished Guests and Delegates and Friends to the Third National Negro Congress:

We have met here at a time when the world is sorely troubled. This is a day of crisis. It is a crisis between nations, a crisis between races, a crisis between religions, a crisis between classes.

1. Nature of Crisis

The essential nature of this crisis is conflict, wars, instability, insecurity, rapid, sudden and amazing transformation, and, indeed, in many instances, the utter collapse of institutions and social movements.

The crisis is international. It sharpens and becomes increasingly acute day by day. Its final outlines and magnitudes are unpredictable.

Forms of government, doctrines of religion, systems of society, methods and tactics of labor action, strategies of business, techniques among minorities, procedures and objectives of education, are being insistently questioned. Indeed, a re-examination and re-evaluation of old and accepted theories, ancient philosophies and hoary beliefs, challenge the world today.

Verily, this crisis reflects itself in world-wide political disorder, economic chaos, social confusion, moral compromise and intellectual uncertainty.

2. Crisis in Government

Shadows of the crisis in government and politics, with menacing and forbidding prophesy, deepen. Not only have three great imperial houses, such as the Hohenzollerns, Romanoffs and Hapsburgs, and many small independent states in recent years, and days, gone the way of all flesh, but new political phenomena described as totalitarian states of Nazi Germany and Communist Russia and Fascist Italy, have arisen with all of the tribal fury of competition and rivalry for place, prestige and dominion in world power-politics.

But the crisis is not expressed alone in the collapse of old and the rise of new governments and empires of varying and varied revolutionary ideologies. There is maladjustment within political party organizations on the right and left presaging deep-going changes in alignments and loyalties in America and throughout the world.

In the United States the Tory Republican and quasi-Tory Democratic parties, both fundamentally the same in principles and objectives, strenuously vie with each other for the right to run the big business of government with its vast patronage and power. Neither is sure of its position or control or its stability. Witness the one Democratic candidate for President, Alfred E. Smith, leagued with the former Republican President, Herbert Hoover, against the New Deal. Also note the alliance of progressive Republicans, George Norris and LaFollette with New Deal Democrats, Senators Wagner and Barclay, to achieve certain legislative programs.

However, conservative political parties are not alone touched with the blight of internal confusion, left-wing political organizations, too, can neither boast of unity or harmony. The Socialist Party lost a sizable fraction in the Social Democratic Federation, which may be styled as a right-left political variant. The Communists have given birth to competitive fractions, the Trotskyites and Lovestonites, each proclaiming itself the source of the only true faith and salvation of the workers and the world.

Even Business has its divergent attitudes on certain major issues. Railroad business accepts the Railway Labor Act, expressing the principles of collective bargaining, of course, with reservations and grudging. The National Manufacturers' Association, on the other hand, seeks to emasculate and kill the National Labor Relations Act, which provides for the self-organization, designation and selection by labor of representatives of its own choosing. Nor is Business agreed as to the role of Government in the affairs of Business, or the role of Business in the affairs of Government. There is still struggle between the concept of large, centralized, corporate trusts and holding monopolies and the so-called free, independent, competitive enterprise. Die-hard Tom Girdlers and the spokesman of Little Steel, condemn and resist the Wagner Act and all its works, while concerns in clothing, hotel and certain sections of steel industries concede to the mandate of bona-fide collective bargaining, if, perchance, with their fingers crossed.

3. Labor Divided

And Labor, too, is at war. Its house is divided. While this condition is distressing, it is not strange. Division in Labor is a reflex of the shake-up and dislocation of world economic relationships, the progress of technology and mass production. The existing conflict and upheaval within the ranks of Labor, the continuity of which is certain to endanger the gains of the organized workers, is, withal, only an incident and passing phase of the birth pangs and pains in the process of evolution of the American Labor movement to higher levels of structural and functional perfectability and power. This ugly wound of Labor disunity is certain to heal. It is one of the inevitable imperatives of history. Though continued disharmony and separation of Labor's forces may result in the loss of ground and prestige by Labor for the nonce, the split is neither disastrous, nor does it spell the doom of Labor as a dynamic and constructive factor in the affairs of American life. Out of this civil war will come a labor movement of deeper unity, vision, courage and power, when the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organization are at peace again.

4. Unemployment — Spearhead of Crisis

As the number one causative agent of the existing world crisis, as well as itself a result, unemployment is of major interest. It is variously estimated that from 9 to 10 million workers are still unemployed. It is a contributory reason for, and consequence of, the social fact that one-third of the nation are under-housed, under-clothed and under-fed. The workers whose hands build the palaces of the rich live in shacks; and those whose nimble fingers fashion the garments of Kings and Queens with the needle which has been called the "asp to the breast of the poor", face a lack of sufficient clothes for warmth and comfort, and go in rags. The workers who create food for the Nation are themselves plagued with hunger and want and starvation. And this social horror obtains in an economy of potential abundance.

What a paradox we face today! Labor, with the aid of technology, works itself out of work. Labor and the machine create wealth only to destroy it, while men, women and children go in want. We plant cotton, only to plow a third of the yield under in the interest of an artificial price level. We raise cattle only to destroy a part of the lot to prevent the collapse of the market. We burn, or throw overboard, grain, vegetables and fruit, only to raise the price index of these goods beyond the reach of the purchasing power of the masses of the people. Ours is the economics of contradictions, cross purposes and cynical defeatism, for it's the economics of production for profit, not for use.

Theory of Over-production

But why unemployment? Rugged individualists say that it is the result of overproduction. Such a theory places too great a strain upon the credibility of the plain people.

Do not the people still cry for bread? Are there not thousands of children who need shoes, babies who want milk? Are there not millions homeless and landless?

Yes, the people want goods and services. They want more and better food, clothing and shelter. Therefore, the doctrine of overproduction is a hoax and a fraud. The trouble is not overproduction, but underconsumption. There are not more goods and services produced than the people can consume, but more than they can buy back with the wages they receive. The reason the working masses cannot buy the goods and services they create is that they are deprived of an unduly, disproportionately, inequitable share of the wealth they bring into being at the point of production. This is due to the fact that the social tools of production and resources are privately owned and controlled.

Exploitation of Workers Foundation of Monopolies

This economic arrangement of the ruthless exploitation of the wage earners is the foundation of great trusts and monopolies that have become the efficient agencies for the utilization of the processes of mechanization, technification and rationalization, the bald results of which are periodic depressions, economic and social degredation and relief.

This is further expressed in widespread unemployment today, aggregating, as afore suggested, 10 millions of people, even though five million have been returned to jobs since the beginning of the depression in 1929. The increase of an additional five million in the army of the unemployed came through millions of youths becoming of age and the displacements of workers by machine technology, which has added immensely to the productive efficiency of every American worker. Permit me to pose this dilemma which the people face:

Fewer Workers Produce More Goods and Services

Between 1919 and 1929, the government's figures show that the actual physical output of manufacturing industries increased by 42 per cent. This 42 per cent. larger output was produced by 6 per cent. fewer people. Add to this distressing condition the fact that the population had increased by 15 per cent. during that decade. Now, the employers raised wages only 11 per cent. on the average, according to government figures, but did not lower prices, and unless prices are lowered, there is certain to be underconsumption, since 42 per cent. more goods cannot be bought by a people with only 11 per cent. more pay. The same process which has gone on in the manufacturing industry has taken place in the transportation industry. In 1920, Class I Railroads had a total of 2,022,832 employees, and moved 447,278,209,869 ton miles of freight. By 1929, the number of employees had been reduced to 1,660,851. But the total ton miles of freight in that year had grown to 489,887,393,000, an increase of 8.5 per cent. The average number of ton miles of freight per employee had thus increased to 294,995, an increase of 33 per cent. Railroad payrolls, likewise, declined from $3,681,801,193 in 1920 to $2,896,566,351 in 1929, a drop of 21.3 per cent. One dollar of payroll by 1929 thus moved 169 ton miles of freight, an increase compared with 1920 of 39 per cent. The figures show that 17.9 per cent. fewer workers getting 21.3 per cent. less pay, moved 9.5 per cent. more freight in 1929 than in 1920. This tendency of reducing the working force while increasing the output with a reduced payroll is perceptible in practically every industry. The startling economic fact here involved is a contracting base of workers who are the prospective consumers of the services of the workers of hand and brain.

But the rate of profits for business enterprise has increased since a higher productive efficiency has resulted in a lower production cost. Surpluses of wealth, therefore, lie idle in the banks and capitalists refuse to employ them as investment capital, since they are aware of the fact that the consumer market has contracted by the large army of the unemployed and the continuing displacements of workers by industrial mechanization.

Civil Liberties By-Product of Crisis

An inevitable consequence of the crisis is civil, political and economic reaction.

The Dies' Committee is not an accident. It's the normal outgrowth of an era of capitalist decline as manifested in the present crisis. It is one of the irremediable, inner-contradictions of a moribund social system. It's a festering sore and putrefaction of our social order.

The Dies Committee's activities are a violent expression of an accelerated tendency of militaristic capitalism, the first fruit of a nascent fascism, and becomes bold and defiant in times of the weakening of the underpinnings of democratic faiths, ideals and values.

What does Dies really want? He says he wants to save the Nation from subversive elements. What's wrong with this? Nothing! But the question arises: Who and what constitute the subversive elements? Mr. Dies answers in part, but not wholly. His propaganda procedure is subtle and dangerous. This is his formula: An accusing finger is pointed at the Communists. They are branded un-American, lawless, ruthless and makers of trouble, demonstrations, strikes, picket lines, protest mass meetings, agitators for more relief and jobs, democracy and peace. While this may not be a literal definition, it is a practical and pragmatic one.

This propaganda procedure is intended to rouse, enkindle and whip up a nation-wide hysteria against all persons or groups that fall within the broad formula of so-called subversive elements.

But, assuming that the Communists are lawless, and if they are, there is ample law to punish them. They, the Communists, will not alone be the victims of the Dies Committee propaganda formula. All minority groups, such as Negroes, foreigners, trade unions, Jews and Catholics are eligible victims of this unreasoning hysteria, since if Communists are chargeable with being agents of strikes for relief and against pay cuts, in short, the apostles of violence and lawlessness, whenever ordinary trade unions call a walkout and throw a picket line around a factory or mine, or a group of citizens march to the City Hall, or to Washington to present petitions for more WPA appropriations, or when the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the National Negro Congress stage mass demonstrations for the Anti-Lynching Bill, they fall within the category of Mr. Dies' definition of Communists and thereupon may be pursued, persecuted and raided and have their papers and property seized in absolute violation of their constitutional rights.

Hence, minority groups, trade unions and lovers of democracy, whether you like Communists or not, have no alternative except to strive for the death of the Dies' Committee, for the inevitable, and logical result of its propaganda procedure is to create a wave of hate and madness that will sweep before it into the fires of destruction the labor movement, and all minority movements for civil and political rights, and racial justice.

We saw this in the brutal attacks of Little Steel and the murder of eleven steel workers in South Chicago several summers ago. The technique was simple. All was necessary was to brand CIO Communistic. An evaluation and examination of the merits of the rights of the steel workers in the Republic Steel Company was beside the point. If you are able so to whip up and shape the emotional reactions of the populace as merely by calling names settle a question and prove the worth or menace of a group, you have built the basis of a dangerous power. Such is the aim of the Dies' Committee. This was the methodology of Hitler. He made the Jews and Communists the goat, and blamed them for all of the ills of Germany. But now, since his purpose of establishing a totalitarian state is accomplished, one seldom hears of ravings against Jews, and certainly not against Communists since the grand rapprochement between Fascism and Communism.

Thus, the Dies Committee and democracy are at opposite poles. They are exclusive forces. For one to live, the other must die.

By the same technique of Dies, the slave-lynching states of the South created a vicious state of mind against an imaginary Negro domination, that lynching, the outrages of the Ku Klux Klan upon the Negro, his disfranchisement, segregation and discriminations, were easily justified and rationalized.

Anything a Negro did could be construed as a manifestation toward Negro domination. The merits of no particular case were necessary, for the court, church, press, politics and social conduct had the magic formula, "Down with Negro domination", and this formula was broad enough to include a poem of a Negro genius, the Negro playing a sonata by Beethoven, the tan shoes of a Negro in his Sunday togs, the use of good English, guilty of being born up North, ownership of a beautiful automobile, or home, and calling a Negro mister. Given any one of the aforementioned crimes and misdemeanors and the emotional contact is made with a furious, resultant mob spirit, yelping for the blood of some innocent Negro.

But the mob mania did not stop with the Negro. It reached out and caught the Jew, the labor unionist, derisivly called agitator, and the Catholic. For mob germs, like disease germs, know no color, religious or class, lines.

The Dies Committee, that stirs and lashes the basest passions of intolerance, bigotry, racial, class and nationality hatreds, is an expression of the worst elements of a witch-hunting and witch-burning obscurantism that harks back to the foulest crimes perpetrated against freedom and progress, typified in the Spanish

Inquisition under Torquemado and the fierce and furious fanaticism that tortured and tormented and crucified Jesus Christ and the early Christians by the Pharisees, Scribes and Sadduces.

It is the hier of the notorious Mitchell Palmer and Postmaster Burleson raids and attacks upon a free press, free assemblage and free speech, and the person and property of American citizens.

Without the right, freely to express one's opinions, wrong as well as right, a democratic society cannot long endure. How can the Dies Committee claim to be seeking to save the American democratic system while it violates the most sacred and cardinal principles of democracy, freedom of religion and political beliefs and security of one's person and property. Obviously, his remedy is worse than the evils he deplores, for he is injecting into the life streams of American democracy the poisonous infections of totalitarian ideological regimentation, senseless fear and desperation that are certain to bring paralysis and death if unchecked to the American Bill of Rights.

Along with this organized effort to destroy the foundations of civil and political freedom, economic citizenship of the workers in industry is attacked with increasing bitterness and violence, as shown by the refusal of big industrialists to give recognition to bona-fide labor unions, despite the explicit mandate of the National Labor Relations Act and the pronouncements of the Supreme Court. The rights of workers to bargain collectively are not only denied, but $80,000,000 per year are spent by open-shop corporations, as pointed out by the LaFollette Civil Liberties Committee, for the maintenance of armies of thugs, gangsters, undercover men, finks and spies through such detective agencies as Burns and Pinkerton, that have provoked premature strikes, framed workers' organizers and resorted to all forms of unlawful violence and terrorism to break the backbone of trade unions.

Such is a sketchy picture of the present world crisis.

Now, when did it begin and what is its cause? Some conception of the cause of this crisis must be determined before the remedy can be formulated and applied.

Thus, it is appropriate to inquire as to whether the crisis began, or if its cause is the rapprochement between Fascism and Communism — the German-Russian Pact? The answer is, No.

Did it originate with the invasion of Poland by the armed forces of the Third Reich? Or was it the result of the declaration of war by England and France upon Germany? The answer again is in the negative. The present World War was not the cause or the beginning of the crisis, nor will the end of the war bring about the end of the crisis, although it is now the central phase of the crisis and its cessation will measurably set up economic, political and social arrangements that will make for the solution of the problems of the crisis and a balancing and correlation of the forces that gave it existence.

Is the crisis due to the rise of Hitler? No, nor will it end with the passing of Der Fuehrer. Hitler is simply a Fascist edition of the Kaiser. The Austrian corporal, is himself, an effect of the same set of causes that are at the bottom of the crisis.

Perhaps, the immediate beginning of the crisis was the aggression of Japan upon Manchuria, and the establishment of the puppet state Manchuquo, and the miserable failure of the League of Nations to attempt to rally the moral forces of the world against it.

Then, the natural question arose that if, under the announced claim of a "new order" in the East and the military and diplomatic metaphysics of an "undeclared war", Nippon can take over a great section of China, why can't other great power nations extend their economic and political spheres of influence by "undeclared wars" in the interest of the protection of nationals under foreign flags, securing one's "place in the sun", or carrying the culture of a self-proclaimed superior race to an alleged backward people.

Hence, Germany raised the old cry of "Anschluss" and annexed Austria and with the machinations of Henlein in Sudentenland, answered the call to come over into Macedonia and took over the progressive Republic of Czechoslovakia, following the great betrayal of world peace and democracy, at Munich.

Italy had already overrun the ancient and peace-loving kingdom of Ethiopia, an outrage, winked and connived at by the League of Nations.

Meanwhile, the brave Loyalist Republic of Spain was offered up as a sacrifice upon the altar of power politics to Fascist General Franco, aided and abetted by Mussolini and Hitler, while the Allies in the Non-Intervention Committee stood by in cautious acquiescence, to their present remorse.

But the law of world power politics is that conquest begets conquests. The appetites of imperial powers are whetted by what they feed upon, and the more they get, the more they want. Wisely has it been said that those who have least, while needing most, want least, and those who have most, while needing least, want most.

Thus, the march of empire goes on. Il Duce moves into Albania and Hitler again sets the world agog by taking Memel and demanding Danzig.

6. Meaning of Nazi-Communist Pact

The diplomatic coup d'etat of Der Fuehrer in signing a pact with Stalin did not only startle the world, it marked a decisive stage in the trend of world affairs. Upon the announcement of the consummation of this pact, waves of indignation and condemnation swept the world. But this Pact was not strange. Germany and Russia followed the line of their national interests, or what they believed to be their national interests. All great power nations follow their national interests. So do England and France, Italy and Japan, and even our own United States of America, condemnations to the contrary, notwithstanding.

However, because Nazi Germany and Communist Russia may have been acting in obedience to their national interests, it does not follow that the pursuit of their national interests was, or is, compatible with world peace and democracy. For the pact encouraged Germany's invasion of Poland, followed by a division of this hapless land between Hitler and Stalin, and later Russia's efforts to dominate the Baltic States, indicated by her aggression upon little Finland, Estonia, Lithuania and Latvia, with evident determination to take Bessarabia from Roumania and protect her Slavic kin in Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, and albeit, with an obvious revival of old Czarist dreams in Bolshevik Russia of a commercial outlet through the Dardanelles.

Germany, according to Robert Ley, head of the labor front, envisages the re-establishment of her dominion on the basis of the treaty of Westphalia of 1648, which would mean the absorption of the low countries, Holland and Belgium, and reaching down deeper into the Balkans.

Of course, the Pact was designed to prevent the encirclement of Germany and enable her to move in on Poland and to break up the anti-Comintern axis and free Russia to deal with Japan in the East.

7. The Nazi-Communist Pact and Germany

Certainly, the Pact did not advance the cause of world democracy, for, in the nature of things, totalitarian Nazi Germany and Communist Russia, where freedom of speech, press and assembly, the foundations of democracy, are suppressed, could not and would not uphold and protect democratic traditions and institutions.

The recent imperial invasions and conquests by Hitler and Stalin in the Baltic and Scandinavian Republics are proof as strong as Holy Writ, that democracy and the totalitarian governments are incompatible and exclusive forces.

8. World War of 1914 and the Crisis

Yes, the cause of the existing world crisis goes deeper than the varied, recent alliances and pacts of the present war. The roots extend back to the Peace of Versailles, whose uprighteous allocation and victimization of world peoples and lands, gave birth to Hitler and Nazism and the serious maladjustment of world economic relationships, such as the destruction of some three hundred billions of dollars of property, amazing girations in world currencies, up and down, the death of 10 million men and 20 million wounded and the creation of the problem of millions of unemployables.

But the Peace of Versailles is only a proximate cause. It is itself the effect of a deeper cause, namely, world financial imperialism, or the process of the march of investment capital in foreign countries, and especially into the so-called undeveloped lands that are inhabited by the alleged backward, darker races, such as China, India, Africa and the isles of the sea.

Colored Pillow of Flesh

While the peoples of color represent roughly around two-thirds of the population of the world and occupy half the territory, they, with the exception of Japan, with a population of only 60,000,000, are under the domination of the great white power nations, Great Britain, France, Italy, at one time Germany, and the United States of America. Every man, woman and child of Great Britain has ten colonial subjects, black, brown and yellow; and for every acre in France, there are twenty in the French colonies and protectorates. Italy is one-sixth as large as her colonies; Portugal, one-twentieth; Belgium, one-eightieth. In very truth, the nations of Europe are dwarfs besides their colonial possessions.

Englishmen, euphemistically, call this colonialism the "White Man's Burden", although it is the backs of the peoples of color — black, brown and yellow — that constitute the colored pillow of flesh that bears this burden and scar of world imperialism.

White Man's Burden

Indeed, in flagrant defiance of the great moral law of the dignity of the human being, the extension of the business of carrying "The White Man's Burden" to the so-called "Backward Peoples" of the world, was made more easily possible by the unholy alliance of the Bible, Bullets and Booze, which was employed to break the spirit of the colonials and make them willing subjects of exploitation, that they may properly recognize that they are of an inferior breed.

Rise of Dictatorships

But if you sow the wind, you will reap the whirlwind, and so the expropriation of the land and labor of the darker races for the profit and power of the great white nations has brought in its train a sinister triumvirate, namely, a continuing, if not chronic world crisis, another World War and the dictatorships of FASCISM, NAZISM, and COMMUNISM.

In the United States of America and the West Indies, the world crisis has brought on deepening poverty of the Negro people and sharpening of race conflict, because of the fierce competition for work and life.

World Imperialism

Yes, financial imperialism, which consists in rivalries and competition for economic spheres of influence, trade routes, political suzerainty and rights of extra-territoriality among weaker peoples, was the drive behind Russia's seeking an outlet into the Baltic and Black Seas under the Czar; German's fight to build a railroad from Berlin to Bagdad; Great Britain's and France's control of the Suez Canal; Britain's dominion over the seas; Japan's demand for recognition by western powers of a Monroe doctrine in the East and her penetration into China; Italy's raid of Ethiopia and will to control the Mediterranean; and the United States' building of the Panama Canal, her demand for an open door in China and the acceptance of the doctrine of hemispherical indivisibility among the Americas, and this imperialism is the outgrowth of monopoly capitalism, a system of production and distribution of goods and services for profit and power.

But profits can only come with the exploitation of the workers. Upon a basis of this exploitation, surplus wealth is accumulated which the owners or capitalists cannot themselves consume, and hence seek new fields of investment for higher rates of return.

Thus, if imperialism is the result of monopoly capitalism, and monopoly capitalism stems from the exploitation of labor, by a wage compensation less than they produce, then no real and fundamental world peace can come until the workers stop their exploitation. The cessation of this war will be merely a truce, though a truce is better than this horror.

9. How Does the Crisis Affect the Negro People and the Darker Races

The crisis creates an intensification of the impoverishment, misery and degradation of the Negro peoples in particular, and the darker races in general.

In this hour of crisis, the Negro people look to programs for their liberation. What are these programs?

10. Japan and the Negro People

Among a considerable section of the Negro people, there is a belief that Negroes should look to Japan for leadership, based largely upon the fact that Japan is one of the darker races.

This position is futile and fallacious, because Japan is an imperialistic power and, therefore, subjugates, rather than liberate weaker people. Witness its treatment of the Chinese, who, too, are colored. Moreover, Japan is completely absorbed trying to maintain her own imperial existence and expansion, and couldn't, even if she would, come to the rescue of the oppressed peoples of color. Although, Japan in a war with the United States, may seek to exploit the unrest of the Negro people upon a basis of color, not because of any real interest in the Negro, but for her own advantage.

11. Russia and the Negro

Another section of the Negro people and the darker races place their hopes in the Soviet Union. Their hopes are just as vain and unsubstantial, for the Soviet Union, too, is an imperial power and seeks, like Japan, the extension and expansion of its power over weaker peoples, regardless of color. Witness Mongolia, Finland and the small Baltic States.

Besides, Russia, like Japan, is a dictatorship, which takes only cognizance of the use to her of people, with no concern for their rights, except when it may serve as a point of propaganda and advantage for her foreign policy.

This attitude of the Soviet Union is explicit in the flat refusal to make the famous movie picture of America's injustice to the Negro with a Negro group which journeyed to Russia, when the turn of events indicated possible recognition by the United States. This is no statement of condemnation of this position, but merely an illustration of the fact that Russia, like all other power nations, follows her national interests, despite her ideological professions, and, of course, it may be that her national interests may not always coincide with the interests and progress of the Negro people and other darker races.

Moreover, Russia, too, must look to her own stability and future. She was powerless to save Ethiopia, although she made an uncostly gesture of sympathy to this unhappy country in a brilliant speech by Foreign Commisar Litvinov at the League of Nations.

But what of Great Britain and France? Should the Negro and darker people look to them for freedom and justice. The answer is written large and in unmistakable terms in the long, tragic history of the fingers of England and France dripping with the blood of black, yellow and brown colonials. England and France have stolen the land and labor of black men in Africa, brown and yellow men in India and China, and with arrogance and pomp, abused and insulted these helpless peoples until they are well-nigh stung to revolt.

Moreover, England and France, like Japan and Russia, are empires that subjugate and do not liberate weaker peoples. Despite their protestations of democracy, millions of their dark colonials are slaves, held down by bayonet and sword, Christian missionaries, a lying and double-dealing diplomacy, and the adroit policy of divide and rule.

In very truth, it is not the business of great power nations to go around hunting oppressed people to free, for it is a notorious fact that they do not liberate their own.

We can prove that by the Negroes in the United States of America.

12. Salvation from Within

The only rational conclusion then seems to be that the Negro and the other darker races must look to themselves for freedom. Salvation for a race, nation, or class, must come from within. Freedom is never granted, it is won. Justice is never given, it is exacted. Freedom and justice must be struggled for by the oppressed of all lands and races, and the struggle must be continuous, for freedom is never a final fact, but a continuing evolving process to higher and higher levels of human, social, economic, political and religious relationships. Privation, sacrifice and suffering are the price of freedom. It is written that "there is no remission of sin except through blood".

With a sound leadership of the Congress, the Negro people will march forward in the world-wide struggle for peace, freedom and plenty, democracy and justice, the Brotherhood of man and the dignity of the human spirit.

Yes, salvation must come from within. Charity and philanthropy from the Left, or the Communists or Socialists, is just as unsound, illogical and objectionable as charity and philanthropy from the right, the capitalists. For with charity and philanthropy go control since the power over a man's subsistence is the power over his will. He who pays the fiddler will call the tune. Now, control of a people's will by an outside force destroys their initiative, breaks down their feeling of independence and thwarts and stultifies their intellectual, moral and spiritual growth and development.

It were far better that the Negro people make progress slowly on their own strength and resources than that they move forward at an acclerated peace but led by the apron strings of either the reactionary right or revolutionary Left.

No, the Economic Royalists of the Republican Party cannot save the Negro! Neither the A. F. of L. or the C. I. O. can save the Negro. The Communist Party cannot save the Negro. The Socialist Party cannot save the Negro. The New Deal cannot save the Negro. In very truth, the Negro must save himself. He must depend on his own right arm, together with the cooperation of his true white friends.

Nor is this a doctrine of isolation, Negro nationalism or black chauvanism, but one of self-reliance, self-help, self-determination, self-understanding, to the end of genuine self-growth, self-control, self-progress, and not without willingness for alliance with all sound American movements whose program is in harmony with the struggle of the Negro people for freedom.

13. Let Down Your Buckets Where You Are!

And the fight for freedom must be made by the Negro people and other darker races in the land of their birth or adoption, and within the framework of the traditions, background and life of that country. Natives of South Africa cannot meet their problems in terms of the social, economic and political customs and practices of the United States of America. Negroes of the West Indies cannot grapple with their questions upon a basis of the historical background of India, and the Negro people of America cannot shape and determine their technique and methodology for their liberation by the social patterns and traditions of the Soviet Union. For the knowledge and understanding that are essential for an oppressed group to win their rights can only come through sharing and participating in the experiences and struggles themselves for freedom within the country where said rights are denied. Just as the White House of America cannot supply the leadership to the people of India to achieve independence from the British Empire, so the Kremlin cannot correctly and effectively direct the tactics and strategy of the Negro people or American labor in the fight for racial and social justice in these United States.

14. Domestic Problems

What of the domestic problems of the Negro people?

In industry, Negroes are marginal workers, being the first fired and last hired. Thousands of Negro workers are jobless, because there are what is known as "white men's jobs". For instance, only white men are supposed to be engineers, railroad or Pullman conductors, or telegraphers. Only white girls are accepted as telephone operators. Managerial and policy-making positions are generally assigned to white persons. This is not only true in private industry, but in the Federal Government as well.

15. White Man's Job

In the Federal Government, under all administrations, Republican and Democratic, Negroes are either given rubber-stamp. window-dressing jobs for the consumption of the Negro masses, or jobs at hard labor. There probably is an exception here and there. Negroes who are given high-sounding appointments that would seem to be something, in most instances, don't even have the empty solace of having their names on the door of their dingy and dishevelled offices. In fact, most of the time of the so-called big Negro politicians, who receive appointments under any administration, is spent adroitly doing nothing. This is in harmony with the policy of Republicans and Democrats, of making one or two so-called "big" Negroes, in order to keep down and submissive a whole lot of "little" Negroes.

Under this notorious system, the few big Negroes eat cake, while the masses lack bread.

16. Discriminations in Unions

And at the doors of trade unions, in too many instances, Negroes are stopped, not because they are not workers, but because they are black. Because of discrimination in some sections of industry and some of the international unions, Negro workers face the dilemma of being denied jobs because they don't have union cards, and being refused union cards because they don't possess jobs. Of course, this is not true of all unions. I know of no union in the C. I. O. that denies Negroes the right to join. and only some 20 or more international unions out of 103 affiliated with the A. F. of L. refuse Negroes membership.

Because Negroes are denied jobs, their relief load is high. Yet, thousands of Negro workers will soon be out of WPA jobs, with no openings in private industry.

Not only are Negroes discriminated against in industry, but the jobs they have are of the lowest order and they receive the lowest wages and work the longest hours under the worst conditions.

17. Civil Rights and Negroes

In addition to the fact that Negroes face injustice in private industry, they are denied their share of employment and recognition in the tax-supported agencies of the government, municipal, state and federal. Witness the attitude toward Negroes in the Army, Navy and Aviation departments of the country.

And they are denied their rights of full American citizens in the very Capitol of our Nation, Washington, D. C., Negro citizens cannot purchase a ticket and witness a play or movie in a downtown theatre, or be served in a restaurant or hotel.

Despite the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments to the Constitution, the Poll Tax and the White Primaries prevent Negroes from exercising their simple rights of suffrage, to vote and be voted for in the South.

Social Conditions

In every city in the country, Negroes live in the worst sections of the city, slum areas, housed in shacks that typify disease, squalor and misery. For these shameless hovels, they pay the highest rent because of segregation, squeezed and gouged by greedy landlords, white and black.

Segregation in Education

Segregation in education in border and southern states unfairly limit the Negroes' educational opportunities.

The courts try Negroes according to the canons of mob hysteria. The press and literature of the South develop stereotypes that are designed to subject the Negro people to ridicule, fun and mockery, while demagogic politicians inflame the passions of the populace that give rise to depredations, floggings, intimidations and the lynch terror of innocent Negro citizens.

On the stage, in the movies, most generally, Negroes are pictured in the role of clowns and buffoons, in which well-meaning, but misguided Negroes themselves acquiesce and salve their conscience by calling it art.

The Remedy

But what of the remedy? Many, divers programs are presented. We are urged to stand by the Republican Party. But the Republican Party is the party of big business, and the Negro people are a race of workers, who sell their labor power in the market for wages from day to day—wages with which they buy food, clothing and shelter, upon which their life depends. Claims of allegiance of the Negro upon the grounds that it freed the Negro slave are hollow and untenable. Emancipation of the slaves was a by-product and incident of the Civil War, and not its main objective. The Civil War was primarily designed to save the Union for the economic advantage of the rising financial and industrial bourgeoise of the North. Northern capitalists wanted a protective tariff against European products, and Southern cotton plantation slave owners wanted free trade in order to buy machinery in the European market. The Republican Party was the political expression of this growing banking and business class of the North. But the Republican Party played a progressive role then for it represented the new capitalist industrialists whose historic mission was the abolition of the old slave oligarchy and the system of slavery for their own economic gain which had become a stop-gap to the economic progress of capitalism and the Nation.

Republican Party

Today, the Republican Party is no longer a progressive force. It stands for child labor. Its dominant spokesmen are opposed to bona-fide collective bargaining of the workers. It deserted and betrayed the Negro at the end of the Civil War when the Union had been saved and left him to the mercies of his former masters. Despite the long record of Republican control of the Federal Government, nothing has ever been done about the disgrace of lynching or jim-crowism within the Federal Government itself. While the Republicans got the loyal vote of the Negro people, the Negro people got nothing in return except unfulfilled and empty campaign promises and a meaningless sop such as a Registrar of the Treasury or Recorder of Deeds, while millions of Negroes have gone jobless, hungry and without the full rights and recognition of American citizens.

Democratic Party

But the Democratic Party is no better. This party is saddled by the Solid South, which boldly boasts of its disfranchisement of and opposition to the Negro people. The Southern wing upholds the terrorism of the Ku Klux Klan, peonage, an outrageous share-crop system, and a wilful group of its demagogues who filibuster to death every anti-lynching bill that is presented to the Senate.

Socialist and Communist Parties

But not only are the parties to the right inadequate, the parties to the left are ineffective or unsound.

The Socialist Party, because of its lack of numbers, is unable to make a bid for power.

The Communist Party, while stronger in numbers, is unsound and disastrous in tactic, strategy and allegiance to the Soviet Union.

Since the Communist Party of America stems from Communist Russia, its policies and program, tactics and strategy are as fitful, changeful and unpredictable as the foreign policy and line of Moscow.

The Communist Party is not primarily, or fundamentally, concerned about the Negro or labor in America, but with the fulfilling and carrying out the needs and demands for the consolidation of the foreign position of the Soviet Union in world politics. Hence, the rapid, amazing and ridiculous shift in its line on trade union methods, peace and war, the doctrine of self-determination of smaller nationalities, Fascism, Nazism, unity of the American labor movement, the Negro liberation movement, the New Deal, the Popular Front, the League of Nations, Democracy, collective security and a third term.

Therefore, for anyone to take the position that the Negroes should place their fortunes at the feet of the Communist Party, which is subject to such violent and far-reaching shakeups, a party which lacks stability of purpose, and serves an alien master, is passing strange.

This does not imply that Negroes should refuse to support movements and programs merely because Communists may espouse them. Should anyone contend that Negroes should not oppose America's entering the war only because Communists take that line, even though the Communists may have different reasons? Certainly not.

Negroes should oppose America's entrance into the war solely because it is certain to mean the destruction of American democracy, and without democracy, the Negroes' chance for progress and justice is hopeless, since they would be shorn of the rights of protest and petition.

How can the Soviet Union, thousands of miles removed from the domestic problems of Negroes in these United States, have the knowledge and wisdom to supply the leadership in the Communist Party, to formulate and direct the execution of a program for the solution of the Negro problems?

To claim such a possibility is utterly fantastic and absurd. It simply doesn't make good sense.

Negro Communists

Of course, this does not mean that the Negro, because he is a Negro, should not join the Communist Party. No, not at all. While one may question the soundness of his judgment, but we would fight for his right to exercise it, to join the Communist Party, or any other political organization he chooses.

Negroes Reject the Communist Pact

The Negroes do not reject the Communist Party because it is revolutionary or radical, or because of its alleged extremism. They reject the Communist Party because it is controlled and dominated by a foreign state whose policy may, or may not be in the interest of the United States, or the Negro people. Moreover, Negroes cannot afford to add to the handicap of being black the handicap of being Red.

Negroes Loyal to the United States

Negroes, above all, must and will always remain loyal to the United States, the development of whose civilization, Negroes have given of their blood, brawn and brain. They have made American what it is, have felled the trees, cleared the forest, built the railroads and cities, tilled the land, and contributed to literature, labor, religion, art, philosophy, and defended the flag from the revolutionary war of Independence to Flanders Field in France.

Because the Negro people are of the warp and wood, blood, bone and flesh of America, and because the future of the Negro people is tied up with the future of this country, they must, and will remain ever devoted to it. When this country is wrong, Negroes will fight and work to set it right. When it is right, they will also strive to keep it right.

But because the Negro people will never betray, desert our United States of America, or stain our glorious history with the disgrace of a Benedict Arnold, serving as Trojan Horse, or Fifth Column for a foreign state, it does not mean that the Negro people do not recognize the grave shortcomings of this Nation, in the conception and application of genuine democracy, Christianity and the Brotherhood of man, or that they will not uncompromisingly and courageously point out this fact.

Negroes Loyal to America

And since the Negro people have helped make America, it is our job to help make America live up to the ideals and principles of democracy, Christianity and the Brotherhood of man. In doing this job of winning Negro rights in America and making America a land of peace and plenty, freedom, justice and social security, the Negro people must and will reject the collaboration or aid from Nazis, Communists, or any other foreign government.

And in a war between the United States and Nazi Germany, the Negroes will take up arms against Germany. In a conflict between the United States of America and the Soviet Union, the Negro people will go to war against Russia. In a war between the Allies of England and France, or Japan, the Negro people will take their stand with our own country.

Progressive Political Action

It seems clear that the Negroes' responsibility is to support liberal and progressive political candidates without regard to party label, and never to place a cross in the circle at the top of a ballot. In addition to men who are sound on democracy, social justice, labor and race, Negroes should join hands in helping to build a national farmer-labor political party, which is truly American, with its roots deep in the soil of American history and traditions and life, and dedicated to the abolition of unemployment, pauperism and poverty, the maintenance of democratic institutions, American patriotism and racial equality, even though it may take decades and more to do the task.

Negroes and Labor

What of the remedy of organized labor? Since the Negro people are workers, it ought to be obvious and self-evident that bona-fide labor organization is the major factor in their economic salvation. This labor organization, too, must be truly American, with no ties with any foreign "ism".

But to suggest organized labor to the Negro is to invite controversy, for Negro leaders, in the main, are opposed to organized labor.

They charge, and not without much justice, that organized labor has discriminated against Negro workers. This is true, but with some reservations.

All organized labor has not discriminated against Negroes as aforementioned.

But the Negro leaders don't oppose the A. F. of L. merely because of discrimination by some of its national and international unions. They oppose it because of a genuine lack of sympathy for trade unions, due largely to their real feeling that the Negro people's interests lie with big business, and their hope and belief that they can become petty black bourgeoisie. They have no more love for the C. I. O. than they have for the A. F. of L., except that they are lured by any advertised financial resources that may indicate possible charity

Race Prejudice Everywhere

Certainly, it would be unsound for Negroes to remain out of the labor movement because race prejudice is in it. Pursue this logic to its end, and Negroes would not enter either municipal, state or federal government agencies, public schools or universities, North or West, or any church of a so-called white denomination, such as the Methodist Episcopal creed, YWCA or YMCA, or any institution in which white people are, because it is a matter of common knowledge that any movement, institution, religious, political, labor or educational that white people are in in America, has race prejudice in it. Thus, if Negroes decide to keep out of everything race prejudice is in, they will get out of America, and, in fact, get off the earth,, for race prejudice is everywhere.

A sound policy is not to refuse to join movements and institutions that race prejudice is in, but to go into them and fight to drive race prejudice out.

Negroes in Broad Liberal Movements

But Negroes must not fight for their liberation alone. They must join sound, broad, liberal, social movements that seek to preserve American democracy and advance the cause of social and religious freedom. For Negroes are not the only people in America who are the victims of hatred.

There are the Jews who are victims of a rising, threatening tide of anti-Semitism. Eight hundred organizations in America openly declare opposition to the Jew. Who knows that America may not yet become a Nazi Germany to the Jews?

Anti-Catholicism, too, is rampant. Witness the break-up of the Solid South on the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith for the Presidency. The anti-Catholic movement of know-nothingism, which arose in the middle of the Nineteenth Century, is virulent and vicious in the South and Midwest today, and if another Catholic were named for the Presidency tomorrow, he would be crushed under an avalanche of religious bigotry and intolerance.

The salvation of the Negro people is irretrievably tied up with the fight to defend the Jews against anti-Semitism, the Catholics from know-nothingism, and the foreign workers against hysterical Nationalism and Fascism.

White Man's Prejudice Makes Negroes Communists

Negro people can feel the poignant pains of their Jewish, Catholic and foreign brothers, for they bear the cross of persecution. If some are Communists, and there are, white America and even the Federal Government have made them so by injustice and wrong, poverty, mob rule, brutality and insult.

Just a few months or so ago, the middle of February, 1940, in Miami, Fla., a Negro was shot down like a rat by a white storekeeper in a Negro neighborhood merely because the Negro requested to see certain goods and didn't buy anything. Murdered in cold blood, and the murderer was not even arrested! But the Negroes, happily, didn't take it lying down. They swarmed around the store a thousand strong and shouted their wrath against this white storekeeper, and forced him to vacate the store by compelling the owner to put him out. This is a type of spirit which caused a thousand Negroes to march down to the polls in prejudiced Miami and demand and secure the right to register and vote, despite the threats and intimidations of the Klan.

Negroes are known, without receiving publicity, to have taken the fiery cross from Klansmen and torn the hoods off and broken up parades in St. Petersburgh, Florida. This is the matchless courage and deeds of the Negro masses. It will spread and put a stop for all times to lynching and mob rule in the South.

What Shall Negroes Do?

1. They must organize into the trade unions, and form independent labor organizations when barred from the national or international unions.

2. Develop cooperatives, consumers and producers, together with credit unions.

3. Support progressive and liberal men and measures in politics.

4. Oppose all legislation against foreigners in America.
5. Fight for freedom of political beliefs.
6. Strive for the preservation of democracy.
7. Develop mass support for the anti-lynching bill, abolition of the poll tax and white primaries and jim-crowism.
8. Fight for increase of WPA and relief and normal expansion of private employment, and extension of housing program.
9. Fight for abolition of color prejudice in labor unions, government and industry.
10. Fight for growth of employment in tax supported agencies, including Navy, Army, and Air Force.

Finally, Negroes should organize federated organizations, composed of all Negro organizations in every community, such as the National Negro Congress.

But the Dies Committee says the Negro Congress is a Communistic Front and Transmission Belt for Communist propaganda.

We brand this charge as false. Because the Negro Congress supports policies and movements that Communists support, does not prove that the Negro Congress is Communist. It may prove that the Communists propose some policies that are sound.

The National Negro Congress should be judged by its program and activities. But the Dies Committee condemned and branded it a Communist Front without even taking the time to call before its Committee for a hearing a single official of the Congress.

Our Secretary, John P. Davis, expressed willingness and readiness to the Dies Committee to appear before it to supply all information required.

Personally, I would not be a member of the Negro Congress, or any other organization which was a Communist Front or Transmission Belt, for the spread of Communist propaganda, not only because I reject the Communist program, but because I wouldn't be a part of any organization which hypocritically professed one thing and did another. I would not be a part of any organization which was the front of the Republican Party, or of Father Divine, or even an organization with whose program I agreed. For if I agree with the program of an organization, I would insist that it be morally courageous enough to sail openly under its true flag. I condemn the Trojan Horse, Fifth Column tactic as being morally indefensible. It may apparently give temporary success, but it contains the seeds of its own destruction, if it is alleged to serve the high purpose of social progress.

Thus, because of the charge of the Dies Committee and because of similar attacks preceding the Dies Committee, we, the delegates to this Congress have the moral responsibility and obligation thoroughly to fix in the mind of the public the unequivocal and definite fact that the National Negro Congress is not a Communist Front or Transmission Belt for Communist propaganda. If we don't do this, we would betray the faith the people have placed in us, since the Congress is pledged to be non-political and non-sectarian, but committed to a program of minimum demands, upon which all Negro organizations can agree, there being no basis for controversy. This is the only possible grounds for a United Front movement such as the National Negro Congress is. It is the only basis for rallying the Negro masses.

Hence, our task is to wipe out the stigma of the Communist Front charge and make the Negro Congress an organization which is genuinely, in fact and function, what the name expresses and implies, a Negro Congress of Negro organizations, committed primarily to the liberation of the Negro people, sustained by Negroes' resources, for Negroes themselves must pay the price in sacrifice and struggle for their own hope and future.

We hail the new spirit of courage, and struggle and unity of the Negro people.

We hail Franklin Delano Roosevelt, President of the United States, as the greatest living champion of peace, democracy and goodwill!

We hail the American Federation of Labor!

We hail the Congress of Industrial Organization!

We hail the fight for Negro Rights of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People!

We hail the fight of Negro workers for organization and progress on the railroads, longshore, in steel, coal, packing, hotel, clothing, agriculture!

We hail the fight against the persecution of labor under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act and for the preservation of the National Labor Act!

The Negro Congress must supply a leadership that is free, and honest, free from intimidation, manipulation or subordination, with a character that is beyond the reach and above the power of the dollar, a leadership with courage, vision and unbreakable and determined will, a leadership with faith and confidence in the masses, which will not shirk sacrifice or shun suffering for the cause of the people, a leadership whose philosophy is that the highest is as low as the lowest, and the lowest is as high as the highest, a leadership which is uncontrolled and responsible to no one but the Negro people.

We hail the struggle in America against Fascism, Communism and dictatorship!

Forward to peace, freedom and plenty!

Statement made following the closing of the Third National Negro Congress:

WHY I WOULD NOT STAND FOR RE-ELECTION FOR PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL NEGRO CONGRESS

By A. Philip Randolph

I am convinced that the Third National Negro Congress has not succeeded in removing from the mind of the public the idea that the charge of the Dies Committee, that the National Negro Congress is a Communist Front, and a Transmission Belt for Communist propaganda, is not true. In fact, the Congress has brilliantly succeeded in giving the charge every appearance of truth and validity.

I am convinced, also, that until the stigma of the Communist Front is wiped from the Congress, it will never rally the masses of the Negro people.

The procedure, conduct and policies of the Negro Congress, as set up in this third national meeting, will make its influence in the affairs of the American Negroes, short lived. The American Negroes will not long follow any organization which accepts dictation and control from the Communist Party. The American Negro will not long follow any organization which accepts dictation and control from any white organization.

In the last national Executive Committee meeting in New York City, Brother John P. Davis was authorized to go out and borrow $1,000 to help put the Third Congress over. He informed me that he had borrowed it and mentioned the name of a man. I was given no specific identity of the man. What was the source of this money? The Delegates to the Congress should know. Because whatever is the source of the money with which the Congress is run, will also be the source of its ideas, policies and control.

It is a well known fact that most of the contributions to this Congress, expressed by the Secretary, Mr. Davis, are from CIO unions. Is this the reason why the Congress is taking the CIO line?

In an Executive Committee meeting in New York City, Mr. Davis informed it that the Communist Party contributed $100 a month to the Congress. Is this the reason why the Congress refuses to attempt to make plain to the American people that it is not a Communist Front? These questions should be definitely and unequivocally answered.

When I was asked in a Committee meeting in New York to visit some unions, or sign a letter to be sent to certain unions for funds, I refused, because I am unalterably opposed to having a Negro organization, which is supposed to be fighting the battles of the race, depending for its main income upon a source outside of the Negro people themselves.

I am opposed to the National Negro Congress depending upon the Communists or CIO for its financial maintenance, because I am opposed to the Congress being dominated by either the Communists or the CIO. The Congress should be uncontrolled and responsible to no one but the Negro people. But it will not be uncontrolled and responsible to no one but the Negro people unless the Negro people supply the money for its maintenance.

Now, there is nothing against the Congress receiving contributions from unions, but it is dangerous business where there is a split in the labor movement, for it to receive practically the major funds, upon which its existence depends, from unions on one side of the fence. It is bound to make the Congress biased toward one side, and thereby destroy the united front and mass character of the Congress, because it will no longer be able to rally the Negro workers in the A. F. of L.

When the National Negro Congress loses its independence, it loses its soul, and has no further reason for being. It also forfeits and betrays the faith and confidence of the Negro masses. It will shatter the hopes and aspirations of the Negro people who yearn and pray for the Negro Congress not to sell out either to labor or capital, Communists or Republicans or Democrats.

Since the trend of the National Negro Congress is obviously toward domination by the Communists and the CIO, I would not stand for re-election for President.

I do not oppose domination of the Congress by the CIO because I am opposed to the CIO. I would be opposed to domination f the Congress by the A. F. of L., or any other white organization.

With respect to domination by the Communists, I am not only opposed to domination of the Congress by them, but I consider the Communists a definite menace and a danger to the Negro people and labor, because of their rule or ruin and disruptive tactics in the interest of the Soviet Union.

It was apparent, immediately the Congress got under way, that the temper, flavor and viewpoint of the Congress were Communistic, and that the resolutions adopted would reflect the Communist line. It was not long before my suspicions were confirmed, for the person who was selected for the Chairman of the Resolutions Committee is an acknowledged Communist. This was an unpardonable, colossal and childish blunder. I didn't protest against it because I knew it was useless, since the Congress was deliberately packed with Communists and CIO members who were either Communists or sympathizers with Communists.

The Third National Negro Congress was a miserable failure, so far as representing the sentiment of the American Negro people is concerned. Uproarious applause greeted every favorable reference in the Congress to Soviet Russia. The statement was even made that the Negro people would not fight in an imperialistic war against the Soviet Union. But this is far from the truth. If the United States declared war upon Communist Russia tomorrow, the Negro people would fight Russia, with all the fervor and patriotism of any other 100 per cent. American. Anyone who believes to the contrary is living in a fool's paradise.

Soviet Russia was hailed as a land without poverty or race prejudice. But the fact is, there are no Negroes in Soviet Russia that would occasion any manifestation of race discrimination. However, it is significant to note that Bolshevik Russia freely sold oil to Fascist Italy to assist the murderous war of invasion of the peace-loving and ancient kingdom of Ethiopia.

I quit the Congress because I was opposed to linking it up with Labor's Non-Partisan League, the political mouthpiece of the CIO, since this was a departure from the original minimum program upon which there could be general agreement and a sound basis for rallying the Negro masses.

It seems axiomatic and as sample as one, two, three, that the Congress could not rally the Negroes in the A. F. of L., if it were tied up with the CIO, and it could not rally the Negroes in the CIO, if it were allied with the A. F. of L.

I quit the Congress because I was opposed to it, or its officials, expressing sympathy for the Soviet Union, which is the death prison where democracy and liberty have walked their "last mile", and where shocking "blood purges" wipe out any, and all persons who express any dissenting opinions from Dictator Stalin.

I quit the Congress because I saw that the Communists were firmly in the haddle and the delegates were not subject to the influence of facts and reason. Their minds were already made up when they came there by Communists' manipulations, caucuses and propaganda. Nothing could shake them. Even poor old men and women from the deep South and from some parts up North, who didn't have the slightest idea of what it was all about, parrot fashion, went down the Communist line, like bleating sheep led to slaughter.

I quit the Congress because it is not truly a Negro Congress. Out of some 1200 or more delegates, over 300 were white, which made the Congress look like a joke. It is unthinkable that the Jewish Congress would have Gentiles in it, or that a Catholic Congress would have Protestants in it, or that the famous All India Congress would have in it as members natives of Africa. Why should a Negro Congress have white people in it?

It is no evidence of religious prejudice that Baptists don't accept Methodists into membership, or of sex prejudice that women's clubs don't take men in as members. It was perfectly ridiculous and distressing, if not comical, to observe the white delegates dominating the applause for Communists' policies and tactics.

But while I oppose white members of the Negro Congress, I favor the Congress collaborating with non-political white organizations that are progressive, liberal and sound.

The Negro people must beware of all subtle forms of Communist propaganda poison to save themselves from destruction.

It seems to be beyond the realm of debate that the Negro people cannot afford to add to the handicap of being black, the handicap of being Red.

As a result of the tactics and general behavior of the Communists in the Third National Negro Congress, I have altered my opinion of the Dies Committee and its usefulness.

While I still feel that the tactics and methods of the Dies Committee, that consist in branding any liberal as a Red, and seizing and raiding the property and person of American citizens because of their political beliefs, are unsound, un-American, and a threat to constitutional liberty, I can readily and clearly see the necessity of the Dies Committee tearing the false and deceptive faces off Communist Front movements and exposing the ramifications of the activities of Communist, Fascist, and Nazi groups among various sections of the American people. Movements that claim to be fighting the battles of the American people, and seek their allegiance and support, should be honest enough to sail undr their true colors, and the people should at least know what and who they really represent.

If the Dies Committee will carefully observe the democratic rights of persons and movements in its investigations, but relentlessly and aggressively push its crusade to destroy every vestige of foundation for Trojan Horse and Fifth Column conspiracies against the American government, it will be fulfilling an important public service.

A. PHILIP RANDOLPH.

A REPLY TO LUCIUS C. HARPER OF THE "CHICAGO DEFENDER"

Dear Editor:

Will you kindly carry this statement in reply to your interesting article on the position I took in the National Negro Congress, recently held in Washington, D. C., in the Chicago Defender of May 11th? I am not averse to your criticism. I simply want to analyze it.

You begin your article with a comment from a so-called Uncle Joe's Journal, by a colored man, who, in the dialect, points out why the colored man is turning "red".

The implication is that the Negro people are turning Red. Is this true? Hardly. A handful of Negro Communists in New York's Harlem and Chicago's South Side, constitute the main population of Negro Reds, although vocally, it would appear that their numerical magnitude is immense.

"Wherever you see a black man trying to turn 'Red', it's 'cause de white folks is made it so 'blue' fer him," is one of the clever quips in the above named Journal.

There, undoubtedly, is some truth in this witticism. But assuming that the Negro people are turning Red because the white people are making things "blue" for Negroes, that does not make the so-called effort of Negroes trying to turn Red, the wise and proper course of action for them to adopt. You are suggesting here that the old tribal method of revenge is a proper method for the solution of a grave social problem. This is far from the truth. However much it may satisfy our emotional wrath, it is definitely unscientific and contains the seeds of its own destruction. It is suicidal folly to embrace a dangerous fallacy such as the Communist Party propaganda as a left-handed means of penalizing the Negroes' malefactors, however much we may be wont to "feed fat the grudge we bear thm".

In the second to the last paragraph of your article, you make the amazing statement that "potentially, every Negro is a Communist. He wants this discriminatory form of government corrected". The inference here is that only Communists want to end discrimination. I am sure you would not seriously contend that this is true. What about the fight of the Negro people to wipe out discrimination before the Communists came upon the scene? Frederick Douglas, Monroe Trotter, Bishop Turner, James Weldon Johnson, Du Bois, Walter White, the Niagara Movement, followed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, your own pen, together with the Negro press, North and South, were fighting against race discrimination long before the fall of the despotic House of Romanoffs and the rise of the Bolsheviks.

Your slur upon American democracy, which I certainly do not defend as perfect, is a bit strange, inept and childish, when you, in the very same breath, give fulsome praise to the Soviet Union, a dictatorship, and the American Communists, as being without race prejudice.

In the first place, there are no Negroes in the Soviet Union of any consequence for race prejudice to be directed against. What you applaud Communist Russia for, you may say no less of the brave little Republic of Finland, recently hapless victim of the ruthless imperialism of Communist Russia. And everybody is not at all agreed that the American Communists are wholly without the sin of race prejudice.

Do you think Soviet Russia can be trusted and expected to love and save black people whom they don't know, when they deliberately in cold blood, murdered and subjugated the peace-loving Finns, who are white, whom they know, and who, at one time, were a part of Russia?

Moreover, while no one is more aware of the shortcomings of American democracy than I am, you certainly, as a newspaper man, must be aware of the fact that there is NO democracy at all in Communist Russia.

While you and I may discuss questions upon which we may disagree and even condemn American democracy, including any official in the government from the President down to the humble street cleaner, in Soviet Russia, which you praise, anyone who differs with, and criticizes the policies of the Communist Party, or Dictator Joseph Stalin, will be the unhappy victim of a savage and brutal blood purge, and in the lingo of the American gangster, "rubbed out", exterminated, killed forever and ever.

We need not disagree on this fact, for surely you are conversant with the liquidation, a Russian term for murder, of the old Bolsheviks, Bukarin, Zinoviev, Radeck, etc. These men had the courage and misfortune to dissent from the pontifical decrees of Stalin, and they are "Gone With The Wind".

Yes, the Soviet Union is a totalitarian state, which means that the total life, economic, political and social, national and international, is regimented and straight-jacketed with the framework of one political party, which is Communist, and in Nazi Germany, it is the National Socialist.

To put it in another way, if we had Satlin's form of government in these United States, you, nor the American Communists, could choose to discuss different sides of a public question. You could not select one political party among many, such as you can do today, because there would be but one, the Communist Party. Today, in America, there are the Republican, Democratic,

1940

Philippa Schuyler, 8, Gives Views on World Conditions

BALTIMORE, June 13—"Any totalitarian power that ruled the world would mean disaster to Western civilization.

"I hate to say it but Germany looks very strong and once she conquered England and France, she could very easily land troops in Iceland and Greenland and launch attacks on our Northern states."

The speaker was 8-year old Philippa Schuyler, precocious daughter of George Schuyler, noted Negro writer, and a white Texas woman novelist.

In an interview here, where she was appearing in concert, Philippa was sounded by reporters on world conditions, in addition to her personal life. The brilliant youngster is considered among the 10 smartest children in the world. A pianist of ability, she has composed over 60 pieces. She said she will give up her concert work after this year to study music seriously.

Philippa said she is very fond of swing music for relaxation and was taught all the jitterbug dances by her father, whom she calls George and her mother, whom she calls Jody.

Her complete program will include many of her own compositions.

Philippa, who has composed 63 works for the piano since her first composition at the age of 4, has been acclaimed by music lovers and critics throughout the country.

Challenge to Youth

The attitude of many young people today is disturbing to those who would see the pioneering spirit continue to activate American democracy. Too many trained youths have but one objective—a steady job and security, even at low pay. Too many college-bred men lend substance to the boast that college men can be hired for every gas station. Not that plying gasoline is not a necessary and respectable occupation, not that it may not be the means to larger opportunities, but rather that too many college men are content to pump gas.

The placement officer of a leading technological institute reports difficulty in filling positions of real promise in new industries. He finds that graduates settled with well-established corporations prefer to cling to jobs with low salaries and slow promotion rather than assume the risks attendant upon more lucrative positions with expanding new enterprises. He feels that this attitude is in sharp contrast with that of students even a decade ago and completely out of step with the tradition which has made America great.

It has even come to pass that certain youngsters in a mid-western city when interviewed on what they hoped to become, seriously expressed the wish that they might be WPA workers! This kind of thinking represents a challenge to our youth.

There is no dearth of ability among young people. Nor are educational opportunities lacking. The trouble seems to be depression-bred inertia, fear of want and unemployment.

College-trained youth in particular should wake up. They should accept responsibility for the leadership of tomorrow. The alternative is to continue to eat the bread of wasted opportunity.

Little pity for the AFL

There's no doubt about it, the labor movement in the United States is in grave danger of being scuttled by the Government with the tired acceptance of a people beaten down by anti-labor propaganda and disgusted with the abuses of the privilege and power of Labor, in the administrative departments, itself.

Westbrook Peglar, whose sincerity we hesitate to doubt, but whose opportunism sometimes appears too good to be true, has done his work well. Regular doses of the vitriol which flows from the pen of the pale George Schuyler, are calculated to innoculate the system against many aspects of the labor question, and in most instances against the entire movement. Chameleon-like, President Roosevelt, once Labor's bosom friend, has discovered the movement to be a viper in the Administrative bosom, and is turning from it to his one-time foes who are with him, for now, on the subject of U. S. entry into the overseas war, All this is fairly obvious, yet, somehow one is shocked to read among the editorials of the Los Angeles Times, open argument for the abolition of the labor movement. . although why anyone, particularly ourselves, should be so naive as to be surprised at anything smacking of the unprogressive in the Times, we can't herein say.

As a race which is synonymously radical, being necessarily dissatisfied with the status quo, the Negro must feel some concern in any proposal to do away with progressive reforms represented by labor unions and collective bargaining. However, in his heart, the Negro can feel no sympathy with one arm of the Labor movement, namely the American Federation of Labor.

There is nothing good to be said for the AFL on the subject of its race relations. It's history is one of inspired snobbery against the Negro worker, a snobbery which originates, not in the ranks of the white workers, but in the executive councils; and the higher up one goes, the closer one gets to William Green, AFL president; the more pronounced this snobbery, with its vicious effects of keeping Negroes out of trades, becomes.

OOne marvels at the patience of A. Philip Randolph, head of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, in his quietly determined struggle with the union to which his group must, for its best interest, remain affiliated, all the while despising the company with which it must associate. To benefit from the advantage of Alliance with the larger and more wealthy brotherhoods of the railway companies, the Sleeping Car Porters must stay with the AFL, Randolph states.

Queried here recently as to what is accountable for the malignant growth and flowering of prejudice and jim crow in the American Federation of Labor, Randolph replied with subtle eloquence, that the same elements of the American citizenry which support separate churches, separate Young Men and Women Christian associations head the AFL. Sole remedy seen before him is the gradual elimination of this attitude through continued contact with Negroes and consequent education.

For Randolph's sake only, then, do we stifle the impulse to gloat over the fix organized labor, particularly the AFL, finds itself in at present.

A. Phillip Randolph says 20 race brotherhoods participating for 30 percent settlement

A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, told the TRIBUNE, in an exclusive statement Friday evening, that Negro brotherhoods of the railway companies will participate in the nation-wide railway strike if the stop work order, called for Dec. 5, is carried out.

On the heels of announcement from Chicago that railway brotherhoods had flatly rejected the terms of President Roosevelt's emergency fact-finding board, granting a compromise wage increase of 7½ per cent, Randolph was questioned at the Clark Hotel where he is stopping until tomorrow.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is negotiating for the same settlement, a 30-per cent wage increase, that the other railway brotherhoods are demanding, Randolph stated. Hopes are held out by him that the Presidential Emergency Board will be able to more satisfactorily settle the issue, but if not "the natural result of unsuccessful negotiations" will be seen. He referred to the strike order authorized by brotherhood members Sept. 5. The Brotherhood of Dining Car Waiters will doubtless go out too, Randolph declared.

ANTONIO EVENING NE

Pullman Co. Upsets Texas Commission's Order in U. S. Court

AUSTIN, Tex., April 5 (AP).—An order of the state railroad commission requiring that all Pullman cars operated in Texas must be in charge of a Pullman conductor and regulating transportation rates on such cars was set aside by a three-judge federal court.

The order was attacked in an injunction suit brought by the Pullman Company, joined by Texas railroads and the case was heard by a three-judge court here after the plaintiffs had been granted a temporary restraining order.

Plaintiffs contended the railroad commission's order was not under any authority granted by statute and in so far as it related to transportation rates was void because it was issued without notice of hearing provided by law. They further complained it was unjust and confiscatory.

The court found from evidence that 16 or 17 routes exist where Pullman coaches are in charge of a porter but in most cases they were of short distance and invariably occur where only one Pullman car is attached to a train.

The general control of the Pullman coach and passengers in transit is lodged with the railroad conductor, the court further held. On trains where two or more Pullman cars are operated they are in charge of a Pullman conductor subject, however, to the train conductor.

The tribunal found that the commission gets no authority either by implication or common law but is given authority by statute to correct abuses. It added Texas courts have been uniform in holding that the abuses must be defined by law.

Pullman conductors have indicated they will seek federal legislation requiring what they consider adequate conductor-manning of Pullmans.

1940

Conductor Sought in Pullman Porter's Death

The mystery surrounding the death of J. H. Wilkins, colored Pullman porter whose body was found hanging from a tree near Locust Grove, Ga., on Saturday, may be cleared up tomorrow, Coroner A. W. Barnett said yesterday. According to statements made by witnesses, the conductor of the train on which Wilkins served as a porter said that he had "all the evidence needed" to solve the mystery of the death.

Woman Voter Arrested at Polls for Theft

Arzella Banks, colored, of Chicago, found her way to a prison cell through exercising her right of franchise yesterday. Arzella went to the polls to vote and a woman clerk recognized the dress she was wearing as loot from a recent robbery. Statements made by Mrs. Banks led to the arrest of her sweetheart, Edward Colman, on a robbery charge.

Rail Arbitration Ordered

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday directed Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe to consider a motion that would compel the National Railroad Adjustment Board to hold hearings and act on 170 labor disputes involving the Delaware & Hudson Railroad.

Approximately $1,000,000 in wage claims is involved. The railroad seeks the hearings. They were begun once but the employees withdrew from arbitration.

In an opinion by Presiding Judge Evan A. Evans with the concurrence of Judges Will M. Sparks and Otto L. Kerner, the court reversed a previous judgment by Judge Igoe. The latter had dismissed a mandamus petition, filed by the railroad, which would have ordered the board to proceed with hearings. Judge Igoe considered his court lacked jurisdiction.

Court Has Jurisdiction.

The Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that the lower court had jurisdiction. "Any other view would do injustice to the clear intent of Congress. . . . It would make arbitration proceedings a farce," the appeals court said.

In summing up the background of the case, the Circuit Court of Appeals said:

"During the period beginning June 17, 1936, and ending Aug. 23, 1939, there were referred to the first division of the National Railroad Adjustment Board 170 disputes between the railroad and its employees, growing out of interpretation of working agreements concerning rates of pay.

Engineers Withdraw.

"The division is constituted of 10 members, five representing the carriers and five, the employees. The division, being dead-locked, could reach no decision on the 170 disputes, and in accordance with the statute, the National Mediation Board appointed a 'referee' . . . to cast the deciding vote. The board selected the Hon. Royal A. Stone, a justice of the Supreme Court of Minnesota."

Hearings were then held and concluded. However, on April 18, 1940, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers notified the division that it was withdrawing the disputes from arbitration.

Approximately a month later, the referee, Justice Stone, sent members of the division a memorandum disposing of 73 disputes, generally in favor of the railroad.

The Circuit Court of Appeals stressed that withdrawal from arbitration by the unions was in the face of an impending decision against them.

It also suggested that if withdrawal were fair for the unions, and the case should be heard again, would it not be fair for the railroads to withdraw if they found the arbitration going against them?

Such procedure, to defeat the principle of arbitration, is only "to give effect to efforts which are lacking in good faith, good sportsmanship and good conscience," said the court.

James Ford Is Heard Here

1940

Red Candidate Talks To 5000 N. O. Negroes

About 5000 Negroes in Shakspeare park yesterday, heard James W. Ford, New York Negro candidate for vice-president on the Communist party's ticket, warn them that they must do nothing toward helping America become involved in the European war. "The best defensive program for America," said Ford, "is to give immediate benefit to its millions of unemployed." Ford said Mr. Roosevelt has done nothing to solve unemployment.

After criticizing both Mr. Willkie and Mr. Roosevelt, either of whom he declared if elected will lead this country into war, Ford said that the hope of the oppressed minorities throughout the world would be assured if his party wins out in the November election.

"America," said Ford, "instead of adopting a policy of aggression, should endeavor to effect a treaty with the Soviet government and China, a combination of powers that no one would dare attack and be successful," he added

In conclusion, Ford attacked three of America's most outstanding Negroes, Walter White, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People; A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, and T. Arnold Hill, secretary of the National Urban league. These men he said had sat in a conference with President Roosevelt recently at Washington, and agreed on a Jim Crow policy for Negroes about to be conscripted into the American army.

The speaker was preceded on the program by Ernest J. Wright, CIO organizer of local Negro insurance agents.

Fruits of a Placid Life

SURELY nothing could be better, hardly anything more directly fitted than a careful reading of Wordsworth, to counteract the faults and offences of our busy generation, in regard both to thought and taste, and to remind people, amid the enormous expansion, at the present time, of all that is material and mechanical in life, of the essential value, the permanent ends of life. . . .

Wordsworth's own character . . . was dominated by a certain contentment, a sort of naturally religious placidity, not often found in union with a poetic sensibility so active as his; and this gentle sense of well-being was favourable to the quiet, habitual observation of the inanimate, or imperfectly animate, world. His life of eighty placid years was almost without what, with most human beings, count for incidents. . . . His life's changes are almost entirely inward ones; it falls into broad, untroubled, perhaps somewhat monotonous, spaces; his biographers have very little to tell. . . . This placid life developed in Wordsworth, to an extraordinary degree, an innate sensibility to natural sights and sounds—the flower and its shadow on the stone, the cuckoo and its echo. The poem of "Resolution and Independence" is a storehouse of such records; for its fulness of lovely imagery it may be compared to Keats' "Saint Agnes Eve." To read one of his greater pastoral poems for the first time is like a day spent in a new country; the memory is crowded for a while with its precise and vivid incidents:—

"The pliant harebell swinging in the breeze,
On some grey rock:
The single sheep, and the one blasted tree,
And the bleak music from that old stone wall:" . . .

In much that he said in exaltation of rural life he was but pleading indirectly for that sincerity, that perfect fidelity to one's own inward presentations, to the precise features of the picture within, without which any profound poetry is impossible. It was not for their tameness, but for their impassioned sincerity, that he chose incidents and situations from common life, "related in a selection of language really used by men." He constantly endeavours to bring his language nearer to the real language of men; but it is to the real language of men, not on the dead level of their ordinary intercourse, but in certain select moments of vivid sensation, when this language is winnowed and ennobled by sentiment.—WALTER PATER in "Essays from the Guardian."

STORY OF A LAW FIRM IN

tion of WCFL Radio Talks, by Rev. E. L.

The Workers

Thomas McKean

The workers oft are weary
With constant toil and care,
Still they strive to e'er keep cheery,
Though rarely treated fair.
They struggle to be honest,
Meet each just demand,
And put in toil their very best,
With purpose true and grand.

They seldom are accorded
The merit that is due,
And scantily are rewarded
For all the work they do.
Where civilization is reigning,
In all its pomp and pride,
Plutocrats are ruling,
And those who toil are denied.

Harsh and glum their lot,
And sad, indeed, their plight,
When far and wide work they've sought
Without hope in sight.
Their grave straits and family need
Might touch a stoic's core,
Yet folk of wealth do not heed
Nor aid those suffering poor.

Usually they treat them
With cold contempt and frown,
And by iniquitous stratagem
Strive to keep them down.
They have plotted unemployment,
Causing poverty and woe,
Widespread discontentment,
And criminal tendencies also.

Peace and order are imperiled
Where such grievances are found;
Lawlessness it does herald
And a system unsound.
Greed and exploitation,
The coffers of wealth to fill,
Does breed ruination,
Yet the press keeps still.

And daily the newspapers tell us
We have no need to fear,
Agitate nor fuss,
The prospect is looking clear.
This petty camouflage
Optimism does not maintain,
Nor the cares and fears assuage
Of the jobless worker's brain.

1940

Philippa Schuyler, 8, Gives Views on World Conditions

1940

BALTIMORE, June 13—"Any totalitarian power that ruled the world would mean disaster to Western civilization.

"I hate to say it but Germany looks very strong and once she conquered England and France, she could very easily land troops in Iceland and Greenland and launch attacks on our Northern states."

The speaker was 8-year old Philippa Schuyler, precocious daughter of George Schuyler, noted Negro writer, and a white Texas woman novelist.

In an interview here, where she was appearing in concert, Philippa was sounded by reporters on world conditions, in addition to her personal life. The brilliant youngster is considered among the 10 smartest children in the world. A pianist of ability, she has composed over 60 pieces. She said she will give up her concert work after this year to study music seriously.

Philippa said she is very fond of swing music for relaxation and was taught all the jitterbug dances by her father, whom she calls George and her mother, whom she calls Jody. (Bad boy)

Her complete program will include many of her own compositions.

Philippa, who has composed 63 works for the piano since her first composition at the age of 4, has been acclaimed by music lovers and critics throughout the country.

Challenge to Youth

The attitude of many young people today is disturbing to those who would see the pioneering spirit continue to activate American democracy. Too many trained youths have but one objective—a steady job and security, even at low pay. Too many college-bred men lend substance to the boast that college men can be hired for every gas station. Not that plying gasoline is not a necessary and respectable occupation, not that it may not be the means to larger opportunities, but rather that too many college men are content to pump gas.

The placement officer of a leading technological institute reports difficulty in filling positions of real promise in new industries. He finds that graduates settled with well-established corporations prefer to cling to jobs with low salaries and slow promotion rather than assume the risks attendant upon more lucrative positions with expanding new enterprises. He feels that this attitude is in sharp contrast with that of students even a decade ago and completely out of step with the tradition which has made America great.

It has even come to pass that certain youngsters in a mid-western city when interviewed on what they hoped to become, seriously expressed the wish that they might be WPA workers! This kind of thinking represents a challenge to our youth.

There is no dearth of ability among young people. Nor are educational opportunities lacking. The trouble seems to be depression-bred inertia, fear of want and unemployment.

College-trained youth in particular should wake up. They should accept responsibility for the leadership of tomorrow. The alternative is to continue to eat the bread of wasted opportunity.

Little pity for the AFL

There's no doubt about it, the labor movement in the United States is in grave danger of being scuttled by the Government with the tired acceptance of a people beaten down by anti-labor propaganda and disgusted with the abuses of the privilege and power of Labor, in the administrative departments, itself.

Westbrook Peglar, whose sincerity we hesitate to doubt, but whose opportunism sometimes appears too good to be true, has done his work well. Regular doses of the vitriol which flows from the pen of the pale George Schuyler, are calculated to innoculate the system against many aspects of the labor question, and in most instances against the entire movement. Chameleon-like, President Roosevelt, once Labor's bosom friend, has discovered the movement to be a viper in the Administrative bosom, and is turning from it to his one-time foes who are with him, for now, on the subject of U. S. entry into the overseas war, All this is fairly obvious, yet, somehow one is shocked to read among the editorials of the Los Angeles Times, open argument for the abolition of the labor movement. . although why anyone, particularly ourselves, should be so naive as to be surprised at anything smacking of the unprogressive in the Times, we can't herein say.

As a race which is synonymously radical, being necessarily dissatisfied with the status quo, the Negro must feel some concern in any proposal to do away with progressive reforms represented by labor unions and collective bargaining. However, in his heart, the Negro can feel no sympathy with one arm of the Labor movement, namely the American Federation of Labor.

There is nothing good to be said for the AFL on the subject of its race relations. It's history is one of inspired snobbery against the Negro worker, a snobbery which originates, not in the ranks of the white workers, but in the executive councils; and the higher up one goes, the closer one gets to William Green, AFL president; the more pronounced this snobbery, with its vicious effects of keeping Negroes out of trades, becomes.

OOne marvels at the patience of A. Philip Randolph, head of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, in his quietly determined struggle with the union to which his group must, for its best interest, remain affiliated, all the while despising the company with which it must associate. To benefit from the advantage of Alliance with the larger and more wealthy brotherhoods of the railway companies, the Sleeping Car Porters must stay with the AFL, Randolph states.

Queried here recently as to what is accountable for the malignant growth and flowering of prejudice and jim crow in the American Federation of Labor, Randolph replied with subtle eloquence, that the same elements of the American citizenry which support separate churches, separate Young Men and Women Christian associations head the AFL. Sole remedy seen before him is the gradual elimination of this attitude through continued contact with Negroes and consequent education.

For Randolph's sake only, then, do we stifle the impulse to gloat over the fix organized labor, particularly the AFL, finds itself in at present.

A. Phillip Randolph says 20 race brotherhoods participating for 30 percent settlement

Tribune

A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, told the TRIBUNE, in an exclusive statement Friday evening, that Negro brotherhoods of the railway companies will participate in the nation-wide railway strike if the stop work order, called for Dec. 5, is carried out.

On the heels of announcement from Chicago that railway brotherhoods had flatly rejected the terms of President Roosevelt's emergency fact-finding board, granting a compromise wage increase of 7½ per cent, Randolph was questioned at the Clark Hotel where he is stopping until tomorrow.

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters is negotiating for the same settlement, a 30-per cent wage increase, that the other railway brotherhoods are demanding, Randolph stated. Hopes are held out by him that the Presidential Emergency Board will be able to more satisfactorily settle the issue, but if not "the natural result of unsuccessful negotiations" will be seen. He referred to the strike order authorized by brotherhood members Sept. 5. The Brotherhood of Dining Car Waiters will doubtless go out too, Randolph declared.

ANTONIO EVENING NE

Pullman Co. Upsets Texas Commission's Order in U. S. Court

AUSTIN, Tex., April 5 (AP).—An order of the state railroad commission requiring that all Pullman cars operated in Texas must be in charge of a Pullman conductor and regulating transportation rates on such cars was set aside by a three-judge federal court.

The order was attacked in an injunction suit brought by the Pullman Company, joined by Texas railroads and the case was heard by a three-judge court here after the plaintiffs had been granted a temporary restraining order.

Plaintiffs contended the railroad commission's order was not under any authority granted by statute and in so far as it related to transportation rates was void because it was issued without notice of hearing provided by law. They further complained it was unjust and confiscatory.

The court found from evidence that 16 or 17 routes exist where Pullman coaches are in charge of a porter but in most cases they were of short distance and invariably occur where only one Pullman car is attached to a train.

The general control of the Pullman coach and passengers in such cases is lodged with the railroad conductor, the court further held. On trains where two or more Pullman cars are operated they are in charge of a Pullman conductor subject, however, to the train conductor.

The tribunal found that the commission gets no authority either by implication or common law but is given authority by statute to correct abuses. It added Texas courts have been uniform in holding that the abuses must be defined by law.

Pullman conductors have indicated they will seek federal legislation requiring what they consider adequate conductor-manning of Pullmans.

A PHILLIP RANDOLPH EXPLAINS WHY HE DID NOT SEEK REELECTION AS PRESIDENT OF THE NEGRO CONGRESS

By A. PHILLIP RANDOLPH

I am convinced that the Third National Negro Congress has not succeeded in removing from the mind of the public the idea that the charge of the Dies' Committee, that the National Negro Congress is a Communist Front, and a transmission belt for Communist propaganda, is not true. In fact, the Congress has brilliantly succeeded in giving the charge every appearance of truth and validity.

I am convinced, also that until the stigma of the Communist Front is wiped from the Congress, it will never rally the masses of the Negro people.

The procedure [illegible] of the Negro [illegible] this third [illegible] will make its influence in the affairs of the American Negroes, short lived. The American Negroes will not long follow any organization which accepts dictation and control from the Communist Party. The American Negro will not long follow any organization which accepts dictation and control from any white organization.

In the last national executive committee meeting in New York City, Brother John P. Davis was authorized to go out and borrow $1000 to help put the Third Congress over. He informed me that he had borrowed it and mentioned the name of a man. I was given no specific identity of the man. What was the course of this money? The delegates to the Congress should know. Because whatever is the source of the money with which the Congress is run, will also be the source of its ideas, policies and control.

Supported By CIO

It is a well known fact that most of the contributions to this Congress, expressed by the secretary, Mr. Davis, are from CIO unions. Is this the reason why the Congress is taking the CIO line?

In an executive committee meeting in New York City, Mr. Davis informed it that the Communist Party contributed $100 a month to the Congress. Is this the reason why the Congress refuses to attempt to make plain to the American people that it is not a Communist Front? These questions should be definitely and unequivocally answered.

When I was asked in a Committee meeting in New York to visit some unions, or sign a letter to be sent to certain unions for funds, I refused, because I am unalterably opposed to having a Negro organization, which is supposed to be fighting the battles of the race, depending for its main income upon a source outside of the Negro people themselves.

I am opposed to the National Negro Congress depending upon the Communists or CIO for its financial maintenance, because I am opposed to the Congress being dominated by either the Communists or the CIO. The Congress should be uncontrolled and responsible to no one but the Negro people. But it will not be uncontrolled and responsible to no one but the Negro people unless the Negro people supply the money for its

(Continued on page 12)

1940

Randolph Tells Why He Quit Presidency Of Negro Congress

(Continued from page one)

maintenance.

Now, there is nothing against the Congress receiving contributions from unions, but is dangerous business where there is a split in the labor movement, for it to receive practically the major funds, upon which its existence depends, from unions on one side of the fence. It is bound to make the Congress biased toward one side and thereby, destroy the union front and mass character of the Congress because it will no longer be able to rally the Negro workers in the A. F. of L.

When the National Negro Congress loses its independence, it loses its soul, and has no further reason for being. It also forfeits and betrays the faith and confidence of the Negro masses. It will shatter the hopes and aspirations of the Negro people who yearn and pray for the Negro Congress not to sell out either to labor or capital, Communists or Republicans or Democrats.

Since the trend of the National Negro Congress is obviously toward domination by the Communists and the CIO, I would not stand for re-election for president.

I do not oppose domination of the Congress by the CIO because I am opposed to the CIO. I would be opposed to domination of the Congress b ythe A. F. of L., or any other white organization.

With respect to domination by the Communists, I am not only opposed to domination of the Congress by them, but I consider the Communists a definite menace and a danger to the Negro people and labor, because of their rule or ruin and disruptive tactics in the interest of the Soviet Union.

It was apparent, immediately the Congress got under way, that the temper, flavor and viewpoint of the Congress were Communistic, and that the resolutions adopted would reflect the Communist line. It was not long before my suspicions were confirmed, for the person who was selected for the chairman of the Resolutions Committee, is an acknowledged Communist. This was an unpardonable, colossal and childish blunder. I didn't protest against it because I knew it was useless, since the Congress was deliberately packed with Communists and CIO members who were either Communists or sympathizers with Communists.

Calls Congress Failure

The Third National Negro Congress was a miserable failure, so far as representing the sentiment of the American Negro people is concerned. Uproarious applause greeted every favorable reference in the Congress to Soviet Russia. The statement was even made that the Negro people would not fight in an imperialist war against the Soviet Union. But this is far from the truth. If the U. S. declared war upon Communist Russia tomorrow, the Negro would fight Russia, with all the fervor and patriotism of any other 100 per cent American. Anyone who believes to the contrary is living in a fool's paradise.

Soviet Russia was hailed as a land without poverty or race prejudice. But the fact is, there are no Negroes in Soviet Russia that would occasion any manifestation of race discrimination. However, it is significant to note that Bolshevik Russia freely sold oil to Fascist Italy to assist the murderous war of invasion of the peace loving and ancient kingdom of Ethiopia.

I quit the Congress because I was opposed to linking it up with Labor's Non-Partisan League, the political mouthpiece of the CIO, since this was a departure from the original minimum program upon which there could be general agreement and a sound basis for rallying the Negro masses.

It seems axiomatic and as simple as one, two, three, that the Congress could not rally the Negroes in the A. F. of L., if it were tied up with the CIO, and it could not rally the Negroes in the CIO, if it were allied with the A. F. of L.

I quit the Congress because I was opposed to it, or its officials expressing sympathy for the Soviet Union.

...racy and liberty have ... "last mile" and where shocking "purges" wipe out any and all persons who express any dissenting opinions from Dictator Stalin.

Delegates Called Parrots

I quit the Congress because I saw that the Communists were firmly in the saddle and the delegates were not subject to the influence of facts and reason. Their minds were already made up when they came there by Communists' manipulations, caucuses and propaganda. Nothing could shake them. Even poor old men and women from the deep South and from some parts up North, who didn't have the slightest idea of what it was all about, parrot fashion, went down the Communist line, like bleating sheep led to the slaughter.

I quit the Congress because it is not truly a Negro Congress. Out of some 1200 or more delegates, over 300 were white, which made the Congress look like a joke. It is unthinkable that the Jewish Congress would have Gentiles in it, or that a Catholic Congress would have Protestants in it, or that the famous All India Congress would have in it as members natives of Africa. Why should a Negro Congress have white people in it?

It is no evidence of religious prejudice that Baptists don't accept Methodists into membership, or of sex prejudice that women's clubs don't take men in as members. It was perfectly ridiculous and distressing, if not comical, to observe the white delegates dominating the applause for Communists' policies and tactics.

But while I oppose white members of the Negro Congress, I favor the Congress collaborating with non-political white organizations that are progressive, liberal and sound.

The Negro people must beware of all subtle forms of Communist propaganda poison to save themselves from destruction. It seems to be beyond the realm of debate that the Negro people cannot afford to add to the handicap of being black, the handicap of being red.

JOB TRAINING HELD TRADE SCHOOL AIM

Too Many Commercial Courses Try to Prepare Student for College, Educator Says

URGES PRACTICAL STUDIES

Stress on Merchandising and Clerical Work Advocated at Convention Here

Criticizing the college entrance objective of commercial education in New York State, Clinton A. Reed, acting chief of the Division of Education of the University of the State of New York, prescribed yesterday greater stress on general clerical work, a worthwhile merchandising program, the development of personality and the integration of acquired skills, as essential factors in curricular changes for the "Business Education Program for Tomorrow."

Mr. Reed spoke to more than 1,500 teachers of commercial subjects and parents in the Hotel Pennsylvania at the eighteenth semi-annual convention of the Commercial Education Association.

He weighed the objectives of the commercial courses in the schools and declared that the sole, real criticism of them was that "too many of our schools have one real objective and that is preparation for college." He asserted that only twenty students out of every 100 in high school go on to college.

Scores Emphasis on Skill

Urging the teachers not to revise the commercial curriculum to "make it easy for a student to get into college," Mr. Reed attacked the emphasis on skill courses and quoted statistics to show that of 100 students gainfully employed, only fourteen were employed in office work and that seven of these were general clerks. He declared there was need for courses to prepare students for general office work.

"There should be no real social objection to storekeeping," he said. "The wage scale of the department store workers is higher than the starting salaries of the typists and stenographers. We should develop a worthwhile merchandising program. We need a chairman who is sympathetically disposed to it, knows the field and is a master of instruction."

Mr. Reed suggested that reorganization of the commercial curriculum should be done in terms of a general high school reorganization which should not be confined to commercial subjects. He referred also to personality and appearance defects and recommended a guidance program to remedy these deficiencies.

He also suggested a "finishing course" to bring together the skills and background which the students have absorbed. The business education program, he said, should be flexible and provide for surveys of business conditions and employment.

Differentiation Opposed

Frederic Ernst, associate superintendent of schools of the Board of Education, said he disapproved of the differentiation of students, such as commercial or academic, during the first high school year. He said a student at that time had not reached the stage where he could be designated technically and indicated that the student should spend the year getting a general education.

He urged the teachers to study the students during the initial year to determine whether they were fit for commercial subjects.

Conrad J. Saphier, chairman of the curriculum revision committee of the association and of the Social Studies Department of the Samuel J. Tilden High School in Brooklyn, told the teachers it was necessary to plan before undertaking revisions.

Six associations of teachers of commercial subjects met in separate meetings in the morning for discussions of pupil participation in commercial education. These groups included the Gregg Shorthand Teachers Association, the Junior High School Commercial Teachers' Association, the Private Schools, the Pitman Commercial Teachers Association, the Accounting and Commercial Law Teachers Association and the Distributive and Consumer Education Association.

PULLMAN HEAD LASHES BACK AT MONOPOLY SUIT

Firm's Quarter Net Up to $777,846.

The Pullman group of companies has not violated and is not now violating any law of the United States, David A. Crawford, president of Pullman, Inc., asserted yesterday in reply to a recently filed government civil suit charging "monopolistic control" of the nation's railroad sleeping car business. Pullman, Inc., is the holding organization for the Pullman enterprises.

David A. Crawford.

Crawford's statement, classing the government's action as an "apparent general assault upon large scale business," was contained in the financial statement of second quarter earnings sent to stockholders.

Earnings Increase.

Consolidated profit of Pullman, Inc., was $777,846 in the quarter ended June 30, against $336,918 in the second quarter of 1939, Crawford's report showed. For the first half of 1940, net income was $3,433,662, or 89 cents a share, compared with $1,072,682, or 28 cents a share, in the first six months of 1939.

Commenting that it is usually inadvisable to engage in a "publicity contest with a government agency in legal attacks of this kind," Crawford said "it is nevertheless desirable that stockholder-owners of the assailed companies be informed that the basic allegation of restraint of trade in respect to introduction of lightweight equipment is clearly disproved."

Says Growth Is Natural.

"This action attacks a business, which during its long history since incorporation in 1867 has developed naturally into the present large scale operation, as the result of economic forces and in response to the demand of the railroads and the public for sleeping car service on a unified nation-wide basis that could best be rendered by the Pullman system of pooled operation," Crawford asserted.

"The bill of complaint filed in this case is incorrect in many statements alleged to be fact, and is wholly mistaken in its allegations with respect to the spirit and manner in which the Pullman manufacturing and car operating businesses have been conducted for so many years.

"No Change in Practice."

"There has been no change of principle or practice in the conduct of either of these businesses following the introduction in recent years of new types of passenger equipment and new methods of passenger transportation, and there is no warrant for this present belated action except as it may be found in an apparent general assault upon large scale business under federal antitrust laws."

He said the charge that Pullman has used its contract with the railroads to discourage or prevent the introduction of modern types of equipment is "clearly disproved by the facts."

He said the Pullman company, the sleeping car affiliate:

"1. Has furnished to the railroads several hundred lightweight sleeping cars of the most modern type.

"2. Has employed more than $25,000,000 of its resources in financing the investment required to place this new equipment in service.

"3. Has sought vigorously to extend such improved services on the railroads.

"4. Has additional supplies of such equipment in the course of manufacture or on hand awaiting assignment to the railroads."

Crawford's statement outlined the pioneering work done by Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company in the development of lightweight passenger car structures and practicable separate cars and unit trains of that type.

"This whole charge—that the Pullman group of companies has obstructed or grudgingly permitted the development and use of modern passenger equipment—falls to pieces when subjected to the impact of fact," Crawford declared.

"It is the considered opinion of the management and counsel of the Pullman group of companies that these companies have not violated and are not now violating any antitrust or other law of the United States; and further, that this suit will be successfully defended and should not therefore occasion anxiety to stockholders."

French Operations Excluded.

Earnings figures excluded the results of Entreprises Industrielles Charentaises, the French subsidiary of Pullman-Standard Car Export corporation, Crawford said. He added that operations of the company's manufacturing subsidiary have been well sustained and that future prospects are favorable, but that the sleeping car business has shown a disappointing trend during the second quarter and so far in the third quarter.

"This reflects failure of summer tourist travel to develop in expected volume on account of wartime uncertainties, and further in roads on the Pullman company's sleeping and parlor car business by competing modes of transportation, Crawford said.

BAD NEWS FOR EMPLOYES.

The Pullman company report for 1939 is in such simple form as to be understandable to anybody. Revenue from all sources was 92 million dollars. The largest share, 42.3 per cent of this, went to labor. Materials and supplies amounted to 32.6 per cent. After deducting 13.5 per cent to provide for the replacement of cars and other equipment that is wearing out, 5.6 per cent for taxes, and 1.7 per cent for the salaries of the supervisors and managers, there remained 4 million 100 thousand dollars.

Pullman is an enterprise with assets of a quarter of a billion dollars. And yet in 1939, the most prosperous of the last three years, it earned only 4.3 per cent on the business done—only 2 per cent on the capital invested.

This is not good news for Pullman employés. There is only a scant margin between them and failure. There can, under such circumstances, be little hope for expansion with consequent promotions. The more prosperous an industry, inevitably the more prosperous the employés. Profits mean safety against unemployment and opportunities for advancement.

PULLMAN HEAD LASHES BACK AT MONOPOLY SUIT

Reports Increase in Firm's Earnings.

[Continued from page 25, column 8.]

FEW PUPILS FOUND IN PERFECT HEALTH

Survey at Seward Park High School Shows 90 Per Cent Suffering From Defects

10 PER CENT UNTREATED

Physical Tests With View to City-Wide Plan Reveal Unnoted Ailments

In an attempt to formulate a city-wide health program for the public school system an experimental survey of the physical conditions of the students at Seward Park High School, on the lower East Side, has been undertaken under the joint auspices of the Board of Education, the Department of Health and Progressive Education Association.

Tentative results indicate that 90 per cent of the students are suffering from some physical defect requiring medical attention. However, Dr. William Schmidt, instructor in pediatrics at Cornell University Medical College, in charge of the health study, said that many of the ailments are minor.

Thus far 114 students have been examined and 400 will be tested before the close of school. These students were selected as a cross-section. The 6,000 students have received audiometer tests and 5,000 have undergone chest X-rays. It is the aim of the advisory committee of fifteen in charge of the study to get a thorough picture.

Colds Lead in Ailments

A record is kept of the number of students who are referred to the school clinic. Among 686 seniors 224 reported to the infirmary during the first school term, or about one out of three. Reasons listed by the physician include colds, minor accidents, headaches, eye conditions and abdominal pains.

Parents, wherever possible, were asked to attend the examinations. Both the parent and pupil were asked whether there was any impairment of health. Of 118 examined, seventy-four parents declared that their children had no physical defect, yet the doctors found that only eleven pupils were entirely free of ailments. In order of frequency the defects related to eyes, teeth, skin, nutrition, emotional disturbance and cardiac system.

Twelve pupils suffered from undernourishment, while twenty-eight showed a history of inadequate diets.

"A very high percentage of children have defects and chronic conditions, some of which are potentially serious and all of which require medical care," Dr. Schmidt said. "Many were discovered for the first time through our examinations." Dr. Schmidt found that 10 per cent of the students had no medical care.

Health on Individual Basis Urged

Explaining that this study will help the school authorities to determine how much medical and nursing services are needed in the school system, Dr. Robert B. Brodie, principal of Seward Park, declared that a definite picture of the health conditions in the adolescent group was emerging.

"We hope to be able to prescribe what the health education program should be in a high school," Dr. Brodie explained. "We are discovering that health should be placed on an individual basis, even as we are now emphasizing individual instruction in the academic side of our educational system. It is the hope of our study to show that individualization of health instruction is at least as important as individualizaton of academc subjects."

Dr. George Palmer, first deputy commissioner of health, and secretary of the advisory committee, declared that the study was attempting to discover the "peculiar problems of high school age." He stressed that this study is still incomplete, and that it was merely a "preliminary venture" to find out the type of health services needed.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE

1940

PROFIT TRIPLED BY PULLMAN IN FIRST QUARTER

Chicago Tribune

Earnings Climb to 2½ Millions.

First quarter net earnings of Pullman, Inc., whose subsidiaries manufacture and operate railway equipment, were more than three times the amount earned in the quarter last year, David A. Crawford, president, announced here yesterday.

Net income of the company and its subsidiaries for the period totaled $2,655,816, or 69 cents a share, against $735,764, or 19 cents a share, in the first quarter of 1939.

Manufacturing Gains Best.

"Operations of the manufacturing subsidiaries continued favorable in the first quarter of 1940," Crawford reported, "and in a great measure account for the decidedly more favorable showing of Pullman Incorporated. However, the earnings of the sleeping car subsidiary, the Pullman company, were somewhat better during the first quarter also."

For the 12 months ended Mach 31, the company had net income of $5,929,528, compared with $2,499,860 in the preceding 12 month period, Crawford said.

The Pullman company had net income of $408,755 in March, after taxes and air conditioning revenue deferment, George A. Kelly, vice president, reported. This compared with net income of $268,471 after similar charges in the 1939 month. The sleeping car subsidiary's net income for the first quarter was $1,319,754 against $1,182,461 in the first quarter of 1939.

Parker Pen Earns Less.

The Parker Pen company, Chicago, and its subsidiaries reported consolidated net profit of $170,373, or 86 cents a share, after loss on foreign exchange of $135,693, for the fiscal year ended Feb. 29, 1940. This compared with net income of $359,364, or $1.75 a share on 199,382 shares in the preceding year.

Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation, whose subsidiaries produce motion pictures, news reels, and operate movie theaters, reported a net loss of $228,608 for 1939, after a $400,000 settlement of lease obligations, but before provision for dividends of $297,801 accrued on the 7 per cent preferred stock of Keith-Albee-Orpheum corporation. The company reported a net profit of $18,604 in 1938.

March quarter net profit of $1,130,652, or $2.59 a capital share, was reported by the American-Hawaiian Steamship company, including $701,011 net profit from the sale of four ships. Excluding this nonrecurring profit, the net income for the quarter was $429,641, or 98 cents a share. In the first quarter of last year, net profit was $77,630, equal to 18 cents a share.

Day's Earnings Reports.

Corporation net incomes reported yesterday included the following:

	1940.	1939.
March.
Montana Power.....$	430,351 $	343,697
Pullman Co	408,755	268,471
Quarter Ended March 31.
Am-Haw Stmshp....	1,130,652	7,630
Per share.....	2.59	.18
B N & E Power....	2,150,745	1,867,614
Buff Niag Elec.....	1,189,916	853,070
Cen N Y Power.....	785,082	1,082,036
Liquid Carbonic.....	*80,801	*9,032
Marlin-Rockwell	719,735	219,988
Per share.....	2.12	.65
N Y P & L.....	767,177	1,018,186
Niag Falls Pow.....	575,129	650,214
Niag Hud Pow.....	2,419,763	2,792,957
Per share.....	.19	.23
Niag Lock&Ont Pow.	421,250	396,437
Pullman Co	1,319,754	1,182,461

BOARD OF TRADE

[Prices May 8, 1940.]

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.
May	1.05⅝-	1.06⅝	1.05¼	1.05⅝-
July	1.04⅝-	1.04⅞	1.03⅞	1.04⅝-
September ..	1.05⅝-	1.06⅝	1.05⅝	1.06⅝-
Corn
May	.66⅝-	.66⅝	.65⅞	.66⅝-
July	.67⅛-	.67⅛	.66	.66⅝
September ..		.67⅞	.66⅞	.67⅛-
Oats
May		.41⅛	.41⅛	.41⅛
July		.37⅛	.37⅛	.37⅛

DEFENDS OUSTER OF RABBI IN JERSEY

Former Head of Jewish War Veterans Says Plotkin Was Follower of Radicals

E. J. HART UPHOLDS HAGUE

Sees Representatives' Move to Speak in Square as 'Insidious' C. I. O. Move

A former member of the board of directors of the Jewish Community Center of Jersey City issued a statement last night defending the ouster from the center of Rabbi Benjamin Plotkin and the Congregation Emanu-El, declaring that the action was the culmination of many years of growing resentment against the rabbi's teachings.

At almost the same time the New Jersey branch of the United Synagogue of America, meeting in Newark, announced passage of a resolution urging an amicable adjustment and asking that the Center withhold its ouster order until a committee could confer with its directors.

Rabbi Plotkin announced the ouster, effective June 30, to his congregation Friday night, saying that the reason given was that certain contributors to the center had refused to continue unless he was ousted. He received notice, he said, on May 2, shortly after he had testified as a defense witness for a political foe of Mayor Frank Hague on trial for alleged election frauds.

A committee of the board of directors of the center said Saturday that it planned a meeting yesterday at which a statement giving the center's stand on the ouster would be outlined, but none of the committee could be reached last night and no statement was made.

Lawyer Criticizes Rabbi

The statement criticizing Rabbi Plotkin was issued by Morris W. Libermann, a Jersey City lawyer, a former center director and a former county commander of the Jewish War Veterans.

Mr. Libermann said that Rabbi Plotkin and his congregation were asked to leave the center "because the Jewish people of this city believe he has double-crossed them and held them up to scorn and ridicule among their neighbors."

The rabbi, the statement continued, had been named by Roger W. Baldwin, head of the American Civil Liberties Union, as one of his New Jersey adherents and by that token linked with the Communist party, as "Baldwin is active head of the communistic movement in the United States."

After this disclosure, which he said was made last January in a letter Mr. Baldwin wrote to New Jersey aides and which the union accused Mayor Hague of intercepting, Mr. Libermann said "We Jews were forced to a realization that our rabbi had been deliberately double crossing our people and we resented it. The action of the board of directors in ousting Rabbi Plotkin was compelled by the overwhelming sentiment of the members."

Rabbi Plotkin, when informed of Mr. Libermann's statement, said that he considered it "beneath my contempt," and added that Mr. Libermann "represents officially no one but himself."

"He is not even a member of the board of the Jewish Community Center to whose defense he has mysteriously rushed," he said.

"Red-Baiting" Is Charged

Rabbi Plotkin accused Mr. Libermann of "red-baiting," and said he had not even met Mr. Baldwin at the time the latter wrote a letter commending the rabbi for his defense of civil rights.

As to his place in the Jewish community, Rabbi Plotkin pointed to the fact that the New Jersey branch of the United Synagogue of America had re-elected him as an honorary president at a meeting in Newark yesterday.

Meanwhile, the Hudson County Benevolent Association, which claims a membership of 1,800 Jews, met in Jersey City last night and appointed a committee to investigate the "communistic activities" of Rabbi Plotkin. There were about sixty persons at the meeting held at the Community Center with Harry Streiner, head of the organization, presiding.

A defense of Mayor Hague's administration of Jersey City and a denunciation of Norman Thomas and other critics of the Mayor was made last night in a radio address by United States Representative

[illegible] Thomas on Why the A. F. of L. Opposes the C. I. O. Invasion of Jersey City."

Recent attempts of Mr. Baldwin, Mr. Thomas and two of Hart's fellow Representatives in Congress to speak in Journal Square, he said, were merely "subtle and insidious" moves in the C. I. O.'s effort to "take over the industries and labor of Jersey City."

He spoke through station WJZ from 6 to 6:15 P. M., the same station and the same time used by Mr. Thomas a week ago yesterday for an attack on Mayor Hague's policies and practices.

Jersey City policemen attending the annual communion breakfast of policemen and firemen at Grand View Auditorium were told by Director of Public Safety Daniel J. Casey, Frank Hague Eggers, Mayor Hague's nephew, namesake and secretary, and Criminal Courts Judge Anthony J. Botti, that they had conducted themselves with "distinction in recent trying periods."

"You had a couple of tough Saturday nights," Mr. Eggers said, "and on behalf of Mayor Hague I want to compliment you on your efficient showing at Journal Square. I don't think there is a city in the country that could have handled the situation with such finesse. You have gone down in the pages of history as an unusual police department."

Before proceeding to the auditorium for breakfast the 700 policemen and firemen attended mass at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1940

Pullman Porters Convene In 15th Annual Session

JOURNAL AND GUIDE

THE PHILADELPHIA INDEPENDENT Sunday, September 29, 1940

PULLMAN PORTERS END 15TH BIENNIAL CONFAB

NEW YORK,—(ANP)—More than 100 delegates from all parts of the country, representing over 6,000 organized Pullman porters, met at the Harlem YMCA this week in the 15th anniversary and biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. An elaborate program was outlined for the six-day meeting that ended last Saturday.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, First Lady of the Land, headed the largest group of celebrities ever to attend an all-colored labor convention in New York or elsewhere, when she addressed the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters at their dinner at Mecca temple Monday night.

Other celebrities at the speakers table included Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, "First Colored Lady of the Land", Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City; Lieut. Gov. Charles Poletti; Aubrey Williams, National director of the NYA; Dr. Channing Tobias of the YMCA; Walter White of the NAACP; James Quinn of the Central Trades and Labor council of New York City; A. Philip Randolph, president of the brotherhood and other officials of the BSCP.

Business sessions occupied most of the morning sessions during the week. On Monday night, the annual dinner [illegible] temple, with some [illegible] a brilliant [illegible] by Mrs. Eleanor [illegible] others on the program [illegible] Mary McLeod Bethune, [illegible] Guardia, Lieut. Gov. [illegible] Aubrey Williams, [illegible] White.

Governor Herbert H. Lehman audressed the Brotherhood and the Ladies' auxiliary on Tuesday in the auditorium of the YMCA. He congratulated the BSCP on their splendid progress in a little over 15 years and then told them "What has held you back has been the indifference of workers and employers". He came out strongly for preparedness, endorsed the Conscription bill by calling it the "best insurance for lasting peace."

Wednesday delegates and the auxiliary were entertained at Lido pool with a cocktail party. Thursday was Brotherhood day at the fair and Mrs. Frances Perkins, department of labor, was principal speaker. On Friday night the week's activities were climaxed with a huge ball at the Golden Gate ballroom.

President Randolph in his speech told delegates that "we should reject the Communist program as negating Democracy.". He also advocated "national unity of all people regardless of race or nationality", asked for labor unity by having "CIO return to the House of Labor (AF of L) and the preservation of the achievements of industrial organization made by the CIO". He made a strong plea for the abolition of poll taxes, white primaries and the passage of the anti-lynching bill.

A number of resolutions on which there was little likelihood of division, were prepared. They called for "unqualified opposition to the condemnation of the Communist, Nazi and Fascist dictatorships of Russia, Germany and Italy"; condemnation of fifth columnists; condemned color bar in trade unions, the Ku Klux Klan, anti-foreign sentiment, anti-Semitism, railroad consolidations and racketeering in unions.

International officers of the Brotherhood are: A. Philip Randolph, president; M. P. Webster, Chicago first vice-president; Bennie Smith, Detroit, 2nd vice-president; E. J. Bradley, St. Louis, 3rd vice-president; C. L. Dellums, Oakland, Cal., 4th vice-president; Ashley L. Totten, New York, secretary-treasurer; Thomas Patterson, secretary Executive Board; L. D. Mac Neal, St. Louis. Ernest Smith, Chicago and B. F. McLaurin, N. Y., field organizer.

Pullman Porters Reelect Randolph 15th Anniversary

NEW YORK, (ANP) — More than 100 delegates from all parts of the country, representing over 6,000 organized Pullman porters, met at the Harlem YMCA this week in the 15th anniversary and biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. An elaborate program was outlined for the six-day meeting beginning Sunday, Sept. 15.

President Randolph in his speech told delegates that "we should reject the Communist program as negating Democracy." He also advocated "national unity of all people regardless of race or nationality", asked for labor unity by having "CIO return to the House of Labor (AF of L) and the preservation of the achievements of industrial organization made by the CIO". He made a strong plea for the abolition of poll taxes, white primaries and the passage of the anti lynching bill.

A number of resolutions on which there was little likelihood of division, were prepared.

International officers of the Brotherhood are: A Philip Randolph, president; M. P. Webster, Chicago, first vice-president; Bennie Smith, Detroit, 2nd vice-president; E. J. Bradley, St. Louis, 3rd vice-president; C. L. Dellums, Oakland, Cal., 5th vice-president Ashley L. Totten, New York, secretary-treasurer; Thomas Patterson, secretary Executive Board L. D. MacNeal, St. Louis, Ernest Smith, Chicago, and B. F. McLaurin, N. Y., field organizers.

Randolph Urges Porters To [illegible] Bill

NEW YORK. — (ANP)— More than 100 delegates from all parts of the country, representing over 6,000 organized Pullman porters, met at the Harlem YMCA this week in the fifteenth anniversary and biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

An elaborate program was outlined for the six-day meeting beginning Sunday, September 15.

On Sunday at 2 p.m., fully 2,000 marchers paraded through Harlem's avenues cheered by thousands who lined the streets. The parade ended in a mass meeting at the Salem M. E. church and an overflow crowd gathered to hear A. Philip Randolph, international president, make his annual address.

Ashley L. Totten, international secretary-treasurer, was general chairman of the convention and in this capacity acted as chairman of the mass meeting.

He introduced William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; M. P. Webster, first vice president of BSCP; Senator James M. Mead and others on the program.

The Governor Speaks

Business sessions occupied most of the morning sessions during the week. On Monday night, the annual dinner was held at Mecca temple, with some 800 persons hearing a brilliant array of speakers headed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Others on the program included Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, Mayor F. LaGuardia, Lieut. Gov. Charles Poletti, Aubrey Williams, and Walter White. Governor Herbert H. Lehman addressed the brotherhood and the Ladies' auxiliary on Tuesday in the auditorium of the YWCA.

Wednesday delegates and the auxiliary were entertained at Lido pool with a cocktail party. Thursday was Brotherhood day at the fair and Mrs. Frances Perkins, department of labor, was principal speaker. On Friday night the week's activities were climaxed with a huge ball at the Golden Gate ballroom.

Against Communist

President Randolph in his speech told delegates that "we should reject the Communist program as negating Democracy." He also advocated "national unity of all people regardless of race or nationality," asked for labor unity by having "CIO return to the House of Labor (AF of L) and the preservation of the achievements of industrial organization made by the CIO.' He made a strong plea for the abolition of poll taxes, white primaries and the passage of the anti-lynching bill.

International officers of the Brotherhood are: A. Philip Randolph, president; M. P. Webster, Chicago, first vice president; Bennie Smith, Detroit, second vice president; E. J. Bradley, St. Louis, third vice president; C. L. Dellums, Oakland, Cal., [illegible] president; Ashley L. [illegible] secretary-treasurer; [illegible] Patterson, secretary executive board; L. D. Mae Neal, St. Louis, Ernest Smith, Chicago, and B. F. McLaurin, N. Y., field organizers.

Hear National, State Leaders In New York

Randolph Flays Soviets; Iehman Endorses Draft

NEW YORK CITY—(ANP)—More than 100 delegates from all parts of the country, representing over 6,000 organized Pullman porters, met at the Harlem YMCA last week in the 15th anniversary and biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. The six-day meeting began Sunday, Sept. 15.

On Sunday at 2 p. m., fully 2,000 marchers paraded through Harlem's avenues cheered by thousands who lined the streets. The parade ended in a mass meeting at the Salem M. E. Church and an overflow crowd gathered to hear A. Philip Randolph, international president, make his annual address.

Ashley L. Totten, international secretary-treasurer, was general chairman of the convention and in this capacity acted as chairman of the mass meeting. He introduced William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; M. P. Webster, first vice-president of BSCP; Senator James M. Mead and others on the program.

HEAR FIRST LADY

Business sessions occupied most of the morning sessions during the week. On Monday night, the annual dinner was held at Mecca Temple, with some 800 persons hearing a brilliant array of speakers headed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. Others on the program included Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, Mayor F. LaGuardia, Lieut. Gov. Charles Poletti, Aubrey Williams, and Walter White.

DRAFT ENDORSED

Governor Herbert H. Lehman addressed the brotherhood and the Ladies' auxiliary on Tuesday in the auditorium of the YWCA. He congratulated the BSCP on their splendid progress in a little over 15 years and then told them "What has held you back has been the indifference of workers and employers." He came out strongly for preparedness, endorsed the conscription bill by calling it the "best insurance for lasting peace."

"The United States is the only country where there is freedom," he continued. "There must be no weakening of defenses and labor has lot to say to defend democracy against dictators who are always enemies of free labor . . . Britain is the last bulwark of democracy . . Beaten and destroyed, democracy would then be in danger, we could not keep war from our shores . . . should supply Britain with all weapons not essential to our defense . . . Total war is not respector of race or color."

Wednesday delegates and the auxiliary were entertained at Lido pool with a cocktail party. Thursday was Brotherhood day at the World's Fair and Mrs. Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, was principal speaker. On Friday night the week's activities were climaxed with a huge ball at the Golden Gate Ballroom.

HITS COMMMUNISM

President Randolph in his speech told delegates that " we should reject the Communist program as negating Democracy." He also advocated "national unity of all people regardless of race or nationality," asked for labor unity by having "CIO return to the House of Labor (A. F. of L.) and the preservation of the achievements of industrial organization made by the CIO." He made a strong plea for the abolition of poll taxes, white primaries and the passage of the anti-lynching bill.

A number of resolutions were prepared. They called for "unqualified opposition to the condemnation of the Communist, Nazi and Fascist dictatorships of Russia, Germany and Italy"; condemnation of fifth columnists; condemned color bar in trade unions, the Ku Klux Klan, anti-foreign sentiment, anti-Semitism, railroad consolidations and racketeering in unions.

International officers of the Brotherhood are: A. Philip Randolph, president; M. P. Webster, Chicago, first vice-president; Bennie [illegible] dent; E. J. Bradley, St. Louis, 3rd vice-president; C. L. Dellums, Oakland, Cal., 4th vice-president; Ashley L. Totten, New York, secretary-treasurer; Thomas Patterson, secretary, executive board; L. D. MacNeal, St. Louis, Ernest Smith, Chicago, and B. F. McLaurin, New York, field organizers.

:-: PROGRAM :-:

OF THE

Negro Labor Conference

under auspices

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

JACKSONVILLE DIVISION

AND

THE LADIES' AUXILIARY

will be held

February 28 - 29 - March 1 - 4, 1940

A. PHILLIP RANDOLPH
International President
of Brotherhood of
Sleeping Car Porters

●

Headquarters of

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

Ritz Building 823 Davis Street

COMPLIMENTS FROM

Florida's Largest Negro Business

THE

AFRO-AMERICAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

Offering

PROTECTION - SAFETY AND COMFORT

To You and Your Loved Ones

THIRTY-NINE YEARS OF CONTINUED GROWTH

AND STEADY INCREASE

Millions of Dollars Paid to Relieve Distress

A REPUTATION FOR PROMPT AND SATISFACTORY PAYMENT

An Insurance Policy for Every Member of the Family

Throughout Georgia — All Over Florida

HOME OFFICE:

101-105 E. Union St. Jacksonville, Fla.

●

—AMERICAN BEACH—

Forty-five Minutes from Jacksonville

A SUBURB OF FERNANDINA

On The Atlantic Ocean

An Exclusive Summer Resort, Owned, Operated and Controlled By Negroes

Modern Summer Cottages — Homes and Thoroughfares Electrically Lighted — Adequate Independent Water Supply — Ample Garage Provisions — Up-to-Date Cafe Service Available — Reasonable Rate by Day, Week-End or Season for Individuals, Families or Party Groups.
Desirable Lots — Arrangements for Building. Privately Owned Summer Homes Occupied Throughout Summer Months. Additional Homes Under Construction or Contract — The Largest Ocean-Front Properties Owned By Our Group Anywhere Along the Atlantic Seaboard.

Afro-American Pension Bureau

A. L. LEWIS, President W. H. LEE, Vice-Pres.

L. D. ERVIN, Secretary JAS. H. LEWIS, Treas.

J. LEONARD LEWIS, Counsellor

101-110 East Union Street

JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

J. W. DARBY, Sec.-Treas.

S. L. BENNETT, Pres.

FOREWORD

The Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters has held Labor Conferences in different sections of the country for the last 14 years.

The purpose of the Labor Conference is to provide information concerning the status of, and inter-relationship between the Negro Workers, and the various institutions, problems, and movements in the communities, such as the Church, Social Service Agencies, Business, Schools and Education, Health, Crime, Housing, Civil Rights, Youth, Unemployment, Trade Unions and Child Delinquency.

It seeks to stimulate and create an interest in a closer cooperation between the Negro wage earners and all of the various factors in Negro life in behalf of a more sympathetic understanding, and a greater and constructive unity for the advancement and progress of the Negro People.

Labor Conferences set forth the necessity and value of organization of Negro Workers into the bona fide trade union movement to secure decent wages, hours of work and improved working conditions, since labor is the foundation of Negro life, prosperity and culture.

These Labor Conferences also seek to emphasize and stress the importance of a high order of workmanship and service efficiency on the part of Negro Workers, indicating that responsibility, honesty, sobriety, tact, industry, intelligence and courtesy are essential qualities in the development of competent workmen.

When Negro and White Workers join hands for their common welfare, the future is hopeful.

P R O G R A M

Public Mass Meeting

Wednesday, February 28 - 8:00 P. M.

Ebenezer M. E. Church, Ashley and Clay Sts.

Invocation.....Rev. E. G. Hurley, Pastor Ebenezer M. E. Church
Negro National Anthem.....Choir and Congregation
Master of Ceremony.....W. H. Lee, Secretary Afro Life Ins. Company
Introductory Remarks.....President Jacksonville Division B. S. C. P.
Remarks.....B. F. McLaurin, International Field Organizer
Hold the Fort.....Brotherhood and Auxiliary
Welcome Address.....Prof. Noah Griffin, Pres. Teachers Association
Selection.....Sextette
Address.....M. P. Webster, First Int. Vice-President
"Organized Labor and the Negro"
Vocal Solo.....Miss Aleathia Frzaier
Introduction of Speaker.....Attorney S. D. McGill
Address.....A. Philip Randolph, International President
"The Negro Faces the Future"
Selection.....Choir
Closing Song.....John Brown's Body
Benediction

WELCOME BROTHERHOOD!

Do you know you can have your car completely overhauled on our easy pay plan by CLAUDE NOLAN?

We Can Do This For You—

Overhaul Your Motor
Paint Your Car
Straighten and Refinish Bent Fenders
Furnish You With New Delco Batteries
Reline Your Brakes

We also have many makes of tires — New or Used That We Guarantee Fully

WE CAN BUDGET EVERYTHING ON YOUR CAR AT ONE TIME

Come In And Get Our Prices

CLAUDE NOLAN
SERVICE DEPARTMENT
Phone 5-6800

CLAUDE NOLAN
TIRE DEPARTMENT
1001 Main Street

GREETINGS B. H. S. C. P.

PHONE 5-1435 AMBULANCE SERVICE

GETER AND BAKER FUNERAL HOME

Sympathetic and Efficient Service at Prices
You Can Afford

767 W. Beaver St. Jacksonville, Fla.

INDEPENDENT DRUG CO.

205 W. Bay St. Phone 5-0183

SERVICE WITHOUT FAULT

We Deliver at Deep Cut Prices

Labor Conference

Thursday, February 29

THEME: Labor and the Economic Crisis of the Negro Today

9:30 A. M. Registration
10:00 A. M.

FIRST SESSION

Chairman.....B. F. McLaurin, International Field Organizer

10:15 A. M. Keynote Address.....A. Philip Randolph, International President

10:45 A. M. Negro Workers and Race Progress.....M. P. Webster, First International Vice-President

Negro Labor and Social Service.....Miss Eartha M. White Director of Clara White's Mission

DISCUSSION PERIOD

MONCRIEF GROCERY

2003 Moncrief Road

Fresh Meat and Groceries

Fruit and Vegetables

PHONE 5-9556 LEWIS DYAL

Slaughter's Packing House Market

Has Served You for More Than Ten Years And Will Give You More For Your Money

We Do Have Good Meat
Ask Your Neighbor

624-626 Davis St. Telephone 5-1895

MRS. R. H. WALKER

Manager

Holmes Funeral Directors

1608 JEFFERSON STREET

Phone 5-7416 Jacksonville, Florida

Congratulations!

Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters

Atlanta Life Insurance Co.

J. B. JENKINS, Dist. Mgr.

411½ Broad St. Phone 5-6618

Greetings!

MRS. L. D. JEFFERSON

1838 Moncrief Ave.

ROOMS BY DAY OR WEEK

Compliments

Breakfast - Luncheon - Dinner

We Serve Only the Best in Home Cooking

The New Lincoln Cafe

11 JOHNSON STREET

(Across from the Union Station)

MRS. J. T. JACKSON AND SON

Greetings

MRS. MARGARET HARRIS

Apex Beauty Culturist

2019 Moncrief Ave.

Phone 3-1139-W Jacksonville, Fla.

Compliments

LEE VALADE

INC.

Westinghouse Electric Appliances

PHONE 5-1886 415 LAURA STREET

The Leapheart Monument Co.

DEALERS IN

Marble and Granite Monuments, Cornerstones for Halls and Churches,

Coquina Flower Pots and Boxes

EVERGREEN AVE. & 4TH ST.

P R O G R A M

SECOND SESSION

2:00 P. M.

Chairman.....Joe H. James, Welfare Agency

COMMUNITY SOCIAL FACTORS AND LABOR

Brief Addresses:

1. The Church and Negro Labor.....Rev. A. C. L. Aubourin
2. The Doctor and Negro Labor.....Dr. J. E. Bush
3. The Lawyer and Negro Labor.....Attorney D. W. Perkins
4. The Schools and Negro Labor.....Prof. Noah Griffin
5. Business and Negro Labor.....Mr. A. L. Lewis

DISCUSSION PERIOD

J. W. Walker's

GROCERY AND FISH MARKET

BEER AND WINE GARDEN

Better Known as "Big Butch"

Everybody Talks About Us Because We Serve the Best

931-935 W. MONROE ST. PH. 3-9182

JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

Compliments

LIVINGSTON

MAKING AND REBUILDING SHOES

40 Years of Honest Service in Florida

528 DAVIS ST.

REED TAILORS

ALTERATIONS NEATLY DONE

Prices Reasonable — All Work Guaranteed

519 BROAD STREET

Phone 5-4890 Jacksonville, Florida

Phone 5-9318

W. A. ANDERSON

BUS STATION BRANCH

Tickets and Information for All Points In the United States

Full Line of

Cigars, Tobacco, Magazines and Newspapers

CURB SERVICE

711 DAVIS ST. JACKSONVILLE

COMPLIMENTS

Jax Brewing Co.

"The Drinks of Friendship"

DANCE TO THE RHYTHM OF "NAT SMALL'S PLAY BOYS"
TIME: Thursday evening, February 29, 1940
PLACE: Havana Club
Subscription 40c

Visit The RENO BAR

PARK YOUR CAR

COURTEOUS, POLITE SERVICE

Phone 3-9180

We Deliver

All Colored Employees, Bartenders

W. E. BROWN

COMPLIMENTS OF

"Jacksonville's Leading Furniture Store"

RHODES - FUTCH - COLLINS FURNITURE CO.

312 MAIN ST.

Phone 496-J

REYNO PHARMACY

630 Davis Street Jacksonville, Fla.

PHONE 5-2935

Florida Cut Rate Pharmacy

W. J. SMITH, Prop.

3rd and Florida Avenue

Central Life Insurance Co.

J. H. WASHINGTON, Mgr.

417½ Broad St. Phone 3-1478

Compliments

BLUE CHIP HOTEL

512 BROAD ST. — PHONE 5-3351

ANDREW J. HUFF

MORTICIAN AMBULANCE SERVICE

1535 Davis St. — Jacksonville, Fla.

Phone 5-4646

114 Central Ave. — St. Augustine Fla.

Phone 1317

Fernandina, Fla.

C. M. Shaw Funeral Home

915 E. UNION STREET

THIRD SESSION

Friday, March 1, 1940

2:00 P. M.

Chairman.....S. L. Bennett, President Jacksonville Division

1. Health, Education and the Negro.....Dr. I. E. Williams, M.D.
2. Civil Rights and the Negro.....Attorney J. Leonard Lewis
3. Citizenship, Education, and the Negro.....W. H. Lee, Secretary Afro Insurance Co.

DISCUSSION

SUMMARY

Greetings

Train Porters

JACKSONVILLE DIVISION

Geo. Lyons, Sec.-Treas.

LEE'S DRY CLEANERS

39c Suits and Dresses

CASH AND CARRY

Phone 3-9282

A. L. GARVIN

SUNSHINE STORES

Best Prices Under the Sun

Give Us a Trial

8th and Davis St. Telephone 3-2141

FREE DELIVERY

Compliments

DELMONICA

BEER and WINE

1115 Florida Avenue

WM. TELFAIR - Prop.

EAST END CLEANERS

E. L. Grant, Prop.

920 FLORIDA AVE. PHONE 5-9696

Good Gulf Products Goodyear Tires

Economy Service Station

CHEK-CHART LUBRICATION

Flats Fixed — We Meet All Competition

Give us a Trial

Cor. State St. & Myrtle Ave. - Phone 3-9186

Compliments

GEO. SCHUMAN

The Tire Man for Thrifty People

KINGS ROAD and MYRTLE AVE.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

COMPLIMENTS

DIXIE PHARMACY

1502 Kings Road — Cor. Myrtle Ave.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

Compliments

Dewey's Service Cleaners

Phone 5-7058

1008-12 KINGS ROAD

JACKSONVILLE

Compliments

AVENUE SHOE FACTORY

Shoes for the Family — Repairing

1073 Florida Ave. Phone 5-9628

Compliments

Cigar Makers Union

LOCAL No. 119

Bennie Brown, President

Compliments

Phone 5-3017

West End Garage

KINGS ROAD at MYRTLE AVE.

L. Stearns Jacksonville, Florida

Greetings

Phone 3-9270 J. E. Higdon, Prop.

Special Attention Given to Mail Orders

Hollywood Music Store

WE REPAIR ALL MAKES OF RADIOS AND VICTROLAS

605 W. Ashley St. Jacksonville, Fla.

Compliments

COMPLIMENTS

Prompt Service Quality Work

SERVICE PRINTING CO.

WESLEY W. JOHNSON, MGR.

Phone 5-0567 1039 Florida Ave.

Testimonial Banquet Honoring

A. Philip Randolph.....International President
M. P. Webster.....First International Vice-President
B. F. McLaurin.....International Field Organizer

TIME: Monday, 8:00 P. M., March 4, 1940
PLACE: Pythian Temple Auditorium, 727 W. Ashley St.
THE COVER, Fifty Cents

R.S.V.P., March 1, 1940

J. W. Darby, Secretary, 823 Davis St.
Mrs. Julia Burwell, Secretary, 1909 Venus St.
L. S. Satterwhite — Phone 3-1598-M

Compliments of

WHITTINGTON'S Funeral Home

AMBULANCE SERVICE

PHONE 5-7196 800 West State St.

Jacksonville, Florida

MILTON P. WEBSTER
1st International Vice President
of Brotherhood of
Sleeping Car Porters

B. F. McLAURIN
International Field Organizer
of Brotherhood of
Sleeping Car Porters

Compliments

A FRIEND

COMPLIMENTS
JOHN POWELL
(Elk's Deputy)

Office Phone 5-5700 Res. Phone 3-1412-R
E. L. Harris
Real Estate Salesman for
TUCKER BROTHERS
Lots and Homes on F.H.A. Plan
1039 Scriven St. Jacksonville, Fla.

PHONE 5-3100 CARS TRUCKS
DUVAL MOTOR COMPANY
SALES - Ford - SERVICE
Lee and Forsyth Streets - Jacksonville, Fla.
LUCIUS HARDY
New and Used Cars

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary

Mrs. Mildred Burdine, President
Mrs. Julia Burwell, Secretary-Treasurer
Mrs. Sarah Adams
Mrs. I. G. Ayers
Mrs. Elizabeth Austin
Mrs. Prudence G. Aarons
Mrs. Celia Anderson
Mrs. Erma Bennett
Mrs. Mabel Brown
Mrs. Minnie Lee Bowers
Mrs. Ernestine Butler
Mrs. Rose A. Bellinger
Mrs. Dorthula Boswell
Mrs. Mary Lou Carswell
Mrs. Meta Corbitt
Mrs. Lottie Cuthbert
Mrs. Bessie Culpepper
Mrs. Emma R. Davis
Mrs. Effie Dawson
Mrs. Jennie Forbes
Mrs. Adline Fayson
Mrs. Lilla Faulk
Mrs. Cleopatra Faulk
Mrs. Rose Gaskins
Mrs. Eliza Harris
Mrs. Ethel Hopkins
Mrs. Ola Mae Hardin
Mrs. Mabel Henderson
Mrs. Sarah Jackson
Mrs. Violet Kinnon
Mrs. Bessie King
Mrs. Henrietta LeGrande
Mrs. Fannie Mickens
Mrs. Francis Middlebrooks
Mrs. Hattie Macon
Mrs. Etta Nelson
Mrs. Ella Parker
Mrs. Alta Pinkney
Mrs. Mala Stephens
Mrs. Ida Shrewsberry
Mrs. Mildred Scruggins
Mrs. Eugenia Thompson
Mrs. Sallie M. Tyler
Mrs. Mary Lou Ward
Mrs. Queen Esther Woods
Mrs. Lillie Veal
Mrs. J. D. Mason

PROGRAM

Master of Ceremony	Mr. S. L. Bennett, Pres. Jacksonville Div.
Greetings	Dr. I. E. Williams
Solo	Miss Rossie French
Greetings	Miss Eartha M. White
Greetings	Rev. C. A. Gibbs
Solo	Mrs. Sarah Blocker Daigeau
Recitation	Mrs. Gladys Griffin
Greetings	Mr. A. L. Lewis
Solo	Mrs. Mabel Aza Grooms
Address	Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune
Solo	Mrs. Margaret Simms
Greetings continued

Jacksonville Medical Dental Pharmaceutical Association

DR. I. E. WILLIAMS, M.D., President
DR. J. P. PATTERSON, Secretary
DR. C. F. DUNCAN, M.D., Treasurer

DR. R. L. BROWN, M.D.
DR. D. H. BROWN, M.D.
DR. N. D. BRYANT, M.D.
DR. S. S. CAMPBELL, M.D.
DR. S. B. DANIELS, M.D.
DR. E. H. FLIPPER, M.D.
DR. H. W. JAMES, M.D.
DR. O. W. McINTOSH, M.D.
DR. R. F. MILLS, M.D.
DR. W. W. SCHELL, M.D.
DR. A. W. SMITH, M.D.
DR. C. M. THOMPSON, M.D.
DR. C. A. WARD, M.D.
DR. E. H. WASHINGTON, M.D.

DR. J. E. BUSH, D.D.S.
DR. J. D. BORNER, D.D.S.
DR. L. C. ERVIN, D.D.S.
DR. C. V. FREEMAN, D.D.S.
DR. W. L. REDMOND, D.D.S.
DR. G. F. WATERS, D.D.S.

DR. R. W. BUTLER, Ph.C.
DR. T. M. CHRISTOPHER, Ph.C.
DR. R. E. SMITH, Ph.C.

We Have Hunches for Light Lunches
AT Bubber's Coffee Shop
Bubber and Daisy, Mgrs.
PHONE 3-9101 JACKSONVILLE

NOTARY PUBLIC Phones 5-2241 - 5-2242
Lawton L. Pratt Funeral Homes, Inc.
525-527 WEST BEAVER STREET
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA
Exclusive Ambulance Service
Branch: 234 S. Clara Ave., DeLand, Fla.

OFFICERS OF THE BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

and

AUXILIARY, JACKSONVILLE DIVISION

S. L. Bennett ..... President
B. J. Madison ..... Vice-President
J. W. Darby ..... Secretary-Treasurer
E. G. Harris ..... Chaplain
Mrs. Mildred Burdine ..... President
Mrs. Ida Shrewsberry ..... Vice-President
Mrs. Julia Burwell ..... Secretary-Treasurer
Mrs. Violet Kinnon ..... Chaplain
H. Leapheart ..... Chairman of Arrangement Committee
W. O. Lancaster ..... Vice Chairman
J. S. Johnson ..... Chairman of Publicity
C. S. Satterwhite ..... Chairman of Entertainment
S. Harper ..... Chairman of Program

ATLANTIC COMPANY—Breweries, Atlanta, Chattanooga, Charlotte, Norfolk and Orlando

Longshoreman Lunch
ALFRED WILLIAMS, Prop.
956 FLORIDA AVENUE

Phone 3-1598-W .... Greetings!
S. A. HULL
Rental Agency
Sales and Mortgage Loans
ROOM 211 - 410 BROAD STREET

Ina Brothers
GROCERIES - MEATS - FRUITS VEGETABLES
STORE LOCATIONS PHONES
2246 Oak Street.....7-8607—7-8608
300 Davis Street.....5-2628—5-2629

GREETINGS
from
The Ladies Auxiliary
of the P. P. B. A. of A. Local No. 25
E. M. SATTERWHITE, Pres.

W. J. JACKSON
Glazering, Painting and Calcimining
CALL — 5-2834 or 1850 MONCRIEF

You Should Buy from Your Friends
E. C. Newsom Furniture Co.
"THE STORE THAT SATISFIES"
139 Broad Street

Greetings and Best Wishes From
THE FLAJAX CLUB
JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

Phone 3-9208
DUCK INN
AND SEE ME SOME TIME
FRIED CHICKEN, STEAK, & SEAFOODS
Sandwiches of All Kinds
Cor. Broad & Union Sts. Jacksonville, Fla.
Alonza Davis - Proprietors - Paris Davis

GREETINGS FROM TRAIN PORTERS JACKSONVILLE LOCAL No. 1

We are glad to have the opportunity to play our part in this Great Movement of uplift; that we can take our place at the altar of a social order, under the leadership of our National President, Mr. Philip A. Randolph, and Grand Officers, whose unshrinking courage and untiring devotion has lifted the hearts of men and women to a higher standard.

A. WATSON, President C. B. WASHINGTON, Vice-Pres.
JOE JONES, Chairman
GEORGE A. LYONS, Secretary-Treasurer

Phone 5-8444-M
LENORA LAWSON
The Maker of Ladies' Lingerie and Men's Robes
Street and Evening Dresses
PRICES REASONABLE
974 W. Eighth St. Jacksonville, Fla.

Compliments
The Cavalier Shops
MEN'S WEAR — CLOTHING
— 3 Stores —
29 W. Forsyth St. 206 Main St.
525 W. Bay St.

Compliments

Compliments

The World's Finest Watches!
GRUEN - BULOVA - ELGIN - WALTHAM
HARVEL - HAMILTON
Sold at Their Nationally Advertised Cash Prices — On Convenient Terms
DUVAL JEWELRY COMPANY
All Over Florida

Phone 5-3697 4th and Davis St.
HARLEM PHARMACY
PRESCRIPTION SPECIALIST
"You Can Pay More, But You Can't Buy Better"
T. M. Christopher, Owner-Manager
CUT RATE FREE DELIVERY

Phone 5-9692
ARTISTIC BARBERS
Say — Why Worry and Have Wrinkles
When You Can Smile and Have Dimples
WE SPECIALIZE ON LADIES AND GENTS
G. C. McCurdy, Prop. Chas. Simmons, Mgr.
625 W. ASHLEY STREET

Compliments
GEM DRUG STORE
Phones 5-9424 and 5-0414
822 DAVIS ST. JACKSONVILLE

Compliments
Ritz Shoe Shine Parlor
A. McDADE, Prop.
819-21 Davis St. Jacksonville, Fla.

Compliments

Day 5-6339 PHONES Night 5-8559-R
SKINNER, The Florist
Pot Flowers, Corsages, Sprays and Wreaths
Wedding and Funeral Designs A Specialty
416 BROAD STREET JACKSONVILLE

COMPLIMENTS
Hotel Charlie Ed
635½ W. ASHLEY ST. PH. 5-9151

GRAND LODGE
Knights of Pythias
C. A. PRATT, Grand Chancellor

10 Beautiful Stores
1944 Atlantic Blvd., S. Jax
PHONE 5-5275
300 Broad St.
PHONE 3-1400
1175 Edgewood Ave.
PHONE 2-3606
1353 Florida Avenue
PHONE 5-0804
695 W. Monroe Street
PHONE 5-1305
3101 Main Street
PHONE 5-4050

DAYLIGHT MARKETS
Groceries - Meats - Sea Foods - Produce

2421 W. Beaver St.
PHONE 7-8403
928 Main Street
PHONE 5-2521
1040 Park Street
PHONE 7-8625
17 East Bay Street
PHONE 3-0775
814 Davis Street
PHONE 5-1632
Retail Ofc. 601 W. Monroe
PHONE 5-1393
Warehouse 40 S. Hogan
PHONE 3-1790

E. G. Golder Co.
Established 1905
Dependable Fuel Oil Service
Industrial and Domestic Oil Burning Systems
Oil Burning Circulating Heaters
Water Heaters and Ranges
FUEL OIL FOR ALL MAKES OF BURNERS
2329 BOULEVARD
OFFICE
Phone 5-0426
FUEL OIL SERVICE
Phone 5-0426
A Local Independent Company
THE PIONEER FUEL OIL SERVICE OF JACKSONVILLE

Operating Our Own Plant—
—All Work Returned Odorless
WE KNOCK THE SPOTS
Phone 5-9731
The Fashion Cleaners
BRANT & WASHINGTON
ONLY BRYANT, MGR.
Gloverized Dry Cleaning
Altering & Repairing - Ladies Work a Specialty
First Class Delivery Service
1136 KINGS ROAD JACKSONVILLE

Liquors for People of Particular Tastes
at the
TIP TOP BAR, Inc.
Cor. King Road and Davis St.
FAST DELIVERY
Phone 5-9129 E. P. Kirkland, Pres.

YOU CAN BUY A 6-ROOM HOME IN EXCLUSIVE
DURKEEVILLE
Plus a small down payment. The 65 cents a day includes all carrying charges, including the lowest interest ever known—4½%
Weigh this amazing statement in your mind and determine for yourself whether you will or will not CHEAT YOUR FAMILY OUT OF THIS OPPORTUNITY
A Home in Durkeeville Means Better Living for You and Your Loved Ones
If you are not ready to buy or build now, secure your building lot at once on easy terms and build later.
VISIT DURKEEVILLE OVER THE WEEK-END
TUCKER BROS.
DEVELOPERS
319 W. Forsyth St. Phone 5-5700

DRINK
Coca-Cola
TRADE MARK
The pause that refreshes

Phone 5-9843 J. H. Broadnax, Manager
Broadnax Service Station
GAS, OIL, ACCESSORIES, WASHING, GREASING, STORAGE, BATTERY SERVICE
816 West State Street Jacksonville

COMPLIMENTS
Goodrich Silvertown Stores
ADAMS & LEE STS.
Use Our Budget Plan
Tires - Batteries - Radios - Bicycles

Drink

Compliments

WE APPRECIATE YOUR BUSINESS

QUALITY OIL COMPANY

Distributor of Sinclair Products

Heating Oils - Kerosene

For Quick Service Phone 5-7630

Compliments

MANUEL'S TAP ROOM

"We Appreciate Your Patronage"

626 W. Ashley St. Phone 3-9439

Compliments

Thompson's Beer & Wine Garden

PHONE 5-9860

819 E. First Street

Compliments

FEDERAL BAKE SHOP

22 W. Forsyth St.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. — PHONE 5-8851

To You Who Serve the Traveling Public –

we offer

Safe, Reliable Taxi-Cab Service

Courteous, Dependable Drivers

Phone 5-2206

NEW DEAL CABS

•

Phone 5-3566

LINCOLN CABS

COMPLIMENTS TO BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

SEE The adjustable interior of the beautiful new all-steel cabinet. The new cold-storage compartment, new stainless steel super-freezer with removable shelf, new sliding shelves. The Quick-trays with easy release of two or more cubes at a time. And the many other proved features that make this General Electric "the buy of your life!"

6 cu. ft. — $117.50 up

5% Down — 4 Years to Pay

A G-E WASHER MACHINE
With G-E One Control Wringer

Priced from $59.50 up

5% Down — 2 Years to Pay

BUY IT FROM

J. C. CHEESEBOROUGH, JR.
Our Only Factory Trained
Negro Salesman

See Sales Manager for Colored Homes

J. C. CHEESEBOROUGH, JR.

Store: 613 LAURA ST. PHONE 5-2296
RES. 1285 W. 26th ST. Phone 5-4259-J

Heat & Cold Equipment Co.

GENERAL (G-E) ELECTRIC DEALERS

Now you can enjoy all the advantages of electric cookery—PLUS all the other advantages that only a G-E can offer.

See this great new range value TODAY and ask for a free demonstration!

$99.50 up

5% Down — 4 Years to Pay

G-E DISHWASHER AND GARBAGE DISPOSAL

G-E HOT WATER HEATER SYSTEMS

Sun Flame Oil Burning Heaters
A model to fit every home and bldg.

$29.50 up

10% Down — 12 Months to Pay

SERVICE PRINTING CO., JACKSONVILLE

THE

BROTHERHOOD OF SLEEPING CAR PORTERS

AND

THE LADIES' AUXILIARY

OF THE

JACKSONVILLE DIVISION

HAVE THE HONOR TO INVITE YOU TO BE PRESENT

AT ITS

LABOR CONFERENCE

February 28 - 29 - March 1 - 4, 1940

THEME:

LABOR AND THE ECONOMIC CRISIS OF THE NEGRO TODAY

Mass Meeting

EBENEZER M. E. CHURCH

Daily Sessions

A. L. LEWIS BRANCH Y. W. C. A. CENTER

Jacksonville, Florida

P R O G R A M

Public Mass Meeting

Wednesday, February 28 - 8:00 P. M.

Ebenezer M. E. Church, Ashley and Clay Sts.

Invocation.....Rev. E. G. Hurley, Pastor Ebenezer M. E. Church
Negro National Anthem.....Choir and Congregation
Master of Ceremony.....W. H. Lee, Secretary Afro Life Ins. Company
Introductory Remarks.....President Jacksonvilel Division B. S. C. P.
Remarks.....B. F. McLaurin, International Field Organizer
Hold the Fort.....Brotherhood and Auxiliary
Welcome Address.....Prof. Noah Griffin, Pres. Teachers Association
Selection.....Sextette
Address.....M. P. Webster, First Int. Vice-President
"Organized Labor and the Negro"
Vocal Solo.....Miss Alcathia Frzaier
Introduction of Speaker.....Attorney S. D. McGill
Address.....A. Philip Randolph, International President
"The Negro Faces the Future"
Selection.....Choir
Closing Song.....John Brown's Body
Benediction

Labor Conference

Thursday, February 29

THEME: Labor and the Economic Crisis of the Negro Today

9:30 A. M. Registration
10:00 A. M.

FIRST SESSION

Chairman.....B. F. McLaurin, International Field Organizer
10:15 A. M. Keynote Address.....A. Philip Randolph, International President
10:45 A. M. Negro Workers and Race Progress.....M. P. Webster, First International Vice-President
Negro Labor and Social Service.....Miss Eartha M. White Director of Clara White's Mission

DISCUSSION PERIOD

P R O G R A M

SECOND SESSION

2:00 P. M.

Chairman.....Joe H. James, Welfare Agency

COMMUNITY SOCIAL FACTORS AND LABOR

Brief Addresses:

1. The Church and Negro Labor.....Rev. A. C. L. Aubourin
2. The Doctor and Negro Labor.....Dr. J. E. Bush
3. The Lawyer and Negro Labor.....Attorney D. W. Perkins
4. The Schools and Negro Labor.....Prof. Noah Griffin
5. Business and Negro Labor.....Mr. A. L. Lewis

DISCUSSION PERIOD

THIRD SESSION

Friday, February 29, 1940

2:00 P. M.

Chairman.....S. L. Bennett, President Jacksonville Division

1. Health, Education and the Negro.....Dr. I. E. Williams, M.D.
2. Civil Rights and the Negro.....Attorney J. Leonard Lewis
3. Citizenship, Education, and the Negro.....W. H. Lee, Secretary Afro Insurance Co.

DISCUSSION

SUMMARY

Testimonial Banquet Honoring

A. Philip Randolph.....International President

M. P. Webster.....First International Vice-President

B. F. McLaurin.....International Field Organizer

TIME: Monday, 8:00 P. M., March 4, 1940

PLACE: Pythian Temple Auditorium, 727 W. Ashley St.

THE COVER, Fifty Cents

R.S.V.P., March 1, 1940

J. W. Darby, Secretary, 823 Davis St.

Mrs. Julia Burwell, Secretary, 1909 Venus St.

L. S. Satterwhite — Phone 3-1598-M

THE CALL, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1940

6,000 BROTHERHOOD MEMBERS HEAR OUTSTANDING SPEAKERS AT BIENNIAL CONFAB IN N. Y.

William Green, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. Mary Bethune, Mayor LaGuardia and Walter White Appear on Program

NEW YORK.—(ANP)—More than 100 delegates from all parts of the country, representing over 6,000 organized Pullman porters, met at the Harlem Y.M.C.A. this week in the 15th anniversary and biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. An elaborate program was outlined for the six-day meeting beginning Sunday, September 15.

On Sunday at 2 p.m., fully 2,000 marchers paraded through Harlem's avenues cheered by thousands who lined the streets. The parade ended in a mass meeting at the Salem M. E. church and an overflow crowd gathered to hear A Philip Randolph, International president, make his annual address.

Ashley L. Totten, international secretary-treasurer, was general chairman of the convention and in this capacity acted as chairman of the mass meeting. He introduced William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; M. P. Webster, first vice-president of BSCP; Senator James M. Mead and others on the program.

Brilliant Speakers

Business sessions occupied most of the morning sessions during the week. On Monday night, the annual dinner was held at Mecca temple, with some 800 persons hearing a brilliant array of speakers headed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. Others on the program included Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, Mayor LaGuardia, Lieut. Gov. Charles Poletti, Aubrey Williams, and Walter White.

Governor Herbert H. Lehman addressed the brotherhood and the Ladies' auxiliary on Tuesday in the auditorium of the Y.W.C.A. He congratulated the BSCP on their splendid progress in a little over 15 years and then told them "What has held you back has been the indifference of workers and employers." He came out strongly for preparedness, endorsed the Conscription bill by calling it the "best insurance for lasting peace."

"The United States is the only country where there is freedom," he continued. "There must be no weakening of defenses and labor has a lot to say to defend democracy against dictators who are always enemies of free labor . . . Britain is the last bulwark of democracy . . . Beaten and destroyed, democracy would then be in danger, we could not keep war from our shores . . . should supply Britain with all weapons not essential to our defense . . . Total war is not respector of race or color."

Entertained at Lido Pool

Wednesday delegates and the auxiliary were entertained at Lido pool with a cocktail party. Thursday was Brotherhood day at the fair and Mrs. Frances Perkins, department of labor, was principal speaker. On Friday night the week's activities were climaxed with a huge ball at the Golden Gate ballroom.

